EDERALS RACE TO HEAD OFF LEEING REBELS

Torreon Evacuation Nearly Complete.

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—Gen. [illegible] Escobar is hurriedly directing personally every movement of the federal revolutionaries, and urging [illegible] on the rebel troops, who were [illegible] Torreon all last night.

Federal aviators hovering over Torreon ever since daylight have observed every movement of the rebel army and are reporting these moves to Chapultepec castle. Long trains of soldiers on flat cars and in freight cars with the soldiers inside and the [illegible] and culinary and household effects crowding the roofs of the closed cars, have moved off toward Durango over two parallel railroad lines.

At 3:20 this afternoon nearly all of Gen. Escobar's forces had filed out of Torreon. The first train is several miles in advance of the last of the retreating soldiers. Gen. Escobar is reported to have personally entrained at Torreon with the last of the forces.

Race to Cut Off Retreat.

It was a race this morning between the advancing columns of Gen. Escobar and the cavalry sent by Gen. Saturino Cedillo, federal commander, to cut off the rebel retreat over the railroads to the north. The cavalry placed themselves between the rebels and Jimenez station, state of Chihuahua, north of Torreon.

Aviators this afternoon also reported bombing the retreating rebels.

Meanwhile, four federal armies began closing in upon Torreon on the south, east, and southwest.

It is expected in military quarters here that Gen. Escobar's evacuation of Torreon will be completed by nightfall and that tonight or early tomorrow morning the Mexican federal troops will take possession of Torreon and hold it as a new and most important advance post in the great magnet and drive which is gathering up all the revolutionary elements across the upland plateau of Mexico from the Sierra Madre mountains to the Gulf of Mexico and forcing them north toward the United States border.

Prepare to Defend Chihuahua.

Future events depend upon the success of Gen. Escobar in taking all of his army with him and the help that Gen. Juan Caraveo, rebel commander in Chihuahua, will be able to give him. It is reported that Gen. Caraveo is preparing to put Chihuahua into condition for defense.

The forces of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, commander of all the federal armies, are expected to reach Torreon tomorrow morning from Durango City, which they captured yesterday.

Provisional President Emilio Portes Gil today issued orders liberating all officers and noncommissioned officers and men who followed Gen. Jesus Maria Aguirre in the Vera Cruz revolt. This is the first time in the history of Mexican revolutions since 1910 that a clean sweep has been given to the returning forces from the commanding officers to the men.

Officers and Men May Reënlist.

All are to be struck off the army list and requested to come to Mexico City. transportation on military trains will be given them. The soldiers and officers desiring to reënter the army may do so by applying for reinstatement at the war office.

Circulars of the proclamation are to be scattered from airplanes over the revolutionary forces.

Provisional President Portes Gil informed in the officers that he pardoned Gen. Jesus M. Ferreira, former commander of the Mexican federal troops in the state of Jalisco, where, before becoming a revolutionary, he had made an excellent record.

Gen. Ferreira, who was arrested here on Monday and accused of sedition, attempted to end his life in his cell by cutting his throat with a pocket knife. He said that he preferred to die by his own hand rather than before a firing squad with the stain of treason on his name. President Portes Gil today accepted Gen. Ferreira's word of honor that he would not mix again in the revolution and that he would support the government.

Brave Before Firing Squad.

From Vera Cruz comes the tale of the execution of the principal officers of Gen. Aguirre's staff by a firing squad. They were court martialed and condemned to death. All seven men faced death with the apparent indifference so frequently found among Mexican soldiers.

TOO MUCH HELP WOULD BE WORSE THAN NONE AT ALL

Lake, Highest in Four Years, Perils Shore

Opponents of Chicago's diversion of water from Lake Michigan encountered another upset in their theories yesterday. Coast guard stations along the lake front reported that the high winds of the past two days, coupled with the unusual height of the lake level, is endangering property along the shore.

At the north shore coast guard station in Evanston the entire personnel spent the whole day yesterday repairing the damage to a stone breakwater which was severely battered by the waves Friday night. The station's 75 foot signal tower, for the protection of which the breakwater was erected, was threatened during the storm, according to Capt. Otto Fricke, commandant at the station.

Highest in Four Years.

"The level of the lake is higher this year than at any time during the last four years," Capt. Fricke said, "and, even in a mild storm, piers and docks exposed to the waves are not safe."

A pier extending 100 feet into the lake in front of the campus of Northwestern university, normally a foot above the water, has been considerably damaged by the water which washes over it, Capt. Fricke declared.

Similar complaints have been registered in other sections along the lake shore. Owners of summer resort property have found their selection of sites for cottages close to the beach injudicious, in that porches and boat houses have been flooded.

Argument for Diversion.

The situation, according to Edward J. Kelly, chief engineer for the sanitary district, will present a strong argument for the sanitary district's case in the lake levels hearing, to be reopened in Chicago, March 25, before Special Master in Chancery Charles Evans Hughes.

"We have always contended," Mr. Kelly said, "that our diversion through the drainage canal of 8,500 cubic feet of water per second has, in effect, constituted a safety valve for such emergencies as this. Without our diversion program, this water would remain in the lake to add to the difficulties of lake shore land owners."

Priest Defends Boy in Court and Wins His Case

The Rev. Felix S. Feldheim, pastor of the Ascension of Our Lord church, Evanston, appeared as counsel yesterday in the Evanston police court of Magistrate Charles G. Franklin, for a parishioner, Joseph Szeszhaniak, 17 years old, 1523 Wilder street, Evanston, and won the case. The defendant was charged with malicious mischief. Father Feldheim argued that the boy should be given another chance, so Magistrate Franklin paroled the youth to the pastor.

MUSSOLINI ORDERS MARTINELLI OUT OF U. S. TO SING IN ITALY

New York, March 16.—(A.P.)—At the bidding of Mussolini, Giovanni Martinelli, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, sailed for Rome today to sing in his native land for the first time in 16 years.

Martinelli and Miss Elizabeth Rethberg, also of the Metropolitan, will sing at the Italian premiere of Ottorino Respighi's "Sunken Bell" at the Royal Opera house in Rome April 8, the leading rolês, which they sang at the premiere here last November.

Miss Rethberg, who also was invited to Rome by Mussolini, will sail in about a week.

Martinelli's last public appearance in Italy was in 1913, when he sang at the Verdi centenary in Parma. He has returned to Italy every year, however, to see his parents.

Rob Wieboldt Store Annex of $12,000

The annex to the W. A. Wieboldt department store at Ashland avenue and School street, one of the largest mercantile establishments on the north side, was robbed about 9 o'clock last night of a busy day's proceeds, $9,000 cash and $3,000 in checks.

The annex, which is across the street from the Ashland avenue store, was cleared of its customers about 9 p. m. Two young men, who evidently found concealment in the darkened first floor aisles or among the furniture on sale in the annex, stole to the cashier's office on the second floor, unobserved by clerks and attendants hurrying out to go home.

Both Men Are Armed.

The store was deserted except for two cashiers, the assistant manager and a house detective when the robbers went into action. Miss Rose Katmatsch, 3438 North Lake avenue, and Miss Stella Hudson, 659 Custer street, were counting the receipts while the assistant manager, F. Lionel Morse, and the detective, A. E. Andreson, looked on.

Suddenly the robbers stepped into the lighted office from the darkness. Both displayed revolvers.

"No noise, now folks," one robber cautioned. "This is a holdup but no one will get hurt if you all keep quiet. Now get over in that corner, everybody."

While the four employés with uplifted arms shuffled into one corner, the second bandit pocketed his weapon and dropped the bundles of currency and checks and the bags of coin into a canvas sack.

Go Out on Fire Escape.

The loot made a sizeable burden which the robber swung over his shoulder and plodded down the aisle towards a red lamp, glowing in the dark over a window leading to a fire escape.

The spokesman for the pair uttered a final warning for silence and covered the retreat. None of the four employés moved until the pair had clambered down the fire escape to an alley and escaped.

W-G-N FLASHES TO GUIDE CITY'S CRIME FIGHTERS

Squad Cars Equipped with Radio Sets.

BULLETIN.

At 11:10 last night a policeman picked up a telephone in the detective bureau, got radio station W-G-N on the wire and asked that the following be broadcast:

"To squads 1, 37A and 38A: Call Chief of Detectives John Egan's office at once."

In two minutes one squad leader called from Wentworth avenue and 22d street; a half minute later another squad leader reported from Wieboldt's store, School street and North Ashland avenue, where the squad was investigating a robbery described in another story on this page, and when another half minute had elapsed the third leader, who had to walk five blocks to a telephone, called in from West Grand avenue and North Oakley avenue.

The call was made as a test of the apparatus described below. Chief Egan pronounced the test a great success.

Five police squad cars, as they toured their districts last night, received orders and flashes of crime happenings from the detective bureau by radio messages broadcast over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE'S powerful radio station. This latest step in combating crime in Chicago, planned and executed by THE TRIBUNE with the approval of Commissioner of Police Russell, will be extended to the rest of the 40 squad cars this week.

Installation of the radio receiving sets is expected to facilitate the apprehension of criminals by bettering the methods of communication between the roving police cars and the bureau. Information of crimes, reported to the bureau, will be telephoned to W-G-N's announcer and instantly relayed to the squads. This system, it is expected, will make it possible in many instances for the nearest squad to reach the scene before the criminals have made their "getaway."

Tribune to Pay Cost.

THE TRIBUNE'S plan, to be carried out at the newspaper's expense with no cost to the taxpayers, was submitted to Commissioner of Police William F. Russell, who indorsed it. Experimental work was begun immediately.

Many difficulties were encountered by Vernon H. Pribble, manager, and Carl Meyers, chief engineer of W-G-N, before they were ready to equip the first squad car. Interference with the set's receptivity caused by the car's generator, steel buildings, street car power lines, and a pace of 60 miles an hour were only a few of the problems which had to be overcome.

Space had to be found in the automobile where the set would not interfere with the movements of the occupants or with the handling of rifles.

Technical Problems Solved.

These technical problems were solved in the end by Mr. Meyers by redesigning a manufactured product accepted by THE TRIBUNE for this use. The engineer cut a seven tube set in two and placed one-half on top of the other in order to shorten the set. These two halves were incased in aluminum and placed in a space prepared by removing one of the collapsible seats in the seven passenger cars. Then the set was strapped to the framework and cushioned in rubber.

The small horn used as a loud speaker was fastened to the ribwork of the top of the car, with the bell of the horn facing the detectives in the rear seat. However, the volume of the set is strong enough so that those riding in front can also hear easily.

Old System Too Slow.

The dials of each set will be set continuously to receive the program from W-G-N. When a crime flash has been given to an employé of the station, the program will be halted momentarily, while the announcer will designate by number the squad for whom the message is intended. The message from Deputy Commissioner Stege, head of the detective bureau, will then be broadcast.

By the teletype system now in use, flashes are relayed to the police stations and the squad cars do not get the orders until they call on the telephone or visit a station in person. This loss of time will be eliminated by the radio method.

While investigating the possibilities of the plan, officials of W-G-N visited Detroit, where a similar system has been in use for more than a year, and has proved a great success.

State to Blot "Shack" From Its "Mansion"

BY PARKE BROWN.

Springfield, Ill., March 16.—[Special.]—Whether he requests it or not, the legislature probably will give Gov. Louis L. Emmerson a special appropriation to bring the furnishings of the executive mansion up to presentable condition.

Members of the assembly who have attended public and private affairs at the official residence of the governor have been shocked by the situation left there when Len Small and his family moved back to Kankakee.

Although the governor and Mrs. Emmerson have refused to discuss the conditions that faced them when they moved in, it has become known that the state of the furniture, hangings, linens and table ware were far below the standard acceptable to a prospective renter of a furnished house, to say nothing of a public property for the maintenance of which there have been generous appropriations at all times.

Emmersons "Dolled Up" Mansion.

That the mansion interior is now fit for receptions and similar occasions is due to the fact that Mrs. Emmerson has brought to Springfield many of the cherished furnishings of the family home at Mount Vernon; and it is believed also that several shortages in equipment have been met by expenditures from the governor's own pocket.

The situation was far different when the present governor took over the old house from his predecessor on inaugural day Jan. 14. There was a big public reception that evening and although it was only a "walk-through-and-shake hands," friends of the newcomers' family lingered long enough to learn that not only was the flour bin empty but that drawer after drawer recently used for the storage of linens was bare, that there weren't enough towels to supply the family and servants, that most of the glassware seemed to have come from the "nickel and dime" store as that sort of institution is called down here, and that there wasn't sufficient flat silverware or china for a dinner of a dozen persons.

From the Old Attic.

"And these lamps look rusty," suggested one guest to a maid who had served the Small household. "Where did you get them?"

"Out of the attic, where they were stored by Gov. Lowden," was the reply.

That answer recalled that the situation was all the more surprising in view of the fact that in addition to $25,000 appropriated to Small's predecessor for furnishing the mansion Gov. and Mrs. Lowden spent $25,000 additional in providing fine equipment such as china and crystal ware, which they presented to the state when he left office eight years ago.

And during that eight years the legislature, controlled by Small at all times, in such matters was not the least bit niggardly in its appropriations for the mansion. In evidence of this there is the appropriation for the biennium ending next June. While it is reported that these funds had dwindled almost to the point of invisibility by inauguration day, the figures show they were ample for the purposes for which they were voted.

What It Costs to Eat.

Here are the items:

"For salaries and wages—$16,000.

"For operation—$20,000.

"For repairs and equipment—$6,000."

In addition there was a special appropriation of $9,000 "for general repairs for the executive mansion, including painting both interior and exterior, resurfacing floors, and repairs to foundation and plumbing." There aren't any noticeable indications of such refurbishing.

But still further there was a contingent fund of $40,000 voted for the governor in the same bill in a way that permitted its use either for his

INQUIRY LEADER INVADES GARAGE TO GET RECORDS

Ejects Two Defense Aids from Hearing.

State Senator Harry W. Starr made a dramatic entry into the sanitary district investigation yesterday when he seized and kept the district whoopee party records during two sharp conflicts, one of which threatened to end in a free for all fight between the aids of the senate investigating committee and the employés of the Central Auto Service company, 1452 North Clark street.

The senator, in behalf of his committee, which held its first official session yesterday, retrieved for evidence by a subpoena duces tecum and a little force the records, which had been turned back to the automobile service company by order of Chief Justice John J. Sullivan of the Criminal court. These records, considered some of the most damaging evidence so far uncovered by the special prosecuting staff of Frank J. Loesch, show that the district employés under the régime of Timothy J. Crowe as president used taxpayers' money for pleasure parties.

Senators Lock Up Records.

The first day of the senate committee hearings ended with the records safely locked up in a hotel vault, despite the protests of Attorney Michael Ahern, representing the automobile company.

The first official act of the committee was the appearance of Senator Starr at the garage and the seizure of the records. It was only after employés of the garage had been forcibly pushed aside that the documents were preserved for public inspection. The second clash of the day occurred when the committee ejected from the hearing room two employés of Attorney Ahern, who attempted to prevent the first witness, a garage employé, from answering questions.

The day's excitement began soon after 10 o'clock yesterday morning when Judge Sullivan gave his decision ordering that the records seized earlier in the week by Assistant State's Attorneys Thomas H. Slusser, Otho Fasig, and George Callaghan be returned to the automobile company. The order specified that not only should the original records be returned but also that any copies or memorandums made from them should be turned over to Attorney Ahern.

Fear Destruction of Records.

The only apparent consolation left to the prosecutors was Judge Sullivan's announcement that he would issue a new subpoena duces tecum calling on some official of the company to produce the books before the grand jury. This, however, was not considered practicable, because the grand jury was not in session and would not be until tomorrow morning. In the meantime, the prosecutors contended, the records would be in possession of the garage employés, who could destroy them if they wished to take a chance on contempt proceedings.

It was at this point that Senator Starr stepped into the breach. The court ordered the records returned to the automobile company by 1 o'clock. The senator went into conference with State's Attorney John A. Swanson and Assistant Prosecutor John E. Northup. A senate committee subpœna was hastily drawn up.

Starr Speeds to Garage.

Then the senator hastened to the garage with T. B. Scouton, sergeant at arms of the senate; James Sullivan, a deputy sheriff, and several other men. They were prepared to use force if necessary.

At 1:20 o'clock up came a detective bureau squad car containing the records. In the machine were Sergts. Arthur Wentzel, Charles Martin, and Frank Sobel and Assistant State's Attorney George Callaghan, the men who had first seized the documents. They drove into the garage and carried out a market basket full of records. They carried it to the second floor, the exact spot from which the papers had been taken a few days before. At that time the records were bundled up and apparently were ready to be moved.

The Argument Begins.

In the garage, awaiting the arrival of the papers, were Martin J. McNally, a representative of the law firm of Nash & Ahern, which had conducted the successful fight for the return of the records; Clarence Hall, in charge of the garage; Albert Rosene, the fireman, and about eight chauffeurs in the employ of the service.

McNally refused to let Hall sign a receipt for the records, and in the midst of the argument in came Senator Starr and his men.

"You cannot take these records from this room," said McNally as Senator Starr appeared. "We will bring the records to the hearing room at 2 o'clock if that is what your committee wants."

"Read the subpoena," the senator commanded his sergeant at arms. The subpoena was read.

"Take the stuff out of here," was the next command from the legislative investigator.

"I tell you, you can't move these records," said McNally, as he stepped forward. Starr pushed him aside.

Up came Hall, the garage foreman. He was also pushed aside with the curt remark that he would be put in jail if he interfered. McNally sat down on the basket of records.

The basket with McNally aboard was carried to the first floor, where Rosene was found to be blocking the exit door. The chauffeurs crowded forward, and for a minute it appeared that the dispute would end in blows.

Threatens to Call Posse.

"I'll call a posse if you fellows are looking for trouble," Senator Starr warned the garage men.

When McNally was threatened with arrest he suggested that Attorney Ahearn be consulted over the telephone. The senator allowed him to call Ahern and he shouted over the telephone: "They are trying to forcibly take these records out of here."

After a short talk the senator was asked to speak with Attorney Ahern and he consented. He was heard to remark: "If we are taking the records unlawfully, then your recourse is before the senate as a whole."

"Let's go," said the senator as he banged up the telephone receiver. Rosene and Hall tried to stop them, again and both were pushed aside. The records were carried out and put into a taxicab and taken down to the senate hearing room in the sanitary district's offices at 910 South Michigan avenue. Hall was taken along.

Committee Opens Session.

Soon after the arrival of the records the committee, consisting of Senators Starr, Edward J. Hughes and Adolph Marks of Chicago, William McCauley of Olney, and Arthur A. Miles of Rosiclare, opened its first session.

Hall was put on the stand as the first witness. He was sworn and asked his name and address. Then he was asked whether or not he had turned over the records in response to the committee subpoena. At this point the two employés of Attorney Ahern interrupted with shouts of "do not answer the questions." They were McNally, the young investigator who attempted to prevent the removal of the records from the garage, and Attorney James McDermott.

Senator Starr, chairman of the committee, requested McNally and McDermott to be quiet or to leave the room. They persisted in their objections and the sergeant at arms was asked to eject them if they did not go peacefully. They chose to leave without trouble and the hearing proceeded.

Ahern Appears on Scene.

Sergeant at Arms Scouton was called to the stand. He told of serving the subpoena duces tecum. Hall was then recalled and admitted he was in charge of the office at the garage when the records were delivered by the state's attorney's men and a few minutes later taken away by the senate committee employés.

At this part of the proceedings Attorney Ahern appeared. He was informed outside the hearing room that his two employés had been ordered to leave. He demanded that he be permitted to appear before the committee and was admitted.

Before the senators Ahern declared that the constitutional rights of his client had been infringed upon. He declared the records were never turned over to the garage employés as ordered by Judge Sullivan. He said no one could produce a receipt for their delivery.

"I ask that these records be impounded until a court ruling is obtained regarding the right of the committee to have these records under the circumstances," Ahern said. "I further ask that they be impounded without public disclosure."

Records Placed in Vault.

The committee finally adjourned until tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock, when the sessions will be resumed in the Palmer house. In the meantime the records were placed in the vault.

Attorney Ahern refused to say whether or not he contemplated asking a contempt of court citation as a result of his failure to retain the records he had won from Judge Sullivan. He had asked for such an order in his original petition seeking the return of the records to the automobile company, but Judge Sullivan, in his decision yesterday, said:

"This court is unwilling in this particular matter to institute contempt proceedings, because it is of the opinion that whatever was done was done in good faith, without malice and without any intent to abuse the process of the court. Whatever wrong was done was the result of zeal, rather than wilfulness.

What Prosecutors Found.

The reasons for the desire to suppress the records were apparently the result of the first findings of the prosecutors in their search of an hour before Judge Sullivan stopped them. In the records the prosecutors found, among other things, checks of $1,000 made payable to Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the district and now president of the First National bank of Oak Park.

The automobile service company received from the sanitary district during 1928 more than $71,000 for automobile hire at the rate of $4 per hour. The prosecutors figure that this meant the district kept two automobiles busy 24 hours a day and 365 days a year. To these bills were attached memoranda apparently explaining the large charges for taxi service.

These notations contained such items as $150 for women, charges for beer, wine and whisky, and for powder puffs, vanity cases, and smoking stands.

The records also showed connections between the Maseiter Cartage company, which was paid large sums for hauling cinders to the north channel bridle path built by the district at a cost of $1,062,000, the automobile service company, and Crowe's Oak Park bank. All money for these two companies as well as the Plaza Automobile Service company was put through the Central Service's bank account in the Crowe bank, the prosecutors said they discovered.

Capt. Tobin of Hyde Park Police Wed at Hot Springs

Capt. Michael Tobin, captain of the Hyde Park police station, was married yesterday, according to information telephoned to John Ryan, secretary to the captain, from Hot Springs, Ark. The message came from a son of Judge Joseph Sabath, who performed the ceremony. The bride was formerly Miss Margaret Clements of Oak Park. Capt. Tobin has been a widower for eighteen years.

ROBBER CAUGHT ROBBING 5 HOURS AFTER RELEASE

Five hours after his release on probation, John Petroski, 28 years old, 1251 West Madison street, was jailed again last evening, his battered face bearing evidence of the anger of a citizen who had been robbed of $90.

Last Dec. 8 Petroski was captured after holding up John Zebroski at Madison and Franklin streets. He was held in the county jail until yesterday, when his case was called before Judge Robert E. Gentzel. Petroski pleaded guilty and promised to renounce crime, return to his carpenter trade and rejoin his wife and children. Judge Gentzel granted him a year's probation and set him free.

About four hours later Sergt. Thomas J. McLaughlin was informed by John Zidrich, owner of a cooperage at Halsted and Monroe streets, that he had been robbed of $90. The robber was identified as Petroski.

BROTHERS ADMIT FIRING 15 HOMES TO ROB TENANTS

Wanted Money, Boys Say; Mother Traps Them.

While Mrs. Linda Dolan has been selling auto accessories downtown to help her husband meet payments on their home at 4511 North Spaulding avenue, her sons, Robert and Richard, have been setting other homes ablaze and looting them as the tenants fled.

Mrs. Dolan's suspicion was aroused yesterday by an article in THE TRIBUNE concerning a neatly dressed lad who had set two fires in her neighborhood the previous day. She telephoned home the instant she reached her desk in the office of the C. M. Hoof company, 317 West Randolph street. Her older son, Robert, answered the phone.

"Richard's out shoveling the walks," the boy said. "No, I don't think he's read the paper this morning. All right, I'll tell him to buy a paper and bring it down to you."

Find Their Mother Knows.

Robert hung up and rushed outside. "Mom's wise. She read about it in the paper," he gasped to Richard. "What'll we do?"

But Richard was equal to the situation—nearly. He ran to the home of Mrs. R. A. Wait, 4834 North Kimball avenue, who had fled from a fire the day before.

"Here's $8, that's all I have left," he said, doffing his cap to the astonished woman. "I'm awfully sorry I set your house afire and I won't do it any more."

Mrs. Wait was fumbling with the money and asking Richard to tell her more about it when the landlord, Harry A. Gordon, joined them. Richard pressed $19 into his hand and continued his story.

Wanted to Learn Music.

"My parents are poor and my mother works," he explained earnestly. "I've always wanted to learn the saxophone so I could join an orchestra and help out at home. But I never could raise the money so I tried this. I know my mother will die of shame if she ever finds out."

Richard had finished his pitiful tale and was walking away with $2 which the sympathetic Gordon handed him when Police Sergeant John O'Malley arrived.

Later at the Albany Park police station, Mrs. Dolan's sons confessed having fired fifteen homes the last three years. It began, Richard said, when his teacher offended him and he ignited a clothes closet for revenge.

Young Woman Falls Dead at Montrose and Sheridan

An unidentified young blonde woman in a fur trimmed caracul coat and black satin dress collapsed on the curb last night at Sheridan road and Montrose avenue and died. Her body was lifted into a cab by Sergt. Paul Winton of the Lincoln park police and taken to Lake View hospital.

FLOODS TAKE HEAVY TOLL OF LIFE IN SOUTH—SUBSIDE IN MIDWEST

PLANES SUCCOR RUINED TOWNS LEFT BY FLOOD

Crest Sweeps Seaward; 15 Known Dead.

BULLETIN.

Pensacola, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Reports made here by relief workers in the northwest Florida flood zone tonight said that the town of Milligan, Fla., was being swept away by the highest stage ever recorded on the Yellow river.

Atlanta, Ga., March 16.—(AP)—Raging floods sweeping down stream through three southern states tonight were claiming new victims in their sweep to the sea, while releasing dwellers along their upper reaches who had been marooned for forty-eight hours or more.

The death list was increased to 15 with the report of two drownings in the swirling waters of the Chattahoochee river near La Grange, Ga.

J. D. Burgess, a farmer, and his 4 year old son were drowned in floods that swept their wagon from a bridge into the river near there. A second son in the wagon grabbed a limb and was rescued by an unidentified man who breasted the swift currents to bring the boy to land.

Fort Gaines, Ga., was added to the towns submerged, the Chattahoochee river inundating lower sections of the city and flooding the city pumping plant.

Alabama Digging Out.

Montgomery, Ala., March 16.—(AP)—Floodwaters that engulfed several southeastern Alabama towns tonight had begun to subside and rescue work apparently was nearing a successful termination.

Gov. Bibb Graves said tonight that it believed approximately 15,000 persons had been made homeless, and that some $250,000 was needed to maintain them until rehabilitation could be effected.

The little Coffee county seat of Elba, shut off by the waters of the Pea river and two creeks for the last two days, was virtually deserted. Most of its 1,000 inhabitants had been removed to Troy and Opp, neighboring towns, by boat and automobile. Several hundred were said to be still in the town but in no immediate danger.

Flood Still Waist Deep.

Lieut. C. J. Hillyard of the Alabama National Guard, engaged in rescue work in the Elba area, reported to Gov. Graves' office tonight that on some of the streets men were wading in waist deep water. The water yesterday and early today had lapped at roof tops and driven the residents to scattered knolls around the town, where they waited for rescue.

Geneva, directly south of Elba, was still flooded, but most of its inhabitants were reported safe at Samson.

Brewton, in Escambia county, near the Florida line, was not considered in immediate danger, but food is needed. The town has approximately 3,000 inhabitants.

Food also was the principal need at Flomaton, another town in the lower Alabama watershed. Airplanes had dropped supplies believed sufficient for a day or so and a car load of provisions was en route from Mobile.

Rush Relief to Other Towns.

While direct communication had not been established with Castleberry, Garland, Pollard, Keego, Pera, and several other towns partially submerged in the basin, rescue work was being directed to all those places.

Direction of relief and disease prevention was taken over at Montgomery today. Gov. Graves was in temporary command of 17 army airplanes which flew over the various flood sectors with food, serum, and other supplies. Observers returning from Elba said conditions were rapidly becoming dangerous there and that an outbreak of measles among the refugee children threatened to spread.

State health department physicians, working with National Guardsmen under Col. W. A. Gayle and local Red Cross workers, were inoculating refugees against measles and typhoid.

Many Refugees Destitute.

Apparently most of the refugees escaped the flood waters without anything but the clothing they wore. Wire communications were so disrupted that reports were lacking from many communities known to be endangered by the high water. The first train from Flomaton, one of the flooded towns, reached Mobile this afternoon.

J. S. Martin, Mobile, conductor of the train; C. J. Brown, flagman, and R. M. Nelson Jr., baggage master, told of having spent two sleepless days and two nights in rescue work, taking scores of refugees into the coaches.

"Our cars were packed and jammed with people, many of them who had not eaten for hours," said Martin. In the midst of the flood, the crew said, lightning struck a store at Flomaton and it was burned to the water level.

How 20 Nearly Perished.

Nelson, who lives at Flomaton, said 20 persons had sought refuge in his home, which was situated a bit higher than some of the other houses. Water kept rising slowly and they retreated to the attic. Finally they were compelled to chop a hole in the roof through which they escaped, to be rescued by a motorboat.

At the Brown home in Flomaton Thursday night a cry was heard from a nearby home, where two men were seen trying to hang on to the roof. Mrs. Brown pushed a skiff from her home in their direction. Neither the men nor boat have been seen, Brown said.

Another place seriously affected by high water was Caryville, Fla., across the line south of Geneva, Ala., where hurried efforts were necessary to take the inhabitants to safety zones. Two hundred persons were rescued this morning, motor boats took women and children from the second story windows of two hotels and others were saved by clinging to housetops and the tops of trees.

Mississippi Levees Hold.

Confidence was expressed in the Mississippi river levees as the forecaster at Cairo, Ill., predicted a crest of 51 to 52 feet there for next Thursday. Predictions of fair weather for the next few days lent more optimistic tone to the outlook.

Three sticks of dynamite were found embedded in the main St. Francis river levee, eight miles south of Marked Tree, Ark. Officials who discovered the dynamite could not determine the motive.

About 80 passengers on stranded Louisville & Nashville trains at Pascagoula, Miss., were taken by coast guard patrol boats to Mobile. Two trains were caught there by water rising over the tracks.

J. R. West, deputy sheriff at Brewton, said officials had organized their forces to prevent pilfering as the floodwaters began to recede.

Flood Leaving Freeport.

Freeport, Ill., March 16.—[U.P.]—With approximately 35,000 acres of farm land under water and rail traffic at a standstill, the Pecatonica river, which yesterday left its banks and flooded Freeport and vicinity, gradually began to ebb today. At 8 a. m. the river had dropped more than three inches.

Police, firemen and relief workers began removing families marooned in the flooded areas. Temporary hospitals were established to care for victims injured when the water uprooted trees, houses and bridges.

Many Freeport factories were flooded and hundreds of workers removed from the buildings in boats.

All motor traffic on the state highway to and from Freeport has been suspended by order of the state police.

ROSENWALD KIN MAROONED.

Chicago relatives expressed anxiety yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Grunsfeld of New York city, who are believed to be marooned in the southern flood area. Mrs. Grunsfeld is the sister-in-law of Julius Rosenwald, Chicago capitalist, and her son, Ernest A. Grunsfeld, Jr., an architect, lives at 105 East Delaware place. The son said last night that nothing had been heard from his parents since last Wednesday, when they were at Evergreen, Ala., on their way from New Orleans to Savannah, Ga.

GIRL KILLED, TWO MEN HURT WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO

Miss Genevieve Meyer, 23 years old, of Wausaukee, Wis., who was visiting relatives in Harvey, was killed and two youths were injured, one probably fatally, when the Dixie Flyer of the C. & E. I. railroad struck their automobile on the Ridge road crossing in Thornton early this morning.

The youth critically injured is Robert Meyer, 22 years old, son of William Meyer, superintendent of the Arlington Park race track. His companion, Richard Hettman, 23 years old, of Joliet, driver of the automobile, was only slightly hurt and was taken to the Harvey police station for questioning. Both youths are employed at the Washington Park race track in Homewood.

The railroad locomotive was damaged by the crash and the flyer was held up for more than an hour. The young woman's death and one other during the day increased the Cook county motor toll to 139 since Jan. 1.

Helen Huffman, 15 years old, 9017 Commercial avenue, died yesterday in the South Chicago hospital of injuries received Oct. 12, 1928, when she was thrown from a motor truck when it collided with an automobile at Torrence avenue and 147th street.

PARIS EDITOR IS AMAZED BY THE WETNESS OF U. S.

Astonishment at the wetness of dry America, skepticism over the practicality of the Paris agreement, wonder at the Americanism of Chicago and admiration for America's President were some of the expressions of local and foreign affairs given yesterday by Raymond Lange, editor of Intransigeant, evening newspaper of Paris.

"I am a Frenchman, and in our country we can get anything we want to drink. But I am really surprised to see that you drink more in America," declared Mr. Lange, who is in Chicago to address the French Alliance and the Chicago Woman's club. "Every one drinks here. I thought this was a dry country, but nearly everywhere you go liquor is served."

He described President Hoover as a "fine man who knows what he wants. You know, politicians sometimes don't know what they want, but he is, I think, an administrator, a business man."

ICE FLOES MAKE FLOOD DANGER ACUTE ON DANUBE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, March 16.—With mile long ice cakes starting to move down the Danube the danger of flood in the Hungarian and Balkan countries became more acute today.

At Belgrade 24 steamers whereon scores of people were living were carried away by the ice floe and most of them were sunk. Police and firemen rescued all on board. Several bridges below Belgrade were also feared for and in danger of the approaching ice.

The Bulgarian town of Philippopolis, the scene of a violent earthquake last year, was today cut off from the world by the floods. Scores of houses were reported to have toppled over into the raging current. The authorities are not yet able to ascertain the loss of life. At the town of Pazardjik thousands of houses were isolated by six feet of water.

NEW VALUATION TO BOOST TAXES, CONROY WARNS

Home Owner Hit Hardest, Assessor Finds.

The reassessment work so far indicates that there will be a decided boost in the tax collections of Cook county, according to Assessor John E. Conroy, who discussed the matter yesterday after a survey of the revaluation.

As a result of the increased collections, Mr. Conroy pointed out, the city administration, although it has been denied bond issues by the voters, will get more current revenue than ever before. The sanitary district also will get a record income, and Chicago taxpayers will contribute more than ever towards the expenses of the state.

Values Are Compared.

Assessor Conroy based his conclusions on an examination of the unit front foot realty tax values, and the unit values for assessing buildings, which have been fixed by Harry S. Cutmore, director of the revaluation work. After comparing these factors with old assessments, selecting parcels of realty at random for this purpose, Mr. Conroy said a decided increase in new tax bills was indicated, but he stated that his survey was not comprehensive enough to estimate the percentage of the increase.

"The announced purpose of the reassessment," Conroy said, "was to equalize taxation in the county, to correct inequities, and to make each parcel of property bear its fair burden of the cost of government. I was wholeheartedly in favor of it, and like many others I am reluctant to criticize the revaluations for fear of being misunderstood as an opponent of equalization.

"But the figures so far obtained show that our taxes are going to be raised and I, as one member of this board of assessors, am going to fight against approval of these increases. It will take a tough battle to save the equalization feature and to kill the boost."

County Board Assured.

The reassessment was ordered by William H. Malone, who was appointed chairman of the state tax commission by Small and who still holds this position. The work is being financed by an appropriation of $800,000, mandatory upon the county board in compliance with the commission's orders.

The county commissioners, when they appropriated this money, were told that the first purpose of the reassessment was to fix a fair value on all taxable property, and that, no matter what the total of this valuation should be, a percentage of it would be taken which would assure against increasing the revenue and increasing the public's tax burden.

Malone, however, announced a few days ago that this percentage would be between 36 and 40 per cent of the true market value of realty. Cutmore, head of the appraisal work, predicted that it would be 40 per cent. At his office it was declared yesterday that former ratios of cash values to assessed values will have nothing to do with determining the new percentage but that the new proposition will be determined by the percentage adopted in other counties of the state. This theory is founded on an intention to equalize the tax among the counties and does not take into consideration whether Cook county's tax burden will be raised.

Former Valuations Determined.

The bureau of land economics of Northwestern university, in a comprehensive survey a couple of years ago, found that assessed valuations in Chicago averaged 31.2 per cent of market prices, but that it varied in individual pieces of property from a fraction of 1 per cent to more than 100 per cent. In the loop, it was found that property owners were paying on an assessed value averaging 60 per cent of a fair sale price.

Since the downtown area was paying almost twice as high taxes relatively, as the outlying districts, residential property was being assessed on an average value of considerably less than 31.2 per cent of the sales price, it was pointed out.

"Therefore," said Assessor Conroy, "the general rise in taxes is going to hit the small home owners hardest. Many of the downtown skyscrapers may enjoy a slight reduction. The unit front foot values fixed by Mr. Cutmore's appraisers show a boost on land assessments, but an even greater increase is indicated by his unit value table for assessing improvements."

It follows, Mr. Conroy pointed out, that taxpayers with capital invested in vacant property will not suffer as much as the wage earner whose only realty is his home.

Analyzes Old System.

Mr. Conroy estimated that under the old system a third of the 1,300,000 parcels of realty in Cook county was over-assessed because the assessors lacked an adequate basis for valuing the property. This third, he predicted, may enjoy a slight reduction as a result of the equalization through the scientific appraisal.

There is another third, Conroy estimated, that was grossly underassessed, much of it through political influence, or through a lack of a proper basis for valuation. This third is due for a tremendous boost in taxes, he predicted.

The other third of Cook county's property owners were paying a fair portion of the tax burden, he said. They will suffer increases in their tax bills, the assessor reckons, from the general rise in valuations.

Public to Be Heard.

Assessor Conroy says he wants the public to have an opportunity to express its opinion on the unit values fixed by Cutmore before they are submitted by Cutmore to the assessors for final approval. He emphasizes that after the basis of the new valuation is fixed, it will be too late to prevent the raise in the general level of taxes, provided 40 per cent of the actual value is taken as the tax value, the percentage which has been tentatively fixed according to Cutmore, as a basis for equalizing the Cook county assessment with the other counties. It is also too late to change the tax rate of the various taxing bodies.

The state tax commission's order provided for community meetings for dissemination of information, and for the discussion of the new assessment figures. Cutmore, as director of the revaluation, divided the city into thirteen sections and scheduled a meeting for each section. Conroy opposed the schedule, saying that it was a mere gesture toward giving the public an opportunity to be heard, that at least one sesion for each of the city's fifty wards was necessary for a sincere effort to hear the taxpayer's voice.

As a compromise, the board of assessors agreed to hold the first five meetings on Cutmore's schedule as a test on the desirability of the entire program. The first of these sessions is set for Tuesday night in the Senn High school, 5900 Glenwood avenue, for the district north of Devon avenue, between Kedzie avenue and the lake.

Income Tax of $51,000,000 Reflects Area's Prosperity

The prosperity of the Chicago district was reflected yesterday in the announcement of Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, collector of internal revenue, that more than 250 individuals and more than 200 corporations in this area had paid up to Friday midnight a quarterly income tax of more than $100,000, showing an annual $400,000 tax.

In the case of a corporation, Mrs. Reinecke said, an annual tax of $400,000 at 12 per cent would indicate roughly a taxable income of $3,000,000 a year, which is the earning power at 5 per cent on a capitalization of more than $60,000,000. The 250 individuals who pay $400,000 tax on their last year's income made at least $1,600,000 last year, according to computations.

Mrs. Reinecke also announced that the total collections, when the revenue office closed last night, amounted to $51,625,274 received since Jan. 1. This exceeds by more than $9,000,000 the collections for a similar period last year.

Compilations have not yet reached a stage where any estimate can be made of the number of individuals in the area who paid taxes on incomes of $50,000 or more and therefore may be rated as millionaires, Mrs. Reinecke said. But some idea of the wide extent of Chicago prosperity may be gleaned from the fact that 5,000 persons in the district had taxable incomes of $25,000 or more.

The largest single quarterly payment paid by a corporation was $1,850,000, or an annual payment of $7,400,000. The taxable income of this corporation could be approximated at $60,000,000. The second largest quarterly payment by a corporation was $1,500,000; the third was $810,000, and the fourth was $500,000.

Although the total of this filing period is already far ahead of last year's total, Mrs. Reinecke believes this excess will be swelled tomorrow with receipt of returns from individuals and corporations in the southern part of the district, which is composed of thirty northern Illinois counties.

HOOVER HEARS OF PROGRESS ON NEW TARIFF BILL

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Progress in the framing of the new tariff bill today was reported to President Hoover by Representative Willis C. Hawley [Rep., Ore.], chairman of the house ways and means committee.

Representative Hawley visited the White House following a meeting of the Republican members of the committee who assembled for the first time since the adjournment of congress.

He conferred with the President for nearly an hour, reviewing the status of the bill and the work thus far done by subcommittees intrusted with the revision of the various schedules of the tariff law.

The bill will be ready for introduction in the house not later than April 20, the representative told the President.

Under the program as announced by Mr. Hawley, the Republican members of the committee will hold their next meeting on March 27.

After the subcommittees finish their task the various schedules will be submitted to the full Republican membership.

KILLED BY PASSENGER TRAIN.

Frank Miller, 45 years old, 2812 East 93d street, a structural iron worker, was instantly killed yesterday when he was struck by a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train at 91st street while on his way to work.

McFEELEY DENIES RIVAL'S CHARGE OF THOMPSONISM

Willis McFeeley, president of the village of Oak Park for the last seven years and a candidate for reelection in the coming April election, yesterday denied accusations made by his opponent, Charles Crysler. Mr. Crysler, who was Mr. McFeeley's former campaign manager, several days ago asserted that McFeeley was affiliated with the Thompson-Crowe-Galpin political faction and charged him with mixing county and city politics into his administration of Oak Park.

"It is absolutely untrue that I have ever been or am now affiliated with the Thompson-Crowe-Galpin group," McFeeley said. "Neither have I ever brought county or Chicago politics into the village of Oak Park. I am seeking reelection because I have received assurances of support by the people of Oak Park. In any case this hardly the time to withdraw from the race in the face of these attacks by my opponent."

MATE'S CASTLES ALL IN AIR, WIFE GRANTED DIVORCE

On the plea that air castles built by her husband, Marcus A. Frankovic, posing as a structural bridge engineer, never materialized, Mrs. Dora Ness Frankovic, 1947 West Adams street, won a divorce yesterday before Superior Judge Walter P. Steffen. Through her attorney, Harry X. Cole, she charged that Frankovic won her under false pretenses.

She testified she met her husband last December at her home in Great Falls, Mont., where she was employed as a librarian. He courted her by telling of his wealth and of his high position in his profession. When she accompanied him to Chicago she learned that he was a poor bridge laborer, she said.

BODY FOUND ON LAKE SHORE.

The body of an unidentified man about 35 years old, partly bald and dressed as a laborer, was washed up on the sand along the lake shore at 41st street yesterday and taken to the county morgue.

SEES CONGRESS OF GREAT MINDS AT WORLD'S FAIR

Predicts Science, Arts Will Center Here.

The 1933 World's Fair is to be the scene of a series of great congresses—mighty both in size and in the caliber of the men who attend them—at which the foremost thinkers in the United States will discuss this country's most pressing problems. Thus, Chicago, while picturing the growth of the world in the last 100 years, will at the same time offer to the nation comprehensive studies of America's future.

Prohibition undoubtedly will be the first big question to occupy the attention of the country's leading educators, philosophers, writers, business and professional men gathered together in such a forum as has never been conducted before in the new world, according to the announcement yesterday by Dr. Allen D. Albert, assistant to the president of the World's Fair centennial celebration. Dr. Albert spoke before members of the Union League club.

Expects Dry Riddle Solution.

By 1933, the United States will be in a position to look at prohibition calmly and study its status accurately, Dr. Albert declared.

Other subjects which could be discussed at the series of conventions would be the new status of women in the life of the republic, the problem of military defense and the whole question of warfare between civilized nations, the farm problem, and a number of other topics.

Dr. Albert and Harvey Wiley Corbett, noted architect, who is chairman of the architectural commission of the fair, made public other new features which are now being arranged for as attractions at the exposition. It was revealed that arrangements have practically been completed for bringing here many of the art treasures of the world for exhibition.

French Envoy to Aid.

Dr. Albert told of a meeting of Chauncey McCormick, chairman of the committee on display of fine arts, with Paul Claudel, French ambassador to the United States, which ended, he said, in the virtual promise of the ambassador to assist in lending famous paintings from the Louvre and the Luxembourg to the exposition.

In addition, famed galleries in America and museums here and abroad have been asked to lend their works to the exhibit, it was revealed.

Something entirely new in the use of artificial light during the daytime will be attempted at the fair, Dr. Albert said. Sketching the possibilities of artificial light, he pictured the beautiful buildings of the exposition bathed in rosy hues at dawn, in blue during the day and in golden colors of the sunset in late afternoon.

In addition, the system of lagoons and lakes will be lighted from beneath the water, it was declared, giving an effect new in the history of decoration.

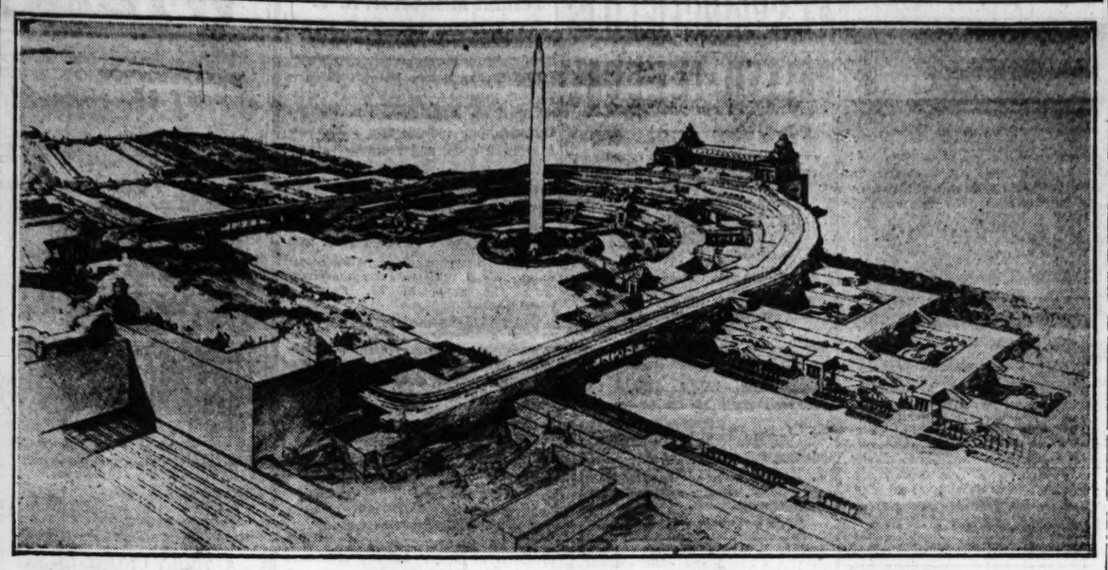
Plan Year of Musical Events.

In 1932, a year before the fair opens, it is planned, Dr. Albert said, to begin a series of great musical concerts and choral contests which will draw people to the exposition grounds and get them accustomed to visiting there. These musical events will be continued throughout 1933 and every artist in the world will have performed at some time during the two years, according to plans.

A hall of science, probably a tower of radically new architectural design, will be the dominant point of the exposition, according to a decision reached by the architectural commission.

The architects also provided space for an airport at 23d street with a landing field of sward instead of concrete or cinders so that the vista would not be marred.

SUGGESTED DESIGN FOR AMPHITHEATER AT WORLD'S FAIR



Perspective of amphitheater with column as dominant feature as suggested to 1933 world's fair architectural committee by Architect Raymond Hood, one of members. The plan is for moving sidewalks to transport the thousands of spectators to the arena.

Kills Wife Accidentally While Demonstrating Gun

John Boro, 934 Newton street, accidentally shot and killed his wife, Rose, 20 years old, in their home last night with a revolver he had just purchased. He was demonstrating the weapon to her and had assured her it was empty when it was suddenly discharged, the bullet lodging in her neck. She died almost instantly.

EAKER ABANDONS DAWN-DUSK AIR TRIP AT MANAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 16.—(AP)—Capt. Ira C. Eaker arrived here at 5:21 p. m. from Guatemala City. He abandoned his attempt to make a dawn-to-dusk flight to Panama from Brownsville, Tex., and will leave for the Canal Zone at 6 a. m. tomorrow. He had traveled 1,401 miles since leaving Brownsville at 4:08 a. m. today.

Eaker blamed weather conditions for his failure to hold to his schedule. Poor visibility in southern Mexico and a strong headwind all the way reduced his flying speed to 120 miles an hour. Eaker plans his return flight from Panama to Brownsville for Monday and will get away at daybreak in another attempt to accomplish it in the daylight hours of one day.

EX-CASHIER SENT TO JAIL.

Danville, Ill., March 16.—(AP)—Ray Allen Thornton, former cashier of the First National bank of Georgetown, was sentenced to four months in jail and two years probation when he pleaded guilty yesterday to embezzling $2,590 of the bank's funds.

CAPITAL MUST GO WITHOUT CHERRY BLOSSOMS ON EASTER

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—Citizens and visitors of the national capital will have to go about the observance of Easter this year without the famous cherry tree blossoms in Potomac park to lend the usual color to the occasion.

Park officials say there probably would be no blooms until April 5 and then only if the weather continues auspicious.

Historical Society Gets Old Ironsides Timber

A recent addition to the marine alcove of the Chicago Historical society is a large oak timber brace, or knee, from Old Ironsides, it was announced yesterday. The timber was removed from the frigate while she was under reconstruction at the navy yard, Boston, Mass., last year.

ARREST WOMAN FOR PLOT TO KILL REALTY DEALER

The alleged plot of Miss Mary Spaner, 43 years old, 767 Walter street, Hammond, to kill a real estate dealer was frustrated by the Hammond police yesterday when she returned to a shop to claim a shotgun. She is being held for a mental examination.

Two days ago the woman asked John Law, owner of the Hammond Welding plant, to convert her weapon into a sawed-off shotgun. Law notified the police, who arrested her when she appeared.

The woman admitted she had planned to conceal the gun under her coat and shoot Anthony Schneider, the real estate dealer, as he entered church this morning. Schneider had fixed too high a price on the home she purchased two years ago, she explained.

ENDS LIFE BY GAS.

John Mahon, 40 years old, committed suicide with gas yesterday in his room at 1440 North Dearborn street. An illness was blamed by neighbors.

"IDENTIFIES" HER KNIFE ASSAILANT; STORY IS DOUBTED

Attorney Emil Wetten declared last night that on March 22, the date set for the trial, he would produce before Judge Joseph L. McCarthy the woman who slashed Miss Mildred Rogers, 23 years old, across the face with a penknife in the apartment of Paul R. Ellsworth, broker, at 232 East Walton place last Thursday night. This woman, said to be Mrs. Mary Ellsworth, second wife of the broker, disappeared after her arrest and release on a bond signed by Mr. Wetten.

Calls Suggestion Ridiculous.

The attorney characterized as ridiculous the suggestion that the woman who made the attack on Miss Rogers is Mrs. Esther P. Ellsworth, divorced wife of the broker, who lives at 237 East Delaware place with her three children. "Mrs. Esther Ellsworth had nothing whatever to do with the affair," Mr. Wetten said.

Sergt. Harry Penzin of the Chicago avenue police, who was summoned to the Ellsworth apartment on the night of the knifing, corroborated Mr. Wetten's statement. He declared the divorced wife is not the Mrs. Ellsworth who was arrested.

Ex-Wife Visits Victim.

Earlier in the day, at the suggestion of her attorney and Capt. Gregory Moran of Chicago avenue police, Mrs. Esther Ellsworth went to see Miss Rogers at the Henrotin hospital, where the young woman is recovering from her wound. After the meeting Miss Rogers told the police that Mrs. Esther Ellsworth was the one who slashed her.

Other witnesses, however, said the young woman was mistaken in her identification. They said she had been drinking on Thursday night and was not in a condition to recognize her assailant.

At the hospital Miss Rogers denied that her real name is Mildred Edwards, 843 Lafayette parkway, as had been reported.

DEPORT U. S. BORN MAN WHO TOOK OATH IN BRITAIN TO JOIN WAR

New York, March 16.—(AP)—George Young, born and reared in New England, was deported in a ship's prison today because he took the English oath of allegiance to get into the war in 1915 and then tried to return here as an American citizen. He explained his plight to reporters from behind bars before the liner Antonia sailed today, telling of his birth in Arctic, R. I., and his boyhood in Bridgeport, Conn.

At 18 he felt an urge to see something of the world and got to England somehow or other. The war came along and he drifted into it, swearing allegiance to the crown in a recruiting office. He was wounded twice, but he liked army life for all that and stayed in service until 1923, when he got work as a laborer in Ireland.

Recently his mother and a brother sent him money to come home, and he had no difficulty boarding the ship when he showed his American birth certificate. But immigration officials here learned of the British oath and turned him back as an alien who can only come in on a quota passport.

He said today that he would come back as soon as possible and renew his American citizenship.

IRELAND GROWING RICH AND STRONG, IRISH ENVOY SAYS

Chicago Wears the Green in Honor of St. Patrick.

In the spirit of St. Patrick's day as it is being celebrated today and yesterday in Chicago with the wearing of the green, there is more of singing and less of sighing than ever before in history. With a touch of Irish humor and a deal of Irish faith, Michael MacWhite, minister to America from Erin, yesterday expressed the new attitude when a Chicagoan asked him:

"How is Ireland standing today?"

"She isn't standing," retorted the Free State minister. "She's moving ahead—fast."

Then by way of proving his point, at the annual dinner of the Irish Fellowship club at the Palmer house last night he proceeded to give facts and figures for the faith that is in him as to the future of the Emerald isle.

Growing in Wealth and Power.

"Let no one tell you," he warned, "that Ireland is not free. I know of no power in the world that is greater as affects Ireland than the decision of the Irish parliament. We have for centuries been an agricultural country, but we are fast developing into an industrial country. Our bank deposits for last year were more than 2,000,000 pounds [$10,000,000], our exports have increased amazingly, and our national debt remains today at only $38 per capita, which is extremely small in comparison with other countries.

"In addition, our emigration quota last year was about 28,000, but only 21,000 sought to take advantage of it. There is confidence in Ireland as to the future destiny of the country, and we are making steady and gratifying progress."

Celtic Societies Meet.

Thousands of Chicagoans of Irish descent gathered last night at the White City ballroom for the twenty-ninth annual program of speaking and dancing under the auspices of the United Celtic societies. Irish songs, Irish favors, and Irish speeches were the order of the evening.

Tonight the Ancient Order of Hibernians will hold forth in the Auditorium with a St. Patrick's program of music and speaking, with Judge John P. McGoorty as the main attraction. Alderman John S. Clark will be master of ceremonies.

This evening also the tenth annual ball of the Illinois branch, American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, will be held at the 131st infantry armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue.

U. OF C. ABANDONS SHEEPSKINS FOR NEW DIPLOMAS

No traditional sheepskins will be presented to the candidates for degrees at the 154th convocation of the University of Chicago on Tuesday. Instead, an entirely new type of diploma, of letter size and with English words lithographed in a modification of the Roman script, will be handed the students.

Degrees and medical certificates will be awarded to 343 candidates, including 135 bachelors, 55 masters, 2 bachelors of law, 14 doctors of law, 52 doctors of medicine, 20 doctors of philosophy, and 65 graduates in medicine who are entitled to begin internship. Frank J. Loesch, first assistant state's attorney, will deliver the convocation address.

Envoy Speaks as Chicago Irish Honor St. Patrick

COSGRAVE SENDS ST. PATRICK'S DAY GREETINGS TO U. S.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 16.—(AP)—President William T. Cosgrave today sent the following message to the people of America on St. Patrick's day. It was signed with the Gaelic form of his name, Liam T. MacCosgair:

"On St. Patrick's day hosts of Ireland's thoughts take wing across the oceans carrying her children's and friends' messages of gratitude and confident call of their fealty and friendship.

"Exiles' hearts are stirred and they proudly proclaim their race. No other country's national festival is more loyally celebrated than that of Ireland. In every corner of the world Irish men and women gather in their dozens, in their hundreds, and in their thousands to demonstrate their abiding love of their mother country.

"In the old land the spirit of self-reliance is the force that is being used to build a new state. Nevertheless the good will and moral support of our fellow Irishmen in other countries are factors which influence and assist us and on which we know we can always count. Every one of our people abroad can do his or her share in making the new Ireland by maintaining that unshakable pride of race which has after long centuries brought us again in the circle of nations by showing in daily life a lofty ideal of citizenship and by keeping themselves well informed of affairs in the homeland."

WIFE LEAVES; HE ENDS LIFE.

A pile of rubbish left by his wife when she packed her belongings and left him yesterday was used by Stephen Harbua, 40 years old, 3219 Belle Plaine avenue, as a pillow when he lay down to die after opening two burners on the gas range last night. An inhalator squad failed to revive him.

Apollo Club Will Hold Memorial Rites for Wild

Memorial services for Harrison M. Wild, for many years conductor of the Apollo Musical club, will be conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Church of the Redeemer, 56th street and Blackstone avenue, by the Rev. Dr. John Henry Hopkins. The service, arranged by the Apollo club and the Illinois chapter of the American Guild of Organists, will be played by Robert Birch, organist of the church, and sung by St. Cecelia choir.

Catholic Total Abstinence Union to Hold Memorial

A memorial for Miss Alida H. O'Connor and William J. O'Connor, officers of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of Illinois, who died last month, will be held in the Auditorium hotel tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Preceding the meeting a table for dinner has been reserved in the main dining room of the Auditorium hotel at 7 o'clock. The Rev. Peter J. O'Callaghan, president of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of America, will be the guest of honor.

DRY RAID ON CLUB AT SPRINGFIELD IS CALLED ILLEGAL

Defense Fights Search on Smell Evidence.

Springfield, Ill., March 16.—[Special.]—Following the examination of C. A. Simonson, federal dry agent, whose acute sense of smell was responsible for yesterday's raid on the Mercantile club here, United States Commissioner W. A. Ruegg today continued until March 27 the case against the club's cook, John Branch.

In the meantime the commissioner will endeavor to figure out whether Simonson's nose, which told him liquor was being consumed in the club, justified the raid without a search warrant and the seizure of liquor found in the lockers of club members. Agent Simonson testified that he entered the club without a search warrant, but that the odor of liquor in glasses recently emptied by club members was unmistakable. He identified it as the odor of highballs.

Calls Raid Illegal.

State Representative T. J. Sullivan, attorney for Branch, who was arrested during the raid, attacked the legality of the arrest and the seizure on the ground that it was made without a search warrant.

The formal complaint against Branch is possession of liquor and maintenance of a nuisance. The question of his responsibility for the odoriferous glasses and the liquor found in the lockers was not reached in today's hearing. This awaits determination of the legality of the raid.

Calls Search Justified.

The government's position is that presence of liquor in the clubroom warranted assumption that the law had been violated and that what the agent saw and smelled justified his search without a search warrant.

2 Injured When Freight Rams Passenger Train

Burlington, Ia., March 17 [Sunday.] (AP)—Mrs. J. Tracy Garrett, wife of the publisher of the Burlington Hawkeye, and an unidentified person were slightly injured early this morning when a freight train ran into the rear of a passenger train on the main line of the Burlington from Chicago to Omaha near Rome, Ia.

20,000 WEARERS OF GREEN MARCH IN N. Y. PATRICK'S DAY PARADE

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Twenty thousand wearers of the green marched up Fifth avenue in the St. Patrick's day parade this afternoon. Fraternal, civic, and religious organizations throughout the city also celebrated the centenary of the emancipation of Ireland.

John O'Hagan, state president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, was the grand marshal of the parade. Cardinal Hayes reviewed the marchers from the steps of St. Patrick's cathedral.

Other distinguished reviewers were former Governor Al Smith; Mayor Walker; Maj. Gen. William N. Haskell, representing Gov. Franklin Roosevelt; Judge Martin L. Sweeney of the Superior court, Cleveland; Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen; and Justice Francis Martin of the Appellate division and president of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick.

G. B. S. THINKS HE MAY TRY HAVING HIS HEAD CUT OFF

Wants to Be Certain Brain Can Be Kept Working.

BERLIN, March 16. — (AP) — The newspaper Tageblatt tomorrow will say George Bernard Shaw has acknowledged that he is greatly tempted to have his head cut off. A German friend recently asked the Irish dramatist and wit his opinion of the recently announced invention of the Russian professor, Brjuchenenko, who kept a severed head of a dog alive for more than three hours by means of a pumping arrangement. Mr. Shaw replied:

"I find the Brjuchenenko experiment frightfully interesting, but cannot imagine anything sillier than the suggestion to try it on a criminal sentenced to death. To prolong the life of such a person is undesirable.

Try It on a Scientist.

"The experiment should be tried on a scientist whose life is endangered by an incurable organic disease, say cancer of the stomach, whereby humanity is threatened with the loss of services of his brain. What is easier than to save such genius from the deathbed by cutting off the head, thereby freeing the brain from disease and keeping up artificial circulation in the arteries and veins so that the great man may continue to lecture and advise us without being impeded by body infirmities.

"I am greatly tempted to have my head cut off so that I may continue to dictate plays and books independently of any illness, without having to dress and undress, or eat, or do anything at all except to produce masterpieces of dramatic art and literature. I would, of course, expect one or two vivisectionists to submit themselves to the experiment to prove to my satisfaction that it is practicable and not dangerous, but I assume that would not mean any serious difficulty.

Think of the Professors.

"I am deeply obliged to you for bringing to my attention this highly satisfactory possibility. A university in which all chairs were occupied by a row of the finest brains in the country with nothing but pumps attached to them—briefly, where the whole system of teaching was purely cerebral—would be an enormous improvement on the present state of things.

"I would furthermore be obliged if you make the enthusiasm with which I learned of this last triumph of physiological research most widely known."

Up to Finals

Helen Trainer, 10 years old, of Lemont, and Doris May Calcott, 10 years old, of Homewood, won district championships in two of the seven semi-finals of the annual Cook county schools declamatory contest in the county building yesterday. They will compete with winners in the five other districts in the finals to be held in Fullerton hall of the Art institute on March 27.

Five of the division winners have already been named, Superintendent of County Schools Edward J. Tobin announced. Two more are to be selected this week. All contestants were given the same subject.

Other district winners already chosen are: First district, Martin Bilzek, 14 years old, of Spaulding; third district, Catherine Bayer, 13 years old, of Riverview, and fourth district, Carl Rud, 14 years old, of Franklin Park.

King's Youngest Son to Work in Foreign Office

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 16.—Prince George, the King's youngest son, will take up duties temporarily in the western department of the foreign office on Monday. The object of his short term of duty in the foreign office, it is said, is to enable him to become acquainted with affairs from a diplomatic angle as he is likely, by his future sea duties, to be brought into contact with people of the American continent.

LAWYERS CLASH AS JUDGE ENDS GANG HEARINGS

CRIMINAL COURT.

Chris Alvarez, contributing to delinquency, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Joseph Smith, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell and fined $100 and costs by Judge Charles Williams.

Defense attorneys and assistant state's attorneys clashed yesterday at the hearing of murder charges against Jack McGurn, Capone gangster; John Scalisi, former Genna follower, and Rocco Fanelli, before Judge Peter H. Schwaba in the South State Street court. The warrants in the three cases were nol prossed, the state explaining that McGurn and Scalisi had been indicted and the indictments were sufficient to hold them to trial for murder. The case against Fanelli, who was not indicted, was dismissed and he was freed.

Attorney Roland Libonati demanded to know why Fanelli had been held for two weeks if there had been no evidence against him. Attorney Thomas D. Nash asked to question the officers who signed the complaint.

Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler objected, declaring that the defense lawyers merely wanted to uncover the state's evidence against McGurn and Scalisi. Judge Schwaba overruled the motion and entered the motion for nolle prosequi. Charges against Miss Louise Rolfe, found with McGurn, were continued to May 22.

RAID MAY MEAN BONE DRY TABLES FOR DIPLOMATS

Washington Is in Muddle After Rum Seizure.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Liquor may disappear from the dinner tables and drawing rooms of some of the most important foreign embassies and legations in Washington as a result of the storm aroused yesterday when Washington police seized a truck loaded with diplomatic wines and conveyed it to a police station. Or there may be diplomatic trouble over the matter.

The Washington diplomatic corps was agitated greatly today, when news of the seizure was published in the morning newspapers. Despite the release of the liquor and its transportation later to the Siamese legation, to whom it was consigned, embassy and legation heads scored the seizure as a humiliating proceeding.

The state department was deluged with inquiries as to whether such treatment was to be expected in the future.

British Will Ask Ruling.

Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador and dean of the diplomatic corps, intimated to friends that as soon as he needs another supply of liquor from abroad, he will take the matter up with the state department before arranging for its shipment.

The department will be asked for regulations covering diplomatic movement of whisky from Baltimore to the embassy.

Should the state department express the view that it does not wish diplomats to import liquor, the British embassy would acquiesce, it was said.

Some diplomats take the view that if the American laws make it necessary for them to put themselves in the bootlegging class in order to get whisky into the United States, they will stop bringing it in.

Brings Issue to Head.

Seizure of the liquor and the arrest of the two drivers on charges of transporting liquor appears to have brought to a head the whole problem of embassy liquor.

Investigations now going on are expected to clear up the matter of the rights of foreign diplomatic officers with respect to liquor importation and transportation in a country whose constitution and laws forbid such privilege to its citizens.

One of the questions to be decided is that of whether a foreign diplomat is entitled to immunity protection for his chattels, such as liquor, while it is being transported to his residence.

Conflict of Laws.

There appears to be a conflict of laws on this question, which may prove embarrassing to prosecuting officials. While the Volstead act forbids transportation of liquor and does not by its language exempt diplomatic liquor, the diplomatic immunity which foreign officials rely on for protection is not only written in international law but is contained in the domestic law of the United States. This is guaranteed through section 253 of the United States code.

"Whenever," this reads, "any writ or process is issued out or prosecuted by any person in any court of the United States, whereby the person of an ambassador or public minister of any foreign prince or state, authorized and received as such by the President, or any domestic or domestic servant of any such minister, is arrested or imprisoned, or his goods or chattels are seized or attached, such writ or process shall be deemed void."

Must Have Own Drivers.

Section 253 provides a penalty of not more than three years imprisonment or a fine for violation of the above statute.

Prohibition authorities take the view that the Volstead act makes it a violation for even diplomats to transport liquor. They agree, however, that their immunity protects them.

Commissioner James M. Doran asserts that persons transporting liquor must be registered attachés or employés of the foreign officer, and that Americans transporting such liquor are subject to arrest.

District Attorney Leb A. Rover, after a conference with state department officials, asked for a postponement of the arraignment of the two men on charges of violating the Jones five year penalty act.

State Department Muddled.

The state department appeared to be in a muddle over the whole situation. While desiring to protect the rights of diplomats, officials have been reluctant to take any definite stand on the embassy liquor question.

Foreign officials, who have inquired, have been informed that American citizens transporting liquor for them might be arrested.

Prohibition authorities are hopeful the outcome of the present case will be legislation forbidding diplomats to bring liquor into the United States.

WABASH AVENUE TO RIVAL STATE IN BRIGHT LIGHTS

Wabash avenue in the loop district is to be as brightly lighted as its rival, State street, it was announced yesterday at a meeting of the Wabash Avenue District association at the Palmer house. Work on the project, which includes the installation of the same type of light used in State street, will begin within a few weeks.

The lights, as it is now planned, will extend from Wacker drive to Harrison street. The contract awarding the work to the Commercial Light company, which was approved yesterday, calls for eight poles to the block on each side of the street with a total of 4,000 watts power on each pole.

PENSION FUNDS FOR MOTHERS TOO SMALL FOR NEEDS

Because the budget for mothers' pensions allowed by the county board can care for only 1,650 families, nearly that many more are on the waiting list without funds to help them, it was disclosed yesterday in records of the county bureau of public welfare.

It was further learned that the number of families on the pension schedule has grown rapidly in the last ten years. The number of needy families for whom no pension funds are available increased 45 per cent in the last five years, it was shown. The increase of 150 per cent over 1918 of family pensions is due, according to Joseph L. Moss, director of the bureau, to the rising standard of care of the needy.

Nearly 73 per cent of the mothers aided are widows, 17 per cent have incapacitated husbands, and 10 per cent are deserted.

SANDWICH SHOP ROBBED.

Burglars early yesterday morning broke into the Sip and Bite Sandwich shop at 32 East Randolph street and took $5 in small change from the cash register.

DRYS PLAN DRIVE TO MAKE JONES LAW EFFECTIVE

Leaders of government, state and municipal agencies interested in prohibition enforcement will meet at a luncheon tomorrow in the Union League club under the chairmanship of United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, to lay plans for the coördination of their activities in making the new Jones law effective.

The conference was called by Mr. Johnson following a meeting last week with Commissioner of Police William F. Russell, and precedes an expected drive against bootleggers. Beside the United States attorney and Chief Russell, the following officials will be present: Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court, Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yellowley, Chief Special Agent Alexander G. Jamie, Assistant Prohibition Administrator George H. Hurlburt, and Assistant State's Attorney Harold M. Keele.

Confers with Dry Chief.

Some significance was attached to the conference when it became known that Alf Oftedal, assistant commissioner of prohibition, conferred with Mr. Johnson Friday on his way from Washington to Kansas City.

The first woman to feel the teeth of the new law, Mrs. Cecilia Black, 3100 Fillmore street, who was arrested Friday for transporting a can of liquor, was held on another charge by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday.

When Mrs. Black appeared for arraignment on that charge yesterday, Assistant United States District Attorney Edward A. Fisher produced evidence to show that prohibition agents, going to her home to deliver some groceries for the three children Friday night, had discovered two twenty-five gallon stills, twenty-nine gallons of alcohol, a quantity of wine and homebrew and 200 gallons of mash in a storeroom in the basement of the building.

Boy Reveals Stills.

On smelling mash in the apartment and finding some distilling apparatus there, the agents asked 12 year old Harry Black, a son, if there was any liquor around. He led them to the storeroom which he said his mother used. Commissioner Walker held her in bonds of $1,000 on the manufacturing charge and continued both hearings until March 21.

EVANSTON SORORITY HOUSE ROBBED.

Evanston police yesterday received reports of the thefts of a wrist watch, owned by Miss Miriam Brewer of Danville, in the Alpha Xi Delta sorority house, and of a typewriter taken from the Christian church and owned by the Rev. R. C. Wilson, pastor.

HONEST JURORS WON'T TOLERATE JONES DRY LAW

That's Prediction of Rep. White of Colorado.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Honest American jurors will acquit Volstead violators rather than subject them to the harsh penalties of the recently enacted five years and $10,000 Jones dry law, it was predicted today by Representative S. Harrison White [Dem., Colo.].

In view of the announced purpose of a group of New York attorneys to educate prospective jurors against the Jones law, the prediction of Mr. White appearing in a supplemental issue of the congressional record and virtually advising jurors to refuse convictions, attracted wide interest.

The Jones law, according to Mr. White, was driven through a cowering congress by the Anti-Saloon league and the Colorado member deplored the absence of a Jackson, a Roosevelt, or a Cleveland in the White House, "willing to battle without regard to obstacles in his way to restore and preserve the fundamental principles upon which our government was established."

Jurors Will Use Common Sense.

As a basis of his prediction that juries will refuse to return guilty verdicts in Jones law prosecutions, the Colorado congressman asserted that from the days when English law prescribed capital punishment for several hundred minor offenses "the common sense of the Anglo-Saxon jurors has come to the rescue of the race and refused to convict of an offense of such insignificance with a penalty so severe.

"In fact," he continued, "the experience of thousands of years of lawmaking and law enforcement conclusively proves that no criminal law is enforceable unless some one is injured by its violation, and juries refuse to convict when they know that the punishment that will follow is out of all proportion to the offense committed.

Warns Fellow Congressmen.

"And, my fellow congressmen, I warn you, and my country, that if and when it becomes a common practice to send men and women to imprisonment for years for the violation of such laws as the Volstead act, which makes crimes out of the doing of things in which there is not the slightest element of immorality, and which only yesterday were unattended by any criminality, we are returning to the practices of the dark ages; and we soon will find that the conscience of our level headed jurors will rebel against the cruelties of such laws and refuse to convict."

Mr. White took issue with the claim of Assistant Attorney General Mabel Willebrandt before the senate judiciary committee that the Jones law was needed because convictions for conspiracy under the Volstead act were difficult to obtain.

DRY AGENTS RAID SOCIETY WOMEN IN CABIN ON OLYMPIC

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Customs agents broke a precedent early this morning and made a raid on a private stateroom aboard the White Star liner Olympic just before it sailed.

From the cabin of Mme. O. Miglietta and Miss Louise Rieck of the Park Lane they seized three bottles of some sort of liquor.

It was the first time that inspectors have searched a stateroom of a ship at its sailing, and the two occupants, other passengers, and visitors protested vigorously but vainly. Officials of the line were quick to disclaim all responsibility. No liquor was sold on the ship, they said, but visitors frequently bring flasks aboard at midnight sailings.

Miss Rieck is listed in the social register as the daughter of Chandler Bates of this city. A Mrs. Olga Miglietta, daughter of Charles D. Kohler, millionaire piano manufacturer, was in the public eye two years ago when she began divorce proceedings against her husband, Romeo Miglietta.

Meanwhile interest centered about the new Jones law, with its five year prison term and $10,000 fine for prohibition violations.

Six more attorneys, it became known, have joined the committee banded together to defend persons arrested under the terms of the act free of charge.

NEW TRIAL ASKED FOR 10 CONVICTED OF BALLOT FRAUD

A motion for a new trial for the ten precinct politicians who were found guilty of vote frauds in the "magic barrel" case by a jury in the court of Thomas Taylor Jr. early yesterday was made by Defense Attorney James McDermott after the verdict was read. Judge Taylor set a hearing on the motion for April 6.

The ten defendants were found guilty of forging ballots, stealing ballots, making false election returns, forging initials, and making false poll lists. Linder Wilkinson and Frank Whittich, alleged leaders of the conspiracy, were given a year in the county jail and fined $1,000 each. John Huntzinger, Frank Smith and James Dorsey were given six months in jail and a $500 fine each, and five election officials, James Abernathy, Barney Soloman, Frank Harkelsrod, William McLaren, and Bernard P. Cooney, were each fined $500.

The prosecution charged that the defendants had concealed 401 forged votes in the bottom of a sugar barrel into which the ballot box containing 315 votes was emptied in the primary election of last April in the 11th precinct of the 27th ward. This ward is the stronghold of Homer K. Galpin, former chairman of the county Republican central committee and a Thompson leader.

Truck Driver Sues Pastor; Says He Stole His Wife

CITY HALL MAY DECIDE ISSUE IN 42D WARD FIGHT

Crowe Friends Hope for Thompson Support.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

On the near north side the battle between Richard Prendergast and Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe in the 42d ward developed last night into one of the hottest struggles in the runoff aldermanic elections to be held in eleven wards on April 2. In the preliminary election Feb. 26 Prendergast ran high man out of three candidates. Since then the hopes of the Crowe camp have been largely pinned upon the Thompson crowd, which supported C. R. Palmer in February. Ald. Crowe has been anti-Thompson in the council, but his leaders have theorized that the city hall followers would swing to him as being less dangerous to Thompsonism than is Prendergast.

Word yesterday, however, was that Harbor Master Charles Agnew and Committeeman Charles Peace, the Thompson leaders, were telling their precinct captains to roll their own on alderman and that the hall organization would make little exertion. Skeptics were uncertain whether this is a stall or otherwise, this ward being noted for devious politics, but at any rate the professors figured it as a slump in Crowe stock.

Deneen Backs Prendergast.

Mr. Prendergast is supported by the Deneen group and nonpartisans and has the backing of Frank J. Loesch, first assistant state's attorney. His supporters are hammering away on the argument that this ward, starting at the link bridge, is fast becoming a rival of the 1st ward in wealth and value of improvements and needs a "fighting alderman" in the city council.

In three wards, three aldermen are under attack as adherents of the wiggle-woggle school of politics. They are Frank R. Ringa [39th], John W. Chapman [40th], and A. K. Mose [50th].

In the February campaign Ald. Chapman, who stands ace high with the M. V. L., was attacked by Dr. Joseph C. Ross as a little brother of the Thompson machine in the days before the machine was wrecked. The runoff April 2 is between Chapman and Ross. The Chapman followers accuse Dr. Ross of having been an "original America Firster." Each is walloping the other with Thompsonism as a cudgel.

J. A. Schiller came out yesterday for Dr. Ross. Schiller, who is a law partner of Congressman A. J. Sabath, ran third in the primary Feb. 26 and since then he has been importuned by both Chapman and Ross to express his preference.

"Ald. Chapman," said Mr. Schiller, "has deemed it wise to vote in the city council so as to gain the approval and meet with the dictates of certain semi-political groups. He has been unconcerned about the welfare of the ward and its citizenship.

Praises Ross' Activities.

"For the last ten years many of the improvements in the ward for health, sanitation, and education are due in a large measure to the efforts of Dr. Ross. I feel the demands of the community impose on me the duty of standing by the man who in my judgment will be the better force for civic improvement and betterment."

The Ross followers charge that Chapman, who was instrumental in electing Erick Nelson Linn as committeeman on an anti-Thompson platform last April, later prevailed on Linn to vote for Homer K. Galpin for county chairman and that Linn and Chapman now control the Thompson ward patronage. The Chapman adherents counter with accusations that the Ross camp was not for John A. Swanson for state's attorney, and that it was an "America First" outfit two years ago.

Mose and Mellin Battling.

Up in the Fiftieth the battle between Ald. A. K. Mose and Curtis F. Mellin has struck a furious pace. Both Mose and Mellin are lambasting each other with the bludgeon of Crowe-Thompsonism.

County Commissioner Lewis Nettelhorst, who appears to be a sort of Pharoah's daughter in pants who found Ald. Mose in the bulrushes politically, is the Brundage ward committeeman. He declares the aldermanic fight between Mose and Mellin has been swallowed up in a struggle between the Brundage camp and the Deneen-Thompson factions to control the ward a year hence when committeemen are elected.

Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general, now has only two ward committeemen — Thomas O. Wallace [44th] and Nettelhorst. The Brundageites are charging a deal has been made whereby William Brown, Deneen leader, is to be supported for committeeman against Nettelhorst in return for Deneen support of Mellin.

To the south of the old I. & M. canal, Ald. Bryan Hartnett of the 12th is in a furious scrimmage with B. J. Zintak, Hartnett, who is given a good rating by the M. V. L., is a Democrat and is a son-in-law of James L. Perry, the Deneen committeeman, while Zintak is a protege of L. F. King, sanitary district trustee and anti-Deneen ward committeeman.

ATLANTA WARDEN ASKED TO RESIGN OVER SPY SYSTEM

Willebrandt - Snook Row Comes to Head.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—The controversy between Assistant Attorney Mabel Willebrandt and Warden John Snook of the Atlanta penitentiary over the former's federal prison spy system was brought to a sudden head today when it was announced that Warden Snook had been given 30 days in which to resign, or until April, it was learned tonight.

The request for Snook's resignation was made on March 5 by Mrs. Willebrandt, who declared today that while no charges involving Snook's integrity have been or are to be made, investigation has disclosed his "utter want of administrative ability."

Borah Defends Snooks.

But Mr. Snook has found a defender. Senator W. E. Borah [Idaho] denounced Mrs. Willebrandt's spy system in a public statement. Snook had protested to Attorney General Mitchell against the planting of justice department agents as "prisoners" in his institution.

Mrs. Willebrandt, it is understood, has insisted that the use of spies is indispensible.

A few days ago Senator Borah declared that a senate investigation of the system is certain and announced that he would insist upon Snook being allowed to defend himself if acceptance of his resignation was based on anything else than his protest against the spies.

"I have given much time to the investigation and consideration of the so-called spy or undercover system in our federal penitentiaries," said Senator Borah today. "It is my judgment it cannot be justified upon any theory of law or of justice or of expediency. Gen. Mitchell is a great lawyer, trained in law from childhood, and, basing my opinion upon this fact, I predict that the system will be discontinued."

Scheme Is Vicious.

"The system involves, in the first instance, in order to get the spy or undercover man into the penitentiary, fake or fraudulent commitments, and then fake or fraudulent representations or procedure in order to secure his release. These commitments must either ostensibly, or in fact, involve the courts, or the officers of the courts, or the officers of the courts, into a scheme for issuing fake or fraudulent processes or commitments, is essentially vicious. I would not hesitate myself to vote to impeach a judge who had signed or issued such papers or who would authorize it to be done.

"Secondly, if it is necessary to place men under cover in a penitentiary, it would seem that it ought to be done by the authority and with the knowledge of the warden. If the warden himself has not the confidence of the department so that it is necessary to spy upon him, then he had better be dismissed out of hand."

Snook Refuses to Talk.

Atlanta, Ga., March 16.—(AP)—Warden John W. Snook of the Atlanta federal prison, when informed that a Washington dispatch said his resignation had been requested, refused to comment.

"I have absolutely nothing to say," he declared.

Warden Snook's protest against the placing of department of justice agents in the prison as bona fide prisoners followed published reports here of agents being placed in the penitentiary on two occasions. The first instance published was that of "Peter Hansen," who the report identifies as William Larsen, department of justice agent from Detroit.

A congressional committee investigating conditions in federal prisons last November in its report praised Warden Snook's administration here as efficient.

HEIRESS WEDS SON OF RIDING ACADEMY BOSS

Guggenheim Girl Bride of Childhood Friend.

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Barbara Guggenheim Lawson-Johnson, heiress to many of the Guggenheim millions, was married Jan. 1 to the son of a riding academy owner of Deal, N. J., it was revealed today. The wedding was secret to avoid publicity of their honeymoon, which was spent in Miami. They have now returned to this city.

The husband, Fred Wettach Jr., is 27, two years older than his bride. They have known each other since childhood. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon R. Guggenheim of the Plaza hotel and Port Washington, formerly had a home at Elberon, N. J., not far from the establishment of Mr. Wettach's father, at Deal.

The parents of Mrs. Wettach made the first public announcement of the marriage and apparently have given it their entire approval. Mr. Wettach has been employed as a clerk by the packing company owned by his uncle, A. J. Wettach, here. Whether he is to remain in this modest position is not known.

The new Mrs. Wettach Jr., was married in 1925 to John Robert Lawson-Johnson, then an attache of the British embassy at Washington, in the Hotel Plaza. Later they were divorced and last year Mr. Lawson-Johnson obtained a great deal of publicity by his marriage to a cloak model, Betty McCormick, of Albany.

The bride's father is the fourth of the seven sons of the late Meyer Guggenheim, founder of the famous house of M. Guggenheim's Sons, later merged into the American Smelting and Refining company.

HOOVER OPPOSES WEEK-END HOME AT MT. WEATHER

Washington, March 16.—[U.P.]—President Hoover has decided not to establish a week end retreat at Mount Weather, Va., with the appropriation authorized in the last session of congress, it was learned at the White House today.

The President has surveyed the possibilities for the development and concluded that the site does not offer sufficient attractions to make it a permanent retreat.

PIANO STYLE SHOW
Featuring The CABLE MIDGET UPRIGHT

Futuristic Design—One of the most strikingly different conceptions of the more than thirty special models on display

STYLES change in Pianos as well as in dress! The modern Piano differs as radically from the Upright of a decade or two ago as does the modern Miss from her bustled great-grandmother.

Here, at Cable's, have been assembled, in an unusual Style Show, thirty-six Midget Pianos, the very latest in design, color, and finish. There is a type for every taste, from restrained pastel tints to modernistic cases in brilliant colorings.

You are invited to come in and discover for yourself the possibilities that these new-type instruments offer for home beautifying.

If you are planning to move this spring

FEDERAL TROOPS RACE TO CUT OFF FLEEING REBELS

Insurgents Rush to Get Out of Torreon.

cer on Gen. Aguirre's staff, joked as the firing squad stood before him awaiting the command to fire.

"Take good aim, boys," he said, "for you have before you a soldier who never feared death."

As the rifles were leveled at him he shouted: "Long live Sonora." Sonora was his native state.

Another characteristic story from Vera Cruz is about a Yaqui regiment which was Gen. Aguirre's personal pride and which accompanied him to the mountains when he fled. Once Gen. Aguirre was in temporary safety and their duty to their old chief performed, as Indians eyes saw it, the Yaquis returned and surrendered, having kept their tribal and traditional faith to their superior and commanding officer.

Rebels Claim Aguascalientes.

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mexico, March 16.—(AP)—Revolutionary successes in central Mexico, including the capture of the important city of Aguascalientes, were declared by leaders of the rebellion in Juarez today to be seriously impeding the northward march of the government forces under the leadership of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles.

The capture of Aguascalientes, revolutionary leaders said, had severed the federal lines of communication with Gen. Calles. The city was taken, said a bulletin issued at rebel headquarters, after a sanguinary conflict in which many federal soldiers were killed and others taken prisoner.

Reports that Durango had been captured by the government forces were branded by the rebel headquarters as unfounded.

Advance on Mazatlan.

Nogales, Ariz., March 16.—(AP)—Mexican rebel forces north of Mazatlan, focal point of the western campaign in Sinaloa, were reported today busily engaged repairing bridges and railroad tracks said to have been destroyed by federal troops for the purpose of halting the revolutionist movement on that city. Gen. Ramon F. Iturbe was understood to be leading the advance on Mazatlan.

There were reports that rebels were approaching Mazatlan also from the south and that a battle with the defending loyalist forces was imminent. It was generally believed, however, that an engagement at the west coast city was not probable for several days.

Border conditions were unusually quiet today, with the federals strongly entrenched at Naco, Sonora.

The entrance of 600 rebel soldiers on the United States territory was reported from a ranch a mile and a half east of here. The troops, it was said, cut through the international fence and obtained a supply of water from the ranch. It was understood the revolutionists, after returning to the Mexican side, claimed they were unaware of having crossed the border.

A HAPPY ARMY

BY ORVILLE DWYER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright, 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WITH THE FEDERAL ARMY IN THE FIELD AT SATIZOC, Coahuila, Mexico, March 16.—Another night on the desert and an army of 10,000 camped under the stars. The clatter of arms is everywhere and the stamping of horses, a thousand camp fires are blazing and the soldiers in groups of six to a dozen are grouped about them, shouting and laughing and singing romantic Mexican songs, in which the wild half notes are strangely wet and plaintive and melancholic.

This must be a happy army that is following Gen. Juan Almazan, its heroic and human leader, across the trackless sands of Balson de Mapimi in pursuit of the rebel army. It is only a matter of temperament in which it is different materially from that vast army of American doughboys which ten years ago followed Gen. John J. Pershing to France.

Sleep in the Sand.

Gen. Almazan's soldiers lay tonight widely scattered around a water tank in the waste of sand. Most of the detachments had been dispatched forward at daybreak, the cavalry ahorse and the infantry by motor truck. A dozen or more trains had followed them at a snail's pace over the precarious single track that threads its way through the desert.

The railroad was almost utterly destroyed by the revolutionary army of Gen. J. G. Escobar under Gen. Jose San Martin in its retreat. Miles of it had been literally ripped from its infirm sandy bed by the expedient of attaching a great log chain to an engine and then hooking it around the ties. It appears tonight that the railroad has been repaired as far forward as it is possible to repair it and Gen. Almazan says he intends to push on at dawn entirely by horse and truck.

A Lonely Land.

One must be with this army to realize the difficulties of moving it across this vast rugged rock and sand. When it started from Monterey its objective was Torreon. As it followed the revolutionists, it was only a matter of 240 odd miles, but human habitation along this infirm railroad, now still half gone, is rare. There are few villages and these are miles between. There is little water and what there is almost unpalatable. The rebels have stolen much of the food out of the little adobe towns.

The villagers are poor and friendless, victims of revolution after revolution during the years since that first upheaval in 1910 and they have hidden what little is left. They do not consider that these soldiers following those who have fled hurriedly through only a short while before are any different from those or that these are federals and those were rebels.

To there poor people with a patient, groping, longing for something in their sad black eyes, soldiers and soldiers are trouble and loss of what little they have and sometimes worse.

The great bandit, Pancho Villa, has ranged up and down this little rail branch in other days. There are miles of trenches along the road. Many, many times these people have tried to defend their own and many times battles between the warring bands and armies have raged around them. That is why it is a tremendous proposition now to move an army, even a friendly and kindly and paying army, across this great desert of Coahuila.

As the writer reached this point, Lieut. Cristobal Garcilaza, aid to Gen. Almazan, called for copy and this must be sent at once. The orders had been changed and the bugles are blowing outside the train. We are not to leave at dawn, we are to leave almost at once. The trains are to be left behind, and we must proceed on horseback or in trucks. The march is to continue until 3 a. m., then a rest of one hour and the order to go forward will be given again.

REPORT REBEL CHIEF SMELLS HIS DEFEAT, 'SALTS' CASH IN U. S.

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—(AP)—Gen. Gonzalo Escobar, commander in chief of the Mexican rebels, was said by the government to be transferring his money to the United States and Canada, having already sent his family into the United States, in anticipation of the complete failure of the rebel movement and to pave the way for his own escape. It was declared that in one town he had abandoned federal soldiers found papers showing that he had deposited $100,344.80 in the Bank of Montreal, Montreal, Quebec.

Escobar's Wife Enters U. S.

El Paso, Tex., March 16.—(AP)—Señora Concha Escobar, wife of Gen. Gonsalo Escobar, commander in chief of the Mexican revolutionists, entered the United States here late today.

CONFESS FIFTY ROBBERIES.

Three Negroes yesterday confessed more than fifty robberies after their capture by a detective bureau squad while holding up a taxi cab driver at Michigan avenue and 47th street. They are Buster Willingham, 18 years old, and Richard Davis, 26 years old, both of 4641 Vincennes avenue, and Curtis Dixon, 19 years old, 4718 Forrestville avenue.

LITTLE IS HEARD OF THIS HEROIC ARMY—WOMEN

They Follow Men to War, Share All Hardships.

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright, 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—The Mexican army which is now moving forth on an extended war campaign is unlike any army in the world. With about 50,000 rebel and federal troops in the field, there is no commissary department on either side. Long trains move out of the station here with thousands of men trained in looking after themselves.

With the army goes another army of women, who follow their men perched on top of the freight cars or trudging along behind them when the army marches on foot across territory where there is no other means of transportation.

The women are laden with cooking implements, blankets, and bedding. Soldiers they are in every sense of the word. No hardships discourage them, they do not complain, and only army regulations prevent them from taking part with their men in battle.

Women Consider It Fair.

They consider that it is a most fair division of work that the men should do the fighting and other military duties, and that the women should be the providers. When a long train of soldiers enters a small town the troops and their women buy out the town. When the local provisions are exhausted the women go miles into the country seeking provisions.

The commander of the forces on arriving at a town or village or ranch where the troops halt or go into camp, sends word to several of the neighboring ranches that he wants so many cattle, according to the number of his troops. The cattle are driven into the camp and slaughtered as needed and the carcasses portioned out among the officers and men. Wood fires are kindled on the ground and the men and women stick the meat on long sticks and roast it slowly in the fire, turning the stick to keep the meat from burning.

Army of Many Languages.

The Mexican army, apart from its officers, is 90 per cent Indian. Babel in the palmiest days of tradition had nothing on the Mexican army. In Mexico there are 110 languages and dialects, and all of them are represented in the army. You will find about one camp fire a group of swarthy Zapotecas from the state of Oaxaca, speaking the soft southern tongue. Near them are sharp faced Mixtecas chattering in a language predating the deluge. At another fire are the heavy featured Aztecs, whose forebears fought the Spaniards to the last ditch.

Foot Troubles Cause Bad Health

They affect the body in many different ways. The feet swell, burn, ache; sharp pains under heels, ball of foot; sometimes feels as if you are walking on marbles; corns, callouses, ingrown nails and bunions; excessive perspiration with offensive odor, overdeveloped ankles and legs, varicose veins; legs cramp, stiffen; pains in hips, small of back, shoulders and neck, poor circulation with nervous exhaustion and miserable weakness. Do not be discouraged. Regardless of what your condition may be or what you have tried, or whom you have consulted, Dr. Pinkston guarantees to relieve all foot troubles and cure nine-tenths of them regardless of the nature or condition of the ailment.

THE TRIBUNE PROGRAM

FOR AMERICA

Repeal the Volstead Act.

Restore Constitutional Representation.

Preserve and Improve the American Standard of Living.

Protect American Lives and Interests Everywhere.

Provide Unrestricted Flow of Electric Power Throughout the Nation.

FOR THE MIDDLE WEST

Finish the Waterway to the Gulf.

A Highway System Adequate at All Points to the Demands of Traffic.

Purchase of Western Railroads by Western Investors.

National and State Legislation to Encourage Regrowth of Our Forests.

"Give me liberty to know, to utter and to argue freely according to my conscience, above all other liberties."
—Milton.

CONTEMPT OF LAW AT ITS SOURCE.

President Hoover has called the new congress in special session to begin April 15. Farm legislation and limited tariff changes are given as the emergency reasons for it. The Seventieth congress contrived the failure of reapportionment again. In seeming the responsibility may be narrowed down to a few men in the senate. Actually the responsibility was widespread.

The refusal to restore full representative government to the United States is anarchistic. It is nullification and lawlessness. It is contempt for the constitution, for the republican form of government, and for the first principles of the nation. It cannot be defended or excused. It has involved in it the very election of the President. The processes of lawmaking are perverted.

Have the representatives of the American people so little sense of fitness and decency that they can one day put the constitution in the discard, treat their oaths with contumely and the principles of government shamelessly, and another day consider the lawlessness of the people and the peril that lawlessness brings to the constitution and all law? To do both these things would degrade a bootlegger.

Responsibility is widespread because men of place and influence see this indefensible lawlessness and are silent, although other and less occasions bring them to their feet. Makers of law who will not obey the highest law expressly imposed upon them are contemptible when they speak of obedience to law.

The Seventy-first congress will return to the ways of the constitution or it will be justly regarded as containing the model and the inspiration of the failure of government in this country.

The men who make laws cannot violate their oaths and not be exemplars of lawlessness. They cannot dismiss the responsibility and the reproach lightly. The periodic reapportionment of the house of representatives was designed to protect representative government. It was designed to maintain the doctrine that government rests upon the consent of the governed. No provision in the constitution could be less violable. If the constitution commands respect and obedience it must begin where it provides for the perpetuation of the government itself in the form and upon the terms provided.

If the constitution is negligible in this respect it then nowhere is inviolable. If it can be set aside when it requires the maintenance of a republican form of government as specified and described, then it can be set aside at will.

The nullification of it by congress is nullification by persons specially sworn in to uphold it. There is also this added reproach: Nullification not only may have an effect upon lawmaking and upon the character of laws to be enforced, but there is the intent that it shall have. Some states are denied their true representation and other states are granted excess representation to influence legislation, particularly that affecting prohibition.

Such nullification would be unthinkable to men of consistent principles.

HOUSE COOLERS.

A cooler for houses that will take ten degrees from the temperature in half an hour is announced. Cooled houses, offices, factories, clubs may soon become a commonplace. A combined heating and cooling system, including food refrigeration, will next be demanded.

The reach and future of the cooling machine well may be great. With artificial cooling on a practical basis a new field for human expansion probably will be opened, and what the temperate zones were to men moving northward with fires the tropic zones may become for men with artificial coolers. With his coolers the white man may populate the torrid areas as he now populates Europe, and continental regions closed for the general purposes of living will be opened to civilization.

The refrigeration of foods has transformed the eating habits of the western world within the last century or so, and with that transformation came a correlated transformation in commerce and in living habits. By cooling food the products of all lands are brought to the dinner table. By cooling people and their houses new migrations will be possible and the races of the north no doubt will betake themselves in great numbers to the empty torrid zone. Refrigeration of houses will result in social and economic changes almost beyond estimate. The house cooler may become accountable—and this is not entirely fantastic—for great migrations southward.

When as much attention and energy are given to cooling the tropics and combating their pests as now are given to heating the temperate zones the tropics will be a suitable abode for billions of the northern stock.

DOCTORING THE WORLD COURT.

Mr. Root in Europe will bear considerable observing from this side. He is a man of formidable front wherever he is. He is thoroughly impressive and he is adroit in any assemblage of elder or younger statesmen. He generally knows where he is going, but it is the direction he is taking at Geneva which is of concern.

The pro-leaguists in the United States got the world court at a price. That price was in the reservations and conditions attached to the adherence. Some of the court nations refused to accept them. It was intended that if they were not acceptable the United States did not desire to be in the court. Mr. Root is finding a way out of this. His purpose and his ability are so esteemed in Geneva that he has been given the opportunity to rewrite the protocol so that it will meet the American reservations.

One condition the United States senate made was that America should not be subjected to any advisory opinion asked from the court by the council of the league in any dispute in which America should be a party. Mr. Root is providing a method by which in such a case the secretary of the league would inform the American government that an opinion was to be asked and thereupon an objection could be made. Such an objection would be counted as an adverse vote in the council just as if the United States were a member of it. If, nevertheless, the United States would not withdraw its objections it could then withdraw from the court "without any imputation of unfriendliness or unwillingness to coöperate generally for peace and good will."

No trust could be put in those words. The senate condition was final and automatic. It was not arguable. It did not contain any moral dilemmas. A weasel couldn't get through it. It meant that the political advice of the international jurists given at the request of the council of the league could not affect an issue in which the United States was a party. Mr. Root's revision would make every American objection to such procedure seem a piece of recalcitrance. It would appear as opposition to the moral judgment of all other nations. It would impute to this country a selfish determination not to be an amenable member in the councils of humanity. It would lead the United States in so far that when the question was acute it would be a reproach to turn back.

United States senators, including Mr. Borah, saw a danger in these advisory opinions which he calls political and the country may be tricked in where it could not be persuaded.

WESTERN CANADA BREAKING THROUGH.

It is reported from Montreal that the St. Lawrence waterway is gaining support where there has been opposition. Some Canadian interests have been hostile and some Canadian elements have been fearful of a national injury in an international waterway. The interests and elements which have been opposed or unpersuaded have also been opposed to another seaway project which as an all Canadian undertaking may be opened this fall.

This connects the heart of the western Canadian grain land with the Hudson bay port of Fort Churchill. The port is 100 miles west of Duluth, but it is no further from Liverpool than Montreal. The 845 miles of rail from Saskatoon northeast should be completed by late summer. The harbor at Fort Churchill is adequate and the Canadian projectors of the route are gambling with one element in the problem, the navigability of the bay and the straits.

The navigation season now is reckoned at eight weeks, from the middle of August to the middle of October. It is estimated that three more weeks may be added to this by airplane and radio direction of ship masters, informing them of ice conditions.

If this spirited gamble in the arctic wins there may be a season of nearly three months to carry the harvest of the grain provinces and their beef and their meat products by the shortest rail and water haul to their British market. It is also thought that it may be an attractive route for western American grain and meat producers.

It is a gamble, but even conservative men say it was worth taking and enthusiasm won for it. If it is a success in its limited season it will give the west some of the relief which it has sought through the delayed St. Lawrence waterway improvements. It may also bring eastern Canada to a more favorable opinion of the desirability of opening up the St. Lawrence for freer and more economical operation to markets abroad.

Editorial of the Day

A BY-PRODUCT OF THE BULL MARKET.

[New York World.]

The plans of the United States Steel corporation and the Anaconda Copper Mining company to retire their entire bonded debts by offering common stock to replace their funded obligations are in keeping with the new trend in corporate finance. The boom in the stock market has whetted the public appetite for stocks and thrown the bond market into the doldrums. In recent months the new offerings of securities on the New York market have consisted largely of stocks. When bonds are offered many of them have "warrants attached," giving the purchaser the privilege of subscribing on favorable terms to new shares of the stock of the corporation when and if this is issued. It has been found that bonds with warrants have a distinctly better market than those without, even when the value of the rights conferred by the warrants is problematical.

The steel corporation and Anaconda propose, therefore, to take advantage of the prevalent fondness for stocks and improve their financial status by a new capital setup. The readjustment will enable the steel corporation, for example, to reduce its fixed charges by twenty-nine millions, and the saving will be more than sufficient for dividends at the present rate on the additional stock it also proposes to issue.

Corporate financing has changed radically within the last two years. Not long ago new financing by stock issues was an uncertain venture. Bonds were being floated in huge amounts, and the growing burden of their fixed charges was viewed by some financiers with misgiving. Today apprehensions on this score have been removed. It is quite probable that other companies will soon be following the example of the steel corporation and Anaconda. The new trend may be regarded as one of the by-products of the bull market.

PRESENT DAY DIVINE INSPIRATION

BY THE REV. WM. BARRETT MILLARD, D. D.
[Editor of "The Supplementary Bible."]

The Bible is the world's greatest book. It has lifted man out of darkness into light, cleansed his heart, ennobled his motives, banished despair, kindled immortal hope, and created a glorious civilization.

In the world of literature the Bible is matchless. Carlyle was right when, after reading the book of Job, he said: "I call that the grandest thing ever written by man, either in the Bible or out of it." The 40th chapter of Isaiah is the loftiest tribute to the majesty of God to be found in any language. No literature enables a devout heart to wing its way into the presence of God as does the Book of Psalms. The parables of Jesus are unique. The Fables of Æsop, the nearest in kind to the parables, are trivial and childish in comparison. St. Paul's hymn of love, in I. Cor., xiii., is the sublimest human utterance on that universal theme. The Bible never can be supplanted. Its position is supreme, unassailable, unapproachable.

While these statements are altogether true, one of the clearest of Christian teachings is that inspiration is continuous. God spoke to holy men in those ancient days, but the Bible nowhere says God ever stopped speaking to men. He is the same yesterday, today and forever, with whom can be no variation, neither shadow that is cast by turning. He would be a changeable God if he spoke to devout men in one age and refused to speak to equally devout men in any other age.

We are assured God is no respecter of persons. He would be such if he revealed himself to a few Hebrews but refused to communicate with his other children. Such a view reduces God to a tribal deity of the Israelites.

All Christian people believe that God hears and answers prayer. The family altar, though sadly neglected, is far from obsolete. When a Lincoln, McKinley or Garfield is shot the nation goes instinctively to its knees. If God answers prayer, it proves he is still a living God and speaks to his children. If one prays for guidance and preaches a sermon or pens a poem today, does he not as truly do so under the inspiration of God as did those whose sermons and hymns are recorded in the Bible?

Some of the most inspiring parts of the Bible are the stories of such great heroes as Moses, Gideon, Elijah, David and Paul. Many heroes and saints and martyrs have lived since those days, St. Francis of Assisi, John Wesley, William T. Grenfell. Are their lives not worthy of our study? Why should it be judged a thing incredible that God continues to reveal himself to his children? He who denies it is to that extent an infidel.

Belief in divine providence is practically universal. Shakespeare said, "There's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough hew them how we will." Tennyson said, "Through the ages one increasing purpose runs." No one who calls himself a Christian or Hebrew believes in an absentee God. If God then is a present reality, can he not inspire now as he did in ancient times?

Dr. R. H. Horton of England wrote a book several years ago, which created a decided stir in theological circles, under the title "Verbum Dei," the word of God. His three divisions were, the written word of God we call the Bible, the incarnate word of God, Jesus the Christ, who expressed God just as a word expresses an idea, and the word of God which comes to individuals. It was around the third division that the battle of the theological giants raged. Every one conceded that the Bible was the word of God and the Christ was the word of God but the assertion that the word of God could come to individuals of today, as it came to the prophets, the psalmist and apostles of ancient days, seemed to some as an insidious heresy. Dr. Horton, however, insisted that just as the word of the Lord came to Jonah, directing him to go to Nineveh and preach, so the word of God could come to Spurgeon and tell him to preach to the people of London or to Dwight L. Moody to tell him to preach to the sinners of Chicago. Dr. Horton declared it was the voice of the same spirit in the modern as well as in the ancient day.

When St. Paul delivered his famous sermon on Mars hill, Athens, he was influenced not only by a divine inspiration but by what he saw. He followed the rules of a wise and adroit orator as any minister might do in our day. As he came through the city he observed the many shrines of the various gods of Grecian mythology until he came to one erected in honor of the Unknown God. Here he found his text, or, we might say his method of approach. He complimented his hearers upon their devotion to religion and having attracted their attention and aroused their curiosity he preached to them about the true God.

Likewise, as St. Paul viewed the altars of Athens, Julia Ward Howe watched the Union soldiers around their campfires at the outbreak of the civil war. She went home and wrote that sublimest and most popular of our national hymns, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." Consider these two verses:

"I have seen him in the watch fires of a hundred circling camps;
They have builded him an altar in the evening
dews and damps;
I can read his righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps,
His day is marching on.

"In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea,
With a glory in his bosom that transfigures you and me;
As he died to make men holy, let us die to make men free!
While God is marching on."

What loftier faith is there anywhere than William Cullen Bryant exhibited when he wrote of the divine guidance of the birds in his matchless poem "To a Waterfowl"?

"He who, from zone to zone,
Guides through the boundless sky thy certain flight,
In the long way that I must tread alone
Will lead my steps aright."

Or where is there a sweeter trust than is expressed by John Greenleaf Whittier in his poem, "Our Master"?

"We may not climb the heavenly steeps
To bring the Lord Christ down:
In vain we search the lowest deeps,
For him no depths can drown.

"But warm, sweet, tender, even yet
A present help is he;
And faith has still its Olivet,
And love its Galilee."

Samuel Taylor Coleridge once said the reason he believed the Bible was because "it found him as no other book did." Other books, even if it be in a lesser degree, "find men." That is, they reach and move men in their heart of hearts.

Whatever inspires men to love God and purity and do unselfish service for others comes from God whether it is the Bible or in other literature.

FAVORITE HYMNS

BY FANNY J. CROSBY.

Blessed assurance, Jesus is mine!
O, what a foretaste of glory divine!
Heir of salvation, purchase of God,
Born of his spirit, washed in his blood.

Refrain:

This is my story, this is my song,
Praising my Savior all the day long;
This is my story, this is my song,
Praising my Savior all the day long.

Perfect submission, perfect delight,
Visions of rapture now burst on my sight.
Angels descending, bring from above
Echoes of mercy, whispers of love.

Perfect submission, all is at rest,
I, in my Savior, am happy and blest,
Watching and waiting, looking above,
Filled with his goodness, lost in his love.

SOME MAY QUIT GLASSES.

IN "What Every One Should Know About Eyes," Dr. F. P. Lewis tells us that many people who now wear glasses could leave them off. He says that many people wear glasses who do not need to do so.

Some wear them because they are regarded as ornamental. Glasses are now cut in faddy shapes and mounted in faddy frames—and great is the urge of fad and fashion. Some wear glasses because it makes them highbrow and indicates membership in the intelligentsia. We health editors affect them that we may look the wisdom we pose.

Some use glasses because of minor eye troubles, not the result of errors of refraction. For instance, a man has styes. He puts on glasses to remove the cause. In some instances the styes are due to eye strain, and wearing properly fitting glasses is the proper remedy. But there are other cases, due to nose conditions or adenoids. Glasses do not remove the cause. Nevertheless, having started with them the subject continues their use.

In some cases, eye strain is the result of glare, or reading by a bad light, or some other kind of overwork. The subjects start wearing glasses. What they really need is a period of rest. This group of people can lay aside their glasses if they will give their eyes a needed rest. Many can lay them aside if they will avoid glare, or use a better lighting system, or work with the light in the proper position.

There are certain kinds of errors of refraction which tend to right themselves as time goes on. The fault which made glasses necessary, let us say in youth, is corrected by the processes of nature as the years go by. The shape and consistency of the eyeball and the lens undergo some change with the passing of the years.

The more dramatic of these subjects are those who, having worn glasses "all their lives," find themselves in their late maturity able to thread a needle without wearing glasses. It is possible that in addition to these dramatic cases there are many others who could lay aside their glasses in later life with advantage.

In doing close, fine work under strain, the muscles which turn the eyes inward and downward tend to flatten the back part of the eyeball and thus increase the need which glasses supply. To turn the eyeballs upward and to discontinue the work which compresses the back part of the eyeball will help and may even make the use of glasses unnecessary. Dr. Lewis thinks there is a very limited field for eyeball movements as a measure for improving vision. At the same time he is strongly opposed to the cults which advise that glasses be discarded and that eye gymnastics be used to correct all or nearly all defects of vision. To carry the matter to that extreme he regards as most hazardous and erroneous. He subscribes to the theories of Helmholz and disagrees strongly with those who base a practice on other theories.

INJECTION OF AIR BUBBLES.

J. C. writes: Is air injected into the body (arms, legs, or abdomen) hypodermically injurious in any way?

I notice nurses are very careful to see that no air is in needle before giving a "hypo," while I have always shot some small amount into my body when taking an injection. I have asthma and take adrenalin when required.

REPLY.

A small bubble of air injected into the tissues would do no harm. If it went into a vein it might do harm. However, injection of a little air into a vein is far safer than it was thought to be a few years ago.

GUNPOWDER AND BLOOD.

J. F. S. writes:

1. Is gunpowder safe to take internally?
2. Is it good for boils?
3. Will it purify the blood?
4. Could you advise me how much and how often to take it?

REPLY.

1. A few small doses might do no harm, but neither would it do any good.
2. No.
3. No.
4. Don't take it.

WEATHER STOPS SERVICE.

Chicago, March 4.—[Friend of the People.]—Just back of my apartment on Rhodes avenue is a vacant lot used for dumping purposes by janitors. Feel quite sure it is not done by owners on each side of the lot. Your referring my complaint to the proper city department would be much appreciated. J. C.

Report is made that alleys in this district have been receiving regular service as per schedule but service was not satisfactory because of frozen condition of contents of receptacles. However, alley was inspected on March 5th and it was then in good condition. Notice has been served on offender to stop further dumping on vacant property referred to.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

WASHINGTON. — The special dispatch of the Evening Post says: "The new call for troops accords with the plans for the military campaigns which have been laid out by Gen. Grant. It is understood he asks for large armies if the country expects him to close the war within the present year."

WASHINGTON.—The following dispatch on his Mississippi expedition was sent by Gen. W. T. Sherman to Gen. Grant, dated Vicksburg, Feb. 27: "General: I got in this morning from Canton, where I left my army in splendid heart and condition. We reached Jackson Feb. 6, crossed Pearl river and passed through Brandon to Morton, where the enemy made preparation for battle, but fled in the night. We posted on over all obstacles and reached Meridian Feb. 14. Gen. Polk, having a railroad to assist him on his retreat, escaped across the Tombigbee on the 17th. We stayed at Meridian a week, and made the most complete destruction of railroads ever beheld—south below Quitman, east to Cuba station, 20 miles north to Lauderdale Springs, and thence all the way back to Jackson. I could hear nothing of the cavalry force of Gen. William Smith, which was ordered to be there by Feb. 10. I then began to give back slowly, making a circuit by the north to Canton, where I left the army yesterday in splendid condition."

TUCSON, Ariz.—Kit Carson arrived at Santa Fé after a very successful campaign against the Navajo Indians. He brought over 280 prisoners, leaving over 500 with Col. Canby. The Navajoes are virtually subjected and their principal chief killed.

CHICAGO.—The great strike of the engineers is virtually at an end. On several of the roads yesterday every locomotive was manned and harmony restored between managers and engineers.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 17, 1899.

CHICAGO.—Joseph Medill, editor in chief of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, died yesterday in his apartments in the Hotel Menger in San Antonio, Tex., where he went last December on advice of his physicians. He was 75 years old, and had been connected with THE TRIBUNE as a proprietor since June 18, 1855. The immediate cause of his death was heart disease. Mrs. Medill, formerly Miss Katharine Patrick of New Philadelphia, O., died in 1894. Two daughters survive, Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson and Mrs. Katharine Medill McCormick. A third daughter, Miss Josephine Medill, died in Paris in 1892.

MANILA.—The First battalion of the 20th infantry advanced from Pasig and cleared the country to Cainti, five miles northwest of the foothills. The Americans advanced on the enemy who numbered 1,000, 500 of whom were entrenched, under heavy fire. They carried the town after four hours' fighting.

CHICAGO.—Benjamin P. Hutchinson, former Board of Trade operator and packer, died of heart disease at the Lakeside sanitarium at Lake Geneva, Wis., at the age of 70. In his time he was a successful shoemaker and a great packer, but it was as a speculator that he made and lost fortunes and became widely known. In the early '70s he opened the Corn Exchange bank. The event that stood out as the greatest of all in his meteoric career was his famous wheat corner in 1888. His financial end came in 1891, when in his last big deal he was on the wrong side of the market for $2,000,000.

PARIS.—Efforts are being directed today to shaping the league of nations covenant so as to insure its acceptance by the supreme council and win the approval of those Americans who are demanding its amendment. President Wilson is firm against separating the issues. It is conceded, however, that some of the suggested amendments can be safely adopted; for instance, those safeguarding the Monroe Doctrine and fixing conditions which will permit the adherence of the late enemy powers.

TOUL, France.—[By Carter H. Harrison.]—The next census probably will show that Chicago is the third city in the world. Therefore it is entitled to the best there is to be had in the way of municipal government. The mayor of Chicago should be a man who commands both the respect and confidence of the citizens. There are three leading candidates for mayor—Mayor Thompson, County Clerk Sweitzer, and, running independent, State's Attorney Hoyne. Mr. Hoyne is a strong contrast to the others. His ability has been unquestioned and his wide experience has fitted him remarkably for the mayoralty.

CHICAGO.—It's Maj. Reed Landis now. The Chicago youth who went out over the German lines to knock twelve foe planes out of the blue, and the son of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, learned of his promotion yesterday. He was one of ten Yankee aviators promoted. Another of them is W. P. Erwin, Chicago ace, who accounted for nine German flyers and who was made a captain.

GROCERS AND PEDDLERS.

Chicago, March 7.—Winter has gone and soon the peddlers will begin to peddle their wares in the alleys. We cannot object to the peddler who pays for his license, but what about the kids who peddle during summer vacation? I know boys who made up to $30 a week. They have no operating costs. Is there anything that can stop this? Look at our cost of operating. I call this unfair competition. J. WINEGARDEN.

THE METHODS OF VAN DINE.

Carpentersville, Ill., March 7.—Your verdict that S. S. Van Dine "is a bum" finds this household at variance with you. We must point out that his method of discovering the murderer follows closely the practice revealed by Mr. James O'Donnell Bennett in his gangland stories. This method also finds authority through the astuteness of your own men of the press, who find the murder gang's sole surviving member comfortably ensconced in "the world's largest hotel," while, just above him some thirty feet, the majesty of the law gropes with its long arm into the hinterland—even to Milwaukee.

It is a rule that no writer of plays, plots, nor books may transcend the possible, the credible, and the closer he sticks to the usual the more likely he is to find a popular response.

Surely in this light, and the revelations of your own news columns, Mr. Van Dine is more of a prophet than a "bum." THE HAUNT HOUSE INJUN.

FRISKING MATTRESSES.

Chicago, March 6.—Reading "Outraged Citizen's" story of having police interference in his home—I, too, have had a similar experience. On Tuesday last, shortly after midnight, I had friends at my home. Just as we were preparing to have a snack, a knock on the door and two plain clothes men and two uniformed policemen walked in and asked, "Where's the orchestra?" They found out the radio was going—quietly; walked into our kitchen; looked around, and walked out. Due to the quickness of their action, I was too speechless to bar them from entering my house without a warrant, or to inquire as to the reason for such an outrage—but felt like a two cent piece before my guests.

Something certainly ought to be done about this uncalled for interference by the police—and I for one believe they could do much better to protect life and limb on the streets, instead of sticking their noses in where they don't belong. CITIZEN.

THE UNDRAPED FIGURE.

Chicago, March 5.—What "Art Student" says about nudity is pure rubbish. As a general thing nakedness is ugly and on this fact is founded the whole of decorative art, which is 95 per cent of all art.

The ugliness of nakedness not only applies to men and women but to all things. That is why we have grass in our front yards instead of bare ground and why we have carpets, rugs, wall paper, paint. Surely a tree is more beautiful covered with leaves than bare.

Anything large or massive has a beauty even without clothes or adornment. A pile of dirt 4 feet high is not beautiful unless covered with verdure, but a pile of dirt a mile high is beautiful even if bare. A man, if big and husky, has a kind of beauty even if naked, but even here plenty of hair on his legs and chest helps out; but a naked woman is little more beautiful than an oyster. D. DAVIDSON.

CAVALRY VERSUS THE AIR.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—I cannot refrain from coming to the support of Mr. Hughes, who came to the defense of cavalry. I know Mr. Hughes personally, having served in the same regiment. His statement, which I heartily indorse, is based on a thorough knowledge of military tactics.

Contrary to public belief cavalry was used extensively in the late war. It was well into 1915 before trench warfare came into organized existence. Military strategists universally agree that if Germany had possessed cavalry to use in the last great drive a different story might have been written in the pages of history.

The air service lacks many of the powers commonly attributed to it. It is absolutely useless for observation or reconnaissance in foggy weather, its accuracy in bombing attacks offers much room for improvement. During the war it was hazardous for aviators to operate at a height of 6,000 feet. In peace time maneuvers they average 1,000 feet and are far from being accurate. To complete the situation, anti-aircraft guns are driving them higher into the skies every day.

ROUTING THE TURKS WITH CAVALRY.

Chicago, March 7.—Judging from the spirited letters called forth by A. J. E.'s remarks on the uselessness of cavalry in modern warfare, the mounted service seems still to be not lacking in defenders.

A. J. E. seems to have forgotten some very recent history. To the mounted troops of Australia and New Zealand and a few English yeomanry brigades belongs the glory of starting the finish of the world war. Under the leadership of Allenby, coupled with staff work of such precision and perfect coördination as to amaze even the rank and file of his forces, the Turk was hopelessly smashed and rolled up into a disorganized rout in a driving, galloping campaign of thirteen days; a whirlwind of clattering hoofs that went through, over and beyond the bewildered Turk and was miles behind his lines before he knew what had happened to him.

That thirteen days was mounted action that would have made the heart of Phil Sheridan jump with joy. It was the Turk's finish and a hint to Bulgaria's seconds to toss the towel. Mounted troops fought throughout the campaign from the Suez in 1914 to Damascus, 1918, and bore the brunt of it all. Dismounted troops, supported by all the artillery and auxiliary arms in France, couldn't have finished the job in that country as quickly and as completely as the light horse regiments of Australia and the mounted brigades of New Zealand did.

A YANKEE ANZAC.

PUZZLED BY OLD COIN.

Maywood, Ill., March 4.—I wonder if some of your readers could tell me the probable value of a copper coin which was struck by the Roman emperor Probus late in the 3d century A. D.? The face side bears a side view of the head of the emperor and the words "Imp Cmaur Probus Pfaug." The reverse side—which is flat—bears the likeness of two human beings, the number XXI, the letter H, and the words "Clementiai Em P." (I have left the space between the M and the P because it is so on the coin—for no reason apparent to me).

$10,000 CASH PRIZE LETTER CONTEST

Your Opportunity to win a big sum for a frank expression of your thoughts

1st Prize	$2500
2nd "	1000
3rd "	500
4th "	250
5th "	150
12 Prizes at $50 each	600
20 " " $25 "	500
100 " " $10 "	1000
700 Honorable Mention Prizes of $5 each	3500

Over 800 prizes in all!

THE purpose behind this Prize Contest is that which has, we feel, done most in the past to make Mills & Sons Chicago's largest home builders—namely: keeping always so closely in touch with popular opinions, tastes and trends in home buying that we could guarantee the public unexcelled quality and value in every Mills & Sons offering. The present, we believe, is a good time to again make a survey of the public attitude—particularly in the field of home bungalows ranging from $8,500 to $11,500 in price . . . What surroundings do people most prefer? What sort of features inside and outside the home itself? Equally important, what is their attitude regarding home ownership versus rent-paying? This unique Prize Letter Contest is our method of securing the answers to these important questions—and YOUR opportunity to make your answer pay you handsomely in MONEY!

We want to know what you expect in your Ideal Home (or what you sought when you did buy it if you already own your home), and we will pay well for the information

Anyone over 18 years old, who is not a Mills & Sons employee or member of an employee's family, is eligible to enter this Letter Contest. Simple rules, which you should read carefully, are given at the left. Remember, the contest is open to tenants and home owners alike.

The letter you write should be headed: "What I Want in a Home and Its Surroundings—and Why Owning Beats Renting." That is your subject. Get your thoughts on this subject carefully together before you write. Sit down and imagine a good fairy is waiting to build for you, tomorrow, "the home of your dreams." What features would you want in that home? What surroundings would you want to have outside it? Why would owning that home beat renting from some one else? Those are the points on which we want your thoughts, in not more than 350 words. Just write your own way, in your own language. Simply be yourself. Remember that it's your IDEAS, clearly expressed, which will count most with the Judges in making their awards.

Run your eyes over that prize list for a moment. Think what you could do with $2,500—or $1,000—or $500—or $150—or even one of those twelve $50 prizes! Win that First Prize, for instance, and you've received seven dollars a word for every word you write! Isn't that too good an opportunity to pass up? Isn't it worth taking all kinds of pains to make the best letter you ever wrote? And ANYONE, remember, can compete except our own employees and families. Ideas more than style, will be the deciding factor. So sit down tonight, get busy with your pen or typewriter, and give us the benefit of knowing what YOU would want in your Ideal Home and Its Surroundings; also why you'd rather own such a home than rent from the other fellow.

RULES

Employees of Mills & Sons, or members of their families, not eligible. Any other person, either sex, 18 years or over, residing in Cook or DuPage County, is eligible. Fill out coupon below and mail or deliver same to any office of Mills & Sons. One letter only per person, and it should be written either in ink or typewritten, and must not exceed 350 words in length. Prizes will be awarded on basis of merit of ideas presented. Composition, spelling and penmanship are of secondary importance. Brevity is suggested.

Contestants agree to accept decisions of Judges as final. Contestants agree that all obligations on Mills & Sons' part will be discharged when the prize checks have been mailed to winning contestants. Contest begins with the appearance of this advertisement and closes at 5 p. m., May 31st, 1929. Letters received after that time will not be eligible.

Judges will be grouped as "ADVISORY" and "ACTIVE." The latter will read and pass upon every letter submitted. Advisory Judges reserve the right to approve all findings of Active Judges. All letters to be judged by July 1st, 1929. Complete announcement of prize winners to be made at time and place to be advertised later in four Chicago newspapers at least one week before announcement is made. Checks to be mailed to winners within one week after announcement. Mills & Sons not liable in the event of non-delivery or loss of letters. All letters to become property of Mills & Sons, and may be used by them without restrictions at their discretion.

In the event of a tie for any prize, full amount of that prize will be awarded to each tying contestant.

In fairness to contestants, and in order that Judges may have ample opportunity to properly and fairly consider all letters, contestants are urged, in their own interest, to SEND IN LETTERS AS EARLY AS POSSIBLE.

NEW YORK SMOKE EVIL CHALLENGES SCIENCE AND LAW

Two Day Pall Makes City Officials Act.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Blanketed for two days under a sooty gray pall, New York again has been thrust squarely into the middle of its ever present smoke problem. A heavy fog which slipped in from the harbor held tons of black coal smoke low over a city which long has been squandering its sunshine.

Today the blanket lifted, but, spurred by the smudge of coal dust, the official smoke regulators under the leadership of the health department were doubling their activities for legislative and administrative measures to bring about an abatement of the evil.

See Electrification as Solution.

Scientists who have been studying the clouds that rise from Manhattan's smokestacks and chimneys, and the soot that is wafted here from New Jersey's great smoke zone doubt that elimination can be accomplished by legislation. They think the solution lies in electrification, the use of gas, and the abatement of smoke by electrical devices at the source.

An investigation of some of the uses to which electricity, gas, oil and compressed air have been put in New York to alleviate the smoke nuisance revealed that considerable progress has been made by science, but that the scale of use will have to be greatly increased before any notable advantage will result.

Science on the Job.

The steam shovel and its blasts of smoke is being replaced on building jobs and in subway excavations by compressed air and electrically driven scoops, the origin of their power sometimes being miles away. Virtually all of the underground subway excavation has to be done by compressed air, and its use is spreading to surface digging.

Three processes are being used to eliminate smoke as it leaves the stacks and chimneys of the newer buildings and factories throughout the city—filtering, blowing and electrical. The filtering is done by spraying with water or having the smoke pass through a cloth. The blowing is done by rotating with large fans and catching the solids as they pass. The electrical process is considered the most practical. It is achieved through a series of plates between which are strung wires or rods making up the collective apparatus. The plates are grounded and the wires charged to a negative potential of 50,000 to 75,000 volts. This causes gas in the stack to ionize and smoke particles to fall out on the plates.

Suggests Simple Precipitators.

Regarding the electrical process, Dr. H. H. Sheldon, New York university professor of physics, who has been assisting the city in combating the smoke nuisance, says:

"What this city now needs, however, is something less expensive. A simple, inexpensive electrical precipitator which can be applied to towboats, apartments, and office buildings without great initial cost and which can be operated with little attention. Undoubtedly such a device can be invented, but only when public opinion becomes aroused will the demand make it worth while to spend money and time to perfect such a device. And when that is accomplished we still will have the harmful gases which come out of the stacks unseen."

Dr. Sheldon thinks the ultimate solution probably will be electrical heating and that electricity will be generated far out in the country.

Favors Electrical Energy.

"Electrical energy," he says, "can be transmitted over long distance with little loss, and the old hope of generating power at the mine mouth may yet be realized. Nor are private heating plants for office buildings necessarily run by coal. Gas could be generated and pumped through mains from Pennsylvania. In Germany such a pipe line is operated economically over a distance of nearly 400 miles."

The smoke abatement work in New York is under direction of Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, health commissioner. While the department has a staff of experts on combustion, the prevention of dense smoke is largely done by sanitary inspectors, who have other duties. Fifty of these inspectors last year obtained approximately 500 convictions of smoke violations.

Meanwhile Dr. Alonzo Blauvelt, assistant commissioner, is making war on the smoke breeding tug boats that ply their trade in the harbor. He insists they contribute more smoke than factories and office buildings.

Recent tests show that there is a smoke curtain hanging over the city on certain days from 1,000 to 2,000 feet thick. This Damoclean pall weighs from 265 to 464 tons to the square mile, and at times, as in the last few days, leaves New York at the mercy of the gray monster.

Radio to Steer Pilotless Plane of Future, Says MacCracken

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Pilotless passenger airplanes, controlled by radio and powered by diesel engines were visioned tonight by W. P. MacCracken Jr., assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, as just around the corner. Diesel type engines, he said in a radio address from station WRC, are already here, adjustable propellers promise to provide the airplane with the equivalent of the speed change mechanism of the automobile, the floating airport is under construction, and the application of launching and landing devices to commercial aviation is easily anticipated.

Plane Prices Dropping.

"We are witnessing," Mr. MacCracken declared, "the entrance into the air of the private pilot who flies for the fun of the thing"; the airplane is rapidly coming within the price range of the average wage earner. Already one of our experienced airmen is planning a nonstop flight around the world."

Summarizing the rapid development of civil aeronautics, Mr. MacCracken pointed out that at the end of the last calendar year, air mail and transport services were in operation or scheduled over 20,788 miles of airways. The number of pounds of air mail carried tripled in one year, from 1927 to 1928. While still relatively small, passenger traffic for 1928 had increased 420 per cent over the preceding year—the number of persons carried was nearly 53,000.

More than 600 concerns are engaged in air service work such as photography, mapping, crop dusting, advertising, flying instruction, and miscellaneous activities.

"Civil aeronautics," continued Mr. McCracken, "has entered effectively into the business world and without subsidy has become an integral part of American industry and transportation."

NAVY NEEDS 300 FLYERS

Washington, D. C., March 16. —[Special.]—An alarming shortage of aircraft carriers and naval aviation personnel was emphasized today by Edward P. Warner, retiring assistant secretary of the navy for aviation, in a final report on the growth and future of naval aviation.

Mr. Warner accorded high praise to the progress in building up the aviation arm in the navy, but warned that unless provision for more aircraft carriers is made at once, the need for additional carriers will be recognized within two years as the most immediate and critical requirement of the fleet.

Discussing the progress accomplished by naval aviation, Mr. Warner declared the United States leads the world in development of aerial operations at sea. He declared that no other nation's fleet is as well equipped with aircraft as is that of this country.

While the United States has 450 flyers now, "we still are 300 short of the number that will be needed four years hence," Mr. Warner said.

STEPHEN WALSH, BRITISH LABOR LEADER, IS DEAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 16.—The English Labor party lost one of its most able and picturesque leaders this morning by the death of Stephen Walsh, member of parliament for Wigan and secretary for war in the late Labor government.

STEPHEN WALSH.

Mr. Walsh, who was 70 years of age, was born in a Lancashire slum. He was an orphan at an early age and was brought up in a poorhouse. He became a miner, then a leader of the miners' union, and eventually one of the most influential leaders of the Labor party.

He was almost a dwarf, but was noted for his good humor and kindliness, and became immediately popular with the generals and other military officials of the war office during his tenure of office. The death of Mr. Walsh makes necessary a sixth by-election before the general election in May.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—The ashes of the late Melville E. Stone, counselor and former general manager of the Associated Press, will be committed to their final resting place in Washington cathedral at 11 a. m. on Saturday, March 23.

SWAN L. SANDERS, 70 years old, 1429 Summerdale avenue, a commission merchant for 40 years as a member of the firm of Charles Guhl & Brothers, died yesterday. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in the chapel at 3154 North Clark street.

Daniel Appleton, Retired Soldier, Publisher, Dies

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Daniel Appleton, retired publisher and soldier, died last night at a private sanitarium at White Plains. He was 77 years old. Gen. Appleton was born in New York and at the age of 19 became a clerk in the publishing firm of D. Appleton & Co., which was founded by his grandfather. He joined the New York National Guard the same year, continuing with both organizations for more than 40 years. He was a bachelor.

STATE TO TAKE "SHACK" OUT OF EXECUTIVE HOME

Governor's Mansion Is in Bad Shape.

office or for the mansion. In other words there was a total of $91,000 with which to stave off any appearance of poverty in the executive mansion during the two year period now ending.

In his daily press conferences Gov. Emmerson evades this subject, merely letting his keen sense of humor manifest itself in a broad smile as he talks about the weather or some subject equally innocuous; but it has become known that the situation he found over at the mansion has led him to take two definite steps in what might be called self defense.

One of these was to have a complete inventory of every article contained in the mansion when he took possession. This is intended, it is believed to establish an official record that will separate from state property the personal possessions he and Mrs. Emmerson have provided to make the old building pleasing.

The other step was to order that every employé of the mansion be paid by individual check as all other state workers are paid. For the last eight years it was the Small custom for the governor to draw each month merely a lump sum for the pay roll of the mansion which did not involve even naming the individuals to whom the money was paid. For example, on the basis of a pay roll of $3,000 a year, the governor was entitled to draw $666.66 a month but there was no record made of how the money was distributed.

A Real Pay Roll System Now.

Under the Emmerson system there will be a pay roll in the hands of the state auditor and treasurer for the executive mansion just as there is for every other division or bureau of the state government. The chef, the kitchen assistants, the maids and the grounds men all will be listed.

Perhaps this decision is due to still persistent rumors that under the Small administration the mansion staff included a butler and a housekeeper although all Springfield is still puzzling about their identification.

Incidentally Gov. Emmerson has done away with another Small practice. Apparently to create an impression of economy in the executive offices, Small kept down the list of authorized employés there but "borrowed" stenographers and other aids from other departments, their services for the governor's office taking all their time. Mr. Emmerson intends that every employé of the governor's office shall be shown on the governor's pay roll.

On the face of it, this will indicate an increased expense for the governor's office but it won't increase the taxpayers' bill a penny. It's merely the governor's idea of being on the square.

BRICKLAYERS MARK UNION'S 50TH BIRTHDAY

Group at Bricklayers' hall last night when union celebrated its fiftieth anniversary. With the exception of the officers, all these men have been members for half a century. Left to right, seated: Walter Shay, John Gleason, Fred Reckling, Patrick Gibbons, Ferdinand Fritz, Louis Wolf, Charles Wolf. Left to right, standing: John Moreau, Ben Lamaroux, John Lass, Richard Gray, treasurer international; John J. Stretch, president local No. 21; John Gleason, international secretary; John McLeod, third vice president; A. E. Vorkeller, and W. D. Charles.

A BRICKLAYERS' BALL, IT SEEMS, IS NOT AS OF OLD

A decorous assemblage gathered last night in Bricklayers' hall, 910 West Monroe street. It was the fiftieth anniversary of the Bricklayers, Masons and plasterers' union local 21 and the bricklayers, their wives and sweethearts, were there in force to celebrate by dining and dancing.

A little group of gray-haired men stood on the side lines and watched the pretty girls and their dinner-jacketed escorts whirl to gay music. They were charter members of the union who had attended the first ball in Februray, 1879. As they gazed at the colorful and peaceful scene, they reminisced wistfully. The theme of their conversation was that bricklayers' balls weren't what they used to be.

Some of Them Still on Job.

Ferdinand Fritz, 87 years old, was there, as were A. E. Vorkeller, 78 years old, and John Gleason, a youngster of 66. The group numbered thirteen in all, and several among them said proudly that they were still active at their trade.

"Not like the old days," said one, "when the brawny lads would twirl their girls in the quadrille, the polka, or the waltz. And sometimes, when the boys got a bit of liquor in them, there'd be a good rousing fight. Nothing serious. Just young fellows handy with their fists having a good time."

"I mind the first ball we had," said another. "It was in old Uhlich's hall, on Clark street, near Kinzie. A little German band played the music and how we danced that eight hand reel! Later the balls were held in the McCormick hall, a little way down Clark street."

How Times Have Changed!

"We made $1.25 a day then and worked ten hours for it," another recalled. "Now it's $1.62½ cents an hour.

"The bricklayers' ball then was looked forward to by the whole town," a veteran remarked. "Look at this one. A society dance."

The orchestra played "I Wanta Be Loved By You." The pretty girls in their evening dresses went spinning by in the arms of collegiate-looking youths and matrons danced more sedately with patrners who appeared successful business men. There was light-hearted gayety everywhere but among the thirteen gray-haired ones. They looked at the scene and sighed.

REPORT ZONING BOARD MEMBER FACES OUSTING

Louis J. Meyers, a member of the zoning board of appeals, will be ousted from Mayor Thompson's "happy family," according to reports in the city hall yesterday. A communication from the mayor to the city council recording the removal proceedings is expected to come up at the meeting tomorrow.

Meyers is now in Europe traveling with his political sponsor, former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, and Robert Levy, former United States marshal in Chicago.

Records were produced last Tuesday in the mayor's city hall office, it was reported, showing that Meyers has not attended a board meeting since Jan. 1 and upon this information was based the charge of neglect of duty. The charge was supported by Mrs. Eva H. Hamilton, president of the board; Frank M. Corr, assistant corporation counsel assigned to the board; and Miss Mary Florence, secretary, it was said.

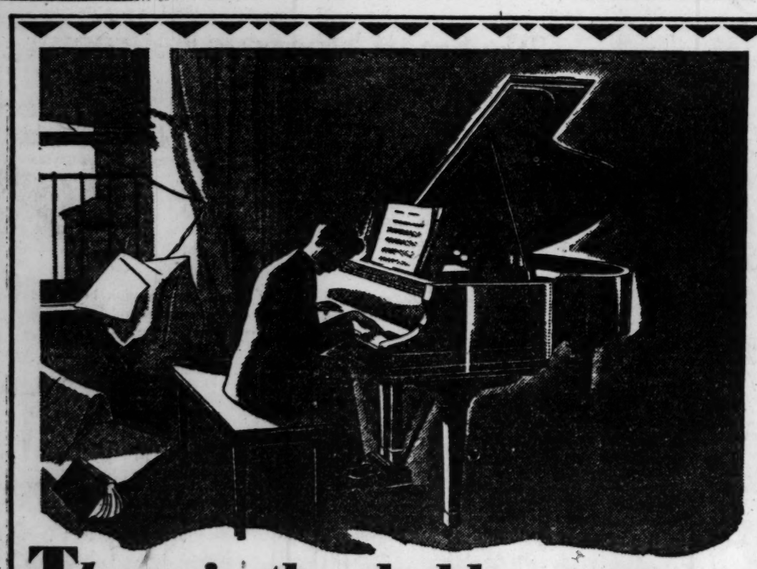
A SIXTY FOOT SWIMMING POOL FREE TO RESIDENT GUESTS



There in the shabby room . . .
strangely, surprisingly,
the most expensive piano in the world!

HIS ROOM was drab—the furniture plain and worn—but there were books and some fine prints—and in the corner, gleaming, a Mason & Hamlin piano.

For this young musician and composer felt that he could scarcely bear to have any piano less than the finest that the world of music knew. He earned only sixty dollars a week by teaching, but his wants were simple . . . his other wants. In music, his wants were soaring. And that, to him, meant a Mason & Hamlin.

So it is that you find these magnificent pianos in two types of home. In the mansions of the world, where famous canvases hang on the walls, where furniture and hangings are of breath-taking splendor, where floors are covered with fabulous Orientals . . . there you find the Mason & Hamlin, costliest of pianos.

And in those lesser homes where the only fabulous beauty is in the music loved and played . . . there, too, you find the Mason & Hamlin.

For both in the richness of its music and in its unequalled social reputation, the Mason & Hamlin stands proudly alone.

MASON & HAMLIN
in the ebonized Model A is only $1650

which means $165 is all that is necessary for the first payment. Three years for the balance will be gladly extended, and a generous allowance made for your present instrument. With the Ampico, in mahogany, the Mason & Hamlin is $3950. We should be glad to have you visit us, to try for yourself the Mason & Hamlin in a room alone, undisturbed by salesmen.

He, Only 35; She, But 32

Yet . . . Both Losing the One Thing Every Human Being Wants the Most to Keep

A Discovery That Touches One of the Great Problems of Modern Life — Fading Vitality

IT is the most precious thing in life; yet day by day you feel it slipping away. According to world scientists, the stress of modern life is imposing the penalty of Fading Vitality, even in the early thirties, on virtually thousands today.

Now in answer to the question, "Can Youth Be Preserved?"—science brings an interesting answer from Switzerland, where great success has been achieved in this field. Most cases of fading vitality are now believed to be correctable. And the method used has now been brought to this country.

What Is Done

37 years ago a young Swiss scientist formed the theory that fading vitality could be resupplied, if only a food concentrate could be found which could replenish the body with those vital elements it is constantly losing. After years of research he succeeded in developing a way of combining these vital elements together in a single preparation. A preparation, later called Ovaltine, which acts directly on vitality by feeding the wasted tissues of the body, and fostering normal activity of every bodily function.

The first great tests of Ovaltine were made in famous Swiss Sanitaria. It was given to convalescents who failed to respond to ordinary treatment—extreme cases of faded vitality and nervous exhaustion. It was also tested in numerous clinics, for treating nervous, underweight, debilitated children.

The 4 Signs Of Fading Vitality According To World Scientists

1 Fatigue. Frequent fatigue periods now definitely traced by scientists to Functional Deficiency, not always the result of "overwork" as so many people believe.

2 Sleepless Nights. A drain that not only weakens, but withholds the Great Rejuvenator, sleep, from rebuilding you. Corrected this way, utterly without drugs.

3 "Nerves." Like fatigue—and largely an outgrowth of fatigue—thus charged by many scientists to impaired Functional Activity. Yields quickly to this method.

4 Listlessness. Lack of energy—lack of power to achieve and accomplish. Another form of, or result of, fatigue.

These are both the cause of failing vitality, because of the constant drain on the system they entail; and also th result, because they find their most fertile field of growth in the sub-vital body.

How Many Do You Answer To? Check Up On Yourself

Success was immediate and results far reaching. So great that world prominence was given this discovery during the World War; being adopted by Base Hospitals and the Red Cross as the restorative ration for nerve-shattered, physically depleted soldiers.

Today the use of Ovaltine has spread to such a degree that it is being prescribed the world over. Not only for convalescents, but for the millions of people suffering from probably the most common complaint of busy modern life—Fading Vitality.

How It Acts

This preparation contains in concentrated form virtually EVERY VITAL element necessary to life. It is utterly free of all drugs. Is a food-drink that is taken in milk—at breakfast, one cup; before bed, one cup. That is all. It fortifies in the morning with tremendous energy elements. It induces sleep and replenishes vital tissues during sleep.

Results make themselves felt within a very short time. So quickly, in fact, that the use of this method has spread over 54 different nations during the last few years. New to America, over 20,000 doctors are advising it. It rehabilitates, revitalizes.

It is obtainable in three sizes at drug and grocery stores under the name of Ovaltine. Obtain it anywhere. It is making a great difference in the lives of thousands.

COMMON SENSE WINS PROSPERITY BACK FOR NORWAY

Peasants Balk Plans of Moscow Reds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, March 16.—Norway today is one of the most prosperous small countries in Europe. Two years ago it went through a labor crisis, largely fomented from Moscow, but Scandinavian common sense triumphed.

Norwegian independence also asserted itself even among the communists. The Norse communist party was split up. One wing, the so-called native party, which, while holding to communist doctrines, is both moderate in its methods and patriotic in its outlook. The other wing is a small remnant of communists, taking dictation from Moscow, but without political influence.

The conservatism of the country is also guaranteed by the fact that two-thirds of the population are peasants, while only one-third is industrial.

Peasants Are "Self-Owners."

The peasants almost entirely are "self-owners," by which is meant that they own their land, while the fishermen, who also are of the peasant class, own their own boats and tackle. A few may be mortgaged to the banks, but as a whole the Norwegian peasantry is independent, prosperous, and is not interested in the communists' revolution. In general politics they are the most democratic people in Europe. The monarchy is accepted for historic reasons, but the king is without power and retains his popularity only by acting in every respect as a private citizen. There is no Norwegian aristocracy and no privileged class.

Wages of labor are high, according to the European scale. There has been an apparent drop since 1925, when the high peak was reached, but this was due to the inflation of the kroner, according to Loret Vogt, secretary of the Norse Federation of Industries. Wages, though lower in the number of kroner today, are really higher in purchasing power.

Purchasing Power Is Higher.

The chief industries are paper and pulp, iron and engineering, and shipping. Paper workers earn about $2.50 daily but the purchasing power is much higher than American or English. Metal workers earn 37½ cents per hour and building workmen about $18.75 weekly.

There is practically no unemployment. Estimates vary between fifty and forty thousand for the whole country. The discrepancy is explained by the fact that statistics are incomplete, and owing to the system by which men work, in industry certain seasons of the year and on farms or fishing other seasons, it is often hard to decide whether to include individuals in unemployment or not.

The development of the electric chemical industry during the last couple of years has added greatly to Norway's prosperity, Vogt said. More than twenty million kroner [$5,000,000] has been spent in the last two years in the development of electro-chemicals and water power, and this has reacted, of course, on building, clothing, food, and other industries.

Development of artificial silk also has provided new markets for wood pulp and strengthened this trade, which was in a bad way a few years ago, but which is now, while not fully recovered, fairly prosperous.

Whaling Fleets Reconditioned.

Whaling fleets have been reconditioned, new ships built, and Norwegian ship owners who used to go to England and Germany for new ships are now placing orders in their home yards.

Cheap coal from Poland is almost driving British coal out of the market and has also been a factor in Norwegian expansion, but Britons are now regarding the market, as prices fall because of better quality and because ships carrying Norwegian food and exports to England offer low coal freight for return cargoes. About half the total export of Norway, it is estimated, goes to the British, who desire as much as possible from its best customer.

Another threat to British coal is arising, however, in the development of the Norwegian fields of Svalbard, which are now supplying about 250,000 tons annually, or about one-tenth of the total consumption, and which promises to increase regularly year by year.

BANDITS MENACE 50 EMPLOYES AND SEIZE PAY ROLL

Just after a messenger had returned from a bank with a $2,000 pay roll, two armed men with handkerchiefs over their faces entered the third floor offices of the H. L. Cass Medical Manufacturing company at 137 West Sixty-second street yesterday, menaced the manager of the firm and fifty employés with revolvers and escaped with the currency in a green automobile without license plates.

J. D. Creevy, 6811 Constance avenue, the manager, had just received the money from the messenger when the robbers walked in. Shouting an order for every one to remain quiet, one of the bandits covered the employés, who are mostly girls, while his companion scooped up the currency and crammed it into a large overcoat pocket. As he was taking the money the handkerchief slipped from his face. It is believed he can be identified.

Girl Caught by Evanston Alderman in Stolen Auto

A young woman in a stolen automobile was arrested yesterday by Ald. Peter Jens of the Fifth ward, Evanston, who has been personally conducting a campaign against speeders. Two men who were in the car with the girl escaped after a chase through the north shore suburb. The girl refused to give the police her name, but said she lived in Niles Center. She declared she met the two men at a dance. Police found that the speeding automobile in which she was riding was stolen on March 13 in Chicago.

Raid 16 South Milwaukee Saloons; Arrest 20 Persons

South Milwaukee, Wis., March 16.—[Special.]—Forty federal agents, the majority from Chicago, raided sixteen of the fifty-two saloons here tonight and arrested twenty persons. All were released under bond when the agents were forced to deviate from their usual custom of holding federal prisoners in city jails over the week end, because the city's temporary jail was unable to hold the prisoners.

Constance Bennett Wins Paris Divorce Decree

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 16.—Philip Plant arrived in Paris today from Cannes just as the French courts issued the final decree of the divorce to Constance Bennett from him.

PATRONAGE HOPE WINS EMMERSON GAS TAX 7 VOTES

Senators from Cook Co. Support Measure.

Only 3.68% of Illinois motor license fees are spent in the Chicago area.

Springfield, Ill., May 16.—[Special.]—Jobs under the Lincoln park board, the west park board, places on the pay roll of the state utilities commission and the tax commission—patronage still to be distributed in Chicago—that is the reason that Gov. Louis L. Emmerson's three cent gasoline tax bill has received the support of what is considered a surprisingly large number of Cook county legislators in both houses of the legislature.

The final roll call in the senate has been taken. It shows the affirmative votes of seven Cook county senators in a total of 35. Their reversal would not have stopped the passage of the bill in the senate, 26 being the required constitutional majority, and that, it is held, may have accounted for a sort of band wagon spirit that swung their decisions. But it is contended that if those seven had fought the bill they might have swung over a few downstaters and stopped it.

Distribution of Proceeds.

In the house the final roll call is not due until next Wednesday, but in the preliminary skirmishing over amendments aimed to bring to Chicago a fair distribution of the proceeds of the tax there are more than a dozen who seemed to line up on the anti-Chicago side of the fence.

In delaying the distribution of patronage until his administrative measures are out of the way it is conceded Gov. Emmerson is following the practice of his predecessors. But at least, it is said, he has introduced novelty in the situation in that he declined repeatedly to bargain for votes of the assemblymen.

Len Small established a definite quid pro quo for every vote, but Mr. Emmerson, having announced as one of his basic principles the belief that the executive department should not coerce or bribe members of the legislature, has smiled at offers to trade votes for jobs and has stood pat on his measures, the chief of which is the motor fuel tax.

Dependent Upon Their Conduct.

Developments have shown that these tactics have had a decided effect. North siders have come to believe that unless they obey the unspoken word the jobs in Lincoln park may be turned over to the other fellow. West siders have a clear impression that the pay roll of the park system over there is at stake upon their votes. And even the south side fellows want to go along and be friends with the administration, because they feel that such powerful offices as memberships on the commerce commission and the tax commission are dependent upon their conduct.

How far the bosses have gone influencing the votes of senators and representatives here is not disclosed in the record. Some members have indicated they decided their own votes without dictation or suggestion from home; but the lineup shows a definite trend in the direction of patronage still to be passed out by Gov. Emmerson.

Here Is Lineup in Senate.

On the senate side there were seven votes in favor of the passage of the 3 cent gasoline tax, five from Chicago and two from the country towns of Cook county. This is the way the lineup there in support of the bill looks to observers:

District—
6. James J. Barbour, Brundage-Deneen.
31. Herman J. Haenisch, Deneen.
29. John T. Joyce, Thompson.
17. James B. Leonardo, Eller-Thompson.
1. Adolph Marks, Lundin-Deneen.
22. Lowell B. Mason, Weber-Galpin.
3. Adelbert H. Roberts, Harding-Thompson.

On the house of representatives side the lineup is not clear, since the three cent bill has yet to come up to a vote on passage, but in the preliminary skirmishes over changes that might have aided Chicago materially there are more than a dozen listed as "voting with the enemy" of their own community.

This list, ommitting some that it is said may stand by their home city when the final showdown comes, is as follows:

District—
1. George W. Blackwell, Thompson.
29. Michael R. Durso, Thompson Democrat.
1. Harris B. Gaines, Thompson.
27. A. O. Galvin, Crowe-Thompson.
6. E. A. W. Johnson, Lundin.
3. George T. Kersey, Thompson.
3. William E. King, Thompson.
19. Charles E. Marinier, Crowe-Thompson.
31. James J. McVicker, Thompson.
23. Edward M. Overland, Lundin.
17. William V. Pacelli, Eller-Thompson.
4. Michael A. Ruddy, Crowe-Galpin.
29. Ernest W. Turner, Thompson.

Owing to the state of confusion into which Republican state politics has been thrown by indications of a new lineup with Emmerson at the head of it, these listings are not considered as having finality. There are scores of members of the legislature who insist that they now are Emmerson men. Some of them have not been received formally into the Emmerson camp. Therefore their political whereabouts is subject to later developments.

But whatever the party and factional complexions the roll calls up to date may have had, there is no question that they are due to the exigencies of the situation produced by the outlook for jobs.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In an item yesterday on the death of E. F. Gorton it was stated Mr. Gorton was a retired Board of Trade operator and formerly in law partnership with Walker Blaine. Mr. Gorton was a real estate lawyer and was never associated with Mr. Blaine. His ashes are being brought home by his widow from Greece, where he died.

SERUM TO FIGHT MENINGITIS HERE BEING DEVELOPED

Epidemic meningitis, a disease which has shown considerable increase in Chicago in the last two years, with a mortality rate of 50 per cent or better, will be combated soon by serum especially prepared from strains of the disease which have occurred here, it was announced yesterday by health department officials.

Fifty different strains have been collected here by Dr. Alton S. Pope, chief of the bureau of communicable diseases, and by Dr. John L. White, assistant director of laboratories and research. These were forwarded to Washington, where cultures are prepared and the basis laid for the development of special horse serums. The serums will be available in Chicago within two months, it is expected.

DIXON, STERLING FIGHT EMMERSON 3 CENT GAS TAX

Motorists Ask Governor for a 2 Cent Levy.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dixon, Ill., March 16.—[Special.]—Reflection of sentiment on the Emmerson 3 cent gasoline tax from both Sterling and Dixon today was expressed in a resolution adopted by the executive committee of Lee county's motoring organization. The resolution opposed the administration's arbitrary 3 cent levy and also the two-thirds and one-third division between counties and the state.

A conference of citizens earlier considered the propriety of going on record with a protest but at that meeting there was some objection on the ground that Lee county is seeking from Gov. Emmerson and the state highway department provision for the construction of a new highway between Lee Center and the Meridian highway, which would give Dixon another direct and shorter route to Chicago through Aurora. Discretion, therefore, was counseled and formal condemnation of the Emmerson measure in its present form deferred.

Ask License Fee Reduction.

The executive board of the motorists, however, adopted resolutions in which the house of representatives and the governor were asked to give consideration to the reduction of the tax to two cents, or in lieu of that action, to take steps for legislation providing for the reduction of the license fee to a nominal sum.

Among the members of the executive board acting on the resolution were Judge William L. Leech, Louis Pitcher, John Davies, W. F. Hogan, Dr. R. L. Evans, W. J. Albright, L. J. Rorer, and P. J. Moerschbacher.

"There can be no question that a majority of motorists in this vicinity oppose a 3 cent tax and also favor the equal division of gas tax money between the counties and state," J. C. Hoss, head of the Chicago Motor club branch at Dixon, told the gathering. "Just what can be done about it is another thing. Personally, I do not believe that Gov. Emmerson would hold up road work in Lee county because the people here differed with him on the subject of what a proper gas tax should be.

Interested in Wider Road.

"The activity that Dixon and Sterling are most deeply interested in is the widening of Highway No. 6 straight out from Chicago to the Mississippi river. This, and the other racial widenings, in our opinion is the most important consideration before the state."

Representatives of the Mississippi Motor club at Sterling forwarded to the meeting a report of its resolution favoring a 2 cent tax and equal distribution between state and county so that counties could allocate a part of its portion of the fund to improvement of roads within cities.

LIGHT U. S. CAPITOL'S DOME SO FLYERS MAY AVOID MISS FREEDOM

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—The Goddess of Freedom atop the capitol dome is not going to be toppled from her lofty post by a wandering airplane if lights will protect her. Four 1,000 watt flood lights, two on the house side and two on the senate side of the capitol, were turned on for the first time last night to light up Miss Freedom's figure. Recently an air mail flyer, blinded by fog, nearly crashed into the dome, and David Lynn, capitol architect, decided it was time to do something about it.

SLAYING TRIAL OF LITZINGER TO OPEN TOMORROW

Virgil Litzinger will go to trial on a murder charge tomorrow morning before Judge John P. McGoorty, although three important state witnesses are missing and another one is dead, according to an announcement yesterday by Assistant State's Attorneys Clarence Piggott and Duane Read.

The two remaining witnesses to the crime, which occurred in 1926, appeared at the office of the prosecutors yesterday and indicated that they would not recant their previous testimony to the effect that Litzinger entered a soft drink parlor and without giving his victim any chance shot him to death. Daniel Scully, 2801 West 38th street, and J. V. Bertrand, 2513 West 38th place, are the witnesses.

Bertrand is expected to testify that he saw Litzinger enter the soft drink parlor of Arthur Gausselin, 2901 West 38th street, and that immediately he heard a shot and soon thereafter a second report. Scully is expected to tell of seeing Litzinger enter the place, pistol in hand, and go directly up to Glynn, who was playing cards.

Attorney Benedict J. Short announced that he has withdrawn as counsel for Litzinger. Attorney Joseph Roach will take over the defense. Mr. Short refused to disclose the reason for his withdrawal from the case.

The missing witnesses are Gausselin, who is reported to be in Hot Springs, Ark.; James Travers, and William McCarron.

Nachman Spring-Filled Mattresses, also box springs, are priced and labeled by licensed local mattress manufacturers according to tickings, finish and materials used. Each label is distinctive in color (green, black or gold) and carries its respective price. Always look for it—the label is your guarantee of genuine patented Nachman construction and full value.

NACHMAN

Spring-Filled MATTRESSES

This week the leading department and furniture stores of this city cordially invite you to learn why so many discriminating homes and institutions from one end of the country to the other are choosing Nachman Spring-Filled Mattresses in preference to all other types.

America's many famous steamships, hospitals, clubs, commercial and apartment hotels are expert judges of comfort and value in bedding equipment. They spend millions to give their patrons the best beds money can buy.

Numerous scientific tests have proven over and over again that Nachmans possess vastly greater comfort and will give longer service. Their controlled buoyancy—their downy softness and delicate resiliency—their marvelous sleep-producing qualities have been a revelation to hundreds of thousands of users. Here at last is luxurious restfulness beyond anything you have ever experienced in a mattress.

The remarkable degree of comfort built into every Nachman Spring-Filled Mattress is due to the double-cone type of specially designed spring used, and to the patented anchoring arrangement which holds each coil permanently and noiselessly in its proper working position. Years of use cannot impair the comfort of a Nachman inner-spring. The mattress holds its beauty and feathery softness indefinitely. Turning and back-porch airing are unnecessary as with ordinary mattresses. Nachmans are self-ventilating—air vents at sides permit of circulation throughout the entire inner part of the mattress.

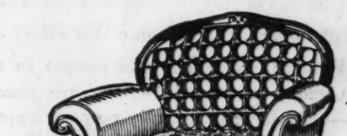
Upholstered BOX SPRINGS

Nachman Upholstered Box Springs also employ this new type of patented spring construction and assembly used in Nachman Spring-Filled Mattresses. There are no cords, tying or knots to break, yet each coil is permanently upright and in place. Can't tip, sag, mesh or develop noise. You get the same wonderful, quiet spring action in this foundation unit as in the mattress itself—insuring a co-ordinated resiliency from both units that is a tremendous improvement over usual types. It's the ideal foundation for a spring-filled mattress. The entire bottom of the box spring is of solid three-ply wood construction—absolutely dust-proof and sanitary.

This full wood bottom is an exclusive Nachman feature which also insures proper support to each spring base. Coils cannot sag or cause unevenness of surface. Both box springs and mattresses are available in beautiful new Damask coverings of matched design and choice of colors.

The minute you see one of these new and better-built box springs, you'll say it's the only real comfort-increasing improvement in box springs that has taken place in the last 20 years. And they are so reasonably priced—Green Label $34.50; Black Label $39.50.

Be sure to inspect the full Nachman line on special display this week at all good furniture and department stores.



Look for the Label on Furniture, too—your guarantee of what's inside

The New Nachman Feather Spring

Loose cushions made with this specially designed spring unit possess a delicate softness equivalent to down. Always neat looking—never rumpled or untidy.

NACHMAN Spring Units Used Also in Upholstered Furniture and Motor Car Seats.

Nachman Spring Units are also used in the loose cushions of nearly all high-grade furniture made today, and in many motor car seats. Spring cushions and backs in Stutz, Chrysler and Marmon cars and in many motor busses are supplied by Nachman. When buying an automobile, a davenport or a chair look for the label carrying the Nachman "Comfort First" emblem. This label is the manufacturer's guarantee to the buyer that the springs used under the upholstering are of patented Nachman construction—the most comfortable backs and underconstructions known to the industry.

OLVANY FLAREUP TO PUT AL SMITH IN U. S. SENATE?

Tammany Trade Said to Have Been Made.

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Resignation of George W. Olvany as leader of Tammany Hall was seen today in certain political circles as the first step in confirming reports that an arrangement has been made whereby Senator Robert F. Wagner is to resign from the United States senate in order that Gov. Roosevelt may appoint Alfred E. Smith to that body.

In compensation, it was declared, Senator Wagner is to receive the whole hearted support of Tammany for mayor, and Mayor James J. Walker is to be neatly sidetracked.

Those who profess to read this significance into the resignation of Judge Olvany are agreed that there has been considerable dissension in Tammany Hall for some weeks and that Judge Olvany has not been able to keep complete control of the organization. The dissension centered, it was reported, upon this plan to send Al Smith to the senate by bringing Senator Wagner to New York as mayoralty candidate.

Olvany Meets Smith Privately.

At city hall there were persistent rumors that a sub-surface irritation on Judge Olvany's part had come to the surface when Judge Olvany and former Gov. Smith met privately Thursday night in Albany where they had gone to attend the legislative correspondents' dinner. Both had expressed themselves with some vehemence.

Close associates of Judge Olvany commented on the rumor by saying: "If there was such talk, Olvany must have got off his chest some of his feeling about the way the Riordans, the Proskauers, the Kennys and the rest have been butting in on him."

Speculate on Olvany's Successor.

There is considerable speculation as to Judge Olvany's probable successor as leader of Tammany hall.

Coming on the eve of a city campaign, Judge Olvany's resignation was known in advance only to a few intimates. He declined at his home, in Fifth avenue, to discuss it in any way.

Mayor Walker refused to make any comment, but intimated he might issue a statement later. In Albany, Gov. Roosevelt declined to comment, and former Gov. Smith said, "I don't know anything about it, and I don't care what anybody has done."

SURGEON'S KNIFE SCORES IN FIGHT ON TUBERCULOSIS

Operations to Compress Lung Save Patients.

Medical science has scored again in its war on the white plague in Chicago. This time it is the surgeon's scalpel that has been recruited to save lives at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, with such success that otherwise hopeless cases have been restored to sound health. The methods employed, it is asserted, will in the future salvage thousands of such victims.

As detailed by Dr. Benjamin Goldberg, director, in the current bulletin of the institution, three types of treatment are being utilized for advanced cases of tuberculosis. All are designed to compress the affected lung, permitting it a maximum of rest, without which progress back toward health is impossible.

By far the most drastic and radical of these treatments is a chest operation performed with the most gratifying results by Dr. Carl S. Hedblom, head of the department of surgery at the University of Illinois, who is associated with Dr. Goldberg in the clinic at the sanitarium.

This operation consists of cutting out a segment of the ribs, front or back, of the patient on the diseased side of the chest, then strapping the two severed ends of each rib together, thus compressing the entire side of the patient, and forcing the affected lung into disuse. Eventually the disease is conquered by the rest thus obtained.

Some permanent disfigurement of the physique of the patient results, but the extent of this impairment is considerably less than would be expected and is not noticeable beneath his ordinary garments, Dr. Goldberg said.

Another angle of the operation that excites astonishment is that it requires only a local anaesthetic.

"It is regrettable," the bulletin states, "that in past ages thousands were allowed to perish who might have been saved through the medium of chest surgery. There are in the United States today, it is estimated, approximately 40,000 cases of advanced tuberculosis that would benefit very greatly from the proper application of these new principles. In the M. T. S. during the past year, 150 patients were subjected to one or the other of the various phases with very satisfactory results.

"Practically all of these would undoubtedly have perished if the special equipment recently installed had not made chest surgery possible and practical."

A second operation devised by Dr. Goldberg to obtain the same result as that described, consists merely of making an incision at the base of the patient's throat on the affected side, baring the phrenic nerve and crushing it between forceps. This produces a temporary paralysis which causes the patient's side to lift, thus taking pressure off the lung and permitting that organ the rest it needs. The third method, not so recent, consists of injecting gas into the pleural cavity, compressing the diseased lung and effecting the same result as the other methods.

KING, COMMONER VIEW SPAIN OF FUTURE IN FEAR

Wonder What's to Happen After Rivera.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MADRID, March 16.—After Primo de Rivera's dictatorship—what? is the question on the lips of every one in Spain today.

The outlook is not bright. The only certainty in the situation is that the dictator, armed with two new repressive decrees—one against subversive talk and the other dissolving the turbulent artillery officers—and backed by Gen. Sanjurjo, commander of the civil militia [somaten] and other competent collaborators, is master of the situation. No modification will be made in the structure of the government without his consent.

And yet misgivings about the future grow more and more palpable in all sections of opinion, I have found after numerous conversations. The stabilizing factor is the unchangingness and inertia of Spain.

Uneasiness begins with the monarchy itself. The king's heirs do not make the problem of succession to the throne a facile one. The Madrilenos say that Alfonso himself has remarked that he is Spain's last king.

Palace Caller Starts Buzzing.

Rumors of change, because of censorship and repression, are endemic in Madrid, since the artillerymen and Sanchez Guerra tried to revolt recently in Ciudad Real and Valencia. It suffices for any nonentity to call at the royal palace to start buzzing reports that the king is about to assert his prerogative and change dictators. At present no one even thinks of proposing more than a mere change in personality of dictators. Modification of government is remote.

Everywhere in Madrid, in Barcelona, and Seville and Vigo you encounter this preoccupation with "How is it all going to end?" And since the failure of the recent uprisings which were so easily put down that the dictator's powers were thereby strengthened, you hear voices everywhere appealing to the dictator to create a political nucleus—a party—which will have a systematic platform and an ideology of its own, and which will be able to supply leaders capable of succeeding to the government of the country in the future.

In many respects there is an inarticulate desire to pattern and adopt more closely the Italian system. For Primo has no system and has developed no new governmental synthesis. His soldier mind is undisturbed by theories. He is simply there and he governs by personal dominance from day to day.

Has No Party.

He has nothing which would correspond to a party behind him unless it be the so-called Patriotic union. This, however, it is objected, is not an organization which can last; it is merely a ponderous nucleus of citizenship which, blindly and without reserve, supports the present situation without thought of the future. It is without a head, its critics say, it could not provide some one to take over the government if Primo departed, and it does nothing to develop a political consciousness in Spain in accordance with the aspirations of the country.

Yet I am told by the dictator's friends that he has in mind the general lines of a constitution which he says he will have perfected in the course of two more years. It is, his friends say, to be based somewhat on the American constitution, that is it will separate the executive from the legislative so that the executive will not be constantly at the mercy of parties as under the parliamentary system which Spain borrowed from England during the last century and which has never been the outgrowth of her history or traditions.

There will even be a president, according to the dictator's plans, whose powers will be compatible with the king. And this, it is pointed out, might fill another contingency arising over any difficulties about the monarchial succession. The upper chamber, under the new constitution, would be appointive, composed of illustrious and competent elderly men, and functioning in a manner as the American senate.

For the lower chamber Primo would borrow from Mussolini. His chamber would be corporative. That is, based on productive organizations and associations, and nonpartisan, with candidates chosen from groups, not districts. There would be a sort of plebiscite on the whole list, as in Italy.

King Closes University.

MADRID, March 16.—(AP)—Premier Primo de Rivera tonight announced that King Alfonso had signed six decrees intended to suppress the student demonstrations against the government, which have been going on for more than a week. Madrid university was suspended until October, 1930, but innocent students will be permitted to enter provincial universities, which are exempt from penalties.

REPORT GERMANY TO LET TROTZKY IN FOR 3 MONTHS

May Permit Exiled Red to Take Cure.

BERLIN, March 16.—[U. P.]—Reports were current here today that the German cabinet may grant Leon Trotzky permission to come to Germany for a three months' cure. Informed circles said some cabinet members hitherto opposed to Trotzky's entering the country changed their minds in view of the exiled former Red army leader's assurance that he is only seeking treatment.

TROTZKY TALKS

BY MISS MARY RAVGNER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 16.—Not thinking anything would result from my simple gesture, I sent my card to Dr. Sedoff's room in the fashionable Hotel Tokatlian this afternoon.

Sedoff is the incognito name of Leon Trotzky. A few minutes later the bell boy reported that I was expected in room 68. Hardly daring to believe the unexpected luck, I found myself knocking excitedly at Leon Trotzky's door.

A small blonde woman, his wife, allowed me to enter and gave me a chair. Through the inner door I could see the figure of the man so mysteriously hidden during his month's stay in Constantinople, the object of so many guesses, conjectures and the curiosity of the world. He is of ever medium height, broader shoulders than pictures indicate, thin, iron gray hair brushed straight back and cut fairly long. He still wore glasses but the famous beard is quite gone.

Speaking in French, because he said his English was not good, the stern faced ex-war lord warned that I must not ask indiscreet questions. I suggested the subject of his health, not only because it is a safe subject but also is the topic of endless press reports. He replied that he was feeling quite well now, but wished to consult German doctors. He appeared quite strong and well and did not know how long he would stay in Constantinople.

He said he had applied to Germany for a visa. He said he had not approached any other country on this subject, and asked with a smile if the United States would admit him. I replied that it would not, that he was too dangerous and that every one was afraid of Trotzky.

Pointing to tables in the room littered with reams of typewritten pages, I asked what he was writing. Rather sadly he answered he could do nothing else now and was writing his autobiography. He said he was very busy, although the hotel room was confining and uncongenial. He could not find books in the Constantinople shops, but "of course I don't need books to tell my own story."

During the short interview the door was opened several times and this engaged his nervous attention. It was rumored here once that two white Russians tried to break into Trotzky's room disguised as newspaper agents, but were caught with concealed weapons.

Now, however, Trotzky goes out on the streets occasionally with his family.

Exile has not robbed Trotzky of his commanding personality or keen intelligence. He is restless and out of place, but there is no suspicion in him of being broken or crushed in the spirit of a fallen hero.

Disbar Lawyer Stepson of Judge Winslow, Under Fire

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Stuart Eaton, stepson of Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow, into whose judicial conduct a congressional inquiry is pending, today was disbarred from legal practice in the federal courts here by order of Federal Judge Thomas D. Thacher.

Greater than ever with Straight Eight Power!

Studebaker's famous COMMANDER

AS AN EIGHT $1495 – AS A SIX $1350
at the factory

COMMANDER EIGHT CONVERTIBLE CABRIOLET, $1645. With six cylinder motor, $1495. Six wire wheels and trunk rack standard equipment. COMMANDER EIGHT COUPE, $1495. COMMANDER SIX COUPE, $1350. Prices at the factory. Bumpers and spare tires extra.

THE fine and final touch of modern motoring—straight eight power—now lends its liquid fluency to Studebaker's famous Commander!

The new Commander, now available as either an eight or a six, worthily succeeds to the renown of its illustrious predecessor, which sped 25,000 miles in 22,968 minutes.

The Commander's potent appeal of tireless speed is admirably matched by youthful, vivid style. Lines are lower and longer because of Studebaker's costly double-drop frame. Even in repose, you sense The Commander's fleetness, its power, and its brilliant deportment.

A cozy coupe or a rosy roadster—quickly and at will. And room for two in comfort in the rumble!

Restful riding, such as motoring never knew until Studebaker introduced ball bearing spring shackles, is still further enhanced by hydraulic shock absorbers.

The sum of the new Commander's qualities make it now, more than ever, "the greatest motor car ever built and sold at its low One-Profit price."

New Furniture Values in the Tobey Sale

WE illustrate today a few selections from a great assortment of furniture going on sale Monday at remarkable reductions.

The momentum of the sale has enabled us to enter the market at an opportune moment. By being ready now to take from factories unexpected surplus stocks we have been given price concessions unthought of a few weeks ago. The furniture is fine in quality and is in designs we are glad to have at any time.

Our semi-annual sale, with special discount purchases like this, is part of the fundamental merchandising plan of this store, based on the belief that thoughtful people still believe in fine furniture and prices that are right.

There is a limited quantity of some of these items and all are subject to prior sale.

GENIE IS 3-1 FAVORITE TO WIN $100,000 COFFROTH RACE TODAY

25 Stars of Turf in Rich Stake at Tia Juana.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TIA JUANA, Mexico, March 16.—Beat Genie and the $100,000 Coffroth handicap is yours. That's the prevailing opinion tonight, as hopeful owners and an eager public await the tenth annual renewal of the world's richest stake, which will be run here tomorrow.

In the betting Genie and his stablemate, Valkyr, were held at 3 to 1. Golden Prince was the second choice at 5 to 1. Twenty-five were named in the overnight entries.

There are plenty of candidates for the unquestioned honor of being able to outfoot the Gifford A. Cochran star in tomorrow's mile and a quarter classic, but whether they will be able to live up to the fond hopes of their owners is something else again.

It isn't so much Genie's record at the current Tia Juana meeting as his success on eastern tracks last summer that ranks him as public choice. The husky son of Man o' War hasn't done much out here, but was good enough in the east to warrant top burden of 126 pounds in tomorrow's Coffroth. Part of this package will be made up by Jockey Willie Kelsay, veteran pilot, who is as smart a rider as ever wore silks here.

Cochran Guns for Prize.

Cochran certainly is gunning for the $100,000 that will go to the Coffroth winner. Uncle Henry McDaniel, his trainer, who made Master Charlie famous a few years ago, is sending Genie and Valkyr into the fray. Valkyr is a trim, speedy daughter of Man o' War, and, with light weight, is capable of giving any thoroughbred a battle.

For those who demur at the general idea Genie can pick up 126 pounds and win, there are several other high class eligibles to choose from. For instance, Golden Prince.

If romance means anything, the Sunshot stable's Golden Prince should win, just to make a story book finish. Destined for the glue pot not so many months ago, Golden Prince became the sensation of this Tia Juana meeting. His record here resembles that made last year by Crystal Pennant, which was a plater when he arrived and wound up with a $97,000 Coffroth victory.

Golden Prince has done everything his owners have asked. He has won at a route and in the sprints. He has won on good, bad, and muddy tracks. He has picked up weight and given away pounds to both older and younger horses.

Recent interest also includes Naishapur, fine three year old of Guy Earl, Los Angeles newspaper publisher. Naishapur showed a fine effort to win the Tia Juana Derby.

Another star is Hydromel, big horse of Senator Camden of Kentucky.

Distance Favors Hydromel.

Hydromel's stretch runs are devastating. His last two efforts have been at one and one-eighth miles. In both cases he came from far back to take second and third to good horses, and if he had had another eighth to go, would have won each time. The Coffroth is a mile and a quarter, and if the leaders are not too far in front when they hit the stretch, some unsuspected jockey will suffer badly from one of Hydromel's great finishes.

The jockey club has added $100,000 to the entrance and starting fees. Of this, $5,000 will go to the winning jockey and a like amount to the trainer of the winner. The winning horse will receive $75,000 and all entrance and starting fees. If 16 go to the post, and it appears that at least this number will start, the net value to the winner will be $97,700. Second money is $9,000, third $4,500 and fourth, $1,500.

CONGER TRAVELS MILE IN 4:13 1-5 TO ROUT RIVALS

Leads Lermand by 10 Yards.

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Foreign dominance in the one mile distance has ended at last, finally and conclusively. Ray Conger of the Illinois A. C., conqueror of Paavo Nurmi in the Millrose mile a little more than a month ago, dislodged the last two foreigners from their pedestals as two of the premier milers in the United States by winning the "mile of the century" at the tenth annual Knights of Columbus games at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The willow wraith from Iowa ran the greatest mile of his career to traverse the distance in 4 minutes 13 1-5 seconds, not far from the world's indoor record of 4 minutes and 12 seconds, and, thus, completing the unwritten tradition of this race, that it be run in close to record time.

Almost as marvelous as Conger's great victory was the fact that Leo Lermond of the Boston A. A. took this same occasion to unreel the best mile of his competitive experience to complete the foreign downfall by taking second place ten yards behind Conger, ten yards in front of Eino Purje of Finland, the 2,000 meters world's record holder, and fifteen yards in front of Edwin Wide of Sweden, the outdoor two mile record holder.

A crowd of 15,000 shouted and yelled in sheer paroxysms of joy as Lermond took the lead from Purje two laps from the tape and then bedlam broke loose when the great finishing kick of Conger's fairly lifted him off the boards just before the bell tap and carried him on and on, first several feet and, then, a yard at a time from the hard running Boston A. A. man.

As Conger veered around the last turn and swung into the stretch, the ecstasy of the spectators reached new heights of frenzy. Torn bits of paper flowed down from the gallery and the mayor of the city of New York, James J. Walker, so forgot his official dignity as to cheer as happily and as joyously as any one.

West Indies Cricket Team Beats English by 144 Runs

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 16.—(AP)—The West Indies today defeated by 144 runs Julian Cahn's English cricket touring team in a final test match.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

BY DON MAXWELL

One week from tomorrow twenty of the finest amateur boxers who ever stepped into a ring will entrain for New York City. They will carry the hopes of Chicago into Madison Square Garden three nights later. Twenty thousand men and women will see them champion middle western ring prestige against the best the east can offer.

JOHNNY ROSS.

Last year New York's Golden Glove champions came west, and fighting before a great crowd in the old Coliseum, won eight of the sixteen bouts. Now it is Chicago's turn to take the road. Without boasting we are sure no finer team of amateurs ever rode forth to battle.

Beginning tomorrow all of the Chicago boys start intensive drill. Some of them have been keeping fit since the Golden Gloves tournament by gymnasium work, some have been appearing on amateur programs. But tomorrow they all enter upon training drill in earnest. There will be no more fighting until the big night on March 27, when they step into the bright light of Madison Square Garden.

GEORGE MEYER.

When we held the first Golden Gloves tournament few of us envisioned the magnitude which the meet would assume. We thought of the tourney as an outlet for extra steam carried by Chicago youths and a pleasant entertainment for folks who attended the bouts. And we wanted to do something tangible for men whom the war had left with sickness.

In two years the Golden Gloves tournament has grown so rapidly that it now assumes fronk rank in the list of Chicago boxing attractions. Twenty-eight thousand folks saw the several hundred bouts held at the Coliseum. Approximately $26,000 is to be given the Forty and Eight for their convalescent service men's camp. More than three hundred men took part.

JIMMY CHASE.

Last Wednesday night the New York Daily News held the finals of the counterpart of Chicago's Golden Glove meet. Twenty-one thousand packed the garden. Every New York newspaper save one carried columns on the event.

And now the intercity bouts.

Reports from New York tell of a great demand for tickets.

Out of the ranks of the amateurs have come many a famous fighter. Hard hitting Tony Canzoneri began his fistic career boxing at amateur shows in New Orleans. Hefty Otto von Porat, who stepped into the heavyweight limelight over burly Tom Heeney, not so many years ago won a championship at the Olympic games.

SUD HAMMER.

George Hoffman, winner of the heavyweight bout in last year's intercity contests, is bidding for fame as an eastern professional.

Who knows but that one of Chicago's champions may emerge from victory on the evening of March 27 to meet with fame and fortune?

On to New York!

Dugan Stars as Sox Beat Ft. Worth, 11-6

Fort Worth, Tex., March 16.—[Special.]—Danny Dugan celebrated one day in advance of St. Patrick's day, today. Because of some excellent left hand pitching by the hitherto unknown youngster and some timely batting by the White Sox, the Comiskey nine upset the Panthers, 11 to 6.

Whether Lena Blackburne had a hunch or not when he saw Ted Blankenship dissipating a perfectly good six run lead in the second inning is of small import. Either Dugan is an important prospect or he was merely donating a little Irish byplay befitting the occasion.

Blankenship gave three passes to open the Fort Worth half of the second, but Atz's nine had only begun to reckon with the Irish. Dugan twirled six innings, allowing two hits, two walks and a run that was largely the result of a bobble by Bill Cissell.

Meanwhile the Sox were making merry with their war clubs the while finding two Fort Worth pitchers for sixteen safeties. Johnny Kerr again was the principal offender with two singles and a double. If this former Hollywood star doesn't stop hitting he may create the opinion that he really is going to worry American league pitchers this summer.

Art Shires, the much talked of first baseman, caused a bit of whoopee when Umpire Ziggy Sears chased him from the game for protesting a decision in the ninth inning. Art was ordered off the field three times. He left but once.

The Sox started early to show little or no appreciation for the twirling talents of Sullivan of the North Carolina Sullivans. Two singles, a triple and a double were banged into various parts of the premises before he could retire a man. And, before Sullivan could retire the side four runs resulted.

But Fort Worth leaped on Blankenship in their half of the same inning for three runs before Oklahoma Ted could call them off. Four singles and a walk proved the extent of the Texas assault.

Blackburne's men added another pair of runs in the second. Blankenship, himself, scored on a single and two errors by Second Baseman Urban.

It was during the Fort Worth half of the second stanza that Blankenship faltered. Ted walked the first three batmen to face him. In the crisis, however, Dugan was summoned to the hill. He quelled the threat, yielding one run, that due to Stone's single.

Blake, Malone Falter; Angels Outrun Cubs

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—Brothers, what do you say we put the soft pedal on pennant talk until we get along a little further in this training business? The score: Angels, 13; Cubs, 12. A cool 25 runs scored against the proposed National league standouts in two consecutive days. Not so good, not so good.

"Probably trying out a pair of bush pitchers," you say without investigating. Nothing of the sort. Blake and Malone, two gents who are vieing with each other as to which is going to be the ace of the Cubs' 1929 staff, were the parties who got their ears knocked off.

Bases Full; Rajah Fans.

And to make the trimming really artistic the seventh Angel pitcher to enter the contest struck out the great Rogers Hornsby with the bases full and the tying run on third to end the alleged contest.

Blake, in his first competitive throwing of the year, spotted the belligerent Angels eight large runs in the first three innings. Then Pat Malone became chairman and pitched shutout ball for four innings while his mates kept grinding away.

In the eighth inning the Chicago branch of the Wrigley firm finally grabbed a 10 to 8 lead by virtue of a homer propelled by Cuyler with two on bases. This pleasing climax of an uphill fight apparently caused Mr. Malone and Capt. Grimm to relax. Grimm was guilty of a bad lapse that would have retired the side with the Cubs in possession of a two run edge. After Charley's boot, however, Walter Berger, hero of the fiasco a week ago, stepped up and cleared loaded bases with a homer.

Cubs Fight On.

It can be said for the Cubs they still were fighting in the ninth. Stephenson singled and Grimm walked. Gonzales singled, scoring Stephenson. Taylor, batting for Heathcote, who had been called to the plate to bat for Malone, singled, scoring Gonzales to make the score 13 to 12. Beck popped a foul to the catcher and McMillan flied to Statz. Cuyler beat out an infield tap, filling the bases. It was then that Hornsby whiffed when a single would have restored the Cubs' lead. The ball game was over.

Starting at the beginning of the terrible mess let us set down that the score at the end of the third inning was: Angels, 5; Cubs, 0. The tabulation of hits at the same juncture was: Angels, 6; Cubs, 1. And the errors, Angels, 0; Cubs, 2. Not a Cub reached first until Blake got a pass with two down in the third. That's how good Mr. Plitt was during the first third of the game.

Angels Plague Sheriff.

In the same span our Sheriff suffered plenty of agony. Statz, first up for the Angels, walked, but Jones hit into a double play, Hornsby to Beck to Grimm. Webb and Tolson then drew passes and Berger doubled, scoring the two of 'em. Parker flied to Stephenson.

Butler, Warren and Plitt went out in order in the second, but in the third they had a merry time, as follows: Statz singled to left and went to third when Grimm muffed Jones' sacrifice bunt. Webb singled to right, scoring Statz. Tolson hit in a double play, Blake to McMillan to Grimm; Berger and Parker walked, filling the bases.

Butler singled past Beck, scoring Webb and Berger. Warren singled and Butler scored and the batter reached third when the ball got away from Cuyler and rolled to the fence. Plitt singled, scoring Warren with the sixth and last run of the inning. Statz, up the second time in this inning, walked, but Jones ended the debacle by flying to Cuyler.

Plop! Goes Mr. Plitt.

It appeared that Mr. Plitt could not stand prosperity. In the fourth inning he walked Cuyler and Hornsby. He struck out Wilson, then filled the bases by walking Stephenson. Grimm singled to right, scoring Cuyler and Hornsby. Gonzales singled to center and Stephenson ran across. Moore

TOM WARNE SOARS 13 FEET 7¾ INCHES AT ILLINOIS RELAYS

Five Carnival Marks Broken; Berlinger Wins All Around.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., March 16.—One world record and five carnival marks were shattered tonight in the twelfth annual relay games of the University of Illinois.

A capacity crowd of 4,000 saw Tom Warne barely miss clearing the bar in the pole vault at 14 feet 2 inches. Previously, the little Purple athlete had shattered the world's indoor mark for vaulting off a dirt floor. He cleared the bar at 13 feet 7¾ inches. Last Saturday at Iowa City Canby of Iowa established a new record for dirt floor vaulting, lifting himself over the bar at 13 feet 7½ inches.

TOM WARNE.

Warne was in brilliant form. On his last effort to clear 14 feet 2 inches, he cleared the bar but struck it with his elbow while coming down. Had he been successful he would have shattered the world's mark of 14 feet 1 inch, made by Sabin Carr of Yale last year.

Betters Norton's Mark.

The first carnival mark to go by the boards took place this afternoon when Barney Berlinger of Pennsylvania took the all around championship composed of seven events.

The Pennsylvania athlete scored 6,070 points, excelling the record of 5,603 points set by Emerson Norton of Georgetown in 1925.

In winning the event Berlinger tied for first place in the pole vault with an effort of 13 feet ½ inch. He also tied for first in the high jump with a total of 6 feet 1¾ inches, and he won the shot put with a heave of 46 feet 2¾ inches. He was second in the dash and finished well up in other events, except the half mile, in which he was last. He is a sophomore at Pennsylvania and weighs 197 pounds. He is six feet one inch tall.

Martin Wins Handily.

Illinois opened the record breaking performances in the evening by running away with the two mile relay. The Orange and Blue won by nearly half a lap in the carnival record breaking time of 7 minutes 54 3-10 seconds, which eclipsed the former mark of 7 minutes 56 seconds made by Georgetown in 1925. Detroit and Ohio State finished third and fourth, respectively.

Orval Martin, conference indoor one mile champion, then came along and won the 1,500 meter run in 4 minutes 5 1-10 seconds, beating the conference record of 4 minutes 5 3-5 seconds made by Brown of Minnesota in 1924. Martin led all the way.

Chicago flashed to victory in the university medley. The Maroons not only one the event but surpassed the carnival record of 10 minutes 42 1-5 seconds made by Illinois last year. The Maroons were pressed all the way by Iowa State.

Abbott in Lead Role.

In fact, on the last relay, the mile, Putnam of Iowa State passed Letts of Chicago. The Maroon took the lead again on the next to last lap and won easily. Chicago covered the distance in 10 minutes 31 2-10 seconds.

Illinois won its second victory by taking the four mile relay by inches from Indiana. Coach Harry Gill's runners stepped the distance in 17 minutes 53 3-10 seconds, which shattered the relay record of 17:56 5-10 made by an Illinois team a year ago.

The Illini victory in this race was brought about by Dave Abbott. The anchor man for the local team started at least fifty yards behind Fields of Indiana. Abbott gradually cut down the lead, drawing up evenly at the half mile mark. Fields made a gallant effort to overtake Abbott in the sprint to the tape, but Abbott uncorked a lunge for the tape, hit it, and won the verdict by inches.

Huskers Win Novelty.

Nebraska established a new carnival record for the 220 yard high hurdles. Nebraska won the even in :41 5-10 seconds, a record. Ohio State was a close second. Other places went to Wisconsin and Illinois.

In the university section Chicago won the one mile and medley relays. Illinois took the two and four mile events, while Nebraska established a mark in the shuttles relay. De Pauw, Kansas State Teachers of Pittsburg, and Michigan State Normal took the honors in the college relays. The high school event went to Galesburg.

George Simpson of Ohio State took the measure of Jack Elder of Notre Dame in the 75 yard dash, and Root of Chicago led the way to the tape in the final of the 300 yard dash. Rockaway of Ohio State won the high hurdles and took second in the low barriers.

Several of the distance runners doubled in brass on the various relay teams.

Avery Brundage acted as referee. The use of starting block devised by Coach Nick Olson of Notre Dame speeded up the meet.

BIG LEAGUERS OF FLORIDA SECTOR PICK CUBS, YANKS

"Who Can Beat Them?" They Ask.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

West Palm Beach, Fla. March 16.—It's a far cry from this day to next October, but the big leaguers making up the so-called Grape Fruit league down here already are deeply engrossed in the job of handing out supposedly accurate information on the pennant campaigns.

Opinions vary, sometimes because of sincere belief and occasionally because of plain, unadulterated prejudice, but in the main it seems to be recognized that the world's champion Yankees and the Chicago Cubs are the two entries menacingly important. The answer to any and all expressions contrary is: "Well, who is going to beat them?" And for this there is no reply.

One of the most enthusiastic Yankee backers is the Yank outfit itself. This attitude starts with Manager Huggins and runs the gantlet to the bat boy. The Yanks admit they are stronger than ever. Huggins is confident. The only thing that will alter this viewpoint of the Yanks is to have Babe Ruth fall down with a boom, but the Babe is conducting himself as before, not only on the ball field but in social matters as well, so a change is not probable.

Howley Raises Dissenting Vote.

The one voice raised against the Yanks is that of Dan Howley, who must be regarded seriously because of the way in which he piloted the St. Louis Browns out of the wilderness last season.

In the words of the oratorical Dan, the Yanks are through. To him their decline in the last month of the American league race was an indication of old age creeping over the most valuable chattels of Col. Ruppert. Howley won't believe the stories coming over here by courier from the west coast of the state that the Yanks are better than ever. We fear Howley underestimates Huggins' replacements and reserves.

Aside from the Yanks, there is only one other concern in Howley's mind. That is his own Browns, who shocked the world by stepping out and finishing third last season. He feels certain his squad is 30 per cent stronger than a year ago, and he expects better pitching. He expects to have an improved infield, in which Edward Grimes, a Chicago sand lotter of three years ago, is to play an important part.

Connie Mack Silent.

The voice from which nothing is heard in connection with the American league is that of old fatherly Connie Mack, the leader of the Athletics. A year ago this time Mack, thinking back to 1914, when his team collapsed, made predictions, for he was sure he had the combination that could halt the Yank march. Mack had the combination all right, but didn't know how it should be used in the pinches.

That taught him predictions were unwise, and that, like chickens, they always come home to roost. Now Mack is saying nothing and in so doing is wise, because the A's seem less formidable than before.

Walter Johnson, the noble old moundsman who is going to defy the Washington rabble by trying to lead the Senators somewhere, has nothing to say. Old Barney never was much for conversation. The one thing he wants to impress on everybody is that he is not going to be a "sucker" for the men under him. Having a genial disposition, it has been hinted he might be too easy with his men. He says he learned something last year when he broke in as manager of a lot of broken down, gone over the hill, major leaguers at Newark, N. J. As a matter of fact, the Senators are not going to be soft.

Hope McCarthy Wins.

The most stern believers in the cause of McCarthy and his Cubs are Jack Hendricks of the Reds and Howley, the Browns' leader. They not only think, but also hope, McCarthy will win.

"Without bad luck, the Cubs could win even if Hornsby wasn't among those present," says Hendricks, who has his squad at Orlando, Fla. "They really didn't need Hornsby. They gave away a wonderful fielder [Maguire] to get him. If Hornsby fits into the picture everything will be all right."

Howley's opinion is that the only club the Cubs must beat is Pittsburgh, and he isn't wrong by much. He thinks the Pirates have speed and attacking power and need only to get their pitchers working as they should work. The question is whether the pitchers will work. They didn't last season, and that's what kept the Pirates from a flag.

None Regard Giants Highly.

The strange feature is that nobody in power as manager regards the Giants highly. Some of this may be due to the fact that McGraw is not training hereabouts, and will not do so until the unpleasantness over his real estate scheme at Sarasota blows over. But despite what other managers think, McGraw has a chance, if he can collect an infield and an outfield.

Quincy Herald-Whigs Win Independent Cage Title

Onarga, Ill., March 16.—(AP)—The Quincy Herald-Whigs defeated Alton, 38 to 31, tonight to win the Illinois independent basketball championship at the Onarga Military academy.

The Quincy five started off with a rush, piling up a six point lead before the Alton quintet counted. A rally cut down Quincy's lead to 19 to 17 at the half.

East High of Kansas City Wins Missouri Cage Title

Columbia, Mo., March 16.—(AP)—East High school of Kansas City is the Missouri interscholastic basketball champion. East defeated Southwest of Kansas City, 30 to 18, in the finals of the thirteenth annual cage tournament of the Missouri State High School Athletic association and the University of Missouri here tonight.

Ready for Six Day Merry-Go-Round

If you're a six day bike race addict you'll know these riders, for they are three of the best racers who will be seen tonight at the Coliseum. At the left is Franco Georgetti, Italian star. Baby Face Jimmy Walthour Jr. is above at the right, and Reggie McNamara, winner of thirteen six day grinds, is at the lower right.

6 DAY BIKE FANS' SLEEPLESS WEEK STARTS TONIGHT

15 Teams Begin Grind at the Coliseum.

Fifteen teams, composed of leading American and European riders, will whirl away from the mark tonight in Chicago's twenty-first international six day bicycle grind. There are 18 American riders competing and 12 foreigners, the foreign contingent being made up of four French riders, three Italians, two Germans and one rider each from Belgium, Holland, and Australia.

When the six day racers were here the last time, there was a bicycle race war, some of the riders competing in a race on the north side and the others at the Coliseum. Peace was declared, however, in the winter and now the outstanding "outlaws" are back in the fold and will be seen in this race. Among them are Mike Rodak, Chicago youngster, who was the winner of the race on the north side, and Bill Grimm. Dave Lands, Norman Hill, and Charley Winter.

The race will start at 9 o'clock tonight and wind up at 11 next Saturday night. There will be three series of sprints daily, one at 9:30 p. m., the second at 2 a. m., and the third at 3 p. m.

No Team Stands Out.

It is difficult to make any one team a favorite. Franco Georgetti and Gerard Debaets, the Italian-Belgian combination, who won the recent New York race, have been split up. Jimmy Walthour and Frans Deulberg, the German-American pair, who won the last Chicago race also have new partners. Georgetti, probably the greatest six day rider, will be paired with Deulberg.

Gerard Debaets, rugged Belgian, will ride with Tony Beckman, Jersey star. Debaets and Beckman won the race here a year ago and are two of the strongest riders in the game. They also scored a victory at Detroit.

Freddie Spencer, American champion and one of the fastest riders on an indoor track, is paired with Jimmy Walthour Jr., New York youngster. Spencer and Walthour are certain to be one of the most popular teams. Carl Stockholm, popular Chicago rider, is paired with Charley Winter of New York, who is a capable partner.

McNamara Seeks Fourteenth Victory.

Reggie McNamara, who has won 13 races, will ride with Harry Horan, Jersey youngster. McNamara and Horan won the Berlin race and are anxious to repeat. McNamara has won the New York race six times, the Chicago grind four times, and scored one victory each in Berlin, Germany, Paris, France, and Sydney, Australia.

Rodak will ride with Harris Horder, former bicycle champion of America. Horder and Rodak are the two smallest riders in the grind and two of the fastest. Eddie Markrer and Ernest (Hy) Kockler will make up a 100 per cent Chicago team. The Italian fans will have Gaetano Belloni and Alphonse Zucchetti to root for.

The following teams will start:

McNamara and Horan, American team.
Spencer and Walthour, American "kid" team.
Georgetti and Deulberg, German-American team.
Beckman and Debaets, Belgian-American team.
Stockholm and Winter, Chicago-New York team.
Belloni and Zucchetti, Italian team.
Letourner and Brocardo, French Red Devil team.
Horder and Rodak, Australian-Polish team.
Van Nek and Croley, Holland-American team.
Grimm and Lands, New Jersey team.
Petri and Hill, German-American team.
Cuevas and Blanchonet, French road team.
Kockler and Merkner, Chicago team.
Hanley and Keller, Frisco-Newark team.
Gaffney and Garrison, New York-Jersey team.

Races for professionals and amateurs last night comprised the warm-up for the grind. The results:

HALF MILE HANDICAP [AMATEUR]—Won by Orval Steele, Milwaukee, 25 yards; Otto Stender, Henry playground 45 yards, second; Joseph Wauters, Belgian American A. C., 45 yards, third; Roy Ekholm, fourth. Time, :56 1-5.

Princeton Polo Team Trounces Yale, 8 to 6

Princeton, N. J., March 16.—(AP)—Princeton's indoor polo team defeated Yale, 8 to 6, here today and won the series for the year, 2 games to one.

YANKS' BIG GUNS SPIKED; REDS WIN EXHIBITION BY 6-1

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—The Yankees took a 6 to 1 trimming from the Reds today. They were held to four hits by the combined pitching of Ray Kolp and Silas Kenneth Johnson, the latter a recruit from the Rock Island club of the Mississippi Valley league. The champions' only run came on Gehrig's triple, off Kolp, and Meusel's sacrifice fly.

The Reds collected twelve hits off George Pipgras and Rhodes, the former yielding nine of the blows and two-thirds of the runs. Critz fielded prettily and delighted the crowd of 3,000, including many Ohio visitors, with three hits. It was the Reds third victory in six exhibitions and, for the Yanks, their second defeat in five starts. Ruth failed to hit safely and struck out once.

New York [A]	010	000	000	1	4	0

Batteries—Kolp, Silas Johnson and Sukeforth; Pipgras, Rhodes, and Dickey.

BEARS DOWN MACKS, 8-7.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—The Newark Internationals, under the leadership of Tris Speaker, defeated the Philadelphia Americans today, 8 to 7, in ten innings. Speaker, Pipp and Martineck each hit a home run for Newark, and Summa hit one for the Athletics. Score:

Newark	100	200	220	1	8	14	3
Philadelphia	201	000	004	0	7	12	0

Batteries—Mamaux, Fischer, Goldsmith, and Shiff, Uzmann; Boley, Breckenridge, Grove, Jones, Orwoll, and Orkina, Cochrane.

BROWNS GRAB 4-3 GAME.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns opened their 1929 baseball season by defeating the Columbus club of the American association here today, 4 to 3. The Browns took an early lead, scoring two runs in each of the first two frames, and although Columbus scored several times, Stewart, southpaw hurler, who shared the St. Louis hurling burden, retired the enemy by pinches. Score:

Columbus	010	200	100	4	9	1
St. Louis	220	000	000	3	7	1

Batteries—Jablonowski, Harris, Johnson, Thinault, Dankrits; Stewart, Hasty, Kimsey, Worrel, Schang.

TRIBE SCALPS PELICANS.

New Orleans, March 16.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians went on the warpath today blanking the New Orleans Pelicans, 16 to 0, in the first exhibition game here this season.

Three Cleveland pitchers held the southern association club scoreless. Five New Orleans hurlers were unable to check the batting rampage of the Indians:

New Orleans	000	000	000	0	5	1
Cleveland	002	340	40x	9	11	1

Batteries—La Masters, McGraw, Sherid, Bealer, Treboux and Anderson; Shaute, Moore, Holloway, Farrell, La Bond, Karr, Hartley.

SENATORS NIP BRAVES.

Tampa, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—The Washington Senators chalked up a victory at the expense of Boston Nationals with a 7 to 6 score, coming from behind with steady hitting during the last three innings. Score:

Washington [A]	000	121	111	7	12	1
Boston [N]	000	120	120	6	12	1

GIANTS MAUL STEERS, 14-1.

Houston, Tex., March 16.—(AP)—The New York Giants mauled the Houston club of the Texas league in an exhibition game today, winning, 14 to 1. A landslide of runs in the last few frames gave the Giants their total.

The New Yorkers collected twelve hits. Wildness on the part of the Houston pitchers gave them several more runs. Carl Hubbell and Joe Genewich did the hurling for the Giants, allowing eight hits.

Houston [T. L.]	000	000	100	1	8	1

Batteries—Hubbell, Genewich and O'Farrell, Witty, Schalk; Rogers, Fagan, Bell, Breeden and Fink, Abbott, Hoffman.

batted for Blake, and walked, filling the bases. Walsh replaced Plitt. Beck hit into a double play, Jones to Parker to Tolson. The score: Angeles, 8; Cubs, 3.

The Cubs came back for three more in the next inning, the fifth. McMillan opened with a single to left. Cuyler struck out. Hornsby was thrown out by Parker. McMillan reaching third and scoring when Parker booted Wilson's grounder. Stephenson doubled and Wilson stopped at third. Hack scored when Grimm singled to center. Gonzales was hit by a pitched ball, and Malone fouled to the catcher. The score: Angeles, 8; Cubs, 6.

Kiki Doubles, Beck Scores.

Our boys moved up within one of a tie in the sixth inning. Beck got a walk, and when McMillan struck out, stole second and proceeded to third when Parker let the throw go into center field. He scored on Cuyler's double to center. Hornsby flied to Berger and Wilson popped to Butler.

Not that it makes much difference in reflection on the outcome, but you may be interested in knowing how the Cubs took the lead in the eighth. With one out, Beck doubled to left and McMillan walked. Cuyler knocked a home run good for three markers. Hornsby singled. Wilson popped to Parker and Hornsby was out stealing. Shame to let a rally like that go in the ash can.

COOKS DEFEAT HENRYS, 51 TO 35, FOR A. A. U. TITLE

Kansas City, Mo., March 16.—(AP)—The driving, fighting Cook quintet of Kansas City retained its national amateur basketball crown with a brilliant 51-35 victory over the Wichita, Kas., Henrys here tonight.

Mrs. Mida Turns Back Mrs. Jones in Golf Final

Tampa, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Lee Mida of Chicago became queen of Florida women golfers today by defeating Mrs. Melvin Jones, defending champion and fellow townsman, in the final of the ladies' state tournament.

FRANKFORT WINS INDIANA'S PREP CAGE TOURNEY

Beats Tech (Indianapolis) by 29-23 in Final.

BY HARLAND ROHM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., March 16.—Frankfort High school won the basketball championship of Indiana, than which there is no higher honor within reach of high school lads of the Hoosier state, by defeating Technical High school of Indianapolis, 29 to 23, in butler university fieldhouse. The game was the climax of the tournament, which began two weeks ago with 754 teams entered.

It was a fitting climax, for the game was one of those thrillers for which Indiana basketball is famous. At no time was there a moment when a couple of baskets wouldn't have changed the complexion entirely and when these kids of the Hoosier basketball shoot at a basket they usually hit.

Crowd Goes Wild.

It wasn't the most spectacular basketball, but it was keen and smart. Both teams played a delayed offense, but even when the entire five men were standing still, the game was tense. For in a wink that lethargy was metamorphosed into a lightning break down the floor.

Meanwhile that same capacity crowd of 15,000, untired by watching fifteen basketball games in 36 hours, reached a crescendo of shrieking like a thousand fire sirens competing with a thousand locomotives. The shrieks and yells, accompanied by swinging of hats and shaking of fists, echoed and reverberated from the high-domed roof in an uproar that was fairly deafening.

Hadley Scores First.

Frankfort scored first, a foul point by Hadley and a long side shot by Charles Lawhead. That was for a moment, and then the lads chanting, "Fight, fight, fight," had a chance to send up their yells of triumph. Parrish caged a basket on a side shot and Davis lifted another from far out that hit the near rim, bounced six feet in the air, and dropped back through the hoop.

Emmett Lowery, Tech's flashy floor guard, junior city tennis champion of Indianapolis and later awarded the Gimble medal for showing "the best mental attitude" in the tournament, caged a shot from the foul line and Tech led, 7 to 3, while Tech's supporters dinned their joy. But that powerful Frankfort team was inexorable.

Nathan Hadley, who jumps center and then plays back guard, dribbled through in a drive under the basket and scored. Parrish got a foul point on W. Unroe's mistake, but a moment later Unroe dropped a shot from the side line. Eight minutes had passed and the score was tied at 7 all.

In the last seven minutes of that half, however, Frankfort ran away from Tech. Shaver slipped down under the basket and snagged a sleeper shot on a pass from Lawhead. Hap Unroe added a foul point and W. Unroe sank a basket from the foul line on a block play. Frankfort began to stall under their own basket and the Tech crowd turned loose a storm of boos.

The Red Shirts tried a few drives and lost the ball twice on bad passes. The half ended with Frankfort leading, 14 to 7. The second half was a different story, for Tech began a drive that put them in a tie before it faded. Reisner followed in Bert Davis' long shot for a basket, Miller made a free throw and Davis two, on fouls by Shaver and R. Unroe. Tech was only two points behind, but Lawhead and Shaver scored a point each on Davis' two fouls.

Ball in Scramble.

For several seconds the ball was the center of a scramble, each team losing and retrieving it thrice until Lowery lobbed up and whipped in a fast shot from the foul line. Thompson, a red headed forward, who had replaced Lawhead, hit with a long angle shot and Ray Miller counted a point on the same chap's foul. That was five minutes gone, with Frankfort leading, 18 to 15.

They immediately increased the lead, Shaver scoring from under the basket on Thompson's pass and Lawhead adding a point on Hill's foul, then intercepted a pass and dribbled around the guards to add a basket. Miller took the ball on Hill's tip in a jump ball near Tech's basket and caged the shot and Lowery, fouled by Willis Unroe, sank the shot for the tying point.

Frankfort Shows Stuff.

Six minutes were left to play and the score was tied. Then Frankfort showed the stuff that proved them worthy champions of the Hoosier state. Shaver gave them a point lead on Miller's foul and they stalled, passing easily but carefully. With three minutes to go Hadley dribbled through in a smashing drive underneath the basket and counted the two points.

Two minutes to go and Lowery rimmed the basket with a long shot. W. Unroe dribbled through again in one of those flashing Frankfort breaks to cage another shot that gave them a five point lead. Half a minute later Capt. Ben Parrish took the ball on a pass from out of bounds and added a basket. A minute and a half to play and Tech was three points behind. W. Unroe missed a foul shot, but Hadley got a point when the fourth foul was called on Hill and he left the game with his face in his hands, heartbroken at being forced out.

Nets Are Souvenirs.

The light switched over to the one minute mark. Reisner missed a foul shot and Miller hit the rim with a long one. And then R. Unroe finished the game by taking Lawhead's pass under the basket and pitching one up through the hoop just as the gun sounded. As a final touch came the charge of high school boys from the stands to leap on each others' shoulders and tear down the nets from the baskets, souvenirs that will be treasured in Indiana as souvenirs of the state championship of 1929 when Frankfort won the title. Michigan Wins Big Ten Swim Championship

Michigan's swimming team ran away with the western conference championship last night in the Bartlett gym tank.

The Wolverines scored in all nine events, amassing 44 points. Northwestern scored in all but two events and totaled 34 points. Illinois finished third with 15.

One national intercollegiate and three western conference marks were shattered and one conference record tied.

Hinch Breaks Record.

Dick Hinch of Northwestern broke both the national intercollegiate and western conference marks in the 150 yard back stroke, paddling the distance in 1:40.4. Hinch already held the national record and Hubbell of Michigan, who finished third, was the holder of the conference mark.

Don Peterson of Northwestern broke the conference record in the 200 yard breast stroke by over a second when he went the route in 2:37.4. The old mark of 2:38 4-5 was set by John Foricy of Minnesota in 1922. Peterson won by a hand from Meyer, the Wisconsin sophomore.

Purple Wins Medley Relay.

The Purple 300 yard medley relay team composed of Hinch, Peterson, and Covdoe, set another new conference mark. The Northwestern trio swam the route in 3:10.6, breaking Michigan's record of 3:12.

Walker of Michigan tied the conference mark of :18 4-10 in the 40 yard swim. O'Keer of Chicago was a hand's length behind.

Capt. Heinie Groh of Illinois upset Capt. Wally Colbath of Northwestern in the fancy diving, winning by three-tenths of a point.

Al Schwartz of Northwestern won individual honors with first in the 100 yard and 220 yard free style swim. Schwartz messed up his preliminary heat in the 40 yard and failed to qualify. Summaries:

160 YARD RELAY — Won by Michigan [Seager, Walaitis, Ault, and Walker]; Wisconsin, second; Illinois, third; Northwestern, fourth. Time, 1:15 4-10.

200 YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Peterson, Northwestern; Meyer, Wisconsin, second; Schroeder, Illinois, third; Goldsmith, Michigan, fourth; time, 2:37 4-10. [Breaks conference record of 2:38 8-10, made by Farley, Minnesota, 1922.]

40 YARD SWIM—Won by Walker, Michigan; Oker, Chicago, second; Seager, Michigan third; Nickerson, Purdue, fourth. Time, :18 4-10. [Ties conference record made by Breyer, Northwestern, 1925.]

440 YARD SWIM—Won by Ault, Michigan; Watson, Michigan, second; Kleding, Illinois, third; Liddle, Iowa, fourth. Time, 5:15 4-10.

150 YARD BACK STROKE — Won by Hinch, Northwestern; Marsh, Minnesota, second; Hubbell, Michigan, third; Spindle, Michigan, fourth. Time, 1:40 4-10. [Breaks national collegiate record of 1:42 made by Hinch, 1928, and conference record of 1:42 4-10 made by Hubbell, Michigan, 1928.]

100 YARD SWIM—Won by Schwartz, Northwestern; Walker, Michigan, second; Seager, Michigan, third; Crocker, Minnesota, fourth. Time, :54 6-10.

FANCY DIVING—Won by Broh, Illinois, [102 points]; Colbath, Northwestern, second [101.7]; Walaitis, Michigan, third [90.5]; O'Keefe, Northwestern, fourth [82.2].

Chicago Pennsy Girls Win Regional Court Honors

Indianapolis, Ind., March 16.—[Special.]—The Chicago General Office Girl's basketball team won the championship of the Pennsylvania railroad's western region here today by defeating the Indianapolis division five in one of the features of the annual spring athletic carnival. The score was 29 to 18. Margaret Fitzgerald and Amelia Reuter were stars for the Chicago team. Chicago General Office bowlers won two of the ten pin events of the big Pennsylvania meet. Stuhl and Heatherton won the doubles and Pausch the singles.

Notre Dame Guard, Four Big 10 Men on All-Western

BY FRED YOUNG.
[Leading Official of the Big Ten.]

Not all the good basketball in the west is played in the Big Ten, but for keen competition and well balanced fives there is no other conference that touches it. For this reason the Western conference merits the larger percentage of positions on the all-western basketball team.

VIRGIL GIST.

Four of the men who made the all-conference team are picked for all-western honors, while the fifth position is awarded to Edward D. Smith, Notre Dame's marvelous guard, who was a first team choice a year ago. Smith played an even stronger game this year than in 1928, and is all that any coach could ask. He would make an ideal teammate for the flashy Chmielewski, although only a shade superior to Mills of Illinois, Kurz of Washington, Fesler of Ohio State, McCoy of Michigan, and Marshall of Northwestern, that brilliant dribbler who at times was the superior of any man in the nation in his position.

Smaller Colleges Strong.

It is a battle between the two Murphys of Purdue and Loyola for the center post, with the Boilermaker meriting the position on his outstanding scoring record. The Loyola Murphy is almost as strong. This relegates Virgil Gist, Chicago's superb all around player, to the center berth on third team. Gist played beautiful basketball, considering the little help he had.

Men selected on the second and third teams are almost as strong as those on the first, and even the honorable mention column carries many names that would look good on any team in the country. The smaller colleges are stronger in basketball than in any other sport, and the Missouri Valley and Big Six loops both number many outstanding tossers this year.

Meyer, Colerick, Get Mention.

Wilcox of Iowa, Tenhopen of Wisconsin, McCracken of Indiana, Meyer of Washington, and Colerick of Notre Dame were other great jumpers.

Ham Strong, St. Louis' doughty captain, and Oldfield, his teammate, were as fine a pair of forwards as we saw all year in action. Chandler of Butler, Meehan of Illinois Wesleyan, Hall of Lombard, and Crowe of Notre Dame were other great forwards produced in 1929. Crowe was ill, and his work suffered a bit over a year ago, but his play at times compared favorably with that of any man in the country. White, Butler's great pinch hitter, is also a star of the first water.

BEST OF WEST

FIRST TEAM.
Foster, Wisconsin, F.

HYDE PARK WINS 2 TRACK TITLES IN CITY MEET

Hyde Park and Senn won all honors in the annual city public high school indoor track meet at Bartlett gym yesterday. They finished first and second in both divisions.

The south siders retained their senior title and ran second to Senn, which also repeated for the junior crown.

Four records were shattered during the day's activity. They came in the senior triple jump, junior high jump, shotput and 50 yard low hurdles.

"Swede" Seaburg of Senn established the shotput and low hurdle records in the junior ranks. He was chiefly instrumental in bringing the title to Senn by tallying fifteen of the team's twenty-five points. Egleston of Hyde Park was high scorer in the senior division with ten points.

Indiana's Cage Bill Each Year Totals $9,200,000

Indianapolis, Ind., March 16.—[Special.]—Basketball, which claimed the almost undivided attention of all parts of Indiana today as the annual high school tournament finals play was in progress here, costs the state at least $9,200,000, it was estimated by Hoosier statisticians.

There are 754 high school teams alone, not including the second teams, girls' teams, college and university teams, fraternal league teams, and pro and semi-pro combinations.

There is an average of 377 high school games each week from December to March. The minimum attendance averages more than 1,000 persons, and each team plays 20 games a year. At 30 cents a person per game the gate is at least $2,263,000. The 64 high school sectional meets average $1,500 each, the 16 regionals $2,000 each, and the state tourney $40,000.

The 700 high school gymnasiums have a minimum value of $1,500 each, it is estimated.

FALCARO'S 1,876 TOPS ALL-EVENTS AT A. B. C. MEET

Cincinnati Pair Lands Lead in Doubles.

Sheriff Joe's quintet from Toledo made a raid on the pins at the A. B. C. tourney last night. They knocked over 2,893 of the wood targets and went into fourth place. They rolled games of 862, 1,040 and 991.

A. Wehmeyer and F. Schreiber of Cincinnati led the assault in the doubles and with scores of 395, 452, and 399 for a total of 1,246 took the lead.

Schreiber alone counted 212 and finished with a mark of 185. Wehmeyer started with 183 and then rolled 240 and 214.

C. Garison and Charley Cushing of Peoria went into third place with a count of 1,230. J. Teli and J. Cushman of Cleveland got 1,221, which was good for fifth money.

Joe Falcaro, dimunitive bowler from New York, who looks scarcely large enough to send a ball down the shellac trail, blasted his way into the lead in the all events competition with a score of 1,876. Falcaro bagged 531 in his doubles event, 644 in the singles and 701 in the five man event. His feat in the latter competition was largely responsible for the showing of his team, the Cordes Mets, which landed in first place in the five man event last night.

His teammate, C. Stubing, landed in second place in the all events with 1,874 pins, shoving P. Green, Chicago, and Jeff Davis, Chicago, the former leaders, into a tie for third and fourth places with 1,871 pins each.

The leaders follow:

K. C. BASKETBALL LEAGUE STARTS CITY TITLE MEET

Four Games Today; First Begins at 2 P. M.

List of Champions

1917—Aquinas.
1918-'19—No games.
1920—De Soto.
1921—Hennepin.
1922—De Soto.
1923—Auburn Park.
1924—Marquette.
1925—Columbus, Setters, De Soto, Calumet, Auburn Park, tied.
1926—Marquette.
1927—Marquette.
1928—Damen.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

2 p. m.—Lafayette vs. Madonna.
3 p. m.—Calumet vs. De Soto.
4 p. m.—Hennepin vs. Carroll.
5 p. m.—Aquinas vs. Perez.

The eleventh annual championship series of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league will get under way this afternoon at the 132d Regiment armory, 2615 West Madison street. Four games are scheduled in the initial half of the first round.

Fifteen teams, survivors of the forty-five who took part in the four month preliminary schedule, have qualified for the championship round, which is to be decided on an elimination basis. The other qualifiers will play Thursday night in three games, with Marquette drawing a bye to complete the two brackets of eight survivors for the second round.

Today's contests involve four previous league champions—Calumet, De Soto, Hennepin, and Aquinas. Calumet and De Soto are booked to meet in the second game of the afternoon, and should provide one of the day's features.

Hennepin, one of last year's semi-finalists, clashes with Carroll of the west division, the draw having brought about two games involving teams from the same sections. The other contest is the concluding one on the program and will bring together Perez, south division champion, and Aquinas, third place team from the section.

The first game, at 2 p. m., will be between Lafayette, winner of the southwest division championship, and Madonna, representing the central division.

Crowds Gather at Dexter Park Pavilion as Better A. B. C. Squads Go Into Action

During the last week, competition in the American Bowling congress, now in progress at Dexter Park pavilion, has improved considerably. Such teams as the Dwyers and Cordes Mets of New York, the Risdon Creamery of Detroit, and the Bowler Journals of Chicago were responsible. Elimination of the booster teams also had its effect.

The crowds increased with better bowling in prospect. They were not disappointed. The 2,882 total of the Bowlers Journal early in the week, which at that time was quite a goal to shoot at, was thrice surpassed in subsequent competition. Several teams shot over the 1,000 mark for a single game and the Cordes Mets of New York reached that total twice, the only time during the tourney it has been done.

Famous stars of the bowling world also attracted the fans. Mort Lindsey of the New York Dwyers was in form. His play was one of the features in Friday night's competition. Joe Scribner and Joseph Falcaro also were in the limelight that night. Scribner and his Risdon Creamers of Detroit, however, were passed up by the parade of quintets toward the prize money. Falcaro, the most colorful individual of the tourney, came on to lead his five to the top of the heap with a 2,932 total that is expected to stand till the crack Chicago teams take the drives.

The crowds know the game. They pick out the alleys where the high games are being rolled. Here they stay until an individual on some distant drive strides a short way along the road to fame by rolling six or seven consecutive strikes before cracking under the strain.

As the players enthuse—so enthuses the crowd. During the afternoons, the fans sit in silence. The doubles and singles are run off at that time. Each, more or less, plays for himself.

At night it's the opposite. The alleys are full. Team morale and spirit enthuses the members. An incessant chatter is carried along the players' benches. Consolations are spoken when a poor ball leaves pins standing. Congratulations are extended, with handshaking and back slapping when a strike is rolled. The crowd catches the spirit, cheering and applauding at the least hint of the spectacular.

From the press box at one end of the row of 32 alleys the tawny colored expanse looks much like a dance floor. The gleaming black balls boom down the alleys to come back along the troughs at half speed.

Overhead American flags are bowed and draped from the steel rafters, almost concealing the roof of the building. Great semispheres of cluster light bulbs glow down on the drive. Directly behind the players' benches are the official scorekeepers, one for each alley. They sit on elevated seats. Behind them are the stands which can seat 2,000. Ushers in dress suits strut importantly, keeping the aisles cleared.

The pin boys, when not busy, congregate at the far end of the alleys. Here at intermission they toss the ivory cubes, whiling away the time. But when the meet is in progress the row of boys, one in each pit, bobs up and down like so many miniature ditch diggers. Directly above the boys is a row of blackboards. A scorer is stationed at each of these boards. He keeps the game score as well as the individual scores of team members.

Says Meat Diets Caused Failure of U. S. Track Stars

Ames, Ia. March 16.—(AP)—Meat diets are detrimental to athletes and caused, more than anything else, the failure of the United States to score in the distance events of the 1928 Olympic games, says Ray Conger, former Iowa State runner. The conclusions are a portion of a thesis on diets for athletes finished by Conger this week.

Conger will receive a master of science degree at Iowa State college next Wednesday.

Conger carried on extensive experiments with rats on the effects of a high protein diet. The rats eating much meat lost energy and were shorter lived. "It is usually thought," he said, "that carbo-hydrates are a better source of fattening material but the weights of the rats in this experiment prove a high protein diet is fattening."

CANADIENS CLOSE HOCKEY SEASON BY WINNING, 4-1

MONTREAL, Que., March 16.—(AP)—Led by Howie Morenz, Les Canadiens of Montreal wound up their regular National Hockey league season by romping through the New York Americans, 4 to 1.

Morenz scored three of the Canadiens' four counters, getting two unassisted and the third on a pass from Sylvio Mantha.

Billy Burch scored the first goal of the game for the Americans, but that was the only time the New Yorkers had the edge. The Frenchmen outskated and outshot their rivals through the rest of the contest.

Norton Beats Richards for Southern Pro Net Crown

Palm Beach, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—B. I. C. Norton, former South African amateur tennis star, won the second annual southern professional tournament here today by defeating Vincent Richards, titleholder and former amateur doubles champion. The scores were 8-6, 7-5, 6-1.

AMATEURS BEGIN CUE COMPETITION FOR U. S. CROWN

Milwaukee, Wis., March 16.—(AP)—The cream of the nation's amateur ivory clickers is here tonight chalking cues in preparation for the national amateur balkline 18.2 billiard championship tournament starting at the Milwaukee Athletic club Monday afternoon.

Six entrants will attempt to wrest the title from Percy Collins of the Illinois Athletic club of Chicago, the defending champion. Five of them won their way through sectional championships. Alec Elmsil of the Milwaukee Athletic club, who lost to Collins in the final at Minneapolis last year, did not have to fight his way through the eliminations because he represents the host club.

Besides Collins and Elmsil, other contestants are Ray Fessenden, Madison, Wis., Wisconsin state champion; Arie Schaap, Missouri titleholder, who tied for the western district championship; M. C. Walgren of the Everett, Wash., Elks' club, Pacific coast champion; M. P. McClure, Pittsburgh, and Harry Postal, who is taking the place of Herbert Hammer, Crescent Athletic club, Brooklyn, who withdrew.

SCOTS BEAT BRITONS.

EDINBURGH, March 16.—(AP)—Scotland defeated England in an international rugby match here today, 12 to 6. The victory gave Scotland the championship of the Great Britain-Ireland-France series.

FIVE WRESTLERS RETAIN CROWNS IN LEHIGH MEET

Bethlehem, Pa., March 16.—(AP)—Five repeaters were among the seven individual champions crowned today in the finals of the twenty-fifth annual tournament of the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling association at Lehigh university.

Hyman Josefson of Cornell, Ed Wilson of Penn State, and William Graham of Princeton, 1928 champions in the 115 pound, 125 pound and 158 pound classes, respectively, retained their titles.

Burwell Dodd of Yale, 145 pound champion last year, won the crown in the 135 pound division and Glenn Stafford of Cornell, 1928 heavyweight winner, replaced Arthur Lehr of Lehigh, as 175 pound champion. Stafford defeated Lehr in the final.

New champions crowned were Sargent of Yale in the 145 pound section, and Miller, Lehigh's heavyweight.

King Tut to Fight Tommy Grogan at Detroit April 5

Detroit, Mich., March 16.—[U. P.]—Tommy Grogan, Irish lightweight of Omaha, Neb., will make his fourth appearance in a Detroit ring April 5, when he meets King Tut of Wonewoc, Wis. in a 10 round bout. The contest will mark Tut's debut in a local ring.

JOHNNY LAYTON AGAIN LOSES TO HALL, 600 TO 523

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Allen Hall, St. Louis three cushion billiard star, scored his second successive victory over the world's champion, Johnny Layton, by winning the match which ended tonight, 600 to 523. Last week Hall defeated Layton, 600 to 521.

After trailing at the half way point, 283 to 300, Hall won all of the last six blocks. He took the afternoon block today, 50 to 42, in 39 innings. His high run was 6, Layton's 5.

Tonight Hall completed the match by winning the last block, 50 to 23, in 34 innings. He had a run of 9 while the champion's best was 5.

Taylor Trunks Forfeit Game to Beloit Girls

Beloit, Wis., March 16.—[Special.]—The game between the Beloit Fairy girls and the Champion Taylor Trunks of Chicago was brought to an abrupt close when the referee awarded the game to the Fairies on forfeit when the Trunks refused to take the floor. The Fairies were leading at the half, 5 to 4. Just as the gong sounded ending the half Miss Curtin of the Chicago team scored a basket. The referee ruled that the score did not count. The Trunks, already angered at previous decisions, refused to continue.

GARDNER

THIS IS 8 THE DAY OF THE IN-LINE

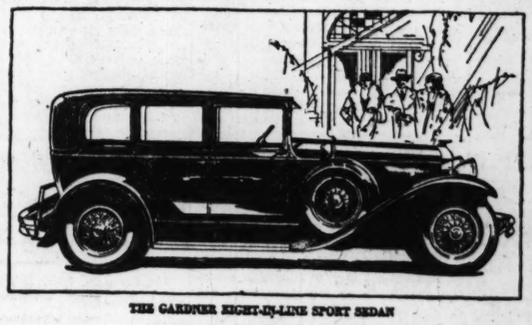
pioneered by Gardner

Today's high standard of motor car performance has been made possible by the development of the Eight-in-line motor—pioneered by Gardner.

Seven years ago, when popular demand was swinging from the four to the six, Gardner foresaw the greater possibilities of the straight-eight principle, and for five years has built Eight-in-line cars exclusively. Nothing else.

The number of manufacturers who have recently changed to eight-cylinder cars shows how far ahead Gardner has been. Three well-known European cars—Mercedes-Benz, Renault and De Dion Bouton—did not announce Eight-in-line motors until last fall at the Paris Salon.

Concentrating on the Eight-in-line has enabled Gardner to lift the price barrier for thousands who have wanted a quality eight of highest performance, at moderate cost . . . It is an investment which pays a high return in terms of long service, mechanical ruggedness, low upkeep, and high resale value.



THE GARDNER EIGHT-IN-LINE SPORT SEDAN

Individuality of style is a gratifying feature of the new Gardner Eight-in-line. Here is a distinctive interpretation of the Modern mode, fashioned around a swift, responsive, powerful motor. Once you have driven the new Gardner Eight-in-line nothing else will satisfy you. Nothing else should!

THOMPSON AND FIELDS REACH STRETCH DRIVE

Prehn May Rule Winner World's Champ.

Jackie Fields and Jack Thompson, outstanding contenders for the world's 147 pound title held by Joe Dundee, will start on the final lap of preparation this afternoon at local gymnasiums. Fields is working at the Barry gym and Thompson at the Arcade. The fight will be held at the Coliseum March 25.

Paul Prehn, president of the National Boxing association and chairman of the Illinois boxing commission, has served notice on Joe Dundee that if he does not defend his title before March 21, the winner of the Fields-Thompson fight will become champion. Dundee is not even matched with any opponent, and if the N. B. A. lives up to this ruling, Dundee automatically will forfeit all claims to the title.

Thompson stopped Dundee in two rounds at the White Sox baseball park last summer. Later Fields gave Thompson a beating when they met on the coast. Each has defeated the best fighters in the division, and they appear to be the outstanding contenders for the title.

HOPES TO REPEAT

Jackie Fields whipped Jack Thompson in their last fight. They meet again March 25 at the Coliseum.

Illinois Wins Two Events in Mat Tourney

Lafayette, Ind., March 16. — [Special.]—Two spectacular falls, one by Hammer of Wisconsin and the other by Hooker, Purdue, featured the final matches of the Big Ten wrestling championships here this afternoon.

Walsmith, Boilermaker 155 grappler had a slight time advantage over Hammer when the Badger pinned him. Hammer narrowly escaped a fall himself several times. Hooker of Purdue threw Scott of Indiana for the 165 pound crown in four minutes and 43 seconds. Both wrestlers were very aggressive throughout the match giving the fans the best action seen during the entire meet.

Michigan and Illinois each won two titles. Saparo and Minot, winning in the 115 and 135 for the Illini and George and Daugovito grabbing the heavyweight and 175 pound championships for the Wolverines. Purdue, Iowa, Wisconsin and Northwestern wrestlers took one title each.

Ralph Lupton, Northwestern star, who has not been defeated in three years of conference competition, finished his big ten career in brilliant fashion by easily defeating Connor of Indiana, for the 125 pound crown. Montgomery, Iowa's only entry in the meet, defeated Hall of Ohio, in rather easy fashion in the 145 pound clash. Summaries:

115 POUND CLASS—Saparo [Illinois] beat Lefavour [Northwestern]. Time advantage 4:54.

125 POUND CLASS—Lupton [Northwestern] beat Connor [Indiana]. Time advantage 4:21.

135 POUND CLASS—Minot [Illinois] beat Jessup [Indiana]. Time advantage 7:25.

145 POUND CLASS—Montgomery [Iowa] beat Hall [Ohio]. Time advantage 6:46.

155 POUND CLASS—Hammer [Wisconsin] threw Walsmith [Purdue]. Time 7:14.

160 POUND CLASS—Hooker [Purdue] threw Scott [Indiana]. Time 4:43.

175 POUND CLASS—Dougivito [Michigan] beat Heywood [Wisconsin]. Time advantage 7:08.

HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS—George [Michigan] beat Swenson [Wisconsin]. Time advantage 6:07.

Michigan and Cornell Renew Track Rivalry

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 16.—[Special.]—Renewing a track rivalry which dates back to 1902, Michigan and Cornell will participate in their 19th dual meet at Yost field house next Saturday. Coach Steve Farrell's Wolverines have won 13 of the previous encounters, but are conceded only a slim chance to defeat the Ithacans again this season.

STEVE FARRELL.

In beating Yale last week Cornell displayed remarkable strength in the shot putt and distance runs, scoring slams in these events. Coach Jack Moakley's squad will find more stubborn opposition in the distance events against Michigan, but the Wolverines are likely to be shut out in the shot putt and in the pole vault. To offset this the Maize and Blue will have an edge in the sprints, hurdles, and in the relay.

Tolan, Grodsky and Murray are expected to outclass the Cornell sprinters, Meinig, Sherwood and Heekin. Tolan will aim at the dual meet and world record for the 60 yard dash, :06 1-5, set by Hubbard of Michigan and tied by many others. In the hurdles Michigan's strength depends upon whether Kinney's leg injury is healed.

FORESTER FIVES CLASH IN TITLE ROUND TODAY

Eight basketball teams, survivors of a fifteen weeks' campaign, get under way this afternoon in the first round of the Catholic Order of Foresters league championship finals at the Knights of Columbus club house, 4711 West Madison street. The first game starts at 2 o'clock.

The eight quintets represent the league's three divisions, south, west, and north, and won the right to enter the finals only after the hardest fight in the circuit's history. The ultimate qualifiers were not determined in any of the sections until the last round of the preliminary schedule.

Hofbauer, the defending champion, will find the going rough this year. If any edge is conceded in the relative strength of the titleholder's opponents, it will go to Western Reserve, St. Monica, Lawndale, and Carmelite.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE
Carmelite vs. De Soto.
Western Reserve vs. St. Monica.
St. Gabriel vs. Lawndale.
Hofbauer vs. Englewood.

RUSSELL LEADS ROCHESTER PROS AGAINST BRUINS

Honey Russell, former leader of the Chicago Bruins, will make his first appearance in hostile cage toggery tonight at White City when he brings the Rochester Centrals here to battle the local pros.

During his two year reign here as captain and coach of the Bruins, Russell made scores of friends here and they plan to turn out tonight and honor him in a fitting manner. The occasion will be known as "Honey Russell night."

Tonight will mark the next to the last appearance of the Chicago team here this season. They close the campaign next Wednesday against Brooklyn.

Two preliminary games will precede the main match. In the opener the Chicago Hawks will meet the Chicago Heights five. The Taylor Trunks girls will tackle the Hammond girls in the second match.

NAVY TURNS BACK PENN BOXERS IN FINAL OF SEASON

Annapolis, Md., March 16.—[Special.]—Defeating the University of Pennsylvania here this afternoon by winning five bouts and drawing in another, the United States naval academy boxers completed their tenth consecutive season in which they have come through unbeaten in a dual match.

The naval boxers, handled by Spike Webb, coach of the last three Olympic teams of the United States, have engaged in forty-eight matches. They have won forty-five, the other three being draws. During the present season, the best score made against the navy glovemen has been two victories in seven bouts.

EVANSTON HIGH WINS SUBURBAN SWIM CROWN

Evanston High won the Suburban league swimming championship yesterday in the annual meet held in the Oak Park pool. The Evanston team scored 32 points. Oak Park took second with 24, while New Trier finished third with 18. Deerfield swimmers scored 11 points, and Morton 10.

One league record was broken when Troup of Evanston lowered his own mark in the 50 yard free style event by three-fifths of a second. The Evanston team won both relay races. Summaries:

50 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Troup, Evanston; Harrell, New Trier, second; Roos, New Trier, third. Time, :26.

100 YARD BACKSTROKE—Won by Anderson, Deerfield; Bowman, Evanston, second; Stewart, Oak Park, third. Time, 1:11 4-10.

100 YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Lennox, Oak Park; Taylor, Evanston, second; Williams, Oak Park, third. Time, 1:17 4-10.

100 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Holmes, Evanston; Golder, Oak Park, second; Anderson, Deerfield, third. Time, :58 8-10.

FANCY DIVING LOWBOARD—Won by Harrell, New Trier; Knox, Deerfield, second; Bokac, Morton, third. Points, 89 4-10.

200 YARD FREE STYLE RELAY—Won by Evanston; Morton, second; Oak Park, third. Time, 1:50 8-10.

250 YARD MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Evanston; Oak Park, second; New Trier, third. Time, 2:36 8-10.

GARDEN MANAGER HITS SCALPERS; SUPPLY SHUT OFF

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Acting on information that tickets for the ten round bout between Jimmy McLarnin and Ray Miller next Thursday night were being used as window decorations in the Broadway ticket agencies fifteen minutes after they went on sale at the Garden box office the other day, Col. John Hammond, general manager of the Garden, yesterday moved to checkmate the species at their main source of supply.

He immediately withdrew all pasteboards from the box office and announced that all further advance orders will be filled by mail, no more than two to a customer.

The sidewalk hawkers have been the colonel's pet annoyance ever since he stepped into the late Tex Rickard's roomy brogans. Police surveillance of box office lines failed to curb the evil and the speculators cornered the choice seats for last night's fight between Bud Taylor and Al Singer.

OTTAWA ENDS HOCKEY SEASON WITH VICTORY

OTTAWA, Ont., March 16.—(AP)—The Ottawa Senators outskated Toronto's Maple Leafs in a National Hockey league game here tonight and earned a 2 to 0 victory.

Ottawa's victory enabled the Senators to end the season in fourth place in the Canadian section, the Montreal Maroons dropping into the cellar. Toronto already had cinched third place and a chance in the playoffs.

BRUINS DEFEAT PITTSBURGH.

Boston, Mass., March 16.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins, champions of the American division of the National Hockey league, closed their regular season here tonight, defeating Pittsburgh, 3 to 1, in a slow contest.

SPEED WORK ON HARMON STADIUM AS FIGHT NEARS

While Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker, Tuffy Griffith and Leo Lomski are letting down in their training a bit today, scores of workmen will be going at high speed to get the Chicago stadium ready for the Loughran-Walker and Griffith-Lomski fights, March 28.

The bricklayers and stone masons will finish topping the walls this afternoon. The roofers will be through by Wednesday. More than three-fourths of the permanent seats already have been fixed in place. The concrete floor of the arena is set and tomorrow morning the steel will arrive for the portable seats which will be banked around the ring.

The canopy of the boxing ring was swung yesterday. It will contain from 40,000 to 60,000 watts of light and will have exhaust fans which will crary away the heat so that the fighters will not be affected.

The Sunday holiday will give the staff of ticket men a chance to get caught up in their work. Including the state and federal taxes, the advance sale is now well over the $100,000 mark. The combination of a great boxing card and the opening of the world's largest indoor sports arena is bringing thousands of fight fans from all over the United States to Chicago.

Tuffy Griffiths and Manager Jack O'Keefe arrived home from Hot Springs, Ark., yesterday and Tuffy will get down to hard work at Barry's gym today.

TOUCHENS UP

Tuffy Griffith starts hard work today for his fight with Leo Lomski, March 28.

WINER, VETERAN OUTFIELDER, LOST TO BADGER NINE

Madison, Wis., March 16.—[Special.]—Ineligibility today removed one of the nine Chicago athletes from the squad of thirty Wisconsin baseball players. Morris (Moe) Winer, veteran outfielder, was placed under the scholastic ban for the rest of the semester. It also is doubtful whether or not Bill Lusby, the football backfield ace, will be eligible for the pitching staff.

Without Lusby, former Louisville, Ky., athlete who lives in Hyde Park, Coach Guy Lowman will have only two pitchers of Big Ten caliber. They are Ted Thelander and Maurice Farber, both right handers and both Chicagoans.

John Doyle of Waukegan, Ill., and George Evans of Oklahoma City, Okla. are the best of the catchers. Capt. Arthur (Dynamite) Mansfield of Cleveland, O., the heavyweight boxing champion of the university, is a fixture at first base. Bob Sandke, Chicago, ranks second.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Edward F. Brinks, 1841 Chestnut street, Quincy, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

Are you interested in the Walker-Loughran fight for the world's light heavyweight championship?

The Answers.

F. Dalton O'Sullivan, 800 North Clark street, publisher.—Yes, I am interested in that fight. I have seen Walker in the ring, and know his ability. My knowledge of Loughran is from reading only, and there is no doubting his skill in the game.

A. C. Andersen, 3923 North Albany, printer.—You bet I am. I never saw either of the boys, but I have read a great deal about them. Both seem to be good fighters and they should put up a wonderful fight on account of the title involved.

M. J. Barrett, 6714 Oconto avenue, salesman.—Yes, naturally. I have seen both of them fight. I consider Loughran a more superior fighter than Walker. Loughran is faster and more scientific. Loughran's style of fighting is clean, precise; therefore he is interesting to watch.

Leon Mechel, 4616 Hazel avenue, bill adjuster.—Yes, but particularly a radio interest in it. I listen to fights over the radio every chance I get, and occasionally attend a fight. I never have seen Walker or Loughran, and all I know about them has been gleaned from newspapers.

Sol Rosenweig, 3340 Douglas boulevard, clothing cutter.—Yes, I am, and I have good reason to be. I have seen both of these boys fight, and I hold a ticket for their coming fight. I wouldn't miss it for the world. I figure that Loughran will win.

RULING BY LANDIS MEANS FREEDOM TO NINE PLAYERS

Discovery of "covering up" methods in major and minor league deals yesterday resulted in Baseball Commission K. M. Landis punishing eleven offending clubs. In addition to fines of $500 for each offender, players belonging to these clubs were declared free from their contracts and given the right to sell their services to the highest bidder.

Released from their contracts because they were being held under cover to wait until the time was ripe for their major league chances, these nine players were set free by Landis' ultimatum: Roy Spencer and Kyle Anderson, formerly of Pittsburgh and Columbia, S. C., and Indianapolis; Guy Cantrell of Baltimore and Washington; Milburn E. Simons, Charles Ginzner, Ralph Judd and J. B. Partridge of Washington and Birmingham; Ernest Wingard of Philadelphia and Milwaukee, and Claude Jonnard of St. Louis and Milwaukee.

Fines of $500 were slapped on Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Columbia, Baltimore, Washington, Birmingham, Philadelphia, Milwaukee on two counts, and St. Louis.

The Thrill of Two High Speeds

[Four Speeds Forward—Standard Gear Shift]

The new Graham-Paige sixes and eights are distinguished by the thrilling performance of two high speeds, standard gear shift. With the time-proved Graham-Paige four speed transmission—fourth, used most of the time, gives a new smoothness and swiftness; third, a quiet internal gear, provides rapid acceleration in traffic and up steep hills. The gear shift is standard—you start in second; first, in reserve, is instantly available but seldom used. You are invited to enjoy a demonstration.

DERBY FUTURE BOOK QUOTES 5,000 TO 1 ODDS

25c on Yorktown Might Net Bettor $1,250.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Mr. Emil Herz of New York and Kentucky has announced the opening of his big store. His stock in trade from March until May for several years has been the business of betting that you can't pick the winner of the Kentucky Derby. A copy of Mr. Herz' Derby winter book—his latest contribution to the field of literature and finance—reached our desk yesterday.

To most people the appeal of the Derby lies in the colorful setting, the cosmopolitan crowd, the traditions of the race or the picturesque southland in spring. I suppose I have been enjoying all these things for the last several years. But long before the Derby is run, weeks before the Derby candidates come out for their first taste of fresh blue grass, I get quite a kick out of a little speculation in the winter book.

Two Bits Wins $1,250.

The first thing in Mr. Herz' newest works to attract my attention was that a 25 cent bet on Yorktown will win just $1,250. Winning 5,000 times as much as you bet is a tempting thought and as Mr. Herz is willing to take the risk of paying out $1,250 for a two-bit piece it seems to me that a merchant so anxious to do such big things for his customers should be more of a figure among the great financiers of our country.

A philanthropic banker or business chief dies and his tombstone is engraved "The People's Friend," when it perhaps should have read "Here lies 9 per cent Smith."

When Mr. Herz passes on—and may he reach a ripe old age for he always pays off—it may be that some engraver interested in the improvement of the breed of horses, will consult the first prices Mr. Herz offered in this year's winter book and insert on the tombstone at the head of his grave, "Here lies 259 per cent Herz."

Some person who makes a study of horse race speculation may look at the tombstone and remark, "Well, look what those cockeyed grave fillers have done. They've mixed up Gene Normile of Tia Juana with Mr. Emil Herz of New York and Kentucky.

Genie Is 3 to 1.

"Mr. Normile made the big percentage future book on this year's Coffroth handicap and the tombstone inscription should be changed from "259 per cent Herz" to "261 per cent Normile."

In the future book on the Coffroth handicap, which has its running this afternoon, Mr. Gene Normile has for several months been willing to lay Genie, a son of Man o' War, at 3 to 1.

Mr. Normile probably had in mind that General Igona Getualla, the rebel leader, might roll into Tia Juana any morning or evening and take Genie out of his stall on Tia Juana hill and put him into service as his personal saddle horse. In case the general had his throat cut or was pushed up against a wall and punctured with rifle bullets on his way to Tia Juana, paying off on Genie at 3 to 1 wouldn't be much of a hardship on a 261 per cent book. Of coure Genie will have to remember he is a son of Man o' War and come parading home in front in the Coffroth.

Blue Larkspur Is 6 to 1.

Should Blue Larkspur, the horse which Mr. Herz has made the 6 to 1 favorite for this year's Derby, do what some of the other horses owned by Col. Edward R. Bradley have done in Derbies of the past, and Mr. Herz finds he has a well rounded out book and $16,667 bet on Blue Larkspur he will have to pay out a hundred grand.

To me this seems to be a considerable piece of change. But if the players invest in winter book tickets in the proportion Mr. Herz thinks they will, he will have $259,089 in the old hip pocket before the payoff. After the payoff there will still be a pittance of $159,089 to meet the other $89 expenses.

Perhaps I am a bit bold in estimating that Mr. Herz' big store will put a limit of $100,000 as the payoff on any one horse in the Derby. But to make it convenient to figure the percentage of his book I have placed a limit of $100,000 as the largest possible payout on each of the 159 candidates. Mr. Herz does business on the theory they are all going to lose. He quotes odds against each and every one of them.

Juggled Figures Protect Book.

He holds Clyde Van Dusen at 10 to 1. Thus Mr. Herz will turn his back on bets made on Clyde Van Dusen after he has taken in $10,000 in wagers. He quotes Copperfield at 200 to 1. When the total wagers on Copperfield reach $500 Mr. Herz will close his book on that horse. At 5,000 to 1 on Yorktown it will take only a twenty dollar bet for Mr. Herz to wipe the longshot off his slate.

Thus Mr. Herz, regardless of whether he desires to pay out $20,000 or $100,000 on any horse, has the big store protected by his fine business methods. Regardless of who wins the Derby Mr. Herz is going to enjoy it. The big store will show a profit. For every dollar Mr. Herz passes out to his satisfied customers he will salt $1.59 away in his own cash register.

It is too bad Mr. Barnum did not reflect a bit farther.

He might have added, "What do suckers know about arithmetic?"

MINNESOTA BOY CAGE CAPTAIN AT NORTH CAROLINA

Raleigh, N. C., March 16.—Morris Johnny Johnson, midget guard from Marshall, Minn., has been elected 1930 captain of the North Carolina State college basketball team, which recently won the Southern conference tournament at Atlanta, Ga., in a field of 16 entries.

Johnson, also an honor student, was named all-Southern guard by coaches and sports writers, who attended the tournament of 160 players. He was regarded by these experts as the best dribbler in the finals. Gus Tebell, Aurora, Ill., former Wisconsin guard, coaches State.

ADAMAS COASTS TO VICTORY AT JEFFERSON PARK

Wins by 4 Lengths Over Sister Zoe.

New Orleans, La., March 16.—[Special.]—Adamas carried the Bell farm's colors to victory by four lengths in the St. Patrick's purse, today's feature at Jefferson Park. It was the first triumph of the season for the five year old son of Wigstone. Sister Zoe took second money, and Genial Host, the favorite, closed with a great rush in the stretch to finish a length back of Sister Zoe.

A campaign through the dominion at Thorncliffe and Woodbine, and a jump thence to Tanforan and Tia Juana had proved fruitless for Adamas. His effort against Sister Zoe last Tuesday, when he lost by a neck, was his best showing in ten races or so, and that some players figured him ready for a victory was reflected in the betting. He was made the third choice and paid $8.60 for a $2 ticket.

Jockey Yates broke Adamas fast right behind Sister Zoe. In a few strides he was running in front, and added more margin as the race progressed. Rounding the turn he had three or four lengths on Sister Zoe. Yet Yates went to the whip and only let up when victory was certain. He coasted the last furlong. Adamas was timed in 1:49 1-5 for the mile and a sixteenth. Under 108 pounds he conceded 3 pounds to Sister Zoe.

BADGERS CLAIM HARDEST HOCKEY CARD OF THE YEAR

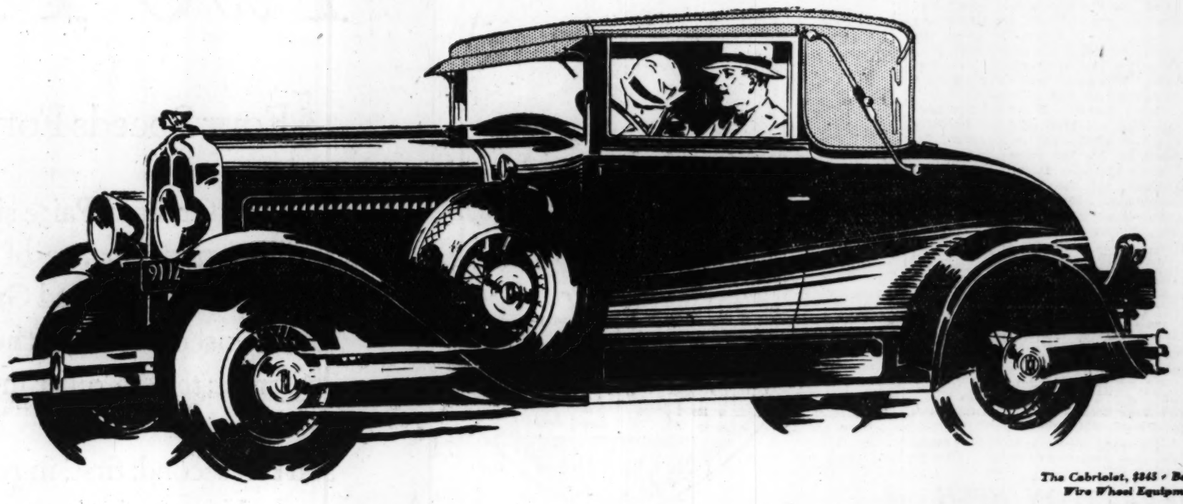
Madison, Wis., March 16.—[Special.]—Although Coaches Thistlethwaite and Meanwell have claimed "suicide" schedules during their respective seasons, Johnny Farquhar, Wisconsin hockey instructor, had the deadliest one of all.

Most teams use a system of alternating sets of wings and two centers, so the athletes will not become fatigued, but Farquhar had only three men capable of filling these positions. The trio, Krueger, Siegel, and Don Meiklejohn, were forced to play the whole 60 minutes of each contest.

The suicide part came in when the Badgers closed the season recently by meeting Michigan at Ann Arbor on Friday and Saturday nights and then hopped to Minneapolis for battles with the Gophers Monday and Tuesday. They lost there and tied one, dropping into a tie with Michigan for second place in the Big Ten, with Minnesota the champion.

Forward-Looking People Will Investigate This Car

You don't have to lift the hood to get the story



The Cabriolet, $745 f. o. b. Body by Fisher Five Wheel Equipment Extra

YOU don't have to be a mechanical genius to appreciate the New Pontiac Big Six. Of course, if you want to know what's in this car you can find many things about it to interest you. You can find a big, new L-head engine with a larger, highly perfected carburetor, providing big car power and speed. You can find all rotating parts from fan to rear axle in accurate dynamic balance, assuring big car smoothness and freedom from vibration. You can find Fisher bodies of staunchest steel and wood construction, sturdy and free from drumming or rattles. You can find new four-wheel brakes of the noiseless, dirt-and-weather-proof internal-expanding type, providing maximum safety and amazing ease of control.

But most forward-looking people are more interested in what a car gives them than in how it gives it. They see the New Pontiac Big Six. And its style and smartness and the charm of its interiors appeal to their sense of beauty and luxury. They drive the car. And its big car performance wins their highest respect.

The New Pontiac Big Six makes its strongest appeal to just such forward-looking people—people who appreciate the finer things in life. Oakland created it to enable these progressive people to step up the quality of their automobiles without departing from the low-priced field. A glance and a ride will tell you how completely Oakland has succeeded. You don't have to lift the hood to get the story.

N. U. PREP GAMES LURE CHAMPIONS OF NINE STATES

Two Day Meet Opens on Friday at Evanston.

The state champions in track, swimming, and wrestling will compete for honors at Northwestern university's seventeenth annual interscholastic meet to be held at Evanston Friday and Saturday.

TOM ROBINSON.

More than 700 prep school athletes will participate in the games. Last year the meet attracted 500 athletes from sixty high schools, but the entries received to date indicate a considerable boost above this figure.

Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, and Minnesota all have teams entered in at least one of the three sports on the program. As usual Chicago has the largest entry, with practically all of the schools already entered.

Tulsa Enters Team.

Four state wrestling champions will participate in the mat tournament. They are Fort Dodge, Ia.; Harrison tech, Chicago; Tulsa, Okla.; and Roosevelt High, East Chicago, Ind. Four other Iowa schools with strong teams are entered, including Ames, Cherokee, Cresco, and Sac City. Other wrestling entries are Schurz, Chicago; Washington High, East Chicago, Ind.; Horace Mann, Gary, Ind.; Carlyle, Ill.; and Senn High school, Chicago.

Leading swimming teams of the middle west, including six state champions, will compete. They are Highland Park High of Detroit, Mich.; Nashoim, Minn.; Tilden of Chicago; Shortridge High of Indianapolis, Ind.; Lakewood, O.; and Virginia, Minn., winner of the Iowa invitation meet.

More than fifty of the leading high school track teams in the middle west will participate in the two day tournament. Northeastern High of Detroit, winner of last year's meet, will be back to defend its title.

Detroit Won Last Year.

Other prominent track teams are Roosevelt High of Dayton, O.; East Division, Washington High, and Lincoln High of Milwaukee, Wis.; Horace Mann of Gary, Ind.; Tilden, Senn, and Englewood of Chicago; Rockford, Ill.; Lestant, Ill.; Whiting, Ind.; Elmhurst, Ill., and Aurora, Ill.

Most of the honors in last year's meet were carried off by Detroit High schools, nine of which were entered in the swimming and track meets. Northeastern High of Detroit won the track meet and Northwestern High of the same city placed second. Both of these schools together with Cass, Western, and Hamtramck, are expected to enter again this year.

Highland Park High, also of Detroit, ran away with the swimming meet, rolling up 38 points. Virginia, Minn., and Evanston, Ill., tied for second.

Robinson to Referee.

The three sports will be in charge of the respective coaches of the sports at Northwestern. Tom Robinson, veteran swimming coach, whose teams have won many conference championships, will be referee and starter of the water sport.

Frank Hill, famous Purple track coach, will handle the job of running of the many track events, while Orrin Stuteville, former Olympic wrestler, will take care of the wrestling bouts.

HORTON SMITH WINS FLORIDA GOLF TOURNEY

Jacksonville, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Horton Smith, youthful Joplin, Mo., professional, won the seventy-two hole Florida open golf championship here today with a brilliant 284, only one stroke ahead of the field.

Frank Walsh of Appleton, Wis., pressed the young Missourian hard for the championship, but finished one stroke behind with 285. Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, national open champion, finished in third place with 288, while Densmore Shute, Youngstown, O., and Tommy Armour, Washington, tied with 288.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Westbrook Pegler

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 16.—Mr. Dempsey, the old prize fighter, has discovered a painless method of promotion. Mr. Dempsey contributes nothing but his time, of which he has an abundance; his charm, which seems potent, and the advertising power of his name. His first clients in the new activity were a cheap gambling house featuring craps at popular prices, a dog race track, a more elegant gambling joint, and a $2 prize fight between two minor business men of dreary ring habits, which retailed to the customers for something more than $400,000 cash.

These were the combined Tex Rickard rackets at Miami Beach. In the first place, Dempsey was supposed to have invested some cash in the business, but when the books were closed he denied this. The matter is not important enough for argument, so it is just as easy to take his word for that.

Upon leaving the south, Mr. Dempsey was weighing several other requests for his valuable but almost effortless services.

A Mob of Mugs Followed Jack

He was in demand before the legislature of the state of Michigan as a kind of lobbyist for a bill to legalize horse racing with pari-mutuels.

The idea of a retired prize fighter who used to hop freights and sweep out saloons exerting an influence upon the law giving assembly of a great, proud state could be used as a hunch for philosophical editorials on the magic opportunities for the poor boy in America or the low condition of statesmanship in Michigan, according to the commentator's point of view, his instructions or the condition of his liver at the time.

The Madison Square Garden corporation wanted him to work for $600 a week the year around as a glorified sandwich man, succeeding the late master, Mr. Rickard. In this place it would have been his duty to sit at Mr. Rickard's large bronze desk, originally built for President Harding, and banter with the sport reporters from half past two until four o'clock six afternoons a week. But he thought he could make more than $600 a week as a free lance sandwich man, and I believe he can, too.

George Getz, the Chicago coal man and rhinoceros fancier, would have raked together at least half a million for him alone if he would have agreed to fight Max Schmeling there in the summer. Having declined the distinguished honor of being knocked about by a younger athlete to earn this half million, Dempsey countered with an idea of presenting Schmeling and Jack Sharkey for the uplift of Chicago or Detroit, expecting to make a quarter of a million without personal pain, effort or even inconvenience.

It appears that Dempsey's friend, Floyd Fitzsimmons of Benton Harbor, holds a fight club license in Michigan, which is no easy certificate to obtain, and some vague contract with Sharkey. Dempsey is faithful and generous with his old friends; much more so, I think, than his illustrious successor in the heavyweight championship, who was married in a lane far beyond the traveling range of his colleagues and kinspeople who might have dunked their bread in the essence of green turtle soup to the mortal embarrassment of the groom.

Mr. Dempsey not only relieves the necessities of his friends out of his own funds but has roguish ways of shooing suckers up their alley.

At first glimpse this may seem rather hard on the sucker, but I am assured by high authorities that the sucker is never happy until he has been taken.

Several years ago he shooed a sucker up to Mr. Fitzsimmons with $25,000 which the sucker wished to invest in a Dempsey-Wills prize fight. It was nothing but Mr. Fitzsimmons' own lax management that permitted Harry Wills and his manager to get the sucker's money, leaving Mr. Fitzsimmons practically nothing. But Dempsey is patient to his friends' errors and I think he will make another effort this year to get some money for Floyd.

I take it that Mr. Dempsey has now set off on a definite new career as a sandwich man of the same genus as those forlorn bums who wander up and down the cheap streets of New York wearing turtle-shell placards fore and aft proclaiming the best twenty-five cent meal in town at Max's Busy Bee restaurant or astonishing savings in gents' ready-to-wear at Guinsberg's basement bargain bazaar.

He will make no important investments himself, but will stir around publicly in the publicity offices of various enterprises, such as prize fights, horse races, dog races, and gambling casinos, drawing trade by his own magnetism, which is quite a lure as I have had an opportunity to observe this winter.

His employers need never complain that the boy lies down on the job. In Florida he made one trip clear across the state to take part in some public doings in Tampa, then made another trip to Palm Beach to clown a boxing bout with Babe Ruth, all in the interests of the gate receipts of the Sharkey-Stribling fight or what you will end of the allied rackets under the same general management. He gives a dollar's worth of publicity for a dollar, he has a distinctive way with crowds and before he is through he will raise the humble profession of those who walk the pavements in sandwich boards to dignity and honor.

So in the course of the next few years it will be quite interesting to watch and compare the course of his after career with that of Mr. Tunney. I think he will do as well in his line as Mr. Tunney will in his future work, if any.

Miss Blake Wins Women's Crown at Indoor Tennis

Brookline, Mass., March 16.—(AP)—Miss Margaret Blake of Lenox became the women's indoor singles tennis champion today by defeating Mrs. Charles J. Hubbard Jr. of Boston, 6-3, 6-3, in the final match of the championship tournament on the Longwood courts.

Though both players have been finalists in other championship tournaments, their play today was below the usual round standard. Mrs. Hubbard was a finalist in last year's indoor tournament when she was defeated by Miss Edith Sigourney of Boston, who did not defend her title this year. Miss Fuller reached the championship bracket once before, in 1927.

MICHIGAN BEGINS SPRING PRACTICE IN GRID PASTIME

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 16.—Coach Ted Wieman, Michigan's football coach, has announced that spring football practice will begin Monday afternoon with a group of about a dozen men who will be given three weeks of special work before the general call is issued immediately following spring vacation.

This group, which will report each Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday, includes some of the new men and most of the veterans on whom Wieman is hoping will handle the kicking, pass receiving, and punt receiving next fall.

Michigan's 1929 team faces an extremely ambitious schedule, including games at home with Harvard, Iowa, Ohio State, in addition to games with Illinois, Purdue, and Minnesota away from home.

STUDENTS WANT PAID ATHLETES; DIRECTOR QUITS

Beloit, Wis., March 16.—[Special.]—The student body and alumni of Beloit college are unwilling to accept the consequences of a policy of "nonsubsidized" athletics, Roy Bohler charged in a letter to President Irving Maurer, which was made public today. Bohler submitted his resignation as Beloit college athletic director, a post he has held three years.

"With your hope that Beloit athletics might be put on a nonsubsidized basis I am in accord, but it is apparent that neither the alumni nor the student body has shown a willingness to accept the necessary and immediate results of such a policy," Bohler wrote Maurer.

It is understood his reference was to the practice of offering special inducements to promising high school athletes to come to Beloit, which some alumni desired but upon which the administration frowned.

Bohler has been athletic director here three years, coming from the University of Washington, where he was freshman coach.

WEST RUNS U. S. GOVERNMENT IN HOOVER REGIME

East Loses Control of the G. O. P.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Western influences are forging to the front in the new administration. For the first time in the history of the country both the President and the Vice President are from states west of the Mississippi river. Never before have there been so many westerners in positions of influence in the departments and in congress.

That control of the Republican party, which has heretofore centered in the east, is passing to the west is a conclusion drawn by the party leaders.

President Herbert Hoover is the first resident of a Pacific coast state to reach the White House. The Pacific coast and mountain states, it is expected, will exert a greater degree of influence than the middle western states.

New Power of West.

Eastern Republicans had expected up to the time of the Kansas City convention last year that if Mr. Hoover, a Californian, won the presidential nomination, the second place on the ticket would go to the east. That Vice President Charles Curtis, a Kansan, should be Mr. Hoover's running mate was a recognition of the new power of the west in the affairs of the Republican party.

Five of the ten members of the Hoover cabinet are from the area between Chicago and the Pacific coast. These five are Robert P. Lamont of Illinois, secretary of commerce; James W. Good of Illinois and Iowa, secretary of war; William D. Mitchell of Minnesota, attorney general; Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri, secretary of agriculture, and Ray Lyman Wilbur of California, secretary of the interior. A sixth cabinet member, Walter F. Brown of Ohio, comes from a state which is usually grouped with the central west.

In the other four cabinet positions New England is represented in Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts, secretary of the navy; New York has one member in Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, and Pennsylvania remains in the picture with Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Secretary of Labor James J. Davis.

Senate Leadership from Kansas.

Speaker Nicholas Longworth of Ohio continues as presiding officer of the house, and with the accession of Vice President Curtis the presiding officer of the senate who, during the last four years, has been an Illinoisan, Charles G. Dawes, passes several states further west.

The convening of the special session of congress on April 15 will be evidence of the power of the west in the new administration, inasmuch as the two principal subjects for consideration, farm relief and the tariff, are linked with the needs of western agriculture. Even in the case of the tariff, which in former years has been revised by Republicans with special reference to the needs of New England and other sections of the manufacturing east, emphasis is now placed on the agricultural part of the law.

West Has Leaders.

Eight of the fifteen Republican members of the ways and means committee are from states of the central west, the northwest and the far west. About half of the Republican membership of the senate finance committee will represent western states.

The east no longer figures prominently in the leadership of the senate. Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], is the Republican leader; Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], the assistant leader; Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.], the whip, and Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], the chairman of the Republican committee on committees.

PLANE IS STORK'S HELPER AS ICE LOCKS DENMARK

Midwives Fly to Island Homes.

BY JOHN AHL-NIELSEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, March 16.—Denmark, after more than a month of isolation, is now in communication with Europe again. The ice has been broken on the Baltic and in various straits and sounds and rail and ferry services are running almost normally. During the last month, however, the little northern kingdom has been almost entirely dependent upon air communication, not only for international, but also for internal use, as the country is made up of a series of islands and sea transport plays a most important part. This naturally was limited by the scarcity of airplanes.

Germany Gives Aid.

Most of the adjoining countries also were suffering on account of ice and using planes for relief., but Germany did whatever was possible to maintain services in Copenhagen, Hamburg, and Berlin, while Sweden came to the rescue with augmented services northward.

In addition, the Danish government chartered a dozen planes with pilots from Holland which were used to keep up interior communications.

One interesting feature of the situations during the great freeze-up was airplanes which took the place of the stork, which, every one knows, brings Danish babies to new homes. Apparently, it was too cold for the stork, and planes were used to carry midwives to more than a hundred homes on the islands.

Requests Sent to Copenhagen.

Requests were sent by telegraph and radio and midwives were brought from Copenhagen, Odensee, and other towns.

It was not found possible, however, to transport supplies other than the most necessary food, and as the Danish farmer is a large producer of surplus for export, this was necessary only in a few cases. Export trade, however, suffered heavily on account of the interruption of the sea transport.

Street a Fortress

La Salle street was the scene of a massing of armament yesterday afternoon when cash and securities aggregating more than two and a half billion dollars in value were moved from the vaults of the Continental National Bank and Trust company, 208 South La Salle street, to those of the Illinois Merchants Trust company, 231 South La Salle street. These banks will be united tomorrow as the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company at the latter address.

Twelve steel forts, six armored cars, a machine gun car, 80 guards, 20 mounted policemen, 40 policemen on foot, two squads of detectives, 80 bank policemen, and a detail of sharpshooters were present. The forts were armored cars parked across La Salle and Quincy streets so that no traffic could approach within a block of La Salle and Quincy, the corner across which the cash and securities were moved. Each of these forts was manned by guards and stocked with revolvers and rifles.

Policemen patrolled the closed off streets. Pedestrians were permitted to enter the area but were required to keep moving. Each pedestrian was watched by vigilantes who stood at second story windows along the street armed with rifles.

The treasure was packed in steel chests, carried in armored cars the short distance and was transported at the rate of $13,500,000 a minute.

Tire Prices Will Not Go Up, Goodrich Head Says

Akron, O., March 16.—(AP)—James D. Tew, president of the B. F. Goodrich company, today announced that his company is not contemplating any increase in tire prices. "There have been many rumors circulating as to the possibility of an immediate price increase for tires," he said. "So far as the B. F. Goodrich company is concerned, I can see no justification for a change in tire prices.

'DIME PER MILE' IN PARIS TAXI IS CHEAPEST EVER

Tips of Two Cents Gladly Accepted.

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 16.—Low operating costs and the willingness of Parisian chauffeurs to work for wages varying between $2 and $3 for an eight hour day explain why the world's cheapest taxis are to be found in Paris, where there is a cab for every 110 inhabitants and where one may ride a mile for a dime, including tip.

Although the retail price of gasoline is almost double what it is in the United States, the cost of running a car is actually lower, due to the fact that the French machine will make approximately 25 miles on a gallon. Low horsepower, small bore cylinders and perfected carburetor adjustments are the reasons for this. The light weight of the French machine also minimizes depreciation and wear on tires.

Accept 2 Cent Tips.

At the same time the Parisian taxi driver, like most French workingmen, thinks in small terms of money. His tips vary usually between 2 and 8 cents. His share of the receipts is between 25 and 40 per cent. Except when he has an unusual stroke of luck the total of his earnings and tips seldom comes over 80 francs [$3.20] in a day.

Paris now possesses 18,086 taxicabs, most of which are modern and comfortable. Of these, 7,002 are operated by large companies and the remaining 11,084 are run by small garages and independent drivers.

The tariff for these cars is uniform and is set by the Paris municipal administration at 8 cents a mile during the day, with the rate doubled between the hours of 11 p. m. and 6:30 a. m.

The meters start out at 4 cents, which covers the first 400 meters, after which 1 cent additional is ticked up every 200 meters. At night the meters work twice as fast.

Carry Baggage Cheap.

The charge for waiting is 1 cent for every minute and a half, either night or day. Baggage is assessed at 4 cents the piece, and this is usually just so much extra pocket money for the driver, since it is left to him to register supplements on the meter and this he never does unless the fare insists.

The bulk of the day time business in Paris is handled by two organizations, the Taxis Citroen, with 2,549 standardized Citroen all inclosed four cylinder machines in the streets, and the Compagnie Francaise des Automobiles de Place, which operates 2,290 new type six cylinder Renaults.

Drivers working for these companies buy their gas at a reduced rate, which is based on the total of their receipts. Thus each driver upon starting out in the morning is entitled to one gallon at 20 cents, a loss of about 12 cents to the company, which buys the fuel at wholesale prices. If he travels more than 40 miles during the day he is entitled to a second gallon at 24 cents. If he goes more than 70 miles he gets a third gallon at the same price, etc.

Work on Commission Basis.

On the average, he takes in between 150 and 190 francs during the eight hours of work. The division of the receipts between driver and company is based on a sliding scale starting at 25 per cent and going as high as 40 per cent, depending on the amount of money taken in.

Independent drivers, besides having the full responsibility of their cars, are forced to buy their gas at the retail price, which at present is in the neighborhood of 40 cents a gallon. They gain, however, by operating their machines at night when the rates are doubled and the streets are almost empty of traffic. This latter consideration saves them from 15 to 20 per cent on their gas consumption.

The famous "Marne Taxis," most of which were one cylinder Renaults of antique vintage, have now completely disappeared.

Queen Marie Carries Offer of Crown to Prince Carol

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Roumania, March 16.—Speeding across Jugo-Slavia aboard a special train, Queen Marie tonight was en route to Paris, ostensibly to visit her son, Prince Carol, but really, according to reliable information, to bring him back to the throne he renounced for the love of a red-headed girl.

Queen Marie, accompanied by her daughter, Princess Ileana, left Bucharest suddenly last night and later it was officially announced she had left for Paris to visit Prince Carol.

In Belgrade the queen was joined by another daughter, Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia and her youthful son, Peter, who planned to accompany the party to the Italian frontier. Palatial private cars are attached to the Orient express, due to arrive in Paris tomorrow, where Queen Marie will be met at the station by Prince Carol.

The queen's departure, coupled by a frank announcement that she is going to Paris to see Prince Carol, had a quick repercussion here today. Former Premier Vintilla Bratiano, chief of the now defunct liberal party, and a man largely responsible for forcing Carol to renounce his rights to the throne, bitterly denounced the regency in a parliament debate.

The attack amazed the hearers, inasmuch as Bratiano had a large hand in setting up the regency, and never thus far, has dared to openly criticize it.

In his vitriolic speech he charged the Maniu peasant government with deliberately donating Roumania's mines and petroleum to foreign concerns in order to get outside loans thus violating the promises made to the late King Ferdinand.

He expressed his amazement at the regency backing the government, which it had solemnly pledged to uphold the policy laid down by Ferdinand, against allowing foreign concessions.

But Bratiano's fire had little effect in the chamber, which is overwhelmingly peasant and from another source it is learned the aged Liberal leader has already capitulated in his fight to keep Prince Carol from the throne. His personal physician today stated Vintilla Bratiano shortly planned to go abroad for his health," and this is taken to mean he will quietly step down to let events take their natural course, even if it meant the return of the hated Prince Carol.

Queen Marie informed her friends before leaving last night, she intended to spend much time in France at the home of her sister who is the wife of Grand Duke Cyril, pretender to the throne of the czars.

Grand Duke Cyril's villa in Dinard, France, is not far from the residence of Prince Carol which the latter occupied a few years ago with his red-headed friend, Magda Lupescu. It is assumed here that Prince Carol probably will join his mother at Dinard where final plans will be worked out for a peaceful return to Bucharest and probably the throne.

CHIANG URGES CHINA TO DIVIDE LAND; AID LABOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 16.—"What's Wrong with China" was outlined in a ten thousand word statement today by Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, president of the Chinese state council, before the members of the Kuomintang party opening the third national congress here.

The first fundamental trouble, he said, is the lack of unified thought and common aim, resulting in dissension and causing internal differences.

In reference to domestic problems Gen. Chiang declared it is necessary to bring about an equitable distribution of land and curb the capitalistic exploi-

SPRING WEATHER PEPS UP AUTO INDUSTRY SALES

Canadian-U. S. Bridge to Be Ready in July.

Detroit, Mich., March 16.—[Special.]—The near-spring weather is having a beneficial effect on the automobile industry in general, and on the vast army of dealers in particular. A noticeable upward buying trend developed during the week which is taken as a forerunner of what may be expected early in April when the real mass buying will be getting into full swing.

Encouraged by the results in February that set a new high selling mark for the month, the trade is out to do a bit better in March—a longer month and a better selling period than either January or February. Revised schedules by several manufacturers indicate that the demand will tax the capacity of some of the mass producing plants.

Speaking before the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce which convened in Detroit a few days ago, Alvan Macauley, president of that organization, was enthusiastically optimistic for the future business of the year, and predicted the industry would safely cross the 5,000,000 mark, with several thousand added for good measure.

Modernized Sales Methods.

Speaking officially, Mr. Macauley said that the industry, as a whole, was 10 per cent ahead of the same period in 1928, while the dealers' demands were continuing strong. He also asked members of the chamber to do everything possible toward modernizing their sales methods, pointing out the industry had gone steadily ahead in mechanical improvements, but continued to follow the ancient methods of merchandizing that were popular and adequate 15 years ago.

"Economy in sales is the present need," he said.

The production report for February, submitted by President Macauley, showed a total of 501,445 motor vehicles were turned out in 24 working days, an average of 28,974 per day. For mid-month reports, however, the figures will be higher in March and April when the real spring selling drive will be at its height.

February was the industry's greatest production month for all time, the former record being in August, 1928, when a total production of 492,543 was reported.

Bridge Ready Soon.

"The new 'Ambassador' bridge, which will connect the United States with Canada, spanning the Detroit river here, will be ready for tourist travel soon after the first of July, according to the present rate of construction.

With this great bridge opened to traffic it will go far toward relieving the continual congestion, throughout the summer months especially, of tourists who enter and leave Canada at this point. The present and only mode of cross-river transportation is by ferry boat which is far from satisfactory or adequate. With bridge facilities, and the rapid system employed in checking motorists into and out of the country, virtually no time will be lost to the tourists who have their proper automobile papers. Without certificates of ownership Canadian visitors will be turned back and not allowed to enter.

It is anticipated that this year's crossings will be far greater than ever before, and arrangements have been made by the automobile clubs on each side of the Detroit river to give all assistance possible.

START TO TUNE UP SPEED CARS FOR MAY CLASSIC

Seven cars are in the paddock at the Indianapolis motor speedway being groomed for the international 500-mile race which will be held May 30. Mechanics are preparing them for track practice as soon as the weather is favorable.

Tommy Milton, only two-time winner of the Indianapolis race, has a crew preparing a car for Cliff Durant's stable. Charles Haase, who is owner of the car Lou Moore jockeyed into second place in last year's race, is preparing the car for another ride. "Cotton" Henning, Peter De Paolo's chief aid before the 1925 champion retired, is working on Dick Dodd's front wheel drive job which is to be driven by Bob McDonough, now in Florida. Earl Cooper has three cars quartered at the track under the care of Johnny Seymour.

Then there is Cliff Bergere's speed creation which is without an attendant, while Cliff spends a few weeks in California.

Advance indications point to an unusually large number of cars being on the track earlier this year than ever before. Throughout the winter there has been considerable preparation for the contest, and also activity, as several other tracks were closed during the winter the drivers and mechanics concentrated on the Indianapolis event.

Racing men declare there will be at least forty entries for the coming contest. Only thirty-three cars are permitted to face the starter. Therefore there will be a speed duel for the right to even start in the coming racing classic.

Souders, Fourth Ranking Auto Racer, to Retire

George Souders, fourth ranking driver in major racing circuits in 1928 and winner of the Indianapolis 500 mile race in 1927, will retire from the "roaring road" to enter business in Columbus, O. Souders was seriously injured when he turned over on the fair grounds at Detroit July 4, last.

AUTO GETS CREDIT FOR DEVELOPING SUBURBAN AREA

New Owners Potential Country Residents.

Every automobile automatically enhances the value of real estate, and, conversely, the purchase of homes in the suburbs increases production of automobiles, according to a realty authority of Chicago.

"It is not so much that more automobiles are being produced," he said, "but that they are faster, more durable, and lower in cost.

"Thus, automobiles of good appearance and performance are put within the reach of the family of moderate means, and the fact that they own a car will often make it easier for the real estate salesman to sell them a home or home site in a locality a little removed from the center of population.

"New York state, for instance, shows a substantial increase in motor car registrations every year. Since 1926, passenger car registrations have increased from 1,455,770 to 1,725,770, for a gain of 270,000 or 20 per cent. In the nation, production of motor cars increased 31 per cent last year over the preceding year.

Chicago Area Showing.

"In the Chicago area an equally good showing or better was made. We now have about 600,000 cars in Cook county.

"All these are good signs for the realtor. The motor industry is in a way a barometer of the nation's prosperity, and a good automobile year means a good real estate year. Therefore, when a 5,000,000 car year is predicted confidently for 1929 the realtor takes it as an indication that a period of general buying is in order, or, in other words, that the public purse strings are loosed and that not only will the public buy automobiles but that they will buy real estate, too.

"It works both ways. Who knows how many automobiles have been bought with profits made in real estate?

"Sometimes the family buys the home before the automobile, but more often the automobile before the home, although this may seem a trifle paradoxical.

Cars the First Need.

"In Milwaukee a group of people who all owned cars formed a cooperative building association and pooled their assets to erect a number of homes for themselves. They found they didn't have enough money to build all the homes, and, to be fair, decided to build all the garages first and the homes later. In the meantime they lived in the garages.

"Without question the automobile has been largely responsible for the rapid development of the suburbs and the subsequent increase in property valuations. We realtors salute the automobile as our greatest ally."

DR. R. B. HARVEY'S GAS TESTS AID FRUIT INDUSTRY

Dr. R. B. Harvey, who has been experimenting for four years in use of ethylene gas in hastening the ripening of fruits and the blanching of celery, has recently written a thirty-six page bulletin summarizing his results. The bulletin number 247, "Artificial Ripening of Fruits and Vegetables," is published by the University of Minnesota, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn. It gives some new information on the ripening of tropical fruits with the gas. Ethylene gas is used in this country on a commercial scale as an aid to the fruit industry.

Traffic Experts Condemn Many Auto Regulations

Prof. C. C. Wiley and Prof. J. S. Crandell told the Illinois Society of Engineers that the green and red lights, the no left turn rule and other traffic regulations were unnecessary and ineffectual. Twenty per cent of traffic has been forced to make unnecessary stops because of the lights, they said. The signals were of actual value during only one or two hours of each day, and a handicap the rest of the time, they said. The professors declared that no left turn rules instead of prohibiting merely made the motorist go farther to make his eventual left turn and then, often, make another left turn to get where he was going.

EXPERTS DEBATE DOOR DELIVERY OF RAIL FREIGHT

Canadian Calls Plan Success in Dominion.

Motor trucking interests have for years advocated the collection and delivery of small railroad shipments of freight in cities by a system comparable with that of the express companies. For want of a better term this is called store-door delivery. It is maintained that store-door delivery would greatly lessen traffic congestion in the city streets, and expedite the collection and delivery of freight.

This whole question was discussed at length at the session of the transportation meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers in Newark, N. J. R. A. C. Henry of the Canadian National railways described the system of store-door delivery that has been in operation for the last seventy years in Canada with great success.

Referring to the Canadian National railways, he stated that store-door delivery is now in effect on the system in the provinces of Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia in 22 cities having a combined population of 2,855,000. From 63 to 64 per cent of the total less than carload freight handled on the railway system is collected and delivered by the contract cartage system in Montreal, Toronto, and Hamilton.

In these cities more than 97 per cent of the inbound cartage freight is delivered to consignees by the second day after its receipt at the railroad sheds. This system has been so satisfactory to shippers and consignees that they have successfully opposed proposals made to the board of railway commissioners that the system be abolished.

Other speakers at the meeting debated the question of whether it is feasible to adopt a similar system in American cities. F. J. Carey of the Boston and Maine Transportation company told of the application of a modification of the Canadian system in New England.

William J. Duffy of Boston said that definite progress for the railroads, the truckmen, the merchants and the public would be accomplished if a regulated store-door delivery system could be installed to take care of the smaller shipments.

NEWS AND VIEWS

F. A. Petrie, president of Illinois Chrysler, announces Frank J. Marsden as new general sales manager. Mr. Marsden comes from Philadelphia sales territory and previously was with the factory. As training for the task in Chicago he served with the 119th field artillery through the world war and was in five major engagements.

Announcement has been made from Paris of the first international "perfect performance" event for automobile owners and operators to be organized in recent years, to take place in May and June under the supervision of the Automobile Club de France, with corresponding bodies in the United States, and the French Line, organizers of the event. American participation is being planned for in such a way that entrants will have an even break, regardless of what part of the country their starting point may be located. The French line will transport the American contestants from New York on the Ile de France, sailing May 11, and the Paris, sailing May 18. The journey is to be in the nature of a contest, so far as car performance is conerned, and suitable prizes of artistic value are to be awarded with due ceremony at the conclusion of the event.

Better service to automobile owners will be an important national contribution by Nash during 1929, C. W. Nash, president, predicted following more than a month's personal participation in automobile shows throughout the country.

In the recent annual meeting of the Motor Truck Distributors' association of Illinois, Harry E. Seanor, district manager of the White company, was elected president; Robert M. Cutting was reëlected vice president, and H. C. Allison reëlected treasurer. In accepting the presidency Mr. Seanor said: "We are closely allied with an investment of over 200 million dollars in motor trucks in use in the state of Illinois alone and over 25 per cent of this is represented in the city of Chicago."

How a new range of car performance is obtained by the Graham-Paige four speed transmission, is told by George H. Bird, president of the Bird-Sykes company, distributors for the Chicago territory. The secret of this performance, Mr. Bird states, is in the two high speeds of the transmission.

E. A. Blumenthal, Chicago distributor for Gabriel, says that the Gabriel triple hydraulic shock absorber owes its name to the multiple vane or paddle which, enclosed in the main oil reservoir, distributes the force of the compression and recoil of the car's springs over three surfaces instead of one.

DETROIT WILL SPEND 9 MILLION ON CITY STREETS

Keeping pace with the constant growth of Detroit, street improvements contemplated for 1929 by the department of public works will exceed $9,000,000. The above figure includes re-surfacing, widening and paving of new streets. The amount of new paving to be laid this year will exceed 100 miles according to present estimates, as compared with a total of 91 miles paved in 1928.

Out of $4,852,000, estimated as the cost of widening, resurfacing and repaving city streets, as in a list prepared by John W. Reid, commissioner of public works, the department is asking for a $3,000,000 appropriation this year to carry out the major part of the work. This $3,000,000 contemplated 1929 expenditure for work of the nature indicated is in addition to the more than $6,000,000 required for the first paving of new streets and compares with $2,595,840.11 expended for similar widening, resurfacing and repaving of streets last year.

Other street improvement that will continue to be vigorously carried out in 1929 is the pavement of alleys in the city area bounded by the boulevard. The great growth of motor traffic and the rapid increase in car ownership has rendered it imperative to pave the city alleys at a much faster rate than contemplated a few years back.

FRENCH SCIENTISTS SEEK TO USE CHARCOAL GAS IN AUTOMOBILES

When wood is carbonized to make charcoal great volumes of gases are thrown off and usually wasted. The problem of utilizing these gases as fuel for gasoline motors has occupied the attention of French scientists for several years.

Ever since the first efforts were made in France, to substitute the "gas of the forests"—which is called "gazogene"—for gasoline in trucks and heavy motors strenuous efforts have been made to adapt carburetors to the use of this unique fuel.

Now, according to reports, equipment for the manufacture of "gazogene" has been perfected and carburetors and motors have been adjusted to use it.

At the recent forestry exposition near Versailles "gazogene" manufacturing equipment and several types of vehicle motors using it were shown. Prominent among these were a luxurious touring car and a truck.

Details of the process of manufacturing "gazogene" are not very clear, according to the Scientific American, but it is understood that the gases given off from the charcoal kiln during the burning are collected, passed through water to be cooled and condensed, and are then placed in containers that are later to be mounted on the vehicle.

A Greater Car At Lower Prices

THE new Dodge Brothers Six is indeed a super-value—a more-for-the-money car—not only when compared with any previous Dodge Brothers creation but with any car or group of cars that have ever sold at or near its price. In performance the new Dodge Brothers Six is just as finished as it is complete in the essentials of style and beauty. All that this superb car appears to possess—in stamina, in dependability, in roomy comfort—is emphasized many fold the moment you observe it in action. See the new Dodge Brothers Six—drive it—then only can you have a true conception of its extraordinary worth.

MOTORS — TRAFFIC — HIGHWAYS

TREE BORDERED HIGHWAYS AGAIN CONFRONT STATE

Passed Up Opportunity 40 Years Ago.

Only 3.68% of Illinois motor license fees are spent in the Chicago area.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

Some thirty-five or forty years ago directors of THE TRIBUNE policies urged in the general assembly the passage of legislation which provided for the setting out and maintenance of shade trees along the highways of the entire state. A plan had been worked out under which the counties or townships would attend to the planting and cultivation of the bordering saplings while the state would defray the cost of the seedlings.

For some reason the measure did not pass. Had the law gone into effect there would today be some 20,000 miles of tree bordered highways. The cost to the state was figured, as memory serves, at about $120,000 in each biennium. One of the arguments in favor of the law was that the commonwealth would be a material gainer in the possession of actual wood, based on an estimate of $5 a tree for mature value.

Problem Again Faces State.

In traveling the barren roadways today the narrow policy of opposition to authorizing money expenditures for such permanent improvements which existed in those days can be clearly realized.

The problem again faces the state, with the completion of the 9,900 hard roads system, but when the subject is approached at this day and age it will be found that the meager $120,000 requirement per biennium will have grown to a million or more. Despite the present day cost there is no doubt but that the state will have to assume this task in a short time or continue to plod over shadeless and naked highways.

The Illinois prairie lands never did have much in the way of tree adornment, but forestation carried out privately always met with rich results. It was on the basis of the experiments on private property that the proposal was made for a system of tree planting in the interest of the public generally. Research disclosed at the time that the bordering lines of trees would bring about an actual saving of dollars and cents in the highway maintenance costs of the units charged with upkeep.

Trees Will Save Roads.

In this day it has been clearly demonstrated that concrete and other hard surfaced roads will endure longer and in better condition when protected from intense heat by shade and from drifting snows during the winter months. It is shown that the work of clearing snow from pavements is cut down materially as a result of the conditions resulting from natural wind breaks along the roadways.

Although the cost for such an improvement at this time would be heavy, it is safe to say that it would not be excessive if compared with the expense that will be involved ten years hence.

In many parts of the country the lining of highways with trees has been carried out to some extent. In southern Michigan there are a number of highways which offer tourists the beauty of cathedral arch foliage in the summer and which are protected in winter by the sturdy rows of spreading maples, poplars, and evergreens. Other illustrations are in New York state, New England, and Ohio.

Narrow Rights of Way.

In the rush of the demands for roads to meet modern motor traffic a new obstacle has arisen. This is the lack of width in right of way. When a pavement is widened out to 40 feet on a 66 foot right of way, the usual standard width, drainage and shoulder requirements take the occupied portions of the highway to the line fences. If trees are scattered along within the right of way bounds, they must be removed to make way for the physical works needed.

Under the state highway department ruling all new pavements to be built are held up until the townships and counties provide 100 foot rights of way. Much of the paving program of the state is held up because of failure of the smaller units to provide the width demanded. Property owners are found who will not dedicate front footage of their farms for highway purposes. The state will not condemn. The counties usually decline to. If, then, traffic demands are such that the pavement is built on a 66 foot right of way, all trees must be taken out. As a result there are thousands of miles of treeless roads now existing in the state.

Little Accomplished.

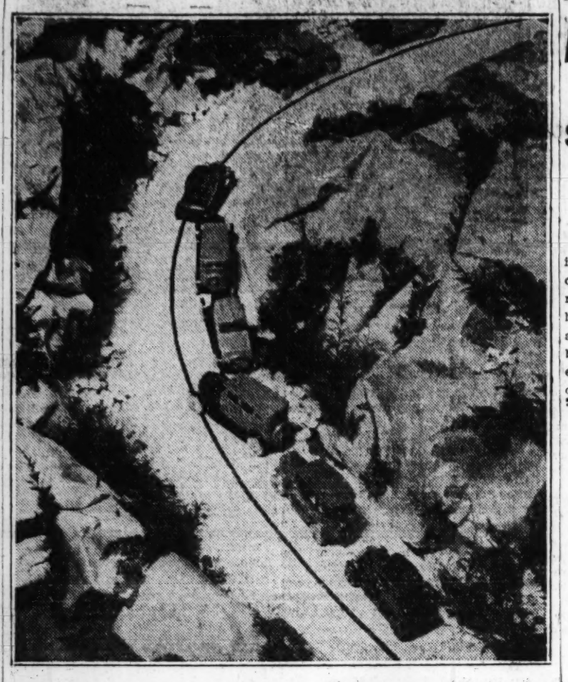
One way to overcome this situation would be to encourage farmers along highways to set out trees in regular rows a few feet back of the right of way lines. This has been suggested, but the farmers do not think the proposition a very good one. Little has been accomplished.

In Cook and Du Page counties, along one highway, however, some progress has been made in this direction. Axel Lonnquist recently took the leadership in a tree campaign along the route of highway No. 58 from Evanston to Elgin, a new thoroughfare being built by the state. By active promotional work Mr. Lonnquist inspired owners of property along the line of road to commit themselves to the planting of trees on their own property at the roadside or upon the right of way, which is up to the wider standards of the department.

By the time the road is finished the right of way will be lined with saplings and in four or five years the beginning of a 25 mile bower of trees will have appeared.

Such local enterprises are of value, of course, but if the entire road system is to benefit from tree borders some legislation will be needed to encourage or drive frontage owners into tree culture. As it will require a decade for tree development, after setting out, time to make a start obviously is the present. At the end of the next six or seven years the highway system is to be finished, according to the state department, and if measures are taken today the shade and protection problem will have been partially solved by the time the roads are completed.

GOOD MANNERS FOR MOTORISTS



The driver who straddles the marked line on a narrow or even on a wide road is considered distinctly a pest and without manners. The straddler disrupts good order in traffic behind, for cars which wish to pass are shut off both to the left and right. Back in the line drivers nose out to see what the matter may be ahead, and if one takes a chance on getting by the possibility of accident is always present.

VOICE OF THE TRAFFIC

ON THE SUBJECT OF SLEEP.

Chicago, March 15.—The motor coach management is using very poor judgment in its system of handling the driving situation. Many of the drivers are compelled to work until 1 o'clock a. m. or later and report for duty as early as 6 a. m. the same day, though having worked eight hours the previous day. Consider the lack of safety accorded passengers as well as pedestrians and other automobiles on the boulevards. The company expects a man to be able to drive his coach under the most trying traffic conditions on a foundation of about four hours' sleep. This should not be. One of these days there will be a serious accident, with the usual investigation and regrets. E. MCKENZIE.

CONSERVING POLICEMEN.

Chicago, March 14.—In driving along any of our boulevards and especially at busy intersections one will see park and city policemen on duty, the park men directing traffic and city men watching business places, whereas one man could do both. At Irving Pard boulevard and Sheridan road there is one city police man at a bank and one at a drug store. Also a park policeman directing traffic and another watching parking. Two men could do it all, I believe. The same situation occurs at Madison, Ogden and Jackson, and at other boulevard crossings. Instead of draining the taxpayers' pocketbook by putting more policemen on the department force, why not use the men we now have? Put the police under the governor of the state, create a metropolitan police department, and get some efficiency. JAMES FORD.

A REASONABLE INQUIRY.

Chicago, March 12.—Why are men labeled "attendants" allowed about the loop streets at night with their flashlights, collecting tips from motorists who put their cars along the curbs? If one does not come across with a tip the "attendant" lets the air out of the tires or slashes them. Why is this allowed by the police? This has been going on for a year or two and no city official seems interested enough to molest them. I am going to watch my car for some sign of action on the part of the "attendant" and then I am going to act accordingly. VEHICLE TAX PAYER.

IN WHICH MR. K. IS WARNED.

Chicago, March 12.—Mr. Klowser of Bloomington had better be careful or our oppressed city might be taken from the state and run under its own power. Has he ever traveled over Detroit streets and Michigan highways leading there? We would have a system as good if the money we have put into remote downstate roads had been expended in the Chicago area, as Michigan did in the case of Wayne county. Maybe he does have to hide his head in shame when asked if Chicago is in Illinois, but he should remember that if Chicago were not in Illinois, Illinois would not be the great commonwealth it is and there would be fewer hard roads down the country. ALBERT RENSMAN.

IT SOUNDS GOOD!

Chicago, March 13.—Here is an idea for tire builders and motor car manufacturers to work on—dual tires for front wheels. This would eliminate the ever present hazard of front tire blow outs while driving at high speed, such as the recent crash of a Chicagoan in Florida. The only disadvantage, besides harder steering, which could be remedied, is additional tire expense, which is more than offset by the priceless factor of safety. Although the motorist would have fifty per cent more tires on his car, his extra expense would not be that much, as a smaller size tire which is lower in price could be used and would last longer because they would be used only on the front wheels. Also, in case of a front tire puncture it would not be necessary to change tires at once, regardless of whether you have time or not, as is now the case. Certainly the motorist who invests from one to five thousand dollars in a car will be more than thankful for the extra insurance at a premium of only a few dollars a year. H. J. E.

PUBLIC TO ASK MORE SAFETY IN ITS AUTOMOBILES

Features making for mental ease as to safety and control in the operation of a motor car and provoking mental satisfaction as to the car's style and luxury of appointments are the two demands which motor car owners will make upon the manufacturer in 1929, according to Ernest W. Seaholm, chief engineer of the Cadillac Motor Car company.

There has been something of a change in motorists' inclinations from what they were a year ago, when, with the vogue of color at its peak and with many new fashions in body design recently offered, the greatest amount of interest was in matters of style.

As engineering research has revealed new possibilities of greater safety in the operation of motor cars, the public mind has turned to these features. And with the rising demand for greater safety came two other demands of the same nature—the desire for ease of control in driving and mental ease in riding.

Roadability and the freedom of controls, like the steering wheel, brake and clutch pedals and the accelerator, from road shocks, are direct contributions to mental ease, and are all among the 1929 demands of experienced motorists.

NEW MONTREAL BRIDGES WILL BE TOLL FREE

No tolls will be collected on the new Viau and Lachapelle bridges, it is learned at Quebec. The intention of the provincial government is to make a grant to the city of Montreal to help pay the cost of construction, and the condition will be that the bridges shall be free.

The question of collecting tolls on the new bridges has been raised in Montreal and had a certain measure of support in the aldermanic body. This, however, was with the thought that the city alone would have to bear the cost of building the bridges. The decision of the government has helped to clear up the situation, and there will be no impediment to the flow of traffic from the island of Montreal to the north country.

The traffic which pours over the two bridges is heavy, motorists traveling as far north as Mont Laurier along the fine highway which the provincial government has built, and which is but one of a network of main roads caring for the country through the mountains and westward to Maniwaki, Hull and back to Montreal.

BACK SEAT DRIVING SERIOUS MENACE TO SAFETY, EXPERT SAYS

"If the 'back seat driver' does not feel at ease in an automobile without giving instructions to the driver, he should stay at home or use some other means of conveyance," says S. Edward Bable, president of the Pennsylvania Motor federation.

"Much has been said and written in jocular vein about the 'back seat driver,'" said Mr. Gable, "but this type is a serious menace to the safety of a motor car and its occupants. The difficulty is that neither the lawmakers nor the drivers subjected to the annoyance can get at the root of the evil. Correction of the condition must come through the 'rear seat drivers' themselves."

The old proverb that "Two heads are better than one" is not applicable to the motor car age, according to Mr. Gable. He prefers one clear head behind the wheel to two, three, or more trying to control the car from other points.

"It takes a clear head and strict attention to the road to operate a car in a safe and sane way," he concluded. "Too frequently passengers attempt to tell the driver what to do. Such action naturally diverts the operator's mind and distracts his attention. It should be condemned severely.

"If every driver in every car gives undivided attention to the task at hand, unmolested by comment from passengers, there will be fewer accidents."

20 SECONDS IS ENOUGH TO STOP AUTO-R. R. WRECK

Safety Experts Agree on Minimum Time.

The slowest thinking motorist driving at the most rapid rate of speed can avoid a collision with the fastest running train at a grade crossing if he is given 20 seconds warning of the approach of the train. This is the basis for a minimum standard operating time for automatic grade crossing signals included in a national standard code devoted largely to colors for traffic signals, just published by the American Standards association. The code was formulated by a committee of 50 traffic, safety, railway, and signal engineers, working under the national standardization procedure of the association, with the American Association of State Highway Officials, the United State bureau of standards, and the National Safety council taking a leading part in the work.

The standard represents the results of five years of study and research by members of the committee. The work of this committee resulted in clarifying the confusion in colors used in traffic signals which existed at the time in various parts of New York City, Buffalo, and other cities. One of the results was abandonment of the system then in use on 5th avenue in Manhattan, which made green a "Go" signal for vehicles traveling in one direction and a "Stop" signal for vehicles traveling in another direction.

The color technologists on the committee left nothing to chance in setting up standards for the colors for traffic signals. Red, yellow, and green, the only colors recognizable as permissible for use in traffic signals, are carefully defined in terms of dominant wave lengths of light, to assure that the manufacturers of the signals will make the colors so accurate that all signals in a community, no matter from how many manufacturers they are purchased, will be exactly alike.

The standard permits the use of white, amber, or yellow headlights, and stipulates that no red or green lights shall be displayed upon any vehicle so as to be visible from a point directly in front of it.

In reaffirming red as the color for tail lights the standard points out that red has been adopted only because of its present universal use for this purpose, but that it is not consistent with the general standardization of colors and that if any change is made yellow is recommended.

Flashing Signals.

Other provisions of the standard include: Yellow, and not red or green, light signals shall be displayed on a vehicle to indicate the driver's intention to reduce speed or change direction; nonluminous mechanical signals displayed to indicate the driver's intention to reduce speed or change direction shall consist of a semaphore which can be projected from the left side of the vehicle. It is recommended that the position of the semaphore when projected be limited to the horizontal; where definite forms of signs or signals are used, either alone or in combination with colors, (a) stop shall be indicated by having the greatest dimension horizontal, as with a horizontal string of lights; (b) caution shall be indicated by having the greatest dimension at an angle of 45 degrees with the horizontal; (c) proceed shall be indicated by having the greatest dimension vertical. The standard also provides that flashing signals shall be so constructed that they shall be visible for a distance of at least 300 feet on a clear day with a bright sun at or near the zenith.

Data obtained by the committee, which established the present standard, concerning other phases of traffic control systems have been turned over to another committee working under the procedure of the American Standards association with the American Engineering council as sponsor. This committee is now at work establishing standards for other street traffic signals, signs, and markings.

CALIFORNIA PLANS 311 MILES OF NEW PAVEMENT IN 2 YEARS

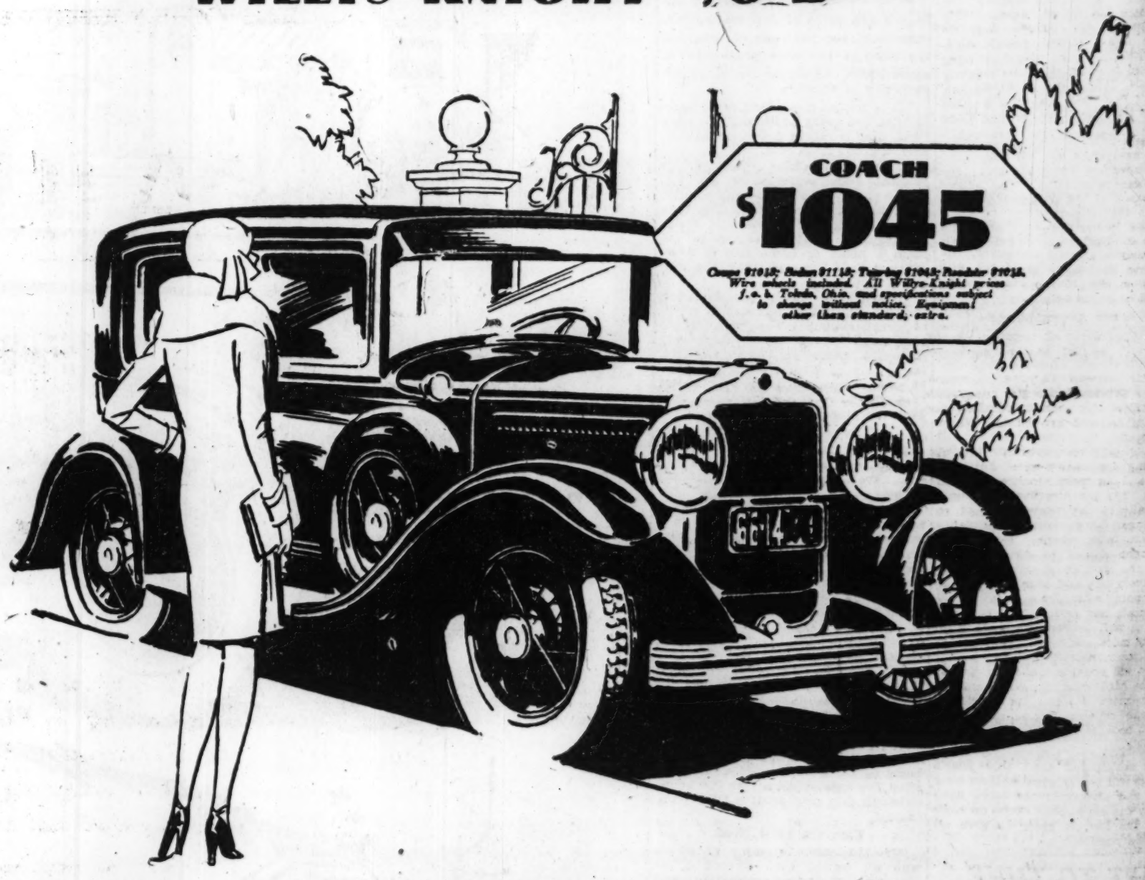
California has added 255 miles of paved construction, 34 miles of bituminous macadam and 698 miles of grading with crushed rock, oil sealed or armored surfaces, a total of nearly 1,000 miles of improved highway during the last biennium. This is the summary of a report just issued by the department of public works.

For the coming two years the plans contemplate 311 miles of paving, 154 miles of macadam and 541 miles of grading, a total of 1,007 miles.

In addition to its building program, the state is making its highways safer. The minimum width of pavement had been set at 20 feet and the minimum width of grades at 26 feet, providing for an eight foot shoulder on either side, thus giving the motorist ample room to stop his car with all four wheels off of the pavement.

Custom-car beauty AT A NEW LOW PRICE

IN THIS LARGE AND POWERFUL WILLYS-KNIGHT "70-B"



FOR smartness of line, richness of color and perfection of detail, the new style Willys-Knight "70-B" can be compared only with expensive custom-built cars. Fashioned to the minute, the new Willys-Knight is distinguished by beauty of design that makes it the outstanding creation of leading style specialists.

The new style Willys-Knight "70-B" is a definite triumph of progress—the largest, most beautiful and most powerful Knight-engined car ever offered at so low a price. Thus, additional thousands are now enabled to own the famous Willys-Knight and to enjoy the unusual motoring satisfaction that has always been distinctive of Willys-Knight ownership.

Drive the new style Willys-Knight, and you will be gratified with the silence, speed and activity of its big, powerful motor—the patented double sleeve-valve engine. Long service will effect increasing smoothness and efficiency, while remarkable freedom from repairs and carbon troubles insures low operating cost.

WILLYS-OVERLAND, INC., TOLEDO, OHIO

NEW "FINGER-TIP CONTROL"

A single button, in center of steering wheel, starts motor, operates lights and sounds horn. Simple in design; easy to operate. No wires in steering post—instead, a steel rod connecting button with switch. You can keep your foot on brake when starting or re-starting on a hill.

Air Schools ∴ AVIATION ∴ Air Traffic

AIRPLANES NEED HIGHWAYS THE SAME AS AUTOS

Future of Aviation Rests on Good Airways.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

The sportsman flyer today faces the same problem that beset the motorist in the early days of the automobile when motoring was a sporting venture. The motorist needed good roads. The flyer today needs safe airways, well marked, easy to travel and sprinkled with handy emergency landing fields.

It is, of course, only one of several aviation problems, but it is a large one. Upon its proper solution depends the growth in traffic for private craft and the popularity of flying generally.

Today the novice flyer may fly only during the most favorable weather conditions. In the pursuit of his sport he is restricted to comparatively small areas within safe distances of known airports. He may venture into unknown territory only at a risk. He must then follow maps, which in itself is a task for the layman; maps which in many cases show only a few widely scattered landing fields.

Guided by Rivers.

He must be guided below by rivers or railroads or other ground communication channels. Few of these channels, restricted by the physical features of the earth, follow a straight line. He is thus unable to take advantage of one of the greatest benefits of airplane travel—the ability to fly from point to point in a straight line.

He dare not fly at night. Few of the airways are lighted and what beacon lights there are would not be sufficient for the novice should he be forced to descend in darkness. He may not fly in bad weather. Fog, snow or rain may obscure the ground making it impossible to follow land marks.

These aspects of the larger problem of air navigation are all fully known to the agencies which are today working toward a solution. The aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, the Guggenheim foundation for the promotion of aeronautics, American Legion air posts, service clubs and commerce groups are campaigning for safer airways, better airway markings, more airports and extension of communication facilities.

Better Communication.

The department of commerce is carrying out, as far as its limited appropriations will allow, a program of complete airway lighting, increased weather service and better telegraphic and telephonic communication between ships and ground and between airports.

The Guggenheim foundation is campaigning for nation-wide marking of roofs and for more emergency landing fields. They are meeting with success, especially in their campaign for roof-markings. Large arrows and tall letters are being painted on roof tops and open spaces to direct the pilot from the air. They propose to decorate every city and hamlet throughout the country with airway markings.

Aircraft navigation for the private flyer as well as for the operator will depend more and more upon adequate radio communication. Such communication will provide trails for the flyer as the hard roads provide trails for the motorist. Radio communication is the only reliable means of air navigation because it is not dependent on visibility.

Need Good Visibility.

In periods of low visibility today the pilot is in the same position as the motorist would be should the hard road suddenly disappear below him. Planes can be flown with some success by instrument, but not over long distances. It is impossible to land safely without fairly good visibility at the landing point.

With the adequate development of the radio marker beacon and radio direction signals, altitude beacons, radio telephone broadcasting, airport transmitters and plane to ground radio telegraphy and telephony, most of the low visibility difficulties will disappear and bad weather flying will entail few extra hazards.

Edgar H. Felix, radio consultant to the National Electrical Manufacturers association, recently presented to the federal radio commission the following outline of the future needs of aircraft radio communication:

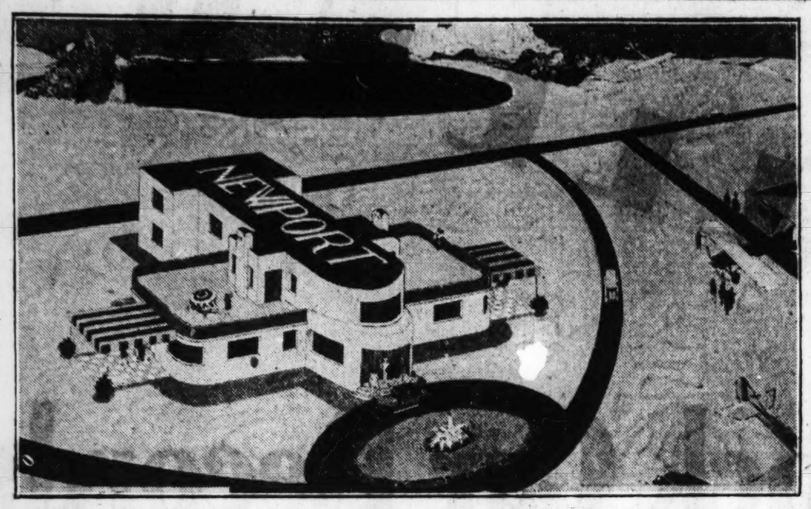
Marker beacons: These will be required at all airports, intermediate landing fields, along mountain ranges and at danger points on all air routes.

Ten Radio Stations.

Direct beacons: Assuming fully equipped airways connecting all the principal cities, there will be an average of four direction beacons at 100 centers of population in the United States, with additional transmitters at intermediate points where the distances are too great for a signal transmitter to reach the next traffic center.

Radio telephone aircraft broadcasting: At least 10 high power radio telephone stations will be required for general broadcasting purposes. Low power radio telephony with very limited range will be needed at each airport for landing regulation purposes. Every type of multi-passenger plane will ultimately require not only radio reception, but low power radio telegraph transmission. The total requirements of this traffic appear to be approximately equal with that now used for maritime communication with several thousand ships and the necessary shore stations for a shore or terminal system, involving thousands of harbors (corresponding to airports).

UNIQUE AIR CLUBHOUSE



Although it looks like an airplane, this building is not equipped for flight. It is a modernistic conception by Warren Sheppard Mathews, New York architect, which has been submitted to the board of managers of the Newport Aviation Country club as a fitting design for an aviation club house. It is being considered by the wealthy New York sportsmen pilots for their new quarters.

VOUGHT CORSAIR IS COMMERCIAL OR WAR PLANE

Has an Interchangeable Landing Gear.

This is the fourth of a series of articles in describing the 1929 line of American and foreign made airplanes. Another make of plane will be described next Sunday.

Interchangeable landing gear is a feature of the Vought Corsair, manufactured by the Chance Vought Corporation. One set of landing gears allows it to alight on land, another set is for landing on water and a third set converts the plane into an amphibian, able to alight either on land or water. The plane also embodies deck arresting and catapulting provisions.

The Corsair is a two-place, open cockpit, tractor biplane designed primarily for military operations. It is designed to give high performance and maneuverability at high altitudes and may be used for private and commercial purposes where these features are desired. The front cockpit can be converted to carry a cargo of mail or express, the plane then being flown from the rear seat.

Nine Cylinder Motor.

A 425 horse power Pratt & Whitney Wasp motor of the nine cylinder air cooled radial type is used in the Corsair. The plane has a straight lower wing and a sweep-back upper wing which is composed of three panels, the outer panels hinged to the center section. The lower wing consists of two panels hinged directly to the fuselage. Special wing sections are used with deep, routed spruce wing beams to give rigidity. Wing ribs are of plywood and spruce. All wings are fabric covered. Sidewalks are provided at the root of each lower wing panel.

The fuselage is of the tandem cockpit arrangement, streamlined to reduce resistance. It is fabricated throughout of steel tubing welded together. The fuselage is metal cowled from the rear seat forward and fabric covered aft. The rear seat folds clear for gun operation or carrying luggage or express and the front seat is adjustable in flight.

Dual Type Controls.

The fuel and oil tanks are fitted into the sides of the fuselage. They are made of sheet aluminum with a capacity for the two tanks of 90 gallons. Additional fuel may be supplied to meet special requirements. The oil tank has a capacity of 6½ gallons.

The controls are of the dual type with rear stick removable. An adjustable rudder bar is provided in the front cockpit. Tail surfaces are designed for the seaplane conditions. They are of the welded steel tube construction and are fabric covered. The horizontal stabilizer is adjustable in flight by a hand control in the pilot's cockpit. The vertical rudder is of the balanced type.

The landing gear is of the split axle type with spring shock absorbing unit in the front leg. The all metal floating landing gear is interchangeable with the wheel gear. The water gear consists of a single central float and two wing tip floats designed for catapulting and rough water use. The gear is made from sheet duralumin and steel. The amphibian gear is similar to the float gear with retractable wheels. The tail skid is steerable for assistance in taxiing.

For War Use.

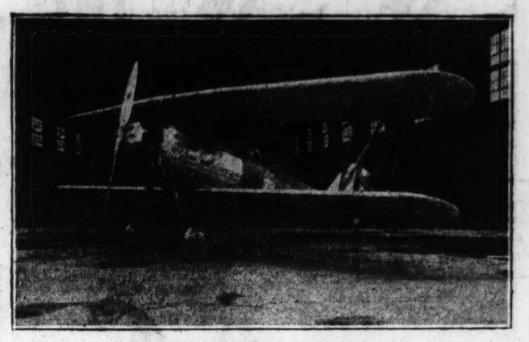
Provision is made for standard military load equipment, including fixed and free guns with necessary ammunition. Wings are provided with internal support for bomb gear. Provision is made in the rear cockpit for installation of radio equipment. A hand fire extinguisher is furnished in each cockpit with fire extinguisher in the engine compartment operated by remote control from either cockpit.

Following is the performance data for the Corsair as supplied by the Vought company:

	Land plane.	Sea-plane.
Maximum speed, sea level, m.p.h.	151	147
Landing speed, sea level, m.p.h.	48	50
Initial rate of climb, feet per minute	2,100	1,800
Climb in 10 minutes, feet	13,000	12,000
Service ceiling, feet	22,500	21,000
Absolute ceiling, feet	24,500	23,000
Range of cruising speed, miles	580	520

The Corsair has a wing span of 34½ feet and a height of 10 feet. The length for the land plane is 24½ feet while the seaplane has a length of 28½ feet.

EQUIPPED FOR WAR



THE VOUGHT CORSAIR.

CIVIC GROUPS WANT OLD FIELD AT BROADVIEW

Following closely the lead set by the Forest Park Chamber of Commerce in its action indorsing the recommendation that the Cook county board acquire the old air mail flying field in Broadview, six commercial and civic organizations have adopted similar resolutions within the last week.

The action of the Forest Park commercial organization was taken immediately following announcement of Maj. Reed Landis' recommendation, as chairman of the county board's advisory aviation committee.

Others which took similar action, stressing the importance to the western portion of the county of re-establishing a flying field in this section included the Oak Park Chamber of Commerce, the River Forest Commercial association, the Maywood Chamber of Commerce, the Forest Park Kiwanis club, and the Forest Lions club.

Records Show Mail Planes' High Speed

Air mail planes, which regularly maintain a 100 mile an hour speed, have often nearly doubled this figure, according to the American Air Transport association which has published for the first time the existing speed records created by air mail pilots. The individual speed record is held by Charles (Speed) Holman, who flew a mail plane over the 350 mile route between Minneapolis and Chicago in one hour and forty-eight minutes, an average of 185 miles an hour.

The fastest time at which the 2,680 mile transcontinental air mail route between New York and San Francisco has been flown is 16 hours and 36 minutes, made by five pilots flying the five sections of the transcontinental airway. The mail ships averaged 156 miles an hour.

Chadwick B. Smith, chief pilot on the nonstop air mail run between Minneapolis and Chicago led all other air mail pilots for time spent in the air in 1928, with 1,173 hours and 15 minutes. Fred W. Kelly, former Olympic hurdle champion is in second place, twenty flying hours back of Smith. Kelly flies the mail between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles.

Other Air Records.

Other all time individual air mail speed records are:

San Francisco-Chicago, 1,949 miles in 12 hours 43 minutes, average speed of 165 miles per hour, held jointly by pilots J. H. Thompson, Frank Yeager, and George Myers.

Chicago-Cleveland, 324 miles in 1 hour 40 minutes, average speed 136 miles per hour—Pilot Robert Hopkins.

Cleveland-New York, 399 miles in 2 hours 13 minutes, average speed 180 miles per hour—Pilot Henry J. Brown.

Omaha-Chicago, 450 miles in 2 hours 30 minutes, average speed of 172 miles per hour—Pilot Rube Wagner.

Dallas-Kansas City, 541 miles in 3 hours 55 minutes, average speed of 130 miles per hour—Pilot George B. Grogan.

Kansas City-Chicago, 450 miles in 2 hours and 37 minutes, average speed 175 miles per hour—Pilot Edmund Matucha.

Minneapolis-Chicago.

Minneapolis-Chicago, 350 miles in 2 hours and 8 minutes, average speed 169 miles an hour. (Record for single motored cabin plane). Pilot Homer Cole.

Minneapolis-Chicago, 350 miles in 2 hours and 13 minutes, average speed 162 miles an hour. (Record made in trimotored passenger mail plane.) Pilot Chadwick B. Smith.

Evansville-Chicago, 281 miles in 1 hour and 52 minutes, average speed 144 miles an hour—Pilot Richard K. Peck.

Atlanta-Richmond, 484 miles in 2 hours 54 minutes, average speed 167 miles per hour—Pilot John S. Kytle.

Richmond-Newark, 294 miles in 1 hour 38 minutes, average speed 180 miles per hour—Pilot Donald Johnston.

QUESTIONS

Questions relating to aviation are answered in this section by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, famous world war flyer, who formerly held the world altitude record. Inquiries should be addressed to the Aviation Department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Q.—What is the number of revolutions and performance of the OX-5 90 h. p. Curtiss motor, throttle wide open and plane held on place?

ALBERT WORTMAN, Chicago.

A.—At full speed and power the Curtiss OX-5 turns 1,400 r. p. m. on the ground. The performance varies with type of ship in which the motor is installed, depending on the ship's design.

Q.—Could you please tell me if the Pratt & Whitney company are the only ones that manufacture "Wasp" engines? Are there any water cooled "Wasp" engines?

ARTHUR TRESSLER, Chicago.

A.—The Pratt & Whitney Aircraft company is the sole manufacturer of "Wasp" engines. The "Wasp" is nine cylinder air cooled radial with a rated horse power of 400 at 1,900 r. p. m. at sea level. There is no water cooled "Wasp."

Q.—How could I get a motor mechanics' license?

HARVEY JOHNSON, Chicago.

A.—There are two classifications of licensed mechanics—namely: engine mechanics and airplane mechanics. The former must have two years' experience on internal combustion engines, one year of which must be on airplane engines. The latter must have one year's actual experience servicing aircraft. For either license applicant must pass a theoretical and practical examination given by the department of commerce with a grade of 70 per cent. A licensed mechanic would command at least the wages mentioned in your letter and should secure employment without much difficulty.

Q.—Will you please tell me how men are selected for the army air service? Also, what their rank is on completion of the course?

GEORGE F. HARVEY, West Lafayette, Ind.

A.—The army air corps recruiting station at 537 South Dearborn street will give you full information.

Q.—Who is the holder of the world's record for the greatest number of feet one has fallen with a parachute before opening it? What is the highest one has jumped with a parachute?

CURTIS L. ATTERBERY, Racine, Wis.

A.—There are no authenticated world's records for such performances as these, since no official body checks them as in the case of speed, duration and altitude tests. To the best of my recollection, Sergt. E. Chambers of the U. S. army got off on Nov. 1, 1921, at a height of almost 26,000 feet. The army also conducted tests on "delayed opening" drops, the longest being, I believe, about 5,000 feet. You can secure exact data by writing the information section of the department of commerce at Washington.

FASTEST AIR MAIL PLANE WILL GO IN SERVICE HERE

The fastest air mail plane in the United States was delivered to the operations department of National Air Transport, Inc., at the Chicago municipal airport this week. It is a Curtiss Falcon powered with a Curtiss Conqueror 625 horsepower, twelve cylinder, water cooled engine which, combined with a geared propeller, gives the ship a high speed of 160 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 140. The wing spread of the new cargo ship is 58 feet. It is completely equipped with all night flying and other navigation instruments.

The new Falcon, the first of its type to be turned out by the Curtiss company, will be flown in a series of experimental tests by pilots of N. A. T. and will later be put in service over either the Chicago-Dallas or Chicago-New York air mail lines operated by the company. It has a cargo capacity of 750 pounds. Seven other Falcons powered with 400 horsepower Liberty motors are in service on the Dallas line.

Tests $2,000,000 Worth of Planes Without Accident

Flight testing of more than $2,000,000 worth of airplanes without harming a single ship and flying thousands of miles without mishap to any passenger is the record established by J. J. "Red" Harrigan, chief test pilot of the Mahoney-Ryan Aircraft corporation, according to figures compiled at the factory today. He is one of the few flyers who hold licenses to pilot everything that flies.

$314,000 Worth of Planes Are Ordered for Export

FARMINGDALE, L. I.—Orders for airplanes for export valued at $314,000 were received during January and February of this year by the Fairchild Airplane Manufacturing company. Figures made public by G. B. Grosvenor, president of the company, also show that last year's American export sales, 170 planes, totalled $1,826,637. Of the 18 Fairchild foreign orders thus far in 1929, 13 planes costing $223,000 have already been delivered.

Maritime Provinces of Canada Have Airmail

Air mail service between Ottawa, Montreal, St. John, and Halifax has started. It gives the maritime provinces direct air mail service with the United States, the planes of the Canadian Colonial Airways, operating between New York and Montreal, making the connection at the latter city.

U. S. Far Ahead of Europe in Night Plane Flying

Mail, express, and passenger planes in the United States fly approximately 15,000 miles nightly in scheduled operation, in sharp contrast to European operation in which there is practically no night flying. A check of European night flying shows only two long night routes, Berlin to Konigsberg and Belgrade to Bucharest, but plans are being made this year to light airways for night flying between Paris and Berlin, Paris and London, and London and Brussels. The longest lighted airway in the world is the San Francisco-New York route of 2,680 miles.

CHRYSLER MOTORS PRODUCT

All talk of Plymouth revolves on Quality

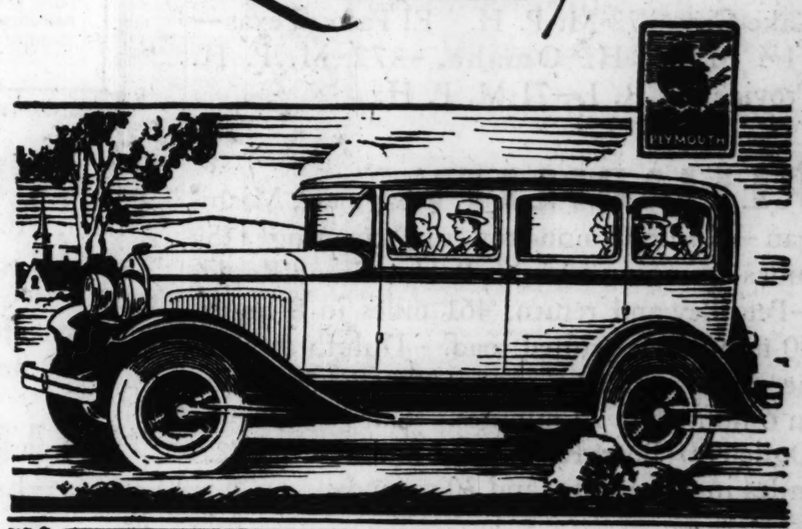
FULL SIZE



THE FULL-SIZE SEDAN HAS EVERY BIG-CAR COMFORT
Ample Room for Five Large Persons—$695 at factory

ONE of the fine things about owning a FULL-SIZE Plymouth is having a car that doesn't suggest a price tag to all your friends.

Plymouth can match price with other cars in the lowest-priced field, but there all similarity ends—for other cars priced around it cannot begin to match Plymouth's size, quality, beauty and power.

In these the full-size Plymouth enjoys a distinction that is unique.

People think instantly of style when a Plymouth glides by—when their eyes are taken by Plymouth's full-length gracefulness, its slender profile radiator, its flaring "air-wing" fenders and other smart touches of Chrysler designing.

Thoughts of comfort are inevitable when you step inside the full-size Plymouth and contrast its generous roominess with the customary cramped quarters of today's miniature motor cars.

You feel a genuine thrill at the wheel when you sense the flood of power that answers the lightest touch on the accelerator—when you discover the fine smoothness of Plymouth's big high-compression engine which utilizes the Chrysler "Silver-Dome" principle.

You enjoy a wonderful feeling of safety whenever you touch the brake pedal and note the positive, quick and easy action of the full-size Chrysler weatherproof internal-expanding four-wheel hydraulic brakes.

Summing it all up, the full-size Plymouth brings you real fine-car advantages and satisfactions, and at the same time offers utmost economy in first cost and remarkable savings in gas, oil and general maintenance.

And Upwards
F. O. B. Factory

A small price no longer limits anybody to a small car. In creating Plymouth, Chrysler Motors has changed the whole complexion of the lowest-priced field.

BRITAIN'S PAST IS REVIVED IN CHICAGO BANK

Continental Illinois at Home Tomorrow.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Shades of Oliver Cromwell, Charles I, James II., Disraeli, and other front page figures in the history of old England will hover over the lower end of La Salle street tomorrow morning when the 1,900 employés of the erstwhile Continental National bank walk into their new quarters across the street—formerly the Illinois-Merchants Trust building and now the home of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, a combination of the two banks.

The interior of the Illinois Merchants building has been remodeled to provide facilities for the combined personnel of the two institutions, with the result that Chicago will have—so it's claimed—one of the most beautifully appointed and efficiently arranged banks in the world. The remodeling is reputed to have cost in the neighborhood of $3,000,000.

High spots in the alteration of the building were the installation of two rooms taken from the Great House, Whitehall, in Shrewsbury, England, as offices for Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the board, and Eugene M. Stevens, president. The personages mentioned in the first paragraph were guests in the mansion at one time or another, and hence their connection with a Chicago banking house of the twentieth century. The office of George Reynolds will be practically identical with his old quarters in the Continental building.

Imposing Directors' Room.

Another feature, though a matter of the immediate future, is the directors' room. Directors will hold their first meeting tomorrow in a rather barren chamber on the twenty-third floor. But when this chamber assumes its ultimate form it will be the most magnificent bank directors' room in the country, surpassing in sumptuousness that of the Chase National bank of New York. Authority for this statement comes from officials of the bank and from the architects, Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, who designed the building and who are in charge of the remodeling.

This room will be two stories high and in design and arrangement will resemble a parliamentary hall or senate chamber. It will be 65 feet long and will face along La Salle street. The chairman and vice chairman of the board will have desks on a platform raised slightly above the floor level. Facing them the desks of the directors will be arranged in a semicircle.

The room will have high walnut wainscoting, rich molding, and a ceiling half dome in shape. Entry will be through tall paneled doors, richly carved, after the manner of Grinley Gibbons, English master of wood carving of the seventeenth century.

Two Floors Added.

Illumination will be from lights concealed in the walnut cornice of the wainscot. Portraits of bank officials will be hung on the walls. Lobbies, foyers, and committee rooms will be immediately adjacent to the main chamber.

Still another part of the remodeling consists of the addition of two stories to the building in the form of a penthouse. On the twenty-fourth floor will be the dining rooms for the senior and junior officers, together with lounges. And on the twenty-fifth floor will be found the private dining rooms of the three or four "big shots" of the institution. This floor will also have a private dining room for the use of the directors and their guests.

Dropping down lower in the building, the general banking quarters have been so rearranged and cut up that officials familiar a few months ago with every nook and corner now almost require a navigator to find their way around. The fourth, fifth, and sixth floors are practically new. All the walls have been given a high wainscoting of rich walnut.

Balconies have been installed along the north and south sides of the main banking floor. And the restaurant in the basement, where employés are given their meals at less than cost, have been enlarged. Incidentally these rooms are tastefully furnished; the walls are hung with sporting prints.

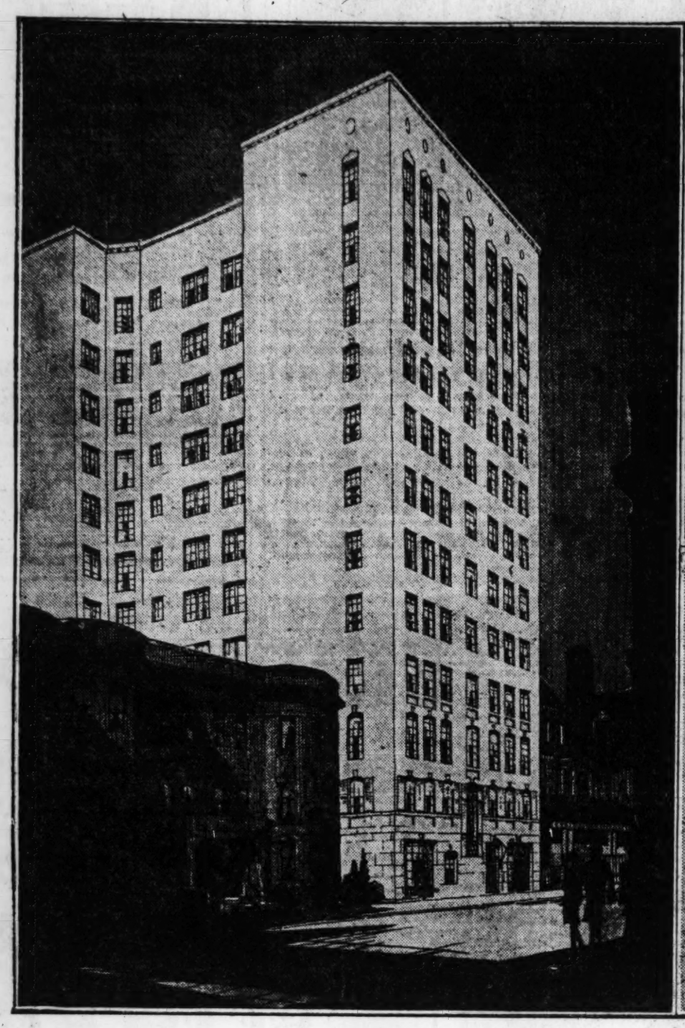
English Renaissance Spirit.

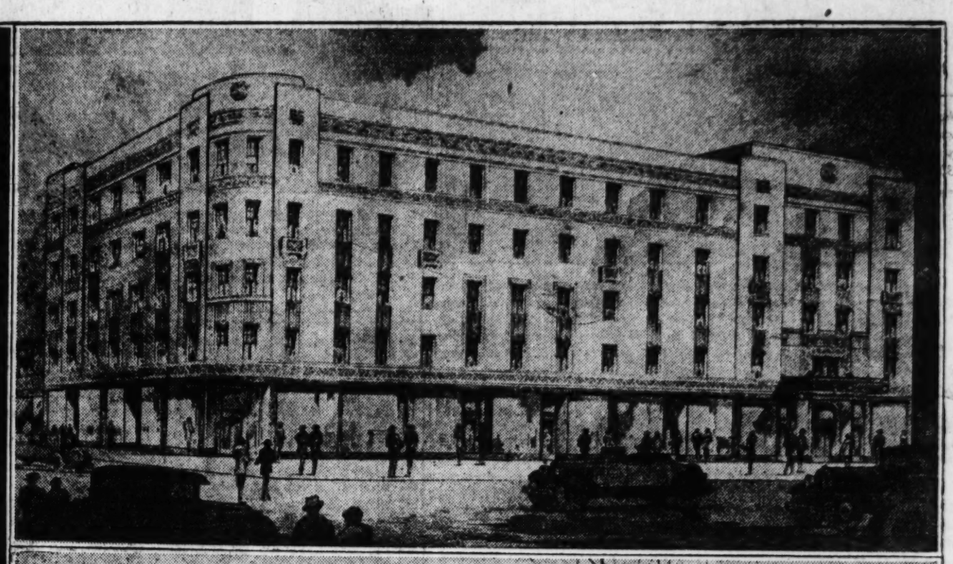
The spirit of the remodeling work generally throughout the building is English renaissance of the period tending toward the close of the seventeenth century.

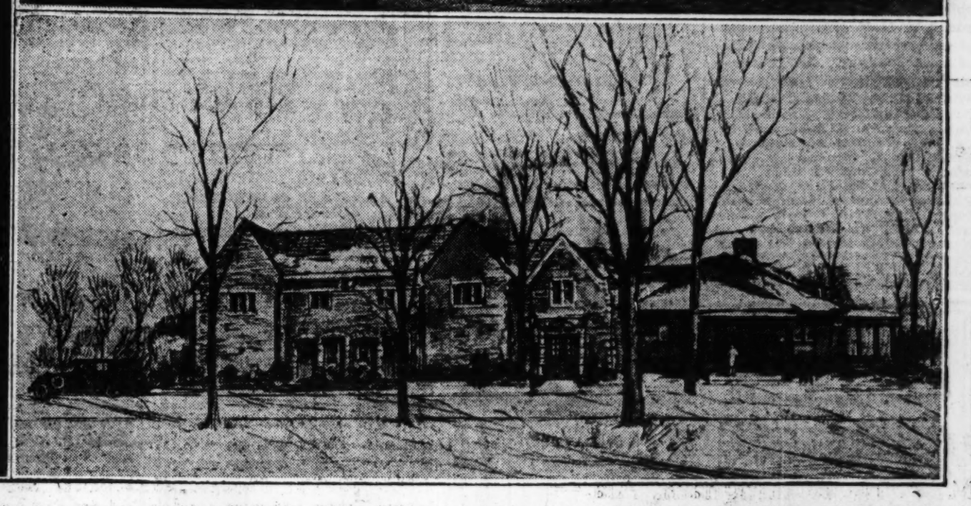
It might be interesting to go back for a moment to the rooms brought here from Whitehall. This house from which they were taken was completed for its owner, Sir Richard Prynce, in 1852. After the death of Sir Richard it was occupied by several generations of Prynces and then passed through inheritance into the ownership of the earls of Tankerville. In 1835 the fifth earl sold it to Dr. Samuel Butler, headmaster of Shrewsbury school, who made it his residence. Charles Darwin was a pupil of Dr. Butler and later was a frequent visitor at the house.

The house was dismantled last year, the paneling first being offered to the town of Shrewsbury, but funds were not available. Five rooms were brought to America. The two installed in the bank have magnificent fireplaces ornamented with fine old carving. Space forbids detailed description here. Another of the rooms is being installed in the Lake Forest residence of Stanley Field, and the fourth in the residence of Arthur Reynolds.

UPTOWN APARTMENTS, NORTH SIDE HOTEL, AND SUBURBAN CLUB







To the left is a twelve story apartment building to be erected at 910 Lawrence avenue as told about in this department some months ago. Huszagh & Hill designed the structure which will be just east of Sheridan road. It will contain eighty-eight three and four room suites. The design will be early American throughout. Even the lighting fixtures, hardware, wall paper, etc., will be carried out in this style. The owner is the 910 Lawrence Avenue Building corporation. It is stated the investment will be $725,000.

At the upper right hand corner is a 220 room hotel to be erected at the southwest corner of Clark and Division by Fred Becklenberg, building contractor and owner, at a reported cost of $600,000. Harry Glube is architect and Chester Danforth made this picture.

At the lower right hand corner is the new clubhouse to be erected by the Woman's club of Wilmette at the northeast corner of Tenth and Greenleaf in the north shore suburb. Granger & Bollenbacher designed the building. F. L. Venning of the firm made this sketch.

A. YOUNKER TO BUILD ITALIAN COURT STUDIOS

Million $ Syndicate Buys Opposite.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Two Chicago avenue and Cass street corners are headliners in today's realty news; one through its purchase by a million dollar syndicate, and the other because of the announcement of an unusually elaborate and attractive studio apartment building to be erected.

The northeast corner of Chicago and Cass sale is perhaps the more spectacular item from a news standpoint, for it involves as imposing an array of well known Chicagoans as we've seen in a realty deal for many moons. These gentlemen of shekels and social standing (whose names, for some unexplained reason, they insist keeping out of print in connection with this deal) form what is known as the Chicago-Cass syndicate.

This gilt edged group has purchased not only the corner but the entire block of frontage on the east side of Cass, north to Pearson street. This is improved with the four story Casa Villa apartments. If the new owners don't sell it within a year they state that they may erect a huge theater, shop, office and apartment building.

"Stop and Build."

Before we go into the humdrum details of size, etc., of this property, we'll hop across the street to the southeast corner of Chicago avenue and Cass street, where Aaron Younker, former impresario of the Stop and Shop food emporium when it was on Boul Mich, is going to erect what is claimed will be one of the most interesting studio apartment projects in the country.

Tenants in the present buildings on the site have just been notified to move, and wreckers will start two weeks from tomorrow to clear the ground for the proposed $325,000 project. Schmidt, Garden & Erikson have completed plans for a three story fireproof Italian court building, which it is expected will do much to add to the prestige of the near north side as Chicago's art center.

The building, as yet unnamed, will have stores on the Chicago avenue frontage, but none on the Cass street side. The apartments on the second and third floors overlooking Chicago avenue will be studio suites. The larger apartments will open on the attractive Italian garden court, with its fountains and grass and flowers. The building will contain a total of thirty-two suites of one, two and three rooms.

This Ought to Be Easy.

Mr. Younker, who is in California, is spending his spare time from golf trying to think of a good name for his project. As he originated the name "Stop and Shop," which certainly proved a winner, he'll probably come back from the coast with an ear soothing bit of nomenclature for his Italian court.

According to E. W. Farnsworth of Gordon Strong & Co., who represented Mr. Younker when he assembled the site last December, four applicants for apartments in the new building already have been received. Gordon Strong & Co., by the way, will be the renting agents for Mr. Younker.

The property fronts 140 feet on Chicago avenue and has a frontage on Cass street of 135 feet. It is possible that the south forty-five feet of the Cass street frontage may not be included in the new project. The present buildings may merely be remodeled.

Now Back Across the Street.

Now, let's step back across Chicago avenue again to the northeast corner of Cass, where this social register syndicate of modest millionaires is now in control. The property was purchased from Julius Strass and E. H. Siebel for an undisclosed consideration. It is part of a subdivision created many years ago by the Benedictine Order of Chicago and was partly improved by Patrick J. Sexton with a four story brick apartment building containing sixty-four suites. This is the before mentioned Casa Villa.

The property purchased by the syndicate fronts 162 feet on Chicago avenue, 218 feet on Cass street, and 93 feet on Pearson street. The area is approximately 28,000 square feet. The Chicago avenue corner, with 107 feet of Cass street frontage, was bought from Mr. Siebel. The remaining 111 feet were secured from the Casa Villa Building corporation, of which Mr. Strass is chief stockholder.

The buying syndicate was organized by Sudler & Co. and is the seventh group organized by that firm during the last year to purchase Chicago real estate. Carroll and Louis Sudler and James Rogers, all of Sudler & Co., were brokers in the transaction.

The purchase was made subject to a $405,000 loan from the State Bank of Chicago. Title has been transferred to the Chicago Title and Trust company as trustee for the syndicate.

Paid $20,000 in 1906; Sells for $400,000

John P. Sheehan bought the northeast corner of 63d and Western avenue twenty-three years ago for less than $20,000. Yesterday he sold it to John Bain and associates for a reported $400,000. When Mr. Sheehan purchased this corner it was part of a subdivision. Carl O. Seburg took title for the Bain interests.

The property is partly improved with a small two story building. It is understood that the new owners may improve with a large building, but nothing definite has been decided. The land has a frontage of 272 feet on 63d and 125 feet on Western.

Ben Lawless was attorney for the seller and R. J. Massena for the buyer. John Bain & Co. were brokers.

Swayne Names Outing and Association Committees

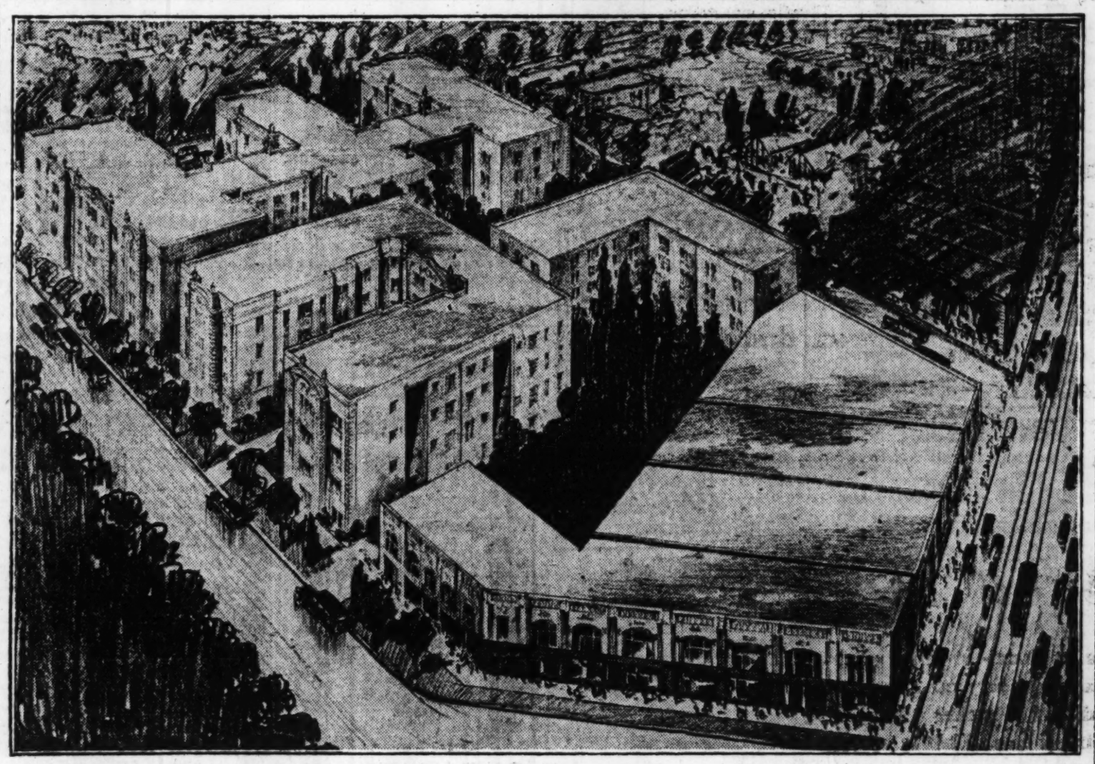
WILL REPLACE CITY'S OLDEST BRICK HOUSE



This is the group of buildings announced in this section on Sunday, Feb. 3, for the irregular shaped block bounded by Milwaukee, Belle Plaine, Cuyler, and Laporte avenues. On part of this property stands the famous old Dickinson or Lowell tavern, said to be Chicago's oldest brick house. Michael Flicht of Michael Flicht & Co. heads the syndicate backing the above project. A two story commercial building is planned for the Milwaukee avenue frontage. There'll be three twenty-four flat buildings facing on Laporte avenue and a thirty apartment building on Cuyler. On Belle Plaine avenue will be a thirty-nine suite building. All six units were designed by Rissmann & Hirschfeld. Charles Morgan made this picture.

Woman's Club of Wilmette Plans to Build

Members of the Woman's club of Wilmette are planning to improve their property at the northeast corner of Greenleaf and Tenth with a new clubhouse at a cost of about $100,000. The present club building on the land, in use since 1910, will be incorporated in the structure.

The new building will face on Tenth avenue, to the north of the old edifice. Designed by Granger & Bollenbacher, it will be constructed of Lannan stone —Wisconsin product. There will be an auditorium with a seating capacity of 650 on the ground floor. The auditorium will have a stage which will be well equipped for the presentation of amateur theatricals.

Next to the auditorium will be a combination dining hall and reception room. Adjacent will be a large lounge. The building has been planned to allow the various sections to be shut off from each other so that a number of meetings may be in progress at the same time.

Men's Lounge in Basement.

Dressing rooms, cloak rooms, a smoking room and a men's lounge will be located in the basement.

The lot, owned by the club, fronts 192 feet on Tenth avenue and 100 feet on Greenleaf. It is expected that the improvement will be completed some time in October.

The club was founded in 1892 through the efforts of Miss Ida J. Law. Its first president was a Mrs. Leonard, the wife of a Methodist minister in Wilmette. For its first five years the club met in the home of Miss Law, then moving to quarters over a store on Central avenue, near Twelfth. Its next home was in Jones' hall, on Wilmette avenue. From there it went to the Ouilmette club. Upon the gift of its present site by Mrs. Ogden Lansing it built a home of its own, which has been outgrown.

Used by Other Groups.

Other organizations of the town use the building, including the Woman's Catholic club of Wilmette, the Evening Garden club, etc. Besides its social activities the club does a great deal of philanthropic work, 27 per cent of its annual receipts being devoted to charity. It helps support a number of charitable organizations in the city.

Mrs. Hayes McKinney is president of the organization. Mrs. F. J. Scheidenheim is chairman of the building committee, Mrs. J. C. Mannerud is chairman of the subcommittee on construction, and Mrs. A. J. Dixon is chairman of the subcommittee on finance. The club has 650 members and may expand.

WHAT'S IN NAME? 30,000 BELIEVE ONE WORTH $500

Today is good old St. Pat's day and we'd like to make some one happy on it by announcing that he—or better she—had won the $500 offered for a name for the building which a syndicate is erecting on the block bounded by Michigan, Ohio, Rush and Grand. But there will be no announcement today—the reason being the judges are finding themselves headed toward a bit of wooziness in the top floor as a result of the task in which they find themselves submerged.

This department carried a story on Feb. 24 announcing the competition. The day following the judges found their mail swamped with letters containing suggestions. The letters came by ordinary mail, special delivery and messenger. Some 30,000 have been received.

And now the task is to search out the mass of mail for a prize winner. Many persons submitted similar names, which adds to the difficulty of the task. Among the most popular are Lindbergh, Liberty and Michohio. But there is one thing anent the affair which is definite. Leo L. Hogan of Hogan & Farwell, renting agents for the building and in charge of the event, says there will be no more competitions conducted by his firm.

STORE TO GIVE BOUL MICH TOUCH OF THE BALKANS

Our town's Boul Mich shortly is to have added to its long array of picturesque shops a dash of the color and romance of the Balkans and the near east as a result of a lease closed yesterday by Dane Kremer, dress importer, on the corner store and a part of the second floor of the Chapin estate building, nearing completion at the northeast corner of Michigan and Superior. He has a shop in the Palmer House arcade.

Mr. Kremer specializes in Russian, Hungarian, Bulgarian, and French dresses, many of which derive their inspiration from peasant costumes of the foregoing nationalities. He employs thirty girls from Russia, Roumania, Arabia, Bulgaria, Hungary, France, and other lands to make them.

In his Boul Mich establishment the girls making the dresses are to be attired in the costumes of their native lands. Besides wearing apparel the Michigan avenue shop will have on sale jewelry, pottery, and tapestries native to the four first countries named above.

The lease is for ten years at a reported term rental of $125,000. M. D. Kirk of Ross & Browne and John Bailey of the Chapin estate negotiated the deal.

Casualty Company Leases Space in New Bank Bldg.

The Security Mutual Casualty company, now at 3236 South Michigan, has leased 5,000 square feet of office space in the new Hyde Park-Kenwood National bank building, 53d and Lake Park, for five years at a term rental reported to be $30,000.

Report Straus Building Is 96½ Per Cent Rented

J. B. Greenfield & Co., investment bankers, have leased 5,000 square feet in the Straus building. Harry Solomon, property manager, reports that the building is 96½ per cent rented.

Ad Firm Takes Space in New Palmolive Building

Crowell, Crane, Williams & Co., advertising agency, have leased space on the 21st floor of the Palmolive building through Ross & Browne.

LANDSCAPING TO EMBELLISH NEW FLICHT FLATS

Work is scheduled to start immediately on the $2,500,000 development for a syndicate headed by Michael Flicht on the irregular shaped block bounded by Milwaukee, Belle Plaine, Cuyler and La Porte avenues, on which was located the Dickinson-Lowell homestead, reputed to be the city's oldest brick house. The Dickinson house is being moved to another site nearby on Milwaukee avenue and will serve as a museum.

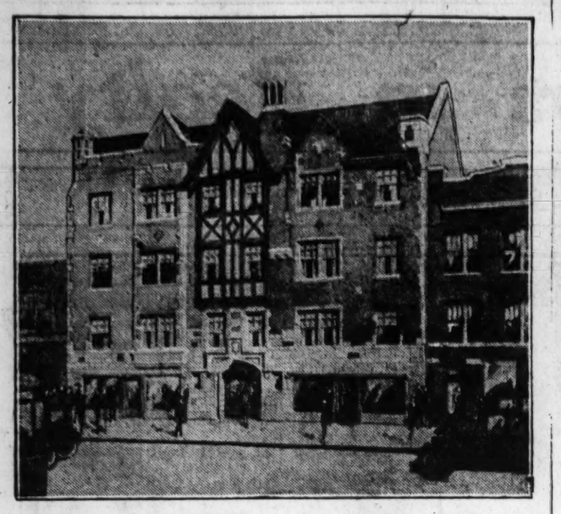
The Flicht undertaking was described in its embryo stages in this department on Feb. 3, but details of the enterprise are just now being made public.

There will be six units. Five will be residential buildings, to be known as the Garden Court apartments, and one will be a commercial building to front on Milwaukee. The Milwaukee avenue building will be two stories high, with stores on the ground floor, commercial lofts on the second and a large bowling alley and billiard parlor in the basement.

Three twenty-four apartment buildings will face on La Porte avenue. These structures will be of the corridor type and will have three, four and five room flats. On the Cuyler avenue side will be a building to contain thirty-two three and four room apartments and on the Belle Plaine avenue side there will be a structure that will have thirty-nine one and two room kitchenette flats. All will have the latest conveniences.

Designed by Rissman & Hirschfeld, the Garden Court apartments are novel in their arrangement. All the rear courts will be landscaped and treated in the same manner as the front courts. Flagstone walks and fountains will add a decorative touch to the buildings. All the walls of the buildings will be of the same material. Each structure will have a playroom for the children. The architecture of the residential part of the project was inspired by the Adam period.

IN RAVENSWOOD



Work is under way on the above four story building at 4827-31 North Robey street. It was designed by Architect Harry Dalsey. Completion is planned for May 1. It will have two stores and forty-eight suites of one, two, and three rooms. There'll be a playroom on the first floor. The land and building is valued by the owner, the Damen Gables Building corporation, at $275,000.

ON BROADWAY, BETWEEN BRIAR AND BARRY

The above five story building is a revised plan of a garage announced and pictured in this section Sept. 2, 1928, for 3111-17 Broadway. The original design was for a four story structure. Louis Kroman is architect. The Callner Construction company has the general contract. The building will be leased to the Chicago Ritz Garage corporation. It will accommodate 400 cars. The Greenebaum Sons Investment company has underwritten a $400,000 bond issue. The project is valued at $610,000. Martin Stolze made the above sketch.

FOURTEEN BUY SUITES AT 3240 SHERIDAN ROAD

Fourteen new tenant-owners of apartments in the cooperative flat building at 3240 Sheridan road are reported by L. M. Schweers, manager of the cooperative homes department of Baird & Warner. They are: Robert Wieland, vice president of the Wieland Dairy company; Henry J. Schlacks, architect; Laurence A. Cuneo, attorney; F. Bowden De Forest, vice president of Hinckley & Schmitt; A. C. Hartmann Jr., president of the American Metal Ware company; A. O. Fisher, president A. O. Fisher Box company; Walter Brandenburg, Bert L. White, Edward A. Rockwell, Joseph P. Savage, James I. Naghten, H. C. Bayless, Charles G. Le Forgee, and Edward K. MacDonald.

It was bad enough a few months ago to have realtors, real estators, and others nonchalantly remark that they were going to Florida or California to dodge the zero pleasantries of our delightful winter climate. But now it's just about as heart breaking, with these weather expatriates returning, to have to listen to stories of delightful dalliance with tropic sunshine, gorgeous golf, and luxurious loafing.

Douglas Robertson of John R. Robertson & Co. tells a story of several months spent motoring to and around southern California, with headquarters in Hollywood. He says the outside world's impression of the film capital, by the way, is as wrong as it is of Chicago. He failed to see even one movie queen crash a bottle of booze on the dome of a talkie king.

"And yet the Hollywood residents think our bootleggers battle at State and Madison every day at noon while the police look on and cheer the winners," said Mr. Robertson.

Jacob L. Crane, city planner of most of our Chicago suburbs, and Pierre Blouke, local architect, are just back from a sailing cruise through the West Indies. They took along a big packet of books and then did nothing but lie on the deck and let the ultra-violet rays do their worst.

John R. Magill is back in Oak Park and Chicago after a few weeks on the the Mississippi gulf coast. He divided his golfing between Gulf Hills and Biloxi. And he never mentioned a score.

Home of Bankers' State Bank Being Remodeled

The Bankers State bank at South Park way and 47th street is engaged in the remodeling of its home. Twenty three offices are being added to the building and the exterior is getting a facing of light red brick with terra cotta trim. A feature will be an arrangement permitting the depositing of funds at night. Samuel F. Fowler is president of the bank.

SILVER DOLLAR STORE LEASE.

The Silver Dollar Stores company has leased a forty foot corner store at 5900 West Chicago avenue for fifteen years at a reported $4,000 annual rental, through the Benjamin C. Rose Realty company.

The Fiat Shower Compartment is the popular bath made practical—the greatest progress ever made in showers—the perfect bath for new and old homes, apartments, hotels, golf clubs, city clubs, institutions, summer homes.

DOUBLES THE BATHING FACILITIES OF THE HOME

Nothing will give you greater pleasure than a Fiat Shower. It's the finest investment you can make. It occupies only half the space of an ordinary bathtub—and doubles the bathing facilities of the home.

No waiting in line—your bath is quick. Men and women prefer showers—children, growing boys and girls, do not have to be urged to take a bath. They like the thrill of clean water rushing over their skin. And how little work for the housewife! No backbreaking cleaning to be done after each one takes a bath. The question of maintenance is negligible with the Fiat Shower.

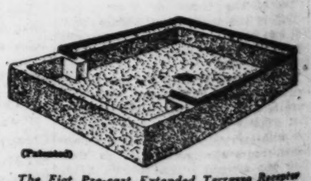
MAKE YOUR SECOND BATH A FIAT SHOWER BATHROOM

If you are building a new home be sure to make your second bath a Fiat Shower. Many people are replacing old tubs with modern Fiat Showers, which may be had at minimum cost, occupying minimum space, and rendering maximum service.

Fiat Showers are made in 7 distinctive models—14 sizes, reasonably priced. Doors or curtains optional. Finest doors also obtainable. Fiat Shower Compartments are made of the well known rust-resisting Armco Iron. Finished in Vitreous Enamel the same as your bathtub. Also Duco finish, in any desired color, applied on high grade galvanized steel. Distributors in all large centers. Write or phone for catalog.

(Patented)

See how simple it is to install a Fiat Shower Compartment. The enclosure fits snugly over the receptor, an independent unit that sets on the floor. Permanent leakproof construction is guaranteed. Your plumber makes the complete installation.



(Patented)

The Fiat Pre-cast Extended Terrazzo Receptor extends 12 inches in front of shower compartment. Specially designed for showers equipped with curtain so that receptor will catch spray, splashing and drippings from curtain. Keeps floor in front of shower dry. Water in extension drains back to receptor.
(Note: Fiat Receptor also made to fit corner.)

In order that the Fiat Shower Bath Compartment units may be most advantageously used in any bathroom layout, we have a wide variation in sizes as well as designs. This receptor is especially fitted where a corner of the room is the most adaptable place for the installation of a shower compartment and is designed to conserve space as well as produce distinct lines of beauty in appearance.

HOME BUILDING AND REMODELING

NOVEL DEVICES TAKE DRUDGERY OUT OF KITCHEN

Cabinet Unit Simplifies Life for the Missus.

(Next week will appear perspective and plans of a new home.)

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

[Home Builders Editor.]

Most women will agree that running a home successfully is much like carrying on a successful business. It takes brains and an ability to turn out a great deal of work or to superintend the work in efficient, systematic fashion.

At least this is the modern woman's idea of home management and the kitchen, the workshop of the home, offers therein opportunities for real creative achievement—the pleasure of making something which will contribute to family enjoyment and family health. The kitchen is one of the first rooms the average woman looks at when she considers buying a certain house.

It is estimated that only about 6 per cent of the country's 27,300,000 homes have servants to take over the housekeeping routine. To manage a home and run it well is a big piece of work. And that the modern housewife has been able to develop a working schedule which gives her time outside her housekeeping work for homemaking tasks, and even outside interests, has been due largely to the great advance in adequate domestic equipment which has been given to her in the last decade.

Besides electrical appliances, which have contributed perhaps the greatest offering in drudgery elimination, there is the unit idea in kitchen furnishings which has organized the kitchen into a place of compact storage and working units, designed to conserve space, save labor, and make the kitchen not only easier to look at but much easier to work in.

Easy to Install.

These kitchen units can be installed easily and simply in kitchens already built, and where any modernizing of a home is under way consideration of these units is well worth while.

Standardized in construction, made for durability, economy, and quality, they cost no more than the old fashioned cupboard.

These units include everything from kitchen cabinet de luxe to refrigerator, from sink to linen cupboards, from folding breakfast nook to dish and broom closets, from disappearing ironing boards to kichen ranges.

One sees kitchens today so perfectly accoutered with cabinets, closets, cupboards, coolers, appliances, that one feels instinctively on entering them that if one were to press a button a five course dinner would appear magically.

First in the mention of units should be the kitchen cabinet, which, with its handy containers, sifters, flour bin, pull-out work shelves, racks for pot covers, is a veritable boon companion for the mistress of the kitchen.

There are utility closets to match. These may have shelves for dishes and pans, hooks and fasteners for brooms, carpet sweepers, mops, vacuum cleaners and shelves for soaps, powders, and racks for towels.

Harmonizing in Color.

Besides these cabinets with utility closets to match come breakfast sets harmonizing, if desired, in color and design. Complete kitchen ensembles are now offered with handsome cupboard included and in shades to fit in with the breakfast set.

The large kitchen is outre. It is recognized now as a waste of time and energy. A room with a floor space of a hundred square feet is considered sufficient by many owners of the small home. Where the home is larger and the family more numerous, a larger kitchen would be specified. But even the "larger" kitchen of today is small indeed compared with the old-fashioned vast affair.

When you realize that there are full sized kitchen units obtainable to be installed in a space 8 feet 6 inches by 5 feet, you understand how the vogue for small kitchens has swept the country and how complete is the working equipment capable of being placed within their limited space.

No one would advise a kitchen this size for a home; it is more for the small apartment. There are women who prefer it, however, voluntarily deciding to use the floor area of the house for larger living rooms and bedrooms and perhaps a sunny breakfast room.

Replaces a Pantry.

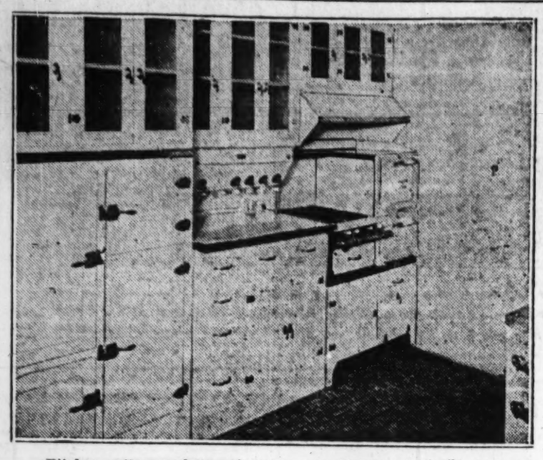
One steel cabinet on the market does away with the entire pantry. Sanitary and vermin proof, there is no shrinkage nor warping and sticking of drawers and doors through varying weather conditions.

Glass indicators on every bin enable the housewife not only to see what is in each bin but also to tell when the supply is nearing exhaustion. These cabinets are furnished with two prime coats baked on and two finishing coats of high grade lacquer. Color combinations are varied and special colors may be obtained.

These cabinets, moreover, are sectional in design and any combination of units may be arranged to meet individual kitchen requirements.

As a part of the unit system, or alone, the kitchen cabinet of today brings to a kitchen convenience, cleanliness and beauty. These cabinets and kitchen units, moreover, represent a high development of cabinet craftsmanship.

A MODERN KITCHEN



Kitchen units may be purchased now to fit into practically any wall space. Their practicality is evidenced by their popularity. They help to reduce work in the home. In the picture shown is a complete steel kitchen unit, an entire pantry in itself, containing refrigerator, stove and cabinet. Glass indicators on every bin show not only what each contains, but when the supply is nearing exhaustion. These cabinets, sectional in design, can be had with any combination of units to meet individual kitchen requirements.

FRENCH DESIGNS WIN APPROVAL OF HOME BUILDERS

It is only recently that the French influence has had any appreciable effect upon American domestic architecture.

In New Orleans there are many standing examples of this pleasing, colorful architecture—quaint, provincial French dwellings with iron balconies, varied dormer windows, court yards, arched doors, and windows.

The French house as we are coming to know it today is distinguished by a steep Mansard roof which terminates in an almost level slope, by large French windows with casements in the lower story, by dormers in the roof and sundry elaborate details. In fact, these ornamental details of a French house must be watched that they do not end by being too numerous and giving the impression of over ornateness.

The French farm house or cottage is informally picturesque; sometimes we see this delightfully reproduced in a small American suburban home. Again we see adopted to American uses French houses which are dignified and formal—houses which are expensive to build and which require formal treatment of shrubbery and lawn to bring them out effectively.

Whether a home owner is desirous of a small or large home, if he wishes something a little different, he will do well to discuss with his architect the possibilities inherent in the modified French style of home.

CONCEALED BED OBVIATES COST OF EXTRA ROOM

There are probably many people who would be living in their own homes at the present time if they could just get along with "one room less." The cost of this extra room makes the house too expensive for them to build. One way to get around this extra "1,000" or so which each fair sized room costs, at the least estimate, is to install a bed in a closet or one of the other rooms, thus making one room do service for two. These concealed beds or built in beds are amazingly efficient, ornamental and practical.

Heating System Which Furnishes Hot Water

A recent and interesting development of the vapor air circulating heating system is a method by which the central heating plant can supply hot water for household purposes.

CHICAGO DEALERS ADOPT AMERICAN LUMBER STANDARD

It will be of interest to all Chicago home owners and builders to know that the Chicago Retail Lumber Dealers' association has been the first lumber association to adopt American standard lumber.

Up to a few years ago sizes, grades, and names varied greatly in various regions, and there was little standardization in the lumber industry. Through Herbert Hoover's work as secretary of commerce, in leading the American Lumber congress, definite national standards controlling the manufacture of lumber were adopted.

This means that from now on, sizes will be accurate at all times, American standard lumber when delivered will be exactly as represented, and names and grades will be unvarying. This will make for greater building economy, as waste will be reduced to a minimum.

The Lumber Institute has now been established to help the public in knowing what type, size, and grade of lumber should be used for certain purposes. This preparing of recommendations for specific lumber uses will be one of the important functions of this new organization and of great value to the building public.

AN AID TO WASHING.

With spring and summer vacations ahead don't forget that the tiny bathroom size of vacuum plunger comes in convenient for all manner of casual washing jobs.

DINING ALCOVE FINDS MANY USES IN MODERN HOME

And in Addition Enhances Value of House.

BY HOMER GRANT.

The dining alcove, dinette, or breakfast room—call it by what name you like—possesses so many varied uses that it can hardly be left out of the home which is being built at the present time.

Built-in or folding dining sets are now manufactured in many sizes and designs. Many are built into the walls of a room. When closed they can be hidden by glass doors. They may be finished in almost any type of stain or enamel to match the woodwork of the room.

Again, they come in inclosed cabinets to be set up against the wall, taking up little room and requiring no carpenter work. These are often used when it is desired to put the dining alcove to other uses than that of dining alone.

Many Purpose Room.

Where table and chairs can be disposed of after breakfast, this room becomes a multi-purpose room which the home mistress can take, advantage of during the day for uses of her own.

Oftentimes a mother utilizes this space as a children's playroom. It is presumably close to the dining room and kitchen, where much of her time must be spent. A fence, perhaps, placed across the entrance keeps the child safe from the dangers of the kitchen and the mother is free to go ahead and still have her youngster close at hand.

Still other women utilize this room as a den, for the retreat of the man of the house after dinner at night. There is space at least for a comfortable chair, a smoking table, a radio, a lamp, and perhaps a hanging bookcase. Sometimes, too, the built-in telephone may be installed here.

May Have Concealed Bed.

One more unusual and yet very practical installation for this dining alcove is the fold away or concealed bed in one of its walls. This gives extra sleeping space to the family for many needed occasions and curtained off from the living room or dining room, this spot is always ready for emergency use.

For this dining alcove there is one other built-in feature which should not go unmentioned. This is the china cabinet or buffet which may be installed in the wall or set in out of the way without special carpenter work.

Not only do these modern built-in features of the dining alcove make living and working infinitely easier for the home mistress but they also add greatly to the value of the house, should the owner desire to sell.

LOOKING BACKWARD

To March 17, 1919; 10 Years Ago Today

Mrs. Dorothy F. Borland, wife of Bruce Borland, has purchased the W. D. Kerfoot residence at 1425 Astor street, between Burton place and Schiller street, for an indicated cash consideration of $60,000. The house is an attractive three story brick structure on a lot 50x140 feet and contains about fifteen rooms. The sale was negotiated by Paul Steinbrecher & Co.

MRS. BRUCE BORLAND.

Charles H. Lott, president of the Lott Hotel company, which owns and operates the Parkway hotel, is to erect a fourteen story residential hotel at the southwest corner of Lincoln Park West and Webster avenue. Its cost is placed at $1,500,000. It will occupy a site 120½ x 128 feet just purchased from H. B. Clow and Andrew F. McNally, trustees of the Andrew McNally estate, through John R. Magill & Co., for $70,000.

To March 17, 1909; 20 Years Ago Today

Benjamin J. Rosenthal is planning the erection of an eight story building for furniture exhibition purposes at 1510-1514 Wabash avenue. It will cover the lot, 70x170 feet, at that point which Mr. Rosenthal recently purchased. The improvement will cost about $220,000. A. S. Alschuler drew the plans.

B. J. ROSENTHAL.

Dwight F. Cameron, former president of the South Chicago Street Railways company, sold through Paul Steinbrecher to Mrs. Ada S. Garrett the property at 1336 Michigan avenue, fronting twenty-two feet, with a depth of 171 feet, improved with a four story remodeled building which is under lease to the Vesta Accumulator company until 1915. The consideration is withheld, but the board of review valued the property at $33,000.

To March 17, 1899; 30 Years Ago Today

Benjamin Rosenberg negotiated a lease of the Levy Mayer property at the southwest corner of State and Quincy streets to H. C. Lytton, proprietor of the Hub, for five years from May 1 at a rental of $20,000, with a privilege of thirteen years more at $22,500. Improvements will be made in the Mayer building involving an expenditure of $25,000, and the structure will be added to the Hub store as soon after May 1 as is practicable.

HENRY C. LYTTON.

W. Vernon Booth has purchased the country place of President W. H. Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad at Lake Forest. It comprises a tract of about twenty-five acres. Alfred L. Baker has purchased from A. A. Sprague a tract of five acres on the shore adjacent to his present place on the south for a consideration of $25,000.

Attorney Buys Broadway and Granville Corner

Attorney Isidore Goldstein has bought the northeast corner of Granville and Broadway from Wallace B. Behnke, improved with a two story store and office building. The lot is 53x90. Knipp & Shapiro were brokers.

Farragut Avenue Flat Building Changes Hands

Walter Krueger sold the nine apartment building at 2024-44 Farragut avenue, to Walter Osborn for a reported $55,000, taking in exchange the two flats at 4515 North Sawyer. O. H. Hoppe & Co. were brokers.

Plan $25,000 Three Story Addition to Berwyn Hotel

Contracts for a $25,000 three story annex to the new Berwyn hotel, at 3137 Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, have been awarded to Harry Langlois & Co. of that suburb. The owners are John J. Ellsworth and George I. Wilkinson of Oak Park.

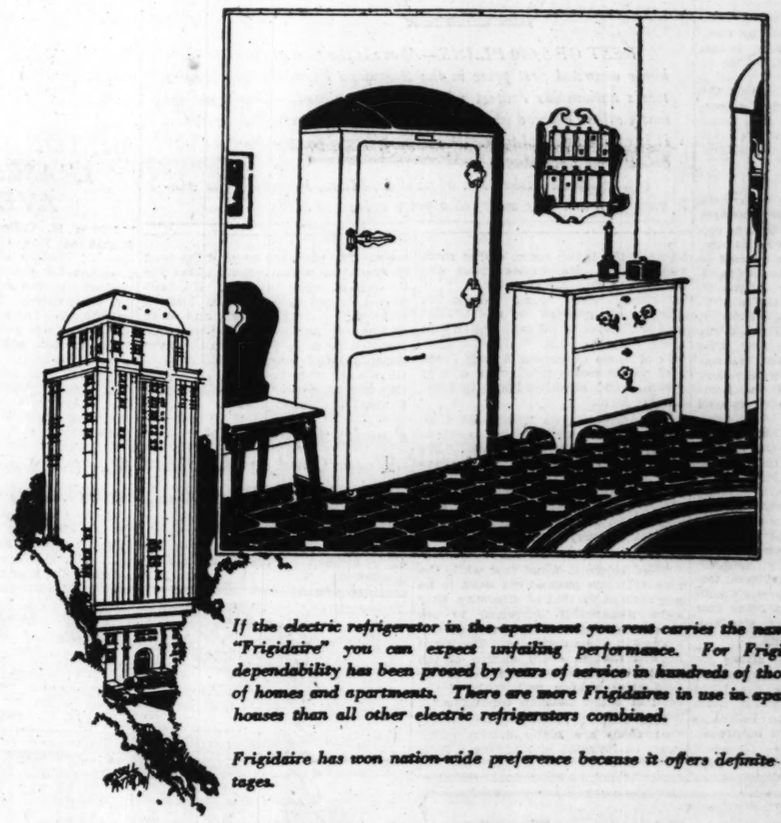
A question to ask when renting an apartment

Is it equipped with Frigidaire?



If the electric refrigerator in the apartment you rent carries the nameplate "Frigidaire" you can expect unfailing performance. For Frigidaire's dependability has been proved by years of service in hundreds of thousands of homes and apartments. There are more Frigidaires in use in apartment houses than all other electric refrigerators combined.

Frigidaire has won nation-wide preference because it offers definite advantages.

1 It is equipped with the "Cold Control" and patented self-sealing trays—two features that give quicker freezing of ice cubes and desserts.

2 Its sturdy mechanism provides surplus power—power that keeps foods fresh and wholesome in the hottest of weather.

3 Frigidaire is incredibly quiet. You don't hear it start, stop, or run.

4 The Frigidaire cabinets have no exposed mechanism and are designed to harmonize with modern kitchens.

5 Food shelves are removable and are elevated to a convenient height. No stooping is necessary.

6 The lining is seamless porcelain enamel with rounded corners—clean and easy to keep clean.

Be certain that the apartment you rent has Frigidaire.

FARM AND GARDEN

FARMERS DRAW UP PLANS FOR IDEAL HOME

More than 6,000 Compete in Nation-Wide Contest.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Widespread lack of good farm homes is the background for the greatest agricultural relief needed in the United States today. Most of the thousands of relief demands coming from rural districts in recent years have sprung from the universal desire among the six million farm families for more comfortable and convenient places in which to live. The need for up to date farm homes seems to be about as great in the richer sections as almost any other part of the country.

Six thousands farmers and their wives recently gave the country an inkling of the home building epidemic that would spread over America if agriculture's buying power is brought up to industry's level. More than 6,000 men and women of the farm unlocked their ideas of a home in the American Farm Bureau federation's ideal farm home contest which recently closed. The judges inspected 5,640 plans sent in by farm men and women who were eligible to compete.

Prize Awards.

Charles L. Bisbee Jr. of Moline, Mich., was awarded first prize. The second prize was won by Worth La Rock of Pine Island, Minn. The other 100 prizes went to farm home planners in various parts of the country.

It is significant that more than a third of the plans came from seven of the rich central west states, ranking as follows with the number of home plans submitted indicated after each state: Iowa, 504; Illinois, 409; Minnesota, 390; Ohio, 305; Missouri, 259; Wisconsin, 242, and Indiana, 217. These states sent in a total of 2,327 plans. Practically every state in the Union was represented with from 3 to more than 500 plans.

The judges' count shows that about three times as many women submitted plans as men. It was definitely determined that 3,686 of the plans were sent in by women, and 1,114 by men. Many gave only their initials, before their names so it was impossible to tell whether the contestant was a man or a woman. Signatures on the drawings or explanations that accompanied the plans indicated that farmers and their wives coöperated in planning their idea of a home on the farm in many cases.

Keen Interest Shown.

The bureau's contest gave farmers a chance to show their keen interest in homes. The number entered is significant. Apparently the desire to compete comes from a sincere interest in home planning, because the prizes offered were not especially attractive. The aggregate value of the awards only amounted to a total of $2,500, which is considered small for a nationwide competition. The first prize was only valued at $300 and the second $200; the other prizes were valued at $20 each. Certificates for home building material were given instead of cash.

Most of the plans submitted, including the first prize winner, were for two story houses. The winning plan calls for a house of the colonial type commonly found today strung along suburban streets. Mr. Bisbee's plan was considered best of the thousands sent in because there was no waste of hall space and the upstairs part of the house is unusually compact, according to the judges. These features put the Michigan farmer's plan into the lead over the ten other best plans which were almost identical.

Tells Color Scheme.

The prize winner's plan allows for four bedrooms, three upstairs and one downstairs. A room for the hired hand is provided for on the main floor. In addition to the bedrooms there is a sewing room, a bathroom, and also plenty of closets. There is free circulation provided in the plan between the living room, dining room and kitchen. Mr. Bisbee's plan was among the simplest submitted.

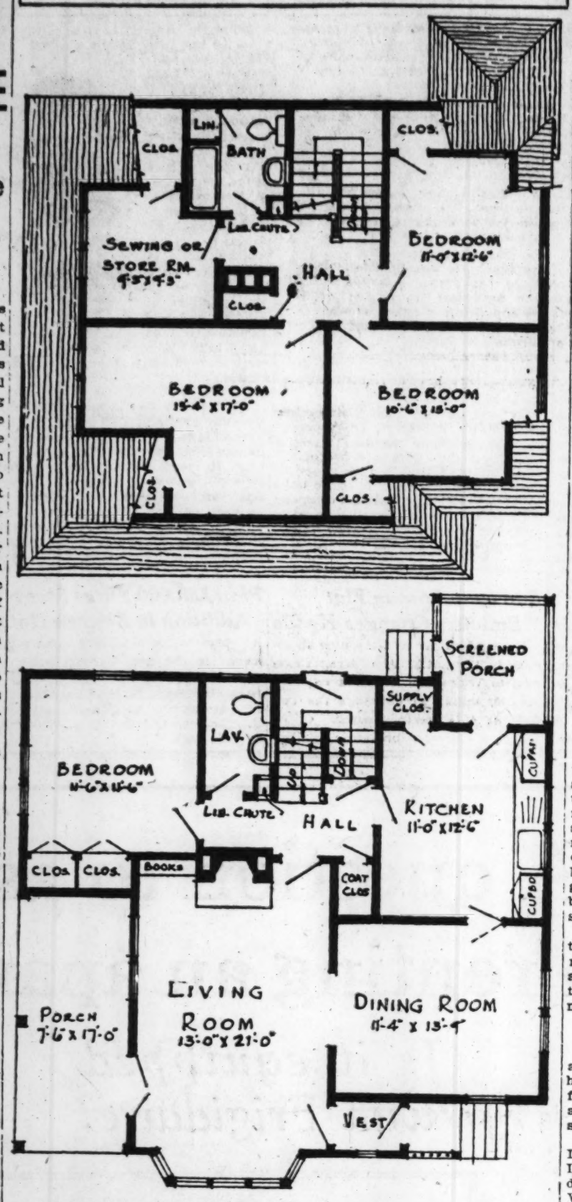
"Either wide wood sidings or shingles are adapted for this house," said Mr. Bisbee in his explanation sent along with the plan. "Window shutters of apple green and a gray green roof would make this house a very pleasing and effective home to build on any farm."

In commenting on the contest S. H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, said: "We believe that from the 5,640 plans which were inspected by the judges we are many steps nearer a solution of the nation-wide problem of a suitable design for a practical farm home adapted to every region of the United States.

"The judges declared that while the plan drawings showed the work to be unquestionably that of amateurs, they were pleasurably surprised to see the ability displayed by farm men and women in home designing. The plans showed that in every section of the nation the American farmer and his wife have a keen realization of the need of better housing conditions."

The contest reveals quite clearly that there are many details which must be included in planning a farm home that are not needed in the city home. The planners stressed the need of space for a convenient closet for the men's work clothes. Kitchens were arranged to save steps. Modern plumbing, heating, lighting and other similar aids to housekeeping were emphasized in most of the plans, showing that farmers are anxious to have all the conveniences that the city man has previously monopolized, says a report of the competition.

IDEAL FARM HOME



BEST OF 5,640 PLANS—Above is the plan of an ideal farm home awarded first prize in the American Farm Bureau federation's nationwide contest which has just closed. The plan, like many others entered in the competition, calls for a two story house. It is of the colonial type. A sketch of main floor is shown below and second floor above.

Charles L. Bisbee Jr., of Moline, Mich., submitted the winning plan and was awarded a prize valued at $300.

ILLINOIS COWS GO IN NATION'S SUPER CLASSES

Thirty-nine Are Put in Top Group.

A new project for the "super-registration" of Holstein cattle in the United States has been started in Illinois. Ten herds already have been classified by nine skilled dairy cattle judges. In this state the work is being fostered by the Illinois Holstein-Friesian association, headed by H. W. Allyn, Byron, Ill. Nationally it is under the supervision of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

In starting in Illinois the judges classified 400 pure bred animals. Thirty-nine fell in the group designated as excellent, 112 very good, 212 good, 36 fair, and 5 poor.

James B. Ball, field representative of the state association, says that the nine judges worked together in order to establish common standards of judging. Hereafter they will work separately in classifying black and white cattle throughout the country.

Cost Small to Farmer.

He explained that the only cost to the owner is $1.50 an animal. In submitting his herd for classification the dairyman agrees to surrender the registry certificate of all animals classified as poor and not to register the male offsprings of cows in the fair class. Excellent animals are of the best show ring type while the very good and good animals include the bulk of desirable bredeing individuals, said Mr. Ball.

Dairymen are working on the theory that the super-registration plan will not only eliminate the least desirable animals from the breed but will guide the breeder in selecting the best animals to use in improving his herd.

New York Joins Project.

The work also has been started in a small way in New York. Additional herds will be entered during the next few weeks in Illinois. Other states are expected to take up the project soon.

The following judges classified the Illinois herds: Ward W. Stevens, Liverpool, N. Y.; Clair L. Miller, Medina, O.; R. J. Schaefer, Appelton, Wis.; W. S. Moscrip, Lake Elmo, Minn.; H. H. Kilder, Ames, Ia.; J. B. Fitch, Manhattan, Kas.; F. W. Atkinson, Moscow, Idaho, and Frank L. Morris, Woodland, Cal.

MILTON CALLNER LEASES GRAND AVENUE SITE

Milton H. Callner has leased the 50x125 at 7174 Grand avenue, just east of Harlem avenue, from Louis Lipstone for ninety-nine years. The property is now improved with three one story stores. The term rental will be $810,000. The annual rental will be $5,400 for ten years, $6,300 for ten, $7,500 for ten, and $9,000 for the balance of the term. S. E. Terman & Co. represented all brokers. The lessee may erect a business building later on. D'Ancona & Pflaum and Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautman & Levinson were attorneys.

Powder Dissolved in Water Good as Skim Milk

One pound of skim milk powder dissolved in nine pounds of warm water gives a mixture which has practically the same value as fresh skim milk, says Dr. C. H. Eckles, chief of the dairy division of the University of Minnesota.

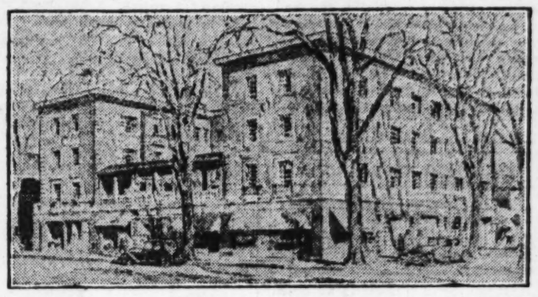
May Build Apartments on West Jackson Boulevard

Henry Cohen bought the vacant 50x125 at 4345 West Jackson boulevard from Vincent M. Burke and may build flats. W. E. Ehrenhalt of E. A. Hastings & Co. was broker.

FOR OUTLYING BUSINESS DISTRICT

B. Leo Steif designed the above building, which will occupy a 125x125 site at the southeast corner of Seeley avenue and Irving Park boulevard, a bit west of the intersection of Irving Park, Lincoln, and Robey. The structure will contain nine stores on the ground floor and offices on the second. It is stated the investment will be $250,000.

COLONNADE COURT BUILDING



Picture of the Colonnade Court building, which is nearing completion at the northwest corner of Hinman avenue and Main street, Evanston, from plans by Thielbar & Fugard. There are seven shops on the ground floor and twenty-one three and four room flats on the upper stories. A feature is a colorful colonnade court 51 feet wide, which faces on Main street. Ralph R. McKinnie of McKinnie & Co., realtors, is owner.

SELLS THREE FLAT BUILDING.

Phillips & Linden have sold the three apartment building at 8147 Eberhart to Robert D. Hocking for a reported $31,000.

Purchases Sites for Trio of Business Buildings

George W. Prassas has bought three sites for prospective terra cotta front business buildings which he says already have been well leased to chain store tenants. He states that the total investment in land and buildings will be $350,000. He purchased 112x180 east front, on York road, forty feet north of Schiller court, in Elmhurst; the northwest corner of Grand and Nordica, 60x112, and vacant on the Northwest highway, fifty feet southeast of Oshkosh avenue.

RENTS OF NATION OFF 10 PER CENT FROM YEAR 1926

Rents for residential accommodations are 10 per cent lower this spring than they were in 1926, according to an investigation made by the research department of the Greenbaum Sons Investment company. The general trend of rents throughout the country in the last nine years is revealed by the investigation as follows:

Year [1st quarter]	% increase in rents since 1920.
1929	24
1928	28
1927	31
1926	35
1925	34
1924	34
1923	30
1922	29
1920	00

These figures include both separate dwellings and apartments and represent an average for the entire United States. The extent of the changes in rent level varies in different parts of the country, but the general downward tendency which the data reveal is confined to no section.

LAKE STREET LEASE.

The Factory Supply company has leased the entire first floor and basement space at 646 West Lake street, for ten years, through E. G. Winter & Co.

ROSE TREE

ONE TREE $1.00 3 for $2.50 PREPAID

The ROSE TREE OF CHINA (Prunus Triloba) is the most beautiful and showy of all small trees. It begins to bloom before the leaves appear in the spring, being literally covered with very double rose-like pink flowers. As an ornament from early spring until late fall it has few equals. This symmetrically formed, graceful little tree grows usually to a height of but 8 feet, and is attractive as a specimen or when planted in groups or shrub border. It is hardy and easily grown, and no lawn is so small that room can not be found for at least one of these wonderful trees. Many who have seen it declare it to be the most beautiful tree they have ever seen. The rose-like blossoms make fine cut flowers.

Choice trees for $1.00 each; 3 for $2.50, by parcel post, postpaid.

SPECIAL For 50c extra we will include three small TULIP TREES—fine ornamental shade trees with tulip-like flowers.

Our stock of trees will not last long at these low prices. Order now, and state when you want trees shipped. CATALOG FREE. BURGESS SEED & PLANT CO., 278T St., GALESBURG, MICH.

ANOTHER RADIO MAKER ENTERS CLEARING AREA

Silver - Marshall Factory Will Employ 650.

Chicago's march toward supremacy in the radio industry continues apace, the latest step forward coming from the Silver-Marshall company, which has purchased from the Clearing industrial district, 106,000 square feet of property at the southwest corner of Narragansett and 65th for a reported $285,000.

The land is being improved with a factory intended originally for occupancy by the Vesta Battery corporation. The Silver-Marshall company had to have a factory in a hurry and the Vesta company secured land and a deal was arranged whereby the buildings at Natchez and 65th instead.

The Silver-Marshall company, which will employ 650 people, has been a manufacturer of radio parts and kits, being one of the largest in the country in this field. However, it will now make complete sets, in connection with which it will pay the Radio Corporation of America minimum guaranteed royalty payments of $100,000 annually for manufacturing license.

Negotiations were concluded by McMurdo Silver, president of Silver-Marshall, Inc., and H. P. Phelps of the Clearing district. Hart & Whetston were brokers. Foltz & Co. are architects. This is the third radio company to locate in the Clearing district.

MILTON CALLNER LEASES 50 FEET AT 3248 LINCOLN

Milton H. Callner has leased fifty feet of frontage, with an average depth of ninety-three feet, at 3248-50 Lincoln avenue from Herman R. Mach for ninety-nine years at an undisclosed rental. It is stated Mr. Callner intends to improve the property, just north of Belmont avenue, for mercantile uses. At the same time Edward M. Levin purchased from the Citizens State bank of Chicago 25x93 feet at 1632 Melrose street at an undisclosed consideration. The latter parcel is used in connection with the former. Herman Neiburger was only broker in the first transaction and acted for Mr. Levin in the second. Lloyd Gilbert was broker for the bank. Jacobson, Merrick & Latter and Epstein, Feiwell, Arvey & Sachs were attorneys.

Lease Threee Stores in New Hyde Park National Bank

Three of the stores in the new Hyde Park National Bank building have been leased. The Jacobs Radio store, the Little Dutch Candy Mill corporation, and the Hyde Park haberdashery are lessees. All were negotiated by E. G. Laughlin of the Hyde Park Investment company, with Carroll, Schendorf & Boenicke coöperating in the haberdashery lease.

AT 71ST AND JEFFERY

John Hocke is architect of the above building now under construction at the southwest corner of 71st street and Jeffery avenue. The owners are V. A. Hackel and George D. Bockus. There'll be eight stores on the first floor, doctors' offices on the second, and the balance of the building will be occupied by forty-four apartments of two and three rooms. The project is being financed by the Hyde Park Investment company, which states that the total investment in land and building will be $576,000.

ARCHITECTS OF ENGLAND HONOR C. H. HAMMOND

C. HERRICK HAMMOND.

C. Herrick Hammond, a member of the architectural firm of Perkins, Chatten & Hammond, has been notified of his election to honorary corresponding membership in the Royal Institute of British Architects. Mr. Hammond is president of the American Institute of Architects. He is to preside over the sixty-second convention of the institute which will meet in Washington, D. C., April 23, 24, and 25. The principal item of discussion at this meeting will be "The Development of the National Capital" for which congress has already appropriated $75,000,000.

George F. Anderson to Talk on "Leases and Contracts"

George F. Anderson will complete his lecture on "Leases and Contracts" next Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the rooms of the Cook County Real Estate board at 100 North La Salle street. M. M. Oshe will speak at 7 o'clock on "Recent Amendments to the Dower Act and Decisions Construing the Same."

EUCLID AVENUE SALE.

Harry W. Hansen has sold his nine room residence at 6845 Euclid avenue, lot 50x134 feet, to Edwin R. Goldberg for a reported $55,000. E. H. Skirven of H. O. Stone & Co. was broker.

CLUB ROOM WILL FEATURE FLATS ON AUSTIN BLVD.

An unusually sumptuous apartment building is under construction at 408 South Austin boulevard, overlooking Columbus park, for C. Poley. The structure will contain six apartments of six rooms each, with the flats on the three floors of the building of different design. Each apartment is to have a fireplace. There will be two bathrooms in each flat, mechanical refrigeration and a host of other conveniences. A feature will be a club room for the use of the tenants. Designed by Charles A. Kristen, the architecture is English. The lot is 60x123 feet and the investment is given at $120,000.

SOUTH PARKWAY EASE.

Solomon T. Jacobson, operating the chain of Marguerite Sweet shops in and around Chicago, has leased the store at 4727 South Parkway for five years through Harry M. and Louis Enrlestein.

BROKERS' NOTES

Percival G. Hart, who has been identified with the loan department of S. W. Straus & Co. for the last decade, has been appointed vice president in charge of the loan division of that concern, replacing Leo J. Sheridan, who recently resigned to form his own company, as announced two weeks ago in this section. Mr. Hart lives at 1357 East 47th street.

P. G. HART.

The corporate name of the Jennings & Gahagan Realty corporation has been changed to the Grennan Heights Realty company. K. L. Grennan is president, William R. Dailey is secretary and A. G. Lindquist is treasurer. A program of twenty buildings is announced for Grennan Heights.

L. J. Ingram, for the last four years with A. A. Lewis & Co. in various executive positions, has been made director of sales for that organization.

Hogan & Farwell have been appointed renting agents and managers of the thirteen story apartments under construction at 73 East Elm street.

Emil Pahl is now associated with the National Real Estate Protective corporation as a director and also as sales manager.

The Frank De Lugach Real Estate company has opened a branch office at the northwest corner of 100th street and South Western avenue, to handle the concern's Beverly Hills properties.

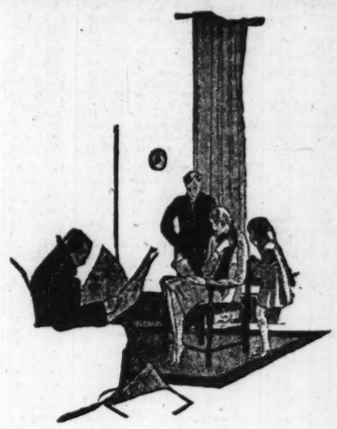
3 out of 4 Hollands replace heating systems that have failed



THOUSANDS of home owners find their heating bargains are bad ones after a few winters. In one city alone more than $100,000 worth of modern Holland installations were made last Spring in homes less than five years old. The heating system should be a lifetime investment. Often it is a total loss after a brief period of use.

There are heating systems of all types, qualities and prices. You get what you pay for. You expect far greater returns from your heating system than from any other purchase of like cost. Use care in selecting it. Don't buy a failure. Check the advantages that the modern Holland alone offers. Compare it feature by feature with any other system. Ask your friends and neighbors what they know about Holland Vaporaire Heating.

A modern Holland controls temperature, humidity and circulation automatically. Warmth is distributed evenly to every room. The air is kept balmy, moist and gently moving—like outdoor air in spring—and is completely changed several times an hour. Comfort and satisfaction are positively guaranteed by written bond.

Buy a Holland now. Prices are low and terms liberal. Our engineers will study your heating problem and prepare plans that meet the individual requirements of your home. Installers have more time in the spring for careful, thorough workmanship. Put the dread of next winter out of your mind. Protect the health and comfort of every member of your family. Get the facts without obligation. Have a Holland man call.

HOLLAND FURNACE CO., HOLLAND, MICH.

For heating your home in winter and cooling it in summer, Holland offers you the most modern development—forced-air heating! Holland's Aire-U-Well and De Luxe Vaporaire systems, built for homes of all sizes, drive moist warmth to every room in winter and delightfully cool air to all parts of the home in summer. This new electric power unit can be installed in any make of furnace at nominal cost.

IF your heating system is a failure—replace it. There is no advantage in waiting. In buying a Holland you deal with the largest installer of warm air heating systems in the world, operating 525 direct factory branches. The factory is solely responsible to you. Holland guarantees to heat your home satisfactorily. Hollands are built, planned, sold, installed, financed and serviced by one organization. You will find the branches nearest you listed in the column at the right.

GENERAL LIST ISSUES RISE ON CHICAGO BOARD

Inland Wire and Cable Shares Up 3 1-8 Points.

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

(Chicago stock list page 8.)

Various issues in the general list featured trading in yesterday's two hour week-end session on the Chicago stock exchange.

Chicago City and Connecting Railway preferred stepped up to the footlights with a 4 point advance on a movement coupled with expectations of a favorable place for the company in the traction settlement. The certificates of deposit gained 3 points.

Inland Wire and Cable climbed 3⅛. Gains of a point or so were established by Standard Dredging and Mohawk Rubber. The automotive list remained quiet, with Borg-Warner, Bendix, and Auburn Automobile selling off from a fraction to a point on week-end profit taking. Allied Motor Industries was up a major fraction.

Income Grows.

Associates Investment advanced 2½, reflecting an earnings statement for the first two months of 1929 showing an increase in net nearly again as large as the corresponding period a year ago. The company finances the purchase of automobiles for buyers and dealers and reported a net for the period of $102,352, compared with $60,177 a year ago. The total amount of automobile paper purchased in January and February is given at $4,453,490, against $1,668,400 in the same months of 1928.

The radio list was featured by a 4 point rise in U. S. Radio. Sonatron Tube closed at 35¾, a new top for the present movement. The street has expectations of an announcement of expansion favorable to stockholders now in negotiation.

Tennessee Products closed unchanged. The company reported net earnings of $388,025 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1928, equal to $1.87 a share on 207,500 shares of common stock outstanding, compared with $301,588 or $1.08 a share in 1927.

Stock Dividend.

Associated Telephone Utility was also unchanged. The directors declared a dividend of 12½ cents in common stock at the rate of $25 a share in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of 25 cents in cash. Three months ago the stock dividend was 50 cents a share on the same basis.

Insull Utility Investment preferred sold up five points. Commonwealth Edison lost two points. Public Service no par advanced 4¼ on light trading.

METALS.

NEW YORK, March 16.—COPPER—Strong; electrolytic, spot and future, 21c. Other metals nominally unchanged.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 16.—LEAD—Strong, 7.20c. ZINC—Firm, 6.35c.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Indiana—Generally fair Sunday and Monday, with rising temperature.

Lower Michigan—Partly cloudy Sunday and Monday; rising temperature Monday and in northern portion Sunday.

DEPRESSION IN LONDON MARTS LIFTS SLOWLY

Position of Money Is Brighter.

BY SIDNEY CAVE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, March 16.—After a pretty severe shakeup, bringing a drying up of business and a shrinkage in prices, the stock market is beginning to show some revival of confidence following several weeks of acute depression.

The fears of a further increase in the bank rate have been dispelled for the time being, but with the uncertainty of the general election looming ahead, no general activity is expected and subdued conditions are likely to prevail for the next few months. Momentarily the money position is brighter, although the sterling exchange is still causing anxiety. After its recent recovery the rate shows a deal of hesitancy, and until definitely settled well above the gold export point uneasiness must continue.

The future, however, remains obscure, no light upon what is likely to happen in the United States being forthcoming here, but financial circles here accept it as evident that the American banks are making determined efforts to bring Wall street speculation under control and prevent an advance in the money rates outside of the United States.

Details Meager.

The opinion that is general here, however, is that it is highly probable that certain of the continental bank rates will advance in the near future. The Italian rate was raised this week to 7 per cent, a rise in the Dutch rate seems certain, while similar action by the German reichsbank seems possible, as Germany is now losing gold to the United States owing to the depressed state of the mark.

An improvement of sterling in New York suggests some sort of official support, and rumors speak of French intervention. Consequently a distinct change for the better has resulted, removing momentarily the possibility of further unpleasant developments. New York, however, is still the main factor in the situation.

London is refraining from expressing an opinion regarding the merits and demerits of the proposal of the reparations committee of experts for the establishment of a new European bank to deal with reparations. It is generally agreed that the details available are too meager to allow any sound judgment to be formed, and the full details of the scheme are being awaited with great interest here. The reparations payments that now have to be made disturb the whole course of normal financial operations, and any scheme to lessen these disturbances will receive a warm welcome.

The flood of new issues continues, although several recent introductions had a very mixed reception, and in several cases the underwriters were heavily left. It is obvious that for the moment the powers of absorption of the market are being too heavily tested.

There was a flareup this week over the policy of the directors of the English General Electric company in their expressed determination not to let the control of the company go into American or foreign hands, and it has aroused some resentment here as an attempt to limit the investment opportunities of this country.

Restriction of Control.

Financial circles here generally take a broad view of the American invasion in the field of British investments. This feature of international finance is generally recognized as inevitable as a consequence of the changed position of the United States as the creditor country. City circles certainly do not resent American buying of British shares but they claim that British control is essential in companies like communications and public utilities companies, which should be preserved, and if is also insisted that British manufacturers be assured of the continuance of equipment orders when the British owned companies pass into foreign control.

It is argued that the responsible American authorities understand and approve of the reasons why such national companies, such as Imperial Airways, and Marconi Marine, should restrict their control into British hands, the same as Americans would resent foreign control of, for instance, the Radio Corporation of America.

The list of British companies insisting upon control restrictions now includes Rolls Royce, General Electric, the recently floated Fairey Aviation company, while the big silver, zinc, and lead concern, the Burmah corporation, is taking steps to ensure that its control remains in British hands.

PARIS BOURSE IMPROVES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 16.—The improvement in the French political situation is reflected in several important votes of confidence in the Poincare cabinet, together with the firmness of the New York market and the maintenance of the discount rate of the Bank of England, have combined to strengthen the Paris bourse during the week-end.

The political doubts made the market depressed and nervous during the early part of the week and there were few buyers. French rentes and banking stocks benefited by the clearing of the political horizon.

The statement of the Bank of France dated March 14 showed a decrease of 40,000,000 francs in France's gold holdings. Notes and circulation show a decrease of 812,000,000 francs and sight bills an increase of 222,000,000 francs. The proportion of gold holdings to sight bills has dropped from 41.50 to 41.36 per cent.

The fortnightly liquidation was easy, with call money 2¾ per cent, compared to 4¼ per cent a fortnight ago.

Perfection in Heating Seems Hard to Attain

BY SCRUTATOR.

Heating and ventilating engineers, strangely enough, seem to have made more progress in serving small homes with artificial climates than in the thermal management of skyscrapers. The thermostat works well enough in thousands of residences; it is difficult to get anything comparable in convenience and efficiency in large office buildings.

Fire made possible the conquest of the temperate zone by man. But through long ages his approach to his heating problem was little beyond the primitive. In parts of Europe today the open grate, only a little removed from the campfire, still furnishes heat to hovel and palace alike — central heating has only a small following. In America the range of method goes through the stove, the hot air conduit, hot water circulating in pipes, and steam at high or low pressure.

A summary of the advance was made some years ago by the heating research committee of the national district heating association. Here's an excerpt from the report:

"Aside from the inevitable progress which attends every endeavor to a greater or less degree, few revolutionary ideas have fallen into the broad field of heating or, if so, they have not been fertilized sufficiently to develop. Even allowing for the naturally great handicaps the showing made by heating is pathetic."

Cooling Problems.

Artificial cooling of the interior of buildings was not taken up on a large scale until the movie theaters decided to make their patrons comfortable in summer. The attention of many engineers is now on this problem. Alexander Graham Bell, whose distinguished service to the telephone industry can hardly be exaggerated, shortly before his death was at work on it. He foresaw a new comfort in the tropics and possibly a whole new system of life there with relief from the heat.

The latest announcement in this line is of a small cooling unit which, it is claimed, will reduce room temperatures ten degrees an hour. Which brings the interesting thought that the small home may be the beneficiary of cooling advance before the big office building. So far those engineers who are working on systems to lower temperatures in such buildings are looked on as pioneers.

There may have been some indifference to better heating and to cooling by building owners. They may be getting as a whole only what they demand, as are the English with their grates. But when an occasional progressive strives to obtain something really modern in a cooling-heating system he finds that he has his troubles.

The occupant of an office in Tribune Tower some time ago had the regular radiator heating replaced with a mechanical device designed to bring in washed air, either warmed or cooled, as need dictated. His experience, whether typical or not, was that the experiment was not a success. On cold days additional heat must be furnished in that office.

Waste of Heat.

Waste of heat was discussed a few weeks ago in Chicago at the convention of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers. One member, a Chicagoan, asserted that the profession had long realized that much heat was wasted in mild weather through overheating of buildings. The cause, he added, was that most heating systems were operated on and limited in their operations to pressures above atmospheric. His contention was that much of the heat loss could be prevented by heating with steam below atmospheric pressure, which would permit the steam to enter the radiation at temperatures from 130 to 212 degrees. Such systems are working successfully in Chicago, it is said.

But many large buildings have little flexibility in their heat and the only way to cool off an office on a mild day is to open a window and let the excess warmth blow out. The ideal would be to have heat regulated automatically so that just enough is used to maintain an even temperature with the windows closed. This would necessitate a controlled flow of air and a purifying device so that this air, once warmed, could be used over and over. Such devices exist, but it is apparent that the engineers have not convinced many building owners of their practical value.

EMPLOYMENT IS HIGH IN ILLINOIS DURING FEBRUARY

More names on the pay rolls and higher average earnings for both men and women is the record for Illinois during February, 1929, according to a report just issued by the Illinois department of labor. The improved conditions showed themselves in a reduced pressure on the Illinois free employment offices, where the number of applicants for work dropped during February from 182 to 169 for each 100 positions available. A year ago the unemployment ratio was 208.

For all lines of activity, the net increase from January to February in number of names on pay rolls was 1.4 per cent; for manufacturing alone the increase was 2.2 per cent. Average weekly earnings also increased 5.6 per cent; but the smaller number of working days in February reduced the monthly earnings, roughly, 10 per cent. This would not apply to those on a salary basis.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York March 16.—With offerings of coppers being swept off the market as rapidly as they appear and no indication that the demand has been satisfied, the opinion was expressed in the market today that further advances are in prospect. Another half a cent advance is confidently predicted for early next week, as all the copper available at the current level will be quickly taken up. It is believed that the metal will rise to 24 or 25 cents a pound before an adjustment is reached between the persistent demand and the limited supply now left in producers' hands.

RECORD OF CHICAGO BUSINESS IN THE FIRST TWO MONTHS OF THE YEAR

Canadian Ford Skyrockets on Curb Market

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., March 16.—One of the biggest advances ever recorded by a stock in a single day was scored by Ford Motor Company of Canada on the curb today. The stock, which opened $224 higher at $1,025, later extended its gain to $349 a share, going to a new peak of $1,150. The closing sale was $1,105.

The sudden demand for the stock followed the announcement by the directors of the company that twenty shares of new stock will be issued in exchange for one share of the present stock. Today's advance added between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 to the market value of the stock. At the highest quotation the total 70,000 shares of the company's stock were worth around $80,000,000, as against about $55,000,000 based on the closing price last night.

Profit taking was responsible for the easing off of the price toward the close of the tow hour market session.

Irregularity was evident in other recent leaders, more especially those which led the previous upturn. Special demand developed for Goldman-Sachs Trading, lifting it to the highest price so far reached, and up 3 points at the close. The best price in their history was also established by Pond Creek, Pocahontas Coal, Grigsby Grunow, Radio, Ground Gripper nad Humble Oil. Aviation shares were either unchanged or slightly lower and the same was true of the mining and utility favorites.

BOOM MARKET SPREADS TO N. Y. BANK STOCKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—Billions of dollars have been added to the market value of the stocks of the leading banks and trust companies of New York through advances, ranging all the way from $50 to $1,825 a share, that have taken place since the first of this year.

The First National bank, of which George F. Baker, dean of Wall street bankers, is chairman, was, as usual, one of the strongest leaders in the upward movement, its price of $6,850 a share on last Friday comparing with $5,025 on Dec. 31, 1928. On the 100,000 shares of the bank outstanding this represented a total market appreciation of $182,600,000 in the value of the stock. The outstanding stock of the National City bank gained $475,000,000 in market value since the end of last year.

The bank stock market of the last three weeks is the most active that the dealers have experienced. Wall street has been full of meager rumors linkink up some of the biggest banks in the country, and this has been accompanied by excited buying of a long list of bank stocks. Advances of $50 or $100 a share in one day in the stocks of the favorites have been common.

Darby A. Day Agency Is Installing Brokerage Dept.

Harry McNamer has been appointed by Darby A. Day, general agent of the Union Central Life in Chicago, as manager of a brokerage department now being established in the Day agency. The brokerage business of that office has developed to a point within the last two years where a separate department has been found necessary.

Decline in Failures Shows Business Improvement

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Further improvement is shown in this week's record of commercial failures in the United States compiled by R. G. Dun & Co. Defaults totaled 460, a decrease of 30 under last week's total and 16 less than in the corresponding 1928 week.

American Cyanamid Co. to Call 6% Pfd. Stock, Report

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Directors of the American Cyanamid company are reported to be considering calling for redemption at 120 its outstanding $5,595,900 6 per cent preferred stock and giving stockholders the alternative of exchanging each preferred share for two common shares.

Steel Demand Continues Strong in Cleveland Area

Cleveland, O., March 16.—"Unabated demand for steel continues to confront sellers in the Cleveland district who are in the unique position of having to turn down proffered tonnage and are practically allocating their output," Daily Metal Trade says.

CHICAGO BANK STOCK MARKET DEVELOPS NOTABLE STRENGTH

The Chicago bank stock market last week developed notable strength, and prices were higher all along the line, with few exceptions.

Chicago Trust company was in good demand and advanced 50 points to a high of 600. It lost a portion of this gain, however, when it closed at 585 bid, offered at 590. Central Trust Company of Illinois was also notable for its strength, rising 15 points to sales between 590 and 595. National Bank of the Republic was pushed up 25 points to sales at 278, but it dropped back to 257 bid, 260 asked. Foreman National improved 5 points to sales at 997 to 1,000. Straus National continued in demand at 385 with limited offerings at 390.

First National was active between 915 and 920. Harris Trust and Savings was steady at 1200 to 1225. Northern Trust was slightly lower at 905 to 910. Sales in Continental National Bank and Trust ranged between 690 and 695; while Illinois Merchants was listless at 1375 to 1380. State Bank of Chicago lagged and showed an easier tendency at 860 to 865, as did Union Bank of Chicago at 455 to 465. Peoples Trust and Savings was 10 points better at 520 to 530.

The trend was mixed in the miscellaneous group. Aviation Securities corporation improved from early sales at 31 to high and closing sales at 41 to 42. Chicago Title and Trust shares were heavy and lost 5 points at 630. Greenebaum Sons Investment was wanted at 43 with offerings at 44.

Bryn Mawr State Is 14th Link in Banking Chain

Acquisition of the fourteenth link in their chain of banking interests was made yesterday by the Bain organization as it took over control of the Bryn Mawr State bank, 71st street and Clyde avenue. The institution is capitalized at $200,000. A dividend of 1½ per cent was declared by the directors, who elected the following new officials: John Bain, director and chairman of the board; William Hundinger, Edward Klinenberg and Arthur Wells, directors; Wallace Weatherholt, vice president, and Robert Bain, director and vice president.

Chicago Stores Install Robot Vending Machines

The first commercial installations of the talking robot vending machines in Chicago were announced yesterday with the opening of five machine batteries in the Boston Store and west side Sears-Roebuck store here. The machines sell only cigarets and are products of the Consolidated Automatic Merchandising company.

Maker of Foot Appliances Buys Michigan City Plant

Michigan City, Ind., March 16.—Dr. William M. Scholl of Chicago, wealthy manufacturer of foot appliances, has bought the Tecumseh Facing Mills building here, a three story brick structure, for $35,000. He will take possession April 1 and employ more than 200 persons.

Says Cost of Credit May Hit Prosperity

Cincinnati, March 16.—(AP)—Roy A. Young, governor of the federal reserve board which for more than a month has been trying to restrain the use of federal reserve credit in speculation, said tonight that speculative demand for credit may go to a point where it will be "a serious detriment to business." He warned lenders to see first that business gets "credit at reasonable rates" and let others get what is left.

Speaking before the Cincinnati Commercial club, governor Young said that already all lines of commerce and business have felt the effect of increased credit charges resulting from high rates offered by speculators and told his audience that the final cost of the speculative demand for credit "may involve the impairment of the prosperity of our commerce and industry."

This, he pointed out, would be caused through the increasing credit rates having a bad effect on the trade of foreign countries, two of which he said already have increased their rates to prevent money being attracted by higher rates in this country.

"I want to remind you," Mr. Young said, "that there are approximately 27,000 bankers in the United States and while from what I have been able to observe they take care of local needs. When they have funds to employ outside of their own community and are offered call loans at rates from 3 to 4 per cent above credit based upon production and distribution, obviously they extend that credit which brings the best rates.

LEHIGH VALLEY MAY BE NEXT R. R. TO ELECTRIFY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—A survey for the electrification of the Lehigh Valley railroad between Mauch Chunk and Wilkes Barre, Pa., is under way, it was learned today. The cost of electrifying the 75 miles of double track main line would be about $7,000,000, it was stated.

Representatives of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, General Electric company, and American Brown Boveri company are making estimates of the cost of the project. If their figures show that electric operation of this section of line would be cheaper than steam, the railroad will return to electricity for its operation. The line of the Lehigh Valley runs through mountainous territory in this section and, at present, three cylinder locomotives are used to move trains over the grades. The line for which electrification is contemplated comprises an entire locomotive division, that is, locomotives are changed at its boundaries.

The Lehigh Valley is joining a movement in which other railroads operating in the region of great traffic density between here and western Pennsylvania are already embarked.

The Pennsylvania is electrifying from here to Philadelphia and eventually it will be electrified to Pittsburgh and Washington, the work to cost about $100,000,000. The Lackawanna is electrifying it suburban lines. The Reading, which is an integral part of a system including the Central of New Jersey, is electrifying in the Philadelphia area and probably will eventually electrify to New York over the Jersey Central. The New York Central has made surveys for electrification line from Croton to Buffalo at a cost of $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.

Calumet & Arizona Has Good Year in Copper

The Calumet & Arizona Mining company last year had net earnings of $5,221,640, equivalent to $8.12 a share on 642,757 shares of $10 par common stock. After paying $7 a share, surplus was increased by $722,341 to $40,076,056. Net earnings for 1927 were $3,725,597, or $5.80 a share, and after paying $6 in dividends, there was a deficit of $130,945. Sales of copper last year were 54,728,272 pounds, compared with 44,852,932 in 1927.

SOLUTION NEAR IN PROBLEM OF CITY'S TRACTION

Busby Is Hopeful as Income Grows.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Hope of a speedy settlement of Chicago's traction problem and a unified and comprehensive transportation system was held out yesterday by Leonard A. Busby, president of the Chicago City Railway company, which operates the south side street car lines. The report also revealed that the company had one of the best years in its recent history.

"On Dec. 6, 1928, Federal Judge Wilkerson, before whom the receivership proceedings of the Chicago Railways company are pending, appointed a citizens' traction settlement advisory committee for the purpose of cooperating with and endeavoring to harmonize any differences between the companies and the city and thus bring about a solution of the traction problem fair to both the public and the properties," Mr. Busby relates.

Complete Program.

"Counsel for the committee, for the companies and for the city have worked earnestly and diligently in the drafting of bills for necessary and adequate enabling legislation and as a result of their labors a complete legislative program has been practically completed which it is hoped will have the endorsement and united support of all interests.

"With such an accord there is every reason to expect favorable consideration of the bills at Springfield and with their enactment the way is clear for a solution of Chicago's local transportation problem."

Mr. Busby explains that earnings of the surface lines last year were the largest in their history, except for 1921 when an eight cent fare prevailed.

"After payment of operating expenses and bond interest," he says, "the Chicago City Railway property produced a net income of $1,824,504, equivalent to 10.14 per cent on its $18,000,000 capital stock.

Special Fund.

"No dividends were declared during the year, due to the fact that the first mortgage bonds maturing Feb. 1, 1927, are still past due and unpaid. Interest on these bonds was paid and earnings are ample to warrant the expectation that interest payments will continue until the bonds are paid.

"Subject to the rights of the first mortgage bondholders, the company has set aside in a special fund, applicable to the payment of dividends when so determined by the directors, an amount equal to 6 per cent on the capital stock, or $1,080,000. There is now a total in this special fund, including interest earned, of $2,217,654."

CERTO CORP. WILL PAY A SPECIAL CASH DIVIDEND

Rochester, N. Y., March 16.—(AP)—A special dividend of one dollar in cash will be paid to stockholders of Certo Corporation before the consummation of the merger with Postum company, it was announced today. This will be in addition to the seventy-five cent payment, recently authorized by the board of directors, April 1.

An extra dividend of 10 cents a share was voted by directors of the Republic Flow Meters company. The common stock of the Grand Rapids Metalcraft corporation was placed on a $1 annual basis with the declaration of 25 cents, quarterly.

Bank of Spain Announces Cut in Its Discount Rate

REPORT G. M. C. CONTROLS FRENCH MOTOR COMPANY

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

PARIS March 16.—The intense rivalry of the Ford organization and General Motors for European business, as evidenced by the ambitious plans of both, has given rise within the last twenty-four hours to a persistent rumor that General Motors has acquired a majority interest in The Citroen factories, which are lomass production concern in Europe.

Purchase by General Motors of the Opel Automobile Works near Frankfort, Germany, will soon be followed by the disclosure that the American company has a majority interest in the largest French company, it is reported.

New York, March 16.—Big and little bull speculators appeared content to take a breathing spell in today's stock market following the swift advance of the last two days. There was the usual volume of week-end profit taking and this produced considerable irregularity in price movements. But the selling was well absorbed and net gains predominated both as to number and extent.

With the call loan rate holding over at 7 per cent, there was less nervousness over the credit situation. Furthermore, the federal tax payments and government financing are out of the way for another three months. In addition, the further advance in copper metal prices, the optimistic weekly mercantile reviews and the continued flood of cheerful corporation earnings reports all inspired satisfaction. This was reflected in broad trading, with total transactions running to 2,715,700 shares for the two hours.

Boom Favorites.

Although trading was orderly in most sections of the list, the big pools again added several touches of liveliness by booming their favorites. Old Radio stock again was whirled upward to another new peak at 549 and finished at the top for a net gain of 11 points, while the new shares gained 2¼ points. Rossia Insurance soared 13 points and Otis Elevator did even better with a 20 point upturn.

The copper group was notably buoyant, being helped by predictions that the red metal will be firmly established on a 21½ cent basis next week. Greene Cananea led the upturn with a rise of 7¼ points and Calumet & Arizona followed closely with a 6⅝ points gain. Gains running up to several points also were recorded by American Zinc, Anaconda, Andes, Calumet & Hecla, Cerro de Pasco, Chile, Granby, Kennecott, Magma, and Nevada Copper.

Oils Show Better Tone.

The rubber group also showed decided strength, with Goodyear jumping 8¼ and Goodrich and Miller advancing a point or two. The steel and motor groups were irregular. United States Steel gained a bare fraction, while gains of a point or two were made by Inland Steel, Marmon Motor, Stromberg Carburetor and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

On the other hand, losses of a point

UPTURN IN WHEAT MARKET FAILS TO TAKE HOLD

Short Covering Sends Up Price of Corn.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Local bulls and commission houses were on the buying side of wheat early, and were able to advance values moderately. The action of the market, however, was about the same as it was the three previous days, the upturn failing to hold, many of the early buyers going out of their lines on the way down.

The finish was ⅛@⅞ of a cent lower with March $1.25⅛; May, $1.29⅛ to $1.29¼, and July, $1.31⅛ to $1.31⅝. Outside trade was light, and buying orders failed to follow the bulge. Action of the Winnipeg market had considerable influence, with the close there ¼@⅜ of a cent lower.

Short covering was on in corn, several leading locals who have been on the selling side of late coming in on their lines, and the close was ⅛ of a cent higher to ¼ of a cent lower, March finishing at 96⅜ cents; May, 99⅝ to 99¾ cents, and July, $102.⅛ to $1.02⅝. Oats finished unchanged to ⅛ of a cent higher, with March 47¼ cents, and May, 49 to 49⅛ cents, while rye was unchanged to ⅜ of a cent higher. March finished at $1.09½ and May, $1.10⅞.

Wheat Higher for Week.

Despite the failure of outside buying orders to follow the sharp bulges, wheat prices averaged higher during the last week, and the finish showed net gains of ⅛@1¼ cents as compared with a week ago. Other grains were easier, with corn off 1⅛@1⅝ cents; oats, ⅛@1⅛ cents, and rye, 1¼@1½ cents, as compared with the previous week. Lard was unchanged to 12½ cents higher; ribs, 17½@20 cents higher, and bellies, 20@32½ cents higher for the week.

Local crop observers who are now in Kansas are finding a little damage to winter wheat in that state, due either to winter killing, soil blowing, or small top or root growth, but on the whole the comments were somewhat more favorable from the sections which have the largest acreage, than the trade has been anticipating. R. W. Kinyon wired that it would take ten days to two weeks before it would be possible to determine the situation with certainty. Donovan is inclined to look for only an average crop for the day with normal weather conditions to harvest.

Heavy winter killing of wheat was reported in France, Holland, Belgium, and western Germany in a cable to the department of agriculture. Some rain has fallen in Australia, but the main producing sections remain dry. Acreage in India is about 1,100,000 acres less than the final estimate of last year. Export demand at the seaboard was slow, with no sales of consequence reported. Liverpool closed ¼@⅝d lower, with Buenos Aires off ½c for the day.

Argentine Corn Lower.

Argentine corn prices, which have been holding relatively steady of late, closed 1¼@1⅝c lower for the day, with weather favorable for gathering the new crop. However, the decline there had little effect on the local market and there was little pressure until prices had advanced to around $1.00 for May, where selling against offers checked the upturn. Bulk of the trade was of a local character. Kansas City sold 50,000 bu No. 2 mixed to come here at 3c under Chicago May, but that price was at a premium of about ¼c over the March. Offers of round lots of No. 3 mixed at 5c under were turned down by local handlers.

A good southern demand for cash oats has developed of late and shipping sales here were 122,000 bu for the day. The March delivery shows a somewhat firmer tone than the May and the spread narrowed fractionally during the day. Trade in rye was light, with no pressure of consequence and the market showed independent strength.

GERMANY GETS $7,562,000 LOAN ON GOLD EN ROUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—That the federal reserve system has advanced the Reichsbank of Germany $7,562,000 in anticipation of the receipt of gold which is now on the high seas, en route to the United States, was an interesting revelation in the weekly bank statement, which listed the above item as "foreign loans on gold." It is thought that the $2,500,000 recently released from earmark is part of the same transaction.

In making such a loan to the reichsbank, the Federal Reserve banks are following a commercial and international custom. Gold once shipped and insured is considered a proper basis for an advance of funds. By making such a loan the Federal Reserve banks allowed the reichsbank to make payments here on account of purchases of reichsmark exchange. Owing to the slump in the mark to the gold point, the reichsbank has found it necessary to support exchange.

Another $7,000,000 of gold is on its way from Germany in addition to the $10,000,000 or $11,000,000 which is expected here next week.

HOW LUCKY! YOU TWO SNUGGLE PUPS GOING MY WAY - I'LL HAVE COMPANY!

'LO GIGGLES!

MY BIG MOMENT IS TAKIN' ME TO A HOP, AT TH' HODCARRIER'S HALL - AND BROTHER THIS IS ONE DAY WE WILL MAKE. YIPEE!

AND HOW!

ST. PATRICK'S DAY ISN'T WHAT IT USED TO BE WHEN TH' CLANCYS, DUGGANS AND TH' MURPHY'S USED T'HOLD THEIR DRESS PARADES--

AFTER TH' PARADES A LOT OF PARTIES WAS HELD, SILK TOPPERS SMASHED, HUGE GOBS OF FIST THROWN ABOUT, WITH BRICKS WHIZZIN' AROUND - AND -

SAY! BIG BOY! YOU CAN'T MAKE ANY WISE CRACKS ABOUT TH' IRISH TO ME- MY MOTHER CAME FROM ERIN!

HUH?

YOU LET HAROLD ALONE - HE WAS ONLY SPOOFING!

HOW ABOUT YOU KEEPING YOUR SNOOT OUT O' THIS- HE INSULTED TH' IRISH!

CAT! I'M NOT AFRAID OF YOU!

ULP!

DON'T HOLD ME BACK! LEMME AT HER, I SAY!

YOU KNOW HOW I DESPISE HER, YET YOU MAKE ME WALK DOWN TH' STREET WITH HER-

LISSUN! LIL' WHITE MOUSEY, LISSEN!

CATS

OHO! ERIN GO BRAU

PLUNK!

THERE'S A BIT OF IRISH CONFETTI, LILACS!

IS ZAT SO? WELL MY FAMILY'S JUST AS GOOD AS YOUR FAMILY, EMMY.

HAHA— WELL MY FAMILY'S FAMILY HISTORY AIN'T WROTE ON A POLICE BLOTTER.

UNCLE WILLIE, ME SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER SAYS IT'S WRONG TO GAMBLE— IS THEY ANYTHING TO THAT.

WELL THE WAY I DOES IT, IT IS, KAYO

WHAT? DO YOU MEAN TO TELL ME YOU'RE LOSING MONEY AGAIN WILLIAM MULLINS— AND YOU, YOU BANJOEYED BUM—

AW WHY DIDN'T YOU LET ME PLAY A LITTLE LONGER SWEETHEART— I'D OF GOT OUR MONEY BACK.

ALL I GOTTA SAY IS YOU'D BETTER GET IT BACK!

I GOT A GOOD START NOW— I THINK I'LL GO DOWN TO TH' CORNER AND HORN INTO A REAL GAME.

YOU'RE OUTTA LUCK TONIGHT, MULLINS— ALL TH' BOYS IS OVER AT JACK HORNER'S STAG PARTY.

OH WELL, I GUESS I'LL GO GIVE ME UNCLE WILLIE A CHANCT TO BREAK EVEN. HIS WAR DEPARTMENT OUGHTA BE ASLEEP BY NOW.

WILLIAM! DID YOU HEAR THAT? SOMEBODY'S TRYING TO GET INTO THE HOUSE.

YOU COWARD! GET OUT FROM THERE AND DEFEND ME!

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, MAMIE— I'M LOOKIN' FER ME BALL BAT.

BAM!

NOW LISTEN, MOONSHINE— LET ME EXPLAIN—

SO THAT'S HOW YOU THOUGHT YOU'D GET YOUR MONEY BACK WAS IT, UNCLE WILLIE? WELL YOU CAN EXPLAIN, BUT I'LL BE SITTIN' ALONGSIDE YOUR COT IN TH' HOSPITAL WHEN I LISTEN TO IT.

MOONSHINE, I HATES TO DO THIS, BUT YOUSE SIMPLY HAVE GOT TO LEARN TO RESPECK YOUR ELDERS.

OH THIS IS TERRIBLE! TERRIBLE!

OFFICER, LOCK ME UP! PLEASE, SIR— LOCK ME UP— I JEST HIT ME FAVORITE NEPHEW OVER THE BEAN WITH A BALL BAT.

DID YOU MAKE AN EMERGENCY CASE FOR THE HOSPITAL OUT OF HIM?

NO-DOGGONE IT! THAT'S WHY I WANT YOUSE TO LOCK ME UP!

SURE, AN' I'VE BEEN LOOKIN' FOR YEZ- WILL YEZ COME OUT LIKE A MAN, OR SHALL I COME IN AFTER YEZ?

TROUBLE

HAROLD GRAY

A ST. PATRICK'S DAY PROGRAM, EH?

WHEN IRISH EYES ARE SHINING... SURE, THEY STEAL YOUR HEART AWAY..

SAY, "DADDY," HOW DOES IT HAPPEN THEY MAKE SO MUCH O' ST. PATRICK'S DAY IN THIS COUNTRY? I THOUGHT IT WAS AN IRISH HOLIDAY, BUT LOTS O' FOLKS MAKE MORE FUSS 'BOUT IT THAN OVER TH' FOURTH O' JULY- HOW COME?

THEY'RE A SENTIMENTAL PEOPLE, ANNIE- A REAL IRISHMAN NEVER LOSES HIS LOVE FOR IRELAND, NO MATTER HOW FAR AWAY HE MAY ROAM- AND EVEN CHILDREN, BORN IN THIS COUNTRY OF IRISH PARENTS, ARE TAUGHT THE LEGENDS AND SONGS OF OLD ERIN- THE IRISH ARE DIFFERENT FROM ANY OTHER RACE ON EARTH-

THEY ARE INTENSELY LOYAL TO THOSE THEY LOVE- FOR THAT REASON, WHEN THEY BECOME AMERICANS, THEY DON'T FORGET IRELAND, BUT THEY LOVE AMERICA, TOO- AND THEY ARE TRUE TO THE COUNTRY OF THEIR ADOPTION ALWAYS-

AND WHEN WARS COME THE IRISH FIGHT- WHEN AN IRISHMAN'S FRIEND OR ADOPTED COUNTRY IS IN A JAM THERE'S NEVER ANY QUESTION ABOUT WHAT THE IRISHMAN WILL DO- THAT'S WHY WE ADMIRE 'EM, ANNIE- AND AN IRISHMAN SINGS WHEN HE GOES TO BATTLE- THE WORLD ADMIRES A HAPPY WARRIOR-

IT TAKES GENERATIONS FOR PEOPLE OF SOME RACES TO BECOME REAL AMERICANS- AN IRISHMAN IS AN AMERICAN THE MINUTE HE STEPS OFF THE BOAT- THAT'S WHY AMERICANS, AS A RULE, MAKE SOMETHING OF ST. PATRICK'S DAY- IT IS IN RESPECT FOR A PEOPLE WHO HAVE ALWAYS BEEN TRUE AND LOYAL FRIENDS-

NOBODY EVER SAW AN IRISHMAN WHO WAS ASHAMED OF BEING IRISH, OR WHO WASN'T PROUD TO BE AN AMERICAN-

HEY- LISTEN TO THIS, "DADDY"-

R-R-RUP

R-R-RUP

SWEET ROSEY O' GRADY...

IT'S TIME FOR YOUR DINNER, "DADDY"- WE'VE GOT SOMETHING I THINK YOU'LL LIKE, TO-DAY-

IRISH STEW- EVERYBODY LIKES IRISH STEW THE WAY MRS. SILO MAKES IT- 'SPECIALLY WHEN ONE IS AS MUCH IRISH AS "DADDY" IS-

ME, I'M NOTHIN' 'SPECIAL, I GUESS- A LITTLE O' THIS AN' A LITTLE O' THAT, LIKE SANDY- THEY CALL SANDY A MONGREL-

OH, WELL- AS LONG AS YUH STICK UP FOR YER COUNTRY AN' PLAY SQUARE WITH FOLKS, WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES IT MAKE WHAT YUH ARE?

SPIKE AND CHINK HAS GOT JOBS! TH' TWIDDY TWINS IS WORKING AND US TWO IS TH' ONLY ONES WHO AIN'T RAISING MONEY FOR TH' RINKEY-DINK BASEBALL TEAM!

IF THE WIND WAS BLOWING HARD LIKE IT DID YESTERDAY, WE COULD MAKE MONEY CHASING PEOPLE'S HATS!!

YEAH, BUT THERE AIN'T EVEN A BREEZE BLOWING TODAY AND HOOMAN BEINGS CAN'T MAKE NO WIND BLOW SO THAT'S OUT !!!

NO IT AIN'T!! BY JIMMINEY, I GOT A GREAT IDEAR, SPUD!!

THIS WINDOW IN YOUR PARLOR IS JUST HIGH ENOUGH! NOW WE TURN THIS 'LECTRIC FAN ON FULL BLAST-

AND ALL WE DO IS WAIT OUT HERE! WHEN SOMEONE WALKS BY, THE FAN BLOWS HIS HAT OFF — WE CHASE THE HAT AND COLLECT MONEY! HOW'S THAT ??

GREAT!!

WELL, THE TRAP'S SET! NOW ALL WE DO IS WAIT FOR CUSTOMERS!

YES AND HERE COMES ONE NOW!! GET READY SPUD!!

THAT GUY IS SO TALL TH' WIND FROM TH' FAN WON'T REACH HIS HAT!!

YEAH, TH' BIG STIFF

WELL SO FAR, NOT SO GOOD!!

DON'T GET EXCITED!! HERE COMES ANOTHER CUSTOMER!

AH-HH-H!! HE'S SO SHORT THE WIND BLOWS RIGHT OVER HIS HEAD!!

AW, THE LITTLE SHRIMP!

GOSH, WE'VE BEEN HANGING AROUND HERE NEARLY AN HOUR AND WE DIDN'T GET ONE HAT YET!!

WELL, LET'S STICK AROUND JUST A LITTLE WHILE LONGER SPUD!!

BOY-LOOK AT ALL THEM HATS!! MUST BE A CROWD PASSING!!

COME 'ON-OUR FORTUNE'S MADE!!

UNCLE WALT, WHERE DOES THE 'LECTRICITY IN THE LIGHTS GO WHEN I TURN OFF THE SWITCH?

IT JUST STOPS AND DOESN'T FLOW ANY MORE.

IF THERE'S IRON IN SPINACH, UNCLE WALT WHY DOESN'T IT GET RUSTY?

OH THERE ISN'T ENOUGH OF IT FOR THAT.

YOU'VE ASKED ME A THOUSAND QUESTIONS THIS MORNING, SKEEZIX. SUPPOSE YOU DO SOMETHING USEFUL. WHY NOT WRITE A LETTER TO GRANDMA?

WHY?

WHERE'S SOME PAPER UNCLE WALT?

YOU'LL FIND SOME THERE IN THE DESK.

WHERE'S A PENCIL?

IN THE TABLE DRAWER. NOW SEE IF YOU CAN'T BE QUIET AND WRITE HER THE NEWS.

WHAT SHALL I WRITE? HOW DO YOU SPELL GRANMA'S NAME?

W-A-L-L-E-T, THE SAME AS YOU SPELL YOURS.

I GUESS I'LL DRAW PICTURES. JEAN HAD HER TONSILS OUT. HOW DO YOU DRAW TONSILS?

I'M SURE I DON'T KNOW.

FOUR.

ANYWAY I CAN DRAW A COW. HOW MANY SPIGOTS DOES A COW HAVE, UNCLE WALT?

WHAT SHALL I DRAW NOW?

GREAT SCOTT, I DON'T CARE AS LONG AS YOU KEEP ON DRAWING!

LISTEN, SKEEZIX, IF YOU DON'T ASK ME A QUESTION FOR FIVE MINUTES I'LL GIVE YOU FIVE CENTS.

ALL RIGHT. WHAT SHALL I DO WHILE I'M WAITING?

ISN'T IT FIVE MINUTES YET?

IT CERTAINLY ISN'T. IT'S ABOUT ONE!

THEN WHEN WILL IT BE FIVE MINUTES?

NOT FOR A LONG TIME!

March 17, 1929

"SOUTH CHICAGO STEEL MILLS," by Josephine L. Reichmann, is a stirring account in color of one of Chicago's adventures into commerce. Mrs. Reichmann, a Chicagoan, paints with a sure touch. This effort is in her best vein—strong, virile, colorful, and direct.

HELEN TWELVETREES, who has had considerable experience on the stage, is a 1929 Wampas star. This is her latest photograph.

JOSEPH SANTLEY, here early last year in "Just Fancy!" has not been acting this season; and a recent dispatch from his Great Neck home indicated that he was newly occupied in the duties of fatherhood.

MISS IVY SAWYER, also here in "Just Fancy!" also has not been acting this season; and it may or may not be necessary to explain that she, in Great Neck, is Mrs. Joseph Santley, and has been for ten years.

OSCAR SHAW, who went from the chorus to starhood, was last in Chicago in "The Five-o'Clock Girl."

WASHINGTON
The City That Every American Should Know

THAT THE WORLD MIGHT LIVE IN HONOR~AND IN FREEDOM

A visit to Washington is an experience that lives in memory—to have walked in the footsteps of the famous—to have stood where Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Wilson have stood while history was in the making—to have visited spots hallowed by historic deeds—to have seen at first hand Congress in session, the machinery of government in action—to know the beauty, the majesty of our National Capital—these leave impressions never to be forgotten.

To take his children to Washington, when they have reached understanding age, is the duty of every father who considers their education a matter of first importance, for how else can they, or you yourself, have a real appreciation of the advantages of American citizenship.

And, so that you may plan your trip in advance—so that you will know where you are to go and what you will see, the Baltimore & Ohio has published an Album of Washington views, picturing and describing the city and its principle places of interest. It is FREE—your name and address on the coupon below will bring you a copy.

The Baltimore & Ohio is the only railroad between the East and West passing directly through Washington. Liberal stop-overs.

Ask the Travel Bureau or your local Ticket Agent for particulars regarding the convenience and economy of frequent Personally Conducted All-Expense Tours to Washington.

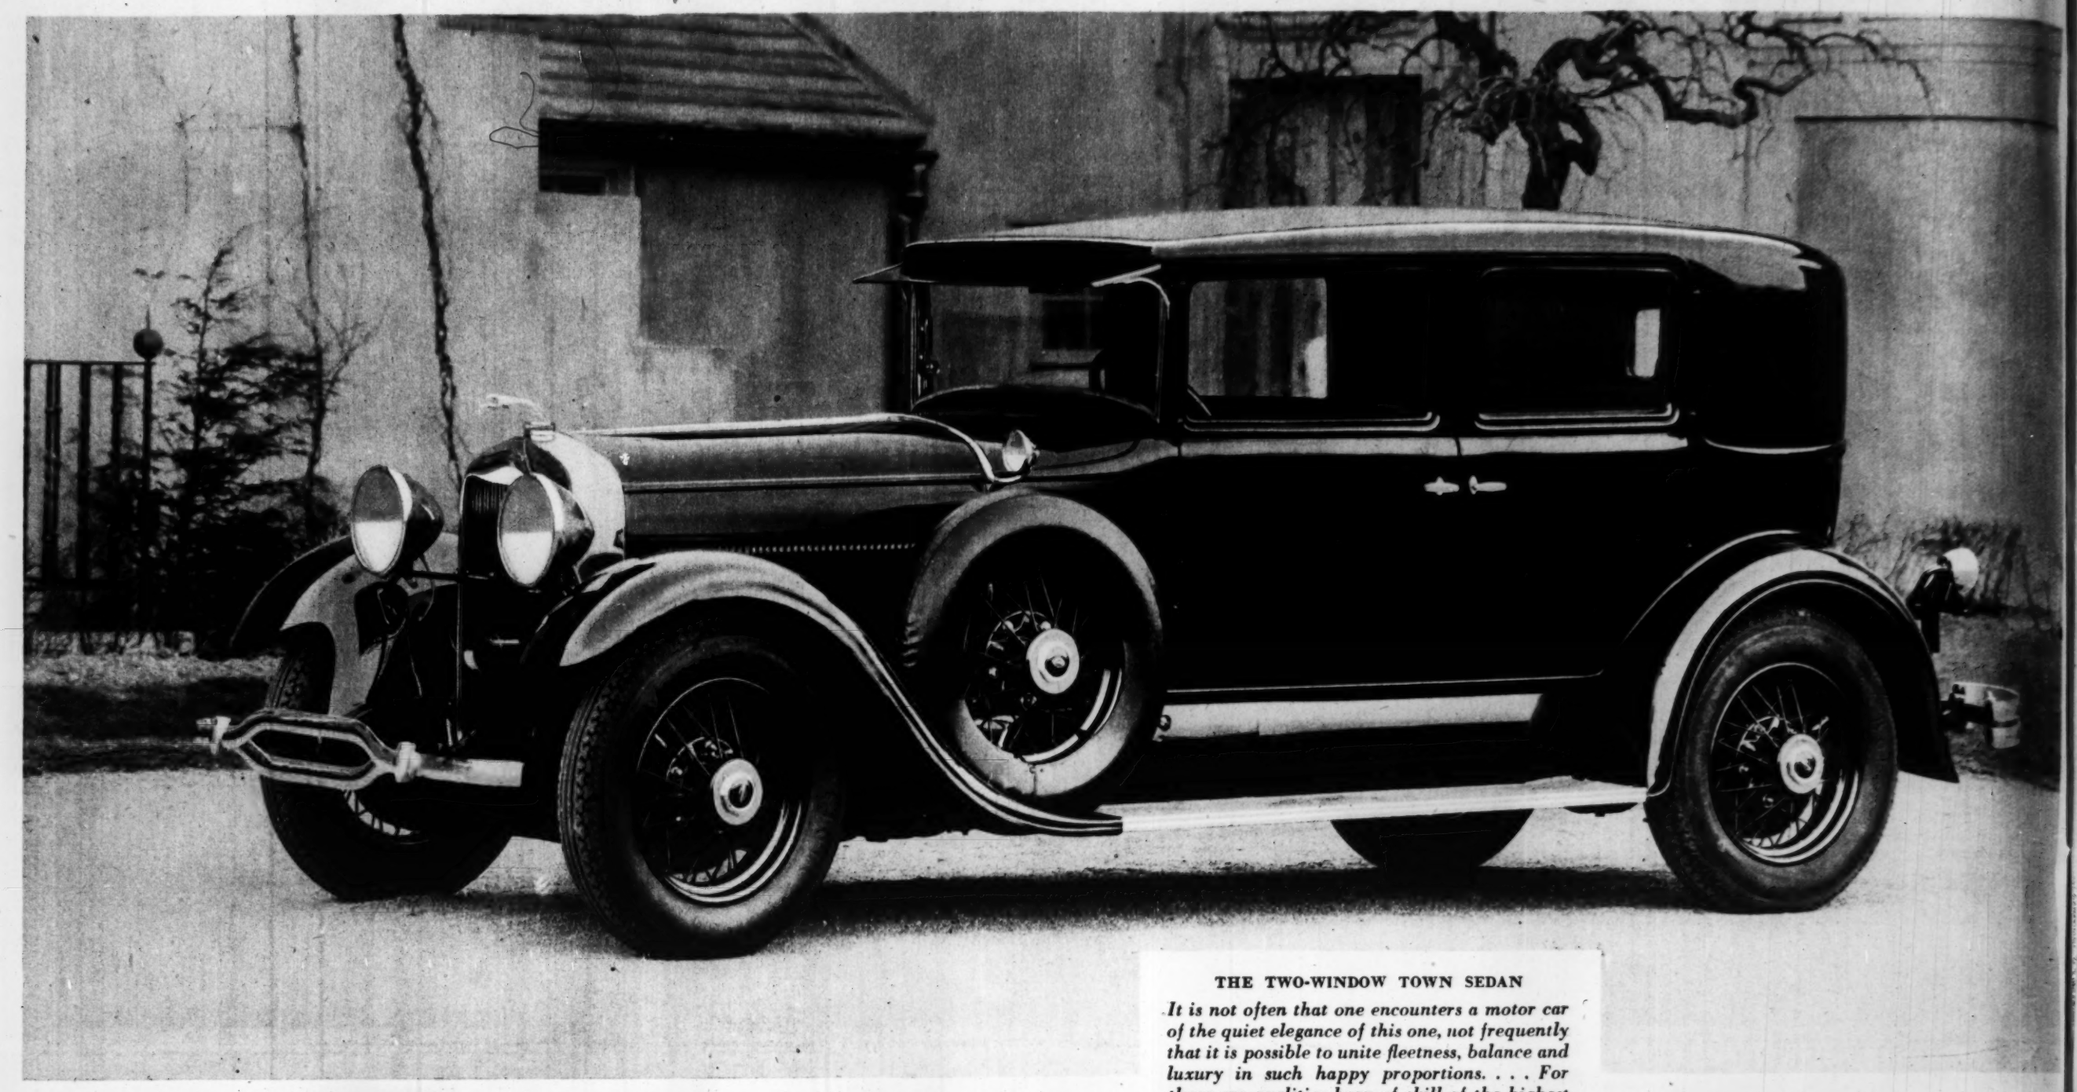
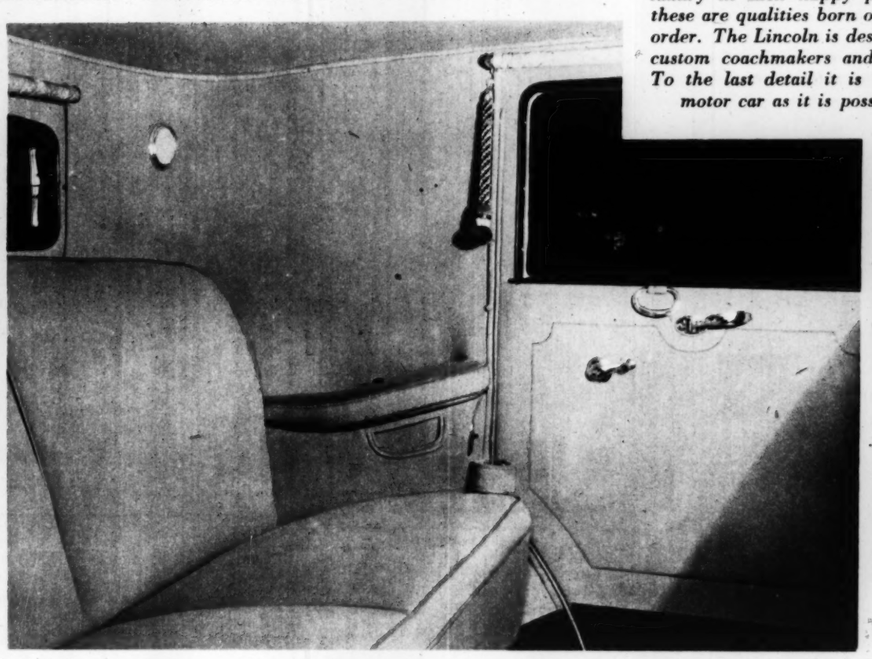
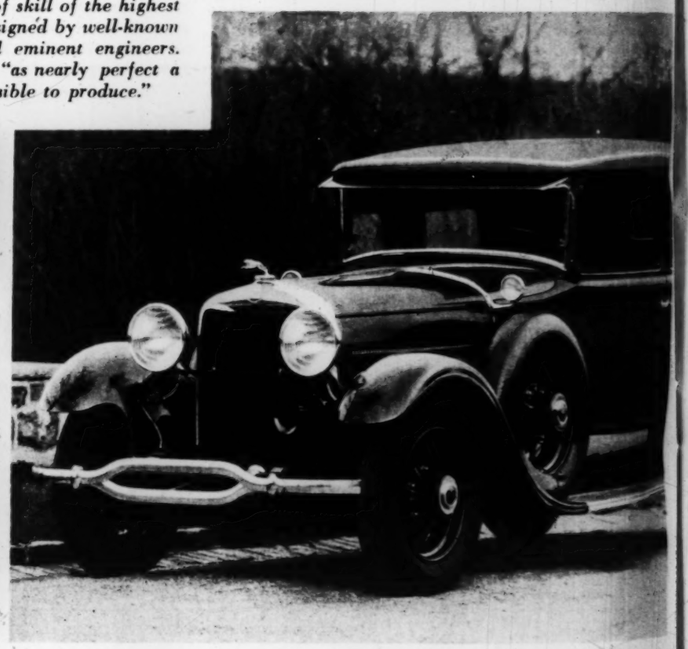
IT HAS THE ENDURING BEAUTY OF ALL DISTINGUISHED THINGS



THE TWO-WINDOW TOWN SEDAN

It is not often that one encounters a motor car of the quiet elegance of this one, not frequently that it is possible to unite fleetness, balance and luxury in such happy proportions. . . . For these are qualities born of skill of the highest order. The Lincoln is designed by well-known custom coachmakers and eminent engineers. To the last detail it is "as nearly perfect a motor car as it is possible to produce."





WORDS have their power, but there are certain things that words will not achieve. And so it is to your eyes that we commend the beauty of the Lincoln. For a single glance is sufficient to convey all that could be said of the beauty of this motor car. It is instantly apparent to everyone.

But it is not beside the point to say that this beauty is a new beauty, having its source in fresh designs and contours. The exterior trim, for example, is plated with tarnish-proof chromium, silver-bright. The radiator is deeper. The fenders are shorter and more sweeping. The whole effect is richer, swifter, suggestive almost of flight.

And beneath this beauty of line and form, of mass and proportion and hue, there is a deeper beauty. It extends down to the last bolt, the last nut, the most minute mechanical detail. It is evinced in the extraordinary safety and comfort of the Lincoln, its grace and unfailing strength. It is the unseen beauty of magnificent engineering.

It is because of this—because the Lincoln is precision-built from start to finish—that it is able to perform so excellently over long periods of time. For the Lincoln is built to last. Only the finest materials go into it. Skilled craftsmen work upon it. It is designed by leading engineers and custom coachmakers. And when it leaves their hands it is as nearly perfect a motor car as it is possible to produce. Nothing has been neglected, no pains spared. For years its strength and beauty will endure. It will grow old gracefully.

A beautiful motor car . . . swift, strong, silent . . . a car that you can trust indefinitely . . . a car that will serve you with credit and distinction in any purpose, or in any place.

We should like very much to have you form your own impressions of the Lincoln from personal experience. The nearest Lincoln dealer will be delighted to arrange a demonstration for you, without the slightest obligation to yourself.

Historic Brandon-on-James, Deal, Virginia, said to have been the home of Shakespeare's daughter Judith, now owned by Robert W. Daniel. "I can praise Vigoro highly for its results," says James M. Ellison, manager of the estate.

"So many people admire our lawn and flowers," says Mrs. A. Schalon, 1319 Jackson Street, Hammond, Indiana. "Before we used Vigoro, it was difficult to grow beautiful things because our soil was so light and sandy." Success typical of the experience of Vigoro users everywhere!

Here's how they do it... the people whose grounds you admire

They've found a method used for years by expert gardeners on big estates

THEY feed their lawns. They give their trees, shrubs, flowers, garden vegetables, the nourishment all plant life absolutely requires for healthy, vigorous growth.

They have learned that soils depleted in plant food by growing things can not be depended upon to provide enough of this nourishment unaided.

They have learned that the old-fashioned materials are incomplete, unbalanced and inconvenient.

They have discovered the amazing results that can be obtained by the use of a complete, scientifically balanced plant food, specially prepared.

A million home owners now use Vigoro!

That is why you now see more beautiful lawns than ever before, finer flowers, leafier shrubs and trees, thriving gardens everywhere!

Endorsed by Leading Landscape Gardeners and Nurserymen

Originally formulated, for professional use, by Swift & Company plant food experts. Vigoro is properly balanced, complete. It gives plants all the elements they require, each in the proper proportion.

Clean, odorless, pleasant to handle, Vigoro can be sown by hand, like grass seed. It produces vigorous root systems, early growth—makes plants more resistant to diseases. It increases humus. It helps choke out weeds!

And the cost is only 10c to 20c for every 100 square feet. Beautify your grounds. Enjoy more and better vegetables from your own garden. Improve your property and increase its value!

Full directions in every bag—100, 50, 25 lb. sizes; 5 lb. packages. Vigoro is sold everywhere—by a dealer near you. Get enough now for everything you grow.

Marie Earle

Without a lot of bother makes your skin immaculate

FOR every occasion when you must look meticulously right (and isn't that always?), give your skin this simple Marie Earle Basic Treatment. Use the Essential Cream as a cleanser, first. It picks up every speck. Then apply it all over again, and smooth it into your skin, stroking with the cushions of your fingers to pet the tissues into absorbing it. Add a dash of Cucumber Emulsion (right on top of the Cream) to increase absorption by the skin. Wipe away all that is not taken up by the tissues. Finish and tone with Soothing Freshener Lotion.

This Basic Treatment is so simple because the Marie Earle Preparations are so extravagantly good. And the Preparations have always been made with this luxurious quality, because the distinguished women for whom they are made like them that way.

A full and complete line of the Marie Earle Preparations may be obtained at all smart down-town shops.

Know the amazing difference between ordinary creams.....and Penetrating
MELBA SKIN CLEANSER!

MISS ANGELA DOWNEY, lovely debutante, popular in Chicago society, has a skin like creamy satin with the exquisite, "cared-for" look of the fastidiously groomed woman. "No skin can be lovely as long as it is clogged," says Miss Downey. "We of the younger set know the amazing difference between any ordinary cream that stays on the surface and Melba Skin Cleanser which penetrates...really cleanses!"

Ordinary creams cleanse superficially. Only a penetrating cream like Melba Skin Cleanser, which liquefies instantly on your skin, can enter clogged pores thoroughly, freely, flushing the skin of all impurities. It is this efficient cleansing which makes skin beauty possible!

Make This Simple Test . . .

On the smooth skin of your forearm stroke a bit of Melba Skin Cleanser. Right beside it dab a bit of any cream you use for cleansing. Watch Melba Skin Cleanser melt and penetrate into the skin. See your "other cream" still on the surface. Make your own decision as to which cream really penetrates into the pores—really cleanses!

A Perfect Home Beauty Treatment

First—Cleanse the Skin—Use Melba Skin Cleanser
Second—Nourish the Skin—Use Melba Tissue Cream
Third—"Finish" our Facial—With Melba Vanishing Cream

"It flatters with its dashing gleam . . ."
says LADY HEATH
England's Foremost Woman Aviator

Famous flyer and hunter of big game . . . Lady Heath is renowned for her beauty and great daring.

Lady Heath keeps her capable hands lovely with the new Cutex Liquid Polish . . .

Lady Heath, now touring America to recount for us some experiences of her very enthralling life, is that delightful English combination of sportswoman and society woman everywhere admired—fearless, charming, beautiful.

Rivaling the daring of the world's most courageous men, she has flown from Cape Town to London and hunted big game all over the globe.

We asked her in a recent interview, whether she did not find the strenuous life she led very hard on her hands. "Oh, yes, indeed," she answered,—she has a quick, interested way of talking which is most refreshing.

"Of course one's hands get very soiled! But when I am 'roughing it,' as you Americans say, a little dirt does not annoy me. And one learns ways to clean up the hands in a jiffy.

"I put Cutex Nail White under my nails to keep out the grease. I use Cutex Cuticle Remover to shape the cuticle, and the Cuticle Oil to feed it, and once a week I apply the new Cutex Liquid Polish—which doesn't stain, you know.

"After a hard day, I simply wash my hands with soap and water, and immediately they look quite spiffy. Really I'm quite devoted to that new Cutex Liquid Polish. It gives a dashing gleam that is very flattering to my conception of myself."

"Women who wear pretty clothes have pretty hands, too!"
says member of Washington society

The exclusive clientele of one of the very smartest New York shops . . . Jay-Thorpe's . . . is so fortunate as to reap the benefit of Mrs. Poe White's superlative taste and judgment. She says: "Oh, yes indeed, every woman with any pretension to smartness knows the decorative value of well-groomed nails—sparkling, flower-like fingertips, accents to all engaging costumes! You see, I use Cutex Liquid Polish! It's an absolute adjunct to good grooming—a most necessary thing. It strikes twelve to the busy woman, such as I am now!"

"Tending flowers . . potting plants . . Cutex protects my nails," says prominent woman florist

At the corner of Madison Avenue and 65th Street is the charming florist shop run by Mary Bond.

Though Miss Bond feels herself more a professional woman than a society woman, she is none the less well known in social circles. But she loves flowers and caring for them, so she does everything in the shop herself, risking the ruin to her hands. But her capable artistic hands always look as though they have been just manicured.

"All day," Miss Bond said to us, "my hands are wet. My fingers are constantly digging in the soil. No occupation could be harder on the hands for so much moisture makes the nails dry up, and the fertilizer eats and hardens the cuticle

"So each evening I spend a few minutes with my Cutex Set—the Cuticle Remover, the Nail White to whiten the tips, and the Cuticle Oil to soften the cuticle. And I never fail once a week to apply the new Cutex Liquid Polish. It gives the delicate lustre that flatters the tiredest hands."

Do these 3 simple things

You can make your hands look prettier than most people's . . . this way.

First—the Cuticle Remover to remove dead cuticle, to whiten the nail tips, soften and shape the cuticle.

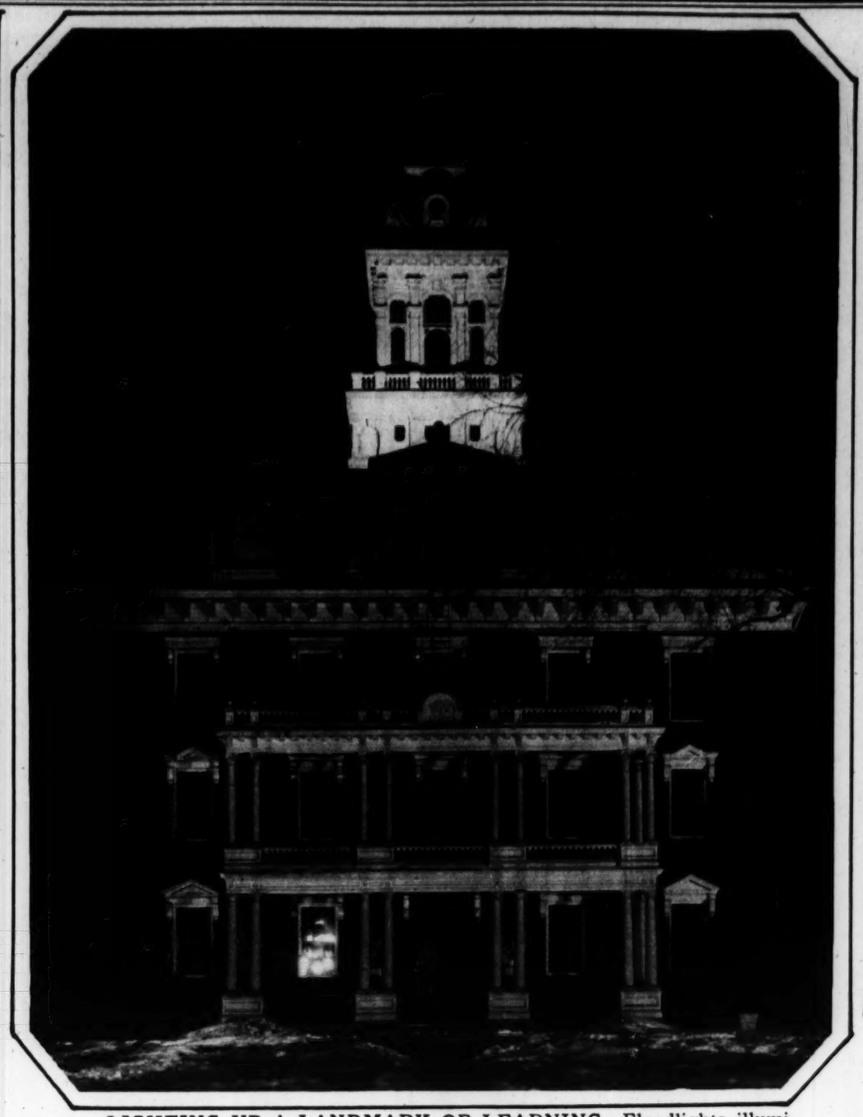
Second—the Polish Remover to remove the old polish, followed by the flattering Cutex Liquid Polish that sparkles undimmed for a week.

Third—apply Cutex Cuticle Cream or Cuticle Oil around the cuticle and under the tip to keep the cuticle soft . . . Cutex preparations 35¢ each. Polish and Remover together 50¢. Northam Warren, New York, London, Paris.

Although Lady Heath takes entire care of her own De Haviland Moth Plane her hands excite admiration and envy! A Cutex Kit keeps her nails particularly lovely. Ask to see one at your favorite store.

The new Cutex Liquid Polish flatters your nails.

THE ADONIS OF OLD ELI—The best looking man and the "biggest" social celebrity at Yale are one and the same person, seniors of the university decided by vote. He is Hiram Edwards Manville, brother of Countess Folke Bernadotte. (Photograph from Wide World.)



LIGHTING UP A LANDMARK OF LEARNING—Floodlights illuminate the cupola of "Old Middle" at Beloit college, Wisconsin's oldest college building. Bricks for "Old Middle," built in 1847, were brought by oxen from Racine, and timber was cut in nearby woods. Hand-hewn logs, still bearing bark, are to be seen in the basement.

THE PRIEST WHO MARRIED THE HOOVERS—Monsignor Ramon Mestres, then Father Mestres, in 1899 performed the ceremony uniting Herbert Hoover and Lou Henry at the Mission San Carlos Borromeo, in California. An old friend of the Henry family, he obtained a special dispensation to marry the two non-Catholics. (Photograph from Wide World.)

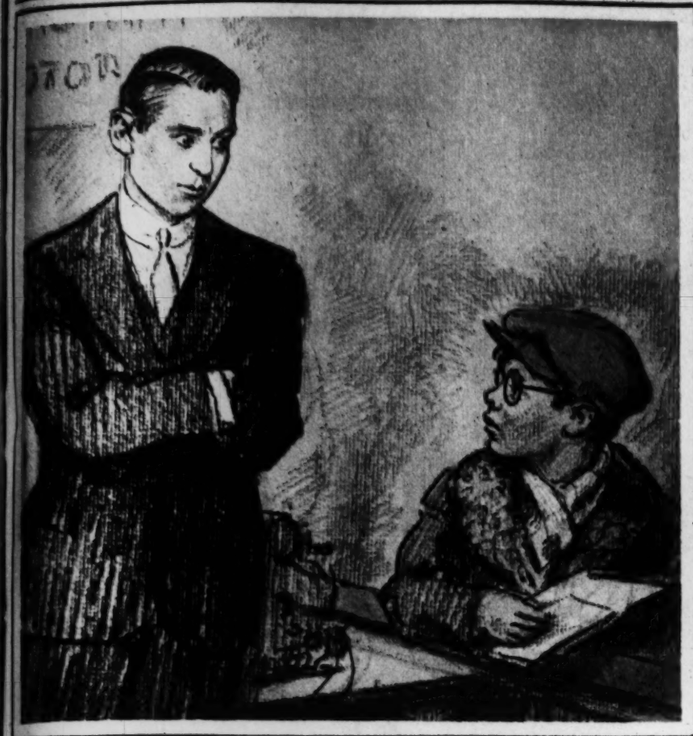
The Aviation Show

By W. E. Hill

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]



"That's too technical a question to answer here, young fella." It's the younger generation that asks the sticklers, as many a hardy exhibitor learns from experience.

"Of course, Hazel, you have to be just the type."

"How long does it take to be a pilot? You don't have to know anything about the mechanics, do you?" This is what the young man in charge of the Flying School booth has to cope with over and over again.

"Now don't be saucy, Junior, you've been in there long enough!" Making young America airminded is not difficult—it's getting him out of the cockpit once he's in that takes time and patience.

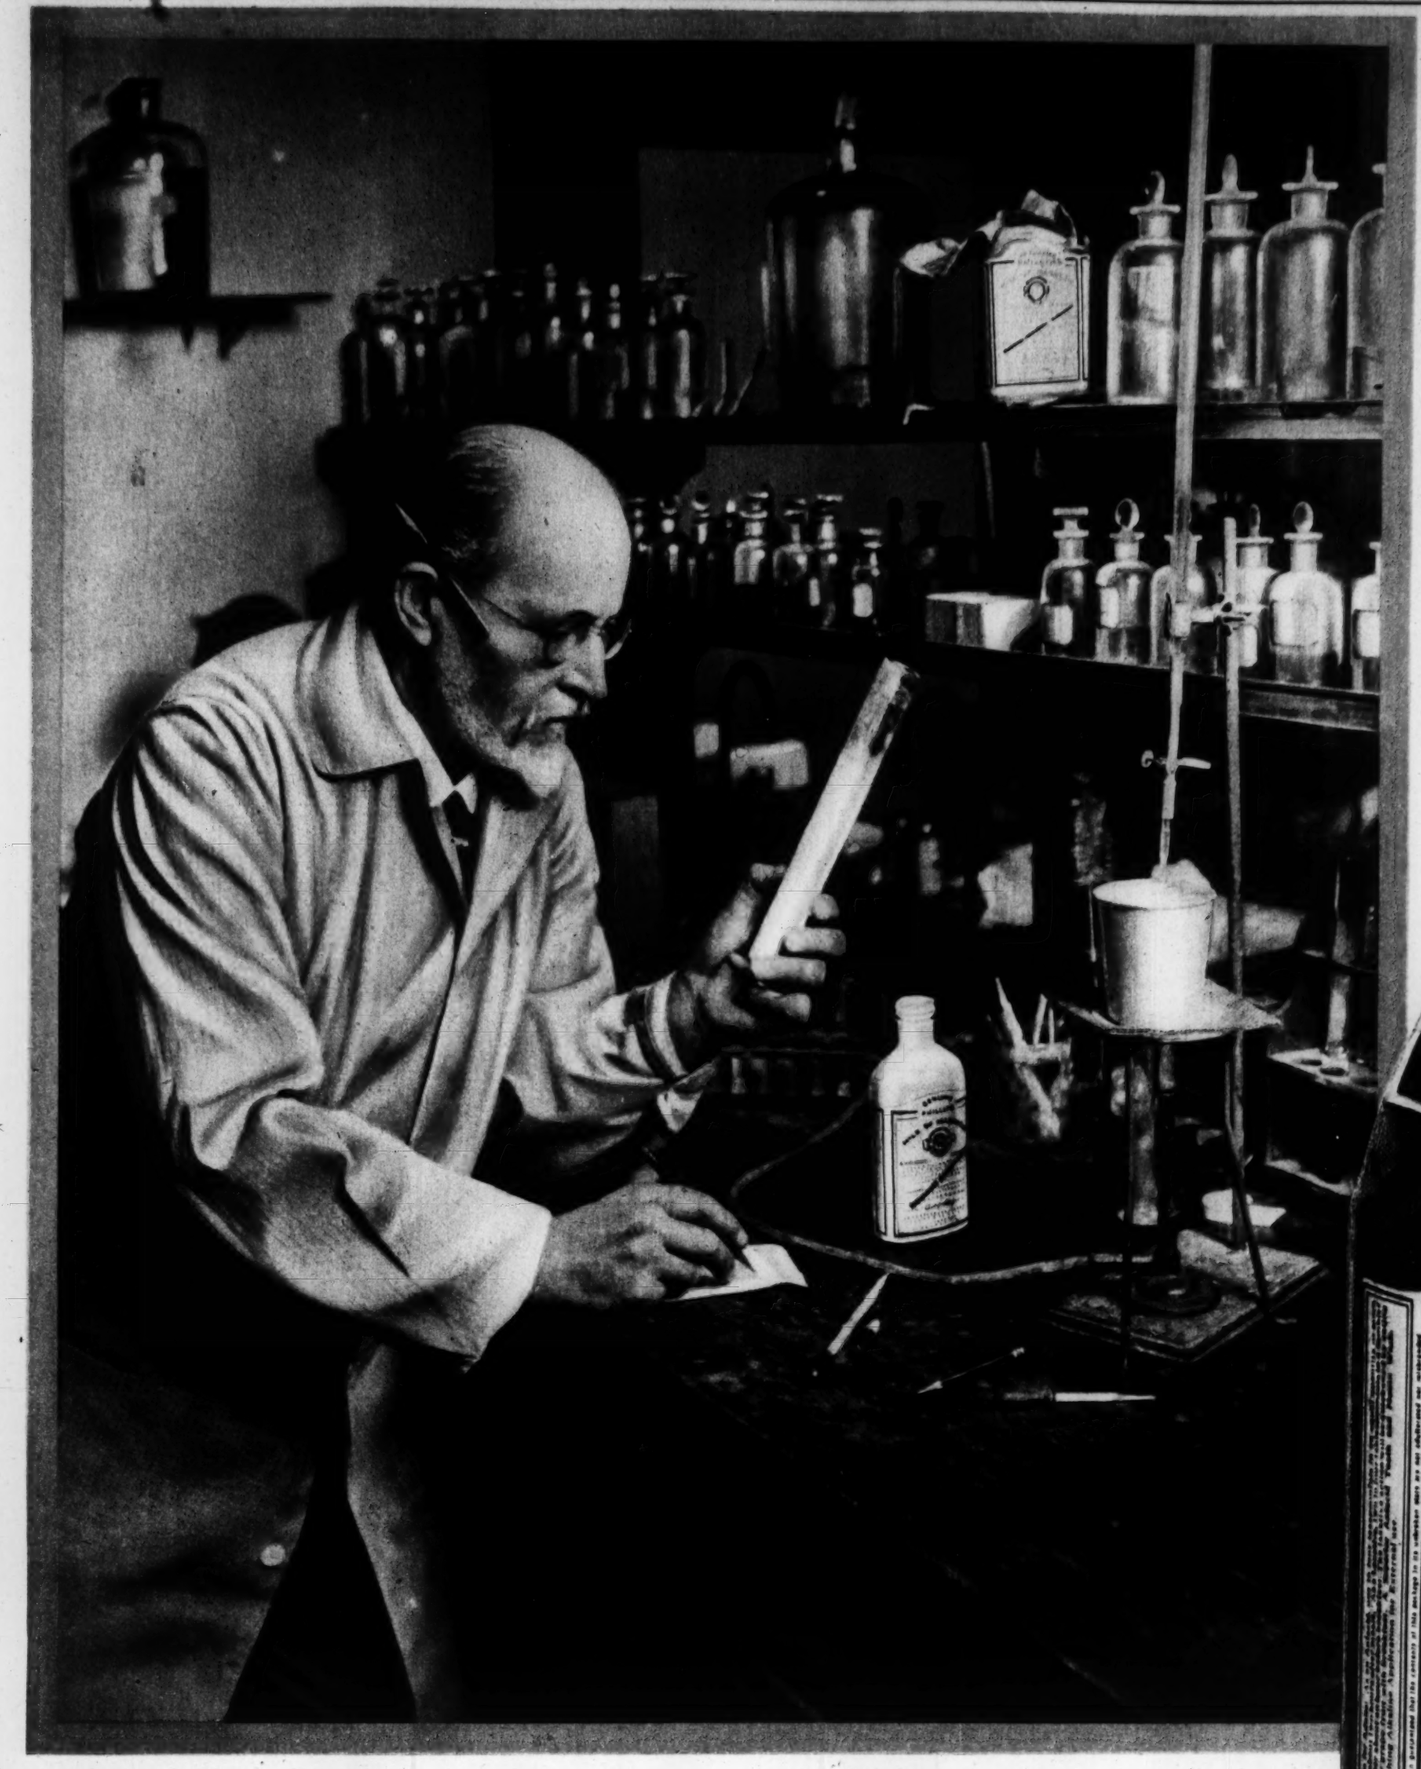
"O dear, I know he'll get one of his gas attacks and I'll have to be up with him all night!" Just an eager young husband trying out the Orientator against the advice of the little wife. (An Orientator, in case you don't know, simulates all the free and easy motions of an airplane without once leaving the ground. While less hazardous than a roller coaster or a bamboo slide, there's always the chance that the operator may go off to lunch, leaving the occupant upside down.)

Tired salesman in charge of the Sticko Waterproof Glue exhibit, thinking of the little home and the kiddies, the lobster and the ice cream he ate for lunch, and one thing and another. He's had a pretty hard day making airminded America Sticko Glue conscious.

At the desk where books on the art of flying are on sale, Miss Lillian Leuber, whose job is selling programs, is substituting for Miss Grayce Grogan, Miss Grogan having stepped outside for a maple nut sundae. "And what," asks Miss Leuber in response to a demand for a book on aviation for the layman, "are Mr. Lehman's initials?"

Just a lovely young society aviatrix pinch hitting for Miss Amelia Earhart, Lady Heath, Col. Lindbergh, and Commander Byrd, at the distribution of prizes in the model airplane contest.

The line that forms on the left climbing the little platform to see what the inside of a de luxe Brougham aircraft looks like. The young man in the right foreground is in charge for the afternoon, and his duty it is to see that souvenir hunters do not pry off a door or a cockpit and to assure airminded ladies that he is not Clarence Chamberlin.



The YEARS BEHIND IT

YOU HAVE confidence in your physician because of his experience. He has an established reputation; a record you respect. Physicians have the same thought about the preparations they prescribe. And for fifty years they have endorsed Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

For sour stomach, biliousness, indigestion, or other gastric disorder, there is quick comfort and real relief in Phillips Milk of Magnesia. In the Phillips formula authorities have recognized the most perfect anti-acid. Its form is the most effective in the opinion of the U. S. Dispensary.

So there are very real reasons why Phillips Milk of Magnesia has become the standard remedy for acid stomach. It is in perfect colloidal suspension. You never find it all settled on the bottom of the bottle. It clings to the lining of the stomach, so its alkaline action is most thorough. It does not generate gas and cannot irritate or hurt the most sensitive membrane.

Do you know of anything more soothing to an ailing stomach? Of anything else that neutralizes anywhere near the same amount of acid? Or anything half so good that's harmless to children of tenderest age?

Get Phillips Milk of Magnesia. It is the genuine product. It is more than fifty years old. There is no substitute for experience.

PHILLIPS Milk of Magnesia

In conjunction with Phillips Milk of Magnesia, use Phillips Dental Magnesia. A single tube of this perfect toothpaste will convince anybody of its remarkable whitening action, and your dentist can tell you how it aids the gums.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

1 Pond's Cold Cream for pore-deep cleansing is the first step in Pond's Method. Spread lavishly with quick caressing upward and outward strokes. The fine oils sink down to the very depths of your pores, softening and loosening all dust, dirt and powder.

2 Pond's Cleansing Tissues—the second delightful step in Pond's Method—are the new way to remove cold cream, gently, completely. And such an economy of towels and laundry! Thistledown soft and safe for sensitive skin, they absorb every trace of cream.

3 Pond's Skin Freshener is the third step in Pond's Method. Always use it after your cold cream cleansing. A fragrant tonic and mild astringent, it banishes oiliness; closes the pores; tones, firms the skin, leaving it fresh as a rose and tingling with life.

4 Pond's Vanishing Cream is the finishing touch, the happy ending of Pond's Method. Apply the daintiest bit before you powder. It protects your skin from wind and roughness and gives it the pearly lustre of youth, and makes your powder cling for hours.

Among the many beautiful women who use Pond's four products are:

The Countess Howe

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.

Lady Louis Mountbatten

La Marquise de Polignac

Pond's 4 delicious Aids to Swift clean Beauty of Skin

SWIFT, CLEAN-CUT, runs the modern rhythm. Young, clean of line is the modern silhouette. Alert and beautiful are modern faces—eyes bright with zest of life, clear skin kept firm and young with modern care.

Pond's famous Method is the open secret of the meticulous grooming of skin that modern life exacts, yet must achieve upon the wing.

No time? No matter!

Pond's four simple steps, once fixed in habit, are swift yet scientific in the precision of their effect.

Pond's four delicious aids to beauty are the utmost modern science can offer in exquisite fineness, in amazing and immediate efficacy.

Light and pure, Pond's Cold Cream cleanses your skin immaculately, and Pond's new Tissues, soft, absorbent, remove the cream with welcome economy of laundry and towels. Their gentle caress is a joy to your skin.

Pond's Freshener is a delightful new discovery to keep your skin fresh and young looking, and a touch of Pond's delicious Vanishing Cream makes your powder cling for hours. And gives the firm contour of youth itself!

Chic and beautiful women everywhere use these famous four products in their daily régime for home treatment of the skin. They owe their lovely, clear, smooth, fresh complexions to these four simple steps, FOLLOW POND'S METHOD: One! Cleanse thoroughly with Pond's Cold Cream. Do this whenever your skin feels dry, after being out of doors, and before making your evening toilette . . . Two! Wipe away cream and dirt with Pond's new Cleansing Tissues . . . Three! Close pores, tone, firm the skin with Pond's new Freshener, banishing oiliness . . . Four! Smooth on a little Pond's Vanishing Cream for a delicate finish, a powder base and protection against wind and dust.

Give your skin this complete care as often as you need it through the day. At bedtime thoroughly cleanse with Cold Cream and remove with Tissues. Try this swift, sure Method!

CELANESE

FABRICS

TRADE MARK REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

for your Spring and Summer Wardrobe

CELANESE IS

—the brand name of a modern synthetic textile fibre, unlike any other that science has made. Spun into fine yarns, it is woven into many fine fabrics. There are Celanese Voiles, Ninons, Taffetas, Velvets, Crepes, Satins, Moires—and other types of textures that you know.

Soft, Supple

Celanese fabrics are astoundingly soft and supple, entirely lacking in harshness. Their "drape" and "feel" are the drape and feel of the most luxurious fabrics.

Resists Stains

Ordinary fruit, jam or grease stains are readily washed off, even in cold water, as only the surface of the fibre soils. Being equally resistant to dust and dirt they are uniquely hygienic.

Insulates

Celanese fabrics do not cling uncomfortably when damp and do not stain permanently from perspiration. Their unusual insulating qualities make them remarkably cool to wear in summer and warm in winter.

Color Fast

Special dyes give an exceptional brilliance and beauty and unusual fastness to the colors in Celanese plain and printed fabrics.

Washes and Irons

Wash them and iron them as you would any other fine fabrics with the staunch assurance that they will not shrink or stretch.

Reasonable

The price of Celanese fabrics is much lower than you would expect to pay for materials of such loveliness, and they wear wonderfully well.

Celanese yarns, fabrics, and articles are made of synthetic products manufactured exclusively by the Celanese Corporation of America, 180 Madison Avenue, New York City.

FOUR leading fashion editors affirm the utter smartness, adaptability and loveliness of the new spring Celanese fabrics now on display in the important stores of the country. They have chosen the smartest Paris inspired frocks from their spring-summer patterns and picked out the loveliest Celanese fabrics to interpret them. These frocks, illustrated here, were made up according to the selected patterns, and photographed—their answer is convincing. The designs and textures, as you will find them at your store, are appealing—and so—emphatically, is the reasonable price of these fabrics.

VOGUE

For a tailored ensemble such as Vogue devises here, Celanese Permanent Moire is preferred for the coat and skirt, and Celanese Taffeta for the tuck-in blouse. Celanese Moire is the only one we know whose pattern won't fade out in damp weather. Vogue Patterns 9708, 9709 and 9717.

McCALL'S

For this evening gown McCall's chooses the rippling lustre of Celanese Permanent Moire. The beautiful moire pattern is unaffected by moisture, cleansing or pressing. Augusta-bernard inspired this gown. McCall Pattern 5644.

VOGUE

Imagine a chic, useful "little tailored frock" like this that will actually wash—and come up bright and soft and smiling to pay you back in wear! That is what has been achieved here with Celanese Crepe Amcella. Vogue Pattern 9634.

BUTTERICK

"Tier upon tier of ruffly waves splashing cape-wise down the shoulders, as Molyneux does," said Butterick's fashion advisor when she saw this crisp, enchanting Celanese Taffeta. "Then tie a pert bow under the chin—and cut the coat to wrap well 'round.". Celanese Taffeta too, is washable.—Butterick Pattern 2437.

BUTTERICK

Butterick's fashion editor uses Celanese Printed Ninon in a gay floral motif for an afternoon frock that Patou inspired, showing the new soft sleeve-line, and a casual modification of the skirt. The Celanese Ninon is washable. Butterick Pattern 2582.

PICTORIAL REVIEW

A lustrous white Celanese Taffeta makes up this tennis frock—inspired by Jenny. Sleeveless—to invite sun-tan—and in Celanese Taffeta it holds its brilliance after repeated tubbing. Pictorial Pattern 4745.

PICTORIAL

Ingeniously the fashion editor has made up in Celanese Printed Voile this knowing little tailored frock in the manner of Rolande. It washes as readily as a dainty handkerchief. Pictorial Pattern 4788.

Hursen Funerals

THERE is always a reason why one institution leads all the rest. Also, the greater the distance between the Leader and those who tread behind, the more important and outstanding is the reason for this leadership.

Since the earlier days Hursen has led by a wide margin. He still leads, and by an ever increasing margin! Today "Hursen's" is the largest, as well as the greatest, institution of its kind in America!

The reason for this was, and is, that Hursen gave, and gives today, every day, what the public never had before been permitted to have—namely: the greatest possible elegance and quality in every detail that pertains to funerals, at a fraction of the charges usually made elsewhere. The Hursen organ-chapels located in each of the 3 Hursen funeral-homes surpass in size, beauty and facilities, anything ever before attempted in America. There is no charge whatever for the use of any one of these chapels.

The new, specially built "Hursen-Lincoln" passenger autos and the "Hursen-Lincoln" limousine-hearses are but one of the features of "Hursen" funerals which proves these statements to be true. So, call Hursen, of course!

New facts about CLEANING TEETH

DO YOU KNOW . . .

that there are thousands of tiny crevices in healthy, normal teeth and gums?

that no toothbrush can get down into these microscopic places?

that food particles and mucin deposits lodge in these crevices and start decay?

that the real test of a toothpaste is its ability to cleanse these crevices?

A remarkable scientific discovery has recently brought to light some new facts about cleaning the teeth.

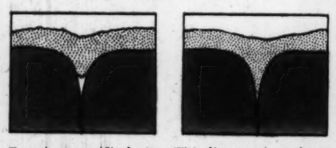
A scientist recently measured the power of toothpastes to penetrate the tiny crevices in teeth and gums where food particles lodge and where decay begins. He discovered that Colgate's has a higher penetrating power than any of the leading dentifrices on the market today.

This is the secret of Colgate's remarkable ability to clean — it gets down deep into the hard-to-clean places where the toothbrush cannot reach. Colgate's superior penetrating power is due to the fact that it contains the world's greatest cleansing agent. When brushed, this cleansing agent bursts into a sparkling, snow-white foam that sweeps over teeth and gums. This foam possesses a remarkable property (low "surface-tension") which enables it to go deep down into the tiny tooth crevices where decay starts. There, it dislodges clinging food particles and mucin, washing away these impurities in a detergent wave.

In this foam is carried a fine chalk-powder — a polishing material used by dentists — which polishes the enamel safely, brilliantly.

Thus Colgate's cleans and beautifies, purifies and refreshes the entire mouth restoring natural loveliness of teeth and gums. If you have never used Colgate's, please try it. Mail the coupon below for a generous free tube.

How Colgate's Cleans Where the Toothbrush Cannot Reach



Greatly magnified picture of tiny tooth crevice. Note how ordinary, sluggish toothpaste (having high "surface-tension") fails to penetrate down where causes of decay may lurk.

This diagram shows how Colgate's active foam (having low "surface-tension") penetrates deep down into the crevice, cleansing it completely where the toothbrush cannot reach.

HENRY SELINGER

is program director of radio station W-G-N. With an immense load of responsibilities to carry, he is blessed with success in his work. Not content with good programs, he has always striven for the finest possible music in radio. His program innovations form a valuable contribution to the progress of broadcasting. He became personally famous to the radio audience as the Phantom Violin. Formerly a first violinist for the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, he now directs the Drake Concert Ensemble in addition to his work as program director of W-G-N.

MARK LOVE

one of the three or four finest bassos in Chicago, whose splendid voice is known to millions of W-G-N listeners, is the vocal director of W-G-N. His own talent and skill have given him a huge following, and his ability as the director of vocal groups has placed W-G-N's programs on the level of the extraordinary. In charge of the vocal programs, he also co-operates with Henry Selinger on plans for commercial programs, and rehearses W-G-N quartets and choruses before they go on the air. He frequently appears as bass soloist in choral societies and groups of oratorio singers.

ALFRED G. WATHALL has a name that may not be known to some radio listeners, but his work is familiar to everyone accustomed to tuning in W-G-N. He is the Tribune station's own composer, in charge of musical arrangements and transcriptions, the only man holding this highly specialized position for any single radio station in the country. Mr. Wathall's wide knowledge of musical history and composition makes possible W-G-N's broadcasting of transcriptions from obscure sources in programs distinctly different from those of any other station. Through the collaboration of Alfred Wathall and Henry Selinger, W-G-N listeners can obtain a comprehensive treatment of the entire field of music unequalled even in concert halls. W-G-N's new musical feature "Mosaics", broadcast every Tuesday evening at 9:30, is the work of Mr. Wathall.

"-now we say, Come on blizzards!"

"Our old boiler was out of date, all right. Hard to start. Hard to keep going. And hard on the coal pile.

"Something had to be done. We knew that. And imagine our surprise when the steam fitter said, 'A new Weil-McLain will save enough fuel to pay for itself.'

"Well, our new Weil-McLain is a wonder. That's sure. Easy to start. Easy to keep going. And easy on our pocketbook.

"Yes, sir! Blizzards may blow, but our rooms are warm . . . and no more worry about the fuel expense."

The remarkable success of the Weil-McLain Line of boilers is directly traceable to scientific research, skillful engineering, and careful thought for the convenience of the user.

Scientific Combustion in Weil-McLain Boilers saves fuel

Probably, there has never been a line of boilers in which the great factors of costly fuel waste are so completely conquered.

In the new Weil-McLain Jacketed Boiler, for example, you find two distinct reasons for scientific combustion.

First, all grates within the fire box are shaking grates; second, this feature, combined with rounded "live fire" corners in the fire box, assures a clean, bright fire at every point.

Weil-McLain Boilers give more heat

Weil-McLain has always realized that it is of little avail for a boiler to produce a great volume of heat, only to be wasted up the chimney.

Weil-McLain solved this problem by incorporating into their boilers the basic principles of more heating surface, particularly above the fire, and balanced back-and-forth fire travel.

In the famous Weil-McLain Round Type Boilers, for example, waste up the chimney is prevented through the use of corrugations like this ~~~ in all vital heating surfaces, and a balanced back-and-forth fire travel that cannot short cut to the chimney under any condition.

Weil-McLain Boilers are more convenient

In Weil-McLain Boilers convenient operation has been developed to a high point.

In these boilers, there is added combustion space and extra fuel carrying capacity for lengthened firing periods. Unusually high ashpits and convenient control of the dampers facilitate operating attention.

See your heating contractor

There are Weil-McLain Boilers to meet all conditions.

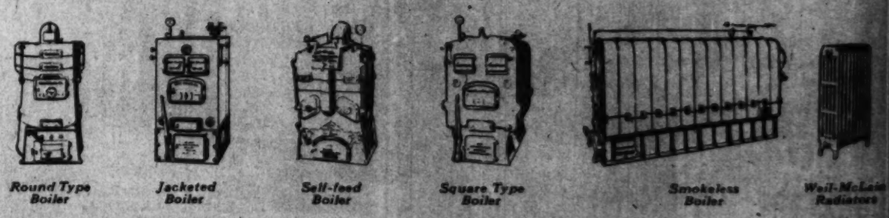
For complete information, see your heating contractor. He will help you select a boiler that is exactly adapted to your building, draft conditions, fuel preferences and other factors.

Address our nearest distributor for new booklet, which explains why Weil-McLain Boilers not only give more heat and save fuel, but how modern manufacturing methods permit offering these better boilers at popular prices.

Weil-McLain Company, General Offices: 641 West Lake Street, Chicago. Factories and offices: Michigan City, Indiana—Erie, Pa.

Weil-McLain Boilers meet modern fuel trends

Weil-McLain Boilers have been designed, not only in keeping with present fuel preferences, but with particular forethought for the burning of oil; or of coke; for the smokeless burning of soft coal and the use of smaller sizes of hard coal.



These Distributors carry local stocks of Weil-McLain Boilers

Ensembles Appear with the First Crocus of Spring

The Tunic Blouse of Contrasting Shade or Color Is a Favorite, and Fagoting Is Seen on Some Smart Creations

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—There's just one way to escape the ensemble, this year. It's to be bedridden. Anybody who goes out at all is almost obliged to have at least one of these complete costumes.

It is a long time ago since our clothes began coming to the surface in schools. During this period the idea has made a steady inroad upon woman's consciousness. This spring it is really getting hard to conceive of any individual enterprise on the part of frocks, wraps and blouses. They are as fond of traveling together as any dolphins.

In today's letter we are considering chiefly the formal type of ensemble. The variety of material, silhouette and finishes in this field alone is enough to discourage the most expert statistician. Yet through all the wide gamut of choice you may discern at least one reconciling factor. It is the vogue of black and white.

It seems to me that this vogue is especially pointed in those tunic creations which were adopted so persistently by Paris during the winter. Over there the tunic blouse of generous length demonstrated yet once more that if you wish to strike the right key of fashion you must listen to the tunic fork. The idea is sustained on this side, and throughout the spring the ensemble with the long tunic blouse will see us satisfactorily through the most fashionable afternoons.

Now, the leading characteristic of such blouses is that they are usually of light tone to contrast with the darker tone of coat and skirt. For the latter navy blue and brown and dark green—these have all been successful experiments. Nevertheless, adventures into color seem to exist only for the purpose of reinforcing our statement. Black has so far outdistanced all competitors in the field that other entries merely emphasize its final victory.

It goes without saying that the tunic blouse accompanying our afternoon skirt and wrap need not be white. The general rule obligates only some light tint and among these you may choose a number of tones—primarily lime and chartreuse. In similar spirit, the ensemble of dark gray will often find completion in a very light gray blouse.

As an illustration of the black and white vogue in the afternoon ensemble we draw your attention first to the large sketch at the left in our right panel. Here is an ensemble achieving much of its distinction through a trick of which the French designers have lately shown themselves inordinately fond. It is that of making fur of the coat repeat the tone of the blouse. Thus, in this case the tunic blouse of white satin back crêpe gives the cue for a collar of white fox. Equally stunning would be the combination of gray blouse and fur with the black background.

The fabric of coat and skirt is that one equally beloved by the designer of both ensembles and separate coats. It is flat crêpe. In the back view of the coat you see a pointed yoke repeated in the chevronlike seaming of the sleeves. Such seaming continues to be a feature of our wraps and joins with elaborate tucking in overshadowing all other forms of decoration.

The tunic blouse of this model reflects again not only upon the possibility of variation in the tunic but upon the everlasting ingenuity with which Fashion contrasts the dull and lustrous surfaces of satin back crêpe. The former is used for that deep flounce so characteristic of the season and for the very original empiecement of the corsage. The bows are also looped on the satin side.

I have spoken of the popularity of flat crêpe. I am now about to remark upon the growing favor accorded to one of its rivals. This latter fabric is crêpe Marocain and it is being widely featured this spring not only in frocks and separate coats but in ensembles as well. Renee, for example, achieves numerous two piece costumes of this material. In other cases she allots to a frock of the silk crêpe a wrap of some woolen material such as kasha or cashmere.

Today the long tunic blouse of the afternoon is often sleeveless, but that detail, of course, rests entirely with individual preference. One must merely comment upon the fact that the blouses here are susceptible to either treatment. And perhaps one indicates a personal bias by remarking that these blouses with their short sleeves look awfully smart when completed by the new long slip-ons.

The trick of combining the light blouse with the dark costume is often extended into two tones of the same color. Illustrative of this method is the model at our extreme left, for here we see two tones of brilliant blue allied in blouse and costume. The darker one is used for the skirt and coat, which, by the way, are of crêpe Marocain, and the lighter tone goes into the making of a stunning blouse of crêpe de chine. This blouse defers to the skirt by a decided dip at one side. Take this fact together with the molded hipline, the diagonal jabot and an ornament of brilliants at the neckline to repeat the buckle of the tailored belt and you can form some faint idea of why it is that so many fashionable women elect the tunic blouse.

The coat is lined with the brilliant blue of the blouse, a fact duly exploited by the rows of fagoting which traverse the wrap. Incidentally, let us say a word in praise of fagoting. It has always been used a great deal by Vionnet and, aside from the authority implicit in this name, does it not form a delightful variant from the more hackneyed plaits and seams? Also is there this added advantage of livening the whole appearance of the garment by the revelation of color below.

A great many of the coats, both single and married, of this season get along nicely without fur. The fact of it is that the collar is one of the most eloquent details of novelty in the spring wrap. Sometimes the coat is innocent of collar; sometimes the neckline is draped; often one of the numerous scarf effects is exploited. When the fur collar is retained it stands up high in the back in the good old way to which the winter has accustomed us. Also must one refer to the new trick of making a fabric collar stand 'way off in the back. Lanvin has done this a great deal in her spring collection. She makes the old collar as aloof from its environment as a policeman from the woman's sewing circle.

And while speaking of Lanvin, let us not forget something else she has done in the interest of coat novelty. Instead of the usual seaming, she often arranges in blocks or other designs transparent lines to accompany her incrustations.

Among the novelty furs which are being widely used in suits, ensembles and separate wraps galyak is perhaps benefiting by the widest publicity. The classics, however, have by no means gone down under these jazz pelts. Silky black caracul is an excellent choice for the finish of the black ensemble. So is fox in various tones. And, by the way, do not overlook the vogue of blue fox. This has been stressed especially by Vionnet and certainly it is in perfect

LEFT PANEL. A coat and skirt of crepe Marocain in brilliant, although dark, blue is accompanied by a blouse of equally brilliant blue in lighter tone. Observe the fagoting of the coat with its revelations of lighter blue lining.

Next, the crepe frock of a banana colored ensemble testifies once more to the vogue of the yellow range. In the large view you see the coat with its trimming of brown satin embroidered in gold thread, fulfilling by its moulded waist and its original turn back revers the accompanying frock shown in the fifth of our back views.

RIGHT PANEL. The vogue of black and white is again witnessed in skirt and coat of black flat crepe set off with white fox collar and accompanied by tunic blouse of white satin back crepe.

Fourth, an ensemble of Spanish red crepe is fulfilled by a tunic blouse of patterned crepe in yellow tones. The latter initiates a new idea in the dipping fold at the side.

CENTER. A delightful blouse model is found here in either violet or red crepe. Below, a new idea in bags is expressed by the watch inset in the leather handle of a bag of heavily woven figured material. The other bags are, respectively, brown suede with gold mountings and blue soft leather with silver trimmings.

The top pair of shoes is of blue kid and the second of a combination of brown reptile leather and vanilla kid. The umbrella of checked silk shows an original handle.

Getting a Line on Cleopatra

by Doris Blake

Reg U S Pat. Off

The Secret of Her Charm Has Never Been Written Into a Formula, but One Can Learn, by Process of Elimination, What Some of the Ingredients Were.

"WHAT did Cleopatra have that I haven't got?"

It's a line from one of Fannie Brice's songs and set one woman in one of her audiences to asking it of herself without music.

"Not so much what Cleopatra had that I haven't got—but I'm wondering," she writes, "what those women who are the darling of the male gods have that we who aren't so popular miss. Why is it so much easier for one woman to be liked by many men when some of us have to be contented with the lukewarm devotion of one sole male?

"Shaw says that the difference between one woman and another is greatly exaggerated. Wonder if he could tell, then, why they get such different treatment? Take two women, equally good looking, as I know a pair of sisters are. In fact, the one who boasts the most pulchritude has come off not nearly so successfully as the other, although the latter is no ugly duckling, either. It's obvious, however, that men prefer the latter's company much more than the former's.

"The better looking of the two is charming. To a woman, at least to this woman, they're equally good company, have equally nice dispositions. But I suppose the favorite has what Cleopatra had and the other hasn't. But what on earth is it?"

If we only had the formula—we'd soon be wearing platinum on our typewriter keyboard, that troubled with riches would we become! Onyx bathtubs, solid gold faucets. Midas' mint would look like a worked out mine if we could sell that formula.

People have tried and tried and tried to decipher it. But women still go on wondering why a sister gets her happiness so much easier without greater looks, ability or disposition. They've even been dividing women into groups—feminine women and women without the strong feminine lure. They've charted them off into sections of "IT" and lack of it. But the song refrain keeps recurring in questioning minds.

Dr. Joseph Lobel, in a new book called "Don't Be Afraid," attacks the problem in a four-in-one division. He charts four different types of women. The first division, on hurried thinking, you'd say boasted the greatest number of successes. But Cleo didn't spend her career doing the things and playing the game as the "all woman" type is pictured.

The All-Woman Type.

If you were asking the favor of the gods, perhaps it would be well to look into this "woman-all-woman" every known quality of disagreeableness in their nature, and particularly the vices that are known to be irritating to men. What would you name them? Argumentativeness, bossiness, casualness, indifference, lack of appreciation or sympathy—coldness, in other type for whom is predicted the smoothest path in marriage and out. She's a nice little body. Pretty, pleasant. She has graces and motions that charm. She loves harmony around her, breeds it and dispenses it. She keeps a neat home, and a comfortable one. She takes her man, her home, her children as her job and she asks no more of them than that they give her some of the warmth and cheer she dispenses herself, although she does not put it that way. She doesn't ask. She gives and gets in return. She is the salt of the earth type and the pity is that there aren't more of her.

Next comes the woman with a touch of the masculine in her makeup. Not a masculine type. Feminine, but a bit independent—not because she wants to be, but must be. She is clever, versatile and charming. We venture she is found in greatest number among the wage earners. She has difficulty subordinating herself to the man she loves. She wants to but the masculine in her rebels. She has admirers, but when she marries her path [and her husband's] isn't as smooth running as it would be were she all femme.

The third type is called a "debilitate." It's nothing to pray to be. Debilitate, in dictionary exposure, is "to impair the strength of." She's the neurasthenic, we gather. Thin, nervous, ailing—chasing doctors but not being encouraged, for want of physical evidence of ailment. She wails and complains of aches and pains.

And the fourth type is a "hypoplastic," the little Peter Paness who never grew up into a nice, dignified big girl. Perhaps Peter Pan isn't the word to describe her at all, although her childishness never seems to desert her. She carries her infantile heart and mind through to her grave. An overgrown baby, she. Not capable of much feeling herself, she is content with a moderate return.

Answers to Real Faults.

We doubt if, in the above classifications, you'll find the answer to the Cleopatra problem after all. But you may find answer to some other little queries that beset you. For instance, why, if you belong in the second grade, you can't look up to your man and tell him he is a great, big wonder. Or, if in the third group, why the doctor can't find something wrong with you so that you can be sent to Palm Beach or Europe for repair.

What women have that other women envy the rewards of, we believe, after mature consideration is the ability, born or practiced, to subordinate words. For the average woman it's more to her interest to query herself on these concrete things than on the more or less mythical possessions of a Cleopatra.

Best Parties

Snowstorm in June.

It was a shower for a girl friend. The invitations were in the form of weather forecasts and bade the guests to "watch out for the storm at 24 Rose street, caused by unusual disturbances in the vicinity of" and here was the name of the girl whom the party was given for. Bunco was played and the tally cards were in the form of snow men. The first prize was a small ice pick and shaver. Low prize was a minature coal hod containing artificial snowballs and a tiny shovel.

After the games the guests entered the dining room, which had previously been hidden from view, and in there the table was fixed to represent a forest in the winter time. It was covered with snow which was made from cotton batting covered with artificial snow. In the center was a frozen pond (a table mirror) with miniature evergreen trees all around, made from sprigs of evergreen set in spools and the spools covered with cotton, and some miniature toy animals. There was a dim light which made the whole effect lovely.

At one end of the table was a snow fort where each gift had been wrapped in cotton and piled up to resemble snowballs. Each guest was provided with a small shovel upon which she took one of the snowballs to the guest of honor, who then opened it.

Refreshments were served, the menu carrying out the snow idea with cakes in the form of snowballs and white pineapple ice.

This party was given in June, so for once we felt a little cooler than we would have at an ordinary party.

Old English Affair.

While studying English history in college we conceived the idea of having an old mead hall. Four of us occupied two large downstairs rooms of the hall we grouped a row of tables which were connected by an open archway. At one end was a huge fireplace. The site was ideal for a hall.

One night after a big football game we "restored" an old mead hall. On the walls were hung appropriate signs in old English. Through the center sat the string musicians and the court jester. The guests reclined where best they could.

All light except the fireplace was extinguished. Around the blazing fire for the banquet. The thirty or forty guests each brought something, either liquid or solid, or both, for the cafeteria banquet, which was piled high on the banquet table. There were all kinds of "mead."

The party was a huge success. It was broken up long after midnight by the persistent rapping of the landlady, threatening to call the police if the "royal guests" didn't quiet down.

Manners on a Suburban Train

The Writer Found the Porter Was the Only Courteous Person Among This Horde of Commuters.

Miss Standish will be glad to answer questions on etiquette on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Persis Standish, Chicago Sunday Tribune.

By Persis Standish.

THE number of commuters is daily on the increase and as suburban trains become more and more crowded more and more care is needed not to infringe on the rights of one's neighbors. For politeness, after all, is just consideration for one's fellow men. It is giving them as much chance at public comforts and conveniences, as much privacy, as much kindness and as much help as we ourselves would like to receive. In other words good manners are merely the practical working of the golden rule: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

The other day I came in on a crowded suburban train and, much to my disgust, I saw a great many persons doing it first—if I may put it so crassly. It was a fairly early morning train and, of course, the "regulars" had all the seats in the parlor car, so the porter helped me with a suitcase and an overnight bag through the day coaches. This was pure courtesy on his part and should be commended as such. It was also rewarded financially in my case, but just before the train started I saw him do a like service for another woman, well dressed and sophisticated looking, but she gave him one dime. The disgusted look on his face was something the movie directors would be willing to pay large sums for on the face of a comedian. Needless to say, such service as the porter gave her deserves at least a quarter, if not more.

Selfishness Personified.

However, in the day coach we met selfishness personified in a mother with a child about 6 years old. They were occupying a seat and filling the space in the aisle in front of them with boxes, bundles and a basket which looked suspiciously as if it contained a cat. The conductor spoke to the woman and asked if he might help her put some of the things in the racks overhead; and she all but snapped his head off. The car, as we went through, was already full and some were standing in the aisles, yet the woman would not take the child on her lap, as she should have done, and give the seat to an adult.

In the next coach there was an officious person trying to spread three newspapers and an umbrella over six seats. When the porter attempted to put my bags in the rack and seat me in one of them she objected wildly saying that she was keeping them for her "group" and that they always occupied the same seats every Wednesday morning.

The porter objected, saying she had no right to hold seats and that the others should be present if they expected to occupy them. Then the woman got nasty and, not wishing to create a scene even to assert my rights as a free citizen, I bid the porter go forward.

The Selfish Traveler.

In the next car was a single seat next to a gentleman who must at least have been a lanker or a dipsomat by the shining appearance of his collar, hat, shoes, etc., but who proved to be a boor of boors. The porter had to reach over this gentleman's abdomen to put my overnight bag on the rack and request him to move his very shiningly clad feet to put my suitcase under the seat. Then I sat down on one-sixth of the double seat and the gentleman never attempted to give me more than the sixth which he evidently thought I deserved.

The porter, who really was a gentleman, looked at him quizzically a moment then coughed and looked significantly at that small portion of the seat where I was perched. But the gentleman glared at him and sat firm.

Then the porter and I exchanged that understanding glance that passes between well bred persons under such circumstances and smiled with amusement. It is the best way to take one's discomforts. I then gave the porter a dollar and he rewarded me by coming later with a newspaper for my amusement. Truly a great man, that, and a credit to his nation, let alone his employers.

The shining gentleman at my right opened his paper and, unfortunately for me, the kindness of the porter in bringing me the paper went for naught because the shining gentleman took up so much space with his that I could not even have enjoyed a thumbnail Bible in what was left. So, instead of reading about what had happened in the world from Tuesday afternoon until Wednesday morn, I fell to observing my fellow passengers.

They were a prosperous looking lot of travelers, but individualists, for the most part. Back of me two women were fidgeting with the contents of a traveling bag. One of them evidently had occasion to rise and sit down several times and every time she did so she bumped my hat or the head of the shining gentleman, and never once did she so much as seem conscious that she needed to apologize for her carelessness.

Not far ahead of me sat two women arguing in such loud voices that one could not read one's paper or a book with any degree of comfort. Then across the aisle were a woman and a man discussing a recent suburban scandal, much to the amusement of several persons in their vicinity who could not help but hear every word that passed between them. Nor did they forbear to mention names in as loud a voice as they talked about the weather.

Perhaps this was an unusually badly behaved trainload of people, but they looked like the regulation crowd, and even thoughtlessness does not excuse them for their utter lack of consideration for others. I was glad that the ride was not more than an hour. One can stand anything for an hour, but to go to California with some of the occupants of that train would mean either murder or insanity

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

DO you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon? Nature causes the normal skin to peel off in tiny, unseen, flour-like particles, a little each day, renewing the complexion of youth naturally, but there comes a time when this skin shedding slows up. Worry, overwork, sickness, inactivity are reasons that cause the face to be blotchy, discolored, pimply and old looking. The thing to do, if you wish to look your prettiest at all times, is to assist nature in the process of absorption by using pure Mercolized Wax. Get an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter and use as directed. It gently but surely peels away the outer scarf skin, removing freckles, pimples, blackheads or a muddy complexion. The underneath skin, now in evidence, is clear, pink, fresh and velvety, and the entire face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines we recommend a face lotion of unusual merit. One ounce powdered saxolite and one-half pint witch hazel.

MAIDEN MEDITATIONS

By Sara Moore

THE PROOF OF LOVE.

We cannot all be movie stars,
Or chorus girls and queens
With suitors kneeling at our feet,
And laurels on our beans;
But of the pampered pets who reign
From Nome clear down to Macon,
I'm glad I am an aproned one
To whom man brings sliced bacon.

CONFIDENTIAL.

Sue tells me she is wooed by Jack
Upon his bended knees;
And then I learn that Jack's in love
With her, from Jane Louise.

And Lucy Ann, in turn, confides,
Jack kissed her twice last night.
I seal my lips and listen on
With sympathetic might.

Behold the perfect confidante. . .
Maintaining secrecy
About what's whispered in my ear. . .
Though Jack's engaged to me!

THE EFFECT OF MOVIES.

How can you ask of us the real
In aught we think or say or feel,
Surrounded as we are by junk
And trained to crave bejeweled bunk?

We walk in elegance, 'tis true;
E'en poor and stupid catch a view
Of sparkling chandeliers in halls
Where lofty pillars, silken walls
Create, with colored lights, a scene
Suggesting settings for a queen.
But everywhere each "velvet" drape
Is cotton backed. Each arched escape
Is cheap, soft plaster, gilded o'er
To frame some fake stone corridor.
Girls inwardly, perforce, suspect
That life must match its set, Effect!
What price creative honesty?
What artist dares simplicity?
We women, catching up the cue,
Must pose as painted shells—for you.

FRIEND IN NEED

I want to be the medium through which the friends in deed and the friends in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy and you would gladly give it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send article to The Tribune, but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

Boy Wants Things for a Den.

"I have just been given enough space in our basement to make a real den. I have gathered old carpets, easy chairs, tables, and lamps until I have what I think is enough furniture. However, the walls are bare and I cannot buy the things I would like to have for it—sword, sabers, foils, a globe, pennants, and prints. Do you think your readers would have any of these things to give me?

"S. D."

If we can gather together enough of the treasures this boy wants he should have an extremely attractive den. Can you contribute something to adorn these walls?

Offers Two Things.

"I have a dress form and about 400 cylindrical phonograph records—the old fashioned type which were used long ago. If you know of some one who would like these articles I shall be glad to pass them on. MRS. O."

Fitting and sewing become greatly simplified for the home dressmaker when she has a dress form with which to work. If you can make use of the one Mrs. O. offers or would like to have these old phonograph records, write me for them; please do not telephone.

Pet Kitten.

"I have a lovely pet kitten I wouldn't part with for anything except that I am leaving the city in a couple of weeks. I am so anxious for her to have a good home I am appealing to you to help me find one for her. She is beautiful, healthy, perfectly trained, and 8 months old.

"MRS. C. P."

This sounds like a most desirable cat and should make a splendid pet. Write me, if you'd like her in your home; please do not telephone.

Church in Need of a Pulpit.

"I wonder if you can help us out. We have a small church and are greatly in need of a low pulpit. I wonder if there is one somewhere in the city not in use which we may have. MRS. A. M."

In a small congregation where funds are low the matter of church equipment is no small concern. Won't you help this church by donating the pulpit yours is discarding?

Small Boy's Request.

"I have an old bicycle and would like a motor for it. My parents cannot afford to buy it for me and I wonder if one of your readers would have one to give. D. R."

Can you pep up this small boy's wheel by providing the motor he is so anxious to have? Let me hear from you if you have one to give.

Puppies Want a Home.

"I have four part chow puppies, five weeks old, which I am trying to find homes for. I shall be glad to give them to any of your readers.

"MRS. C. V."

Here are four prospective pets or watch dogs. If you are looking for either I am sure you will find these both cunning and capable. Write me if you'd like one; please do not telephone.

Wants Copies of Photoplay.

"I'd like to obtain copies of Photoplay for December, 1927, and January and February, 1928, which, I understand, contain Lon Chaney's life story. L. B."

Our correspondent's interest in the biography of this motion picture actor has moved her to write us from Iowa. Have you the numbers she wants, and would you send them to her?

Would Like to Take Music Lessons.

"Will you please see if you can get a cello for me and a violin for my sister? We have been offered lessons free of charge at the settlement house in our neighborhood and my parents cannot afford to buy these for us.

"L. N."

If these girls are talented it would be a pity to deprive them of this splendid opportunity for lack of the instruments. If you have either a cello or a violin, perhaps one you used in the early days of your study, won't you give it to them?

Have You These Articles?

"I wonder if you could help me in securing a clock regulator for my gas stove. I have wanted one for some time but cannot afford to buy it. I would also like to have a bassinette—one with wheels on, if possible—for my baby. MRS. B. W."

Are either of these articles among the things you are planning to discard in your spring housecleaning? If so, won't you keep Mrs. B. W. in mind when disposing of them?

A Lot of Hard Luck.

"We have always been in fairly comfortable circumstances until recently when sickness and misfortune overtook us, leaving us in a most straitened condition. About a year ago I had a nervous breakdown and have not sufficiently recovered to go to work. My husband has tuberculosis and for this reason must work out of doors. He has a selling job, but the return is too small to meet our expenses and bills are just piling up. Now we both need clothing and buying it is, of course, out of the question. My husband, a short man, needs a top coat and a suit, size 40; shirts, 15½; a hat, 7⅞. I wear size 36.

"MRS. H. R."

Illness and its additional expense have entirely depleted the savings of these people and they find themselves in what is, to them, the embarrassing situation of having to go to strangers for assistance. Won't you help them by donating the still presentable and serviceable clothing you are about to discard?

The Tea Mis-Venture.

By Eleanor Jewett.

My mother took me out to tea;
We went to friends down by the sea.

The water did not know, I guess,
That I had on my party dress,

For though I waded with great care
It splashed against me everywhere!

And I got wet and what I wore
Had to be dried along the shore.

There was not one stitch left to me,
Just my own skin to wear to tea.

$5 Apiece for Bright Sayings

The coasting was splendid on the hill back of our house and the neighborhood children had a wonderful time. A few of the little girls had no sleds and I asked Buster if he gave them a ride occasionally.

"Aw, I gave 'em a ride once or twice," he remarked without enthusiasm, "but I have to steer for 'em. All girls can do is hang on."

E. P. W.

Willie's mother was preparing to go to town.

"Do you know, Willie, I have a notion to take you to town with me today."

"Well, I second that notion, mamma." So Willie went to town.

D. W.

It's Growing!

The shoulder-length bob is taking a real place among fashions of the hour for the younger set. In many high schools and colleges, more than half the girls are letting their hair grow to the new length. This style as worn by New York City girls is shown in the above photograph of Miss Edna Rabbe, 1925 Avenue G, Brooklyn.

Miss Rabbe says: "I am certainly delighted that I let my hair grow to the new length now that I have found a way to keep it easily manageable and attractive. My hair is ever so much fluffier and more vigorous than it has been for a long time. And it is free from all traces of dandruff, now. I attribute its improvement to the method I am using to care for it. It's so popular among the girls in my set. All we do is put a little Danderine on our brushes whenever we use them. This makes my hair so easy to dress any way I want it and holds it in place as I arrange it. Danderine soothes my scalp and keeps it and my hair so clean, I don't need to shampoo more than twice a month, now. And all my friends admire the way it makes my hair so bright and sparkling."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair, than shampoos or brilliantine. It removes that oily film from it, gives it new life and lustre. It cleanses and invigorates the scalp; helps overcome dandruff. Danderine is delightfully fragranced; isn't oily, doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles.

Pet Economies

Tell us about your own pet economy or an odd economy of some one you know and we'll pay you $1 if we print your letter. Address Economy, Sunday Tribune.

Worried About the Ink.

An uncle of mine was the greatest economizer I ever knew. He was one of the richest men in the state of Maine, but one winter when he was at home sick, he worried and worried for fear a ten cent bottle of ink in his office would freeze.

A. J. D.

Saved Pins.

I have an aunt who laments greatly the extravagance of the present generation.

"Never will get ahead," she prophesies dolefully. "Don't know the first step in economy. Why, I never have bought but one paper of pins in my twenty-five years of married life. Just took care of 'em, and what with picking up all the ones careless people shed and drop, I have had a-plenty."

If the moderns won't give her credit for a pet economy, I wonder what their definition of it would be.

M. S.

For Child's Education.

A wealthy friend has an economy much to be encouraged.

He effects this by shaving himself and shining his own shoes. The money it would cost him each time is put in the bank of his little girl. She is now 8 years old and has over $2,000, which is to be for her college education later on.

M. R.

Careful of Food.

While visiting in a western town last summer, I had occasion to get a peep into the life of a poor newsboy, and thereafter have practiced a rigid economy as far as food is concerned.

This poor youngster had to pay his mother a nickel for a cup of coffee and a dry piece of bread, and he looked it!

Ever since, I use up every bit of food, with that boy uppermost in my mind, and the realization that in the old saying, "Waste not—want not," there is more truth than fiction.

W. D. W.

Saves Coupons.

I have a girl friend who is forever saving coupons. Whenever she does any buying she asks if coupons are given or she looks to see if there is one on the package she is buying. We laugh at her and tease her, but, at that, she is always getting something useful with them.

The last time I saw her she had a new blue Dutch clock in her kitchen, and when I asked her where she bought it she laughed and answered. "O, it only requires 875 coupons to get that."

From now on I'm going to save coupons too. J. C. T.

Women the World Over

More than 2,000,000 women in soviet Russia are members of trade unions.

About $20,000,000 a week is spent in England on the adornment of women.

Syrian women now can inherit from their parents on the same basis with the men.

More than one-third of the 32,000,000 industrial and commercial workers in Germany in 1925 were women.

It has been estimated that it costs nearly $600,000,000 a year for the "upkeep" of the hair among American women.

Lillian Ghent of New York, internationally known, has definitely decided to discontinue painting nudes.

The campaign for equal rights among women in Japan is blamed for the large increase in divorces in that country.

In Shanghai, the most proletarian center in China, the working women are said to be particularly well organized.

Members of the Community Service league, an organization of 1,000 women in the Eastern parkway section of Brooklyn, N. Y., have decided against cigaret smoking by women.

SHE LOOKS A GIRL . . .
SHE SPEAKS A WOMAN

YOU wonder a little about her, do you not? The distinguished visitor whom you see so much this winter at the Opera, the Embassy Club, and the smart openings. A charming, sparkling person, coolly claiming both youth and mature sophistication. Fresh and lovely as a debutante's orchids. Poised as a line from Molnar.

Like other women with a position to maintain in the fashionable world, she must at all times look and feel her best. The damage of those tell-tale signs of physical and mental sagging must be immediately dispelled before they settle into unwelcome lines, unwanted contours.

Therefore it is that the distinguished visitor renews youth in every smart city she visits . . . . in an Elizabeth Arden Salon.

In the Chicago establishment at 70 East Walton Place she finds a luxurious replica of the salons abroad. A deliciously feminine, entrancingly French atmosphere, wherein the revivifying Arden ministrations subtly endow one with new, young loveliness.

And for those women who cannot always conveniently come to the Salon for treatment, but who realize the importance of following Elizabeth Arden's methods at home, there is a Special Demonstration Treatment, which teaches how to cleanse, tone and nourish the skin to a condition of fresh radiance, with your own fingertips! You learn how to use Elizabeth Arden's Preparations exactly as she intended them to be used, to assure loveliness.

The Last Word in Paris Fashions

Gay Little Hats for Springtime Follow Closely the Lines of the Head

By Bettina Bedwell
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—I have seen the new Paris hats for springtime and they are just luv-elly. They do take a lot of wearing, though. Ay, there's the rub. And, more than that you have to use your head as a good beginning if you are going to achieve real chic, this season. There are so many kinds of hats, and all of them are so enchanting, that a girl can easily go wrong in picking out her spring millinery, and get a hat that was meant for somebody else—not her.

There are big hats, little hats, and hats that are medium. There are ones that show the forehead in all its glory, but woe be unto the woman who wears such a hat, if she has the wrong kind of frontal dome. There are heaps of hats that show the eyebrows, and some of the smartest of all of them draw a line across the forehead somewhere near the middle.

A bright hat is often a sign of a bright head inside, aware of the importance of brilliancy in the spring mode. And there are heaps of new, and so-smart spring hats in Paris that are letting their back brims grow to match the growing locks of the fashionable head. Veils, scarfs and other such romantic drapery abound, and do more than their little bit to make a face look charming.

A lot of fashionable Parisiennes are wearing spring millinery which is rakishly asymetrical both as to crown and brim. Also, Paris is sticking a feather in her bonnet for all sorts and kinds of occasions.

All of this shows you that every woman must know her own head, in order to sort out of the multitude of really stylish millinery the type or types of hats that will become her most, fit best the general line of her clothes silhouette, and be most appropriate to the tonal motif of her own wardrobe. Yes, it's a job all right, but I'm sure you can do it.

One of the important matters to settle for yourself is a purely material affair. It has to do with what your hats are going to be made of, as well as how they will be made. Almost without exception the straws, felts, jersies and other fabrics, the plumage and the silks are supple. Modern woman has abandoned the stiff, uncomfortable hat to men, who prefer to suffer rather than break the horrible rule of tradition.

There are warm, drapable woolen materials which make the smartest of general wear and sports hats; there are light felts that are excellent for such wear in warm weather. There are also a host of exotic straws, some of them as delicate and transparent as tulle, others rough in weave, and ideal for sturdier wear.

The little toques made of silk or of plumage are so light and pliable that you can roll them up to pencil size, and at the same time they have real importance and elegance on the head. Paris has fallen hard for the evening coif—you know—something in the way of a little bonnet that you can wear anywhere after dark, and that enhances almost anyone's appearance in general. Such bonnets are like the bubbles in her champagne, a necessary sparkle that guarantees against flatness in taste throughout the evening.

Mercier has sketched for you today a number of the smartest Paris hats, which will give you a good, clear, birdseye view of the millinery mode over here and enable you to select your type. The first hat sketched is one of the large ones, which are to be very smart for sports and for extremely trim suits and ensembles. This hat comes from Jean Patou, who is as good a milliner as he is a dressmaker. It is made of a loosely woven large mesh straw in brown and beige, and the brim is very wide at the sides and only a little narrower at the back. The shallow round crown has an envelope flap at the right side, under which the wide band of white leather that is the sole trimming is gathered. This kind of hat is most becoming to the slender woman, who needs some sort of flattering shade and frame around her face and head.

Just above, and a little to the right of this is one of Reboux's smartest and newest toques, all in feathers, and peacock feathers at that. Even with the superstition, this hat could bring nothing but good luck to its wearer, it's so bewitching. Notice the line it draws across the forehead just above the eyebrows, and notice the half circle of cross feathers that give it the new, chic length of line at the back of the neck. Few women couldn't wear this hat, and the brilliancy of the peacock plumes makes it a sparkling member of the spring mode.

Directly below this hat is another which effects the long in back line, so new and smart in Paris. This hat is made of extremely light weight felt, bright green in color, and in general its lines suggest a quaint, old time bonnet. A sapphire and emerald pin is the only trimming to this chapeau, which is smart and flattering for the girlish type of face and figure. [You must think of figure as well as face, if you are to be fashionably hatted, nowadays.]

Above this hat and to the center is a spring one for the poised and sophisticated lady. It comes from Maria Guy and is made of natural bengale straw. All on one side the brim joins the crown at the left side front under a curled coque feather and a small enameled ornament. In contrast to the length of brim at the right side, the left side is cut high to show the lower part of the ear, and little curls of hair.

In the lower right hand corner is an Agnes hat of antique red felt, which has drooping wings at the sides, suggestions of brim, and is trimmed with a Rodier tricot scarf, which is folded under the chin, and brought up and tied in a bow on the left side of the crown. There are a great many hats chez Agnes which are made of, or trimmed with, these bright Rodier scarfs, and they give every indication of an important vogue in smart Parisian circles, this spring.

Just above the scarf hat is an evening bonnet from Suzanne Talbot. It is made of black ciré tulle, and has long streamers of the tulle which fall over the shoulders at the sides. Cap and streamers are trimmed with circles of waxed straw, and a circular veil of tulle half covers the face in front.

In the corner is a Reboux draped toque of red felt, one of the most successful spring hats of this great milliner. The trimming of this toque, a small cluster of ostrich feathers placed near the top, becomes a significant style feature.

Paris likes the large, floppy hat of brown and beige straw for sports, shown at the extreme left.

This smart toque above it is made of peacock feathers with a fan of cross airgrettes at the back. Model from Reboux.

The springtime bonnet is often long and full at the back of the neck, like the one at the lower left.

Maria Guy signs this natural bengale hat with a one side only brim. Shown in the center.

Agnes is using Rodier scarfs in bright colors to trim her felt hats, lower right.

This evening bonnet from Suzanne Talbot is made of tulle and trimmed with circles of waxed straw.

Clusters of ostrich tips brim this Reboux toque of felt, sketched at the extreme right.

Doris Blake's Answers to Love Problems

Have you a perplexing love affair on which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Doris Blake, care The Tribune, Chicago. If you wish a personal reply please send a stamped, addressed envelope.

Stupid Topic.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl who talks about another boy she used to go out with. How can I stop that?
"BLUE."

Tell her you're not particularly interested in hearing about your rivals. She'll appreciate the reason why.

She'll Soon Show.

"Dear Miss Blake: I just met a very nice girl and have taken her out once. I am fond of her. How may I find out if she cares for me? T. P."

If she permits you to call upon her and accepts your invitations you'll know where you stand.

Need for Ambition.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl's mother objects to as going around because I am not earning a living wage. CURLEY."

It looks as though you'll have to push ahead if you wish to hold her friendship, Curley.

Stick to the Younger Ones.

"Dear Doris Blake: I am 20 and love a girl of 22. Shall I go with her or with younger girls?
"GRAY EYES."

You'll be more contented with the friendship of the younger girls, so stick to them.

Hard to Shake.

"Dear Miss Blake: A fellow continually calls me up. I always refuse him. How can I avoid him? RUTH."

Keep on refusing until he tires of calling, Ruth.

Don't Phone Again.

"Dear Miss Blake: When I phone the boy I love his sister answers the phone and says he isn't home. ROSE."

I shouldn't call him again. You may be sure he will get in touch with you if it is his desire to see you.

Show 'Em a Little.

"Dear Miss Blake: How can I be nice to the one I love and yet not show my feelings? HELEN."

Be friendly, but not effusive. Indifference won't win you any friends.

Sore, Tired Feet

Oh! How good it feels to put your tired aching feet in a Tiz bath! You can just feel the pain being drawn out and grateful comfort being restored.

"Tiz" draws out the acids and poisons that puff up your feet and make them tender and sore. Then I learned

The secret of whiter clothes . . . . without scrubbing

"DICK, I can't stand it any longer." "But Dot, . . ." my husband began.

"No, Dick, I know it's not your fault. Clothes must be washed—and we can't afford a laundress. But I simply refuse to scrub my youth away any more. I'm just a slave to the washboard. Oh, if you only were making more money."

Then—foolish young wife that I was—I burst out crying.

Dick took me in his arms and tried to comfort me.

"Don't worry, dear, my raise is coming through soon. Then we'll have a car and a laundress—'n everything. But in the meantime, young lady, answer this—how is it that you're still scrubbing when so many other women in town do the wash without scrubbing?"

I looked at Dick blankly. He took up the evening paper, thumbed through the pages. Then he quoted:

"'I get whiter washes since I stopped scrubbing' says Mrs. Jackson." He went on to read a letter that one of my own neighbors had written to the makers of Rinso.

It explained how safe Rinso suds are—how they save work—how they soak clothes snowy white without scrubbing or boiling.

I could scarcely believe it. Why, with the soaps I had been using, no matter how hard I scrubbed or how much soap I used, I couldn't get clothes really snowy white.

Well, I bought some Rinso. It was a revelation to me. Now my washes are peerless—and I've given my washboard to the ash-man.

Your Fortune in Your Face

by Antoinette Donnelly

It May Not Mean Dollars and Cents to You, but a Lovely Skin Never Fails to Bring Its Owner Satisfaction.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.] — When the judge asked the dairymaid whatever he asked her and she told him she didn't need his old fortune since she had one in her own bright little face, she said what the king of Siam might have said to the visiting Zulu princess, but didn't: "Ye said a-plenty, baby!"

Years may come and years may go, men along with them, but the face that is fair to look upon goes on forever in popularity. Fortunes are made on them, fortunes are lost on them—and fortunes are spent on them.

In the cold light of the closing year's statistics on beauty expenditures what part of the anatomy do you think brought the manufacturers of appearance improvements the greatest returns? You know the answer to be that more or less limited area dotted with eyes, a nose, a mouth, a couple of cheek bones, and commonly known as the face.

O, yes, some of the 1928 beauty budget was devoted to pills and salts and soaps for reduction purposes. But by far the greatest number of reducing devotees were thrift campaigners, really. They cut down on their food bills proportionately. Into manicure sets and polishes went a percentage of the total. Into hair dyes, glows, and tonics went some more. But the face drew the big business, and so it will be every year-of-our-Lord-and-anxious-to-please women.

You Can Change Your Face.

Say what you may about the generous estimates current in our present era toward the femme who may have chic and charm and a snappy pair of ankles, but not much facial beauty. The fact remains that the glorified girls, the movie girls and the other pretty faced ones have a head start in the beauty race. If you haven't a face that will launch a movie contract you've got to do your stuff in chic and charm, ankle and figure, so outstandingly well that you might just as well see what you can do with your face when you're at it.

For things can be done with faces, and don't let anybody tell you they can't. They can be lifted from the drab, the dull, the gray to brilliancy, really. Yes—with the help of artificial coloring cleverly laid on. But, before that, with help less artificial.

It may grow trite and tiresome to have your attention constantly called to the practical aids to a good complexion. I call them practical because the word, to this here female, at least, always brings up a picture of something you ought to do, but you wish you didn't have to.

A much more interested audience is assured if you talk of powder shades and rouge tints, how to mix and apply them. But then you can't live on sweets, either. You have to pass the plate for beef and soup and bread. You'd droop on a diet of the lighter stuffs. Complexions do that very same little thing—droop and wither on rouge and powder rations only.

What I'm trying to get across is that the face that is a fortune to its owner isn't the art gilded one. It's the one that is tuned up to concert pitch by sane, practical, hygienic living and care—and then gilded artfully, if you will.

I think I've touched on this theme before about dabbing colors on a rough canvas, a blemished canvas, a coarse canvas, and expecting to get away with it handsomely. Which is exactly what a woman does not accomplish, unless she is one in a million and with an unerring sense of color.

The Skin's the Thing.

What you want, if you're an honest-to-goodness fortune hunter for your face, is to key up the texture of the skin, the natural coloring in it, and to make it so fine that its glory will shine through the paint you finally apply. The most beautiful makeup is not on the painted face, no matter how perfectly painted, but on the face that could boast a perfect skin without the makeup.

I repeat myself on this subject because I do think it is one of the most needed pieces of advice at the present moment among women. You see countless women, as I do, with makeup on, but around its edges and on unpainted areas the skin is coarse, rough, grimy, blemished, even, with blemishes that are easily correctable. You see girls and women with layers of powder on their noses, but with coarse pores like so many eyes looking right through the makeup. You see women with greasy foreheads and noses, but with cheeks and lips red and vermilion.

You see smudgy mouth corners and outer nostril edges that, on close investigation, prove to be blackhead patches. Then you see deep furrows carrying on their rims like snow capped mountain ridges the weight of a recent powder slapping. You see eyelids that have been treated to a blue paste or brown over tired, tired eyes and "rubber tire" flesh pads, which the mascaraed lashes do not help but only serve as signals to make one look at the destruction hereabout.

Unless one suffers an exaggerated case of acne, I claim that no face need be in a condition that cannot face the strong light of a noontide. The minor complexion faults—the sallow, grayish, greenish, or any off color shades, blackheads, pimples, coarse pores, oiliness, dryness are all things of simple overhauling.

It's Common Knowledge.

Such things as diet, elimination, copious water drinking, and exercise are within every woman's knowledge today. She knows their rejuvenating effect on the skin. Though she may not practice her knowledge, she knows it all the same.

She knows her cleansing creams. She knows her astringent lotions. Or, at least, it is little trouble to find out when in doubt. She may write me. So that the fault is not in ignorance of ways and means to the perfect complexion, but in that weakness known as putting off till tomorrow what had better be started today.

The care of the face is today's job. If there are blackheads, get yourself a complexion brush and scrub with soap and warm water. If the coloring is off, first look to those hygienic rules already mentioned, and see in which you err. Then give your face one good cold water splash a day. Two will be that much better.

After your blackhead treatment, end up with applying cold water to the face. There's magic in the cold water treatment. It improves the color of the skin by toning up the blood vessels. It corrects the faulty secretory functions by contracting the tiny glands. It makes the skin firmer, younger, fresher.

If the skin is pale, pasty and loose, do take the cold water treatment. Try it for one solid month. If it doesn't convince you by that time of its magic agency I'll be off'n it, too. But I never expect to be.

Ensembles Bloom with the Crocus

harmony with the rhapsody in blues to which all Fashion is treating us.

Our model at the left is, in fact, typical of the passion for blue which today includes all tints from navy downward and which is stressing a sort of bright navy called "pirate." But there are various other colors here for the solace of those who don't like black. The various yellowish tones, for example! Also, red!

It is the latter color advocated in our ensemble at the extreme right. Here is a coat of Spanish red crêpe to which is administered a tunic blouse of figured crêpe almost eclipsing a skirt of the red. The latter exploits a mustard yellow motif on lighter background—again our appetite for yellow—and indulges in behavior of which none of its antecedents would ever have thought. That is to say, it affixes to one side a long dipping panel. This, together with the raised waistline, advocated in so many of the most recent collections, make this blouse notable.

The coats of these new ensembles are, as we have said, apt to go to any lengths. Seven-eighths and three-quarter models vie with the full length wraps. In choice of silhouette they are equally volatile, for, though the wraparound straight line coat is still enjoying the most distinguished favor, it must not be forgotten that there are many princess and flaring styles.

And, on coats of various styles, there is the cape. This detail, either attached to the coat or serving in its individual capacity, has been so strongly accented by the spring openings that we shall have to deal with it separately. Meanwhile, we shall cotent ourselves with saying — and there's the cape.

A Dollar for Your Dreams

Have you ever had a dream which later came true? If you'll mail us an account of your prophetic dream we'll pay $1 for every dream published. Address "Dreams," Chicago Tribune.

An old friend came to California and built a beautiful home. I had never called, nor met his wife. One night I dreamed I was looking in a magazine and saw an illustration of my friend's living room and Mrs. Rogers standing by the fireplace, wearing a red gown that matched her hair.

The next day I called and found the room very much as pictured in my dream and Mrs. Rogers wearing a bright red dress! Her hair, however, was honey color. A. L.

Just in Time.

I needed money badly, and, seeing every one around me playing the market, I bought 50 shares of a "comer," borrowing the money and expecting to make a good profit. The stock shot up six points one day and I had visions of a young fortune.

That night I had a terrific dream. I went to the office, picked up the paper and found that my stock had gone down, down, down, sweeping out my profits and nearly a third of my original investment. I awakened, weak and nervous, and couldn't get back to sleep.

I tried to eat breakfast but failed. I rushed to the office, upset and unnerved, and spent half an hour trying to decide what to do. Finally, I phoned the broker to sell.

The stock crashed nearly to rock bottom during the slump that very noon. A. C. B.

A Detective Stunt.

I was running a small confectionery. I sold coffee, tobacco, fruits, and soft drinks. One night I dreamed that two young ragamuffins were at my bedside. One sat on the bed beside me and the other stood at the foot of the bed. I was puzzled in my sleep as to why they were there and in the morning I related the dream to my family.

When I arrived at my business I found the place had been broken into and robbed. Besides, much stock had been ruthlessly destroyed.

Soon a customer asked me if I had been robbed. He said there were two 16 and 17 year old boys sitting back of the buildings in the alley giving away cigarets, candy, and chewing gum to whoever passed that way. I recognized some of my stock that they had given away.

We called the police. When he brought the boys to the store I was much surprised to see the boys of my dreams. L. E. P.

Found a Book.

Three of my friends and I have been learning to play contract bridge. We purchased a book on the subject, each one to study the rules in turn.

One week the book had mysteriously disappeared. No one remembered taking it home from the last meeting. I was positive that I did not have it, as it was not my turn to study the rules. For several weeks the mystery was unsolved.

One night I dreamed I found the book under some magazines on my table. While the dream was real, I soon forgot about it.

A few days later, while dusting the table, I found the book under some magazines, just as I had dreamed of finding it. C. A. B.

Foretold.

At a time in my life when I felt settled for good in my lovely home, happy and contented, I dreamed I was in a large liner on the high seas. People on the deck were rather excited and I noticed they all wore very light clothes. I saw myself lying on a deck chair and, following the other passengers' gaze in the dim light, I discovered in the far distance a thin line of land from which emerged two towers such as I never had seen, and some one mentioned a name unknown to me.

The dream was so vivid I mentioned it to some friends in the morning, and they said, "Possibly you will go to the far east!" How I laughed at the idea, saying, "What nonsense, what should I go there for?" However, the mail announced to me the visit of a beloved sister and her husband, saying nothing further.

On their arrival, I was startled to hear they were on their way to China and wished me to go with them. They so quickly convinced me that I found myself within a month actually pacing the deck on a steamer bound for Shanghai. V. G.

Activities of Women

Persia now has obtained representation in the International Council of Women, being the first oriental country to do so.

The wife of the governor of Constantinople is an Armenian, being the only woman of that nationality among Turkish officials.

The first organizations of women in China were the women's unions, modeled after the women's organizations in Europe and America.

Miss Clara Seaman of Everett, Wash., is believed to be the first woman in the United States to receive the degree of metallurgical engineer.

Miss Gladys Shaw, representative of a New York women's clothing concern, recently made a trip from New York to Los Angeles by airplane.

Though she is only 15 years of age, Miss Anne L. Peters of Washington, Pa., is considered the best girl trap shot in the Keystone state.

Miss Florence Jenkins of New York is known as America's best known bird doctor, and runs the country's largest summer boarding house for birds.

Dr. Amy Shuhoa Ling, an interne at the Western Pennsylvania hospital, Pittsburgh, is one of the very few of her race practicing medicine in the United States.

Clears Up Bad Skin

When blackheads mar your beauty remove them this easy way. Never squeeze!—large pores will result. Safest way to clear up bad skin is to dissolve blackheads all at one time. Ask druggist for two ounces powdered Calsuite, simply sprinkle on hot, wet towel, apply and presto!—they're gone! You've never seen anything like it. Results are simply amazing—even in worst cases.

And don't tolerate wrinkles. Simple, safe home method removes them instantly. Get two ounces of Eptol at druggist, mix with water and teaspoonful of glycerine. Makes delightful cream. Spread lightly over face, neck and around eyes. Hungry tissues absorb it rapidly as you work well into skin until gone. Then see the amazing transformation!—wrinkles, frown, age lines, crow's-feet—gone! Leaves skin smooth, firm, lovely. Genuine Eptol is most dependable—be sure you get it.

Is This Your Birthday? Lucky Year Lies Ahead

Jupiter cannot give individual horoscopes and therefore will not answer personal inquiries.

By Jupiter.

THIS will be a good period in which to indulge in physical and mental activity. The planetary vibrations are splendid for outdoor sports and for all efforts of an intellectual nature. The evening will not be propitious for social or romantic affairs.

If this is your birthday you have a lucky year before you. Speculation will bring you sudden gains, and if you notice your scores you will find that even your bridge winnings show the result of favorable planetary vibrations.

A child born today will be quick, witty, skillful, magnetic, energetic, humorous, fluent and enthusiastic. He will have exceptional ability in drawing and mathematics. He will work better under pressure, will travel and will be fond of the opposite sex. His best financial period will be between the ages of 25 and 50.

Monday, March 18.

Several strong aspects make this a lively day in more than one respect. The moon forms a strong conjunction with Mars at 12:31 p. m., moves on to an adverse angle with Uranus at 7 p. m., but in the meantime makes friendly configurations with Mercury and Venus. Conflicting emotions will be apparent under this sway, but a great deal of constructive work can be accomplished just the same.

If this is your birthday, your year is one of great dangers. Be guided by the advice of your friends and avoid all hazards.

A child born today will be psychic, nervous, changeable, impulsive, abrupt and emotional. He will experience upsetting conditions in the home and with women. The stomach and digestive organs will need care. He will travel, know important people and be much in the public eye between the ages of 20 and 45.

Tuesday, March 19.

No particularly good aspects culminate today but those that are operating tend to mental and physical activity and this is therefore a splendid day for routine work.

If this is your birthday some unexpected and pleasant events will change your fortune in the year of 1929. Do not make any drastic changes which will take you from your present surroundings, your success is where you are. Avoid gossip and you will have one of the happiest years of your life.

A child born today will be adaptable, active, friendly, psychic, sympathetic, domestic, emotional, and greatly influenced by surroundings. He will have to learn to be secretive, to stand alone, and to be poised.

Wednesday, March 20.

A good aspect between Mercury and Uranus, which reaches a climax at 3:03, makes this an especially good day for all who are engaged in writing. Under this configuration it is possible to accomplish a large amount of work in a small amount of time.

If this is your birthday you may look forward to a thoroughly satisfactory year. Important journeys and conferences with people of influence will bring you success and achievement.

A child born today will be affectionate, honest, sympathetic, confiding, intuitive, timid, fond of mystery, and very kind to animals, or the needy and sick. He must learn to be practical, commercial, logical, exact, just, and constructive. He will be successful and can achieve anything he desires if between the ages of 20 and 50 he learns to be tactful and exact.

Thursday, March 21.

Benefic vibrations make this Thursday a good period during which to put forth one's best efforts in the work at hand. It is an especially favorable time during which to transact business with women, artists, musicians, and entertainers, and also auspicious for domestic affairs.

If this is your birthday your year is full of pitfalls. Be cautious of every move you make and guard your business interests well. Do not take chances or tempt Providence.

A child born today will be ambitious, self-reliant, affectionate, generous, responsible, orderly, and success will come through personal endeavor. He will be fond of dress and have many emotional experiences, but must beware of jealousy and opposition. He will experience international travel and will have an interesting life.

Friday, March 22.

This is one Friday which can be marked with a red circle for it is good all the way through. Six planets project benign vibrations in the direction of the earth, so if there is anything important to be done, now is the opportune time to concentrate all your efforts on the task.

If this is your birthday there are more social triumphs indicated in your horoscope than business success. Be careful of a secret with a woman and avoid any situation which could result disastrously for you.

A child born today will be intuitive, serious, impulsive, restless, confiding and imaginative. He must learn to stand alone and to make his own way in the world. He will succeed as a teacher, organizer of public work, pioneer, inventor, or writer.

Saturday, March 23.

Fortunately some of the fine vibrations of yesterday are continued today and all constructive lines of endeavors are benefited by the planets' rays.

If this is your birthday you will find the days of 1929 extremely busy ones, for you will be called in to make important conferences and will enjoy a much more influential position than in the past. There is an appreciable increase for you in your income and with your advice in a commercial way comes valuable friends. Your year, is indeed, an enviable one.

A child born today will have a good memory, will be quiet, nervous, unobstructive, ambitious, receptive, orderly, kind, patient, and philosophical. He will be subject to many changes, some of which will come suddenly, and will be much interested in the opposite sex. He must learn to be tactful, diplomatic, thorough, joyful, adaptable, and ingenious.

Women the World Over

IN Russia, a bride is supposed to kiss every guest at the wedding.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, America's new "First Lady," speaks five languages.

Madame Suzanne Grinberg, France's first woman lawyer, makes a specialty of divorces.

Many young girls in Tokio, Japan, are finding employment as motorbus conductors.

Practically 50 per cent of the total number of voters in the United States are women.

Thirty-four women lawyers were recently admitted to the bar in Massachusetts.

Ninety per cent of the jewelry sold in the United States, it is said, is bought by women.

England now has eight women representatives in Westminster for the 14,000,000 women voters of the country.

Ireland's oldest inhabitant, the Hon. Miss Catherine Plunkett, recently celebrated her 108th birthday in Dublin.

Women are extensively employed in cotton and silk mills in Japan at as low as 20 cents [gold] a day.

Mrs. Jesse Lasky, wife of the motion picture magnate, is a landscape painter of exceptional ability. She began her art studies eight years ago.

There are 21 women ministers preaching the gospel in nonconformist churches throughout Great Britain every Sunday.

Mrs. John Giersh, aged 75, and a grandmother of ten children, is an enthusiastic bowler in Philadelphia, Pa. She rolls every week as a member of the Tabor Bowling club.

Practical and Fancy Needle Work

by Clotilde

Dinner Jackets, So Smart Just Now, Will Make Lovely Additions to Your Wardrobe

What is your sewing problem? Do you have trouble in following a pattern? Do you find difficulty in making a skirt hang evenly or making a sleeve that doesn't twist? If there is anything you would like to know about these or other problems of needlework, write to Clotilde, The Tribune, Chicago, inclosing a stamped addressed envelope if a personal reply is desired.

IF you haven't yet made a dinner or bridge jacket to wear with your party dresses, why don't you do it now? While spring is about to make its appearance, there are many times at a dinner or dance when something of the kind is most comfortable. Besides that, they are chic and pretty looking. Transparent velvet is an ideal material, and of course the color chosen must depend on the dress or dresses it is to be worn with.

Buy a perfectly plain, short jacket pattern to make it by, and cut the lower front edges straight or rounding, as you prefer. The sleeves should be plain and easy fitting, and those flaring slightly at the wrists will be found to be best. After the seams are fitted and stitched, finish the edges with silk binding ribbon, put on by hand, and carefully run the open seams over the bottom of a warm iron. Of course, stand the iron up on end, and don't hold the velvet still at all—simply hold each end of a seam and move back and forth. Then put the sleeves in and finish all edges with a narrow bias binding.

The jackets are often made of the dress material—lace, chiffon, georgette and similar materials, as well as of the transparent velvet.

Another good idea for women who do much of their own sewing will be to make a jacket length or full length coat of velveteen to wear with summer dresses. Any of these things cost much more to buy ready to wear than by simply buying the material; and it is a wonderful satisfaction to make your own clothes, of course assuming that they turn out as you wish them to.

If you rather favor using one color—say different shades of blue, red or green for dresses, one coat could do duty for several, completing an ensemble. Take blue, for instance—printed and plain crêpes chosen for dresses, and some lovely shade of blue velveteen for the jacket. Of course, contrasting colors are seen in ensembles a great deal, so with a little careful planning you could make this one coat do duty for a number of pretty summer frocks.

Make the coat single breasted, face the fronts, put on a straight collar, and hem the bottom of the coat and the sleeve edges. The seams should be open and the edges bound separately. No lining is needed, although if you like, a yoke lining of radium silk could be put in. But the material will slip on and off easily over the dress materials.

Shoes, bag and hat would be lovely matching the coat in color.

Patricia Ann Leason

A sunny little sprite is this winsome, rosy-cheeked daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Leason of St. Paul. Plump and sturdy—always sparkling with gleeful smiles—she's a real Lifebuoy baby—healthy and happy!

"Patricia has never been sick a day in her life

. . . and frequent washing of her hands and face with Lifebuoy has been a big factor in keeping her healthy" says her mother, MRS. J. A. LEASON, ST. PAUL, MINN.

"OUR little daughter, Patricia Ann, is two years and five months old and she's never had a sick day in her life, not even a cold.

"She's so chubby and bright, she just seems to radiate health. Frequent washing of her hands and face with Lifebuoy has been a big factor in keeping her healthy, I believe.

"In fact, I attribute the splendid health of my whole family in large part to our habit of washing with Lifebuoy many times every day and getting rid of germs that we simply can't help getting on our hands.

"Lifebuoy is marvelous for the skin, too, it's so mild.". . Mrs. J. A. Leason, 998 Dayton Ave., St. Paul, Minn.

Guard your family's health!

Mrs. Leason's letter is typical of the way millions of mothers rely upon Lifebuoy to help them keep sickness out of their homes.

Let Lifebuoy protect your family's health. Its gentle antiseptic lather removes germs as well as dirt. And because it purifies the pores it is a perfect soap for the complexion.

Lifebuoy's pleasant, extra-clean scent tells you it purifies, yet quickly vanishes as you rinse.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

The Chicago Tribune Presents

The GAME of STATE CAPITALS

$10,000.00 in Cash Prizes

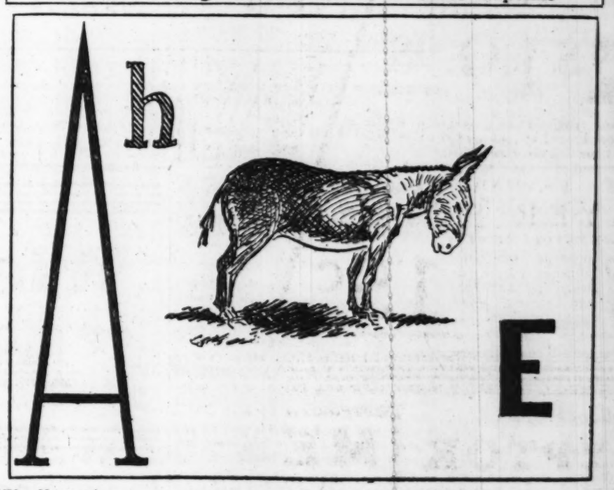
No. 30. Chicago Tribune Game of State Capitals



The Name of This State Capital Is _____ Write Here Name of State Capital

State of _____ Write Here Name of State

THE RULES:

1. Every Sunday, The Chicago Tribune prints 3 pictures depicting the names of Capital Cities of the various States in the United States. There will be a total of 48 pictures—one for each of the 48 States. The public is invited to cut out these pictures, fill in the name of the Capital each picture represents and the name of the State. The Chicago Tribune will pay $10,000.00 in cash prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly named and neatest complete sets of answers in accordance with these rules. See prize list below.
2. This offer is open to everybody — men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Tribune and their families. It makes no difference how old you are or where you live. You pay nothing. No work to do—no subscriptions to get. Just prove your skill. Accuracy will count. Neatness will count.
3. Pictures are to be submitted only in complete sets. The first three pictures were printed Sunday January 13th. Hold all pictures until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "Capitals," The Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All pictures must be in by midnight 21 days after the last picture has been published. No entries will be returned.
4. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department. With your entry send a letter giving your name and address and the name of your favorite State—the one you like for your home, and tell why you like it best. Letters must not exceed 50 words. Elaborate entries are not necessary. Make your entry simple. The prime requirements are accuracy and neatness.
5. School Teachers, Note: To interest school teachers in encouraging their pupils to enter this instructive and educational Game, the Chicago Tribune will award 5 prizes of $100.00 each to the teachers in public, parochial or private schools of grammar or high school grades, whose pupils rank highest among the winners. Teachers! This new Game will familiarize your pupils with all the State Capitals. Help them win!
6. You need not purchase The Chicago Tribune to compete. You may copy or trace the pictures from the originals and use the copies you have made. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its Offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.
7. The judges will be a committee appointed by The Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

By IDA M. EVANS

The Story of Silvia Bremen, Who Was Ready to Turn Down a Millionaire if He High-Hatted Her Family.

"SAY, Silvia, I could tell you someth'ng about this high stepping Parke Morse that would cert'nly s'prise you!"

So this story may as well open with Bud Bauke's peevish threat. And so, too, it shall close:

"Honest, Silvia, I could tell you someth'ng on him——"

But the first time Silvia Bremen would not hear. And by the last time she knew. Parke himself had told her. With bravado and insolence he had told her. And what was she going to do about it?

She did what even the most modern and self-contained of girls finds that life bruskly bids her do, on occasion. She began to cry.

. . . . . .

Even for a Monday, and atop the usual Saturday and Sunday nights' glut of forgotten articles in the Blue Paint company's taxicabs, the morning began with whoops.

A Park avenue matron's gold mounted engagement book in forty-three; Adele Flower the actress' emerald bracelet in eighty-six; a cabinet member's portfolio (oily, from his telephoned wail of dismay) in one hundred and twenty-two, and a leading gangster's new spats, in their Fifth avenue pastebord box, in twenty-nine—all before eleven o'clock.

Bud Bauke's custom was to pause whenever possible at Silvia's desk, which was protected by four full yards of the Blue Paint Taxicab company's blue painted iron grill work. Silvia Bremen had hair, eyes, skin, laugh and sense. It was a pleasure to relate to her the high lights of a man's night.

"Run along, Bud," she said now, with impatience. "I'm checking over a plated salesman's wedding rings. Two hundred and four, he claims, he left in a black velvet roll——"

"Forget the souse," advised Bud. "Say, did I tell you that last night I drove about our leading squash-and-polo prince? And where?"

"No. And, really, I've no time to listen."

"Well, I had the honor! And I could tell you someth'ng about handsome Parke——"

"But not just now, Bud," she said firmly. And in spite of her real gold colored hair and a primrose-like delicacy of complexion, men heeded Silvia Bremen's voice when it was firm.

On this occasion Bud paid no heed. "Girl, your ears'll never forgive you if you pass 'em up this treat." From the tan glace forefinger of a man's left glove—and not Bud Bauke's glove, because he didn't import his—he had drawn a crumpled sheet of gray paper scented paper, too. Expensive scent that drifted to nostrils like the dying sigh of pale green water lilies.

"Listen to one hot mamma, Silvia! Hear what she had to get off her lovely chest:

"'Park, darling: Steve left at twelve o'clock for Westchesteh. I hope to heaven he has a smashup on the road! So that never again need I bleat, Park, darling! I've been so lonesome."

"'Pah! His horsey sister (with her Boston bull face!) will be so interested in his latest suspicion of me. (Not you, dearest—that stupid actor.)

"'Meet me at eight this evening. Not your own car, remember. His eternal detectives——

"'Yours and only yours,

"'DONA.'"

BUD had a full, spudlike face which quivered to nicotine colored jelly when it grinned.

"That's the way, Silvia, a broker's wife hiccoughs to her best boy friend——"

Silvia curled a charming, displeased lip. "Listen, Bud, I've counted these rings twice—O, I heard the stuff. Don't read it again——"

Again Bud pushed the note into forefinger and tossed the gloves toward a slot. "Want to bet he claims 'em or he don't?"

"No bet," she shrugged, folding the black velvet roll.

Yawning for his sleep, Bud went on, and a desk phone buzzed.

A quick resonant voice: "A man's pair of gloves, size eight, tan, glace, was left in a cab last night. I did not note the cab number. But the driver had a full, youngish face and a scar below one ear——"

"One moment, please."

From among a cheap hat box, an umbrella cover, a Gideon Bible and a nearly expired lipstick from Harlem, Silvia drew the gloves. Bud complained that passengers of no class invariably got him. What they left behind he was usually ashamed to turn in.

"The gloves have been turned in. Shall we mail them to you?"

"No!" the quick, vital voice almost clipped Silvia's courteous query. "I'll call for them. At once."

The gloves were London made. Now, it is not the custom of men who buy their gloves in London to call in their own busy person at a lost-and-found desk for one crumpled pair. O, to be sure, it has been done. Like murder. But it merits comment. After all, what are office boys, or even private secretaries, for?

Silvia Bremen smiled unkindly to herself. She had a position of trust and authority; and she had not gained it because she had real gold colored hair. The president of the Blue Paint Taxicab company had once taken Silvia's word about a string of white sapphires in preference to that of a prominent traction man's hectic tongued wife.

HER faint cold smile had gone when Parke Morse appeared. She had never seen him before—except, of course, on rotogravure pages. Who in all America had not seen him in sepia? And his Park avenue apartment buildings, his Long Island estate, his great, vivid hued, imported cars, his polo ponies, his hounds and his setters and his terriers, his squash court, his English rose hedge, his Canadian ranch, his yacht and his lean, strong, insolent profile.

Gravely she handed his gloves through the window. "Sign here, please."

Before signing he put a reconnoitering forefinger of firm tanned flesh down the glacé forefinger. A faint relief appeared in his keen, black lashed gray eyes.

It was easy for Silvia to identify Dona. Who could not, indeed, except a naïve and perfect stranger to tabloids? Dona was a stage darling of four years back. "Steve" owned part of Long Island and all of a paunch.

Parke Morse had no paunch. He was as flatly built as a spar. Some men are—even in the thirties. Silvia regarded him soberly from under her own sooty lashes. Could another woman really blame Dona? Still, that letter was mad and bad and very silly.

Suddenly Parke Morse raised his eyes and caught her in this involuntary and sober scrutiny. Perhaps he had been conscious of it from its inception. He was called clever by the world.

Silvia blushed. And so he knew that she knew what was in that tan glacé forefinger. O, Bud! She could have shaken that person by the chunky, hard, metal buttoned neck.

"Needn't blush," the owner of the gloves advised her with an unkindly, amused drawl. "We're all human."

"Some of us seem to be so much more human than the rest of us," she flared scathingly, although right over her head hung the company's warning, "Employés Must Hold No Unnecessary Conversation with Lost Article Seekers."

"Ah!" he said, surprised and even more amused. "How true!"

With impertinent coolness of manner he gazed at Silvia, who turned her back on his gaze. Anyhow, a dapper lad from Columbia was excitedly asking for his two volumes on tort. But she looked after Parke Morse as he walked away. Most women did!

AN hour later Beth at the next desk raised a pale, taffy colored head and lowered an ear disc. "Must be you, Silvia. He wants the lost and found girl with long, sooty lashes who returned his gloves. He has a voice that the Metropolitan would love to touch."

Very soon Silvia, pink faced and crisp, set down the disc.

"And a cheek that a hi-jacker could use. Dinner, he promised with a drawl, and any night club I prefer."

"You must be tempted," Beth giggled. "Or why the deep seated anger? Who's he?"

"Man," said Silvia succinctly, ticketing a chiffon scarf that had been Chianti stained near Washington square.

"Honestly?" Beth simulated magnificent amasement. "We thought he was a pineapple juice stand!"

Silvia returned a bottle of rich amber liquor to a dark complexioned little man who had the aplomb of a minor Washington attaché, and an amethyst set garter to a 12 year old girl with the poise of a grandmother-in-law.

"He seemed to think," she curled an attractive lip, "that a night club would be such a treat to me."

"Or maybe," suggested Beth, who had been married (note the tense, please), "he was merely finding out if it would be."

Four days later Silvia Bremen's sooty lashed eyes dilated with terror. It was her lunch hour and Death threatened to snatch away all future hours for her. Her own fault, too; it behooves most to remain alert at any Sixth avenue crossing. She was thinking of something, so she blindly disregarded Red. The fuchsia sleeved driver of an imported limousine paled and ruptured his brakes. A heavy domestic car catapulted forward, while its front wheels threatened to stick up in the air grotesquely like a dog's wheedling forepaws.

And under a pair of the frantic front wheels Silvia threatened to fall. Some one's tweed arm shot through an opened door. Some one dragged her to his running board and pulled her to upholstered seat and to life.

"Why, it's the lost and found girl," said an attractive voice, vastly pleased.

"Yes," she admitted. "Th-thank you so m-much."

"Indeed, you should thank me." He was more than pleased, it was evident. "Except for me, right this instant, you'd be looking into Elijah's chariot for articles the old boy likely forgot!"

"Y-yes." Her knees wabbled yet.

"Course you would!" He had a gay laugh. He added plaintively, "Can you ever be haughty again to me after saving your life?"

"I could." She was quick to regain an even pulse. "But"—she said this charmingly, laughing a little—"I won't!"

"That's the way to talk! Good girl! Grateful girl!" He patted her hand.

That touch of hand! It was electric. It was a signal, too. It was one of the hard, imperative, vital signals that tell two persons that life will never again be the same for either. For weal or woe, the two have met.

"Listen," Parke Morse spoke huskily, and too low for even a lip-reading chauffeur to hear, "don't think I'm overgiven to this kind of thing."

THE neighborhood where the Bremens live, somewhere between the Empire theater and Grant's tomb, but lying a few blocks too far west of the park for nice taste, might appear common enough to a casual passer-through. Its roofs are usually washhung—and heaven help some of the wash, as young Mrs. Cassiday says on her more temperamental days.

Its fire escapes are a constant irritation to city statutes which ask clear passage at all times. It keeps a truancy officer busy. It likes its dogs hot. Popcorn venders thrive—O, it is no tenement neighborhood, but a good renting and industrious locality whose respectable tenants can afford to give dimes to their children as often as is good for children.

Actually, the neighborhood is one of real class. And plenty of class! Really, there is hardly one family within the radius of three blocks from the Bremen flat, corner and second floor, that has not a singular claim to distinction.

Some one's tweed arm shot through an opened door.

Have the Bernsteins no claim when their second cousin, Emil, got a Metropolitan audition after three starving years under Milan tuition? And the McDougals, whose second daughter is stenographer to a railway president? And the Stogans, with three boys in France and one at home with a single leg?

Class! Why, class just spreads over the neighborhood! A niece of the Mausers works for the Goulds; went to Europe with them. A cousin of the Osters invented a folding fire ladder, soon to be on the market; he lives in Chicago and sends good Christmas presents to the Oster children. An uncle of the Schmidts was once lost five days in an underground cave in Virginia; the tabloids gave him extras. The Hymans are descended from a governor of Maine. Jim Bauke, Bud's brother, is the fireman who spectacularly rescued four children and a cat four years ago in an east side tenement fire.

Grandma Peterson's maternal grandfather was an equerry in the old country. What is an equerry? Ask Grandma Peterson and get the indignant toss of a tiny white head: "The king favored him. There is one tale my mother told me."

Grandma Juswig is the widow—and a most respectable and devout septuagenarian, you ought to know!—of a gangster, who, with his friends, helped once to make the Bowery what it once was. His relict has a certain contempt for present day banditry. "I mind one fight in our own alley when the five Butlig brothers and their crowd was laid out cold and bloody. You could have picked up pieces of ears and chunks of hair from Canal street to the Corners. And the Roricks and the rest of the Galloway gang felt so good they got so drunk that two weeks later when the Butlig crowd was out of the hospital they came upon them and laid them out in mashy rows."

Nearly all the neighborhood, you see, has come "uptown." To many quiet eyed residents of these compact tenanted West Sixties, Fourteenth street and below is not a section of New York City. It is lang syne. It is yesterday—it is memory.

Henry Bremen's father owned a stationery shop below Fourteenth street. Years ago, naturally. Henry has been in the postoffice for thirty-one years. Mary Bremen, daughter of a delicatessener, was glad when Henry was transferred far north. Better air for the children and—O, plenty of other advantages; she relished the move. That was twenty-one years back. Silvia was ten months old. She was the fourth child. Mary Bremen was a plump, yellow haired, hard working young mother.

ALL the Bremen children turned out well. Some parents just are lucky, you know! Sometimes, in that common enough, wash hung, struggling, compact tenanted neighborhood various eyes looked out of windows at the Bremen family, out for a Sunday walk, mostly hand in hand, and abruptly the world seemed sane and decent. Henry was a thin, quiet man who held tightly his small Silvy's dimpled hand; Mary and the eldest, Mamie, enjoyed close confab; the five boys had almost a military briskness of walk which they had copied from their mail carrying father.

It had been hard work; Mary Bremen had taken in plain sewing at times, and always two roomers. But the Bremen children had gone through high school, even to rebellious Bob, who wanted to enlist and see the world at sixteen.

Henry had helped all the children with their lessons. A man in a large postoffice accumulates plenty of information to give over to young essayists and dictionary tacklers. Henry favored manual arts for Carl and Harry; he advised them that the mechanical age was here; in another decade letters might be shot through tubes to the public. Carl and Harry agreed alertly that a young garage owner needn't ask his girl to wait ninety years to be married to him.

Mamie married the day after she graduated; she had curly hair and a tiny pug nose. She was no beauty like Silvia, the family agreed. Mamie had a sober prettiness, in spite of her nose. Perhaps Mamie's chunky, older shoulder had met life at a harder impact than the later born Silvia, whose brothers were old enough and manly enough to watch her to school and at recess and carry her lunch and her raincoat and her books and her all-day suckers.

Perhaps protection and an all encompassing affection since birth was greatly responsible for the poise that was Silvia Bremen's outstanding quality. Joe and Marvin agreed early, with brothers' own satisfaction, that Silvia was a sensible girl; pretty but sensible! Catch Silvy doing the things some girls did! The law studying Marv and football mad Joe fairly strutted with complacency over their sister.

WHEN Silvia wanted to go to work, and downtown, Henry took her to the president of the Blue Paint Taxicab company. There was no actual need for her to work. Henry unconsciously drew a long contented breath as if a certain goal had been reached in life when a man's little girl need not work for her living! But, of course, her brothers would all be married soon enough; Elsa Peterson was pouting over law's delay, and Claire Oster had told Joe that football didn't pay rent, even way out in the subdivisions; there would be less spending money around the Bremen flat. Henry had delivered mail for nine years to the president of the taricab company; a friendship had formed between the two gray haired men.

"I know where to put a daughter of yours," said President Haney, after a brief, experienced look at the quiet eyed girl. "In the pestiest department of this place! I need her there." He chuckled, noting the sooty lashes. "And I bet the men won't be annoyed at any reason for visiting those pigeon holes."

Bud Bauke echoed his employer's opinion. "Well, Silvia! Ain't this good to learn——" Bud had gone to school with the older Bremens. "And say, if any man gets fresh, you tell me about him——"

"All right, Bud," Silvia had said, calmly, while Beth and the other girls listened readily. "But you know I'm really not an infant who needs a policeman."

But was one of the persons who knows news first. And sometimes knows it worst. Two days after Parke Morse saved Silvia's life in that mad noon rush, he leaned an inflamed face from his cab seat as Silvia at six o'clock turned down her on the way home.

"Say, I wouldn't 'a' believed my own mother, Silvia! I says to myself, 'You're drunk, you fool, or dreamin'!'"

Silvia, coming from the subway, paused perforce at the cross curb where Bud's brakes had screeched to intercept her.

"Believe what?"

She was cool eyed and her voice was calm—this Silvia who had dreaming eyes and had never fallen hard for football player or clever young mechanic, or even Marv's brilliant fellow law students. But a sudden slight rigidity of her whole slim young body might have warned Bud.

He was not observant, being too angry and misery inflamed.

"Believe what?" he sneered fiercely. "Why—you ready to fall for that flashy Park avenue sport! Yes, I saw you last night at two o'clock headed north from Fifty-seventh!" A judge might have shouted sentence. "And I had a dame in my cab that some of the Harlem night clubs refuse admission to, for all her dough. Want to know what she said to the tout with her, laughin' like only an old drunk, diamond hung beast of sixty-five can laugh? She says, 'When did Parke prefer a blonde before?' And her tout stretched back to look you over, cuddled on that limousine back seat beside that squash-and-polo high roller——"

"Well?"

Like a tiny steel whip, like a thin spurt of deadly acid, came the girl's query. Her whole body was poised passionately. Her lips trembled—and not in pity for Bud's misery and dismay.

"'Well?'" he repeated, dazed. "Why, Silvia—why——"

"This is a horrible world!" She was flaming now. "Is a man bad because he has a lot of money? Need it always be his fault if women like him—force themselves on him——"

"Why,—Silvia—why——" Bud Bauke who, as he claimed, had driven more kinds of women in his cab than there are initials in a Sixth avenue pawnbroker's secret notebook, was dumbfounded.

"Don't ever speak to me again, Bud Bauke!" She turned and fairly ran into the hallway of her flat building.

BUD gaped awhile at the doorway with its eight shabby mail slots. In a daze he drove off. With barely three sentences Silvia had cast aside a good friendship and had ranged herself with all the myriads of women who love passionately, protecting and defending and upholding the one man while they wholesouledly lay on the shoulders of their own sex any blame for his misdeeds or his mishaps.

Bud Bauke was not stupid. He would have sneered at the accusation. After what he saw, days and nights? Some wits sharpener, his profession. So he cogitated a while over Silvia and then he got very drunk and neglected to turn in a white jade cigaret holder revered by its owner, a lady concessionist from Coney. Later he was reprimanded and suspended a day, which did not help Bud's temper.

While he was drunk he told three of the Bremen boys what he thought about their sister and they told him sharply to tend to his own business.

"But I thought she was different from other girls," blubbered Bud.

"Well, she is," said Carl so fiercely that Bud sulked off.

Well, to be sure, the family had always expected pretty Silvia to find life good and even high, as girls' lives go. With that real gold colored hair and gay sooty lashes? But this Parke Morse of the news and colored supplement columns——

There is the Almanac de Gotha, Who's Who, and rotogravure. It is a pity that the last, too, is not collected periodically in a single convenient volume.

Henry Bremen, urged worriedly by Mary Bremen, took a half day off and went to the public library and looked through newspaper files and magazines of several years' standing.

He emerged from the huge stone building with a faint droop of valiant middle aged shoulders. His absent eyes, as he waited for a bus, held a certain depression. For a man may be fairly well contented with his life and his achievements and yet find it difficult to crush an involuntary envy of men who by heritage or their own effort have achieved English rose hedges on Long Island and a hunting lodge in Canada. The unfairness of life has continually its hand out for a slap at meek cheeks!

Mary Bremen digested the rotogravure gleanings in silence. She was a thoughtful woman. Perhaps that was why the Bremen family was what it was. "She may not marry him, anyhow," she said finally. "No need to get excited."

Henry did not like this contingency, either. "Well, I hope she don't get spoiled for a poorer man," he grumbled, feeling as helpless as most fathers over a girl's may-or-may-not-do.

MARY BREMEN, whose eyes had become older and more tired in a day, looked pityingly at her husband. She was mostly silent that week when Silvia was at home—not many evenings, to be sure!—but she borrowed twenty dollars from Mamie and levied on the boys and got Silvia a new evening wrap; fur edged, silver and wistaria velvet. Mary was a woman as well as a wife and mother; she had an understanding soul; perhaps that was why Silvia Bremen had a gay serenity of soul that had attracted Parke Morse!

Mary remembered very well, indeed, when she had saved eleven dollars for a black velvet jacket to accompany Henry to the Boston stock company on lower Sixth avenue. In that jacket she has accepted Henry. And the gap between thirty cent orchestra seats for "The Kentucky Belle" and Oregon Clara's high couvert charges on Forty-sixth street may be neither so wide nor so deep as naïve minds deem!

"Silver and wistaria bring out her hair," said Mary to her married Mamie.

"Perfectly beautiful," agreed Mamie.

In a way Mary and Mamie's beautiful solicitude was unneeded! Parke Morse's heart had been swiftly and sincerely laid at the feet of the girl. His passion could not be increased by mere clothes. It was a sudden and startling passion. Fated? Well, such words as Om and kismet have never yet in any dictionary been followed by the damning Obs.!

Silvia became in ten gay days so radiant of face that a matron from Brooklyn, seeking an heirloom handbag, was annoyed. "Don't smirk over my troubles, Miss! I'll report you! That bag, I'll have you know, belonged to my grandmother——'

"O, I wasn't!" protested Silvia, distressed.

"Don't argue!" And marched off in heat.

Silvia became almost ashamed of her own joy. She tried to subdue her mouth corners. It really was unholy to think all day of the evening's kisses. But Parke's lips, quick, dear, ardent on her own responsive mouth—O, poor old pompous matrons from Brooklyn or elsewhere who had passed all this lovely fever of day!

It was Bud Bauke who first tarnished her unheeding rapture. She had known Parke for six weeks. She knew him very well, indeed. She had been taken out to view the English rose hedge; she had learned the dimensions of a squash court. Hers to be. Nothing uncertain about Parke's honorable intentions. He wanted her always—ever, always. The future was rosiness. It

THE GLENLITTEN MURDER

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

The Action Hitherto:

FELICE, a beautiful young girl reared in France, is the bride of Lord Glenlitten. They entertain the following guests: Comte Raoul de Besset; Lord and Lady Mansfield; Rodney Haslam, a West African commissioner home on leave; Bobby Grindells, a young lawyer; Dr. Meadows, a surgeon; Sir Richard Cotton, a noted criminal lawyer; two officers, Fraser and Philipson, and Prince Charles de Suess, a Russian refugee, who secretly claims Felice as a sister. Lady Glenlitten retires early. Soon afterward she hears her name called, sees a hand at the window, and hears the report of a gun. She loses consciousness, and on regaining it finds her husband and Dr. Meadows with her and Sir Richard bending over the lifeless body of Comte de Besset. Costly jewels are missing, and traces of a burglar are found. The burglar, Max Drayton, is captured and charged with murder. Sir Richard Cotton agrees to defend him, believing another man guilty. He questions Felice closely. Glenlitten retains a private detective, Felix Main, in an effort to upset the lawyer's theory, but discharges him when Main voices disagreeble suspicions. Felice visits her family, in hiding in London. They swear her to secrecy concerning their relationship. Felice promises Drayton's wife to aid him. She charges Prince Charles with the murder. Main offers Charles his services. A revolver bearing Drayton's initials is found on the Glenlitten estate. Drayton's wife informs Felice that the weapon belonged to her brother and must have been planted.

INSTALLMENT IX.

The Necklace.

THE western half of the county dined that night at Glenlitten, and Félice had never played the part of hostess with more charm or dignity. The French ambassador, who was a guest in the district, sat on her right, and it was an obvious joy to her to converse in her own language. The Marquis de Bressac was a man of great distinction and a well known diplomat and famous traveler.

"I would like to tell you, Lady Glenlitten," he said, "that I am one of those who deeply and fervently sympathize with your country people."

A light flashed into her face, only to pass away again almost immediately.

"In my younger days," the marquis went on, "I was just an attaché to our embassy in St. Petersburg, and I made many delightful friends. Without a doubt I must have known some of your relations."

Félice's lips were trembling.

"I am not very happy when I force myself to talk of them," she confessed.

"I offer you a thousand apologies," the ambassador said earnestly. "I should have known better than to have alluded to a subject so painful."

Félice shivered a little. She was looking into that horrible room in Milden square. De Bressac leaned over and repeated his polite but sincere regrets. He fancied her gazing across Europe at less scrdid but even more terrible things.

"I am very foolish to have talked to you like this of a past that can holti nothing but tragedy," he acknowledged. "I would rather you told me of your life here in England. It appeals to you, the sport, the outdoor existence? Never did I see a man who looked so well and happy as your husband."

She pulled herself together. She was a great lady, and she was hostess of this very brilliant party.

"My husband deserves to look well and happy," she said. "He is the kindest man I know. And as for the life here, who would not love it? I am even falling in love with the climate."

"Mon Dieu!" the marquis murmured, under his breath.

"It is cold sometimes; it is gray; it is damp," she admitted, "but you face it all. O, how hard it was to get me to do that at first. Still, you face it all, and presently there is a glow and one feels well. And the grayness has its beauty, and the cold sends the blood springing through your veins. I have only lived here a few months, but I think I could never like to live in any other country."

"You are very fortunately placed," he remarked. "Your estates are wonderful. For at least seven miles of our motor ride here we were in your park, I believe, and some of the views are marvelous. Then I have seen your house in Scotland, too, in the distance. That is marvelously picturesque."

"Sometimes I love it," she agreed. "The castle is almost on the edge of the cliff and the seas below are splendid, but I like this better. You will shoot tomorrow, marquis?"

"We are all coming over," he answered. "Your husband has just been saying that he will have eleven guns. That seems to be a great many for you, but in France it is nothing. They tell us we need to ask large parties to secure a bag there. We shoot so much worse than the English. Your husband, with only six guns, did wonderfully today."

THE conversation drifted along the usual channels. At the lower end of the table Lady Susan was trying to get Haslam to talk once more of West Africa, but without success.

"Last night, Lady Susan," he confessed, "I forgot myself for a little time. I try never to speak of the things I do not fully understand. They only confuse other people, and confuse me."

"But they told me," she persisted, "that you made an amazing statement."

"Did I? One talks a great deal too much sometimes after your brother's wonderful port."

"They told me that you know the real secret of that terrible night here," she added, lowering her voice. "Mr. Grindells insisted that you actually said so."

Haslam sipped his wine thoughtfully.

"There are many stages and degrees of knowledge, Lady Susan," he reminded her. "One may have been convinced by actual proof, and if that is so one may share one's knowledge with every one, because one can justify one's statement. And again one may know by conviction just as absolutely, but without the pillars of evidence below, and when it is by conviction one knows one had better hold one's peace. I never saw our hostess look so brilliant as tonight."

"I think that Félice is almost the sweetest and the most beautiful thing alive," Lady Susan declared with enthusiasm. "Even the great sadness of her history has not left a single chastening mark upon her. Hers is the happiness which no one ever grudges. It is the happiness that feeds on happiness, and gives out happiness—the real joy of living. When I heard that my brother was marrying some one he had found in a little village of France, I must confess that I was afraid. Now I am very happy."

"It is a very fortunate thing for her," Haslam said, "that you all are so fond of her. It helps her to miss less her own relatives."

"She lost all of them, did she not?" Lady Susan asked.

"Every one, I understand," Haslam replied. "They were extreme imperialists, and never had a chance. Even now she cannot bear to think of them."

Lady Susan lowered her voice a little. There had been a sort of unspoken agreement not to discuss last month's tragedy in public.

"You were there when they found the weapon this afternoon?" she asked.

"Close at hand," he answered. "I have seen it since."

"I suppose that destroys all Sir Richard's theories of his client's innocence?" she ventured.

"I should imagine," Haslam told her diffidently, "that it is an important piece of evidence."

Lady Susan accepted the hint, and at the same time caught her hostess' eye.

"There is Félice looking around for Lady Manfield," she remarked, rising to her feet. "Don't sit here drinking port all the evening, Mr. Haslam. I want a rubber or two of bridge, and I know it's going to be an early night because of the shooting tomorrow."

"I'll do my best," he promised.

"Tell us some more West African experiences, Haslam," Grindells called down to him from the other end of the table.

Haslam shook his head.

"I talked too much last night," he said. "I expect you're all thinking me pretty crazy. Still, if you live in that atmosphere, you can't help imbibing a little of it."

"Very good for one, too," Manfield declared. "We're too cut and dried a generation. The whole human race is becoming too much made to pattern. We accept whatever happens too philosophically. We haven't enough superstition left even to be religious. We prefer to be automatic."

"Perhaps," Glenlitten observed, "it's as well the bishop didn't dine."

"I never find the modern divine a drawback to intelligent conversation," Manfield protested. "They have brains like the rest of us, and probably use them more. They have to keep a few water-tight compartments at the back of their minds, but they can ignore them when necessary."

Haslam, with his glass in his hand, rose and changed his place. He seated himself next Fraser.

"Seen anything more of the young Russian fellow you brought over that momentous night?" he asked, a little abruptly.

"It is a very fortunate thing for her," Haslam said, "that you all are so fond of her. It helps her to miss less her own relatives."

"She lost all of them, did she not?" Lady Susan asked.

"Every one, I understand," Haslam replied. "They were extreme imperialists, and never had a chance. Even now she cannot bear to think of them."

"Perhaps," Glenlitten observed, "it's as well the bishop didn't dine."

"I never find the modern divine a drawback to intelligent conversation," Manfield protested. "They have brains like the rest of us, and probably use them more. They have to keep a few water-tight compartments at the back of their minds, but they can ignore them when necessary."

Haslam, with his glass in his hand, rose and changed his place. He seated himself next Fraser.

"Seen anything more of the young Russian fellow you brought over that momentous night?" he asked, a little abruptly.

"Haven't set eyes on him," Fraser acknowledged. "He was really Philipson's pal. At least it was he who asked him to mess that night. Can't say I took to him much myself."

"Neither did I," Haslam agreed. "Still, one has to remember these fellows have been through it. Living in London for the present, isn't he?"

"I can't even tell you that. I'll ask Philipson if you like. He may know."

Haslam hesitated.

"No, don't bother," he begged. "I just wondered whether he had been down in these parts lately."

ANDREW presently rose, and they all trooped out, some of them passing at once into the rarely opened suite of drawing rooms, others lingering about the hall. Sir Richard, one of the few to invade the women's domain, found himself at first a little at a loss. There was a table of very intense bridge players, and three women seated on a divan engaged in very vivacious conversation who never even raised their heads at his entrance. Then Félice glided out from a distant corner, passed her arm through his, and led him to a small, octagonal chamber which completed the suite—Queen Anne's drawing room, it was called, in memory of a reputed visit. She drew him to a distant corner, made him comfortable, and seated herself in a small chair by his side.

"Sir Richard," she said, "I did want very much to see you. Mrs. Drayton has been here today from Winchester."

"Mrs. Drayton," he repeated, a little vaguely.

"Your burglar's wife."

"Been here to see you!"

"We have exchanged visits three times," Félice told him. "Once I to see her, twice her to see me. I have helped her a little with money. I wish to help her in every possible way that I can. Her husband sent her to find out about the revolver that was discovered yesterday."

"Good God!" Sir Richard exclaimed. "I suppose I ought not to have done it," Félice went on. "It was perhaps very wrong of me, but I had the case unpacked and I showed it to her."

"Well?"

"She said that it belonged to her brother, that she saw it in her brother's house three or four days after the murder had been committed, and that there were no initials upon it."

"Her evidence, unfortunately, will never be admitted," Sir Richard said gravely. "At the same time, if she saw it, perhaps some one else did. Where is this brother of hers?"

"In jail."

"If anything hangs Max Drayton," Sir Richard groaned, "it will be bad luck."

"Nothing shall hang him," Félice declared.

Sir Richard shook his head.

"My dear," he said, and there was a queer note in his voice, "men have been hung on much weaker circumstantial evidence than this. In the first place, so far as we have been able to discover at present, there was no one else within shooting distance of De Besset. Secondly, the burglar had every reason to shoot him, for he was on the point of giving the alarm. Thirdly, the revolver, which can be proved, belonged to his brother-in-law and has his own initials scratched upon it, has been found within twenty-five yards of where he left his car. How am I to deal with all these damning facts? I'm beginning to doubt whether the jury will keep awake to listen to me."

"But you don't believe he did it yourself," Félice urged, a note of distress in her tone.

In his eyes there shone the great greed.

"I do not," Sir Richard admitted, "but I should imagine I am the only man breathing who wouldn't on the face of the evidence."

"If you don't believe it," she cried, "there must be a way of finding out the truth."

"There is one way," he agreed.

"Well?" she demanded eagerly.

"That every person who was in the house that night should tell all he knows, that they should shield no one, that they should tell the absolute and entire truth. Then perhaps Drayton may have a chance."

"When is the trial?" Félice asked a little abruptly.

"The Assizes commence the 6th of December at Winchester."

"Before then," she murmured, "something will happen—I am sure that something will happen."

Sir Richard shook his head gravely.

"I wouldn't be too sanguine," he advised. "Pretty well the worst that can happen for my man has already happened, unless they find the necklace and trace it to him. As the case stands at present Drayton is in for it, and he knows it, poor devil! He knows it more than ever now."

"Is he terrified?" she asked, a little hush in her voice.

"He's more terrified than any man I've ever seen or heard of," Sir Richard confessed. "He made no sort of fuss when he was arrested for the burglary. He never has done. He's just faced it and taken his punishment, but the idea of the gallows seems to be driving him almost mad. He's always trying to crane his head out of the cell window to see where they're built. He can't take his exercise without screaming out when he comes to the corner. The doctor told me he frightened himself into this last illness, sweating all night with fear. I'm afraid he'll be an abject sight when the trial comes on."

A passing reflection of horror was in Félice's face.

"Tell him for me, Sir Richard," she begged, "he shall not hang. I would rather perjure myself."

"Why?" Sir Richard asked swiftly.

THEY glanced around, aware of the presence of a newcomer. Haslam was standing underneath the arched opening.

"Your husband is looking for you, Lady Glenlitten," he announced tonelessly. "There is some question of dancing. The matter, I think, is to be referred to you."

Félice sprang lightly up and held out her hand to her companion.

"We will dance," she insisted. "Every one must dance for half an hour, at least. Afterwards you eager sportsmen can go to bed, and Sir Richard and I will finish our conversation."

"Mayn't I be included?" Haslam asked.

"On one condition," Félice assented suddenly, "that you prove the truth of what you said last night at dinner time."

"I talked too much last night," he confessed gloomily. "What is it that I am to prove?"

"You say that you know. Save that poor fellow's life, and tell us who killed Raoul de Besset."

Haslam's expression was inscrutable.

"One may have knowledge of a thing," he reminded them, "without the power or the will to publish it to the world. I will compromise with you, Lady Glenlitten. I will promise you this—no innocent man shall ever hang for the murder of Raoul de Besset."

He swung around on his heel and departed abruptly. Félice and Sir Richard watched his disappearing form.

"You think that he means it?" Félice demanded breathlessly.

Sir Richard was deep in thought. His eyes were watching the tall, gaunt figure passing now out of sight. Félice was obliged to repeat her question.

"Yes," he acknowledged. "I think that he means it. All the same——"

The strains of music floated down from the gallery close at hand. Andrew suddenly presented himself.

"You may flirt with my wife afterwards if you wish, you old reprobate," he said to Sir Richard, "but at least I claim the first dance."

MR. FELIX MAIN'S domestic life was spent in two fair sized rooms over his office. All that he had to do when the cares of business were over was to mount one flight of stairs, unlock the door facing him and, if by chance Mrs. Main were at home, submit himself to the connubial embrace. The door adjoining was the door of his bedchamber, and a very small kitchen on the other side, provided with a gas stove completed the establishment. Mrs. Main had once been a cinema actress, or on the pictures, as she termed it, and entertained ambitions toward renewing her professional life. Her appearance, however, had suffered from lack of exercise, too much smoking, an excessive use of cosmetics, and a constant, if not to say immoderate, addiction to alcoholic sustenance which had, at thirty years of age, made it difficult for her to satisfactorily undertake the ingénue parts of her youth. Her baby face had lost its freshness, her eyes their brightness, her figure its grace. She had a little money, having been the daughter of a respectable grocer at Camden Hill, some of which she had parted with to her husband, and some of which she had wisely kept for her own use. She spent half her life grumbling, but there were many less contented women. Although she was pledged to go to the pictures this evening, in view of her husband's entertainment of an important client, she lingered about the room, unwilling to depart. Charles, in his well cut and well pressed clothes, with his tall figure, and his foreign accent, had distinctly taken her fancy. She would have much preferred to stay at home and share the bottle of wine which her husband had purchased earlier in the day from a neighboring restaurant. Neither of the men, however, to her great regret, showed signs of wishing for her presence.

"Well, you two do look as though you were in for a good time," she said, glancing at the gold topped bottle, the cigarets and cigars upon the table. "Mean trick sending me off to the pictures, don't you think so, Mr. De Suess? I'm just feeling sociable tonight, too."

The blue eyes were lifted to his in a manner which she had once found to be irresistible, but Charles remained a block of wood. Outwardly stolid, he was inwardly nervous and impatient. All he wanted was to drink a tumblerful of that wine and get on with the business.

"It's a pity you have to go," he replied politely, "but our business is very dull and stupid. It would not interest you, yet it must be done. Perhaps," he added, as an afterthought, "we shall still be here when you come back."

"Mind you are," she enjoined. "I won't stop for a drink, however many of my friends I meet. I'll hurry back to hear how you've got on."

Mr. Felix Main, who was not addicted to acts of courtesy, rose to his feet and held the door open. She passed out with a little backward wave of the hand to Charles. Her husband waited until he heard the front door close behind her before he proceeded to open the bottle of wine.

"Well, I hope you feel at ease now, Mr. De Suess?" he said. "There's not a soul can come near the house. We've got the premises absolutely to ourselves, and we haven't even a servant to pry around."

Charles threw himself into the most comfortable chair, pushed away his host's cigarets contemptuously, and lit one from his own case.

"I am beginning to wish," he declared slowly, "that I had never entered into this business. I think that I would have made just as much money out of my sister in other ways."

"Now, in what way?" Mr. Felix Main demanded, pouring out a tumblerful of the gold foiled but rather too foaming beverage, and handing it to his guest. "In what way, I should like to know? From what you have told me, I realize that Lord Glenlitten must never learn of your relationship. Why should he do anything to provide for a strange young man at his wife's instigation? Ridiculous! You were right to take the matter into your own hands. Remember, I haven't seen it yet, but every one has agreed as to the value of that necklace, Mr. De Suess. Thirty thousand pounds will bear a split."

"I don't suppose you'll get the full value for the stones," Charles reminded him gloomily.

"I don't suppose I shall," the other admitted, "but I shall get more than any one else will, and I shall get it safely. Say we get twenty thousand pounds. That's ten thousand each. Doesn't that satisfy you?"

"I WOULDN'T go through what I've gone through the last month again for all the money that was ever coined," Charles groaned, sipping his wine absently. "However, the thing can't be undone now."

"Why should it be undone? You have taken a wise and sensible course. You have found a friend who will make everything safe and easy for you. You have seen the newspapers today, for instance?"

"Yes, I have seen them," Charles told him.

"Who is there now to hint at any mystery in connection with the Glenlitten case?" Mr. Felix Main demanded, smiling in his own peculiar fashion. "Since the discovery of the revolver the whole press now takes the affair for granted. Why shouldn't they? Sir Richard Cotton himself knows that it's all U. P. with his client. I heard today in the city—I wouldn't swear it's true, mind, but a man on the force told me—that Sir Richard was throwing up the case, didn't believe in his client any longer, and was angry with him for not having told him the truth."

"I wish he would throw it up," Charles muttered. "I hate the fellow. It gives me the shivers to look at him."

"He is a very clever man, but he is no trouble to you now, Mr. De Suess. There is nothing he can do, no outlet for all the cunning he ever possessed. The jury will take not ten minutes, not five, to deliberate. It will be all over, and then gradually, one at a time, we can dispose of the jewels."

"It's a strange business for you to be in," Charles said suspiciously.

"It is not my business at all," Felix Main assured him. "Only, in my time I have had clients of all sorts, and I have had wonderful bargains brought to me by men who were desperate and had to leave the country. How many brilliants are there in the necklace?"

"Forty-eight."

"You have brought it with you? What better time could there be than now to let me look at it?"

Charles thrust his right hand into his trousers packet, glanced at the blind behind to be sure that it was down, and the Glenlitten necklace, flashing for a moment like a shower of falling water touched by the sunlight, fell upon the table.

Felix Main gasped almost hysterically as he stood there looking at the glittering cascade of priceless gems. His common, pinched little face was transformed, his mouth slipped open, and an unsuspected front tooth appeared. He was breathing quickly, and beads of moisture forced their way out on his forehead. In his eyes there shone the great greed.

"Gawd!" he exclaimed. "My Gawd!"

He passed his fingers over the gems, picked up the necklace and held it, spread it out upon the table again, caressed it, smoothed two of the larger stones with yellow stained fingers. All the time he seemed scarcely conscious of his companion's presence.

"No wonder they made a fuss about it," he said at last. "I've seen a few diamonds; I've never seen any like this."

"Finish looking at it, and let's put it away," Charles suggested nervously. "Some one might ring the bell. Any one could lose their heads with that about."

FELIX MAIN was muttering to himself.

"I've had swell thieves to see me sometimes," he acknowledged, "chaps who if they haven't actually put any one's light out, have knocked them silly and taken the risk of what might happen, but Gawd! a man might commit murder for this—he might indeed, Mr. De Suess. I wouldn't blame any one. I almost feel," he went on, breathing quickly, with one hand upon the largest stone, "that I'd commit murder myself for it."

"Kill me, eh?" Charles grunted.

"No. Kill any one who tried to take it away from us."

Charles rose to his feet. The sight of the necklace seemed to have produced an uneasy effect upon both of them. His own unwholesome complexion seemed to have become a little yellower in tone. He, too, had grown hot, and dabbed his forehead feverishly. His hands were moist and his lips dry.

"Let's get on with this, Main," he insisted. "What I want is money to carry on with—money—I want money every hour. I can't wait until it is safe to sell the big stones. What I thought was I might get half a dozen of the smaller ones out, have them reset, or broken up, and raise something that way."

"Yes," Felix Main muttered absently. "We might do that."

"Listen to me, will you," Charles almost shouted. "Don't stand there looking like a mesmerized rabbit. Listen to me while I tell you what must be done. If you are my partner in this, you must do as I wish."

Felix Main raised his head and glanced at this big, formidable looking young man. Yes, he was tall, and he had great limbs—at one time, without a doubt, huge muscles. Just now he seemed like a windbag, as though one blow in the right place would knock him out. The detective moistened his dry lips.

"Yes, we are partners," he admitted hoarsely. "We will decide together what is best to be done."

"You fool," Charles scoffed, "it is I who will decide. What have you done to be my partner? Nothing yet. You arranged the revolver business, true. I dare say that is all right. You have undertaken to dispose of the diamonds. You haven't done anything about that yet. This is where you are to be tested. If we are partners, tell me what you propose. I want several thousand pounds. I need clothes. I must have an automobile. There is a lady——"

"Yes, I understand," Felix Main interrupted. "Very well, Mr. De Suess, I will tell you what I propose."

He ran over the stones rapidly.

"There are twelve here—beautiful stones," he pointed out, "but not unusual in size, or color, or shape. I propose that I have those twelve taken out, chipped a little—I fear that will be necessary—and deposited with a man I know of. He will ask no questions. He will give me a receipt for them by weight, and he will advance perhaps half their value, which is as much as one can hope for."

"What do you suppose half the value would be?" Charles demanded.

FELIX MAIN brooded for some time longer over the necklace. He touched the stones lovingly one by one.

"They are not the best of the stones," he said. "I think, perhaps, for the twelve, I could get an advance of two thousand pounds. That would be a thousand each."

"I want more than that," was the angry protest. "What do you want an advance for? You're not in need of money, are you? You can take your share when the rest are sold."

Felix Main shook his head.

"In a partnership," he rejoined, "it is better to divide as we sell. Yes, I think so, Mr. De Suess—divide as we sell. You will leave it to me. I will have the necklace broken up. You shall come with me, if you will, to the man who will advance the money, or you shall see his papers. Half of what we get for the twelve stones shall be paid to you at once. Remember, you may have run your risk in getting the necklace, but I will run just as great a one in trying to dispose of it. I doubt whether there is any one else could do it safely for you except me. I am not being overpaid, Mr. De Suess. Pray don't think that. I am afraid of the business, but I cannot refuse it."

"How long will it be before you can get the money?" Charles asked.

"About a week."

The young man bit his nether lip savagely.

"Do you mean," he expostulated, "that I must leave the necklace in your keeping, and get no money for a week?"

Mr. Felix Main extended his hands.

"My dear young friend," he argued, "how else can it be arranged? I have to send a man who works for me down to the East End. I have to go into the workshop and stand over him whilst he takes these stones out. It will cost us £50, perhaps that. When they are safely out, you can have the necklace back, if you wish. If I were you, though, I would have all the stones taken out and have them sealed in a little packet. Then you might put them in a safe deposit. You forget that to be found with the diamonds stolen from Glenlitten, the jewels that were stolen that night, might be as bad for you as the finding of that revolver will be for Max Drayton."

THE young man shivered a little in his chair. There was a venomous gleam in his eyes as he looked toward his companion.

"Mr. Main," he said, "you are not to misunderstand me. I have told you the truth. I stole the necklace. It is my sister's. It was her own fault. She should have provided for us. It is not a great thing, that theft. She would always see to it that I was never charged."

"But the other thing——"

"There was no other thing! Don't imagine for a moment that it was I who shot De Besset. You need never think you have that over me."

Felix Main coughed.

"That's all right, Mr. De Suess," he agreed soothingly. "It isn't my worry, anyway."

"So far as the necklace is concerned," Charles repeated, "I frankly admit that I stole it. My sister has married a very rich man and she has treated us all very badly. I think that she owes us money. I had a chance to get quits by stealing the necklace, and I did it. If at any time the theft were brought home to me, neither you nor I would get into trouble. There would be no prosecution. It would be a family affair, and it would be hushed up. But as regards the murder," Charles concluded, his voice losing a little of its self-assured ring, "that is a different thing. With that I had nothing to do. Nobody could ever connect me with it, anyway."

MR. FELIX MAIN stroked his sandy mustache. His eyes narrowed a little.

"If it makes you feel any better to talk like that, Mr. De Suess," he said, "why, go on as long as you like, only between you and me, is it worth while?"

"I won't have you believe that you've got that over me," Charles shouted. "No, keep your damned wine," he added, as the other approached with the bottle. "No one is going to blackmail me, now or at any other time."

Felix Main was shocked. He very nearly put the bottle down, but Charles, who had apparently changed his mind, held out the glass.

"Blackmail is not a word, Mr. De Suess," his host remonstrated, "to be mentioned between gentlemen. The very idea between us is unthinkable. Your position is a peculiar one, Mr. De Suess. It possesses great possibilities, but you need help. You will need help all the time. You could never have found any one more suitable than I. For one thing, I dislike very much your brother-in-law. I think you and your family are unjustly treated. When a man is unjustly treated he must set the matter right himself. He owes it to himself. A top on your glass, Mr. De Suess."

Charles drained his glass and stood up. His eyes rested covetously upon the necklace.

"I do not like to leave those diamonds with you," he acknowledged bluntly.

"There is no help for it," Mr. Main pointed out. "As a matter of fact it is to your advantage. I shall know how to keep them safely, and as soon as the trial is over and Drayton is hanged we will get to work with the larger stones."

The young man turned away with a little shiver.

"Very well," he muttered. "Remember, I shall want some money on Thursday."

"You shall have some money on Thursday," the detective promised him.

AS soon as his visitor had departed, Felix Main relocked the door. For five minutes he held the necklace in his hand, passing it slowly backwards and forwards, studying every stone. Then he went to the telephone, searched through the book, and rang up Glenlitten house.

"Does his lordship happen to be in this evening?" he inquired of the butler who answered it.

"His lordship is just going out—in the hall now," was the reply.

"Ask him to speak to me for a moment, will you?"

"What name?"

Mr. Felix Main hesitated.

"I am speaking from the criminal investigation department of Scotland Yard," he announced confidentially.

The man withdrew. In a moment Andrew took his place.

"Well, what is it?" he asked.

"Sorry to trouble you, my lord," Felix Main apologized, trying to disguise his voice and make it sound as official as possible, "but we wanted to know the exact amount of the reward offered for the return of the Glenlitten necklace?"

"Any news of it?" Andrew asked quickly.

"Can't go quite so far as that, my lord, but we wish to know the amount of the reward."

"I thought I made that clear when I saw the inspector," was the curt reply. "Ten thousand pounds."

"I am much obliged to you, my lord," Felix Main said and rang off.

He went back to the table. For a long time he stood there, letting the little stream of diamonds pass, one by one, through his fingers. It was not until the hour drew near for his wife's return that he found the heart to part with them. Then he descended the stairs, opened up his office, hid the necklace in a secret cavity of his safe, and went thoughtfully back to his rooms.

The TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

The Horseradish Root, Watercress, and Scallions Are Delights of the Springtime Table.

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

By Jane Eddington.

THE horseradish root is a perfervid thing. It is as sharp as ground mustard, and has as much bite as black pepper, yet it is cool. It has so vigorous a character that the one who must grate it may be compelled to weep as when peeling onions, her eyes being assaulted by the vapors from it. It is even more violent on the tongue.

The real relish value of the grated horseradish root has been but slightly exploited, and as for sauces seasoned with it, these have been chiefly used with homely boiled beef, yet horseradish butter may enhance the finest broiled meat, and grated horseradish frozen with cream may accompany the simpler and finest fish dishes. Its fresh sharpness is gratifying even though its flavor is so mighty strong, pungent, zestful, and tear starting. It is, indeed, a condiment for every meat, and was anciently believed to have great tonic properties. On the whole, we must recognize that it has the vigor of a Sampson as a relish, but that, after all, it has a velvet glove for its iron hand, or one can be easily made for it.

Hardly has the vogue of horseradish root got well established in springtime than along come the greens, the dandelion with its remarkable and gratifying bitter, the mustard with its peculiar pungency when cooked in the pot, and even the weedy horseradish leaf blades, when cooked, are especially favored in mixtures of greens. And there are scores of others which the primitive lovers of earth's bounty gather in the spring fields and the still unplanted home gardens.

In the market there is watercress, so piquantly gratifying as spring approaches, although we have it more or less the winter through under modern conditions. It is a good Irish plant, and, indeed, seems to grow in every narrow rill of water in the British Isles. In some parts of our country there is a cress that grows more like the dandelion, with a spread and not with its feet in water. It is cooked for greens.

A March Seventeenth Salad.

As entertaining a salad as I ever saw had for its base a bed of cress. In this were hard boiled egg whites to look like the bowls of common clay pipes, while the stems were the long white parts of the scallion. No dressing is needed for this save the French. Balls of seasoned cream cheese might replace the egg.

An equally simple and gratifying salad is one of cooked asparagus tips and the raw cress, with French dressing. If we arrange this on a great round plate we may have a winter pear or two, cut fine, mounted in the center. In fact, from this base we may branch out and add bits to taste, like the colorful pimento, etc., but we would recommend that anything like this latter be used as a garnish.

Seedling Cress and Mustard.

No more charming garnish for fine blanched lettuces of all types can be imagined than the little sprouts of mustard and cress, which we can grow in platter gardens lined with Canton flannel. These fine sproutings of cress and mustard seed will grow in a week, and they make delicious sprinklings for our salads and for buttered brown bread sandwiches.

And speaking of sprinklings for salads, there is the pot of chives which is a cut and come again, and, while it is often obtainable in winter, its flavor is most gratifying as a tonic of spring. In one of the novels I read some years ago there was this line: "He passed the buttered bread, sprinkled with green snippings of chives." Snippings of chives are equally good with plain boiled and buttered potatoes and for a little green island in the middle of a bowl of cream of potato soup or even in some other of the other cream soups. If we like butter on a broiled beefsteak, put the lump on and as it melts add some snippings of chives to it. This by no means exhausts the possibilities of the snippings.

It is always delightful to quote Elizabeth Robins Penell on any of the onion family resources. Of chives she says: "Chives for spring: the delicate chives, the long slim leaves, fair to look upon, sweet to smell, sweeter still to eat in crisp green salad. The name is a little poem; the thing itself falls not far short of the divine."

The Self-Dressed Salad.

This salad is not peculiar to spring except that it is so cool and gratifying at this season when we love simplicity in foods perhaps better than at any other season. Rub the bowl with the cut end of a clove of garlic, break into it washed and dried salad greens, sprinkle over these scallions cut in thinnest slices, and then add fresh raw tomato to suit. Sprinkle over a little salt and then add a little oil and toss. The tomatoes of spring are still of that acid type which we get the winter through, and so their juice takes the place of lemon juice or vinegar, and gives us a more genuinely wholesome salad than when the latter is used.

In an ancient herbal there is a description of the onion that ought to fit the present day mood so many people have. It says that onions do "bite and attenuate or make thin," and possess this attenuating quality even after they are boiled, when "they do lose their sharpness." This is eminently true of the little scallions, which, briefly scalded and then gently cooked in a little water with butter to finish, make a most pleasant luncheon and vegetarian meal when served on toast. They are really milder when cooked than asparagus is, and can be served in the same way.

This old author says that the onion does not grow wild as the Roman Pliny said, but we today know Pliny was right. And this author goes back to Theophrastus for classes or different names of onions. This is a delightful thing, that "Enquiry Into Plants," by Theophrastus, in which onion is called a pot herb. If you want to learn something about the autumn pomegranate go to that treatise. An edition of the book with Greek on one page and English on the other is pleasant to hold in the hand.

Horseradish Sandwiches.

For an interesting and piquant sandwich of white bread use a filling of one-fourth grated horseradish root and three-fourths grated American cheese. A cup of this filling would go a long way: One-fourth cup grated horseradish root, three-fourths cup grated American cheese. Cut the bread in the thinnest slices and make an open or closed sandwich or one of stories. To vary this add some mayonnaise dressing and mix with a little shredded lettuce.

If a horseradish root is frozen and then grated you will get none of the eye pain you get otherwise.

Horseradish butter is excellent either with beefsteak or it may be used as a sandwich filling. Braid some grated horseradish with butter, chill it and cut it in slices finally, or make it up in fancy shapes. For garnishing beefsteak or Hamburg cakes, with which latter it is particularly acceptable, mix and blend two ounces of freshly grated horseradish with four ounces of unsalted butter and a few drops of lemon juice. This will keep for some days on ice.

Frozen Horseradish Cream.

The Germans cook fish wonderfully well, bringing the live fish right to their kitchens so that they have it in a form to make it "bleu," and so forth, and it was in Berlin that I got the following recipe which I have always loved to exploit: One-half cup of grated horseradish, one teaspoon sugar, one cup of whipping cream. Grate the root fine and put the amount mentioned on ice. Beat the cream stiff, add the sugar and perhaps a little salt and then fold it into the horseradish which has got well chilled. Put into a small mold with a tight cover after covering it with buttered paper, and bury it in ice and salt as for a mousse for one hour. This is excellent with broiled mackerel.

For grated beet and horseradish relish use one-fourth as much horseradish as of grated cooked beet, adding a bit of salt and only enough vinegar to bind. The mixture should not be wet. Lemon juice may be used instead of vinegar. This will keep for several days in a cool place.

Horseradish is also used in bread sauces, which are then called horseradish sauces. The freshly grated root is better than the jar of horseradish which is more or less vital to those who want cold meats frequently. The jar is frequently found on Lenten luncheon tables and it is quite possible that the eating of it has sometimes been considered a penance.

Mustard Greens.

In some markets the mustard greens appear all winter long, and in most they are found in the springtime. They are rather rank in flavor, but perhaps are all the better tonic for that. They are rather stemmy, also, and this makes them a better roughage than spinach. We recommend them for a first class primitive meal with boiled potatoes—new and buttered are de luxe instead of primitive—boiled pork, corn bread, and some humble dessert.

To prepare the greens, pick them over dry—all greens are most easily prepared if not wet first—and throw each piece, after it is trimmed, into cold water. Wash the whole prepared mass in several waters, lifting them up out of each water into a colander instead of pouring the water from them. Drop the well drained greens into boiling water for five minutes, drain them from that, and rinse thoroughly or so as to cool them. Then cook in water barely sufficient to cover them, and gently. Finally butter them well, and if you want extra seasoning in addition to a little salt shaken over them after they are buttered pour vinegar over the cork of the bottle so as to drop a few drops here and there over all. It is best to try them first without the vinegar and then to add it if you are not satisfied with their flavor.

was hung with clouds of color and light.

Dona? Dona had eloped with the actor. Parke was relieved, it was plain. She had watched him that evening glance over a tabloid's headlines.

He had glanced and then given her a quick side look. Nothing said. His hand presently on hers, close and possessive. She knew very well that he did not care one worthwhile beat of his heart for this mad, bad, silly Dona. Nor for other women, either. He had given her tacit assurances. "Do you know, my dear, I nearly got married more than once? Just pure luck or something warned me to wait. Wait for——" kisses that were quick and passionate—"for you. You sweet, gold haired thing!"

THEY were in his own city car the midnight that Bud almost collided with them. A bright blue chassis darted slantwise of the longer, sleek hooded front. The Parke avenue chauffeur diverged with a scant instant's grace, but much presence of mind.

Parke Morse was no car owner to turn the other cheek. He put his head out the window. "Are you drunk my man? Better sober up—or get your cab back to the barns!"

"Why—you—you——" The hectic Bud's discourteous retort was lost below Fiftieth street. Death may wait; but not the red Go or the green Stop on Fifth avenue.

Well, it had been Bud's fault. Silvia was not sure that Bud had not purposely engineered the near accident. He was not nice tempered. But she could not be sure that she did not misjudge Bud. Possibly he had not recognized her or Parke's car; his uniformed back had been turned to them. In any event, she knew that he would never forgive her that contemptuous "My man!"

At the time she knew; and the next morning she had proof. Past the blue painted, iron grilled windows Bud swaggered, addressing Beth and the other girls. "Say! Tell me! How does it feel, ol' dears, to work alongside royalty?"

"Royalty?" Beth indifferently lowered an ear disc. Had another Russian countess applied at the employes' window?

"Sure. Did you know the city fathers are thinkin' of allowin' certain Long Island grandees to wear purple robes to identify themselves to the common herd?"

The pained color crept into Silvia Bremen's cheeks. Angry color, but pained, too. This was ugly of Bud! Bud, who had sat Saturday mornings in her mother's small dark kitchen and gobbled doughnuts with Carl and Harry!

O, it was ugly and ungenerous of him. But she was conscious that down in her heart something aligned itself with Bud's ranklement. She did not love Bud Bauke. In no case could she ever have come to love him—cheeky, chunky, common, swaggering Bud. But she understood just what he was feeling over Parke's attitude.

Bud continued, in an offensive drawl: "But say, girls, wasn't there once a king that beheaded his wives fast as he married 'em? O, well, beheading's out of style now. They divorce 'em instead."

Silvia ticketed a galosh and pigeonholed a broken string of composition pearls whose faint French scent was expensive.

BUD ran along and a slim young woman whose eyes were turquoises for color and for hard mineral texture came by. "Say, I want to know if a letter was found. That's it! Gray envelope. That's me. Mrs. Melvin Tone. No, the letter isn't to me, but I bought it and paid for it and my lawyer warned me not to lose it. It's all the evidence I got on him." She seemed at once to have placed the slim, gold haired Silvia in her own social and mental stratum, and fit for confidences. "I don't mind telling the world that a girl who marries a rich man is a fool, nowadays." She had sapphire and diamond rings and slipper buckles. "She gets treated like a dog, as soon as he wants to renig! Well, listen, here's one that will pay for his renig complex. Thanks, dear! It certainly is sweet of you people to be so honest and give things back that are found in your taxicabs."

She floated away with satisfaction and a mark in her lower red lip where an anxious tooth had bit. She was followed by a thin, nearsighted, shabby man. He was most anxious.

"It's a package of salmagundi sausage, miss. I got it downtown at a real good shop for a little treat for my wife who ain't been well. You see, I am not the party who engaged the taxi. One of the salesmen was going north and he offered me a lift. Hodgkins is a very friendly chap to everybody, miss. And I don't know what made me so forgetful as to leave it behind when I got out." There was a plain picture of a large, rotund salesman's good nature to the firm's bookkeeper. "O, thank you, miss!" The satisfaction behind steel rimmed glasses over 35 cents' worth of sausage!

Barbs? No—tugs. The small mêlée of happenings tugged at a hitherto unsuspected part of her heart. She tried to forget them. Her attitude was foolish. Why allow alien trifles to mar her lovely joy? She could not understand herself.

Joy? It was silk wrapped, orchid blanketed, luxury swathed joy. The modern age may have its drawbacks, but a gold haired girl who is being courted in New York City by a wealthy young lover whom she loves would have to blink hard to discover them. Night clubs may be bad places, but music and jeweled women and gastronomical delicacies never seem entirely bad to enamoured girl or man.

Silver Dawn . . .

Concerning a horse, a man, and a love one for the other that passeth all understanding . . . A story packed with thrill and heart throb, by Hal Borland,

Next Sunday

Still, Silvia Bremen blinked. She could not rid herself of the feeling that something tugged at her heart. In a small, persistent, interminable way, it tugged. What? And why?

One evening a driving May rain caused the city streets to become gold and silver reflectors. Tires slid along in narrow, brilliant pseudo gutters. Arc lights winked behind bleary rainbow mist covering.

Women in gold slippers and orchid corsages leaned back in cars and found themselves most comfortable. They were little inconvenienced by weather of any kind. Awninged entrances are a modern necessity.

Silvia leaned back—against his arm. Her slippers were gold colored satin. Her corsage was orchids.

Parke snapped his fingers at the chauffeur to indicate a favorable green covered entrance to a bepalmed doorway. "Darling, this bit of pavement doesn't drip."

It was a gay, popular restaurant. A chunky girl with neat hair and a turned up nose checked hats. Parke said carelessly: "Wonder where Mildred went. And I wonder why this type of successor came."

"What," said Silvia, "is wrong with this girl?" For the girl had reminded her at once a little of Mamie. There was the small, unlovely nose and the air of sobriety. That air is the result of an oldest of the family shoulder impacted too sturdily against life.

"Nothing in particular," he said, quite indifferently. "But she's a common type. She lacks the charm and pep usual to check girls."

A tug? No—this time it was a barb! Deep down in her heart. Silvia flared with uncontrollable resentment at his tone. A picture flashed. Chunky, unbeautiful Mamie at her and Parke's elaborate dinner table—and Parke watching Mamie with that detached and quite impersonally critical eye.

IT is possible that small things became much magnified to Silvia. A day later Parke accosted a box office man. "See here, Momberg, what's the idea of telling me that a show is good when it is rotten?" Lordly enough the tone.

Momberg, fat cheeked and thick lipped and important enough, fairly exuded apology. "Mr. Morse, I give you my sacred word of honor that show was a wow the first night, cause a lot of people said so——" But the over-rotogravured Morse eyebrows, black, handsome and supercilious, went high. O, displeased!

It was that same evening that Parke complained, "What's the use of waiting, darling? I don't like the idea of you behind that blue painted window, waiting on a shouting mob. Let's get married tomorrow afternoon—Well, Monday then? Tuesday? Wednesday?"

She was stubborn. No—not so soon! It was Monday morning that Bud's brakes screeched across Thirty-ninth street to intercept her from the subway steps. Another driver anticipated Bud's apparent dart to parking space.

"Where'd you learn to drive, you mut?" demanded Bud.

"Ask me," burbled the other. But Bud gave over the brief enmity to reach Silvia. And he was more bitter than previously. Perhaps because she had turned a slim back to the Blue Paint window whenever he passed.

"Say," he said, as if quite friendly, "what's to do about a wedding present, Silvia? You know, honest, we're all up in the air! Even gold plate don't seem hardly suitable and you'll likely start with plenty that his folks willed him——"

"You're mean, Bud!"

"Maybe," he agreed. "I'm just common, you know." Then he curled a lip. "But I could tell you something about this Parke that'd s'prise you, my girl——"

Silvia would not wait to hear.

"Your own brothers don't know what to give you," he shouted after her.

"What's the idea?" demanded a traffic officer. "Annoying a girl——"

"Annoy her?" bleated the unhappy Bud. "You couldn't annoy her if you used words as caustic as nitric acid!"

"Move on!"

"All right!"

Beth asked Silvia innocently, "Don't get mad, will you? Listen, we all want to see that rose hedge where it grows. Do you suppose, after you're married, he'd mind if you asked us out some Sunday afternoon——"

"No! He'd not mind!"

"He might at that." Beth's voice was shrewd. "But we won't care if he acts condescending toward his wife's friends——"

"He won't!"

Between a Bronx maid's plush orchid corsage and a Wall street man's Russian leather cardcase, Silvia had a high color and an unsteady lip. Her head ached. There was a confused blur of pictures; her father bringing home imported sausage from downtown and vastly pleased because the assistant head of his department had given him a lift in his car; Mary Bremen sewing late at night; a roomer who left because the quilts were too patched; Carl working nights in a garage and going to school; Mamie pinching dimes to get one tiny crêpe de chine dress for her second baby—and Parke snapping long white power-and-position fingers at Bud, lifting supercilious displeased eyebrows at Momberg; damning a little homely girl with his faint praise.

In his office, too. O, there was a magnificent suite of Morse offices. The Morse money did not grow on bushes. Real estate, rents, interest and commissions ministered to its growth. Railroads contributed to it. Wall street fed it. And it fed a steel factory and a motor manufactory.

Silvia had been twice in that suite. Parke had stopped for telegrams, and he had shown an open pride in introducing his city view and his desks to her. With his arm about her at a window, he had snapped in displeasure at a white mustached employé who entered the room without knocking.

"What's the idea, Blaine? Forgotten your manners?"

Once Carl had said the same to Bob, bursting in on Carl and Elsa kissing in the small, dark Bremen parlor. But that was different. O, vastly different.

IT was a silver raining midnight, in a taxicab, that she told him that she would not marry him. Why? O, because she did not think they would be h-happy——

He had uttered that first "Why?" involuntarily, hardly believing his own ears. Her voice was so sweet and quiet. Then he saw that her eyes were strained and she bit a lower lip heroically.

"Why?" he demanded with heat. "Why, Silvia, this is a pure joke! You love me—and I love you—and there isn't a bar in the world between us——"

Not a bar. But little tugs whose cause she hardly understood. No, it wasn't just his money. Yes—she loved him. No—she would not be happy without him. And she would never marry any one else. The luster had gone from her eyes, from her gold colored hair. It lay flat and lifeless to her small, tense head. Her sooty colored eyelashes were listless.

Afterward a taxicab driver said he made twelve trips around the park while the two argued. "But what—what can't I give you?" demanded the man over and over again, in sheer dazement.

"It's—we don't belong to the same class," she said. It might have sounded theatrical or thin of meaning except for her wretched eyes. The sooty lashes became wet with tears.

"I don't believe," he said, as if suddenly enlightened, "that you know who I am, Silvia!"

"O, yes, I read the papers," she said, attempting a miserable little smile of commonplaceness.

"O, papers." He snapped his fingers. "The last four or five years, I daresay. But the papers omit so much." And arrogantly, and with bravado, he told her what she had not read in the papers.

Silvia began to cry. "O, I don't believe you."

"A wife's own speech!" He laughed and gathered her into his arms—where she had not been for nearly two hours. "Going to marry me now?"

"Yes."

TOWARD five o'clock Grandma Juswig is wakeful. She likes, too, to sit on the doorstep of the hall when the other tenants are not about.

There she sat when the taxicab deposited Silvia at the home curb. Milkmen were about, and a pink dawn.

"This is a scandalous hour for a girl to get home," she said, genially. "But, with night clubs and all, times have changed for girls. I don't know as they have changed as much, though, as folks yap they have. Was that chap that Parke Morse that brought you home? Did I ever tell you his grandfather belonged to the Galloway gang? A real fighty man he was. Lost his two ears and a great chunk out of his chin in a fight I mind me well. He was a canny man, which was more than a body could say of most of his gang. He bought a sandy acre out on Long Island. You wouldn't believe it, but land was cheaper out there in that time than hot dogs are today at Coney. I kinda lost track of him and his children after they moved away—'twas when his wife said she was through with him if he was not through with fighting, and the police force increasin' every year and clubbin' fighters something cruel. But I heard he got real rich before he died, and then some one told me this young chap in the supplements was the grandson."

"I know," said Silvia, in a lilty way. "I know!"

"And it's a good thing he's one of your own class and can't be throwing up to ye that your grandparents ain't as good as his own," declared Grandma Juswig. "I mind when the Bullig boy married a girl from uptown and she didn't treat his mother right because the old soul couldn't speak English proper."

"Today," confided Silvia joyously, "I am going to marry him!"

Down the street careened Bud. He was mad. His brakes screeched at sight of Silvia.

"Say, you tell him to tell his own chauffeur to learn how to take a corner! Just now it wasn't my fault. And maybe I ain't as rich as he is, but I won't be bawled out by any man——"

"Forget it, Bud," advised Silvia friendly.

"Say, I won't forget nothing! And if he was the real goods, I might take it! But I could tell you something."

"O, no," said Silvia sweetly. "I know the worst! And you are a careless driver, Bud Bauke!" she said severely. "And some day you won't be told—you'll be subpœned. You can," she added radiantly, "buy a wedding present for me today. Don't be too particular—because I won't, and Parke won't!"

"Happiest Girl in Illinois"

So many mothers nowadays talk about giving their children fruit juices, as if this were a new discovery. As a matter of fact, for over fifty years mothers have been accomplishing results far surpassing anything you can secure from home prepared fruit juices, by using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup, which is prepared under the most exacting laboratory supervision from ripe California figs, richest of all fruits in laxative and nourishing properties.

It's marvelous to see how bilious, weak, feverish, sallow, constipated, undernourished children respond to its gentle influence; how their breath clears up, color flames in their cheeks, and they become sturdy, playful, energetic again. An Illinois mother, Mrs. H. W. Laun, 6314 Parnell Ave., Chicago, says: "My little daughter, Lois, became so constipated that I was badly worried. Then we decided to give her some California Fig Syrup. It stopped her constipation quick; and the way it improved her color and made her pick up made me realize how run-down she had been. She is so sturdy and well now, and always in such good humor that neighbors say she's the happiest girl in Illinois."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is imitated, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

"I Could Cry Over My Skin"

"That's what I used to say—the pimples and blackheads were so bad and my skin used to itch so terribly. But when I tried Rowles Mentho Sulphur I noticed a wonderful change overnight. It wasn't long before my skin was perfectly clear and healthy looking." Sulphur is a remarkable thing for clearing the skin, and as sulphur clears it, menthol soothes and heals the sore, broken tissue. This twofold action of sulphur and menthol is what skin troubles need, and this is what you get in Rowles Mentho Sulphur. Pimples, acne, rash and even fiery eczema yield to this combination. Try it in your own case and see how soft, clear and white your skin becomes. Be sure it's Rowles Mentho Sulphur you get.

HER DREAM A REALITY

HOW TO USE THE PATTERNS

AN entirely new apron design, having a triple tiered skirt, is shown in pattern No. 3328, and one clever detail is that it is cut entirely in one piece. It is easily made and would be a charming gift for a friend who does some of her own work. Perforated lines show where the material is to be cut through, gathering the bottom edges of each cut place and joining to the upper cut edges. The extended edges of the ruffles are left free, giving the tiered effect.

Straps are sewed to the shoulder seams, crossing in the back and buttoning to the tab extensions at the waistline. A sash of the apron material is attached to the tabs, tying in a bow in the center back. Binding all the edges with something contrasting will make an unusually pretty apron.

Printed sateen, cotton broadcloth in pastel shades, lovely English prints, plain gingham, and candy striped percale are serviceable materials.

Pattern No. 3095 is for a darling dress for small girls—just the kind of sewing every woman loves doing. There are two main parts to the dress, the front and the back. Then there is the pretty round collar and the pattern provides for full length or short sleeves.

For playtime, chambray in pale blue, pink, or tan, or one of the plain French ginghams in any of the delicate shades, make up beautifully, while for dressier occasions there are the beautiful handkerchief linens, crêpe de chines, and plain or flowered organdys.

After the shoulder and under arm seams are finished the front and back are gathered at the neck between perforations. The back of the dress is slashed down from the neck in the center and the slashed edges are bound and finished for closing. The small, round collar finishes the neck perfectly. The bottom of the dress is finished with a deep hem and the full length sleeves are gathered into fitted wristbands. The short sleeves are gathered on the lower edges and set into narrow bands—making these small sleeves puff prettily.

Featherstitching in white on any of the colors suggested makes a most attractive finish, and on these small garments the single stitch should be used, and it should be uniform in size and very small. This could be used around the edges of the collar, the sleeve bands, and the hem. A felled seam makes the best finish for these dainty dresses, and the felling should be done by hand. The first stitching can be done on the machine, if you desire.

Pattern No. 2621 is just the thing for one of those lovely sheer woolens, trimmed with faille silk crêpe. This is a new daytime model of real distinction and should be becoming to most women. The back of this dress is cut in one piece and the front in two. The front skirt section is pressed into plaits at each side of the center, and these add much to the gracefulness of the dress when walking. Of course, these plaits are laid and basted in place from top to bottom before joining it to the front waist section, and these bastings should be left in until the last thing.

As you can see, the front is cut in a square outline at the neck and a band of the faille set on. Then the rippling jabot revers that are shaped into a collar across the back of the dress are made and set on. These jabots extend to the waistline and the narrow belt of the dress material covers the ending. The full length sleeves are gathered at the wrists into narrow, fitted bands. Of course, the hem at the bottom of the dress is put in by hand. Altogether, the dress is an easy one to make and should be a great favorite. It measures at the bottom, for size 36, about 1⅝ yards.

Patterned or plain wool jersey, homespun, wool crêpe, wool challis, heavy flat crêpe are popular fabrics crêpe satin, Canton faille crêpe, and for all day wear.

2621—Woman's dress. Sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 40 inch material with 1½ yards of braid.

3328—Woman's and miss' apron. Sizes small, medium and large. The medium size requires 1½ yards of 40 inch material with 12 yards of binding.

3095—Child's dress. Size ½, 1 and 2 years. The 1 year size requires 1 yard of 40 inch material.

Dressing Tables to Delight a Woman's Heart

Simple or Elaborate, There Is a Type for Every Taste and the Ones Pictured Are Compact Enough to Fit in Small Space

By WillElla De Campi.

IN this age of limited spaces, we find it expedient to resort to many combination rooms. To begin with, there is an ever increasing demand for the one room apartment, which serves all purposes. Then we have the living-dining rooms, the kitchen-breakfast rooms, and so forth.

Not many homes, nowadays, can afford separate space for the dressing room, so we compromise by having a bath-dressing room. Practically every bathroom has some possibility of accommodating a dressing table, even if it be only a small shelf, extending into the room from the window sill. I recently saw such an arrangement which was most charmingly effective. On the window sill was placed a standing mirror, in a frame painted ivory. A pair of ivory pottery lamps, with mauve shades, comb, brush, hand mirror, and various decorative jars and bottles stood on the shelf. A convenient little stool slid under the shelf when not in use.

Figure 1, shows a delightful French poudreuse which stands before a group of three windows in a fairly large bathroom. Compartments are of ample size to hold all the toilet requisites. The lamps are made of silver candlesticks, electrically equipped and fitted with parchment shades. An accompanying chair of French design is upholstered in tiny flowered glazed chintz. Curtains of ivory net, gathered on rods at top and bottom of the windows, are most satisfactory, as the light coming through them is not in any way distorted. Good lighting is essential to good makeup.

Exceptionally well suited to use in the small bathroom of a modern apartment is the dressing table arrangement shown in Figure 2. Recessed shelves and mirror are set into the wall like a cabinet, but the door, instead of opening from the side, as cabinet doors usually do, drops down to make a shelf-table. Drawers above and below are a decided convenience. An electric light in the panel above the cabinet has a parchment shade in natural color, decorated with a fish scale pattern. Electric plugs are opportunely placed for attaching hair dryers, curling irons and other appliances. The little moderne chair is upholstered in beige velveteen.

There is nothing startlingly new about the petticoated table, but this style is still dear to the hearts of both young and old. Now that there are so many waterproof and steamproof fabrics on the market, the flounced dresser may safely be placed in the bathroom. The one illustrated in Figure 3 is especially pleasing. Rubberized silk in turquoise blue is used for the flounce. There is a shower curtain to match, and the triple mirror on the dresser has its frame of unfinished wood covered with the same material.

Wall paper above the ivory tiling shows a flowered pattern on a peach colored ground. There are touches of turquoise, mauve and green in the design, and the paper is shellacked, of course. A well placed droplight has a peach colored shade, lined with ivory and bound with turquoise. Completing the unit are a little maple bench and a hooked rug.

Happily suited to a corner, where it may be easily tucked in, is the dressing table in Figure 4. Three drawers and two cupboards afford ample storage space for all of the necessaries. On top of the center mirror is placed an electric light in a dull silvered fixture. The dressing table is painted jade green, decorated with silver lines. Tiling is pale yellow and the upper walls are a trifle lighter. Window curtains are of soft coral colored organdy. The little chair is upholstered in jade green rep, piped with coral, and there is a black and green washable rug on the floor.

In the Feminine Realm

Dr. Clara Campoamor, a prominent editor and a noted authority on international law, is the first woman lawyer of Madrid, Spain.

The highest representative office of the Austrian Republic is held by a woman, Mme. Olga Rudel Zeynek, newly elected president of the Union council of Austria.

For the second time since its organization in 1883 the National Puzzlers league has a woman as president. She is Mrs. J. F. Kobin of Camden, N. J.

Mme. Jeanne Lavigne, who is preparing to celebrate her 106th birthday at Flagy, France, claims to have never been outside her native town.

To take care of her varied interests, Mrs. Herbert Hoover employs two secretaries, Miss Ruth Fessler and Miss Mildred Hall, one of whom accompanies her on all trips.

The Medaille d'Hygiene Publique was awarded to Maj. Julia C. Stimson, superintendent of the army nurse corps; Miss Clara D. Noyes, national director of nursing service, American Red Cross; Miss Annie W. Goodrich, director of the school of nursing at Yale university, and Miss Anna Caroline Maxwell, a nurse in New York City, by the French government, for "conspicuous contributions to the advancement of the nursing profession."

Clean Kidneys By Drinking Lots of Water

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, and bladder irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then be fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure any one; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

An Open Letter to Young Mothers

By Gladys Huntington Bevans

THIS is the end of Contributors' Week. All the good material that came in from readers could not be used this week, either because of lack of space or for some other reason. But much of it was so valuable that I shall try to use it from time to time in the daily column. Allow me to present the last selection of a Sunday article by E. F. M.:

"There are some things about little children that affect me so strongly it just hurts. Mismanagement is one, or maybe I should say foremost. The other day you told mothers never to tell their children they are naughty, and I would like to go a step farther by saying, 'Mothers, stop thinking your small children are naughty.' If your child is doing the same things your neighbor's child is doing he isn't naughty; he is perfectly normal, and should be treated as such.

"My husband and I are attempting to put that theory into practice with our 2 year old daughter, and as it has worked so far maybe you would like to hear about it. We treat our baby as a little individual with thoughts, feelings, and reactions similar to ours. We watch each new development very closely, treating it as a normal growth, and try our best to meet the issue with help and direction. For instance, when our baby came to the 'grabbing age' we didn't have any 'hand spatting' time, nor did we keep saying: 'Naughty baby, no, no, no!' We made ourselves be patient and explained to her that such things as the bronze candlestick with the blue candle in it was not hers and must not be touched. Then we would divert her attention some way by saying, perhaps, 'But here is your tinkle bell. It is yours. See how hard you can ring it.'

"Of course, one telling wasn't sufficient. In fact, it took many, many tellings, but finally she learned that what wasn't hers she mustn't touch, and now all we need to say is, 'O, that isn't yours. It belongs to mother or daddy.'

The Climbing Age.

"When she reached the climbing age we realized she needed the exercise, so I vacated my kitchen table. That became her roost, and is yet. She climbs all over it at will, and the dining room table, buffet, and piano have completely lost their allurement.

"Then she was possessed for a while to open drawers and relieve them of their contents. So I emptied two kitchen drawers, leaving in only such attractive utensils as an egg beater, measuring cup, and potato masher. Those drawers are hers to do with as she pleases, and the other drawers remain unmolested.

"Now she has reached the helping age and is under my heels every minute. But how she does love to 'help mudder.' When I wash the dishes, she stands on a chair beside the sink with her rubber apron on, washing and rewashing her aluminum tea set. When I clean the house, she helps with her little sweeper, broom, and dust mop. When I make the beds—well! I found she wasn't a whole lot of help straightening out the wrinkles in the sheets, so we have a romp on the beds first, then she makes her dolly bed all up fresh and smooth, while I make the big beds.

Keep Them Happy.

"Naughty? I say no, no, no. They have to learn what's what and how's how and they don't learn it all in a minute. But keep little children in a healthy, peaceful, loving atmosphere and they are happy as the day is long. And just think a moment—did you ever see a happy child, really naughty?

"Would you care for a few suggestions I find help me over hard moments? When you've been outdoors and your child isn't ready to come in when it's time, say, 'O, come on, let's go marching, left, right—or skipping or dancing.' You'll find, I think, they'll dance right into the house, and forget all about balking.

"Or when dressing them and they wiggle, wiggle till the buttons just won't fasten, start singing almost any jingle. Often I sing about what we're doing, 'This is the way we put on your shoes,' etc. Then when your child has been playing alone for a long time and comes to you with—well—you know the look: 'I'm tired and lonesome—wish some one would play with me,' do you help her out? No matter how busy I am I say, 'O, let's get Bubbies and take her riding in your dolly buggy. I'll say, 'How-do-you-do' and 'good-by' every time you walk past me. Or 'Let's have a band. You play your drum, and mother will sing.'

"Last of all—next time when you are busy getting the evening meal, every one is tired, cross, and hungry, and things get on your nerves so you want to yell, 'O, get out of here and leave mother alone,' don't say it. Instead, snatch your baby up in your arms, hold her very tight and think, 'You poor babykins—you have so many things to learn and we expect so much of you.' The child will respond immediately to the embrace and you'll get all calmed down inside, yourself. I know it works. I've tried it."

In the Feminine Realm

During the 40 years she was a "postman," Miss Mary Clay, of Flintshire, England, walked more than 200,000 miles.

Mrs. B. Binns, wife of the rector of Markham Square church in London, England, assists her husband in the ministry. She occupies the pulpit Sunday evenings, while the Rev. Mr. Binns occupies it during the morning services.

Paying a visit to a five and ten cent store, and making several sixpenny [15 cent] purchases was the recent activity of Queen Mary, while on a shopping tour in Bognor, England.

Mrs. Kate A. Sutton of Providence, R. I., is in direct charge of the operation of a fleet of tugs which has been operating in Providence harbor and upper Narragansett bay for more than half a century.

Although she weighs only 95 pounds, Mrs. Ida Duckett of College Corner, O., earns a livelihood by working a team of horses. She wears overalls when doing general teaming and hauling work.

Lady Eileen Orde, daughter of the duke and duchess of Wellington, is an exceptionally clever artist. She lost the use of her hands through illness, and learned to hold the paint brush in her mouth, decorating beautiful screens and paneling a whole room in strikingly original designs.

Spring Opening—SALE of COATS

FOREMOST STYLES, FABRICS, FURS! SUPREME VALUES

$24.50 $34.50 $44.50

HOW individual in styling are the spring coats! So casual in feeling! So feminine in line! It's the soft tailoring that makes them different . . . the absence of severity. Supple, smooth fabrics . . . basket weave, tweed, broadcloth . . . are used because they lend themselves to the "dressmaker" touches of the mode . . . the little godets, the capes, the intricate seamings. Flat furs . . . galyak* and American broadtail* . . . are favored because they can be treated like fabrics . . . for scarfs, bows, and ties.

Never Before Has THE FAIR Shown Such a Beautiful Range of Spring COATS at Such Appealing Prices

VOGUE! VALUE! VARIETY! In vogue . . . complete! The best of what Paris sponsors for coats. In value . . . the utmost! We've planned for months to make it that. In variety . . . unequalled! Sizes for every woman and miss. Models for every occasion. Every fabric, fur, and color.

At $24.50 . . .

Throw collars give the air of nonchalance for spring. Other styles achieve distinction with ingenious seamings and tuckings on back, cuffs, or pockets. Monkey, red fox, and American broadtail are their most beautiful furs. Sizes 14 to 18, 35 to 48, and 13 to 19.

At $34.50 . . .

Featherlight and soft are the tweeds, basket weaves, broadcloths and kashas that mould the fashionable silhouettes of this group of coats. Satin and kasha are a smart combination. Furs are treated in striking new ways. All sizes. Middy blue and sun-tans!

At $44.50

These gorgeous coats wear collars and capes of many shapes and sizes . . . the throw collar, the high standing collar, the Paquin collar, the fur shawl collar, the split cape . . . even the rever. Galyak, fitch, baronduki*, mole and many other luxurious furs add distinction to their simple lines. Sizes 14 to 18, 36 to 48.

Stage Thriller Not So Thrilling On the Screen

"On Trial" Would Be Better If Brighter.

"ON TRIAL."

[You see stars. One star preceding a review means just another movie; two stars, fairly good; three stars, excellent; four stars, extraordinary.]

Produced by Warner Brothers. Directed by Archie Mayo. Presented at the Chicago theater.

THE CAST.

Joan Trask.....Pauline Frederick
Robert Strickland.....Bert Lytell
May Strickland.....Lois Wilson
Gerald Trask.....Holmes Herbert
Mr. Gray, Prosecutor.....Richard Tucker
Mr. Arbuckle, Defense.....Jason Robards
Stanley Glover.....Johnny Arthur
Doris Strickland.....Vondell Darr

Clerk.....Fred Kelsey
Judge.....Edmund Breese
Jr. Morgan.....Edward Martindel

By Mae Tinee.

GOOD morning!

The two questions which provide momentum for the action of "On Trial" are:

1. Who killed Gerald Trask?
2. What became of the $20,000?

PAULINE FREDERICK as the widowed Mrs. Trask.

The prisoner at the bar is Robert Strickland.

Mr. Strickland [his right arm in a sling—NOTE that fact!—it has bearing on something that occurs later] has plead guilty to the murder, NOT guilty to the theft, and otherwise maintains a stubborn silence that is the despair of his eager young attorney.

Mrs. Strickland has been mysteriously missing since the night of the murder. Mrs. Trask, who was present when it occurred, is chief witness for the prosecution. Everything moves in oiled grooves for said prosecution until Doris Strickland, aged 10 or so, daughter of the defendant, is unexpectedly called to the stand.

From then on developments are startling and unusual, to say the least.

The action is staged in the courtroom of Judge Dinsmore. As witnesses testify flashbacks detail their various stories.

Words and Music.

All of this, you will readily comprehend, provides considerable thrill and suspense for the onlooker. It is a pity that some obvious theatricalism and apparent ignorance on the part of the director as to certain phases of courtroom procedure should blur the picture's excellencies.

Also, one listens impatiently to bursts of music that intrude without reason. When Warner Brothers recover from the notion that a talking film must have, willy nilly, orchestral accompaniment, they will put out far more effective photoplays.

You will find yourselves much impressed by the work of Pauline Frederick [Mrs. Trask], Lois Wilson [Mrs. Strickland], Richard Tucker [prosecuting attorney], Edmund Breese [judge], Johnny Arthur, who, as a feisty little valet has one smashing scene toward the end of the picture, and Vondell Darr as Doris Strickland. This is a charming child with possibilities. But she was overdirected and her lines padded beyond the point of sincerity.

Franklin Pangborn as a juryman and Edward Martindell as a doctor are real. Jason Robards as attorney for the defense gives a conscientious performance.

They Fail to Convince.

To me, Bert Lytell as Strickland and Holmes Herbert as Trask appeared as actors—nothing more.

The film should [I think] have been a couple of reels shorter.

"On Trial" is an adaptation of the stage play by Elmer Rice. It has been splendidly staged and photographed.

Its denouement will charm all "happy ending" fiends.

Bits aBOUTem.

PALM BEACH has been chosen as the place for the premiere of "Show Boat," the Universal picture adapted from Edna Ferber's novel. Tickets—$5 a head.

BACLANOVA, who sings so efficiently [if mechanically] in "The Wolf of Wall Street," will favor with four Russian melodies in her coming audible film, "The Woman Who Needed Killing." [There's a title for you!] One is reminded that the lady was, at one time, an opera singer with the Moscow Art theater.

RONALD COLMAN cracked a rib, sprained a knee, and, it is reported, suffered a number of bruises during his struggles with the thugs of "Bulldog Drummond." He's recovering.

* *

GEORGE JESSEL is to make another picture for Tiffany-Stahl. Name hasn't been announced. Talking and singing production. Hope it's better than his last.

* *

NAZIMOVA is to make talking pictures for Columbia, it is reported.

Critic Calls "White Lilacs" Near-Chopin

By Edward Moore.

IT is a curious fashion, this recent habit of making a famous composer the hero of a musical comedy. Apparently it developed in Germany. There was "Das Dreimaederlhaus," which became greatly popular in America as "Blossom Time," telling, or pretending to tell, about the life of Franz Schubert; there is now "White Lilacs"—I do not know its original German name—telling, or pretending to tell, about the life of Frédéric Chopin.

The qualification is necessary, for any one afflicted with Pitti-Sing's taste exact for faultless fact can shoot either one of these versions full of holes. There is the musical number at the beginning of the third act of "White Lilacs," for example. It is programmed as "A-Flat Polonaise," which in itself suggests a certain degree of broadmindedness in proof reading, and played, at least the first and last parts are played, by Vernon Rudolf, who represents the character of Franz Liszt. In his black coat and reversed white collar he supposedly indicates Liszt's affiliations with the church. However, Liszt did not take the orders of an abbé until 1865, sixteen years after Chopin's death.

More Chopin Would Help.

A small point, interesting only to the purists, and making not the slightest difference to any detail of the plot. It is cited only because it is symbolical of the whole treatment. For the six or eight Chopin pieces quoted in the progress of the play are in no case more than partly quoted and they are frequently interspersed with notes that Chopin may and may not have considered while he was composing, but certainly left out of his scores when he had them published.

Again, it is a small matter. Un-

'Conflict,' New Post-War Play, Defies Critics

Will Stand Alone Because of Its Honesty.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK. — [Special Correspondence.]—The author of a new post-war play called "Conflict" is, like Brutus, so strongly armed in honesty that he does not have to worry greatly about the lighter criticisms of his play.

It is a great help in playwriting, this virtue of honesty. I marvel that more playwrights do not embrace it. Probably 80 per cent of the dramas written are conscious or unconscious imitations of other dramas seen in a theater. The life and characters they imitate may have truth in them, but by the time it is strained through many molds it is pretty sadly weakened.

"Conflict" has been written, I am willing to believe, from the personal observations and convictions of its author. He is Warren F. Lawrence, whose brother Vincent, also a playwright, is better known to the theater through such contributions as "In Love With Love," "Two Married Men," and "Spring Fever."

Mr. Lawrence has taken the returned soldier as his study; not the lad who came from over there embittered and resentful, nor yet he who hoped and expected to capitalize the shouting and the tumult that were raised in his honor. He considered the case of the boy who was a clerk when he was drafted, who went to war and became something of a hero, and who found to his confusion when he got back that living up to the honors and decorations of a hero was not easy for

D'ARTAGNAN AGAIN!

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

PERPETUAL youth and motion in the person of Mr. Douglas Fairbanks returns to the screen after a long absence, in "The Iron Mask," now playing at the United Artists' theater. The picture is a sequel to "The Three Musketeers" and in it the star is, again, D'Artagnan.

This and That Thing About the Theater

And This Means About the Actors, Also.

By Frederick Donaghey.

OTIS SKINNER, idle since he was with Mrs. Fiske and Miss Henrietta Crosman in "The Merry Wives of Windsor," is bulletined to appear in April in the Harris in something new from abroad called "One Hundred Years Old." However, since there is talk of transferring "This Year of Grace" to a theater larger than the Harris, Mr. Skinner may be brought to that house in direct succession to "The Royal Family," the run of which is to end, by present arrangement, the 13th. . . . Mr. Skinner is under the management of Gilbert Miller, who not so long ago averred that he would no longer produce plays in this country, owing to the prohibitive cost of failure and the small reward of success, but that he would put on new works in London, and bring them here only when so successful there that his expectation of profit in this country would be reasonable. . . . And Mr. Miller now states that he has such high expectation of the success of "Journey's End," which he is to submit to New-York late this week, that he has tentative plans for giving the play by not fewer than ten casts!

"Jarnegan" will probably be moved from the Woods into the Selwyn after "White Lilacs," the stay of which will end, it is thought, April 6. At any rate, the Woods will be required the 7th for a movie, "Noah's Ark."

Nothing is yet formally announced for the Great Northern after "Music in May," which will be taken on tour at the end of this week. . . . The Grand Opera-House will be shuttered until April 7, when George White's Scandals will be seen in a new issue: new, that is, in Chicago. . . . And relief for the Princess, "dark" most of the current season, is not in sight. The problem of keeping the theaters open seems to be increasingly vexatious.

Mr. Ziegfeld is quoted as saying that he will not bring "The Three Musketeers" into the Illinois after "Rosalie," and that, instead, he will soon shut down the former piece, whereof Dennis King is the star.

One of the Stock-Pots.

When the management of the Goodman Memorial put off "The Critic" from Monday to Tuesday, I was thrown out of schedule for the week, the house had been taken by a fraternity for Tuesday, so that the reporters were asked to defer their inspection of the old farce until Wednesday, a night for which I had obligations that were binding. So, as yet, I have not seen "The Critic" in revival, and am without information regarding the venture beyond what I read in the reporting of my colleagues. I trust the performance is as good as they say it is; for this Regency Hoakum is a play that holds a measure of my personal affection.

In the theatricals at college, I used to appear as Mr. Puff in the farce; and I have ever since believed that I could easily have directed a rehearsal without reference to the text, so keen is my memory of those sophomore performances. That the play has not been used professionally in recent years is due, I believe, to the circumstance that its fun and its notions have been made familiar in more modern entertainments. I have easy recollection of entire scenes from "The Critic" in recent plays and shows: that the authors do not give credit to Sheridan is due, I believe, to the fact that the authors do not know he conceived the stuff. Of course, he took his notion from Shakspere and "A Midsummer-Night's Dream": all the rehearsal-scenes that call for forthright buffoonery derive from "Pyramus and Thisbe" as presented to the Athenian court by Bottom and the other "base mechanicals."

The only professional performance of "The Critic" I have seen was put on years ago by Augustin Daly, who used some of the scenes and called them "A Tragedy Rehearsed," which is the sub-title of the farce. Ada Rehan was the Tilburnia then; and I recall that Henry E. Dixey, acting Puff, made up as Svengali and, posing Miss Rehan as Trilby, evoked some laughter from the fact that Du-Maurier's novel was then at the height of its vogue, although the dramatization of the novel, with Wilton Lackaye as Svengali, had not yet been staged.

Miscellany.

The first performance of "The Black Crook" in Hoboken ran until 1:55 a. m.; and that is said to be the Hoboken record. However, statistics are that a Ziegfeld Follies ran beyond that time—until 2:02 a. m., at which moment the curtain was unexpectedly dropped and the audience dismissed," although the show was still short of some scenes listed in the playbill. . . . Report is that the revival of "The Black Crook" is a freak success.

And, speaking of those shows put on to catch the laughter of that growing body of persons who consider themselves to be smart and wise—the self-styled "sophisticates," that is—"Fashion; or, Life in New-York," has recently been revived in London as a joke, although the records indicate that it was given there years ago as a serious effort in American playwriting. . . . It was disinterred two years ago over in the Goodman Memorial, it may be recalled.

It is settled that Albert Carroll and Miss Dorothy Sands, who were so good last December in the issue of the Grand-Street Follies given in the Garrick, are to go into a new issue

Chicago Gangland

The True Story of Its Murders, Its Vices, and Its Reprisals

Machine Guns End Career of Hymie Weiss

This is the seventh article of a series on the gangsters of boozedom and what they have done to Chicago. In previous installments Mr. Bennett has told the stories of Dean O'Banion, Johnny Torrio, the Gennas, and other notorious hoodlums.

OF all the crimes of Chicago boozedom the slaying of "Little Hymie" Weiss was at once the boldest and the most mysterious until the ghastly St. Valentine's day of this year when boozedom set seven of Hymie's successors against a wall and machine gunned them to death à la Mex.

Here you have all the elements of incredible melodrama. Now for the first time the machine gun placed in ambuscade is brought into play in gang warfare. Long and pitiless vigil is kept in order to exterminate a gang leader. His lair—called by him and his co-criminals "business headquarters"—is overlooked by the armed killers from two perfect points of vantage. Escape for the victim is impossible. The escape of the killers after they have done the deed seems impossible, but it is not. Amid the panic created by their fusillade they scurry through alleys less than a mile from the city hall of the fifth city of the world and vanish in broad daylight.

To this day—two years and a half after the murder—the identity of "Little Hymie's" killers remains a mystery, although police and reporters who worked on the case speak of it in their offhand, knowing way as "a crime of the Capone gang."

* *

Mystery and Muddling.

That is one of the strange phases of gang crime. Unofficially many know much; officially they are "hopelessly baffled," with the result that not a legal wheel turns to any purpose.

Nobody was prosecuted for killing Hymie. Two years and a half after the murder the most vivid memorial of it is the scarred corner stone of the cathedral of a cardinal archbishop. On it the curious pause to puzzle out these shattered words:

EVERY KNEE SHOULD HEAVEN AND ON EARTH.

The English translation of the Vulgate's version of the words which St. Paul wrote to the Philippians is "At the name of Jesus every knee should bow in heaven and on earth."

Literally, you see, gangdom shot piety to pieces in Chicago.

The Pieties of Gangdom.

And yet Little Hymie, bootlegging gangster, suspect in safecrackings and jewel robberies, ward heeler, election terrorist, and convicted hijacker though he was, went in for piety in his casual way. Of the vivid recollections of his followers one is that "he was always fingering his rosary. He was like Terry Druggan that way. Once when Terry hijacked a truckload of booze that two Jews were driving he kept the Jews on the load at the point of a pistol. All of a sudden the load is passing a church and Terry says: 'Take off your hats, you Jews'"—here the reader can take for granted a sickening blast of foul words—"'don't you see you're passing a church!'"

Rich and successful as he was—his reputed fortune was a million three hundred thousand, but it did not come true when his strong boxes were opened—Hymie had a premonition that he would come to an unsuccessful end.

A young acquaintance of mine, who was driving a truck for a legitimate business, was irked by his heavy toil and light pay as contrasted with the way—as he had special opportunity to observe—the money rolled in on gangdom. So one night he remarked to Hymie, "Jese! I'd like a cut in with you. It's coming awful easy for you!"

Hymie's Premonition.

A morose shadow flitted across Hymie's face, and he replied:

"I'll trade places with you."

That, if you'll believe it, was said only two days before Hymie Weiss fell dead at the hands of gangdom with ten machine gun bullets in his body.

The lesson was not lost on my young acquaintance. He is still going straight and he takes his wages home to his mother.

Weiss' name will live in the black lexicon of crime because he invented the phrase "take him for a ride."

When the gang suspected a fellow gangster of treachery he was lured into "taking a ride." He was given the front seat in the automobile, the back of his head thus being convenient to the killers on the rear seat. Experienced killers of gangdom always say that the back of the head is the best place to fire at because then the bullet does not "take a course"—that is, deflect from a vital spot.

Weiss was of Polish birth. His real name was Wajciechowski, but, being found cumbersome, it was contracted to Weiss. In police records his first name appears as Earl, but in gangdom he was "Hymie" and "Little Hymie," and "Hymie the Polack." Early in his career of violence, which was well under way as long ago as 1919, he was called "the Perfume Burglar," but the reason for that I was not able to run down—after wasting time enough to have written a column about a life that had been of benefit to mankind.

One Good Impulse.

Weiss' disposition was as ugly as hell except in its manifestations toward his mother, to whom he was kind and generous. But he had a real knack of drumming up business for boozedom and was clever at developing leads on new and big customers. He was the brainiest leader north side boozedom has had and he made more and safer money for them. He helped to lead boozedom to the day when it ran distilleries and breweries and ships instead of risking life and limb on warehouse robberies. As to his ugliness, newspaper photographers

The window from which the machine gun was fired is indicated, as is the line of fire sweeping by the door of the florist shop where Weiss had his headquarters and in which Dean O'Banion had been assassinated two years before. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

UGLY, LEERING, DEFIANT

The brainiest leader that north side boozedom has had, Hymie Weiss ruled by the might of outsnarling his underlings and his enemies. He held sway over gunmen and politicians alike—until laid low with ten bullets in his body. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

KILLED IN LOOP

IMPLEMENTS OF WARFARE

can testify. When the law had laid fleeting hold upon him they would make ready to photograph him. "You take a picture of me," he would snarl, "and I'll kill you!"

"And he'd look the part," said one of the photogs, peering back through three years. "Face like a savage when he said that."

But the picture would be taken. Those lads don't scare readily.

At the inquest over Hymie Weiss his brother gave this precious bit of testimony:

"I saw him only once in twenty years. That was when he shot me six years ago."

Shameless Officialdom.

These squalid facts about a useless member of society are given not to make blood and thunder for morons to read, but to show the type of ruffians who were permitted by officialdom to wear deputy sheriff's stars—as Weiss did—and whom Chicago permitted to terrorize at elections—as Weiss did.

He was a gun waver in polling places and would hold a room full of judges and clerks of election at bay while his gangsters stole ballot boxes. This he did at a time when his leadership in boozedom was notorious.

He not only defied city and county officials; he once ordered a deputy United States marshal from his apartment at the point of a shotgun—and the marshal went. The warrant that time was for violation of the Mann white slave act. When the apartment was searched later, knockout drops, handcuffs, sawed-off shotguns, and revolvers were found, as well as dozens of quarts of champagne, brandy, and whisky.

Far from being abashed by that contretemps, Weiss coolly started legal action against the federal government for the recovery of his rich store of silk shirts and socks, which, he alleged, had disappeared during the search.

Hymie's Cheek of Brass.

In fact, his effrontery was colossal and it engendered a certain meekness in officialdom. "If you knew anything about this murder, would you tell me?" Detective Captain Schoemaker asked Weiss when he was brought in for questioning a few hours after gangsters killed Weiss' friend and co-criminal, Dean O'Banion.

"Well, to be frank," said Weiss with a grin, "I guess I wouldn't."

And he never did.

Twenty-three months intervened between the killing of O'Banion and the killing of Weiss. They were active months in gangdom, and the sequence of their activities can be traced like a pattern on a wall from the dead body of O'Banion to the dead body of Weiss. For twenty-three months reprisal plied on reprisal, while the police puttered about helplessly and the law enforcing agencies remained impotent in the face of violence that renewed the traditions of the warfare of desperadoes in a mining camp.

An Eye for an Eye.

Torrio-Capone killers were blamed for the murder of O'Banion in November, 1924. That demanded reprisal, so in January, 1925, Weiss-Moran killers—Weiss and Moran having succeeded O'Banion—tried to murder John Torrio. That demanded reprisal, so an attempt was made in August, 1926, by Capone killers—in broad daylight in front of the Standard Oil building at Michigan avenue and 9th street—to murder Vincent Drucci, bootlegger, election terrorist, jewelry thief, and co-criminal of Weiss. That demanded reprisal, so in September, 1926, an attempt was made by Weiss-Drucci kill-

"White Lilacs" Is Only Near-Chopin

By Edward Moore.

doubtedly near-Chopin is better than no Chopin. Still better would be more Chopin. The score is strangely reticent in what it uses. One fully expects to hear the Funeral march, if not the gloomy chords of its first part, at least the fine tune of its trio, but one is disappointed. There are some good waltz melodies that have not been cited. Perhaps most of the best tunes have been taken out of the nocturnes, but there are some heavenly ones in the collection of mazurkas which are not so much as hinted at. And Chopin also wrote some songs, and good ones.

It may be that the fashion will go on. Possibly one of these days we may see Wagner on the stage disporting himself between Baireuth and Venice, though there will have to be considerable improvement in the matter of musical reproduction in his case. For a suggestion, why not take up Handel? His life was a continuous dramatic struggle, sometimes comic, sometimes tragic, with rival composers and producers, rebellious singers, and the English language, and a wise compilation of some of his music would have considerable effect in charming admission prices out of the pockets of ticket buyers. And I do not mean that the compiler would have to stop with the Largo, either.

MacDowell Colony Needs Help.

A few weeks ago the Musical Courier published an item so much to the point in the matter of American music that this department feels justified, even after an interval, in reprinting it now. It reads as follows:

"The executive board of the New Hampshire Federation of Women's clubs, which met recently at the Chamberlin house in Concord, voted that the federation undertake to secure $35,000 to cancel the mortgage on the MacDowell property at Peterborough. A committee was formed to formulate plans for this undertaking, and Mrs. Guy E. Speare of Plymouth was made its chairman. The president, Mrs. George F. Morris, appointed Mrs. La Fell Dickinson of Keene, first vice president, and Mrs. John F. Heck of Berlin, chairman of fine arts, to assist on this committee. Mrs. Mina E. Del Castillo of Cambridge, chairman of the division of music of the general federation, met in conference with the executive board to assist in formulating plans.

"This important bit of news which has just come to hand must inevitably arouse universal interest throughout the United States. The MacDowell colony is an important asset to American music, literature and art, and has done much to assist creative artists in the production of their best works. Even were this not so, it would be the duty of Americans to free the MacDowell property from the burden of a mortgage as a mark of honor to the man who was without question America's greatest composer, and remains so in spite of the excellent work that has been done since his time.

"It need not be claimed that MacDowell was a Bach or a Beethoven, a Brahms or a Wagner to accept the fact that he was a great composer, and especially that he was great in comparison with other composers that had appeared in America before his time. His widow has carried on the work that he had planned in giving American composers the assistance that he was denied during his lifetime, and in addition to the practical results attained there is behind this movement an ideal which is actually of far greater importance than the material things involved. The MacDowell colony stands for something, just as the name of MacDowell, the composer, stands for something. The name of MacDowell is attached in every American music lover's mind with a nobility that is becoming more and more important as years go on, and as traditional concepts fail.

"The whole of America should get back of the New Hampshire Federation of Women's clubs with material as well as moral support in order that this endeavor to lift the MacDowell mortgage should be swiftly brought to a successful conclusion.

In Answer to Queries.

In answer to Charles F. Davis of Chicago, Hester L. Amidon of Toledo, Ia., and various others who have written letters on the same subject:

The music department of this newspaper regrets deeply that it is unable to give information about how to go to work to get a song published, and that it has no means for putting lyric writers in touch with composers. Furthermore it can give no opinion as to the value, musical or commercial, of submitted lyrics.

At Work on New Opera.

Some time must elapse, it now appears, before Deems Taylor will be ready to submit his new opera to performance and critical opinion. For about two years after finishing "The King's Henchman," now seemingly set into the standard list of the Metropolitan Opera company, he was at work on another score, but he has now become dissatisfied with his libretto, abandoned it, and turned to another.

Recent news from New York is to the effect that he himself is constructing his new libretto from "Street Scene," Elmer Rice's play of the poverty stricken, which is now greatly popular in New York. He says that there will be jazz in the score, but not constantly jazz, and seldom jazz used for purposes only of jest or festivity. Jazz, he explains, can sound melancholy, and it will be so employed. Outside of this, he is disinclined to discuss details. All he has said is, "What will it be like? Well what it won't be like is 'Jonny spielt auf.'"

Music Festival in Canada.

According to the weather reports, Canada is not thoroughly thawed out yet, but a music festival is scheduled at Regina, Saskatchewan, to run from Wednesday to Saturday of next week, and will include folk song, folk dance, and handicraft as its elements.

Some twenty nationalities will share the programs, British, Irish, French-Canadian, and Indian, and also groups of the "new Canadians" from Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Ukrainia, Serbia, Roumania, Sweden, Poland, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Germany, and other lands. There will be solos, choruses, and companies of folk dancers.

With the Melody Makers.

Moriz Rosenthal has picked a curiosity out of the past with which to close his piano recital at the Goodman theater this afternoon, one that seems not to have been played hereabouts for several generations past. It is a series of six bravura variations on a theme by Bellini, the variations having been composed by Herz, Czerny, Pixis, Thalberg, Chopin, and Liszt.

If you know anything about Herz and Pixis you are better acquainted with the music of the early nineteenth century than the one who writes these words. Thalberg is a voice from the past, famous as having been a brilliant pianist in his time; Czerny is known now chiefly as a man who wrote many studies for the good of the fingers and the annoyance of the soul of young pianists. Chopin and Liszt are still alive in their music.

Mr. Rosenthal will also play Bach's Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue, pieces by Couperin and Scarlatti, the Chopin Sonata in B minor, and a group by Mendelssohn, Schubert, and Schubert-Liszt.

Passing from the old to the new, Zinaida Aleskovskaya, the soloist with Ethel Leginska's Woman's Symphony orchestra at Orchestra hall Wednesday night, will give the first performance in Chicago of Germaine Tailleferre's Concerto for piano. The orchestral numbers will be Berlioz's "Roman Carnival" Overture, the Franck Symphony, and Dukas' "Sorcerer's Apprentice."

The Evanston Symphony orchestra, conducted by George Dasch, sends word of a concert at the Country club of that community on Wednesday night. Alfred Wallenstein, cellist, will play Tschaikowsky's "Variations upon a Rococo Theme." The symphony will be Franck's, there will be Weber's "Oberon" Overture and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Capriccio Espagnol," and Grieg's "The Last Spring" will be played to the memory of Mrs. Gertrude Congdon Crampton, former trustee and business manager of the Evanston Symphony Orchestra association, who died Feb. 5.

School bands throughout the state will compete for the Illinois championship under the auspices of the University of Illinois at Urbana April 26 and 27. The winner of first place will receive the silver and bronze state trophy donated by the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music, and in addition will be entitled to represent Illinois in the national contest to be held at Denver, May 23-25.

Preliminary contests will be held at Elgin for the northern district April 12 and 13; Springfield for the central the same dates, and a place and time yet to be announced for the southern. Chicago public and parochial schools will have their own contests, the winners to go to the national contest without competing in the state finals. Last year's national contest was held at Joliet, and the Joliet High school won the national trophy for the third time, now holding it permanently.

Serge Koussevitzky and his Boston Symphony orchestra went to New York the other night and presented a symphony composed by Frederick the Great. What is more, it was the third in the series of four composed by that monarch. The critics found it amiable and pleasant, without much of any independent invention, and rather agreeable without reference to its royal source.

With a history of having made a name in concert and in opera at an early age, he will appear in recital at Orchestra hall tomorrow night, an event presented under the auspices of the Students' Music league. He is recommended.

Boston Symphony Plays King's Work

By Joan King.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, March 16.—[Special.]—Gothamites, fortunate enough to possess subscription seatings for the New York season of the Boston Symphony orchestra, were presented with something rare recently by that indefatigable innovator, Serge Koussevitsky. In fact, insofar as this city's musical annals disclose, the occasion was the first of its kind hereabouts, the introduction of a musical work from the pen of a king. Entitled Symphony in D major, number 3, the Koussevitsky offering presented an example of the musical genius of no less a historical personage than Frederick the Great, one of the few examples of kingly effort available for modern use.

Frederick the Great's fondness for music is a matter of historical record, as is his father's opposition to this artistic bent. Lessons which he managed to obtain from Quantz, flute virtuoso and composer of the day, were gotten in secret. When he became king he did not give up his music, but, as Philip Hale's program notes upon the Boston Symphony's concert related, he played the flute four times daily throughout his entire régime.

Unearthed in Berlin.

The symphony in D major was recently unearthed in the Berlin library and edited by Gustav Lenzewski, for revival by Erich Kleiber at the Staatsoper, Berlin, May 4, 1928. Mr. Koussevitsky was responsible for its first American performance in Boston, not long ago.

Contrary to the general belief that music supposed to have been composed by princes was in reality the work of the expert musicians of the times, it is said that Frederick the Great's D major symphony was all his own, some few parts having been submitted to Quantz for correction in notation.

The symphony in question is likable music, in three short movements, scored for two oboes, two horns, and strings and solo flutes. The first movement is lively and high spirited; the slow movement [a duet for two flutes] accompanied by strings; the third, a final allegro scherzando.

Plays and Such of Ten Years Ago in Chicago Theaters

SUBJOINED are news and comment on plays and shows printed in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of March 16, 1919—the date most nearly corresponding to today. The excerpts are verbatim, and not re-writes or summarizations.

Miss Eileen Huban, who played for a time in the Chicago run of "Cheating Cheaters," will be the next new Belasco star, 'tis reported. An Irish horseracing play, by Whitford Kane, named "Dark Rosaleen," is being Belasco'd for her. David Warfield pronounced Miss Huban a genius after seeing her act at the Colonial; and it may have been his advocacy which led to her good-fortune. She is Irish.

Miss Huban seemed to be an actress of promise when she was here in "Cheating Cheaters," wherein she succeeded Miss Marjorie Rambeau; but subsequent seasons carried her nowhere in particular.

Mr. Ditrichstein is about to depart from the Liberty Theater, New-York, taking his "Marquis de Priola" with him. He will tour the subway Circuit, which is popular with even he best of actors, both because it makes them money and because it permits them to sleep home nights. Curiously, there are many mimes who relish that experience though greenroom history; and the Greenwich Village tattlers would deny it.

Mr Ditrichstein found nothing wherewith to hold the vogue he had won in "The Concert" and "The Great Lover," although he kept on trying until, in 1924, he decided that he would be happier in Italy, where he died last Summer.

Coming to the Liberty is Phillip Möller's "Molière," reported a graceful satire of the great playwright's life by the author of "Madame Sand." Henry Miller is the producer, taking the chance that George Tyler refused on the ground that the play could not be cast suitably with the actor-material available. Mr. Miller would, naturally, prefer to play in his own New-York theater; but it happens that Mrs. Fiske is still happy there with "Miss Nelly of N'Orleans," doing more business than that actress has been able to boast since Becky Sharp was a little girl.

Mr. Möller's "Molière" didn't click, although a number of persons in New-York in 1919, it is said, were able properly to pronounce the title.

The piquant and pouty Julia Sanderson and the guardedly-Teutonic Joseph Cawthorne are also about to leave us, after having lengthened their stay from early November till now. They will take "The Canary" to one or two of the larger centers to finish out the current season and continue touring next season, thus leaving the Globe open for the planned return of Fred Stone.

Miss Sanderson and Mr. Cawthorne in due time brought "The Canary" to Chicago. . . . And news of the Chicago theaters must have been slim ten years ago: all save one of the reprinted paragraphs has to do with things in New-York.

Twenty Years Ago

GOING back through the files to twenty years ago, or to the corresponding Sunday of 1909, the interests of theater-goers were catered to in THE TRIBUNE of March 14 by the paragraphs that follow.

The new plays of the week will be "The Head of the House," in which Miss Ada Lewis is to be introduced as a star in the Grand Opera-House tonight, and "The Boy and the Girl," to be given in the Whitney Opera-House next Saturday night. Tomorrow night, in the Garrick, E. H. Sothern will begin a two-weeks' season with a classic répertoire, "Hamlet" being the first bill. Two other changes will bring "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" to McVicker's and "The Heir to the Hoorah" to the Great Northern.

"The Head of the House" had a number of authors, and was, the populace decided, no good. It was afterward given under another title with Miss Mabel Haight in the principal part. . . . "The Boy and the Girl," something put together by the well-remembered Richard Carle, didn't last long.

Olga Nethersole in "The Writing on the Wall," by William J. Hurlbut, comes to the Illinois Theater for an engagement of two weeks, commencing Monday, March 29. Miss Nethersole will appear as a young society matron of the New-York "four hundred" who is interested in tenement-reform.

The public was about through with Miss Nethersole in 1909; and "The Writing on the Wall" didn't serve to revive interest in her.

Beginning with a matinée today, "The Heir to the Hoorah," Paul Armstrong's popular comedy of Western mining-town life, will be the bill in the Great Northern, where it will remain for a week. Frank Burke occupies the rôle formerly played by Guy Bates Post as Joe Lacy, the mine-owner. Malvina Morel, Florence Coventry, C. C. Quimby, and John A. Alexander are others in the cast.

"The Heir to the Hurrah" was popular for at least four years. It is recalled that, after long litigation, Mr. Armstrong was judicially informed that his plot and profits really belonged to the late H. J. W. Dam, a newspaperman who wrote novels and plays.

Thomas E. Shea will follow "The Heir to the Hoorah" at the Great Northern, playing "The Bells" and "Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Mr. Shea will also present the first serious dramatic play staged by George M. Cohan. It is called "The Counsel for the Defense," and was written by Henry Irving Dodge.

And Shea, too, had his following for some years, and was held by his clientèle to be just about great when he mugged and muttered his way through the Jekyll-Hyde piece. When last heard of, he was acting in one of the cast of "The Trial of Mary Dugan." "The Counsel for the Defense," despite Mr. Cohan's having staged it, is forgotten.

THIS PICTURE IS NEW

MISS ODETTE MYRTIL

SHE'S in Chicago, in the Selwyn, as Georges Sand in "White Lilacs," the operetta with a score drawn from Chopin's music; and that's not news. Neither is the statement that Miss Myrtil, who is from Paris via London, is successful in the part. The point of running her picture today is that it is made from a new photograph of this delightful performer.

of that review, and not into one of the Messrs. Shubert's shows.

O. O. McIntyre, who for a time was Burns Mantle's deputy in reporting plays and shows for the New-York Evening Mail, is to succeed the witty Robert Benchley on the staff of Life. Mr. Benchley, as I think I have told, transfers his activities as a play-reporter to the New-Yorker, succeeding Charles Brackett, who is, I think, a gifted reviewer of stage-things.

Miss Helen Hayes is to have a new play for next season, and is not to go to London to act in "Coquette," in which she is capital. . . . Roland Young, recently reported as engaged for a revue named "The Little Show," isn't to be in it, and is to have a go at the sound-movies.

¶ ¶ ¶

"Young Alexander," put on last Monday in New-York, was taken off last night. . . . And Robert Emmet Sherwood, author of "The Road to Rome" and "The Queen's Husband," is to write with Vincent Youmans a piece wherein the amusing "team" of Clayton, Jackson, and Durante will appear.

Letters Posted to the Drama-Editor

Communications about plays, actors, and the like may be addressed to Mr. Donaghey. . . . There is no space for letters about ticket-brokers, Richard Bennett, ill-mannered ushers, broken hat-holders beneath the theater-chairs, and other matters of complaint against conditions which can easily be remedied by the theater-goer, himself.

Label-Sticking.

SIR: Isn't there something you can easily do to get rid of the insulting idea that the character of Herbert Dean in "The Royal Family" is meant to be John Drew? Three groups of two persons each said that the other night at the Harris Theater. I've heard it fifty times, at least, since this bright play came to town. John Drew was not appreciated by the public at the height of his career, I know; but there was nothing in that career even to suggest that he was a hanger-on to the fame of his family.

LILLIAN K. LEWIS.
Chicago: March 12, 1929.

Just for Operetta.

SIR: Either you or one of your correspondents not long ago said in THE TRIBUNE that Chicago should have a theater of its own for operetta; and I am quite in agreement with the idea. Why not have such a place? It seems to me that there is an awful waste of overhead in the present plan of putting on operettas by touring companies. My father tells me that, when he was a youth in New-York, such a company was maintained the year round in the Casino there, and that other companies, like McCaull's and Duff's, were permanent organizations, giving part of ecah year to New-York. The Bostonians had no theater of their own; but they, too, were a standard attraction wherever they went.

Chicago has a grand-opera theater. Of course, the clientèle differs from that of light opera; but that is no reason for thinking that there is not a profitable public for the latter. I have noted nothing but general satisfaction on the part of such audiences as have been present at such operettas of recent years as "The Vagabond King," the Winthrop Ames revivals of Gilbert and Sullivan's pieces, "The Student-Prince," "My Maryland," and—naming two now in town—"White Lilacs" and "Music in May." I did not hear "The Red Robe"; but I understand it is a success down in New-York.

CHESTER W. ROSS.
Chicago: March 12, 1929.

Playgoing in Chicago.

SIR: Having what I may term a by-product interest in show-business, I am in a position to know something about theater-going this season in Chicago and other large cities. Chicago has done something better than fair, as compared to New-York, Philadelphia, and Boston. It is true, as you have so often pointed out, this city gets fewer new plays than in other years. I mean new in the sense of not having been shown in New-York. I think the old town has stood up pretty well under the so-called "slump." The main trouble is, as I see it, that the owners of shows lack judgment in the effort to force runs here. Just because, as an example, "The Student-Prince" ran here more than a year is not a reason for thinking that all other operettas will each be good for a like period. Some that have been pushed beyond their reasonable limits have dropped in losses the profits made in the first fifteen or twenty weeks.

It is so with shows of all kinds. George Arliss (or his manager) had the sense to realize that he would not be likely to do as well here for a run in "The Merchant of Venice" as he did in "Old English" or "Disraeli," and so came for two weeks only, with the result that he packed the Studebaker.

True, the season has been "off" here, too; but Chicago has, relatively, stood by the box-office with better grace than any other of the large cities.

"Conflict," New Post-War Play, Defies Critics

By Burns Mantle.

one who still was dominated by the soul of a clerk.

Falls to Live Up to "Blue China."

Richard Banks is this young man's name. You see him first before the war, doing his job as a clerk and quite contented in it. He has certain social resentments against the so-and-so society bunch. He is conscious of Ruth Winship's veiled contempt for him and his class as she patronizingly invites him to stand out of the cold when he comes to her home to see his employer, her uncle. But he has no definite hope of ever achieving, or ambition to achieve, the Ruth Winship class.

He waits for the draft; is taken into the airship forces, develops a gift for flying and fighting; becomes a flight commander; brings down a German ace; is decorated and returns home a hero. Now there is singing and shouting in his praise; now Ruth Winship, drawn into the vortex of adulation swirling around Capt. Banks, is ready to break off her engagement to a man in her own class and marry Richard, which she does.

They are happy through the months of the honeymoon and then everything begins to find the level of post-war adjustments. Richard, elevated to jobs beyond his capacity, finds himself unable to hold them. With each failure his ego expands and his defiance becomes more and more defensive. He dons the high hat, tells his buddies of the war where they can all go and tries desperately to hold Ruth's love, which he realizes he is losing.

Humbled in pride, he picks up the phone to ask for a job and hears his wife talking from the upstairs extension to the man she had jilted to marry a hero. She is miserably unhappy, she confesses, but she is also determined to go through with her bargain.

War Buddies Come to His Aid.

Convinced now that he has made something of a mess of trying to be a war hero in peace times, Richard backs out as gracefully as he can, asks Ruth to divorce him and is ready to go back to his pre-war station.

His soldier friends come back to him, however. They fix up a job in commercial aviation for him, and as he starts off for a mid-western flying field the little stenographer who had been his sweetheart before he met Ruth Winship, has picked herself a job as his secretary.

It is a good little play, a bit jumpy by reason of the change of scene, but never uninteresting in story and always believable in situation and scene. Its talk, too, is true talk, and its characters spring from somewhere within jumping distance of the social levels that create them.

Spencer Tracy gives a fine performance as the disillusioned soldier. Frank McHugh and Seth Arnold whip up the comedy as his comic buddies; George Meeker of the movies is the jilted lover, Dennie Moore the loyal stenographer, and Peggy Allenby the uppity Ruth. Peggy is not an uppity type, but her author has helped her fill the part.

Honesty Also An Attribute of this Play.

There is also honesty, I am pleased to believe, in a curious little folk tragedy the Provincetown Players have dug out of the accumulated manuscripts of one Virgil Geddes, formerly of Nebraska and now of Greenwich Village.

"The Earth Between" is Geddes' piece and it aims to tell of a jealously possessive father living on a Nebraska farm and fighting to hold his daughter past the years of her womanhood. He is a widower named Nat Jennings and he has reared his girl since she was a baby of 5. When she is 17 and begins to think of the boys and of marriage Jennings becomes a trifle fanatic in his determination that he shall not lose her. The hired men of the place arouse his suspicions. He sees them as potential kidnapers or worse. Even Wilbur, his blood nephew, is his enemy. And Jake, an animate clod whom the girl openly favors, is sent to the barn to sleep with the cattle to keep him out of the house.

Floy, the daughter, seeks Jake out, but, to the shock and surprise of the Greenwich Villagers, Jake repulses her advances and catches his death of cold. Down with pneumonia, Nat hides the medicine the doctor leaves and Jake dies.

Here, to me, is a tragedy of dull and plodding humans struggling to break through their shells of ignorance and primitive instincts. To the deeper psychologists among most of my confreres "The Earth Between" is a tragedy of incestuous love. If it is, then its motivation is unsound and its theme badly pointed.

Furthermore, knowing something of the type of men Nebraska breeds, or did breed when I knew that country, I should like to take a few of the incestuously minded reviewers out there to make their charge. I will guarantee them that their bodies will assay high in lead when they are ready to be shipped east.

The Provincetowners have done well with the play. The settings are simple and true, the atmosphere admirably sustained by the director, James Light. The players include Bette Davis, a wraith of a child of promise as an emotional ingenue, Carroll Ashburn playing the father, William Challee the Jake.

French Canadians Bring Comedies.

We have a French musical comedy company come down from Canada, where they have been touring, for a season of comedies with music. They began with "Trois Jeunes Filles Nues" translated by the scribes as "three young ladies in badly fitted tights." . . They continued with another called "Passionnement," which the program translates as "passionately." . . The first is a more or less rollicking account of three country girls who leave the farm to become chorus girls at the Folies Bergeres. . . . The second a story of a fat and rich American millionaire who goes to France to cheat a nice little Frenchman out of a Colorado inheritance. . . The millionaire takes his young and pretty wife along disguised as her own aunt. . . She slips the disguise and falls in love with the Frenchman. . . They are singers and comedians of average talent.

This flopping season has also revealed two additional trivial plays, one called "She Got What She Wanted," the other "Indiscretion." . . The first is the story of a Russian who married a Russian, tried to trade him for an American vaudevillian and then returned to her Russian. . . The second an awkward adaptation of an ancient plot in which the heroine is deserted by her rich young lover at the command of his father. . . She becomes a famous actress eighteen years later, seeks to be revenged upon her lover by spoiling his daughter's marriage and then learns the girl is her own daughter.

Otherwise the most stirring news of the moment is to the effect that Florenz Ziegfeld has joined forces with a hosiery concern to discover the most beautiful feminine legs in America.

Machine Guns End Career of Hymie Weiss

By James O'Donnell Bennett.

ers to murder Al Capone by means of a machine gun fusillade—fired from moving automobiles—which swept the front of the Hawthorne hotel in Cicero, where Capone kept headquarters behind steel shuttered windows. That demanded reprisal, so in October, 1926, Hymie Weiss was murdered by men whom "everybody"—except the law of the land—declared to be Capone killers.

Reprisals and Subreprisals.

There were numerous other killings in and by Chicago boozedom during those red years 1924, 1925, and 1926. Most of them interlocked more or less, but particular mention of them is not essential to the tracing of the sequences from the dead body of O'Banion to the dead body of Weiss. Indeed, particular mention would only bore and baffle the reader as much as the Lancastrians and Yorkists bored and baffled him when he as a schoolboy was trying to get the hang of the Wars of the Roses in fifteenth century England.

The essential point is that in the closing months of 1926 a gangster of Chicago boozedom was either "a Capone guy" or "a Hymie Weiss guy," and that Hymie had to die.

So rooms were rented, and machine guns were bought, and an abundant supply of cigarets was provided.

As O'Banion's successor Weiss kept "business headquarters" in O'Banion's old lair, the flower shop at 738 North State street, opposite the Cathedral of the Holy Name, where O'Banion himself had been shot to death two years before. The business headquarters were on the floor above the shop. Nobody entering them from State street could escape the sweep of slanting machine gun fire from the windows of the front bedroom on the second floor of the once handsome residence at 740 North State street.

So that room was rented by "a mystery man" who has never been run down.

Keeler, Our Local Conan Doyle.

And nobody leaving headquarters by way of the alley in the rear could escape the sweep of slanting machine gun fire from the windows of the apartment on the third floor of No. 1 West Superior street.

So that apartment was rented by "a mystery woman" who has never been run down.

Here is a quaint bit of coincidence about the room which "the mystery man" rented on State street. In it was born "the mystery novelist," as he is called, Harry Stephen Keeler, author of "Find the Clock," "Sing-Sing Nights," and "The Spectacles of Mr. Cagliostro," and in it he lived until his marriage a few years ago. His mother and he still own the property. But he has never bent himself to solving the mystery of who killed Hymie Weiss.

At four o'clock on the afternoon of Oct. 11, 1926, five men emerged from an automobile which they had parked on the Superior street side of the cathedral and started to cross State street to enter the flower shop, in which they could ascend to "headquarters."

* *

Five Struck Down in One Blast.

They were:

Hymie Weiss.

Patrick Murray, gangster allied with Weiss.

W. W. O'Brien, a lawyer who specialized in the kind of cases which had brought wealth and notoriety to Patrick H. O'Donnell, a favorite lawyer of the lawless.

Benjamin Jacobs, an investigator for O'Brien.

Sam Peller, chauffeur and handy man for Weiss.

The five had taken only a few steps when they were swept by a storm of machine gun bullets coming from the old bedroom of Keeler, the mystery novelist. Weiss fell with ten bullets in his body. He died in a few minutes without uttering a word. Murray was struck by seven bullets and died where he fell—in front of O'Banion's old lair. Lawyer O'Brien was struck in the arm, side and abdomen, but had strength to stagger to a doctor's office eight doors away. He did not die. Jacobs was hit in the foot, and Peller in the abdomen. They ran to a doctor's office a block away and did not die.

The corner stone of the cathedral was hit by an obliterating rain of bullets, with results to its carved words of adoration already described. It never has been restored to coherence.

Civilization in Chicago.

After the rattle and thud of shots an instant of silence. Then the street before the cathedral in noisy panic—wounded men staggering to cover, terrified passers-by clamoring but seeing nothing that was worth taking down at a coroner's inquest.

During this hullaballoo, which was their best protection, the killers ran down the backstairs of No. 740, then south in the alley in the rear, then across West Superior street and still southward through the alley between State and Dearborn streets until they reached the alley in the Superior-Huron block which runs west into Dearborn street. The only trace of their course that ever was found was their machine gun which they had thrown on top of a doghouse in the rear of No. 12 West Huron street.

Silence in the Second Lair.

Their fellow gunmen stationed in the lair on the third floor of No. 1 West Superior street made an equally successful escape. They had not fired a shot. The killers stationed in the first lair had gotten Hymie while he was approaching his headquarters from the front. Had he entered from the rear the gunmen in Superior street would have gotten him. Had he left them from the rear they would have gotten him. Boozedom had taken every precaution.

The very existence of this second lair was not discovered until a week after the murder, and that was by chance. "A radiator or something is leaking in the apartment above us," said an occupant of a second story apartment to the janitor. He went to the third floor apartment and found an automatic shotgun loaded with five shells and, around chairs set near a window overlooking the aforementioned alley, rings of cigaret butts.

Traces of the Long Vigil.

In the first lair—the one from which the fusillade came—the police found thirty-five empty 45 caliber shells in a pile near the window, precisely as they had been ejected from the Thompson machine gun which the fleeing killers had later thrown on top of the doghouse. Three exploded shotgun shells also lay by the window. Nearby stood a shotgun. Near it lay a hat, purchased from a dealer, so the label indicated, whose place of business was not far from Cicero. Cicero, you will recall, was the capital of the Capone segment of boozedom.

More than a hundred cigaret butts were strewn on the floor. "Obviously," said Police Detective John Stege when he saw them, "the killers kept a long vigil."

Nobody knows how long it was.

The attempt upon Capone's life was made on Sept. 20. Piecing together the vague testimony of the persons who rented the State street and the Superior street lairs for the killing of Hymie, both rentals probably were made early in the first week of October. The young man who made the rental at No. 740 said he must have the front room, but it was Oct. 8 before it was available. That was three days before the killing. How soon the actual killers took possession after the lair was at their disposal was not learned by the police.

The Manners of Officialdom.

The inquest was conducted in a slipshod and indecorous manner. In the course of it Coroner's Physician Joseph Springer said the police captains had been "dumb."

"What captains do you mean?" demanded Capt. Daniel Murphy of Chicago avenue station.

"You know very well," shouted Dr. Springer, "what captain I mean. His name is Murphy."

Capt. Murphy then rallied to the dignity of the law with these words:

"I'll warn you, doctor, we have been friendly and coöperative, but I don't know how long we can be so. You can be put downstairs [meaning put in a foul cell in the basement of the police station]. Get that prejudice off your chest and get rid of that air where your brains are supposed to be."

That badinage is perfectly illustrative of the improprieties with which inquests and trials are conducted in Chicago. You have seen in Chapter V. of this sorry chronicle how in the trial of Booze Gangsters Anselmi and Scalisi there was nothing which the lawyers on both sides did not dare to say and almost nothing which the court did not endure. The effect was far-reaching, and that effect was to show gangdom that it was dealing with a mouthy, irresponsible, and contemptible officialdom.

Once More the Wall of Silence.

Not one of the survivors of the fusillade that killed Weiss and Murray spoke any illuminating words about the crime.

But documents found on Weiss' body and in the safe of the flower shop under Weiss' headquarters talked for them and shed a blistering light on how bold boozedom dares to be.

On Weiss' body was found a list of all the men called for jury service in the trial of Joe Saltis, a Chicago beer runner, gunman, and co-criminal of Weiss, who was charged with killing "Mitters" Foley, another gangster of boozedom. And in the safe of the flower shop, which had become Weiss' blind as it had been Dean O'Banion's, was found a list of the state's witnesses who were to testify against Saltis.

McDonald's Pointed Question.

"What," asked Special State's Attorney Charles A. McDonald with considerable pertinence, "was a man of Weiss' type doing with the names of jurors and witnesses? If there ever was a case where the decent people of the community were up against the mighty forces of the lawless element, this is it. Already two of our witnesses are scared away or bribed."

Now mark this:

On the afternoon of the fusillade Lawyer O'Brien had come to the blind direct from the courtroom where the jury which was to try Saltis had just been completed. And the actual trying of the murder charge against Saltis was to begin the next morning. Also, on Weiss' body $5,300 was found.

On Murray's body $2,160 was found.

Lawyer O'Brien had about $1,500 in his pockets when he reached the blind with Weiss and Murray.

Saltis was acquitted on the basis of a dubious alibi and in the face of identification of him as the slayer by eyewitnesses.

The fund which gangdom raised for the defense of Saltis amounted—so the police were told—to $75,000.

The aftermath of the murder of Weiss was so conventional that it made Chicago grin. Chief of Police Collins ordered a reorganization of the department "in order," as he put it, "to run gangsters forever out of the city."

Fresh Every Hour.

Gangdom did not seem deeply impressed by that, and Vincent McErlane said to the police, who were annoying him for carrying concealed weapons, "If you arrest me ten times a day you'll find a gun on me each time." Thereupon Mr. McErlane was promptly released on bonds.

Chicago had lain down to gangdom. But if the gangsters did not fear the police, they did fear one another.

The sweeping of Capone's Cicero headquarters with machine gun fire from moving automobiles had killed nobody, but it was an impressive demonstration of force. The murder of Weiss in reprisal had been so slickly accomplished, and the getaway had been so easy, that boozedom decided that these reprisals and counter reprisals might do what the law manifestly could not do—that is, exterminate gangdom. Not only had the murder of Weiss taken the heart out of everybody, but the public was getting red hot. Chicago, callous to violence within its borders, was writhing under denunciation and criticism from outside.

Gangdom figured that it could not win against itself, however successful it had been for six years in winning against the city. So it sought peace within itself as a strictly business measure.

Sidelights on Maxie Eisen.

A stipulation preliminary to the peace meeting, which was held in a downtown hotel, was that nobody should bring pistols to it. Before it there were tentative conversations between Maxie Eisen, racketeer, bootlegger, and labor terrorist, and Tony Lombardo, grocer and racketeer, who sold yeast and sugar to gangs of Italians and Sicilians who operated illicit stills. Eisen spoke for the north side gangsters who were under the leadership of "Bugs" Moran and "Schemer" Drucci, now that Weiss was under ground. Lombardo, who in 1928 was killed by gangsters amid throngs of pedestrians in the heart of Chicago's loop, spoke for Capone and his affiliated crews. Eisen has an appalling record of violence. Concerning him Mrs. Mamie Oberlander, fish dealer, who wished to continue in business, gave Chicago's most useful citizen, Frank J. Loesch, this illuminating detail in writing so recently as July, 1928:

". . . I went to Eisen and pleaded with him to let me open a store, and he agreed on condition that I gave him $3,000. I have no money to give, as I am a poor woman. I threatened to tell my trouble to some public officer, but this brought a hearty laugh from Eisen.

"He said he is the boss and is not afraid of any official or anybody in the city or county; that nobody can make him do what he doesn't want to do. I feel sure, Mr. Loesch, you will help me to open a store so I can make a living again for me and my children."

Peace for Four Months.

The supreme irony in these annals is that, by the machinations of such scalawags as Eisen and Lombardo, and not by the efficiency of the officers of the law, Chicago did obtain in late 1926 and early 1927 about four months of relative relief from the scandal of gang murders.

Outstanding provisions of the peace treaty were:

"Lay down arms. Everything is off the slate.

"No more killings or beatings.

"No more stealing of customers.

"No more ribbing. [That is, malicious gossip with inflammatory intent.]

"One side [meaning Capone's Cicero gang and its affiliated lesser gangs] to take the territory south of Madison street, Chicago, and the other side [meaning the Moran-Drucci-Saltis gangsters] to take the territory north of Madison street.

"Each side to punish its own men if they break the treaty."

Banquet of the Buzzards.

A banquet was given in a Chicago restaurant named for an illustrious Italian city to celebrate the peace. It was like a feast of ghouls—a word meaning in its earlier significance, as you will recall, demons who feasted on corpses. A man present—not a gangster—told me that the talk turned him faint. Old murders were recalled. Projected murders that had failed to come off were discussed.

"Remember that night eight months ago," one former rival asked another, "when your car was chased by two of ours?"

"I sure do!"

"Well, we were going to kill you that night—but you had a woman with you."

Shouts of laughter.

At It Again.

The peace lasted—so far as the killing of outstanding scoundrels went—until the night of March 11, 1927. On that night two of Joe Saltis' gangsters—Frank Koncil and Charles Hrubeck—were killed in one of Saltis' automobiles by men who bore down on them in another automobile and delivered a fusillade. The Saltis gang had suffered by the peace treaty. Less than a week before he was killed Koncil had said to police detectives:

"We're down. We're broke. But we won't stay that way. We're going to get back what we used to have. We won't be pushed around any more. And if anybody gets in the way we'll take care of him."

And so the shame of Chicago flamed up again along the old lines—running fights in boozedom, slayings in broad daylight, mistrials, corrupt trials, no trials at all.

In these chapters on the killing of O'Banion, the attempt to kill Torrio, the killing of the Gennas, and the killing of Hymie Weiss, you have had representative crimes of boozedom.

But those murders and attempted murders were not its worst crimes. Its worst crime was the kind of liquor which it made and which it peddled to the silly customers.

That weird story will make next Sunday's chapter.

A Congo Bird.

A dear old lady was showing her new parrot to her gardener.

"You know, James, that this parrot comes from the Congo, and the Congo parrots are so intelligent they seem to be almost human. This bird whistles "Home, Sweet Home" so beautifully that the tears run down his beak."

"Yes, ma'm," commented James. "I know about them Congo parrots. I used to own one that whistled "The Village Blacksmith" so beautifully that the sparks used to fly from his

Music Notes

A sacred concert will be given at the Holy Name cathedral tonight by the Quigley Seminary Plain Chant choir, directed by the Rev. Edwin V. Hoover, and the men's choir and boy choristers of the cathedral, directed by the Rev. Philip F. Mahoney. Monastic cantata, "The Seven Last Words," will be sung in full chorus, with solos by the Rev. F. Krackowski and E. Alexander, tenors, Franz Schultz, bass, and Rosario Laomardo and Dorothy Butler, sopranos. In addition there will be "Veni, Sancte Spiritus," by Father Hoover, with solos by Mr. Alexander and Master Laomardo, and selections from the works of Gounod, Capocci, and Verdi.

Edward Eigenschenck, organist, will entertain the Chicago Society of Theater Organists at Kimball hall Tuesday evening. The time is announced as midnight.

Margery Maxwell, lately returned from operatic engagements at Bordeaux, France, is singing this week at the Chicago theater. She is appearing as the prima donna in "On Parade," with a singing ensemble of thirty-two and a ballet of twenty.

The Voice of the Movie Fan

The Voice of an Usher.

Dear Miss Tinée: You can put this in your Voice of the Movie Fan and if there are any results, I will profit immensely by it.

If there are any Voice of the Movie Fans that have some autographed photographs of actors and actresses, or authors, books or letters that they have no use for, I would be very grateful if they would help me to become the future world's greatest autograph collector. I will give all due credit.

Bruce Kapustka.

THIS USHER.

My friends
And not my friends,
And friends of friends know
I am an usher.
Not an usher—
That is, more than an usher—
But just an usher.

How they ever found out
Is beyond my comprehension.
But one thing I know is
That they know it.

It's true—
I did not want them to know
That I was an usher,
Because I know
They just wouldn't understand.

It would never do
For me to try to explain
Why I am there,
Because they would only laugh
Or say, "Ahem,"
"I heard that before," or
"That's an old one."

It is funny, awful queer
That the same persons
Should be the first one
To ask me about a few tickets,
Or get them in in some way.
I am revealing now
That they are not my friends.
I am an usher, it's true, now,
But I'll usher this usher to fame.

Editor's note: Well, remember you used to know me, — — —, when you're famous, Bruce!

THE DREAM THAT CAME TRUE

Activities of Women

Mme. Olga Rudel Zoynek is president of the Union council of Vienna, Austria, the highest representative office of that country, and the first woman ever to hold that job. She is an author, also, and a militant foe of communism.

Woman volunteers of the American Red Cross made 253,040 garments, more than 2,000,000 surgical dressings for emergencies, 34,000 Christmas bags for United States soldiers and sailors in foreign service, and 379 books of Braille for the blind during 1928.

Judge Linda M. Lee has served in the police court of Boulder, Colo., for the last ten years.

The Armchair Playgoer

By Fanny Butcher.

IN NEW YORK.

THE opening of the week that caused more to do than any other was the revival of "The Black Crook" in Hoboken.

Christopher Morley has made an institution of Hoboken—how delightful and how successful a one is recorded in his "The Seacoast of Bohemia." "The Black Crook" is their chef d'oeuvre. Months before its actual opening there were whisperings and buzzings about it, and intellectual parties planned for the first night. Although you will look in vain in libraries for the text of it, you cannot read any history of the American stage without encountering pages and sometimes chapters devoted to it.

It was, in 1866, considered so low and immoral an exhibition that no lady was ever seen in the audience, although there were many thickly veiled women there. In it a chorus actually appeared in tights. One of the producers is recorded (in a book called "The Inside Story of 'The Black Crook,'") as saying: "Legs are staple articles and will never go out of fashion while the world lasts. We will gather an array of them that will make even the surfeited New Yorker open his eyes and his pocketbook and hold his breath in astonishment"—a tenet of producing which has not varied much with the passing of the years. The extravaganza—the first of its sort, but the parent of the whole brood of leg shows—ran for sixteen months and earned a million dollars in profits for its producers, and that, as some one has naively said, was a good deal of money in 1866 and is even now.

Mr. Morley and his associates have made their production as nearly as possible a replica of the original, except that their grand sense of foolery would burlesque it. It's an interesting old theatrical venture to read about.

IN CHICAGO.

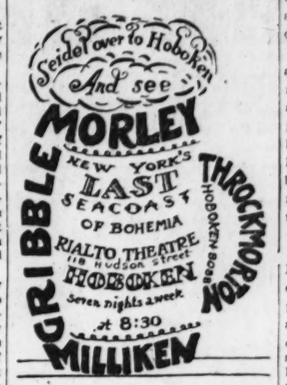
If you are a Gilbert and Sullivan enthusiast good news is what you would call the announcement of the D'Oyley Carte Opera company's season, beginning tomorrow with "The Mikado" and giving "The Gondolier" on Thursday and for the rest of the week.

Much has been written of, as well as by, Gilbert and Sullivan. You can read the delicious words and hum and even play the music—for it is published. You may read Isaac Goldberg's "The Story of Gilbert and Sullivan," which was published last October, for enlightenment about the two most famous men of the theater in their day.

On Tuesday there returns "The Beggar's Opera," that perennially successful musical comedy which had its premiere in 1728, when it "made a tempest of laughter," to quote a contemporary critic. It razzed "polite" society and the Italian opera. Time has removed its topical appeal, but mellowed it into one of the most amusing of the theater's offerings. It is published, words, stage directions AND music, if you will.

On Saturday afternoon "Polly" will be given. It is the sequel to "The Beggar's Opera," and is another of Mr. John Gay's works. It stirred up a hornet's nest in its day. It was forbidden production by the lord chamberlain, and the prohibition became a party question to so marked a degree that the "inoffensive John Gay became one of the obstructions to the peace of Europe," to quote about a contemporary. It tickles but does not terrify modern ears and eyes. It is published—in one edition—as a companion volume to "The Beggar's Opera," with delightful drawings by the late Lovat Frazer.

IN HOBOKEN



This is an illustration from Christopher Morley's "The Seacoast of Bohemia," the story of the Hoboken stock company which he and Cleon Throckmorton, Conrad Milliken, and Henry Wagstaff Gribble have organized with unprecedented success.

"Evangeline" Filmed in Original Setting; Research Supplies New Data for Action.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.]—Dolores del Rio has been working with all her energy on "Evangeline" the last few weeks. The company, which now is in the little towns on New Iberia and St. Martinsville, in Louisiana, is making shots of the parts of the story concerning Evangeline's landing there after her deportation from Nova Scotia.

The producers have been occupied mightily with the business of making the sentimental poem into a tightly knit and actively moving screen story. A great deal of historical research was done, which helps explain many of the story situations that the poet Longfellow left rather beautiful and mellow and indefinite.

The Toughest Problem.

This matter of changing a poem familiar to every schoolboy into a motion picture is the typical problem that the scenarist faces. It is commin enough for the movie public to go to see some pet novel on the screen and to come away disappointed because it was not played as the book was written.

This situation is one on which pictures receive most criticism from the layman. There are sound reasons behind these changes, however sacrilegious they may seem to book lovers. The film can only tell a story by action. When the action ceases and the lover and his lass begin speaking titles to each other, it gets pretty tiresome.

Thus many sentimental scenes have to be left out where in a book they may represent some of the readers most enjoyable pages.

Beautiful descriptions have to be turned over to the cameraman, who is obliged to create in the few seconds his bit of film runs an effect that the poet is allowed to elaborate for fourteen pages if you stay with him. In Evangeline, most people stayed with him, for teacher saw to that.

Evangeline, because of its familiarity, will be changed little in actual incident. All the familiar incidents will be there, with only this difference—dramatic situations will be heightened and the story drawn more closely together by the supplying of authentic data and the omission of unimportant detail.

There will not be a saccharine ending, as might be feared. The story will remain a tragedy of two lovers, Evangeline and Gabriel, played by Miss del Rio and Roland Drew. Drew will be remembered as the Spanish youth in Ramona.

Miss del Rio again is in a rôle similar to that which made her famous, for it was as the French girl Charmaine that she made her big hit in "What Price Glory!" Several years' residence in a convent in Paris made her sufficiently conversant with the language and mannerisms of French people to instill real feeling in her part.

While Evangeline is not a talkie, it is being put out as one of the big specials of United Artists this year under the direction of Edwin Carewe.

Reality and Romance.

Contact with the grim reality and the romance of everyday lives came to a movie company on location at Lake Tahoe recently. It was during a tremendous storm and snowfall, and William Boyd and the "High Voltage" company from the Pathé studio were in the thick of it.

The mail route from Truckee to Lake Tahoe is a bit of the old west, impassable except to horsemen or dog sleds in snowy weather. The mail goes up one day and comes back the next. The contract remains from before the days when the single gauge railroad track was cut through.

The regular mail carrier was ill, and so Boyd and Scotty Allen, famous Alaskan dog driver, mushed through to Lake Tahoe.

The most daring stunt planned for motion pictures in filming an aerial scene is still undone and the pilot as yet undiscovered. Howard Hughes is seeking a superdaredevil for the shots. So far, no one of the regular stunt men is willing to undertake it. The stunt consists of putting a giant Gotha bomber into a tight tailspin for 7,000 feet, giving the appearance of being out of control. That is easy enough, but the hard part is making a landing alive afterwards. Some pilots out here claim it is impossible, saying the big bomber would have gained such velocity through gravity that it could not be righted for a landing. It seems this would be a good shot to fake in the interest of human life.

Getting Rid of the Calories.

It has taken a film director to figure out a lot of calorie tables for the girls. Heretofore, most such tables told how much caloric value there is in articles of food. This table tells how many calories one may lose by work. William J. Cowen, director, says it is like this:

"If you walk for an hour, you have lost 450 calories. Tennis and swimming use up twice this amount. Typing takes off 140, while reading aloud will rid you of 150 calories an hour. Piano playing reduces one by 200 calories per hour, and that humble sport, dishwashing, has the same record for weight destroying as typing."

Agua Caliente, over the border, seems undisturbed by the revolutionizing elements of Mexico. Last weekend saw a huge contingent of movie people there. Among these were Al Jolson, Norma Talmadge, Buster Keaton and his wife, Natalie Talmadge; Norman Tauroug, the director, and his wife; Lenore Coffee and her husband, William Coen.

Now that Cecil B. De Mille is working as a member of Metro-Glodwyn-Mayer outfit, gags begin to arise. Some time ago, when workmen were burning a huge pile of accumulated waste wood, some one in a nearby office asked: "Say, what's that?" Eddie Nuget shot back: "O, that's over on the De Mille set. C. B. just asked for a match." While De Mille was shooting an outdoor sound scene for his picture, "Dynamite," an airplane buzzed overhead, making it impossible to work with the microphones till the aviator's departure. Charles Bickford, red headed leading man, threw a wise eye at De Mille and remarked: "Let's see you direct that guy?"

Four-a-Day.

"Well, Sammie, how about entertaining the customers with a little juggling?"

"Not tonight, Joe! I'm not in a juggler vein."—From Life.

A TENSE MOMENT!

YOU'LL find out what all the apparent agony depicted in this still is about if you see "The Big Hop," which opens at the Rialto tomorrow. Buck Jones (right) and Jobyna Ralston (center) are featured.

New in Manhattan

But one novelty, "Journey's End," is listed for the new week in the Manhattan theaters. It is by R. C. Sherriff, a soldier for Great Britain in the big war; and it is, from all reports, the outstanding London success of the day. The action is in the trenches; and all the characters are masculine. The cast has been brought to this country from London by Gilbert Miller.

A revival of Ibsen's "The Lady from the Sea" is a semi-novelty of the week. Miss Blanche Yurka, last in Chicago in "The Squall," is to have the title-rôle; and Dallas Anderson, Miss Linda Watkins, Edward Fielding, John Daly Murphy, and G. Pat Collins are to be in it with her. . . . The play has not been acted frequently in this country: Duse gave it in New York in 1923-'24 in Italian.

Why Pick on Him?

New Arrival (to usher of movie cathedral): "Say, Buddy, are there any seats in this place?"

The Usher: "I couldn't say, sir: I'm a stranger here myself."

Specialty.

Always, together with the poor and taxation, we have had the philanderer with us. I pray that he will become one of our more important social institutions in the future! Life without flirtation is like a dinner without cocktails. Like the musician, the true-story writer, the sommelier, and the actor, the "flirt par excellence" is a child of nature. No man-made methods can produce him. Man's sole opportunity in the matter is to permit him to flower.

Of late, the dramatic literature of the world has been turning its eyes more thoughtfully, more penetratingly upon this trifling lover who, in the last analysis, gladdens more hearts than he breaks. From every nation in the world we are given samples of this genus of the good old homo sapiens. It is most refreshing that he is thus universally recognized today.

I dare say I seem to speak with some authority—with some feeling on the subject. After all, I have played the philanderer with no small success in the interests of Thespis. My work has forced me to study and to understand him. Hence, my interest.—A. E. Matthews in the Theater Magazine.

PRATTLE OF A PRESS AGENT—It may be true!

"The sacrifices women motion picture stars make for their art is amazing. After signing contracts calling for them to remain at a certain weight, several have ruined their health to keep down flesh by the use of drugs and dieting. One player underwent an operation recently, when several pounds of fat were removed by the surgeon's knife—and all to no avail, for upon recovering from the operation she took on flesh more rapidly than ever.

"Now, for the first time, there is on record a case where a star deliberately picked up fifteen pounds of flesh in order to play a certain rôle. The lady is Olga Chekova, European screen sensation, who ordinarily possesses a slim, rounded, continental figure.

"When E. A. Dupont picked her to play the star of the 'Moulin Rouge' in the photoplay of that name, he told Chekova the part was that of a mother of a grown daughter and that she would have to gain weight to look matronly.

"Without demurring, the star took a vacation, went to Berlin and rested for two months, during which she did not stir a hand except to eat the richest of foods. When she returned to Paris her curves remained, but the svelte lines were gone. And that was not all. For her next picture, that she has just completed, it was necessary to lose the extra flesh."

[Editor's Note.—It's the "without demurring" part we particularly distrust."]

VICTOR VARCONI has contracted to go to London and make two or three pictures for British International.

SPEAKING OF FOREIGNERS, going abroad, and such, we are told that Hollywood boasts a large colony of Russian ex-patriots. As which: Natacha Golitzin, a former princess, who traces her ancestry back to the Jagollon kings of Poland, is now an extra girl. Lidojonski, a former general attached to the czar's bodyguard, runs a café, and Watishevlav Savitski, the former minister of war of Southern Russia, is playing a bit in "Prisoners," Corinne Griffith's production of Ferenc Molnar's novel of the same name.

See you tomorrow.

COMIC PARTS

HENRY LYTTON

He's the actor of the low-comedy rôles in the répertoire of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, which starts tomorrow night a fortnight's visit in the Erlanger. Mr. Lytton was in the chorus of the London Savoy in the days when Gilbert and Sullivan, themselves, were involved in the management of that theater, and in the course of time succeeded to the rôles written for and originated by the late George Grossmith. . . . He will be seen this week as Ko-Ko in "The Mikado" and the Duke of Plaza-Toro in "The Gondoliers."

Best Movies

If you will tell us what movie, in your opinion, rates above all the others you've seen, and why this particular movie is deserving of praise, we'll pay $1 for your letter if we print it. Address Best Movies, Chicago Tribune.

Scenes Easily Recalled.

One of the best, in my humble opinion, is "Sins of the Fathers." I saw it a short time ago, and many of the scenes are still clear in my mind—not a dim, confused blur, as many are the morning after.

Emil Jannings was simply wonderful. He was so real it did not seem possible that he was only acting a part. How alike and yet how different were his ministrations to his son as he prepared and offered the roll to the little boy and later on to the sightless man! In spite of his sins he had our sympathy. The hour that prohibition dawned was rather funny; that was so unreal.

I had one criticism, though; I wanted to see the wicked pair who rifled the safe meet with some fierce disaster instead of getting away to live happy ever after. G. H.

"Mother Knows Best."

In my opinion, "Mother Knows Best," is one of the best pictures ever made. The story is that of an ambitious mother who pushes her daughter on to fame, and in so doing nearly breaks the daughter's heart.

Louise Dresser, playing the part of the mother, does some wonderful acting. Madge Bellamy, as the daughter, gives some clever impersonations of Harry Lauder, Anna Held, and Al Jolson. And as for Barry Norton, who plays the part of the young song writer in love with the daughter—who doesn't love him?

The picture combines pathos, love, and comedy agreeably, making an excellent film. J. D.

Human and Enduring.

My favorite motion picture was "Ramona," that thrilling, lovable, heavenly story that transported us from everyday life to a dream world with a glamorous heroine enacted by Dolores del Rio—a stanch, brave Indian lover played by Warner Baxter, and a noble Spaniard who at last conquered the dashing Ramona.

All in all, "Ramona" was human, enduring, and interesting in the extreme. J. H. Jr.

The Vanishing States

By Clifford Raymond.

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S inaugural speech ran 1,048 agate lines. Of these, 265 agate lines at the outset were given to a consideration of American lawlessness. The inference is that the conduct of the people of the United States has become the principal concern of the President of the United States, and that upon his urgence its regulation may become the chief occupation of the American federal government.

In comparatively recent years it was reasonably difficult for a citizen to get into the federal courts on a criminal charge, there being relatively so few things he could do which legally could interest the United States. The federal policeman had a restricted beat.

Old Time Offenders.

The United States guarded its currency, excise taxes, customs duties, and mails. If southern mountaineers wouldn't pay internal revenue the revenue men hunted them out of their coves. Smugglers, counterfeiters, and mail robbers were criminals offending federal laws. The United States enforced maritime law and there were small jurisdictions within which all crimes would be crimes against the United States, but in the states these jurisdictions could be counted out as negligible.

Conduct was not the concern of the United States, which was not responsible in its golden days for law and order. If a President had deplored then the general lawlessness of the American people his sentiments might have been approved as commendable, but they would not have had anything to do with the case. He might have been a moral patriarch or prophet in this respect, but not an officer of the law.

Only if the people had been bootlegging bank notes, had been running the customs in great gangs with popular approval, sticking up the mail cars at every stop for water, and had been cooking their own corn mash and malt and hops in all disregard for the excises, could a President as an administrator have warned them that their lawlessness must stop if the country was to endure. He would then have been quite right, and if he could not have enforced the law in such circumstances there would not have been much salvage.

Gifted with Little Authority.

Little further than that could he go as an administrator. As a citizen and an American patriot he might cry out against crimes and disorder. He might implore his countrymen to cease their lawlessness, to stop the lynchings and feuds, the murders, robberies, vice, licentiousness, and the godlessness of their ways lest as a people they perish.

He might have made an imperishable name for himself as an Old Testament prophet, but he would have had less authority than one. The conduct of the citizen was the concern of the state. There the people had to face their own troubles. They made the laws. They provided for their security or suffered from the lack of it. They could put moral codes in statutes if they wanted to do so. They could define offenses against what they regarded as proper conduct.

If they had poor schools, ignorant health officers, shyster courts, and corrupt officials, and, in consequence, had illiteracy, a high death rate, and rollicking crime, they paid for it.

States Are Dissolving.

If they were American states, they were capable of doing otherwise. They were in the Union on the assumption that they were competent. If states had to be governed from Washington, they should have remained territories. If their citizens were wards of the federal government, they should have been treated as Indians on federal reservations, with a blanket allowance and a ration, and with the edict which protected Indians long before it protected their white guardians, that it was a crime to purvey them a drink.

The doctrine of adult conscience and competence has faded with use. The Union of competent states is now officially accepted as a failure. The Union has not been dissolved, but the states are being. The new President, in his inaugural, addressed a body of citizenship which could hardly have been worthy, as he saw it, of the privilege and responsibility of electing him.

They were so little fitted for this exercise of a right conferred on them by their states and exercised through the state processes that he must promise the devotion of the principal activities of the federal government to correcting their lawlessness, tightening up their systems of restraint and punishment, and improving their education by federal exhortation and aid.

New Powers to Government.

The federal government has already gone a long way from its old home and Mr. Hoover seems to make it apparent that it is going further and faster. With the Mann act it took an eccentric control of private morals, modified by the refusal of many district attorneys to recognize the law and prosecute under it, which is one remedy for a bad law. A delinquent caught in sin might be fined ten dollars or so in a police court if he remained in his own state, but if he bought railroad tickets across a state line and the federal government found him he might go to Leavenworth.

The penitentiary penalty obviously attached to buying the tickets. A law intended to stop a traffic was perverted to this purpose. The narcotic act extended the federal jurisdiction. Addiction to drugs is self-imposed in most cases. Addiction to lynching is imposed on others.

The south has opposed the extension of federal jurisdiction to lynching cases. Shall we have President Hoover penetrating Mississippi and Georgia with the federal ukase against lawless punishments? Will his campaign against illiteracy and for better education where states have had their own ways and means of providing for the schooling of their youth lead him to bring the federal government down on Tennessee and Arkansas? Will the federal pedagogue and domine clean the fundamentalist laws off the blackboard? Or will the domine keep them there? Will Washington negate the act of the Tennessee legislature and the vote of the Arkansas electorate? Are the excesses of the klux in Alabama one thing and the excesses of the elect in Michigan another?

In the view of the federal government, the states are slipping back into territorial status, where they require the federal policeman and pedagogue to determine what the conduct of citizens shall be and to make them conform.

One lesson of experience was not considered in Mr. Hoover's greeting to the country: Bad laws make lawless people.

RADIOLA 60 Super-Heterodyne

Hear this finest of all radio instruments before choosing a new set

Radiola Super-Heterodynes of the "60" series are the finest broadcast receivers offered by the Radio Corporation of America.

They are the product of the research of a great staff of electrical and acoustical engineers at RCA, General Electric and Westinghouse.

Designed to provide the greatest possible realism of reproduction of music and the voice—in any desired volume—they are also built to give fine performance under the most exacting conditions.

In many locations near powerful broadcasting stations, the Super-Heterodyne is the only receiver that will provide good reception. It is because of its unique characteristics that the super-heterodyne principle is used in the radio compass, in marine coastal stations, and in receiving instruments in broadcasting stations.

There's nothing like a Super-Heterodyne.

Writer Finds Notables Are Succumbing

Three Prominent Ones Wed in Recent Weeks.

By Mme. X.

HOW much have the seasons to do with human events? Whereas in the late weeks of winter the purveyor of this record of today's happenings among the so-called society people of Chicago seemed always concluding her weekly diatribe with an obituary notice of some prominent citizen, no sooner does spring come than three sudden and unannounced weddings startle the community and set telephone bells ringing. Isn't it a demonstration of the truth of two adages, "In the spring the young man's fancy" and "It never rains but its pours"?

The first of the trio of marriages was the much discussed elopement of pretty Katherine Thorne with George Gillespie, the amateur cowboy of Castle Hot Springs, Arizona, an affair which seems to be settling down to a modus vivendi out in Hollywood, the famous place where such love affairs are capitalized and made profitable.

Another Surprise.

Hardly had the buzz this marriage caused simmered down than society was again stirred up by the news of two other unexpected and unheralded weddings which came by wire and telephone. The first of these to reach this pillar of polite piffle was the announcement of the marriage in Washington of the Arthur Meekers' youngest daughter, lovely Mary Meeker, to her former brother-in-law, Ambrose Cramer. Both bride and bridegroom come of Chicago's fine pioneer stock, the former being fifth in descent from Mrs. Bentley, who came here in the thirties of the last century.

Mr. Cramer is a grandson of one of Chicago's noted jurists, the late Judge Mark Skinner, who was a prominent citizen from the forties on, of the nineteenth century. Mr. Cramer's mother was Miss Susie Skinner, the youngest of Judge Skinner's four daughters. The Skinners had one son, who died, if I'm not mistaken, early in life.

One daughter married the late Henry J. Willing, formerly a partner in Marshall Field's. Two other daughters, the Misses Elizabeth and Frederika Skinner never married, the last named being the last remaining of her generation. All four women were noted for their animation and wit. As was not infrequently the custom of those days, they were brought up to eschew dancing, wine, tobacco, theatergoing, and card playing. Finding that these prohibitions set them somewhat apart from the rest of their kind, these four clever young women decided to make conversation their specialty, with the result that they became delightful company at any and all parties, being renowned for their gay humor, and their understanding sympathy.

Never during the life of either Judge Skinner or his son-in-law, Mr. Willings, then on a European trip, served in their households. It was possible in those simple days to carry out this rigorous program without banishing young and merry visitors. I doubt if it would be so today. Later on, if rumor be trustworthy, the Willings, then on an European trip, were observed in Paris having wine with their dinner at a fashionable French restaurant.

A Wartime Wedding.

But this is delving too far into the past. I like to contrast the present with bygone days. To return to the bridal couple. Young Ambrose Cramer in 1916 married the Arthur Meeker's second daughter, Miss Grace Meeker. Both were very young. Those were the days of the world war when everything was feverish and out of the normal. Mr. Cramer served for a time with the French and when this country entered the great conflict, he joined our forces.

Afterwards, when peace came, he took a course in architecture at the Ecole des Beaux-Arts in Paris. The young couple had two children. Things did not run smoothly. Mrs. Cramer came back to this country and settled in Santa Barbara, Cal., where in time she secured a divorce.

Not very long ago she married Francis Lloyd, a well known resident of southern California, and both are now happily settled in her pretty house in Montecito. Miss Mary Meeker's friendship with Ambrose Cramer, while in abeyance, never really stopped. Hence this wedding.

Miss Meeker's parents escorted her to Washington Sunday and were present at the wedding on Monday. The only other person mentioned as being there also was young James G. K. McClure, a connection of Mr. Cramer's by marriage. The Cramers are now on the ocean on their way to spend their honeymoon in Europe, after which they will settle down in Chicago, where both have many friends.

Married in Vermont.

The third of this trio of spring romances was the marriage on the same day as the Cramer-Meeker wedding of Joseph Winterbotham, formerly a resident of Chicago, to Miss Harriot Norton Lee of New York. This took place at Charlotte, Vt., and was a quite a surprise to his Chicago friends, although a few seem to have had an inkling of it.

Mr. Winterbotham has known Miss Lee for some time in New York, where she has made her home for the last few years. She is of old New England stock, so when she goes to live in Bloomington, Vt., where he has a delightful house, it will be for her a return to her native heath. Near Charlotte, where the marriage took place, is the country place that has for some years been the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Car-

Curtis Is Guest of Chicagoans at Miami Beach

'Bakes Out Rheumatism' at Laskers.

MIAMI, Fla., March 16.—[Special.]—As the milkman deposits the morning bottle, he will tell you, these days, that he finds his customers are not quite so plentiful as they were a fortnight ago, but to the casual observer, there are as many coming as going, especially at the beach. The Biltmore closed for the season this week, but most hotels have been obliged to extend their season, because reservations have been made for late March and early April.

Of course, the international four-ball golf tournament is a wonderful attraction. Miami has made golf history in past years, but this event has brought together the greatest constellation of golfing stars ever seen in these parts and winter visitors have followed the play with eagerness, in spite of poor weather the first two days.

Vice President Is Guest.

The visit of Vice President Curtis to the Albert Laskers of Chicago, at their ocean front home on Miami Beach, injected a thrill into the social season, for though he came only to "bake out a little rheumatism" he did accept an invitation to appear at the meeting of the committee of 100 at the Firestone home, Miami Beach.

Vice President Curtis attended the Hialeah races with Albert D. Lasker, John Hertz, John Golden, Leonard Florsheim, and Harvey Firestone. Deep sea fishing also lured him, but Wednesday found him sunning himself on the beach, while Friday afternoon brought an informal reception for Kansas friends at the home of S. R. Rohrer, a personal friend of the Vice President. Miss Clarissa Greene, president of the Kansas society, had charge of arrangements for this reception.

One of the large events of the season was a tea dance given by Mr. and Mrs. William Francis Whitman in the sunken garden of their ocean front home at Miami Beach last Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Bascom Palmer, Mrs. Whitman's sister, assisted in receiving the guests, who were among the best known of Miamians and winter visitors. The Whitmans will spend the month of June at their home in Glencoe, near Chicago, and then expect to go to Europe for the remainder of the summer.

Chicagoans at King Cole.

A group of Chicago friends and relatives at the King Cole hotel comprises Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, and Mrs. Louise Bowen Phelps.

Prof. Paul Goode of Chicago, distinguished geographer, is visiting at the home of the Henry Salem Hubbells, while Mr. Hubbell is painting his portrait. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hines of Evanston are at the Nautilus.

Plan New Homes.

W. N. Griffin, of Fort Wayne, Ind., has bought a site, with 100 feet of ocean frontage, between the Firestone and the Elston estates at Miami Beach and will build a handsome house. The entire estate, including building and lot, will cost a quarter of a million dollars. This is the Griffins' third winter at Miami Beach.

Others who have just bought homes or land on which to build are A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker corporation; H. I. Ramsdell of New York, and Alfred W. Wallace of Detroit. Mr. Wallace's new home is one of the show places of the beach, overlooking Biscayne bay, and with extensive grounds.

MISS LAURA M'CLUN and MISS HARRIET HENNEBERRY

The South Shore Country club's annual musical revue, "Blackbirds of 1929," is to be presented at the club on Friday and Saturday evenings of this week, and rehearsals have been going on for the last month. Mrs. Rayford Wardlaw Alley of Boston is visiting her mother, Mrs. Frank Ogden Magie, for an indefinite period. Miss Natalie Frees is one of the bright particular comic stars in the South Shore Country club's impressive array of amateur talent. Miss Laura McClun and Miss Harriet Henneberry are two of the dancers in the South Shore revue.

Miss Lillian Inderrieden, Mrs. Henry C, Murphy, and Mrs. Kinney Smith are members of the committee in charge of the sale of 60 boxes and 900 seats for the John McCormack concert at the Auditorium on Sunday afternoon, April 21, the proceeds of their efforts to go to St. Vincent's orphanage.

WEDDINGS

Private Horse Show at Aiken

AIKEN, S. C., March 16.—One of the features of the last week was the private horse show given by Capt. Dimitri Ivanenko at his own field. Many of the colonists took part in the show, and scores of others attended in drags and motors to watch the events. Harry Worcester Smith acted as ringmaster and Mrs. Robert C. Winmill won the blue ribbon for individual performance.

Polo continues to be the feature of the spring period. Among the players on Harriman field this week were F. Skiddy Von Stade, Reginald B. Taylor, Seymour Knox, David Dows, Harold E. Talbott, and Fred Post.

Among those present now are Mr. and Mrs. Craig F. R. Drake, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hayward of Dayton, O.; Mr. and Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin, Baron and Baroness De Villiers du Terrage, Ann Carley, and Temple Gwathmey.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

penter. The latter's father, the late Joseph Winterbotham, bought an old inn situated at the western terminus of McNeill's ferry, an enterprise that, from pre-revolutionary days, has conveyed wayfarers across Lake Champlain from Vermont to the New York side. On the west side of the lake are the Adirondacks, a chain of lofty hills whose outlines are silhouetted against the superb sunsets that are seen from the bluffs on which stands the charming summer abode of the Carpenters.

The house is old and spacious and is made over to be comfortable without losing its mellow beauty. Tall trees shade the lawns that lie about it. It is Mrs. Carpenter's custom to have luncheon and frequently dinner, too, served at a gay red lacquered table set under these fine old oaks and fragrant pines.

A more delectable spot could not be found anywhere. It is two miles from the nearest village, the little town of Charlotte, and the whole place has an air of delicious seclusion rarely to be met with in these gregarious days.

Nine Miles Away.

Nine miles to the south is the lovely estate of the John H. Winterbothams, also on the brink of the lake's high bluffs and overlooking the water and the distant prospect of thickly wooded mountains. Nine miles to the north of Charlotte is Bloomington, where Mrs. Carpenter's other brother, Joseph, just newly wed, has one of the most attractive houses this narrator has ever seen. It is situated on the town's main street, but has a large garden and an air of remoteness in spite of its central situation.

When the remark was made to John H. Winterbotham that it was a pity that he couldn't have found a site nearer that of his sister, he said:

"Not at all. Nine miles is near enough to immediate relatives for any family in summer."

Vermont hasn't yet been discovered by tourists, the noisy contingents that race up and down the land in fine weather, and long may it be kept from them! I feel guilty even in mentioning its existence. If I remember rightly, the roads are somewhat of a barrier against these motoring roisterers. Nor are there relays of wayside inns and other places of rest and recreation. Vermont is strictly and utterly dry. (There now, Vermont friends, have I sufficiently put the kibosh on the undesirables? I hope so.)

Two Chicago Visitors

Having proved my point that spring is the season dedicated by nature to love and marriage, I can now take up my weekly chronicle of social doings. For the coming six days the most notable of these are centered about the visit here of two great ladies, also it is safe to term them as two very charming women, the duchess of Sermoneta of Rome and Mrs. John Garrett of Baltimore, who bring unusual intelligence to their study and enjoyment of life and people. They are the guests of Eames MacVeagh at his apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue. He has filled their time full of engagements, including much sightseeing as well as many social dates, dinners, luncheons, teas, and so on. He is giving them a dinner at his attractive home tomorrow evening.

MRS. WILLIAM BURMEISTER.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Theodore Olsen of 4637 Dover street announce the marriage of their daughter, Bernice Catherine, to William Thomas Burmeister of 7637 Oglesby avenue.

MRS. SOL A. SUGAR.
[Grinsted Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. H. Cooper of the Park Lane hotel announce the marriage on March 5, of their daughter, Florence Levin, to Dr. Sol A. Sugar, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Sugar of 845 North Sacramento boulevard.

Among others who are entertaining them is Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, who dines them on Thursday night and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, who will be their dinner hosts Friday evening. They have sent word that they want to see as much as possible of Chicago's famous industries, such as the stockyards and the big mail order houses, as well as our two universities, Art institute, and Field museum.

I hope, also, that they will be able to tour our great boulevard and park systems, of their kind the most extensive in the world. If they have imagination, and I think they have, the visitors will be able to visualize what we Chicagoans always see, which is the city of the future, a vision we are all watching rise from what was so short a time ago but fen and forest, deep mud and shifting sands, an unpeopled wilderness. From our infancy upwards the genuine Chicagoite has trained this inward eye to see what was to come. It is only when we find ourselves explaining to visitors from older, more completed metropolises what is to be here that we realize how many unsightly hiatuses there are on even our most promising boulevards.

Hard to Explain.

One thing we can never explain to them is just why our streets, even on our most traveled thoroughfares on the near north side, are so unspeakably bad. Nowhere else in the civilized world can one find such rough, disturbing pavements as those the present city administration permits in Chicago! It is becoming increasingly frequent to hit the top of the head as one rides along, whether it be in a high powered and luxurious car or in a sturdier and more abrupt taxi. Your scribe finds herself becoming quite an adept at "rising in the saddle" to lessen the bumps. How long, O Lord, how long must we endure present conditions?

At the eleventh hour, just as this col goes to press, comes news of an entertainment that promises to be a regular "humdinger." The poster announcing the affair in letters of great size and blackness invites you and me to a "Breakdown" with the inviting title, "Forty-Niners of Red Gap Gulch" at the "Black Eye Dance Hall," which, between you and me and yon gate post, is the 122d field artilery armory at 234 East Chicago avenue. The date is April 5, and the hour at which we are bid is 10 o'clock. "High class dancing, singing, play-acting, and eating" are all promised us. "No shootin'!" is the warning, and ladies are exhorted "to be ladies at all times," while gents must "leave their shootin' irons to home. 'Tain't necessay to slick up."

To Aid Charity.

The affair is to help raise money for the fine work of the Lower North Community council, and the chairman and co-chairmen are Adlai Stevenson, Princess Michael Cantacuzene, and Carroll H. Sudler Jr., while the list of young people (and they are our very most golden youth) is so long that it would crowd all ads off this page were I to reprint it in full.

The maidens are listed on one side of the big poster and begin with Miss Elizabeth Baker and end with Miss Rue Carpenter, while the married couples are listed in the center and start with Mr. and Mrs. Shreve Badger and conclude with Mr. and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. The last column of names is devoted to the single men. John Paulding Brown heads it and M. Ogden West foots it. To the aged observer of many festivities this one promises to be one of the liveliest, most entertaining things of the kind that has ever been pulled off in Chicago.

Checks should be made out to the Lower North Community council and admission is $5, while boxes seating six are $50. It sounds like something not to be missed or passed up. The X. family is going.

A week ago yesterday I attended the second matinée performance of Ellsworth Laffin's delightful dramatization of that favorite romance of all youngsters, "Hans Brinker and the Silver Skates," which was given at the Goodman theater by a troupe of clever young amateurs. It was a most interesting occasion, both because of the all round excellence of the show presented and because of the youthful audience. The play itself was very well writ, well acted, and well staged, the scenery being the excellent work of Art institute students.

Clamorous Audience.

The young and clamorous audience was interesting and provided food for thought. The sound of the hundreds of young voices at first made a pleasant music on the listening ear. There was much laughter and give and take of greetings and comments. But gradually this gave place to what, it must be admitted, was nothing but a rude, unmannerly clamor, punctuated by flying darts made from programs, darts that, while not dangerous, were not pleasant if, as in one case I saw, they pricked the eyes.

As the afternoon progressed the din rose to heights of extraordinary violence. No attempt seemed made by such elders as were present to exercise any control over the clamor or to instill in the youthful audience even the most primitive training in manners.

And gradually the conviction rose in the mind of one onlooker that here was the seed of the national disrespect for law and order that President Hoover considers, and rightly so, as the chief menace to our civilization today. Those uncurbed, howling youngsters will not develop later any consideration for the rights of others nor any realization of their duties to decency and good manners if their elders permit them such unbridled and illbred license as was that day manifested at the Goodman theater and was also to be noted latterly at the Saturday morning Junior League plays.

Obedience to law is something that has to be inculcated early to become a part of the very fiber of our being, a habit of mind and a lasting possession making for the general welfare. I am serious in this arraignment of the elders of those children who are sending out material for citizenship that will be a menace, not a support, of our great and powerful nation.

Perhaps you may have noted a little paragraph of mine in last Sunday's screed commenting on young Arthur Meeker's apparent neglect of the subjunctive mood. I was brought up to fall into step with this gentle, inoffensive mood and to yield to it. My few brief words evidently cut deep under that nice, fresh epidermis of my young friend. With flashing eyes he brought me his protest, backed up by H. W. Fowler's book on "Modern English Usage," and proved to me, what I have long suspected, that I belong to a bygone era and that the subjunctive mood is "moribund"; that subjunctives met with today "are antiquated survivals, as in pretentious journalism, infecting their context with dullness"—but, really, tears and self-pity prevent further description.

Suffice it to say that, while he is undoubtedly right, my early associations and archaic training have made it imperative for me to continue to curtsy to old custom, but I shall always admire young Arthur's careful adherence to today's firm edicts as to English construction. But what wouldn't I give to be able to detect in him in some real linguistic crime, such as splitting an infinitive or using a singular pronoun with a plural verb! I'm afraid that that will never happen, for he's really a conscientious user of the English language, whether in written or spoken speech. It's a great heritage and one to be cherished by all of us.

All Hail, St. Patrick.

Today is dedicated to the [illegible] patron saint of Ireland, St. Patrick, [illegible] was born A. D. 389 in Glamorganshire, England, and was the son of a [illegible] named Calpurnus, who was also a deacon and a middle class landholder. St. Patrick's grandfather was [illegible] a presbyter. His family were Christian, but were nevertheless loyal to the Romans, then in power in that part of the world. The young embryo saint had a varied career, but finally chose his calling and entered the church. He spent some time in study in various monastic institutions, principally in France.

Ultimately he gave himself to the service of the somewhat pagan tribes who lived in Ireland and spent the last days there, dying in the year [illegible]. Legend says that he banished snakes and toads from that country. But many other more important services to Ireland and earned the title of patron saint to that ancient and picturesque race of Gaels and Celts. All hail to him today!

OPENING WEEK

THE SPRING SHOWINGS

In assembling this season's collections our aim has been to embrace all of the significant models from those Paris couturiers who regard the attiring of the modern smart woman as an art. The tendency in these exceptionally lovely creations has been to individualize an ultra-feminine charm into particular distinction in each conception . . .

For the selection of a spring costume, a single gown or coat, an entire wardrobe or trousseau, the models will be displayed during the week of March 18th.

Rogers Park Club Presents Original Play

Life of Wagner Dramatized by Mrs. Merrin

By Roberta Nangle.

THE large and handsome auditorium of the Rogers Park Woman's club at Estes and Ashland avenues will probably be crowded to capacity on Tuesday afternoon when the fine arts department of the club presents its annual drama day program. The offerings of the dramatic committee are immensely popular with most of the membership, and their presentations always draw a record attendance.

The high light of Tuesday's program is to be "My Lady of Dreams," a two act play inspired by the life of Richard Wagner, and written by one of the members, Mrs. Samuel Merrin. Miss Blanche Ray is the director and the cast includes Henrietta Koehler, Vera Ulrey Clarke, Lulu Bell Toomey, Grace Appell, Katherine M. Baker, Clara Westbrooke, Estelle Ayer Johnson, Arnold Anderson, Donald Briggs, and Ellsworth Jackson. With the exception of the three gentlemen, all of the players are members.

Five Divisions of the Arts.

The fine arts department of this organization is almost a club in itself, consisting of five active divisions, each with its own chairman, which coöperate under the head chairmanship of Mrs. Russell O. Johnson. The drama division, of which Miss Kathryn Baker is in charge, has a group of players who are constantly rehearsing plays to be presented at the weekly meetings.

The department of literature, under the guidance of Miss Mary E. Redfield, meets every Tuesday for a book review, followed by a round table discussion. It also maintains a circulating library, to which each member loans a book chosen by the chairman and her committee, and in return is permitted to draw a book each week. At the end of the year her book is returned to her.

The art group, directed by Miss Una L. Davis, plans the annual art tour and luncheon, and provides speakers for the art day programs. The music department, of which Miss Ruth Keleher is chairman, sponsors a club chorus directed by Mrs. John Pigott. The chorus, assisted by the Glenola quartet, will present a program on April 2.

900 Active Members.

The club is a member of the Illinois Federation and each of its 900 active members is affiliated with at least one of its five large departments, which, besides the fine arts group, include applied education, American citizenship, public welfare, legislation, and press and publicity.

The officers are Mrs. Annie Foote Wetzel, president; Mrs. Lona V. Whitaker and Mrs. Emma D. Wanner, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. Grace P. Kelly, recording secretary; Mrs. Mabel S. Massie, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Hannah A. Stevens, treasurer.

MRS. RUSSELL O. JOHNSON.

CLUB ETHICS - - - - By Maude Swalm Evans

"I'M surely glad you brought Mrs. Tipkins into the club," the committee member told the sponsor as the two waited for their committee meeting to begin. "She's most enthusiastic about us. I'd almost forgotten how nice our club was until she began to praise it and to remark on the interesting features and the charming members."

"It's a joy to know her and to work with her," responded the sponsor. "She's certainly refreshing after you've listened to some of our members who are inclined to overemphasize our mistakes and weaknesses."

"I've always been puzzled as to why those members—there's only a few of them, thank goodness—continue to belong if they really think we're as wrong as they say we are."

"They don't," denied the sponsor. "They just get into the habit of suppressing their appreciative thoughts and overexpressing their critical ones. If they had to stay away from the club for a while they'd miss it just as much as any of the others."

"That's true. After Mary Henny had been in the hospital for three months she told me she had never before realized how much the club meant to her—and Mrs. Turane—you remember, she became offended because things didn't go her way in election. She said she was through and went to another club. I don't know what they did to her, but she came back after a few months, a different woman."

"I was leaving the club late, the other evening," recalled the sponsor. "When I passed the president's room our president was sitting in there alone looking a bit dejected. I went in and told her some of the nice things I'd heard about her and the work she was doing. You'd hardly believe how grateful she was. She told me she'd had one complaint after another that afternoon and was beginning to think things were in a sad way, but my praise had put new heart into her."

"Which shows that a word of appreciation goes much farther than continual criticism," voiced the committee member.

Question.

"How does a club go about getting a charter?—M. B. I."

Gotham Looks Forward to Belmont Races

Spring Event Always Calls Out Notables.

Gotham Looks Forward to Belmont Races

By Nancy Randolph.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, March 16.—[Special.]—With spring officially arriving this week and actually bound to burst upon New York within a few weeks, things are brightening considerably. The throng of motors outside the fashionable shops grows daily and one hears simply nothing but talk of clothes.

Naturally it's most timely, since early in April Belmont will dawn upon us with the spring meeting of the United Hunts Racing association and the first Belmont season to follow. With the grace of good weather to aid, the question of clothes will become paramount. Other than at the international polo matches, one gets little chance to see pretty clothes outdoors—and the polo always comes in the autumn—which, so far as clothes are concerned, isn't in the running with spring.

Little to See.

Incidentally, I do hear that Joe Widener and the powers that be at Belmont park are determined on a program of popularization.

Outside the turf and field clubhouse, which isn't a palace by any means, even in its reconstructed state, there isn't a spot in all Belmont to hold the visitor. The park, of course, is simply darling. They've done a great deal of work on the grounds these last two or three years, and with Belmont Terminal now all nice building lots the park proper has become steen times more important.

There are splendid trees, little lakes and delightful lawns, but few of our fashionables ever see these. One drives up to the Turf and Field, gets into an unholy crush, and finally sits down at one's table with more than just one's serenity ruffled.

The food is excellent, naturally, but after one has done lunching there is nothing to do but make a beeline for the inclosure and, after each race, either cross to the paddock or else sit for almost half an hour waiting for the next race.

Talk of a New Pavilion.

There really isn't any promenade, and after the racing one departs as quickly as possible. There is talk of making a new pavilion in the park with attractions that will bring hordes of people out to spend the whole day. And when one considers how society adores being viewed and admired by other people the chances are that Belmont will begin to vie with Longchamps and Ascot. At present it's rather a drab sort of place—socially speaking—for no one bothers to trot out their best clothes, knowing that every one else refuses to dress up to the nines. And if one doesn't wear one's prettiest at the races—where should one?

It really is a sin, for every one of note belongs to the Turf and Field—the A. Coster Schermerhorns, the Lewis Latham Clarkes, the Tony Biddles, the J. Sergeant Crams, the Joseph E. Wideners, all the Belmonts, the Vincent Astors, the Charles Amorys, and every one else of the New York and Tuxedo Park sets, who rate all the stars in the social book.

Yankees at British Race.

Friday is the big day—but not here at home. With the running of the Grand National at Aintree Liverpool will also become aware that, as usual, we Americans are in the British midst. For the last week or so every boat has taken scores of notable horse lovers to view the running—particularly as the probabilities are that there will be several American owned horses in the big race.

Aiken all this week will lie torpid. Every one will have an ear tuned in on Aintree, and the sweepstakes there and here in town are growing in number. Howard Bruce, who owns Billy Barton, is already in England, with Laddie Sanford, who won in '23 with Sergeant Murphy. The Geraldyn Redmonds are over, too, with huge sums from Aiken friends to wager on the outcome.

Also on the spot at present are Elbridge O. Anderson, W. Strother Jones Jr., Mrs. Payne Whitney and her son, Jock Whitney, Sir Ashley Sparkes, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Winants who head the Baltimore contingent, which includes Mr. and Mrs. James Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Symington, Nancy Symington, Patty Symington, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Symington, and Mrs. Howard Bruce. Others who are there are Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wren, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Shaw of Boston, Tompkins McIlwaine, Charles D. Sabin, and Phelps Montgomery.

Charity Carnival Planned.

Another sure sign that spring is almost upon us—not to mention the many engagements being announced—is that planning of the annual Charity Carnival at Madison Square Garden on May 2.

It's an amusing coincidence that this year's pageant, which will be part of the benefit for the Judson Health Center, will be called "Aztec Gold," and concern the entrance of Cortez into Mexico and his welcome by poor Montezuma.

However, despite the Mexican prominence at present, no more colorful a period could be chosen. Since the Aztecs made much use of bird plumage, the costumes will riot with every sort of feather from ostrich to bird of paradise.

Mother Deserves Congratulations.

When the engagement of Margaret Schniewind and Julian Carr Stanley was announced this last week, every one sat back and declared that Mrs. Henry Schniewind should be the one to receive the congratulations, since she has managed to marry off two daughters and get the other two plighted nicely.

Peggy Schniewind is sister to Ethel, who is to marry Hiram Edward Manville Jr., known better to fame, not as the brother of Estelle Manville who married Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden, but as the handsomest man in Yale. Incidentally, neither of the male Manvilles make use of the name Hiram—they both are Edwards. Mrs. Manville, in particularly detests the Hiram.

At any rate, young Manville and Ethel Schniewind, who has been frightfully ill and is only now recovering, are to be married in June. The date set is the same one on which Constance Fox and William Barclay Harding are to be married in Southampton—so to avoid confusion of guests, there may be a change. Still the marriage of Ethel and young Manville will take place around commencement, and prior to the boat races on the Thames at New London on June 21st.

Peggy Schniewind and Julian Stanley are to be married this spring and their wedding will be a sort of overture to the other. Sister Ethel is to have all the fuss and fallals, for the Manvilles haven't forgotten what a success Estelle's wedding was and are all prepared to give H. Edward and his Ethel a series of receptions that will make New York sit up and gasp, not to mention New Haven and Pleasantville, N. Y. The Bernadottes may even be brought back from the royal haven to attend the festivilties and help awe the Manville servitors in their magnificent liveries at Hi-Esmaro, the home at Pleasantville.

HER MOST EMBARRASSING MOMENT

Clubs Award Gold Cups to Prize Anglers

Rulers of Eight Nations Donate Trophies.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 16.—[Special.]—A week that imposed unusually heavy burdens upon the socially inclined ended tonight with most of the resort making merry at two widely different conclaves.

With the hilarious abandon that always accompanies their annual celebrations, the Sailfish club of Palm Beach and the Palm Beach Angeles club handed out fortunes in gold and silver cups to the winners in the winter's contests. The fun making at the clubhouse on the north lake trail was slated to end sometime after breakfast.

Otto H. Kahn was not on hand to receive the President of Mexico gold cup for snagging his 93½ inch sailfish but almost every other Palm Beach angler seemed to be there. Cups offered by the rulers of eight nations were handed out, with H. K. Wells, a Chicagoan, carrying off the trophy for a 28 inch channel bass.

Brilliant Affair.

Probably attracting more interest was the world's premiere of the talkie, "Show Boat," which filled the "Golden Horseshoe" at the Paramount and was used as an excuse for dozens of dinners and suppers. Helen Morgan and Flo Ziegfeld were on hand and Mr. Ziegfeld followed the show with a supper for fifty, honoring Miss Morgan. It was a real turn out of society in a place where society turns out often and fully, and vied for the honor of being the week's biggest fête with the charity barn dance and "tacky party."

Society in picturesque garb came out by the scores for the barn dance at the country club, Wednesday night. Such leaders as the Stotesburys, the Huttons and the Chases' wearing straw hats and bandanas ate scrambled eggs and corned beef in a barnyard setting rendered strange by the profusion of palmetto fronds and Spanish moss in the background.

Dorothy and Eleanor Chase functioned actively as members of the committee, with Mrs. Irving Hall Chase and Mrs. Finley Peter Dunne in the rôle of patronesses.

Angus McLean, former governor of North Carolina, and Mrs. McLean were there as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klotz, who have been entertaining the McLeans' at the Everglades club.

Dinner Dance at Whitehall.

The dinner dance at Whitehall also drew its usual patronage from the Chicago colony. At that affair Miss Pauline Bode was hostess to Dr. and Mrs. Mark W. Trude, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Tivnen, Miss Marion Kennedy, and James Merrill. Mrs. Henry Bartholomay was among the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hines. Joining the Chicago contingent at Whitehall are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers. Carroll D. Keeler was another of the week's hosts. He gave a dinner party at the Beach club.

A small but important affair was the dinner honoring Gov. Alvin T. Fuller of Massachusetts and Mrs. Fuller, given by Mr. and Mrs. Earle Perry Charlton at their ocean front home, and at which Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock and Miss Muriel McCormick and Mrs. P. A. Wendland were guests.

Many small hospitalities seem to be the order of the day. Mrs. J. J. Parker, Mrs. Fred S. White, Mrs. Shepard, Miss Mary Mack, and Sadelle Aller, all of Chicago, were noted at one of the Breakers luncheons; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Bartholomay and Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Dings were at a luncheon at the Everglades club as guests of Mrs. Eva Munsill; and Mrs. S. Davis of Evanston, Ill., and Mrs. W. T. Kent of Chicago were luncheon guests at the Restaurant Flamingo.

Mrs. Adams Entertained.

Many pleasant hospitalities are being extended Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the new secretary of the navy. Mrs. Adams is remaining here for several days, accompanied by Mrs. Malcolm B. French of Boston.

If some of the Chicago guests are leaving now for Ormond, St. Augustine, and resorts farther north, more keep coming in.

Col. Robert W. Stewart has come from Chicago to join Mr. and Mrs. Allan Jackson, season guests at the Breakers; A. L. Witman has come back from the windy city bringing Robert Fell as his guest for the early spring; and Mrs. George Mulligan is here from the same city visiting her brother, David B., Montreal hotel man, and Mrs. Mulligan.

Cyril Edwards of Chicago, who has spent the entire winter at Palm Beach with Mrs. Edwards and her sister, Mrs. Cora Lee, to be near their mother, Mrs. Minola W. Bryant, and their aunt, Mrs. Elden C. Dewitt, who occupy an apartment in the Everglades club, is returning to Chicago and his family will join him in about a week's time. Mrs. Lee has been invited by Mrs. Dewitt to accompany her on her spring trip to Europe, where she will probably spend the summer.

Returning Home.

Having spent almost the entire season here, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hartman also are returning home for a breathing spell, but will sail soon for Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Auguston von Glahn have moved over to join the Chicago circle at the Breakers—the Bodes, the Dings, the Forresters, and others.

Visiting Palm Beach for the first time are Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Gilhoffer and their daughter, Miss Martha, who came up from Miami on their way back to Chicago. Dr. and Mrs. M. S. Mazel also have joined the Chicago group at the Breakers for an indefinite stay. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peacock have concluded their six weeks' stay here and have returned to Chicago.

Stormy and cooler weather which has developed here over the week has influenced quite a number to postpone their trips northward. Meanwhile they are finding plenty of ways to entertain themselves.

ENGAGED.

MISS VIOLET C. RASKE.

Announcement is made by Mrs. Ricke Raske of 6008 South Washtenaw avenue of the engagement of her daughter, Violet Catherine, to Edwin Clarence Podewell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Podewell of 6146 South Marshfield avenue.

MISS ANNABELLE FINEBERG.
[Theatrical Studio Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Fineberg of 3641 Grenshaw street, formerly of Leeds, England, announce the engagement of their daughter, Annabelle, to David S. Kolender, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kolender of Cicero.

WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Rhein of 7441 Chappel avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Leah, to Samuel K. Koaberg of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Greenburg of 5037 North Monticello avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to Maurice Goldberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Goldberg of 3628 West Lexington street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Levin of 1701 North Fairfield avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Minnie Mildred, to Edgar Allina, son of Adolph Allina of 4159 North Western avenue.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. William D. McJunkin of the Sovereign hotel and their son, William Jr., have arrived in Los Angeles by motor. They shipped their car to Memphis, Tenn., and visited several southern resorts before starting for the west coast, where they plan to spend the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hadden of 5459 Everett avenue are at the Greenbriar hotel at White Sulphur Springs for a three weeks' sojourn.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kasza and their sons, Edwin and Marvin, are leaving this week for Kansas City, Mo., to attend the wedding of the son, Lester, to Miss Jeanette Bell on March 25 at the Muehlbach hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Bacon of Winnetka are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter last Tuesday at St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. Bacon was formerly Miss Martha Smith of Hackensack, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Brunswick of New York City announce the birth of a daughter on March 6. Mrs. Brunswick is the daughter of Judge Julian Mack of the federal court.

Mrs. Eugene C. Kast of 435 Surf place sailed on Thursday for a Mediterranean cruise.

Miss Beth Frutchey, who is attending St. Mary's school at Notre Dame, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thomas Kettering of 433 Briar place.

Low . . . high
Slow . . . fast
It's real!

MAYBE you like your music all fire and fury. Maybe you prefer it soft, dreamy, sentimental—like the "heart songs" that never grow old.

Or steamy dance music with the rhythm of the jungle.

Whatever you like, it's all true as life when your radio is the Atwater Kent Electro-Dynamic. The music that's broadcast is the music you hear. When the xylophone player sweeps his flashing hammers up and down the scale—it's real! Every instrument is real. No note is too high for this set, no note too low. No overtones too subtle, no orchestra too big. No booming—no artificiality—just true!

The voice of the singer or the announcer is his own voice—what you would hear if you were in his presence.

Hearing is believing. The opportunity is yours at any Atwater Kent dealer's. There is no better radio at any price. Prove it!

Home of Perrys Will Be Restored

By May Birkhead.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 16.—Mrs. Perry Tiffany, who has long resided in Paris, and whose husband died here a few months ago, has decided to restore the ancient cachet of the Perry farm. This landmark just outside the limits of Newport Main, on the road from New York to Boston, in Massachusetts, was the home of Capt. Christopher Perry, who was in the navy in the time of President Thomas Jefferson, who was inaugurated in 1801, and all of his five sons, all naval officers, were born on the Perry farm.

One of these sons was the illustrious Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, the builder and the commander of the Lake Erie fleet that defeated the English squadron and forced the British to give up Detroit, and so changed the whole complexion of the war of 1812. He has gone down in history for his famous dispatch: "We have met the enemy and they are ours."

A Famous Mission.

A younger brother, Matthew Perry, directed the building of the first steam vessel in the American navy, but he is best remembered for his mission in 1853 for President Millard Fillmore to the ruler of Japan. Through this act arousing great interest in Japan, he introduced western ideas into the empire of the rising sun, and so began the modernization of this ingenious people.

Hence, few spots in America surpass the Perry farm in sentimental and historic interest. Mrs. Tiffany will be sailing soon and will complete the restoration and organization at the Perry farm of a museum with a memorial committee such as obtains at Mount Vernon. The state of Rhode Island hopes to do this, but Mrs. Tiffany plans to bequeath the Perry farm to the state, arranging to occupy it in the summer as a residence and to make it a place of pilgrimage where will be installed numerous relics of the heroes of Lake Erie and the Japan expedition.

Will Contribute Letters.

Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn, the wife of the great scientist, and the lineal descendant of Christopher Perry, is taking an active part in the formation of the museum, and will also place there such relics as the letters written by Oliver Perry to his mother shortly before and after the battle of Lake Erie.

The government is seriously contemplating the raising of Oliver Perry's flagship Lawrence from Lake Erie and installing it at the Perry farm museum. Mrs. Tiffany will turn the picturesque barn of the farm into a tea room and art shop as the headquarters of her business in French antiques and bibelots. Her husband, the late Perry Tiffany, inherited the farm from his mother, the daughter of Commodore Matthew Perry.

Other well known descendant of this celebrated family are Perry Belmont and his two brothers, August and Oliver Hazard Perry Belmont.

Back in Paris.

Several Chicagoans who have enjoyed the prolongation of the St. Moritz season have now returned to Paris. Among them are Mrs. George Russell Carr, who will be here till Easter with her two daughters, who are at a Paris school. Her husband was also at St. Moritz, but sailed for home a fortnight ago.

Austin Niblack with his wife, after spending the early part of the winter at Monte Carlo, have recently been to England as they are especially interested in horses and hunting. They are near Oxford and will remain there till after the running of the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, near Liverpool, a race which this year has a great many American entries.

MY MOST EMBARRASSING MOMENT

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

A Queer Plant.

I recently started working and took a position as a switchboard operator. There was a direct wire on the board to the warehouse plant.

A conference was being held in the office of the general manager and all heads of various out of town divisions were present. The manager requested me to get him the plant. I got all confused at this expression, and not wanting to let him or any one else know that I was not sure of what he meant, I looked in all the offices and finally returned to the manager's office with the statement, "What kind of plant did you want Mr. ——, I cannot find any flowers here."

All I remember is that the men could not stop laughing and that I stood there feeling terrible.

I finally understood that "plant" was a short expression for the "warehouse plant." C. V.

A Little Too Loud.

I was riding on the train with another girl. We were talking of different things and she said, "I can't see anything in men."

I answered, "I can, in every man——"

Just then a man, tall, lanky, red faced, and awkward, walked down the aisle, and I finished, "except that one."

He heard me and turned around. I thought I'd never stop blushing. J. E.

From the Mouth of a Babe.

I was entertaining a friend who is a fluent talker, and knowing that she would rattle on endlessly I placed the baby in his chair where I could watch him and listen to her.

I shall never forget my embarrassment nor the look of awakening that came in her eyes when little Robert piped up with this: "Now, Muvver, you talk!" L. D. L.

NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

Temple Noonday Services Start

By the Rev. W. B. Norton.

THE Chicago temple noonday Lenten services under the joint auspices of the Chicago Church federation and the First Methodist Episcopal church, Clark and West Washington streets, will begin tomorrow and continue until Good Friday, daily from 12 to 1 o'clock. Arthur Dunham will give a Lenten music recital for fifteen minutes preceding and following each service.

Presiding each day will be one of the following: Dean Shailer Mathews, president; George W. Dixon, vice president, and the Rev. C. Claud Travis, chairman of the commission on evangelism of the Chicago Church federation. The speakers and themes beginning tomorrow and following each succeeding noon, in order, will be: Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, "The Meaning of Lent for Modern Life"; Bishop Sheldon M. Griswold, "The Cross"; Dr. Clyde W. Howard, "From Garden to God"; Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, "The Joy of Salvation"; Bishop S. P. Spreng, "Facing the Cross"; Dr. John Thompson, "The Heartsick Jesus"; Dr. Joshua Oden, "Via Crucis"; Dr. P. W. Philpott, "The Unrecognized Christ"; Dr. Albert W. Palmer, "The Abiding Message of the Upper Room."

On Good Friday the service will extend from 12 to 3 o'clock. The three hours and the seven last words from the cross will be the themes upon which the following ministers will speak: Drs. Ernest F. Tittle, John Timothy Stone, L. W. Goebel, Charles A. Brooks, Ernest Bourner Allen, Perry J. Rice, and Roy E. Vale.

C. F. Andrews, who is probably Mahatma Ghandi's best non-Indian friend and also a close personal associate of Tagore and is himself one of the unique personalities of this generation, will speak with Dr. Gilkey at the Lenten services in the temple. After the service the world friendship commission of the Chicago Church federation will give a luncheon in Mr. Andrews' honor in the Red room of the La Salle hotel at 1 o'clock.

The Rev. E. Stanley Jones, D. D., the man with the Jesus message, missionary called to the educated non-Christians of India, is coming to Chicago for just one day. Not only his own church officiary, the Methodist Episcopal, but all denominations are uniting in one great missionary rally pal Church club. A return of the old Monday evening, April 1, at which Dr. Jones will speak and will be the only speaker on the program. All who have read of him and his books will be disappointed if they do not prepare to hear this unique leader and author of two books, "Christ of the Indian Road" and "Christ at the Round Table," best sellers in religious books from the day they left the press and continuing as such.

Dr. George Craig Stewart, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston, has been appointed professor of homiletics at the Western Theological seminary [Episcopal], Evanston. Dr. Stewart has been lecturing at the seminary this winter and will begin a regular course in preaching at the institution next fall. He will also continue his duties as rector of the parish at St. Luke's. Dr. Stewart's appointment is considered a forward step and the plan of having an active rector as professor of homiletics is followed by several other seminaries. In New York City Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick holds such a position with the Union Theological seminary.

Dr. Phillips E. Osgood, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, Minneapolis, Minn., will be the noontime speaker every day this week at the Garrick theater Lenten services of the Episcopal church club. A return of the old fashioned idea of family worship is the special feature of a plan of worship originated by Dr. Osgood. In addition to his address at noon, Dr. Osgood will preach Monday evening at St. Elizabeth's, Glencoe; Tuesday evening at St. Peter's, 621 Belmont avenue: Wednesday evening at Grace church, Oak Park; Thursday evening at the Church of the Redeemer, 56th street and Blackstone avenue. Monday noon he will be the guest at lunch and address directors of the Church club at the Union League club and Tuesday noon at the Central Y. M. C. A., by the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The Edgewater W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. W. J. King, 1334 Early avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and Miss Helen Hood, state president of Illinois, will be the speaker.

The United West Side choirs of the Episcopal church will sing "The Crucifixion," in conjunction with the sacred picture, "The Son of Man," at the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, Ashland boulevard and Adams street, on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Ten churches are coöperating in this program.

This morning at 11 o'clock the Rev. R. W. Sockman, D. D., pastor of the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, New York City, will preach the convocation sermon in the chapel of the University of Chicago, Woodlawn avenue and 59th street, Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, dean. At 4 p. m. at the musical vesper service the A Capella choir of Northwestern university will sing under the leadership of Dean Peter C. Lutkin.

This entire week has been set aside as a week of intercession and sacrifice by the general council of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., which is asking the churches to observe the week that the hearts of Presbyterians may be stirred and aroused to greater interest in the sacred causes for which they give benevolences and to loyalty in using the opportunity of making a special offering in order to bring the gifts up to the quotas assigned them during the year.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Dennis J. Dunne, D. D., pastor of the Holy Cross church, will lecture under the auspices of the Holy Name society on the "Roman Question," Thursday evening, at 6549 Maryland avenue. Msgr. Dunne will explain the origin, development, and decline of the states of the church and the final settlement of the Roman question. For years Msgr. Dunne was professor of church history and is recognized throughout the archdiocese as a scholar.

THE REV. EDWIN V. HOOVER.

THE REV. PHILIP J. MAHONEY.
[Rayhuff-Richter Photo.]

The Rev. Edwin V. Hoover, director of the Quigley Seminary Plain Chant choir, is the composer of the Veni Sancti Spiritus, which will be sung at the sacred concert this evening at the Holy Name cathedral. Father Hoover obtained his early education in the parochial schools and Quigley seminary of Chicago, after which he attended the American college at Rome, Italy, and received special training under the leader of the Sistine choir. Father Hoover teaches in Quigley seminary and spends every summer in visiting different universities, with special reference to his work. He has been in Germany, Spain, Italy, and France. He was ordained a priest in 1926.

Iorwerth W. Prosser, who has served the Edgewater Presbyterian church as organist and choirmaster for over eleven years, has resigned, his resignation to take effect immediately after Easter, in order to accept a similar position at the new First Presbyterian church, 64th street at Kimbark avenue.

The Chicago Graded union will hold a worship institute Friday at 1:30 p. m. in the Capitol building, State and Randolph streets. Speakers will include Dr. Paul H. Vieth, Vera Noyes, Mrs. Phebe Curtiss, and others.

"Patrons or Partners" will be the subject upon which the Rev. Ralph W. Sockman, D. D., Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, New York City, will speak this evening at 8 o'clock before the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall on the occasion of his first visit. Harry A. Wheeler will preside as vice president of the club. At 7 o'clock Dr. Howard E. Taylor, Berea, Ky., will speak of his experiences under the title, "Life in the Southern Highlands."

"Shall the Negro Be Encouraged to Seek Cultural Equality?" (Has the Negro the same intellectual possibilities as other races?) will be the subject of debate between one of the world's leading Negro scholars and authors, W. E. Burghardt Du Bois, and Lothrop Stoddard, Ph. D., lecturer and author of articles on race problems, at the Chicago Forum this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the north hall of the Coliseum, 1513 South Wabash avenue.

The Rt. Rev. Irving S. Cooper, regionary bishop of the Liberal Catholic church in the Province of the U. S. A., will speak at the Church of St. Raphael, 1105 Lawrence avenue, on the problem of marriage, this evening at 8 o'clock. The bishop will be in Chicago for some months carrying on missionary work in connection with the Liberal Catholic church.

The First Baptist church, 935 East 50th street, will begin a campaign today for raising a fund of $70,000 in preparation for the celebration of its one hundredth anniversary in 1933. The plan is to provide for the maintenance of the church for three years and pay off the mortgage on the community house so as to enter its second century's work free from all indebtedness.

The Rev. Gardner Alpheus MacWhorter, rector of Grace church, Pontiac, Ill., and voluntary Episcopal chaplain at the State Reformatory, Pontiac, will be the guest preacher this morning at 11 o'clock at the Cathedral Shelter, Peoria street at Washington boulevard, and this afternoon at St. James' Cathedral, Cass and Huron streets. The Rev. Mr. MacWhorter before going to Pontiac, assisted in the work of several Episcopal churches in the diocese.

The third anniversary of the dedication of the community service unit of Grace Evangelical church, Wrightwood and Kimball avenues, will be celebrated this morning at 10:30 and this evening at 8 p. m. by appropriate ceremonies. An interesting feature of the morning service will be a processional led by the pastor, the Rev. J. Alfred Nansen, S. T. D., and the Sunday school superintendent during the session of the school. The pastor will preach on "The Church and Religious Education." At the evening service the church orchestra will give a concert consisting of classical and sacred selections.

The Old St. James Roman Catholic church, Wabash avenue at 29th street, through its pastor, the Rev. James P. O'Donoghue, is arranging a celebration for the purpose of getting together the one-time members and friends of St. James parish on Palm Sunday. This is hoped to be an annual occurrence, at which each year there will be an unusual musical attraction. This year it is to be the only concert to be given in Chicago by the famous contralto, Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink. This may prove to be the last appearance of the noted soloist on the concert stage and she desires it to be for the benefit of St. James Parish, for which she has a particular affection.

The concert is under the patronage of His Eminence George Cardinal Mundelein, the Rt. Rev. B. J. Shell, auxiliary bishop of Chicago; the Rev. R. C. Maguire, chancellor, and the Rev. F. A. Ryan, assistant chancellor. Edward Collins, Chicago composer and pianist, will be the assisting artist, and Mrs. Katherine Collins Hoffmann will be the accompanist.

The Rev. Henry Kowert, pastor of the First St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, 1301 North La Salle street, the oldest Lutheran church in Chicago, has been called to the pastorate of the oldest Lutheran church in Pittsburgh, Pa. The Pittsburgh church has recently completed a $400,000 Gothic church, which is considered one of the finest Lutheran churches in America. The call will be officially and formally considered by First St. Paul's church in Chicago on Sunday, April 14.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Fourth Presbyterian church, Delaware place and North Michigan boulevard, at the organ recital and vesper service, Ruth Heiser, contralto, will sing the solo, "Love Not the World," by Sullivan, and Eric DeLamarter, organist, will play selections. The Rev. Capt. Paolo Bosio, pastor of the Waldensian church, Rome, Italy, will preach.

Jewish-Christian friendship and goodwill are being emphasized by an interchange of pulpits between Dr. Albert W Palmer, pastor of the First Congregational church, Oak Park, and Dr. Samuel Schwartz, rabbi Congregation B'hai Abraham Zion, Washington Boulevard temple. Dr. Palmer preached last Friday at the regular service at the Temple and in return Dr Schwartz has been invited to preach at the Oak Park church this evening at 7:45. As a compliment to the guest the choir has prepared a program of Jewish music, including Kol Nidre, the traditional chant for the Day of Atonement, and "Fear Not, O Israel," by Spicker, cantor of Temple Emanu-El, New York, for years.

The Congregational Ministers' union will be addressed tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at 19 South La Salle street by Dr George Craig Stewart of St Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston, on the subject, "The Significance of Lent in My Own Church."

The choir of Grace Episcopal church, connected with St. Luke's hospital, will formally open the new $125,000 building this evening at 7:45 by the singing of "The Crucifixion." Beginning next Sunday all the services will be held in the new church, 1426 Indiana avenue, although dedication and consecration will be delayed until the return of Bishop Charles P. Anderson, now on vacation in Florida. The Rev. Robert Holmes is rector and chaplain of the hospital.

The League of Religious Fellowship will hold a meeting tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the Hyde Park Presbyterian church, 53d street and Blackstone avenue. Prof. J. M. Artman will speak on "Modern Education in Religion."

Old St. Patrick's Catholic church, Des Plaines and Adams streets, the Rev. William J. McNamee, pastor, will celebrate St. Patrick's day today with pomp and ceremony. The Very Rev. Patrick Carroll, C. S. C., of Notre Dame university, will deliver the St. Patrick's day sermon at 10:30 solemn high mass, which will be sung by the entire vested choir of the church under the direction of Dr. J. Lewis Browne, organist and choir master. A luncheon attended by prominent Irish men and women of the city will follow.

Next Sunday, Palm Sunday, the new organ which has just been installed in Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, Belmont avenue and Abbott court, of which the Very Rev. Msgr. Joseph A. Casey is pastor, will be dedicated with solemn ceremony at 8 p. m., followed by a sacred concert to be given by the choir and guest soloists.

Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois, leading Negro scholar, will discuss "The Future of the Negro in America" at the Austin community forum this evening at 8 o'clock in the Masonic temple, 231 North Central avenue [5600 west]. Harrison Emanuel, Negro violinist, will play.

The Methodist Men's club of Glen Ellyn, Ill., W. W. Shaw Jr., president, will present an evening of interest and entertainment in the parlors of the Glen Ellyn Methodist Episcopal church on Tuesday, at which a motion picture of five reels—"The Man Nobody Knows"—will be shown for the first time in town. The Pullman Porters' quartet will sing spirituals and Dr. Johnston Myers, pastor emeritus of the Immanuel Baptist church of Chicago, will tell of the "Romance of the Bread Line."

Bishop Sheldon M. Griswold will hold confirmation service for a class at St. Barnabas Episcopal church, 4241 West Washington boulevard, this morning at 11 o'clock, the Rev. Walter S. Pond, rector.

Tomorrow morning Dr. Roy E. Vale of the First Presbyterian church, Oak Park, will be the speaker at the Methodist Preachers' meeting at the Chicago Temple, Clark and Washington streets. He comes under the auspices of the committee on evangelism.

Dr. William O. Butler, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Irving Park, and Dr. George P. Mayo of the Blue Ridge Industrial school, Virginia, will address the Episcopal Clergy's Round Table at St. James' Community house, 666 Rush street, tomorrow morning.

Gen. Frank L. Dickson, for fourteen years adjutant general of Illinois, and a member of congress, will be the speaker Thursday evening at a rally of the Young People's federation of the Chicago Presbytery at the Rogers Park Presbyterian church, Greenleaf and Greenview avenues. Following the address there will be special music and a social hour for the purpose of getting the groups from the different churches in the presbytery acquainted.

My Greatest Thrill

Write and tell us about the greatest thrill you ever experienced, and if we print your letter we'll pay you $1. Make your letters short and snappy. Address them to "Greatest Thrill" Editor, The Chicago Tribune.

First View of Mountains.

I was born in Chicago and had never been elsewhere except to visit in small neighboring towns. Several years ago I made a trip west to Colorado. I had never seen even a hill and went from flat Illinois over the plains of the midwest directly to the very heart of the Rockies. There I had the greatest thrill of my life on my first sight of the towering mountain peaks.

It was mid-April and they were covered with snow. Such a vast region of dazzling whiteness! Such majestic heights! I was literally overcome with their beauty and grandeur. From the first I loved the mountains and have gone back there many times, always to be thrilled anew, but never again with just such a fierce intensity as that first time. L. P.

Conflagration.

The other morning I was asleep when I heard mother, who lives next door, scream to my husband and myself, "Fire!"

I saw a flare of light on my bedroom door and thought our house or garage was burning. I jumped up panic stricken and ran to the kitchen to find that the house across the way was burning.

My relief was as great as my fear had been, and despite pity for the owners, our neighbors, I was thrilled at the sight, as it burned to the ground. I could watch the progress of the fire with greater emotion since I had experienced such intense fright on awakening. V. F.

Carnegie International Exhibit Is Here

Will Open on Tuesday at the Art Institute

By Maude Martin Ellis.

THE twenty-seventh Carnegie institute international exhibition of paintings opening at the Art institute, March 19, and continuing until April 21, promises unusual interest.

There are about 250 canvases representing thirteen, possibly fourteen different countries in a welter of style and color.

At the initial opening in Pittsburgh the United States was represented by 128 paintings, but that part is left out of the showing at the Art institute, as many of those paintings have been exhibited here from time to time.

Frenchman Wins First Prize.

André Derain, French modernist, was awarded the first prize of $1,500 by a unanimous vote of the jury, and his painting was purchased by trustees of the Carnegie institute on the opening night, for their permanent collection.

The jury of awards was composed of painters Anto Carte, Belgium; Colin Gill, England; Rockwell Kent and Ernest Lawson of this country.

An amusing feature regarding the awarding of first prize developed when it was announced that Derain was the victor. The modernists applauded, but upon viewing the painting it proved to have been done in a sober, dignified and straightforward manner; certainly not in the style of the belligerently revolutionary methods of his late work.

Seeing this painting it is difficult to imagine Derain as a charter member of that group of artists in France once known as Les Fauves—the wild beasts.

Conservative Canvas.

The subject of Derain's painting is unbelievably conservative for the French master. It is a large still life of game birds and shooting paraphernalia placed on a table covered by a white cloth. Predominating colors are brown, white and black and the delicate gradations in tone and quality are handled in his masterly fashion.

There is a smaller picture of Derain's in the exhibit, of a child's head, lightly sketched in his more modern manner.

The second prize of $1,000 was given to Pedro Pruno, whose friend and guide is Picasso. He, like Picasso, is a Spanish painter fostered by France, and is starred as one of the younger artists to win an important Carnegie prize. His picture is a still life composition of flowers.

An American, Glen O. Coleman, won third prize with a canvas painted some years ago, depicting a Greenwich Village scene.

Honorable Mention.

The first three honorable mentions were won by women. Dod Procter, an Englishwoman, with "A Portrait of a Girl"; Marie Laurencin, one of the best known French women painters, with one of her delicately toned figure compositions, and Georgina Klitgaard, a native New Yorker, contributing a fresh, colorful Woodstock landscape called "Truck Garden."

Albert Saverys, a young Belgian painter, was awarded honorable mention for a canvas entitled "Winter in Flanders." The Garden prize went to the French Henri Lebasque.

Picasso and Braque figures of controversy in the art world, are represented but won no mention.

Fewer Artists Than Formerly.

This exhibition provides an opportunity to compare the progress of painting in the United States with that in European countries. Fewer artists are showing in this International exhibit than formerly, but they are presenting more paintings.

Among the British exhibitors are Frank Brangwyn, Vivian Forbes, W. Russel Flint, Laura Knight, and Dod Procter. There are paintings, too, by Charles Sims, who died recently. Some declared him insane, others sane, and much argument has ensued as to his mental condition while painting his last pictures.

Some of the titles of his pictures are "Behold I Have Graven Thee on the Palm of My Hand," "Man's Last Pretenses of Consummation in Indifference," and "The Rebel Powers That Thee Array."

Upholding Tradition.

Tradition has spoken in the French section by men like Lucien Simon and Besnard. Paintings by these masters will be reviewed at some length later.

Austria has a careful draughtsman in Victor Hammer, who exhibits a lovely portrait of Elinor Patterson in her rôle as nun from "The Miracle."

Belgium has a promising young painter in Louis Buisseret, and Italy possibly in Anselm Bucci.

Two hundred and more paintings cannot be properly studied or appreciated in a summary fashion. They demand many leisurely visits to the gallery. So more of this later.

Notes of Art and Artists.

Four exhibitions are on view at the Arts club until March 24. Fifteen paintings by William Merrit Chase, loaned by Harold Wakem; paintings by William B. E. Ranken, old chintzes from Elinor Merrell, New York, and sculpture by John Duncan Fergusson. Mr. Chase was an important figure in America art, as well as a teacher.

There are some delightful paintings among the ten Paul Bartlett has on exhibition at the Chester H. Johnson gallery, 410 South Michigan avenue. His subjects are for the most part landscapes. Salcia Bahne will exhibit in this gallery on April 1 some of her oils and half a dozen charming nudes in water color.

The Business Men's Art club will hold its annual exhibit at the club rooms from March 18 until March 30.

At the Chicago Galleries association, 220 North Michigan avenue, there are exhibitions of paintings by Marie Blanke, Lucie Hartrath, and Gerald A. Frank, and sculpture by Elizabeth Haseltine, Elizabeth T. Holsman, Josephine Kern, Viola Norman, Ruth Sherwood, Alice L. Sloms, Anna M. Tilden, and Mabel L. Torrey.

In the galleries of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. there is an exhibition of paintings by Carl Lawless, and the seventeenth annual exhibition of the Chicago Society of Miniature Painters.

Louis Ritman, who began his life and study in Chicago and has continued his successful career in France for the last 20 years, sends an invitation to visit his present exhibition of paintings in New York at the Milch Galleries, 108 West 57th street. During his residence in France Mr. Ritman has received distinguished recognition and has been made a member of the Société Nationale des Beaux Arts.

Marshall Field and company announce an exhibition of contemporary decorative arts, beginning March 18, also a line of ceramics, some of which are done by the advanced pupils of Archipenko.

There is on view in the Hutchinson wing of the Art institute a collection of color prints by the Japanese master, Suzuki Harunobu. This artist was one of the first to use a variety of colors in his prints. He also made extensive use of embossing. The prints shown are from the Buckingham collection, and although it is difficult now to obtain the work of Harunobu in good condition these examples are remarkable for their freshness and clear printing. The prints were made between the years 1766 and 1770, the latter date being the year in which Harunobu died, at the early age of 40.

The exhibition of oriental art now being shown in the children's museum of the Art institute comprises many objects of absorbing interest not only to the youngsters but to their elders as well. One glass wall case contains sixteen wax figurines from Japan, each one dressed in some costume native to the country. There is a dude, or dandy, a mandarin, a policeman, a servant, a widow, a priest, a merchant, a farmer, a nurse and baby, a bride, a boy and a girl. Each wears a picturesque and distinctive costume. Other objects are a girl's beautifully decorated purple kimono, an Indian sari or brocaded robe, embroidered shoes, silver anklets from Calcutta, a fingernail guard from China, and many other most interesting objects. One of the most curious articles is a silver lock to be worn by a boy on his transit to heaven. The exhibition will continue until April 15.

FROM the painting, "Composition," by the young Belgian painter, Louis Buisseret, at the International exhibit at the Art institute.

Eames MacVeagh Host to Two Guests

By Mildred Jaklon.

WITH the arrival, scheduled for yesterday, of Vittoria Colonna, the duchess of Sermoneta, lady in waiting to the queen of Italy and a member of the oldest family in Rome (those are only a few of her identifications), and her friend, Mrs. John Garrett of Baltimore, Md., social affairs for this week should take quite a lively spurt.

The two visitors are the guests of Eames MacVeagh of 900 North Michigan avenue and are to be here through the next seven days. Mr. MacVeagh has had a difficult time in allotting dates, times, and places to the many prominent matrons who would feign be hostesses to his fair and distinguished friends.

Aside from the sociabilities that their arrival will provoke, there is little of a festive type on the calendar except the South Shore Country club's annual musical revue on Friday and Saturday evenings. These annual exhibitions of the singing, dancing, and wise-cracking talents in the ranks of the membership of that large organization have been going on for about eleven years, and have gained a reputation for being about the best of such amateur affairs it is possible to find.

This year's "Blackbirds of 1929" is based on the plan of the revue of the same name which has been running successfully in New York City, and is a revivification of the old-time minstrel show, with some of the club's favorite stars who have appeared previously doing their best stunts. There will be specialties by Ralph Wood, who was interlocutor for the first show, a decade ago; by Natalie Frees, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Carey, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bates, Henry Pauiman Jr., Benny Watson, John McGovern, Joe Lawler, Dr. Ralph Parker, who has been in about every show the S. S. C. C. has had, John Wilson, and Malcolm Anderson.

Many Notables at Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Va., March 16.—The coming of spring is felt in the arrival of many notables for their annual visits. Prior to returning to New York and other cities to prepare for the summer, these annuals are here for the waters and the sports. Among the arrivals of the last week are Mr. and Mrs. Cortlandt E. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. William Wrigley, Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Lyon, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. George Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers W. Converse, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Hayward Ferry.

In the Feminine Realm

Senora Valles of Zamarramala is the first woman mayor in Spain.

It is estimated that nine women out of ten in the United States use face powder.

The Misses Margaret M. and Frances M. McAllister, 25 year old twins, have recently been admitted to the bar in New York City.

ENGAGED.

"HOT SPIRIT WATERS BIG MEDICINE" says Chief Quapaw

Take a Winter Vacation Tip From Chief Quapaw!

300 years and more ago Chief Quapaw and his warriors sought health and rest in the healing waters of Hot Springs. Then came Ponce de Leon and De Soto acclaiming them the true Fountain of Youth. Today more than 300,000 health and pleasure seekers each year take the cure in the medical waters and soft sunshine of this most popular National Resort.

Quapaw's Tip is Your Guide to Robust Health

His simple words, "Big Medicine," rightly describe Hot Springs' incomparable, healing mineral waters as America's supreme natural cure: Words that assure you relief from rheumatism, neuritis, nicotine poisoning, high blood pressure and kindred ills: Baths that put your mind alert and body in vigorous condition—available to you in the world's finest Bath Houses, operated under Govt. supervision at remarkably low rates. WRITE FOR SPECIAL BATHS BOOKLET.

Vacation Land of Balmy Air and Outdoor Fun

And play while you bathe. Here's golf at its best, horseback through pine forests, tennis, motoring, hunting—or relaxed leisure in the sunshine—all in a restfully mild climate. Easily reached on through sleepers—by paved motor highways—and by airways. Unlimited accommodations including splendid hotels, apartments, cottages and boarding houses. Come now for a refreshing winter vacation and renew your youth. MAIL THE COUPON FOR FREE BOOKLET AND INFORMATION.

After a Strenuous Day
A Restful Hour in the Lounge at Chicago's

Morrison Hotel

Tallest in the World
Most Central in Chicago

A VIEW IN THE LOUNGE MORRISON HOTEL CHICAGO

The New Morrison, when completed, will be the world's largest and tallest hotel—46 stories high, with 3,400 rooms.

WHEN late winter is merging with early spring, and you have begun to tire of theatres, there's one place where evenings always pass quickly—the Morrison Lounge.

"Travelers from All the World"

There are few places where you will meet more interesting groups—travelers from every land, taking a few minutes' relaxation with a magazine, or "trading" experiences in cities 'round the globe.

The Terrace Garden

Later, if you feel inclined for merrier surroundings, you will find delightful entertainment and music in the Terrace Garden, the "dine-and-dance" restaurant of international fame.

Rooms, $2.50 Up

At this central intersection, revenues from subrentals pay all the ground rent, making possible a rate scale that is little more than half those effective in other leading hotels.

All Rooms with Bath

Every room is outside, with bath, running ice water, telephone, bed-head reading lamp, and Servidor. A housekeeper assigned to each floor. Garage service for all guests.

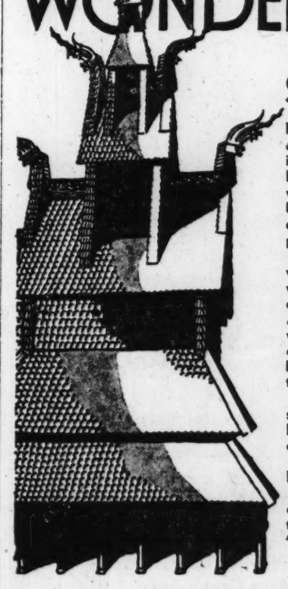
to NORTHERN WONDERLANDS

on the
S. S. RELIANCE



Do you think of the Northern Regions as a barren waste? Then what a surprise is in store for you when the S. S. RELIANCE pushes her nose into Arctic waters and opens up for you a wonder book of towering mountains and verdant valleys, nestling hamlets and plunging cataracts.

At Spitzbergen, almost within the very sight of the great Ice Barrier, you will see stormy petrels,—great colonies of them—geese, snipe or eider duck. Ashore on these rugged coasts, you will pluck polar willows, brilliant mosses, perhaps taste "famine bread"—life-saver of the Arctic—growing in the very shadow of some vast glacier.

To experience all this and still to be surrounded by every luxury of the S. S. RELIANCE, is indeed a triumph of modern adventuring.

The RELIANCE sails on June 29th from New York.

Seven short cruises—from 16 to 26 days—will be made from Hamburg by the "Resolute", "Oceana" and "Orinoco".

DEAF CHILDREN 'HEAR' BY FEEL; LEARN FASTER

N.U. Professor's Device Effective.

At Alexander Graham Bell public school, 3800 North Oakley avenue, a small group of congenitally deaf children are learning to hear through their fingers.

DR. ROBERT H. GAULT.

After more than five years of experimentation under the auspices of the National Research council and the Carnegie institution, Washington, Dr. Robert H. Gault, professor of psychology at Northwestern university, is putting into practical use a revolutionary method of teaching the deaf to hear which he has developed in the laboratory.

By means of a microphone at or near the mouth of the speaker, an amplifier and a receiver held in the fingers of the "listener," these deaf children are learning the "feel" of speech. And they are doing it so well that school officials have expressed astonishment at the rapidity with which they are learning to speak and read.

Five years ago in the psychology department at Northwestern university, Dr. Gault, experimenting with an ordinary speaking tube and a soundproof box, discovered that the sound of a speaker's voice could be felt by placing the palm of the hand over the receiving end of the tube. A student in the laboratory, by practicing half an hour each day, was able in the course of a few months to distinguish thirty-eight different words by their "feel."

Ambitious for Improvement.

"That was the beginning," said Dr. Gault. "And it occured to me that suitable electrical apparatus might be had by means of which the sounds of speech could be communicated to the skin of a subject and be received there in such a manner that nice distinctions could be made between vocal utterances."

Minor adjustments were made in a commercial variety of acousticon. The wire connecting the transmitter and the ear piece of the device were spliced so that an experimenter could take up his position at the transmitter end of the acousticon in one building while the subject, or "listener," could take his place in another, holding the ear piece or receiver end of the outfit in his fingers.

When this apparatus had been set to the "listener" took his position at the receiving end, holding the tip of a finger through a wide aperture in the cap of the receiver lightly against the diaphragm. If the diaphragm should vibrate sufficiently in unison with the speaker's voice at the other end in an adjoining building the "listener" should be able to feel it move under his fingers.

"And he could feel it," said Dr. Gault.

Aided by Bell Laboratories.

With the aid of the Bell Telephone laboratories, Dr. Gault devised on apparatus which he calls the teletactor which a deaf "listener" may hold in his hand for the purpose of feeling the voice of a speaker at a microphone practically any distance removed. Between the microphone and the fingers of the teletactile auditor are batteries and an amplifier.

With this teletactor Dr. Gault began a series of experiments with deaf persons of various ages, and he demonstrated that they could feel speech instrumentally communicated to the finger tips with sufficient nicety to enable them to 'interpret it even though the speaker be out of sight.

A 6 year old congenitally deaf girl who had never been in school acquired one-seventh of a school year more than one-half of the vocabulary that is expected to be acquired in a whole year in a conventional school by the deaf. In addition she learned to read all her words in print when they composed sentences and when they were isolated. She learned to compose and write sentences. Printing and reading are not attempted, Dr. Gault explained, in a conventional school at so early an age.

Learn to "Play" with Voice.

A 7 year old boy, who had barely begun to use his voice, discovered one day in the course of laboratory exercises that when he made a vocal noise at the transmitter he could feel something going on in the receiver in his hand. At the same time he discovered that, at the other side of the room, his mother, who was holding another receiver, felt something going on also, and having found that his voice could do such things, began, as his mother said, "playing with his voice ten times as much as ever before."

"The result," Prof. Gault said, "was analogous to what happens in the case of the boy who has discovered that he can throw a ball all the way across the street. He plays with his newly found power and practices in its use."

When Dr. Gault returned to Northwestern university in September after three years of experimentation with the teletactor under the auspices of the national research council, he organized a selected group of congenitally deaf children at Alexander Graham Bell school that his methods might be put into practical use in schools for the deaf.

In the room where the teletactor is being used, each pupil and the teacher has both a receiver and a transmitter or microphone. The teacher has a little switchboard at her desk, and by throwing the right

Women's Club to Hold Home Exposition

A Better Homes exposition will be staged by the members of the Wilmette Women's club Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the club house, 10th street and Greenleaf avenue, Wilmette. The entire proceeds of the exposition will be added to the club's fund for the construction of an addition to its building, which will be started next month.

Shops in downtown Chicago, public service institutions and manufacturing concerns will join with Wilmette firms in exhibiting and demonstrating the new features for the home. A continuous musical program will be provided by the exhibitors and a tea room will furnish refreshments. Plans are being made to accommodate several thousand visitors on each of the four days of the exhibit.

Limited to North Shore Tastes.

"This is one of the largest projects ever undertaken on the north shore," Mrs. O. E. Thaleg, general chairman, said. "Michigan avenue and the loop will be brought to Wilmette. Your interests will greet you from the first, as the small area has necessitated limiting the exhibits to the tastes of the north shore residents."

Mrs. Ashton Taylor and Mrs. Gordon Wilson are working on the decorations and the entertainment program is being arranged by Mrs. John Taylor Booz and Mrs. C. P. Berg.

The committee in charge of the tea room and the sale of booths is composed of Mrs. Knight Blanchard, Mrs. Harry Barnhill, Mrs. Max C. Gregg, Mrs. Charles Moody, Mrs. Earl Smith, Mrs. Fred Parry, Mrs. Leonard Starkel, Mrs. Earl Davenport, Mrs. E. G. Allen, Mrs. H. E. Rohrer, Mrs. Eugene Arms, Mrs. Frank H. Seubold, Msr. H. O. Weishaar, Mrs. W. H. Evans, Mrs. Charles N. Evans, Mrs. Roger Williams, Mrs. W. O. Morris, Mrs. John Bartholomew, Mrs. F. L. McGrath, Mrs. Earl McDow, Mrs. C. C. Kidd, Mrs. W. H. Rehfeld, Mrs. Raymond Armstrong, Mrs. C. P. Burpee, and Mrs. A. E. Beirnes.

Members of the publicity committee are: Mrs. Leland Pierson, Mrs. John Campbell, Mrs. Frederick Kilner, Mrs. Ralph Potter, and Mrs. David Hall.

Garden Tools to Miniatures.

The exhibits will include quilts and blankets, refrigerators, oil burners, miniatures, reducing machines, oriental rugs, interior decorations, pianos, radios, phonographs, china and glassware, awnings, paints, garden tools and seed, groceries, lighting fixtures and wearing apparel. In addition booths have been taken by a real estate concern, a bank, a travel bureau, an insurance company, and a transportation corporation. Another firm will exhibit a complete bathroom in green tile.

In connection with the Better Homes exposition a poster contest was recently held at the Evanston Academy of Fine Arts, of which Carl Scheffler is director. Twenty-six persons were entered in the contest for the best posters advertising the exposition. Miss Louise Ebeling, 1124 Asbury avenue, Evanston, was awarded first prize, and other prizes went to Robert King, Hugh Campbell, and Mrs. William Swift Lord. Robert Leffingwell received honorable mention.

Mrs. Hayes McKinney, 1035 Chestnut avenue, Wilmette, is president of the women's club, which has a membership of more than 600 residents of Wilmette, Winnetka, and Evanston. The club was organized in 1899. The new building will contain, as its main feature, an auditorium and stage large enough for all amateur theatrical productions on the north shore.

Robert E. Hickey of 1331 Elmdale avenue, our town, and Peru, Ind., press agent for the Sells-Floto circus, was a visitor to the sanctum with a pocketful of good five cent seegars and a request that we print a little piece saying the peanut and popcorn season will open March 30 at the Coliseum and that, incidentally, the show this year is bigger and better than ever.

Churches Pay Tribute Today to St. Patrick

St. Patrick's day, coming in mid-Lent, is a day of gayety for Irish Catholics on the north side and is being celebrated extensively today with special masses and sermons at the five churches which number the greatest number of Celts among the parishioners.

At several of the churches social celebrations were held Friday. Entertainments by school children were likewise held.

"St. Patrick, Missionary of Ireland," will be the subject of the sermon delivered at St. Gregory's church, 1636 Gregory street, by the pastor, the Rev. Father Michael Klasen, at the 11 o'clock high mass this morning. Special music has been prepared.

Party Opens New School.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' auxiliary, a card party and reception was held Friday evening at the school auditorium to commemorate St. Patrick's day. The party also served as official opening of the new school hall.

The Rev. P. J. Mahoney, president of St. Viator college of Bourbonnais, Ill., will deliver a sermon on St. Patrick at the evening services tonight at St. Bonaventure's church, Diversey parkway at Marshfield. Masses are being held this morning at 7, 8:30, and 11:30 o'clock.

Celebrate Feast Day.

The feast day of Erin will be celebrated at St. Andrew's church, Addison and Paulina, with a high mass at 12 o'clock today. Theme of the sermon will relate to Ireland's patron saint.

St. Vincent's church at 1010 Webster avenue, numbers a great many Irish among its parishioners. Today at 9 o'clock a special mass will be held. Sermon on St. Patrick will be delivered.

CIVIC GROUPS SEEK PARK FOR EACH 4 BLOCKS

Far N. Side Bodies Unite in Drive.

Numerous business and improvement associations in the Rogers Park and Edgewater districts are joining a movement to obtain additional small park sites for the communities. Although the movement was started several years ago it has only recently gained headway, and the various organizations have appointed committees to survey the districts, suggest sites, and promote the immediate conversion of the properties into parks and playgrounds.

The plan suggested by those backing the campaign provides that a small park and recreation spot be located within every three or four blocks, where babies may be taken for sunshine and fresh air. The movement is principally led by Thomas F. Myers Jr., president of the Myers Publishing company, publishers of several community newspapers on the north side. The parks located on the lake shore are unsuitable, due to the great number of bathers frequenting the beaches during the summer months, he declared, and the other parks in the district are not available to all residents because of the distances.

West Edgewater Body Busy.

The West Edgewater Improvement association is the most recent organization to join in the drive. A committee has been appointed by Charles B. James, president, to survey the district, select sites, and devise means to obtain their use as parks. Members of the committee are William A. Patterson, chairman, Victor Swenson, and J. G. Harasek. The committee plans to take up the problem with the commissioners of Lincoln park. They have also invited the coöperation of other organizations in the 50th ward. The question will be discussed at a meeting tomorrow night in the Capital State Savings Bank building, 5437 North Clark street.

Edward M. Olson has been appointed chairman of the small parks committee of the Uptown Clark Street Business Men's association. Other members are O. A. Christensen, Nils G. Peterson, and Carl Johnson. The association urges that the property owned by the city at the southeast corner of Ashland and Bryn Mawr avenues be turned into a small park.

Frank M. Schutz, president of the Rogers Park-Clark Street Business association, reports that a committee to investigate the small park conditions will be appointed at an early meeting. The association urges that the block north of Lunt avenue and east of North Damen avenue be purchased as a park. The question will be taken up with Ald. E. I. Frankhauser [49th] and the commissioners of the Ridge Avenue Park district.

Cite Need for Prompt Action.

The corner of this block at Lunt and Damen avenues was recently obtained by the city for a park following an order by the city council leasing the property from the board of education. Mr. Schutz said that all the buildings in the block are old and that all of the property should be obtained for park purposes before new apartment buildings are constructed on the ground.

The Howard District Business association is considering an experiment before supporting any move for the purchase of park sites in the district, Robert E. Ferguson, president, said. The association plans to rent a small parcel of property, convert it into a park and then determine what use the park provides.

"We want to be sure there is a need for park facilities in this district before indorsing any expenditure for land," he said.

E. P. Brennan is chairman of the small parks committee of the Rogers Park Improvement association. The report of the committee will be made at the next meeting of the association in the Phillip State bank building, Lunt avenue and Clark street.

DIRECTS BENEFIT

Mrs. Sewell Chase Sawyer.

Mrs. Sewell Chase Sawyer, president of the local alumnæ branch of the college for women, Western Reserve university, has arranged a benefit performance at the New Evanston theater tomorrow to raise funds for the pledges to the million dollar endowment drive now in progress. Alumnæ have been asked to try to give $200 each. The object of the endowment fund is to finance the development of new methods of education, to increase the salaries of the instructors, and to maintain the prestige of the institution by giving it financial security.

Well Babies Are Kept Well in Evanston

Wicker ones and steel, plain and upholstered ones, blue and brown, black and gray perambulators, carriages, buggies, and gocarts are lined up row on row in front of an old house in Boltwood park at Florence avenue and Main street in Evanston of a Tuesday morning.

It's the baby clinic conducted by the health department of Evanston that draws them there and the babies are as varied as their vehicles.

Close to forty women gather in the clinic rooms and exchange pleasantries as they are waiting for their babies' names to be called for examination.

Every baby is weighed, members of the Junior league of Evanston officiating at the scales. Then they are examined by one of the physicians connected with the health department. Every new baby entering the clinic has a thorough examination and a history written up about it.

The Evanston health department conducts six such clinics in Evanston under the direction of Dr. John W. H. Pollard. Miss May Fulton, director of nurses, who supervises the work, has developed and expanded them.

Five registered nurses assist with the work—Miss Ingeborg Jorgenson, Miss Faye Soper, Miss Ruth Peffley, Miss Lou Esther Ellison, and Miss Alice Keith, dietitian. Six pediatricians and three obstetricians are connected with the department.

Another closely associated work is handled at the welfare stations, the prenatal clinic.

Both of these clinics were originally started and sponsored by the Evanston branch of the Infant Welfare society.

The Infant Welfare association is still actively interested in the work, although it is not supported by the city. In the last year it has decorated Willard clinic and supplied new scales to all of them.

Present officers of the organization include: President, Mrs. A. Clement Wilde; vice president, Mrs. Pierson Irwin; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Petit; recording secretary, Mrs. Roger Foote.

In the various clinics during the last year, 1,082 babies, 593 children of preschool age, and 167 expectant mothers were registered.

RECALLS LAND AT $12 AN ACRE IN ROGERS PARK

Founder's Grandson Reviews Growth.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

When the houses in Rogers Park numbered not more than fifty, the residence of Patrick L. Touhy was the costliest of them all. The sum of $18,000 had gone into the construction of its twenty-three rooms, and from the square tower on the roof could be seen the greater portion of the surrounding woods.

S. R. TOUHY. [Waltinger Photo.]

The view from the tower, enjoyed by such guests as Gen. Phil Sheridan, Reginld de Koven, former Gov. John M. Palmer, and Carter H. Harrison Sr. has changed considerably with passing years. The house, built in 1871 and for many years a famous landmark is itself gone, having been torn down in 1917.

It seemed to me that no one could be better fitted to furnish the background of Rogers Park than someone who had spent his boyhood in the vanished homestead whose grounds ran from Rogers avenue to Touhy avenue, and from Clark street to Ashland avenue. So I called on S. Rogers Touhy at his offices, 7367 North Clark street.

25,000 Newcomers in Two Years.

We talked of how such a large proportion of Chicago's millions had come from "someplace else," of the 25,000 newcomers who were said to have arrived in Rogers Park within the last two years, of the locality with a population of 100,000 that had sprung up within his lifetime.

"The old home," I ventured, "how did it feel to live all those years in the mansion that was the pride and envy of the community?"

"I never gave it a thought," replied Mr. Touhy. "I wasn't born there. The family moved in when I was a baby—on the day, by the way, of the Chicago fire. I lived there until 1916."

It was after Mr. Touhy's grandfather, Philip Rogers, that the suburb was named. Philip Rogers, a native of Ireland, came to the country about 1838 and settled on a quarter section of land that he bought from the government. By 1856 Mr. Rogers had accumulated some 1,600 acres of land in the Rogers Park and Ravenswood district.

Used Ingenuity to Hold Land.

Philip Rogers was a most practical man. In order to hold the acres it was necessary to make them productive and so he converted the trees into charcoal and, when this industry lapsed, raised vegetables on the soil, that, along the ridge, was excellent for such purposes.

Mr. Touhy's father, Patrick L. Touhy, married into the family in 1865. Taking control of affairs, he sold part of the land and some of it he subdivided, selling the lots at from $15 to $20 a foot. About this time he built the big $18,000 home and, to defray his outlays, sold a plat of 100 acres to S. P. Lunt, who afterward sold an equal interest to H. B. Jackson, C. H. Morse, L. L. Greenleaf, and John V. Farwell, names that have lingered in designating the streets.

You could buy an acre in Rogers Park for $12 in 1855. In 1874, it was that much a foot—considered startling at the time as a sign of progress. To day, east of Clark street, the land runs from $500 to $2,500 a foot, one piece on Howard street having sold at $3,000 a foot.

"Yes, there's been a change," agreed Mr. Touhy, "especially since the days when the Indians brought their families across the prairie and pitched their wigwams on the boundary line while their spokesmen rode down to the city to transact business. Our hired man, in those day, usually reported a shortage in the milk supply during these visits of the tribe. You may wonder why Clark street isn't any straighter than it is. It took no more than maybe a tree along the trail to divert its course.

Sixteen Businesses 40 Years Ago.

"Leaping from that period to the year 1888 in Rogers Park, I have an old fire map that shows the business that was conducted here then. It was all between Lunt and Estes [then Jackson avenue] and from Market [now Ravenswood park] to Front [now Paulina street]. Sixteen places of business in all, and scattered. Clark street was Chicago avenue then."

The map shows the railroad station in about the same spot as today. Other institutions included the Peter Phillip flour and feed store—beginning of the splendid Philip State bank, now at the northeast corner of Clark street and Lunt avenue.

The drug store of John F. Rice, Peter Tres, boots and shoes (still in business); John Lindley's meat market.

The Thomas ink factory. Incidentally, Rogers Park has known two factories in its history. The ink factory proved a success and moved to New York. The paper bottle factory, though highly promoted—not so good.

Sidney Lanphere, groceries; P. L. Touhy, real estate office; James Adams' barber shop; John Keil's meat market; Mrs. Hannah Sharp, groceries and notions—their places of business were shown on the map.

Bell Summoned Fire Volunteers.

The fire engine house with a bell on its roof that brought every able male responding to its call appeared, as did the stores of Edwin S. Price, hard-switch she can enable any pupil in the room to speak into the fingers of his mates. Thus the youngsters can use the sense of touch not only to help in the interpretation of speech but as a stimulus to voice expression as well.

Rivalry Among Pupils.

"We are no longer limited to strictly individual work in relation to speech," said Dr. Gault. "For the first time in the history of education of the deaf we have developed a rivalry in speech among deaf children. And there is real rivalry here. Billy thinks he can make a given spoken sentence feel better than Johnny did. By the simple expedient of throwing the switch the teacher gives him his chance. Then everybody wants a chance to show how he can speak.

"When the children can feel the voice of the teacher and see her face while she is in the act of speech, the combination enables the deaf to understand 30 to 100 per cent more accurately and completely than they could as unaided lip readers. The combination makes it possible to speed up instruction to a marked degree and leaves the subject a better lip reader than he was at the outset."

While the present teletactor requires the heavy batteries which confine its use to the schoolroom or the laboratory, Dr. Gault is now working with the Bell Telephone laboratories on a much lighter model which, he hopes, can be carried without inconvenience. The laboratories expect to complete such an apparatus in the near future. With this a deaf persons can get the feel of another's speech, wherever he may be, and, with the aid of lip reading, will be enabled to "hear" and interpret speech much more accurately than by lip reading alone.

"On this point twenty-two deaf persons of widely varying ages have been examined. We have a total of 124 records. They show that by touch and vision combined listeners make around 30 per cent better interpretation of speech than by vision alone. Touch contributes some indications that vision doesn't, and vice versa," Dr. Gault said.

The sense of touch can detect vibrations in the teletactor that are going as rapidly as 2,700 times a second, Dr. Gault added. The highest rate hitherto known is 1,600 a second. The 2,700 rate is ample, he said, to include the whole range of the essentials in any person's speech.

"LISTENING" WITH FINGER TIPS

By the use of the teletacter, invented by Dr. Robert H. Gault of Northwestern university, pupils of Alexander Graham Bell school are learning to "hear" with their finger tips. By operating a switchboard on her desk, a teacher can make it possible for any pupil to speak to any other pupil.

MRS. O. H. HOFFMAN NOMINATED FOR P.-T. PRESIDENCY

Mrs. O. H. Hoffman has been nominated for the presidency of the Leander Stone School Parent-Teacher association by the nominating committee, it was announced by Mrs. F. M. Sturtevant, chairman of the committee, at the last meeting of the association, in the school building, 6239 North Leavitt street. Election of officers will be held early in April. Mrs. R. E. McCartney, 6413 Hoyne avenue, has been nominated for another term as corresponding secretary.

Other candidates named on the slate are: First vice president, Mrs. E. J. Bensing; second vice president, Mrs. Louis Hilfer; third vice president, Morris Brimm; recording secretary, Mrs. A. G. Lennox; and treasurer, Mrs. Marshall De Pew. Mrs. Charles Gregg, 6442 North Leavitt street, has been president of the association during the last year.

Parents Seek Fund to Send Senn High Band to Denver

Parents of members of the Senn High school band met Tuesday night at the North End Women's club, 6200 Sheridan road, to discuss means of raising funds to send the band to Denver, Colo., to compete in the national band contest. Members of the committee in charge of obtaining funds are David M. Davidson, principal; Capt. A. R. Gish, director of the band; Miss E. C. O'Mally, Mrs. James A. Larsen, Mrs. Charles Wilson Madden, Mrs. E. H. Johnson, and Mrs. Edwin L. Read.

Progressive Association Installs J. G. Steuernagle

John G. Steuernagle was installed as president of the Progressive Improvement association at the monthly meeting Thursday evening at 2501 Irving Park boulevard. Other officers elected last month are: Vice president, Fred J. Blumer; secretary, Peter A. Lenz; treasurer, Edward Vollmer, and sergeant at arms, Rudolph Schwartzkopf.

SEEK ADDITIONAL SUPPORT IN DRIVE FOR NEW SCHOOLS

The coöperation of all civic organizations in the north side is being requested in letters mailed by the junior and senior high school promotional committee of the West Rogers Park and north town districts of Chicago. The committee, which was recently organized by the parent-teacher associations of five schools in the district, urges the immediate construction of junior and senior high schools to relieve the overcrowded conditions in the schools of the far north side.

Officers of the committee are: Chairman, Ruben B. Kilgore, and secretary, Mrs. Arthur Gridley. Members of the committee are F. D. Eldredge, W. H. Jerrett, F. L. Sturtevant, Miss Margaret Pickham, William Bobzien, Frank C. Stauder Jr., the Rev. Irwin C. Birk, Benjamin J. Schlau, W. H. Creber, G. P. Phillip, O. A. Christensen, Henry W. Hoffman, Lyle D. Several members of the latest graduating class at Lane Technical High school have organized an alumni fraternity to be known as Phi Beta Alpha. This afternoon they are holding a smoker to which twenty-five prospective mebers have been invited, at the home of Bernard Prochep, 4715 North Whipple street. Officers of the new fraternity are: Grand master, Julius Press; vice grandmaster, Sam Berger; secretary, Normal Feingold; treasurer, Milton Kurkov. Original members include: Bernard Prochep, Isadore Minkus, Hilbert Frisch, Max Berger, and Hymen Spiegel.

35 BOYS CANVASS FOR $2,000 TO PAY CHURCH EXPENSES

More than 75 pledges have been obtained to date by the sales force of 35 boys, who are canvassing for funds for the Howard Community church, 1405 Howard street, Robert E. Ferguson, supervisor of the group, reports. The boys, all of whom are less than 21 years old, are soliciting subscriptions throughout the entire city, and hope to double the quota of $1,000 before the close of the drive April 1.

The sales force was organized by Mr. Ferguson, president of the Howard District Business association, and sales meetings are held Monday and Saturday evenings.

The drive opened recently with a father and son dinner held in the church banquet hall. Prizes will be awarded to the two boys obtaining the greatest number of subscriptions, regardless of the amount, Mr. Ferguson said. The first prize is a silver loving cup, and the second place winner will be awarded a bronze medal. The awards have been donated by Charles W. Ferguson, 1635 Howard street, and Cletus C. Bourne, 1624 Howard street.

Before a boy may be enlisted as a full fledged member of the subscription force he must obtain five signed pledges. Another church group is soliciting pledges from church members. James H. Turner, 7612 Rogers avenue, is general chairman of the drive. The Rev. Caradoc Morgan is pastor of the church.

"Race Question" Topic of Lecture at Wilson "Y"

"The Race Question" will be the topic of Prof. W. D. Schermerhorn's lecture Tuesday evening in the Wilson avenue department, Y. M. C. A., 1725 Wilson avenue. In this lecture, the seventh of a series on "Christianity and Politics," Prof. Schermerhorn will discuss the race question with reference to its settlement by exclusion, segregation, amalgamation, or some other means. He is a member of the faculty of the Garrett Biblical institute.

ARCADIA TERRACE GROUP IS WAGING MEMBER DRIVE

George W. Schmidt has been appointed chairman of the committee in charge of a membership drive to be waged by the Arcadia Terrace Improvement association during the remainder of the month. A canvass will be made of every resident of the district bounded by Western avenue on the east, Peterson avenue on the north, Lincoln avenue on the west, and Catalpa avenue on the south.

The association has been invited by the commissioners of the River Park district to participate in the dedication of the new field house in Green Briar park, bordering the Arcadia Terrace district. Frank Adrian has been appointed chairman of a committee to make arrangements for the event, which will be held next month.

Officers of the association are: President, James N. Kearns; vice president, Theodore Kruse; recording secretary, Mr. Schmidt; financial secretary, Mr. Adrian; treasurer, John Overbeck; and attorney, Harry Moran.

Parochial Schools Open Basket Tourney Thursday

The annual basketball tournament of Cook county parochial grammar schools will be held on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at St. George school, 350 Sherman avenue, Evanston. The tournament is sponsored by the Fathers' club of St. George school. The team winning first place will be awarded a large gold basketball, and each member will be given a small gold emblem. Second and third place teams will receive silver and bronze prizes, respectively.

IT'S KNUCKLE DOWN IN MARBLE TOURNEY OF EVANSTON YOUTH

It will be knuckle down of nothing for Evanston boys and girls who want to enter the Evanston marble tournament next month conducted by the bureau of recreation, according to an announcement of the contest rules released by Charles T. Byrnes, director of men's and boys' activities.

There won't be many girls entering, Mr. Byrnes said, if past performances count for anything, but those of the gentler sex who don't arrive at their fifteenth birthday before July 1, as well as boys under 15, may try for the city championship.

The game will be "ringer," played in a ring ten feet in diameter with thirteen marbles placed in the form of a cross, one in the middle and three along each arm. The ring marbles must be ⅝ of an inch in diameter and the shooter not less than ½ inch nor more than ⅝ inch in diameter.

Participants must knuckle down on each shot and the one who shoots the most marbles out of the ring wins. Liners will not count. Two out of three or three out of five games constitute a set. Evanston's champion will be eligible to compete for state honors.

North Shore Baptists to Hear Rev. A. J. Harms

The Rev. A. J. Harms of the Northern Baptist Theological seminary has been selected to fill the pulpit of the North Shore Baptist church, Berwyn and Lakewood avenues, during the absence of the Rev. Herbert W. Virgin. Dr. Virgin is making a six weeks' tour of Palestine.

PUPILS TO HEAR BUREAU CHIEF OF RED CROSS

Dr. Thomas E. Green, director of the Red Cross national speakers' bureau, will complete a heavy program in Chicago this week. Tomorrow he will speak at Roosevelt High school, 3436 Wilson avenue, and Foreman Junior High school. On Tuesday morning he is scheduled to speak at Presbyterian Theological seminary and at noon he will address the Rogers Park Lions club.

On Wednesday of last week he gave two talks, at St. Stanislaus Kosta, 1366 Bradley avenue, and St. John Cantius school, 1025 Fry street. Thursday he spoke before the Streeterville Lions club. Friday he lectured at Sullivan Junior High school, 6631 Bosworth avenue, in the morning, and at Armstrong school, 2111 Estes avenue, in the afternoon.

MOSES BAUM IS NAMED TO HEAD SOCIAL CENTER

Moses Baum has been elected to succeed Prof. C. J. Wilson as president of the North Park community center. Prof. Wilson, who is vice president of North Park college, recently resigned as head of the community center. Members of the association also voted to change the name of the organization to Peterson community center. The center meets in Peterson school, 5500 North Christiana avenue.

Other officers elected for the year are: Vice president, Mrs. Chris Pedersen; secretary, Mrs. Walter Grau, and treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Pearson. Mr. Baum, the new president, is also president of the Greater North Park Improvement association.

SPACE PROVIDED FOR 200 BOOTHS AT UPTOWN FAIR

Program to Include Revue and Style Show.

More than 200 exhibitors will have booths at the Greater Uptown Chicago trade exposition, which will be held April 8 to 13 in the Broadway armory, E. C. Harrell, general chairman, announced yesterday. The exposition, which is being sponsored by the Uptown Lions club for the benefit of its war memorial fund, is being supported by all civic organizations in the district, he said. Many booths have been contracted for already by merchants of the uptown district and other communities on the north side.

"We feel that this is the greatest community in Chicago," Mr. Harrell, an active member of the Lions club said. "We intend to show all Chicago that it is the greatest."

Musical Revue With Cast of 30.

The attractions in addition to the exhibits will include a musical revue of 30 professional performers, a style show, public wedding, election of Miss Uptown, and a specialty act on each of the six nights. Miss Eva Tahery, 4821 Sheridan road, and Lorenz E. Fregin, 6128 North Lincoln street, have been selected by the committee for the public wedding. Many gifts will be presented to the couple by the exhibitors.

William Hebert, director of the "Miss Uptown" contest, reports that many aspirants for the crown have entered the contest. The candidates are being entered by merchants, clubs and other organizations. Headquarters for the contest are maintained at 4832 Broadway. Prizes will be awarded to the first and second place winners in this feature.

The organization committees for the exposition are composed of members of the Lions club. Walter E. Schneider is treasurer of the fair. Members of the reception committee are R. M. Rickert, chairman; Frank G. Haggerty, Lee K. Glynn, Dr. Bruce L. Stocking, Dr. Roland A. Weber, Emil Maass, Jack G. Storey, and Thomas G. Lundgren.

Meek Heads Booth Committee.

Harry C. Meek is chairman of the booths committee, assisted by Carl Johnson, Fred C. Klein and Emil Frank. The organizations committee is composed of D. H. Lyall, chairman; Mr. Harrell, Mr. Meek and Edward C. Carlton, president of the club; M. R. Pollack is chairman of the publicity committee, assisted by Robert W. Simpson and W. O. Gundlach, and John P. Keating is chairman of the "Miss Uptown" committee.

The Lions club is raising a fund of $25,000 for the construction of a war memorial at Broadway, Montrose avenue and Sheridan road. Mr. Meek, who is also chairman of the monument committee, reports that the club hopes to erect the memorial during 1930. The triangular plot of ground on which the shaft will stand has been turned over by the city.

URGES EVANSTON TO BRING TRAFFIC LAWS UP TO DATE

Sidney J. Williams, Evanston safety director for the National Safety council, proposed that the city's traffic laws be brought up to date to members of the Evanston chamber of commerce at its regular luncheon meeting last Monday in the North Shore hotel.

Stop and go lights and the speed of present day traffic have brought about new conditions, he said, not covered by the existing regulations. A bill for the Evanston city council of the type sponsored by the safety group has been held in committee for several months.

At a recent meeting of the chamber of commerce's committee on boy delinquency with Chief of Police William G. Freeman and representatives of various social agencies, a subcommittee, including Sidney N. Geal, director of boys' activities in the Y. M. C. A., Francis L. Bacon, principal of the Evanston Township High school, and Leren P. Meyer, executive secretary of the chamber, was appointed to study a way in which to interest the business men of the city in the boy problem.

Mrs. Erma Pempleman, president of the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will address the meeting of the chamber of commerce tomorrow noon.

POLAR BEARS TO HOLD CARNIVAL IN LAKE TODAY

More than 1,000 spectators are expected to attend a water carnival of the Polar Bear club today at Farwell beach, Farwell avenue and the lake, Lloyd Miller, president of the organization, reports. The Polar Bear club is a group of swimming enthusiasts who have been taking weekly dips in Lake Michigan since Thanksgiving, many times breaking the ice before the swim.

Proceeds of the carnival will be used to purchase uniforms and equipment for the baseball team of the Howard District Business association, following a request of Raymond Smutzer, 7660 Greenview avenue, a member of last year's team.

The events will include swimming races, diving events, canoe tilting, canoe races, tub races, and other stunts. Norman Ross will announce the events and Norman Nevinger is chairman of the committee arranging the program. Miss Grace Brown has been in charge of advertising the carnival. There are eighteen members in the club.

Arranges for Birchwood to Present School Demand

Ald. F. L. Frankhauser, [49th] reports that he will arrange a meeting between the school board and the school committee of the Birchwood Improvement association. The association is urging the construction of a school in the Birchwood district. Members of the committee are William F. Lippe, Sol Sackheim, John Lange, M. L. Kingsley, J. C. Damler, Mrs. J. A. Burracks, Miss Marie Osweiler, and Miss Katherine Ewing.

PRIZE WINNING PICTURES OF NORTH SIDE

A picture of Belmont yacht harbor won the first prize of $5 in The Tribune's contest for amateur photographers of the north side this week for H. Kuhlmann, 3133 North Sawyer avenue. The second prize of $3 was awarded to Della Strauss, Northbrook, for a picture of Eldon Arthur fishing in the north branch of the Chicago river. To E. L. Haines, 415 Washington avenue, Glencoe, was awarded the third prize of $2 for a picture of Mrs. Haines in her backyard garden.

NORTH SIDE LEAGUES TO SEND 14 WOMEN TO STATE SESSIONS

Fourteen north side members of the Illinois League of Women Voters will hold their second legislative citizenship schools next Wednesday and Thursday at Springfield, Ill. The purpose of the schools is to enable the state board of directors and representatives of chapters to watch the legislature at work so that they may more thoroughly understand what is involved in the making of Illinois laws.

MRS. C. P. FOWLER. [Moffett Photo.]

The schools have been arranged to coincide with hearings on bills which the league has indorsed. These bills include one providing for women to serve on juries, the bill which proposes to increase the state school fund, and the Cook county and sanitary district civil service bills.

The women who will represent the north side chapters are: Mrs. Walter Benson, Mrs. E. P. Bartlett, Mrs. William G. Hibbard, Mrs. R. C. McNamara, Mrs. Walter Ayer, Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, Mrs. A. A. Carpenter, Miss Eva Young, Mrs. James A. Holpuch, Mrs. D. M. Courson, Mrs. M. E. Smith, Mrs. D. Q. Hart, Mrs. C. P. Fowler, and Miss Edith Rockwood.

LORADO TAFTS TO BE HOSTS TO ILLINÆ CLUB

Tea to Be Held in Studio of Sculptor.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorado Taft will be hosts to the members of the Chicago Illinae club at the annual south side gathering to be held Saturday afternoon at Mr. Taft's studio, 6016 Ellis avenue. Mr. Taft was host at a similar affair given two years ago in his studio rooms and, as before, will conduct the guests through his workshop, explaining various phases of the sculptor's art.

Of especial interest will be the showing of several bronze figures to be used in one of his masterpieces, the "Alma Mater," which is to be dedicated on the University of Illinois campus in Urbana in June in commemoration of Mr. Taft's fiftieth anniversary as an alumnus of the university.

Committee to Assist.

Tea will be served from 3 to 5 o'clock and assisting Mr. and Mrs. Taft in the receiving line will be Miss Alice Howe, 10233 South Wood street, president of the club; Mrs. Howard McLane, 6506 South Troy stret, chairman of the afternoon; Mrs. Charles F. Pillsbury, 10451 South Seeley avenue; Miss Darley Thomas, 1615 Hyde Park boulevard; Miss Mary Bransfield, 4748 Woodlawn avenue; Mrs. H. F. Partridge, 6621 Yale avenue, and Miss Nellie V. Walker, Mr. Taft's secretary.

Other officers of the Chicago club are Mrs. A. M. Hauser, 328 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, vice president; Mrs. George Winterhalter, 422 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, recording secretary; Mrs. R. E. Schreiber, 1650 Sherwin avenue, treasurer, and Mrs. E. L. Kemp, 8157 Ingleside avenue, corresponding secretary.

Four Events a Year.

There are more than 1,800 alumnae living in Chicago and its suburbs and, as in former years, it is the custom to hold four events each year. Early in the fall a tea was held on the north side, the first of this year Mrs. A. M. Hauser was hostess at a card party in Oak Park, and this third gathering, held on the south side, will be followed by the annual spring luncheon, the date and place to be announced later.

Ridge View A. C. Dance.

The Ridge View Athletic club will hold a dance tonight at the Luxemburger hall of Rogers Park, 1715 Lunt avenue.

Spring? Say It with Pictures and Win Prizes

In the spring a photographer's fancy turns to pictures of the first robin, early gardens, Mary and Jane skipping rope and evidences of spring fever.

The Metropolitan section of The Tribune now offers prizes weekly for spring pictures. The Tribune will pay $5 for the best photograph on this general subject taken by an amateur. It will pay $3 for the second best and $2 for the third best.

Address pictures to Photo Contest, Metropolitan section of The Tribune. The name and address of the photographer should be written plainly on the back of the print as well as the names of all persons in the picture.

The contest is open only to amateurs and the editor will be final judge. Theme, treatment, and clearness of the print all will be taken into consideration. No pictures will be returned.

Roosevelt High P.-T. Group Sets Goal of 2,000 Members

The Roosevelt Congress of Parents and Teachers has started a drive to increase the membership of the association, Mrs. R. B. Ford, 5443 North Sawyer street, membership chairman, reports. A goal of 2,000 members has been set. There are more than 4,000 students enrolled in Roosevelt High school. The congress meets the first Tuesday each month in the auditorium of the school, 3436 Wilson avenue.

Ravenswood Club Auxiliary.

The Junior auxiliary of the Ravenswood Woman's club will give a dinner tomorrow evening in the Lindbergh room of the Belmont hotel, Sheridan road and Belmont avenue.

35 BOYS APPOINTED TO RAISE $2,000 FOR CHURCH'S EXPENSES

A force of 35 boys and young men in the Howard Community church, 1405 Howard street, has been organized to solicit subscriptions in the annual every member canvass for funds.

The force was organized by Robert E. Ferguson, president of the Howard District Business association, who announced that his group expects to double the quota of $1,000 before the close of the drive April 1.

The drive opened recently with a father and son dinner, held in the church banquet hall. Prizes will be awarded to the two boys obtaining the greatest number of subscriptions, regardless of the amount, Mr. Ferguson said. The first prize is a silver loving cup and the second place winner will be awarded a bronze medal. The awards have been donated by Charles W. Ferguson, 1635 Howard street, and Cletus C. Bourne, 1694 Howard street.

Before a boy may be enlisted as a full-fledged member of the subscription force he must obtain five signed pledges. Another church group is soliciting pledges from the church members. James H. Turner, 7612 Rogers avenue, is general chairman of the drive.

SITE IS PROVIDED FOR RADIO SCHOOL BY LINCOLN PARK

Operators to Be Trained for War Service.

A training school for radio operators in the naval reserve and a radio station to handle navy department communications and assist yachtsmen on the great lakes will be located in Lincoln park, it is announced by officers of the ninth naval district. Commissioners of Lincoln park have granted the use of space in one of the park buildings to the navy department.

Lieutenant Commander R. H. G. Mathews, in charge of naval reserves in the ninth district, is supervising the organization of the project. The school will accommodate a special class in the reserve known as the volunteer communication reserves, which up to the present time have been meeting in the Chicago Yacht club. The purpose of the school is to train men between the ages of 18 and 35 to serve as radio operators in time of war.

Meeting Every Monday.

Meetings will be held every Monday night, and the work will be supervised by Lieutenant Commander Mathews, assisted by Lieut. L. E. Grogan, technical officer of the Chicago unit; Ensign L. F. Megaw, experimental officer; Ensign R. A. Newlander, code and signal officer, and Ensign B. W. Brown, publicity director.

A knowledge of radio is not required of beginners in the work, the instructor said, and students are not expected to give a required amount of time to the work, although the time offered will determine advancement in rank.

Five radio transmitters and receivers of considerable power are to be installed immediately. In addition to the use of apparatus in training the students the station will handle all navy department communications in the district. An operator will be on duty at all times.

Communication with Yachts.

Another function of the station will be to communicate with yachts on the great lakes. Many of the yachts now are equipped with radio sets, although there is no station on shore with which they may connect, the officers said. The station will in this way be a protection to the yacht owners in case of storm and distress. Furthermore, the school will provide operators for the yachts without cost to the owners.

"Our intention is to make the facilities in the Chicago unit the finest in the country," Lieutenant Commander Mathews said. "The Chicago unit is the largest in the Ninth district, which is composed of sixteen central western states. The project is a specimen proposition and is being made as an experiment.

No Charge for Service.

"We want the yachtsmen to know of the service which we will be prepared to render at the start of the yachting season. There will be no charge for any of the service, including training, communications, and the provision of operators."

The call letters of the station, which will operate on a frequency of 445 kilocycles, will be NDS. An amateur wave length will be identified by 9ZN. Rear Admiral T. T. Craven, commandant of the Ninth district, and other officers at the headquarters at Great Lakes will make regular inspections of the school and equipment.

K. of C. Council Holds St. Patrick Eve Party

The annual St. Patrick's eve party of Columbus council, Knights of Columbus, was held last night at the club rooms, 7000 North Clark street. Members of the committee in charge were James Finley, Charles Connors, Jerome Williams, Joseph McAlinden, Joseph Gavin, and Kenneth Krippene.

VOICE of the NORTH SIDE

Criticism for Evanston.

March 14.—Evanston is a wonderful city but—a few of us north shorites feel that it is slightly overrated and needs some constructive criticisms. For instance, why must every street in progressive Evanston have such deep holes as to make motoring unbearable? What do they do with $10 a car the citiy receives in taxes? Why shouldn't they improve their streets or at least make it possible to drive on them without breaking the springs of even the sturdiest of cars? I have seen many times the troup of workers with their tar wagon filling in holes with gravel that is scattered by the first car that comes. Such inefficiency is deplorable, to say nothing of the dinky lighting system and the leisurely way the stores open at 9 o'clock, instead of 8:30, inconveniencing early morning shoppers from all parts of the north shore who are forced to depend on Evanston for such services. It is time Evanston grew up to the level of its distinctive apartment buildings and Chicago stores which are putting branches out there. MRS. L. V. H.

COUNCIL TO GET HOWARD PARKING PLAN TOMORROW

A plan to reduce traffic congestion in the Howard street business district has been formed by the parking committee of the Howard District Business association, and an ordinance restricting parking for a ninety minute period on five streets in the district will be introduced tomorrow to the city council by Ald. E. I. Frankhauser [49th]. The committee, composed of Howard Holmes, chairman, William A. Patterson, Bruce E. Hakes, and Maurice Rosenthal, presented the plan to the board of directors of the association at its latest meeting.

The streets included in the ordinance are Howard street, from the tracks of the Chicago and North Western railway to Sheridan road; Malvern street, from Birchwood avenue to Howard street; Ashland avenue, from Howard street to Rogers street; Paulina street, from Howard street to Jonquil terrace, and Rogers street, fom Ashland avenue to Sheridan road.

The directors further voted to pay the cost of erecting the parking limit signs in case the city is without funds for the work. The need for a parking limit has been long felt, Robert E. Ferguson, president of the association, said. A restriction will eliminate the practice of north shore residents parking their automobiles in the district and continuing to the loop by the elevated railway. The 90 minute parking limit will also encourage trading in the district, he pointed out.

To aid in solving the traffic congestion the Howard street business men will also ask Ald. Frankhauser to urge the removal of the taxicab stand on Howard street at the elevated terminal. The east side of Malvern street at Howard street has been suggested as the location of the stand.

A no parking zone from 1643 Howard street to the elevated tracks is also a part of the plan. The great number of persons crossing the street at this point is given as the need for a no parking ordinance.

LEFT TURN RULES ON N. SIDE GIVEN BY MOTOR CLUB

Sometimes You Can and Often You Can't.

In driving through four separate districts, north side motorists are confronted many times daily with the question of whether to make a left turn off of a boulevard on the green or red traffic light.

The four districts are those under the jurisdiction of the south parks commission, the Lincoln park commission, the city, and the North Shore park district.

Generally speaking, and qualifying the statement by several exceptions, left turn is usually permitted on the green light. These facts were disclosed by a survey made by the Chicago Motor club.

North Side Regulations.

For the benefit of north side car owners, the motor club points out the regulations in effect at each traffic light as one drives north from the loop. The sources of information were George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the south parks system; Capt. Charles E. Shaw of the Lincoln park police; Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic manager, and James P. Ward, president of the North Shore park district.

It is generally understood by motorists that left turns on Michigan avenue between 22d street on the south and Huron street on the north are permitted only in the face of the red light. At Chicago avenue no left turn is permitted at any time. Proceeding still northward on Lake Shore drive, the outer drive and Sheridan road, left turns are permitted by the authorities only when the red light is on. This rule holds good until one arrives at Clarendon and Montrose avenues, where no left turns are permitted during the evening rush hour, and are allowed at other times on the green light only.

At Clarendon and Wilson avenues one may essay a left turn on the green light. At Sheridan and Lawrence an illuminated globe over a safety island forbids a left turn under any circumstances. On Sheridan road between Ainslie street and Granville avenue one may turn left on the green light. At Devon avenue and Sheridan road, where the next light is encountered, a sign warns car owners that right turns only, and on the green light, of course, are permitted. When driving south on Sheridan road at Devon avenue, a left turn, in conformity with the route of the boulevard, is made on the green light.

On Sheridan road between Arthur avenue and Juneway terrace, inclusive, the North Shore park district allows motorists to make left turns on the green or red light, or as traffic conditions permit.

GIRL SCOUTS HOLD SWIMMING MEET

All sections of the city were represented at the annual swimming meet of the Chicago Council of Girl Scouts, held recently in the swimming pool at the Roosevelt High school, 3436 Wilson avenue. More than 100 girls from most of the troops in the city were entered in the meet, which was held under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Mundie, Girl Scout director. Left to right: Irene Hubbell and Helen Raschke, west side; Vida Volkhard and Geraldine Brammer, south side; Virginia Roos and Dorothy Cruise, north side. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Honored in College

Miss Mary Ruth Stevenson, 6013 Winthrop avenue, a freshman at the College of Wooster, Wooster, O., was placed on the honor roll with 100 students of the college for the semester ending last month. Miss Stevenson was one of 23 freshmen who received no grade below "B."

CHURCH REVEALS PLAN TO ENLARGE ON ANNIVERSARY

Congregation Ends Observance Today.

Announcement of plans to remodel and enlarge the First Scandinavian Evangelical church, 886 Elm street, Winnetka, has made its twenty-fifth anniversary celebration, which comes to a close today a particularly joyful one to members of the congregation.

The church, which was built almost 25 years ago, shortly after the organization of the group, from materials used in the old Episcopal church on Sheridan road, has aged and become inadequate for the growing needs of the congregation.

Fund Drive Under Way.

The present auditorium will seat only 125 persons and it will be enlarged to a capacity of more than 200. The Sunday school enrollment, which has reached 170, will also be given more space. The plans include a tower of brick veneer at the front of the church as well as additions at the rear. A campaign for funds to the extent of $15,000, the amount needed for the improvements, is under way now.

The Rev. R. A. Thompson pastor of the church, will give over his pulpit to the Rev. B. W. Clover, a former pastor of the church, for this morning's services.

During the last week, services have been held in the church nightly with several Chicago ministers as speakers. They are. The Rev. Frank W. Anderson, the Rev. C. P. Meeker and the Rev. C. T. Dyrness. Prof. A. L. Wedell, and Prof. Peter Person also spoke.

Choir Giver Concert.

The church choir engaged in a jubilee concert last Friday evening under the direction of Morris Gustafson, musical director of the church. C. B. Hodstrom, 5243 Wayne avenue, choir leader of the Lakeview Swedish church and an old friend of the church, addressed the meeting.

The word Scandiavian will be dropped from the church corporate name and the congregation is endeavouring to reach farther out into the community.

Pope P.-T. Group to Meet.

Members of the Pope School Parent-Teacher association will meet next Tuesday afternoon in the school assembly hall. Mrs. S. L. Adelson is president of the organization.

LAKE VIEW GIRLS TO JOIN MOTHERS IN PARTY FRIDAY

Mothers' and daughters' day will be celebrated at a meeting of the Lake View High School Parent-Teacher association Friday afternoon in the school auditorium, Irving Park boulevard and Ashland avenue. The program, which has been arranged by Mrs. C. L. Smith, program chairman, will include a playet in which both mothers and daughters will appear, an exhibit by the household arts department, and demonstrations of other activities in the school.

The association will sponsor a tour of Chinatown tomorrow evening. Members will meet at 2233 Wentworth avenue and the itinerary includes most of the important buildings and a dinner in a Chinese restaurant followed by a performance of the Chinese Opera company.

Miss Hildagarde Romberg, publicity chairman of the association, reports that the parents and teachers have requested the board of education to make a survey of the building conditions. The request has been granted, Alt. John J. Hoellen [47th] reports, following a meeting with Frederick J. Lane, assistant to the superintendent of schools, and Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent.

North Shore Credit Men Attend Midyear Dinner

Representatives from nearly every business house in Evanston as well as from credit bureaus of the North Shore towns attended the mid-year dinner and meeting of the Evanston Credit Men's association last Thursday night in the North Shore hotel. Elmer Miles, newly elected president of the organization, was chairman of the meeting. Speakers included Harold A. Wallace, president of the Associated Credit Bureaus of Illinois, and Fred R. Ericksen, advertising manager of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company.

McCOY TRACTOR HAS BIG THRILL FOR ITS MAKERS

Expert Tells How Ship Can Be Built.

This week Mr. Hamburg tells you how to build the championship indoor tractor. If you have questions on its construction, or on aeronautics, write him (inclosing a 2 cent stamp for reply) at A. M. L. A. headquarters, American Boy building, 2d and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich.

BY MERRILL HAMBURG.
[Secretary Airplane Model League of America.]

This article is the story of a model builder who wanted to smash a world's record—and of his success.

ERNEST McCOY.

Last year Ernest McCoy, a member of the Airplane Model League of America—sponsored in this territory by THE TRIBUNE—had built the indoor model generally known as the best flyer. But he wanted an improved model. "Big ships use cambered wings," he figured. "Why shouldn't a small one?"

So he experimented endlessly; and at length he discovered that a model with a cambered wing and reverse camber for the tail had more lift and was capable of more duration than the flat-wing model. He flew his ship, at the national contests in Detroit held by the American Boy magazine, to the new world's record—331.1 seconds. This article tells you how to build a similar ship.

McCoy's Material.

McCoy, in building his model, used these materials: a balsa wing spar 1-16x⅜x19 inches; a balsa motor stick, ⅛x¼x15 inches; flat balsa for tail and rudder frame and wing ribs 1-32 inch thick; balsa propeller block, ½x1¼x12 inches; a drilled thrust bearing; two brass washers; wire parts [propeller shaft, rear hook, S-hook, open-side can, two wing clips]; rubber motor, ⅛x1-32x31 inches; Japanese imperial tissue, 10x21 inches; ambroid cement and banana oil.

You'll find all of these materials in the special A. M. L. A. kit which you may obtain for 85c from league headquarters. To obtain the kit, No. 10, send 85c in check or money order to the supply department, A. M. L. A., American Boy building, Second and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich.

The kit will also include some additional materials—materials for making a different type of motor stick. But don't try that yet. THE TRIBUNE will tell you how to make the change next week. You'll want to test the ship out thoroughly first, as did McCoy.

Motor Stick First.

Your first job is to prepare the motor stick. Sand it down to the size the drawing indicates, and attach the metal parts with ambroid. This is a simple job.

Now you are ready for the tail group. The stabilizer is rectangular, hence slightly less efficient than a rounded tip surface; but it has an all balsa frame, and this is lighter than bamboo. Both the fin and the stabilizer are fastened to the fuselage by setting the connecting members into grooves cut into the end of the motor stick; thus they are flush with the stick. Notice that the base of the fin is set at a slight upward angle to permit the rear spar of the stabilizer to come up even, with the front spar—otherwise the whole tail would be set at a positive angle of incidence that would prevent the ship from climbing.

The fin is not hard to build. The drawing shows its dimensions. Its bottom spar is 2⅛ inches longs, so that it can be set ⅛ inch into the motor stick groove cut for it.

Next, the Stabilizer.

Next, the stabilizer. It has a reverse camber, you recall. Its ribs are all of balsa, and you curve a piece of 1-32 inch flat balsa, about ⅜x2 inches, over a teakettle's steam jet to make them. The curve is that of a perfect arc, 3-16 inch deep. Once the piece is curved, cut it to the 1¾ inch length and split it into five identical ribs. Make the two 6 inch spars, then assemble the frame with ambroid—"butt joint" the ribs to the spars. Ambroid the leading edge of the stabilizer into the groove cut in the motor stick, and the trailing edge to the base of the fin. Cover both fin and stabilizer [on the lower side] with paper, using banana oil as the adhesive, and this part of the model is complete.

The wing curve given [see the diagram] is the median line of the Clark-Y airfoil, or wing section. The diagram shows the exact size of the wing, so you may bend your balsa ribs to fit the diagram. Perhaps, though, you'll want to experiment with a different curve—McCoy doesn't claim his as the one and only!

The method of making and assembling the wing is much the same as that you used in building the stabilizer. Use extreme care to get it absolutely accurate. Probably you'll want to bend the long piece from which the wing spars are to be cut before you split it—thus you'll put exactly the same degree of dihedral angle into each spar.

Then the Propeller.

Cover the wing, once the frame is completed, and ambroid the wing clips to it. It is wise to be sure the wing clips fit the motor stick before you attach them, however. You'll save yourself trouble.

Your last job is to make the propeller. It is carved from a balsa block ½x1¼x12 inches—an unusually large prop for this type of plane, hence one which must be made paper-thin. The Manual gives you details of all the steps in its carving. Don't forget that you want it to be the best made prop you've ever completed—so thin, if it's properly done, that you can bend the blade backward and forward at least two inches without breaking it. Except at the hub, it should never exceed 1-32 inch in thickness.

Real Thrill in Store.

Now attach your prop, hook up the rubber motor, and fasten the wing to the motor stick with its clips. See how it glides. Adjust the wing, as you have learned to do on smaller models, for the best position. Try the ship with relatively few turns on the prop.

When you've made these trials satisfactorily, get ready for a real thrill. Find yourself the biggest hall available. Wind your motor 1,200 turns. Be sure the hall isn't drafty—and set the ship off!

When it comes to earth, chances are excellent that you will have established a new record for yourself.

Next week THE TRIBUNE is going to tell you how to vary the McCoy ship—how to change the motor stick to a lighter and stronger one. Don't miss the instructions.

BEAUTY TRAINING ADDED TO COURSE AT HOYNE SCHOOL

Made Part of Work for Children's Health.

John and Jane now learn how to keep their complexions clear and their hair glossy and their weight right as well as what and when to eat, and how to prevent illness. Beauty training has been added to the regular health courses instituted some time ago at the Hoyne Continuation school, 45 East Illinois street.

Periodical physical examinations, supervised by physicians and dentists of the board of education, are given to all the students. The week beginning March 18 has been selected for another of the examinations which form a part of the all year round health course. Miss Berenice Paul is instructor in the department.

The health work is conducted in the class room in much the same manner as the other courses of study in the school's curriculum. The department emphasizes three goals, first, physical well being; second, firmly established health habits, and, third established habits of personal cleanliness and appearance. The beauty training comes under the last goal.

Regular Physical Examinations.

The first goal is motivated by the actual experiences of regular periodical examinations of the body, such as the test to be given next week. With this examination, essentially a class room procedure, the students are brought face to face with the obligations of having corrected or treated all physical defects. The results are recorded on individual health cards, by means of which a record is kept of the height, actual and standard weight, physical defects, such as eyes, ears, tonsils, and skin, and the complete dental history. In the case of the teeth, each carious tooth and all teeth or roots for extraction are recorded.

Constant checking of the individual to obtain the necessary corrections is the next procedure. Records of last semester show there were 99 completed dental dispensary cases. The pupils unable to afford the services of a private dentist are given an opportunity to attend dispensaries. Outstanding cases included one boy who had 16 gold and 5 silver inlays completed, and another student who had 17 cavity fillings completed.

Eighty Treated at N. U.

More than 80 pupils received treatment for the correction of defects at the Northwestern university medical school and other dispensaries. These cases included eye, ear, skin, goitre, posture, tonsillectomies, and various other infections, diseases and surgical cases.

Another physical defect worked on is that of malnutrition. More than 475 cases were handled last semester, and the average individual gain was five-eighths pound per week.

The second goal in the health work is the establishment of 10 health habits, emphasizing a properly adjusted dietary. A campaign is made on the importance of protective foods. Emphasis is placed on dental prophylaxis, which resulted in an increase of 40 per cent last term to the ranks of daily teeth cleaning.

The third and last goal in the department's schedule is the improvement in personal appearance. This work is accomplished by means of inter-room competition.

Foundation for 1929.

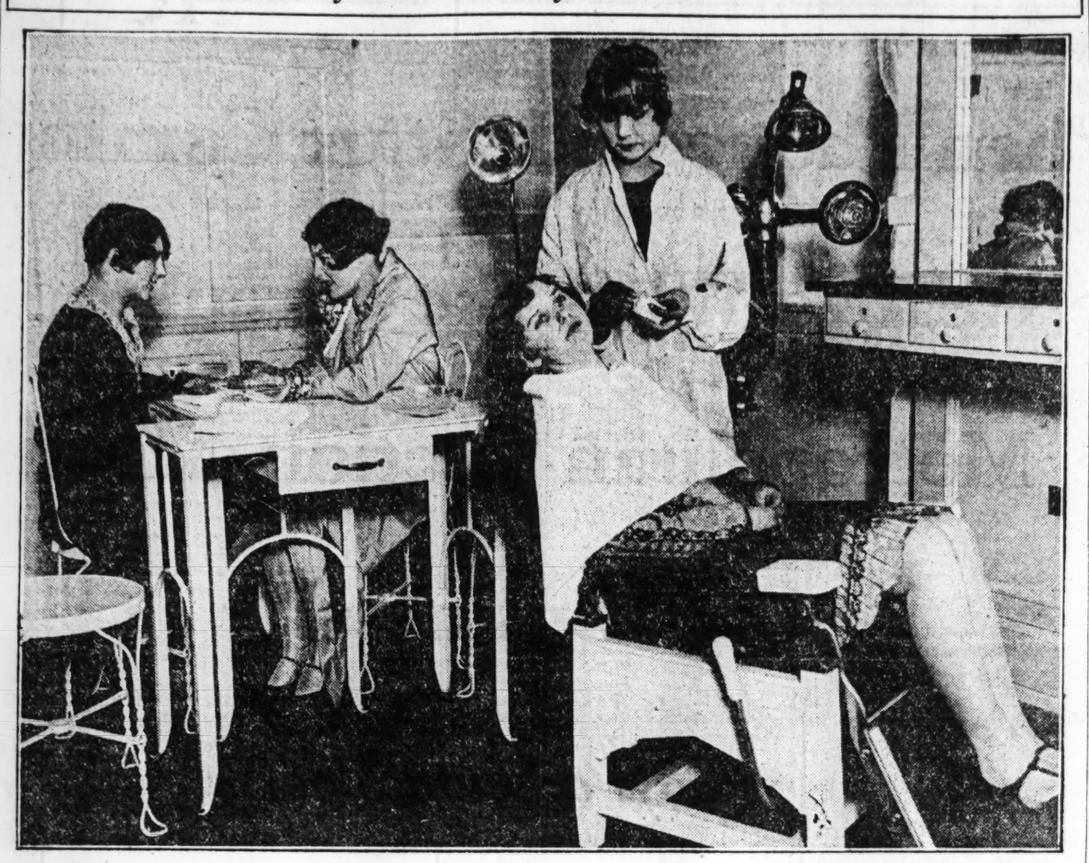
The foundation for 1929 upon which the health department expects to establish standards approximating the best that can be realized is based upon the following data: 1,320 health cards are on file; 132 pupils are enrolled in the nutrition class, and 86 are attending dispensaries. The work is directed by Miss Nellie S. Ryan, supervisor in the north group of continuation schools.

The Hoyne school, like the other continuation schools, is provided for the boys and girls of school age who, due to the necessity of supporting themselves, are required to attend school only eight hours a week during the period of 50 weeks. Matthew Fitzgerald is principal of the Hoyne school.

Bateman P.-T. Association to Hear Nominations

Miss Lina Troendle will speak on "Our Children" at a meeting of the Newton Bateman Parent-Teacher association, Wednesday afternoon in the assembly hall of the school, 4220 North Richmond street. The report of the nominating committee will be made preparatory to an election to be held next month. Mrs. Charles J. Wood, president, reports that the association has recently presented to the school a new radio set and power speaker, similar to the type used in the coliseum and the Auditorium theater.

Laboratory Material Easily Found for This Course



A recently established course at the Hoyne Continuation school, 45 East Illinois street, teaches the girls the correct methods of maintaining and improving beauty and personal appearance. A beauty room has been opened in the basement of the building and is completely equipped to demonstrate the ways of caring for the skin, hair and nails. The picture shows, left to right: Helen Przybylski, Agnes Antelline, Dorothy Jones, in chair; Lillian Mrozik. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

SAFETY MANAGER

GEORGE G. TRAVER.

The board of directors of the Chicago Safety council announces the appointment of George G. Traver, 319 Dempster street, Evanston, as manager of the offices at 330 South Wells street.

Charles L. Rice, vice president and manager of the Western Electric company's Hawthorne works, and president of the Chicago Safety council, feels that the organization is fortunate in securing Mr. Traver's services at this time in view of the seventh annual midwest safety conference to be held at the Stevens hotel on Tuesday under the direction of the local group.

Mr. Traver was graduated in 1924 from Dartmouth, where he was active in undergraduate affairs and associate editor of The Dartmouth.

Great Crowds Attend St. Sebastian's Novena

Huge crowds from the entire city are thronging St. Sebastian's church, 824 Wellington street, where a novena in honor of St. Joseph is being conducted by the Rev. W. T. Kane, S.J. He will speak this afternoon at 4 o'clock and will also conduct the exercises of the novena. Tuesday, the feast day of St. Joseph, will mark the closing ceremonies. The novena was begun last Sunday.

JUNIORS TO BOX FOR CHARITY AT EVANSTON SHOW

Junior Wilson and Junior Schaeffer, ten year old fifty-five pounders, will box for the Fifth ward junior championship of Evanston on Monday evening, March 25, in the high school gymnasium, Church street and Dodge avenue, at the Evanston West Side Booster club's annual charity entertainment and athletic show.

The Great Lakes Naval band, the American Legion drum and bugle corps, Chief Silver Tongue and the Chicago Police quartet are also on the program. Rear Admiral T. T. Craven, commandant at Great Lakes, will give the address of the evening, following an introduction by Mayor Charles H. Bartlett of Evanston.

On the athletic program five bouts are scheduled beside the junior match. Lieut. R. R. Beatty of Fort Sheridan and Lieut. J. E. Rucker of Great Lakes are matched in the first go; Clarence Brown, public service champion, will box Joey Pitts, a local champion.

Evanston's "Al" Smith will be announcer for the fights, Tommy Thomas and Phil Collins, referees; George Lytton and Ald. George B. Franks of Evanston will be judges, and Chief of Police William O. Freeman will be timekeeper. City Clerk Edward W. Bell will be clerk, and Clare Bennet and George Shrosbree are matchmakers.

CENTER ST. BODY PUSHES FOR 5,000 CAR PETITIONERS

The petition urging that one man street cars on the Center street-Armitage avenue route be removed and replaced with cars operated by two men will be circulated in the district for two more weeks, Jacob Fritz, 846 Center street, president of the Center Street Business Men's association, reports. A report on the petition was heard at the meeting of the association, which is sponsoring the movement, at a meeting Monday, and it was decided to continue the campaign until more than 5,000 signatures have been obtained.

Devon Business Association Votes Full Time Secretary

Members of the Devon District Business association decided at their last meeting to employ a paid secretary to execute the business duties of the organization. The plan will be given a trial for several months, George Meichin, president, said. The association is considering the donation of amplifiers for the assembly hall of Sullivan junior high school, 6631 Bosworth avenue.

Backs Orchestra

MRS. CLARA GRAEBE.

The Schneider Parent-Teacher association held a benefit party Friday at 1222 Wilson avenue to raise funds to be used in organizing a school orchestra in Schneider school, 2957 North Hoyne avenue. Mrs. Clara Graebe, 2912 North Damon avenue, is president of the association. Other officers are: Vice presidents, Mrs. Nellie Crawford and Mrs. Edward Anderson; secretary, Mrs. Leonard Burdin; and treasurer, Mrs. Minnie Christiansen.

The association recently purchased a radio for the school. Mrs. Addie Kohr, chairman of the ways and means committee, is in charge of the party.

St. Henry's Congregation to Hold St. Patrick Party

St. Patrick's day will be celebrated by the congregation of St. Henry's church, 6404 Ridge boulevard, with a benefit bridge party Thursday evening at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Proceeds of the party will be added to the building fund of St. Henry's school and church. Oakley street parishioners are in charge of the benefit.

North Town Kiwanians Invite Ravenswood Club

The North Town Kiwanis club has invited the members of the Ravenswood Kiwanis club to attend a special meeting Thursday at the Chicago Town and Tennis club, 1901 Thome avenue. Charles H. Pering, 2740 Devon avenue, is president of the North Town club.

Lecture on Sea Birds.

Alfred M. Bailey, director of the Chicago Academy of Science, will lecture on "Sea Birds and Coral Sands" this afternoon in the assembly hall of the academy, Lincoln park at Clark and Center streets. The lecture will be illustrated with motion pictures.

JAMES DAVIS IS NAMED TO HEAD SENN SENIORS

Officers were elected by several clubs and classes last week at Senn High school. James Davis was elected president of the graduating class, Carl Vandres was chosen to lead the freshmen, Louis Drake was made president of the Chemistry club, Miss Virginia Fling president of the Art guild, and Reynold Carlson president of the French club.

Other senior officers elected were: Vice president, Richard Madden; secretary, Miss Carol Fried; and delegate to the all-school council, Miss Jeanne Riley. Freshman officers: Vice president, Todd Ebers; secretary, Miss Mary Courtright; all-school council, Miss Dorothy Pugh.

Carl Vorreiter will be vice president of the Chemistry club and Miss Ruth Johnson, secretary. Howard De Baugh was named vice president of the Art guild. Joe Sullivan is secretary. Other French club officers are: Vice president, Miss Beatrice Fadin; secretary, Miss Bertha Cohen.

ware; J. T. Moss, groceries, L. E. Beck, stoves and tinware; Conrad Hillschoff, shoe repair shop.

Individualities of the store keepers were more pronounced than in the present day.

L. Steese, running a combination tailoring and confectionery establishment, himself a civil war veteran, and his place a loafing quarters for members of the G. A. R. Principal Dewey, coming from Elk Horn, Wis., long-bearded and one of the last to wear a blue uniform.

The carpenter shop of George Carpenter, his trade fitting his name. The postoffice. The public hall.

It was an hour and a half's drive into Chicago in those days, and there were three toll gates en route. An hour and a half "if the roads were good."

Ravenswood a Baseball Rival.

Ravenswood, the rival town in baseball matters, was two miles away. The catcher for Ravenswood was Ted Bunte, now a candy manufacturer. His brother, Charles, also was on the team. The Copeland brothers—Ira and Bob. Alexander Hillschoff in the box.

The high school was in Evanston.

"We had one voting precinct in those days," recalled Mr. Touhy. "We all knew each other by our first names. It was the building of the 'L' that brought the first big change. The same year—World's Fair year—we came into the city.

"In losing its identity, however, many splendid features of the pioneer town have, fortunately, survived. The founders saw that every street from Ridge boulevard ran directly to the lake. The streets were made eighty feet wide and the lots 170 feet deep, with twenty foot alleys. The plan was on a broad scale, and these deep lots have made possible deep court buildings. Then, too, our avenues were well lined with maple trees that I can remember being so small that you could bend them over like whips.

Recalls Forest East of Clark.

"Speaking of trees, there was a natural forest of white birch east of Clark street. The building of sewers killed most of them, but a few have been preserved. There are some at Morse avenue, near Paulina street. To those who had never seen such trees before, they used to be a great novelty. I have heard strangers say, 'I wouldn't want the job of whitewashing those trees every year.'

"Concerning the present, our new postoffice building has just been completd to take care of the heaviest business of any postoffice in outlying Chicago. Now it's inadequate and a new one is already needed. Many ten story apartments are planned and others are on the way. The Northwestern expects to build a station at a cost of $100,000, with an entrance on Howard street and another on Birchwood avenue."

BUSINESS MEN OF NORTH TOWN MOURN RANCE

Pay Tribute to Leadership and Faith in Area.

While business men and residents of the North Town district, the community in the vicinity of Devon and Western avenues, are mourning the loss of the late Henry B. Rance, they are being faced with the problem of selecting a new leader in the many civic enterprises with which the residents of the comparatively young district are interested. Funeral services for Mr. Rance, pioneer, member of several clubs and associations and president of the Prudential Realty company, which he founded, were held Tuesday morning at St. Timothy's church, with burial in All Saints cemetery.

Opens First Realty Office.

In the spring of 1920 Mr. Rance migrated to the Devon-Western district, and opened the first real estate brokerage office in the district at the southwest corner of Devon and Western avenues. Two other real estate brokers, John F. Cassidy and M. C. Travis, also visioned the future possibilities of the area, and opened offices at the cross roads in the same year. There were only two buildings west of Western avenue at the time the three pioneers settled there.

The loss of Mr. Rance is keenly felt by all his business associates and other friends in North Town. Every business house in the district was closed Tuesday morning during the burial services. He was one of the organizers and president for three years of the Devon-Western Business and Improvement association, now called the North Town Improvement association.

Merchant Pays Tribute.

"What North Town is today is due primarily to his efforts," is the eulogy expressed by Fred D. Eldredge, one of the district's merchants and former president of the North Town Kiwanis club, of which Mr. Rance was a member. Mr. Eldredge, with Paul Ford, John Hennebery, Alfred De Mero, O. A. Christenson, and Walter Larsen, all members of the Kiwanis club, were pallbearers. All spoke of the faith Mr. Rance had in the community and the interest in civic betterment which he demonstrated at all times. His death was the first in the ranks of the club.

Mr. Rance died of injuries received when struck by a Devon avenue street car at Claremont avenue. He recently had been active in fighting one man cars on the route, declaring that the many duties required of the operator endangered the lives of passengers, pedestrians and motorists.

One-Man Car Victim

Henry B. Rance, pioneer business man of the North Town area, died as a result of injuries incurred when he was struck by a one-man Devon avenue car. Within a few days of his death he had been circulating a petition for two-man operation of the cars.

B'Nai Zion Congregation to Hear Dr. Felix A. Levy

Employés of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, Lawrence avenue and Broadway, will hold a splash party Thursday evening in the pool of the Lawrence hotel, 1020 Lawrence avenue. Miss Agnes Peterson is chairman of the committee in charge.

READY TO LET CONTRACTS FOR 11 PAVING JOBS

Legal tangles have been cleared away for awarding contracts and beginning work on the paving of eleven north side streets during 1929, Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, announced yesterday.

It is planned to advertise for bids within a few weeks and to have as many of the jobs as possible completed during the year. Some of them will undoubtedly be held over until next year, however.

Funds for the paving of the streets are available, officials of the board report.

Those proposed for improvement are:

Ardmore avenue, from Central Park avenue to Indian road.

Carmen avenue, between Washtenaw and California avenues.

Gordon terrace, from Clarendon avenue west to the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific tracks.

Ohio street, from Lake Shore drive to Orleans street.

Peterson avenue, from Ridge avenue west to the drainage canal.

Ridge avenue, from Peterson avenue to Clark street.

Seeley avenue, from Fullerton avenue north to the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks.

Balmoral avenue from Artesian avenue to Lincoln avenue.

Artesian avenue, between Catalpa and Bryn Mawr avenues.

Sawyer avenue, from Lawrence avenue to Argyle street.

Campbell avenue, between Balmoral and Bryn Mawr avenues.

Dads to Dine Thursday with Chicago Boys' Club

The sixth annual fathers' and sons' dinner of the No. 2 branch, Chicago Boys' club, will be held Thursday evening in the gymnasium of the club, 1725 Orchard street. More than 200 boys and their fathers are expected at the dinner, which is being planned by the mothers' auxiliary of the club. Frank Stippe, a member of the Lake View Kiwanis club, will be the principal speaker. The music department of the club is in charge of the program.

Discuss New P.-T. Group.

Formation of a parent-teacher association for the Lincoln school, 2324 Geneva terrace, will be discussed at the teachers' conference Tuesday afternoon, Edward E. Keener, principal reports.

"When Phone Calls Start Coming In, We Realize What the Circulation of the Metropolitan Section Means to Our Business!"

—Says a South Side Radio Dealer Who Built Volume Sales with Sunday Tribune Advertising in the Metropolitan Section

KING'S RADIO CO., located at 809 East 79th street, decided about two years ago to try out Sunday Tribune advertising in the Metropolitan Section. Their ad offered a free radio demonstration in the home, and readers were invited to call the 'phone number given in the ad. When the 'phone calls began coming in, King's knew what was pulling them. And as the ad more than paid for itself and left a handsome profit besides that very week, King's decided to run another. That paid out just as quickly as the first one, and so they ran another. And another, until gradually they increased the size of their space to 100 lines and more each Sunday in the Metropolitan Section.

"When the 'phone calls start coming in, we know what the Sunday Tribune's 1,273,615 families mean to our business," says Harold Horwich, manager of King's Radio Co. "For a period of two years we have been consistent Sunday Tribune advertisers. We have been expending approximately $250 monthly. But it all comes back to us with a profit. Our business has increased substantially, and we are glad to let you know about the extremely fine results we have derived from this advertising."

You, too, can make your Sunday Tribune advertising in the Metropolitan Section pay for itself as it goes along. You don't have to invest anywhere near $250 monthly. A few dollars—anything you feel you can afford to spend—will place your offer before three out of every four families on your side of the city. And it will prove to you, just as it did to King's, that the way to increased business, greater profits, is through Sunday Tribune advertising in the Metropolitan Section.

There's nothing to worry or fuss over. All you have to do is decide to start. The Tribune will gladly help you in the preparation of your ad, take care of the details and see that it gets into the paper.

Call Superior 0100 tomorrow morning. Ask for "Local Display" and say that you would like more information about Sunday Tribune advertising in the Metropolitan Section. A Tribune man will call on you and answer all questions. Or if haven't time, the Tribune will set forth all the details in a letter. Tear out the memo coupon now so that you'll remember to make the call tomorrow that will lead to larger sales, larger profits, for the rest of 1929!

GIBBONS POST AIDS MOVEMENT FOR MONUMENT

Veterans Co-operate with Uptown Lions.

Daniel C. Gibbons post, No. 269, known also as the Uptown Chicago post, is coöperating with Uptown Lions club concerning the war memorial to be erected at the intersection of Broadway and Sheridan and Montrose avenues. The next regular meeting of the post will be held on Tuesday night at 4206 Broadway. This meeting has been designated as past commanders' night. Commander Joseph P. Toale and Adjutant J. Foster Kinsella have been at work on a program for some time and promise a number of interesting features. Invitations have been sent to all commanders of the seventh district.

Commander L. M. Hanna thanks his comrades of Van Buren post, No. 401, for their efforts in adding 173 members to the post and thus winning the sixth district prize. An entertainment for ex-service men only is to be held by the post on Sunday afternoon, March 24. The meeting will be in honor of the new members.

From Advertising Men's post, No 38, comes this announcement: "Members of the post have un grande opportunity to dust off the trigger and exercise the white o' their eyes in a post rifle club which is being formulated. Those interested call S. S. Bolton or leave their names with the adjutant."

On Thursday last, Chicago Loop post, No. 144, began holding its weekly luncheons at the Great Northern hotel. The post will have a private room for these luncheons, which will enable members to enjoy speakers and other entertainment each week.

Advertising Men's post, No. 38, will have Howard E. Taylor for a speaker at its meeting tomorrow in the Louis XVI. room at the Hotel Sherman. Mr. Taylor, manager of Berea college, Berea, Ky., will talk on "Day Break in the Mountains." His story, it is announced, "is of the sort to hold his listeners spellbound."

At the monthly meeting of Marine post, No. 273, to be held at the club rooms at the Auditorium hotel tomorrow night, six new members of the executive committee will be elected to succeed the following retiring members: T. E. Donnelly, Spencer Jones, R. J. Stone, A. M. Benson, C. Wayland Brooks, and C. J. Devers.

Comrade Edward C. Bass writes that "although Marines who served in France are a small percentage of the post membership, those who did are planning on this meeting for an unofficial anniversary jollification, for it was just eleven years ago on March 17 and 18 that Marine units of the second division moved up to the front in 1918." As usual, dinner will be served at 6:30 and the meeting will be at 8. Max Salovesh will sing "Ireland" in honor of March 17, and other entertainment has been arranged.

The Ladies' auxiliary of Chipilly post wil hold a St. Patrick's day party in connection with their regular meeting Monday night at the 131st infantry armory. One of the features of the meeting will be the reports from the "jockeys" in the membership race.

Trowel post will be host to the Seventh district at the monthly meeting on March 29. The place is North Center hall, 1940 Irving Park boulevard, and the meeting will be called at 8 o'clock. Trowel legionnaires promise a good session, a short business meeting, entertainment and refreshments.

The drum corps of Evanston post No. 42 will take part in the annual charity entertainment of the West Side Boosters' club on March 25. Increased activity in the corps seems to betoken the coming of spring. Three new drummers and one bugler have recently signed up, but cymbal players are still greatly needed.

Civil Service post, No. 678, one of the newest posts in Illinois, now has a membership of close to 300. At the beginning of the year it was 28. The post has been awarded two cups for having the greatest percentage increase in membership of any post in the state. Its membership has been recruited mostly from employés of the city of Chicago and various departments of the county service, while some forty employés of the postal department have joined its ranks. At a recent meeting of the post, an expression of attitude on the Volstead law resulted in the following vote: In favor of the law as it stands today—yes, 2; no, 152; in favor of modification of the law, allowing the sale of light wines and beer—yes, 151; no, 3; in favor of repeal of the law—yes, 151 no, 3.

NEW ORGAN WILL BE DEDICATED SUNDAY BY MOUNT CARMEL

Dedication services for the new organ recently installed in Our Lady of Mount Carmel church will be held next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the church, Msgr. Joseph A. Casey, the pastor, officiating.

The dedication will be followed by a program, the first half to be given by Palmer Christian at the organ and the second half, the Stabat Mater, by the church choir of fifty voices under the direction of Adalbert Huguelet, who is the regular organist of the church.

The choir soloists, William Rogerson, tenor, and Joseph Hassmer, baritone, will have the assistance of Edith Trewartha, soprano, and Esther Muenstermann, contralto, as guest artists.

PATTEN AWARD DIVIDED AMONG 3 POLICEMEN

For their efficiency in the outstanding police careers in Evanston last month, William Johnson, Ernest Otto and Louis Jantho, detectives with the Evanston police department, were jointly awarded the Patten efficiency prize of $100.

Detective Johnson was awarded $50, Detective Otto $25, and Detective Jantho $25. The trio arrested James Druitt, colored, of 1802 Brown avenue, on Feb. 23 as he was accosting a woman. He later made confessions clearing up twenty-two cases. Detectives Johnson and Jantho rescued a young Evanston woman who had thrown herself into the canal while temporarily deranged. Johnson participated, too, in the arrest of Henry Hilliard, colored, who is being held under $25,000 bonds for assault with intent to kill.

Others who received citations for close attention to duty include Policewoman Georgiana M. Juul, Detective Sergeant Bernard Hanke, Detective George Durgin, Lieut. Fred Toennies, Patrolman John Horne, Juvenile Officer Eugene Worthington and Patrolmen Paul Hansen, Robert Borland, Ernest Krogman, John Geishecker, Lawrence W. Calderwood and H. A. Hart.

WOMEN'S CLUB TO GIVE PARTY FOR DAUGHTERS

The Evanston Woman's club will hold its annual mothers' and daughters' luncheon next Saturday in the clubhouse at 1702 Chicago avenue. Radio artists, general singing and a telepathic expert will provide the entertainment.

Mrs. Philip Danielson will give the first of two talks on interior decoration to club members at the regular weekly meeting next Tuesday. Period furniture will be discussed in the first lecture, with a historical sketch of the various types.

Plans are being made for the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the club on Tuesday, March 26. Members of the Young Women's auxiliary will reënact scenes from the first meetings in costumes of the early '90s.

Mrs. Uptown Lion Will Go to Luncheon with Husband

J. H. Hudson of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce will be the speaker at a meeting of the Uptown Lions club Thursday noon at the Sheridan Plaza hotel, Sheridan road and Wilson avenue. His subject will be "Pulling Together." Wives of members will be guests at the meeting.

RELIGIOUS DRAMA IS REHEARSED BY LAKE VIEW GROUP

"St. Claudia" to Be Given on Four Evenings.

Lake View Community players, who organized themselves into an amateur civic theater group two months ago and presented their first play, "The Torch Bearers," on March 1 and 2 at the Athenaeum theater, Southport, Lincoln, and Wellington, which met with signal success, are rehearsing their second production, "St. Claudia."

This religious drama was written by Marshall N. Goold and won the Drama league prize. It is especially appropriate for the season and is being presented by the Lake View players to widen their scope in the dramatic field. It is their aim to present plays of divergent types to gain a versatility.

Mrs. Young Plays Lead.

Sophia Swanstrom - Young, who headed the Faith players, has joined the Lake View Community players for this production, and will play the title rôle. Mrs. Young, who gave up secular ambitions to play in amateur religious dramas, is expected to interpret her rôle with inspired ability.

Miss Frances Daugherty plays the important rôle of Mary Magdalene. Miss Blanche Simpson, Lake View High school student, is cast as Petronia, maiden of St. Claudia. Miss Jacqueline Venier is Beulah, another maiden. Miss Irene Berry plays Miriam, court entertainer.

Others in the cast are Walter Glatz, Bob Bauer, Fred Balk, Ray Bauer, Earl Jarvis, V. E. Meier, and Arthur Goreham.

Alfred Stury Directing.

Alfred Stury, one of the organizers of the Lake View Community players, directs "St. Claudia." He directed the Faith players in the same production, and during the course of the presentations played, at different times, all the male rôles.

"St. Claudia" is nonsectarian in theme. It deals with the life of Claudia Procula, wife of Pontius Pilate.

In order that members of all denominations may view it, "St. Claudia" will be presented on March 22 and 23 at the Trinity Lutheran parish house, 1046 Barry avenue, at Seminary and on March 25 and 26 at St. Bonaventure's auditorium, Marshfield avenue at Diversey parkway.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In last Sunday's Metropolitan section it was erroneously stated that the annual joint frolic of the Daughters of Job, Bethel No. 28, and the Edgewater Order of Builders was held March 9. The dance will be held Saturday, March 30, at the Sovereign hotel, 6200 Kenmore avenue.

Canterbury Club to Hold Sixth Card Party Tuesday

The sixth of a series of card parties sponsored by the Canterbury club will be given Tuesday afternoon at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Members of the committee in charge are Mrs. Samuel Hamilton, Mrs. John Mahoney, Mrs. George Needham, Mrs. J. D. Fleming, Mrs. William Wallace, Mrs. T. W. Sullivan, Mrs. R. H. Sewell, Mrs. Sidney Hughes, Mrs. Albert Frenier, Mrs. William Duffy, Mrs. Edward Jessers, Mrs. Paul Tete, Mrs. J. M. Ceenan, Mrs. James Linnett, Mrs. A. J. Michaels, Mrs. W. T. Hardy, and Mrs. James C. Carroll.

Brownson Circle to Hear Lake View High Teacher

Herman Pepoon, teacher of botany in Lake View High school, will speak at the conservation day program of the Brownson circle tomorrow afternoon at the Rogers Park Woman's club, Ashland and Estes avenues. Mrs. Fred M. Clark is chairman of the program.

CHAIN PROGRAMS THIS YEAR WILL COST 23 MILLION

To Be No Letdown During Summer Months.

New York, March 16.—Chain broadcasting has been definitely established on a twelve months a year basis and the listening public will be able to tune in this summer on programs the equal both in quality and number of those sent out over the air in the winter months. Widespread recognition of the important place that radio holds in the country today has been instrumental in abolishing the summer slump in broadcasting.

Sales figures of the big broadcasting chains indicate that hot weather programs this year will keep radio interest at a high pitch. Officials of the two leading broadcasting chains report that more than $23,000,000 will be invested by advertisers in chain program during 1929.

No Summer Sag.

The National Broadcasting company reports a sum in excess of $16,000,000 for chain programs for the current year, while Columbia's clients will spend close to $7,500,000 to entertain the radio public in 1929. Expenditures on programs over the summer period this year will be virtually as high as in the other seasons of the year, according to plans announced.

An analysis of expenditures for radio entertainment of previous years shows that a sharp sag in programs occurred in the summer months, the big features going into retirement with the advent of warm weather. That will not be the case this year, however, as sponsors of the most popular chain programs have definitely signified their intention of continuing their programs throughout the twelve months of the year.

Improvement Each Year.

Going back to 1925, the number of sponsored programs and the number of hours on the air showed a sharp decline as the hot weather increased. By 1927, however, some improvement was registered in the matter of better summer programs, the chain broadcasting companies reporting a greater call for service during June, July, and August. Last year the situation righted itself even more than in the preceding year, due largely to the part played by radio in the political campaign. This year, for the first time in the history of radio, the two large broadcasters of chain programs have committed themselves to present their biggest features straight through the year.

With a steady flow of quality entertainment over the radio during the summer months, together with the usual broadcasting of regular summer features in the realm of sport, activity in the radio industry promises to reach new heights in what formerly went for a quiet period.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

The country at large has taken quite a fancy to the sports announcer who has been allowed a few times to broadcast over one of the national chains. His name is Bill Munday of Atlanta, Ga., and he crashed into popularity on New Year's day when the chain, for sectional good feeling purposes, let him describe parts of the Georgia football game in California. He was astounding to the radio audience, because, for an announcer extemporizing, he had a vocabulary. And in addition to his graphic formal vocabulary, he introduced a flock of colorful idioms of his own territory, such as "the crap-shootin' huddle."

Then, again, two weeks ago, he was allowed to squeeze in patter between rounds of the Stribling-Sharkey fight broadcast—and his interludes were the hit of the show, although he didn't have enough time to strut his stuff. After all, when a national chain is broadcasting to the whole nation, it's good advertising sense to include an announcer with a southern accent—to win over the audience in Dixie.

THE TALKING movie apparatus has a new use. When a great national event is being broadcast, or at least an event that takes the attention of the populace at large, the theater managers can hook up the gigantic horns used in their talkies to a radio receiving set and let the theater enjoy the highly amplified story of the announcer. This was done in some places during the recent fight in Florida. When a vitaphone picture is on the screen, the sounds come from huge horns placed behind the screen, and the special kind of screen is so thin that the pictures can be seen from the rear as well.

HOW WOULD you like a job like this? In a New York broadcasting station the managers employ a young lady whose sole duty is to sit opposite persons who are talking into the microphone, in order to give them a real "audience" and thus cure them of microphone fright. The lady is charming and attentive to what is being said—but we're afraid if we were the subject of her rapt and beautiful attention, we'd be frightened to death!

SOME DAY the short story writers will use the broadcaster's form for depicting drama in the present tense. The form we mean is an imaginary broadcast, of one of our horse races, for example. Would you like to hear a hoss race, e'en tho' this is the Sabbath? Let's go! Tune us in:

"There's the bugle call, summoning the horses to the post. My, this is a fine view we have for the race! Track spread out in front of us like a circle some boys have drawn in the dirt for a game of marbles. Look what great designs the landscape gardener has planted with his flowers out there in the parade ground, inside the track!

"Is it really warm, or do I just think it is? Some of the boys down in the paddock have their coats off. Grandstand's pretty well filled today. Now let's see—which are those horses ambling around the paddock for inspection?—gee, yes, this is the race that Phantom and Beau Brummel are in. They're saddling 'em now.

"Dandy looking hosses—look at 'em!—look at that head of Phantom's high up in the air, pretty ritzy! Wouldn't you like to be riding either of those thoroughbreds? It'd be like riding a skyrocket when they jump from the barrier.

"This Phantom is a deadly dude, the clockers' sheets say—one of them reports, 'Phantom, a whole basket of ripe peaches; a through train on a clear track; the answer to a jockey's prayer; he ran away with the whole darned Maypole dance at Pimlico; drop a few pennies in the tin cup on him, brother, and you'll be backing up a truck to the paying teller's window in the morning.'

"Let's see what the hooey is on Beau Brummel. 'Beau Brummel—here's a 1930 model—stream lines—and built for nothing but speed—he could win if he had to pull a pie wagon behind him—peel off a fin and hang it on his nose—if you'd like to cheer yourself up.'

"Here they come, now, out onto the track. Sammy, the post boy, is leading 'em out, on the white pony. Look at that crowd getting fidgety now—everybody getting up close to the rail. Phantom and Beau Brummel, and Phantom on the rail. That's Jockey Harry Spinggold up on Phantom, with the green cap and the black and white silks. Jockey Pete Squish is riding Beau Brummel, in a yellow shirt with blue dots. They're cavorting around down here in front of us, and the race is going to start to our left—both horses prancing and feeling skittish—now they're back of the tape line, and the boys are stretching the slender rubber across the track.

"In a minute now those electric levers on both rails will spring up—and the race will be on! The assistant starters are pulling both nags up to the line—they'll get 'em lined up right away—There! That's pretty good—Nope, Beau Brummel wheeled nervously to the left—now they're pulling him up. There! Now watch for the start——

"Both horses leap forward like flashes and they're moving off neck and neck—here they come pattering down the lane past us—just look at those jockey's whip hands—Phantom about a neck ahead and now they're coasting into the first turn—do you think Phantom'll win?—he's got the rail—and he eases farther ahead as they're careening around the turn—both jockeys with their chins down on their knees—Phantom is pulling out and he's a length in the lead at the quarter post — PHANTOM A LENGTH AHEAD AT THE QUARTER!—Gosh, they look as though they were on a toboggan, they glide forward so gracefully—now they're scooting into the back stretch and the straight track—Um, watch those babies leg it—Beau Brummel is dropping behind, and Phantom is slashing a length and a half in the lead—through these field glasses they look like a movie—jockeys flapping arms and two horses squirting up the dust.

"There's the pole for the half distance—PHANTOM A LENGTH AND A HALF AHEAD! They're approaching the turn, and Phantom is scampering frantically—plunk! they hit the bend and both animals hugging the rail—but LOOK, BEAU IS SPURTING, and he's creeping up—he'll have to go 'round him—they're thumping around the turn, and now they're facing us, and Phantom only a length ahead—it may be one of those whirlwind finishes—.

"Look at 'em now—sweeping into the home stretch, and the mob down here is standing on tiptoe — and screaming!—Beau Brummel coming up on him—Jockey Squish is driving him on like a storm—and HE'S ONLY A HALF LENGTH BEHIND PHANTOM AT THREE QUARTERS!

"Here they come, pounding along the turf toward us—fighting it out where it means the most—OH, PHANTOM IS INCHING FORWARD FASTER! — splattering — a mass of weaving legs—THE JOCKEYS ARE ALMOST SIDE BY SIDE!—Phantom a half length ahead and the race almost ended—Beau Brummel is coming closer—WILL HE WIN?—Here they are, right down here—Beau is almost bursting!—AND HE COMES UP CLOSER—ALMOST OVER—.

"NOPE!—PHANTOM BEATS BEAU BRUMMEL BY HALF A LENGTH!"

Mother Machree . . . . .

ON this St. Patrick's Day you can get a musical bird's-eye view of the Emerald Isle in a special Irish program. Sons and daughters of Old Erin as well as other listeners will be thrilled by these forty minutes of Hibernian melodies. The lilting, swift jigs and the crooning songs from all parts of Ireland will be whisked to you as they are observed by Quin Ryan from Mother Machree's Magic Carpet. Listen at 10:05 tonight.

. . . . . Jean Goldkette

JEAN GOLDKETTE

EIGHTEEN skilled musicians work together to create those sleek, rhythmic patterns of modern music. They play with subtle, suggested, almost unheard throbs of the dance provoking rhythm; from its midst comes the eerie note of a muted trumpet—as modern as Paris—as dignified and progressive as Berlin. And then abruptly they turn. The tempo quickens. The spirit is youthful. The atmosphere more American—or is it more African? It's full of another kind of life. A penetrating trumpet licks out a dozen notes more quickly than you can count them . . . the clarinet would wail if it hadn't to snip out another note an octave away as quickly as the keys will respond! That's Goldkette! The first group at three this afternoon, but more from 10:45 on tonight.

Pace Jubilee Singers . . .

THEY'RE born harmonists and cultivated musicians. The Pace Jubilee Singers are five nationally famous colored singers who have recently come to W-G-N, and have already become widely popular. The smooth, warm music of the spirituals will move you by its somber and sometimes even melancholy air. 3:15.

COOLIDGE LEAVES HOOVER CANADIAN RADIO PROBLEM

Royal Commission to Visit United States Soon.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—Canada's place in the broadcasting realm is one of the problems of aggravated proportions that remains as a heritage to the Hoover administration. The North American division of short waves has been accomplished successfully and to the apparent satisfaction of all, but Canadians are still voicing dissatisfaction with the dominion's allotment of six exclusive and twelve shared channels out of the 96 available in the broadcast band.

The Canadian royal commission appointed to investigate the dominion's radio broadcasting problem will visit the United States some time this month or next, conferring with the federal radio commission and with high government radio authorities. Until it renders its report, the attitude that the Ottawa government may be expected to take cannot be determined. The dissent thus far heard has been voiced largely through the press and in other informal ways.

Studying in England.

The commission consists of Sir John Aird, president of the Toronto Bank of Commerce, chairman; Charles A. Bowman, editor of the Ottawa Citizen, and Augustin Frigon, director of the Montreal Ecole Polytechnique. It has been studying the radio broadcasting situation in continental Europe and the British isles before embarking for a windup North American tour. Whether it will visit the United States first or return to Canada directly from London has not been learned.

Canada's radio problem is inextricably interwoven with that of the United States, since the adjustment of wave lengths must be a matter of voluntary agreement by both countries. There are approximately seventy broadcasting licenses in force for stations in the dominion, but many of these licenses represent duplicate sets of call letters for single transmitters. The government marine authorities estimate that 400,000 receiving sets are in use in Canada, 60 per cent in the cities and 40 per cent among the rural population. These are the sets licensed at a nominal yearly fee; how many sets are operated without license cannot even be estimated.

Six Bands Not Enough.

Six exclusive wave lengths are deemed insufficient for the national radio services, although these channels have been allocated to stations whose powers have been kept low enough, and distances from each other "staggered," so that there may be duplications. The twelve channels used concurrently with the United States are, of course, those upon which low powered stations in both countries must necessarily operate.

The royal commission has been authorized to inquire specifically into these questions: 1. The establishment of one or more groups of high powered broadcasting stations operating as private enterprises with the receipt of a government subsidy; 2. the establishment and operation of such a system of stations to be owned and financed by the dominion government; 3. the establishment and operation of stations by provincial governments.

With the internal governmental policy to be pursued by Canada, the United States is not, of course, very greatly concerned, although much interest will naturally attach to any proposal to operate on this continent, a government owned or government subsidized broadcasting system like like those in most foreign countries. The problem the United States government will be called upon to meet will be one of determining a basis of wave length division with Canada.

Like U. S. Programs.

That the 600 or more stations in this country need all the channels they can get and that a 10 kilocycle separation between channels must be maintained is patent to any observer. The question the royal commission is expected by the Canadian press to answer is whether the present arbitrary division is satisfactory. A negative reply will precipitate discussions with the federal radio commission and possibly open diplomatic negotiations.

That Canadian listeners like the programs they pick up from American stations is evident to any one who has visited the dominion. But Canadian government authorities are unwilling to agree that their subjects should listen to advertisements of American made products along with such entertainment. Radio has become "Americanized" all through the dominion, they have complained; that is one of the reasons the commission was appointed.

One Hundred Aces Good for Only One No Trump in Radio Auction Bridge Game

The nineteenth of a series of twenty radio auction bridge games will be broadcast from W-G-N, The Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, Tuesday at 3:30 p. m.

The contestants will be Mrs. Clyde Bissett of Kansas City, Mo., a noted teacher and lecturer on bridge, playing with Mr. Work against C. Drummond Jones of St. Louis, winner of many important bridge contests as a representative of the Racquet club of St. Louis, and Mr. Whitehead.

Following are the advance hands for game nineteen:

Mrs. Bissett.
S—Q, 7, 2.
H—J, 10, 4.
D—10, 8, 4.
C—K, H, 6, 5.

Mr. Jones.
S—4.
H—K, 9, 6.
D—A, 6, 3.
C—A, J, 10, 9, 7, 2.

Mr. Whitehead.
S—10, 8, 6.
H—8, 7, 5, 3, 2.
D—9, 7, 4, 2.
C—Q.

Mr. Work [dealer].
S—A, K, J, 9, 5, 3.
H—A, Q.
D—K, Q, J.
C—4, 3.

The eighteenth of this season's radio bridge games went on the air Tuesday from station W-G-N, with Mrs. Annie Adair Foster of Atlanta, Ga., as Mr. Whitehead's partner, and Maj. Lewis W. Colfelt, Philadelphia, paired with Mr. Work.

The players held the following hands:

Mrs. Foster.
S—K, 10.
H—9, 6, 5, 4, 2.
D—K, J, 7, 3.
C—10, 9.

Mr. Work.
S—9, 7, 6, 2.
H—K, J.
D—9, 4, 2.
C—K, J, 8, 6.

Maj. Colfelt.
S—Q, J.
H—10, 7.
D—9, 8, 6.
C—Q, 7, 5, 4, 3, 2.

Mr. Whitehead [dealer].
S—A, 8, 5, 4, 3.
H—A, Q, 8, 3.
D—A, Q, 10.
C—A.

Mr. Whitehead, as dealer, in the south, picked up 100 aces. He might be said to have had an option between bidding one spade and one no trump, but with four aces and with the second best of his five spades only an 8 spot, the no trump certainly seemed more promising, both for a big score and for making game. Mr. Whitehead bid the no trump, not because of the big honor score, as the expert player does not sacrifice a better chance for making game merely for a higher honor count. He was influenced by the fact that his type of hand, combined with the average dummy, will produce a game in no trump much more often than it will game in spades; also the difference in honor score might be as great as 130 or 140, since adversaries might hold 30 or 40 honors in the spade suit.

All Others Pass.

Mr. Work, in the west, Mrs. Foster, north, and Maj. Colfelt, east, all passed the dealer's bid; therefore Mr. Whitehead became declarer with contract one no trump.

Mr. Work, west, led the 6 of clubs, fourth best of his stronger four card suit, and from Mrs. Foster's hand, which became dummy, Mr. Whitehead, declarer, played the 9 of clubs. Maj. Colfelt, east, here made a play which indicated the high caliber of his game. He assumed that the 6 of clubs was his partner's fourth best of the suit, a conventional lead. The 6 was also his partner's lowest club, since Maj. Colfelt himself held every club lower than the 6. Consequently, Mr. Work's club suit, if the 6 were the fourth best, was of exactly four cards. With two clubs in dummy, and six in Maj. Colfelt's hand, it was apparent to Maj. Colfelt that declarer could hold only one. This probably was either the ace or king, since with a worthless singleton declarer would have avoided a no trump bid. If not the ace or king, then declarer's singleton was either the jack or 8 spot, the only other clubs higher than the 6 for which Maj. Colfelt could not account. Maj. Colfelt knew, by applying the rule of eleven to Mr. Work's lead of the 6, that there were outstanding, in the three hands other than the leader's, five cards higher than the 6 led. Of these, only four were in dummy's and Maj. Colfelt's hands. The fifth, therefore, had to be in declarer's.

Clubs Threaten Game.

Regardless, however, of what declarer's singleton might be, whether ace, king, jack or 8 spot, Maj. Colfelt realized that he should not play his queen. Should he do so, Mr. Work's four card club suit would block Maj. Colfelt's six card suit; and the latter, without a reëntry in his hand, would be unable to make his two long clubs. Therefore, Maj. Colfelt played his 5 of clubs on his partner's 6. Mr. Whitehead, declarer, played his lone ace. Mr. Work, west, could readily read it as being a singleton, and therefore was able to read Maj. Colfelt as having held six clubs originally.

Mr. Whitehead, though unable from the play to read the exact club situation, realized that the entire suit was set up against him, seriously threatening game. He could, however, count, in addition to his club trick, four sure tricks in diamonds, two in spades, and one in hearts—eight altogether, one short of game.

Apparently the game trick could be made only by a successful finesse against the king of hearts. Therefore Mr. Whitehead planned first to make practically sure of his contract and thereafter to take the heart finesse in a try for game.

Accordingly Mr. Whitehead led the ace of diamonds, to which Mr. Work played the 2, dummy the 3, and Maj. Colfelt the 6. Mr. Whitehead's queen of diamonds brought the 4 from Mr. Work, the 7 from dummy, and the 8 spot from Maj. Colfelt. Declarer then led the 10, overtaking with dummy's jack. Mr. Work played the 5 and Maj. Colfelt the 9. Dummy led the thirteenth diamond, the king. Maj. Colfelt discarded the 7 of hearts, Mr. Whitehead the 3 of spades, Mr. Work the 2 of spades.

Heart Finesse Fails.

At this point Mr. Whitehead could have taken his king and ace of spades, thus assuring his contract, one no trump. The ace of hearts would have made it two odd, and a successful finesse of the queen of hearts would have produced game. Failure of the heart finesse at this point would give the adversaries a heart trick plus all their clubs.

As to the club situation, Mr. Whitehead could tell, by application of the rule of eleven to the 6 of clubs originally led, that Maj. Colfelt must hold two clubs higher than the 6; and since he did not play either of them to the first trick, but instead underplayed his partner's 6, it was evident that he was long in clubs. Otherwise Maj. Colfelt would have played one of his high clubs to force out the one club higher than the 6, which he could read as being in Mr. Whitehead's hand.

Having thus read Maj. Colfelt as long in clubs, Mr. Whitehead reasoned that there was no possibility of either adversary holding as many as seven clubs. Consequently, five tricks would be the maximum the adversaries could make. Thus, even if his heart finesse failed Mr. Whitehead could still make his contract; and should the finesse succeed, he would have game. Therefore, while still holding control of the spade suit, Mr. Whitehead proceeded to take the heart finesse, leading the 2 of hearts from dummy. Maj. Colfelt played the 10; declarer his queen, and Mr. Work, west, won with the king.

Mr. Work then led in succession, the king, jack, and 8 spot of clubs. Maj. Colfelt, east, covered the 8 spot with his queen and then took his two long clubs. On these five club tricks Mr. Whitehead, declarer, discarded down to the ace of spades and the ace of hearts, with which cards he won the last two tricks, giving him a score of 10 points for the odd trick and 100 for four aces in one hand.

The bidding of this hand at contract would impose some little responsibility upon the south player. With every suit stopped and a count of 20 [4 for each of his aces and 2 for each of his queens] he would be well over the 17 with four suits stopped requirement for a bid of two no trumps, but he would be one short of the requisite 21 for three no trumps. Even if he held an extra jack, giving him the 21 count, he properly would hesitate about bidding three no trumps because of the singleton, even though it is an ace. Two no trumps would seem to be his sound declaration. Over south's two no trumps, north, with a count of 7, of course would jump to three no trumps. The play being the same as in auction bridge, the declarer would fail to make his game by a margin of two tricks.

'STENO' WHO WON FAME AS SINGER ON AIR TONIGHT

"Sigrid the toiler," who typed and stenoged her way to musical fame, might be part of the story about the struggle of Sigrid Onegin, the newest and youngest European concert contralto and operatic star, who is to be guest artist tonight in the Atwater Kent program broadcast over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. But there is considerably more to the life history of this truly international singer.

Born in Stockholm, the daughter of an attaché of the French embassy and his German wife, Mme. Onegin married a Russian, who died in a military prison during the world war. She made her first great triumph as a singer in a performance of "Carmen" with the late Enrico Caruso as chief star. Educated from childhood to speak and understand the philosophy of three languages—Swedish, French, and German, she added many others during a life in which tragedy stalked and forced her to work as a stenographer and typist to earn money for her music lessons.

Her voice has been called by critics one of the most remarkable of modern singers. Ranging from a deep, rich, round toned contralto to the highest range of a mezzo-soprano, and capable of coloratura effects in middle and high tones that are of the most intricate character, her success in concert in America has been unusual. Coupled with her mechanical skill in using her voice, her varied experience in life has given her an understanding of the poetry and romance of song possed by few artists.

R. M. A. PLANS TO INVADE FOREIGN TRADE MARKETS

American radio products will be sold more widely throughout the world under plans announced recently by the Radio Manufacturers' association to aid its members in developing their foreign sales, especially in Latin America.

A complete radio export guide has just been compiled by the association comprising virtually all prominent makers of all radio products, and issued free to its members.

The export campaign of the R. M. A. is expected to greatly increase radio foreign sales, which last year were $12,061,419, as compared with $2,000,000 five years ago. This record was made despite inability of American manufacturers to fill radio demands in the United States, but the radio industry now feels able to develop the foreign market for the American industry.

The radio export guide of the R. M. A., prepared under the direction of Mr. George H. Kiley of New York, chairman of the R. M. A. foreign trade committee, includes complete radio information in all Latin America, and most other countries of the world.

7 STATES MISS INAUGURAL.

Although more than one hundred stations were in the chain which broadcast the inaugural ceremonies at Washington, D. C., seven states were not covered. These were North Dakota, South Dakota, Idaho, Wyoming, Nevada, Arizona, and New Mexico.

LONELIEST ISLE HEARS RADIO FOR THE FIRST TIME

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 16.—(AP)—Tristan da Cunha, called "the loneliest island in the world," a British possession off the African coast, is having its first experience with the wonders of the century, radio, the phonograph and the motion picture. It is 1,400 miles west of Cape Town.

Until a year ago no steamer, within the memory of the 150 persons on the island, had stopped there. Then the Duchess of Atholl on a South American and South African cruise paused at the tiny island. This winter it put in there again with supplies.

The islanders are civilized, courteous, and all speak English. About a fifth can read and write. When the tourists first visited there none knew the week or month. There was not a watch or calendar at Tristan da Cunha.

One of the gifts to the islanders was a wireless set and radio outfit. Members of the steamer's crew taught them how to operate both sets. Several natives are learning the wireless code.

When invited aboard the ship these people first saw electric lights, heard their first piano, learned first of elevators and were introduced to ice cream. This last they did not care for particularly.

Both the men and women wore homespun clothes and sandals fashioned from rough hides. The islanders, chiefly a mixture of English and Portuguese, farm and tend 250 cows and raise sheep, chickens and geese.

The ship tourists learned that several steamers made attempts to reach the island, but because of treacherous shoals off shore gave it up. Some of the inhabitants are survivors of a sailing boat that ten years ago sought to reach shore. It foundered.

Only Seven Out of 1,135 Radio Pirates Win Cases

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—All but seven of the 1,135 prosecutions instituted against radio license dodgers during 1928 resulted in convictions, according to the recent statement of the postmaster general. The difference between the costs of prosecution and the amount received in license revenue is used to carry on this campaign against "pirates."

North Clark Business Body Wages Membership Drive

A membership drive has been started by the North Clark Street Business Men's Improvement association, Roy M. York, president, announces. Members of the campaign committee will report at the next meeting tomorrow. The territory of the association is bounded by Barry avenue on the south, Halsted street on the east, Grace street on the north, and Sheffield avenue on the west.

Tones of Celestial Purity

Angelic-voiced boy sopranos, supporting tones of blended tenors, baritones and basses; the rumble of vast organ pipes amid the peal of carrillon. All these tones, from earliest days associated with devotional music, are as distinctly defined in Stromberg-Carlson radio reproduction as if heard in an old world cathedral.

In the New Stromberg-Carlson No. 638, new acoustical principles have been applied in baffling the dynamic speaker in the console. This ends those cabinet resonances which have hitherto given to dynamic reproduction, overtones not present in broadcasting. Greater reserve power at all degrees of volume has been attained, deepest tones have been sustained, yet—no iota of the purity for which Stromberg-Carlson tone is famous, has been sacrificed.

BEST AS WELL AS BIGGEST, AIM OF OAK PARK

Forward Movement Opens Today.

With sermons on Christian citizenship in practically every church in Oak Park today, the Oak Park Forward Movement will be launched. The movement, designed to promote the civic, social, and commercial welfare of the world's largest village, is being sponsored by the Oak Park Chamber of Commerce.

Various other organizations have agreed to aid the movement. The Rotary club will have the chief workers as guests at luncheon on Wednesday and the Lions club will entertain them Thursday noon. There will be a victory dinner Friday night at the Oak Park club, at which Dr. Ralph E. Heilman, dean of Northwestern university school of commerce, will be the principal speaker. All citizens of Oak Park are invited to attend this dinner.

Dr. Heilman's 14 Points.

Dr. Heilman's "Fourteen Essentials for a Happy and Prosperous City" have been made the keynote of the movement. These are:

1. A sound economic basis—Offices, mercantile and industrial and business establishment in proper number to provide regular and profitable employment for its population and to supply its needs for merchandise, commodities, and personal service.

2. Effective local government—A city government which is honest and alert, which operates for service and not for "graft," which provides a competent and efficient administration of the police, fire, health, street, and all other departments of municipal government.

3. Progressive schools — A modern and progressive system of grade and high schools, with adequate plant and equipment, and providing equal opportunity to all children in the community for education and training for citizenship and for life.

Wholesome Recreation Stressed.

4. Adequate recreational facilities—Well located and properly equipped parks and playgrounds to provide proper facilities for out of doors sports and wholesome recreation for both young and old.

5. Well supported churches—Churches with intelligent leadership, well supported by the public; providing opportunity for each to worship in accordance with his own conscience; inculcating a spirit of religious tolerance throughout the community, rendering cleavage on a denominational basis impossible.

6. Well equipped library—A library well equipped and properly maintained, providing opportunity for children and adults to develop that breadth of horizon and interest in life which comes from "good reading."

7. Well managed public utilities—Public utilities providing adequate facilities and good service at reasonable rates, under regulation which is fair both to the public and the utilities.

Hospital Care for All.

8. Proper health facilities—Sufficient facilities for the proper care of the sick and the protection of health, and for providing hospital and medical care for those who need it, regardless of their ability to pay.

9. Sound industrial relations—Wholesome and cordial relations between employing establishments and their employés, leading to an amicable adjustment of differences and an absence of industrial disputes; a purpose on the part of employers to provide desirable and attractive conditions of employment; and a purpose on the part of employés to render adequate service in return.

10. Thrifty Citizens—Thrifty citizens, who realize that saving is the source of all capital, who spend less than they earn, who consume less than they produce, who thus accumulate a surplus for investment, and who prefer to make their investment in local industries or property rather than in wildcat schemes elsewhere.

11. Neighborly Relations — Cordial, cooperative and neighborly relations between the various groups within the city; and also between the city and those who reside in its surrounding trade territory—whether on the farm or in neighboring towns and cities.

United Business Interests.

12. A Strong Association of Commerce—A strong association of commerce or similar organization which unites all the industrial and business interests of the community for the purpose of concerted action in supporting those activities which are broader than any single business or industry, but which promote the interest and welfare of the community as a whole.

13. An Aspiring People—An aspiring people which desires to secure for the city and its people the very best in the realms of liberal culture—music, drama, theater, lectures, art, etc.

14.—Civic Spirit—Citizens characterized by a strong spirit of civic interest and local pride—who believe in their city's present and future, who "boost" for it and who honestly believe deep down in their hearts that for them it is the very spot to live in —in the whole, wide world.

Schools to Aid Grownups with Daily Problems

Community councils will be established in twelve districts of the west side as part of the board of education's program to make the schools the centers of adult education as well as of that of children, William J. Bogan, superintendent, announced yesterday.

The councils are being organized in nine senior high schools, one junior high, and three elementary schools in these districts under the direction of Edward Burchard, secretary of the superintendent's advisory council. The groups will consist of representatives from every business, social, civic, or religious group in the various districts, and will have many aims in the matter of community betterment, according to Mr. Burchard.

These Schools to Be Centers.

The west side centers will be at:

Norwood Park school, 5900 Nina avenue.

Roosevelt High school, 3436 Wilson avenue.

Falconer school, 3000 North Lamon avenue.

Locke school, Oak Park and Diversey avenues.

Schurz High school, 3601 Milwaukee avenue.

Austin High school, 5417 Fulton street.

Flower High school, 3545 Fulton street.

Tuley High school, 1313 North Claremont avenue.

Marshall High school, 3250 West Adams street.

McKinley High school, 2040 West Adams street.

Herzl Junior High school, 3711 Douglas boulevard.

Medill High school, 1326 West 14th street.

Community spirit will be instilled into residents of the various sections of the city through programs and entertainments which the councils will stage at intervals throughout the year, Mr. Burchard said. Citizenship as a study for adults as well as children will be taken up under the guidance of the council.

Topics Include Home, Business.

Social welfare and health will be studied in an effort to formulate plans for the raising of standards in the districts; the various phases of business will be discussed with a view to lending a hand to the neighborhood merchant who lacks education; the home will be another topic of study to be undertaken in the councils, as well as such matters of education as proper reading and an appreciation of art.

The year's work of the councils throughout the city will culminate in a large city-wide civic meeting such as was held in the Auditorium theater last year by the board, according to Mr. Burchard, and an exceptionally large attendance is expected for this occasion as a result of the councils and the community work of the board.

The division of the city into districts or neighborhoods with centers in the high schools was made by sociology classes of the University of Chicago, and is a result of study and research.

Austin Women Voters to Hear Council Candidates

A candidates' meeting will be held Friday evening under the auspices of the Austin League of Women Voters in Central Plaza hotel, 321 North Central avenue. Dr. J. H. Taylor and Ald. W. W. Mills, candidates for aldermen of the 37th ward, will present their political programs. Mrs. J. Van Wakeman, 135 North Waller avenue, president of the organization, has charge of the program.

OUR TOWN

Oak Park Pastor Served with Canadian Mounted

The Rev. Mansel B. Green, pastor of the church of the Good Samaritan, Oak Park, recently opened, went through a queer school of preparation. He formerly rode with the Canadian mounted police. At that time, twenty-five years ago, he carried a Bible and a prayer book with him and preached before ranchers. Three years ago he started his course of studies for the ministry. His first parish was the Church of the Good Samaritan.

Spring? Say It with Pictures and Win Prizes

In the spring a photographer's fancy turns to pictures of the first robin, early gardens, Mary and Jane skipping rope and evidences of spring fever.

The Metropolitan section of The Tribune now offers prizes weekly for spring pictures. The Tribune will pay $5 for the best photograph on this general subject taken by an amateur. It will pay $3 for the second best and $2 for the third best.

Address pictures to Photo contest, Metropolitan section of The Tribune. The name and address of the photographer should be written plainly on the back of the print as well as the names of all persons in the picture.

The contest is open only to amateurs and the editor will be final judge. Theme, treatment, and clearness of the print all will be taken into consideration. No pictures will be returned.

MARSHALL HIGH ADDITION TO BE BEGUN IN MARCH

Work on an addition to Marshall High school, 3250 West Adams street, is expected to begin sometime this month. The new building will cost $2,400,000, and will accommodate more than 2,000 pupils. It will be three stories high and will face 367 feet on Kedzie avenue, and 233 feet on Adams street. The building will contain study rooms, class rooms, laboratories, gymnasiums, natatoriums, art and mechanical drawing rooms, library, band room, and lunch room. It is hoped that classes may be conducted in the new school within ten months. The principal of the school is G. A. Beers.

REMEDY IS NEAR FOR "WORST" TRAFFIC SPOT

2 Grade Crossings to Be Eliminated.

What is termed "one of the worst spots for traffic congestion in Illinois" is to be remedied this summer. After a year of effort, practically the last barrier has been removed in the project to take care of conditions on route 18 by building a viaduct over the Indiana Harbor Belt line and constructing a subway under the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy tracks at La Grange.

FRANK J. KRIZ.

County Commissioner Frank J. Kriz, who has been active in bringing about the improvements on Ogden avenue, says that, according to prospects, the work should be started this spring with every hope of its being completed by fall.

Long Traffic Delays.

Motorists are familiar with present conditions at La Grange. Ogden avenue runs westward until it reaches the Burlington right of way at the east end of the suburb. From this point traffic follows the tracks to Fifth avenue, where it crosses to the north side of the railroad and continues westward again on Ogden avenue.

Both the Belt line and the Burlington have provided a real dilemma. Long tieups are daily occurrences. The long trains of the Belt line are said to have delayed traffic for from fifteen to twenty minutes on occasions. Further on the frequent suburban trains on the Burlington check progress again. The scheme means an elimination of both these troublesome grade crossings.

The plan is to jog Ogden avenue south a few rods east of the Belt line and gradually curve the highway as well as elevating it at a 4 per cent grade. The new highway, which will be forty feet wide, will reach its highest point as it crosses the I. H. B. tracks. At this juncture it will gradually curve and decline and, passing under the Burlington tracks and those of the street car line that run alongside, will meet Ogden avenue east of Fifth avenue, now the scene of troublesome congestion.

Urged by Gateways Group.

An end to the present menace has been one of the aims of the Western Gateways association, made up of representatives from western suburbs. The group, of which Walter P. Saunders, president of the village of La Grange, is president, has spared no effort in aiding the desired improvement. The executive committee working for the project includes F. F. Abbott, Western Springs; R. H. Cooper, La Grange; J. P. Hardyman, Brookfield; John Killips, Lyons; Frank P. Baker, Brookfield; Dr. S. S. Fuller, Riverside; Dr. A. M. Harvey, La Grange Park; Grover D. Rose, La Grange; R. S. Hopkins, Hinsdale; H. R. Chapin, Western Springs, and Frank Walkowiak, Summitt.

Indifference Chief Opposition.

"With Commissioner Kriz, we feel most happy that a solution to the problem is near at hand," said President Saunders of La Grange. "The opposition has been chiefly that of indifference. Traffic on Ogden avenue has been limited to what the bottle neck could accommodate. Unless something unforeseen occurs, I look to see the project finished by fall, and what a boon it will be! During the work of improvement there will be a detour south on East street in La Grange.

"The appraisal committee of the La Grange real estate board is appraising values of property for the right of way."

Lewis Alumni Open Drive to Raise Million

Alumni of Lewis Institute, 1949 West Madison street, have undertaken a drive for a $1,000,000 endowment fund for the institute. The first step in the program calls for the raising of a quarter of a million dollars by the alumni. Contributions will be taken over a period of five years. The entire plan has been presented to the trustees of the institute for their approbation.

B. A. ECKHART. [Koehne Photo.]

The resolution, adopted by the Lewis union, the alumni organization, at its recent meeting follows in part: While the institute has functioned well on the basis of the funds available, the conviction prevails among friends of the institute that there is need for additional funds, and that an increase of $1,000,000 in the endowment is necessary if the institute is to perform its full service. The members of Lewis Union desire to assure the board of trustees of the institute of their support in proclaiming their readiness to coöperate with the board by endeavoring to raise $250,000 toward the additional endowment of $1,000,000, or as much more as is deemed necessary.

Pursuant to this expression, the Lewis union has decided to prepare pledges, to be executed with the provision that they be effective obligations the day the authorities of Lewis institute give their formal approval to the plan and when the sum total of all pledges secured by the Lewis union and Lewis institute combined reach a total of $500,000.

Headed by George Noble Carman.

George Noble Carman is director of the institute and B. A. Eckhart is treasurer. The officers of Lewis union are: President, Howard P. Savage; vice president, Charlotte Bendix; and alumni secretary, Grace F. Hinchliff. The executive board is composed of Paul B. Juhnke, Craig B. Hazlewood, and J. Hall Taylor.

The committee in charge of the endowment campaign is made up of A. D. Bailey, Charles F. Henning, Arthur Curtis, Elmer D. Smail, and Paul Oehmig.

A unique feature of the institute is the fact that there are more students attending at night than in daytime. The night enrollment totals approximately 1,500 and the day 1,000. The engineering school has the largest enrollment, with the home economics school second in point of numbers.

Assets Estimated at $3,000,000.

Officials of the institution place the present value of the assets of the Lewis Institute at $3,000,000. This represents $1,000,000 for the educational plant and $2,000,000 for endowment. The increase in total assets which has come about is the result not of donations but of the augmented value of real estate and of excess of income from invested funds and tuition over cost of maintenance, officials said.

The action of the alumni at this time comes as an answer to a statement made some time ago by Mr. Eckhart, treasurer of the institute. He said in part: "Privately endowed universities and colleges have been obliged by pressure of numbers, by urgent demand for more and better facilities, a larger staff of trained, well paid instructors—these institutions have been forced to go to their alumni for financial aid. . . . I therefore have great confidence that when the Lewis union and the alumni are called upon for action, they will not fail us. When the time does come, we must all be prepared to give not merely of our money but also of our best efforts in attaining a common objective."

Franklin Park Leaders Organize Kiwanis Club

Twenty-eight business men of Franklin Park recently organized a Kiwanis club. At a meeting held at the Lattice inn, Franklin Park, they elected the following officers: President, W. D. Sandel; vice president, C. H. Bullen; secretary-treasurer, William H. Schewe.

LIST 20 MAJOR 1929 PROJECTS FOR WEST SIDE

C. of C. Puts Road to Iowa First.

Twenty improvements for the west side will be sought during 1929 by the West Town chamber of commerce, according to its program made public last week following its adoption by the board of directors early this month.

H. J. RUGGLES. [Tribune Photo.]

Completion of North avenue as a paved highway in a straight line across the state to Cedar Rapids, Ia., heads the list. H. J. Ruggles, manager of the chamber, is coöperating with representatives of towns along the proposed route with a view toward obtaining the completion as soon as possible.

The road is entirely paved, with the exception of a strip of eighteen miles between Sycamore and Oregon, Ill., which is expected to be improved shortly.

The only other obstacle is the absence of a bridge across the Mississippi river at Savanna, Ill., and a request for this structure is pending before federal and state authorities.

Propose Washington Extension.

It is proposed to cut Washington boulevard through from 25th avenue to Butterfield road in Bellwood, and thus give the western suburbs a better route into the city.

An improvement of direct benefit to the Lawndale district is being sought by the chamber in its proposal to work for the opening up of 21st street into that territory. The street, which now ends at Marshall boulevard, would be cut across this street as well as the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railway tracks, and would continue west to Crawford avenue, serving to relieve some of the traffic now using 22d street, east of this point.

The chamber proposes to study possibilities of Hamlin avenue as a boulevard between North avenue and 31st street. This street is already used by the Chicago Motor Coach company and should be widened and turned over to the west park board, members of the chamber believe. Such an improvement more than anything else would be conducive to the growth of Lawndale, Mr. Ruggles said.

Demand Widening of Subways.

It is desired to widen the subways at 22d street and Homan avenue and Kedvale avenue, now bottlenecks to east and west traffic, and also to develop the subway at 14th street and Kedvale avenue. Structural work on the latter has been completed, but the street has not yet been cut through.

The cutting through of Augusta street east to Ogden avenue will be rushed by the chamber, according to the program. Paving and improving of this street between Kedzie and Elston avenues by the west park commissioners has already been authorized and is scheduled to be begun within a few weeks, leaving a detour of three blocks between Elston and Ogden avenues. Augusta street will then be a through boulevard across the northwest side to the city limits.

The directors proposed that West Madison street be widened between California and Crawford avenues and between Damen avenue and Canal street.

The Garfield park vicinity would be benefited if the surface lines would discontinue using the old car barns at Madison street and Springfield avenues so that this large piece of property could be converted to other uses, the directors declared.

It is planned to coöperate with northwest side civic groups to speed the opening of Austin avenue across the Chicago and Northwestern railway tracks and to pave this street between Northwest highway and Avondale avenue.

Favor Completion of Ogden.

The chamber has gone on record as favoring the completion of the Ogden avenue project by opening the street across Goose Island. An $8,000,000 bond issue is necessary in order to obtain funds for this improvement.

The West Side Commercial league and other northwest side groups interested in the development of Milwaukee avenue will be given support by the chamber. The section of this street between Armitage avenue and Halsted street will be paved by the board of local improvements as soon as funds are available, officials of the board announced. It will be widened from 38 to 46 feet by taking four feet off the sidewalk on each side.

The west side's just share of street and alley repairs with money out of the vehicle tax fund will be sought by the chamber, which will also lead a movement to establish playgrounds in west side schools now without them.

Extensions of the elevated lines serving the west side are already receiving support of the principal organizations of the district. It is desired to extend the Humboldt "L" from Lawndale avenue, where it now terminates, to Austin avenue, and the Douglas park "L" from Harlem avenue to Oak Park avenue.

Keep Up Feeder Bus Fight.

Feeder buses for the northwest side streets will continue to occupy the center of the stage for the next two months during the hearings before the Illinois commerce commission.

A movement to obtain a relief sewer for the Cicero avenue district will be initiated within a short time, officials of the chamber report, as will the development of plans for a park

C. OF C. TO ACT THIS WEEK ON PLANNING MOVE

Committee Drafts Report Favoring Proposal.

The board of directors of the West Town Chamber of Commerce, at a special meeting to be called this week, will receive a report recommending the establishment of the West Town Planning commission.

The report is signed by a committee of the chamber which has been working for the last three weeks on a proposal to organize such a commission. It includes a list of reasons why a west side body is deemed necessary and recommends that the proposed organization coöperate with the Chicago Plan commission rather than supersede it on the west side.

"It is evident," the report says, "that projects of the Chicago Plan commission running through the West Town area, such as Ashland, Western, Ogden and Damen avenues, Halsted street, and others, after many years of legislation and expense, are still in neglected process of construction.

"The West Town area consists of 40 per cent of the metropolitan area and population of Chicago, and is geographically located so that improvements therein are of ultimate benefit to the whole city.

"A plan commission to provide adequate highways is necessary on account of the stupendous growth of the community.

"Therefore be it resolved that an organization be formed, to consist of 100 members distributed through the area involved, to be known as the West Town Planning commission."

Raise Two New Questions.

In addition to the instances of what is declared to be neglect or poor judgment of the Chicago Plan commission in the matter of west side improvements previously cited by the committee, two new matters are brought up in the final report.

The West Town commission should work for coördination with the villages and towns and the Chicago Regional Planning association to carry out a far reaching plan of development, the committee believes. Many of these villages and towns were not organized until recent years, it is pointed out, and the Chicago body has not worked with them in a comprehensive plan of improvement.

Study Ordered by Directors.

The committee has been working on the project since a resolution to establish the proposed commission was introduced by Frank J. Bilek last month and adopted by the board of directors of the chamber. The original resolution made three major complaints against the Chicago Plan commission. The committee is composed of Mr. Bilek, H. J. Ruggles, Clarence H. Kavanaugh, John Usher Smith, and Charles S. De Vine.

The officers of the Zoo club are: President, Chester Nielsen; vice president, Betty Robinson; secretary, Norman Laibly; and treasurer, Henry Scholz. Members of the German club elected the following officers: President, Kathryn Wiedenhoeft; vice president, Carl Olson; secretary, Beatrice Schactmann; and treasurer, Ernest Sarowsky.

Park Ridge Camp Fire Girls Aid Veterans in Hospital

Camp Fire Girls of Park Ridge will come to the aid of the ex-service men at Speedway hospital this morning. Because of a scarcity in "raw material" needed for the weaving of their rag rugs, the girls collected and sewed cotton and woolen rags into long strips, rolled them into neat balls, and will bring their collection to the Park Ridge Community church ready for distribution tomorrow. Another item on the necessity list for the boys were hot water bottle covers of flannel, which were made by the Otyokwa group.

PLAN BUSIEST YEAR IN PARKS OF NORTHWEST

Commissioners Finishing Four New Play Spots.

With the election over, commissioners of the northwest park district are making final preparations for what is said to be the most active season in the history of that body.

JOSEPH F. GUBBINS

Plans, for a huge May festival, the organization of a baseball league, and other recreational leagues are being formulated by the athletic directors at the parks and will be begun next month, the commissioners announce.

In addition to the community activity planned for the northwest side, an extensive building program is well under way.

Board Vacancy Filled.

The election of Frank M. Kalteux and Arvid E. Olson as commissioners last month brought the number to five, one more than was in the office last year. Joseph F. Gubbins is president of the board, which includes Oscar C. Johnson and William Rieger Jr.

The commissioners have already launched the construction of three new buildings and one addition in four parks of the district. The new community centers are at Kelvyn park, Kostner and Wrightwood avenues; Almira Simons playground, Wabansia and Hancock streets, and Jacob Riis park, Fullerton and Meade avenues.

These will include gymnasiums, auditoriums with stages and appliances, clubrooms, kitchens and dining rooms, locker rooms and showers. All these facilities will be open to the public without charge, the commissioners announce, and will be ready for use this summer.

The addition to Blackhawk park community center will house the administration offices of the district and will also provide an indoor swimming pool, gymnasium and locker rooms. The commissioners expect this project to be completed within a few weeks. The offices will be moved from Kosciusko park.

Three New Parks Soon to Be Ready.

In addition to the improvement of old parks, three new park sites are being improved and will be ready for use within a few weeks. The parks, which have not yet been named, will be located at Bloomingdale and Moody avenues, Oak Park and Barry avenues, Laramie and Wrightwood avenues.

Playground apparatus, tennis and horseshoe courts, wading pools, and baseball diamonds will be laid out on these sites.

The new nine hole golf course at Jacob Riis park, reputed to be one of the sportiest in Chicago, will be opened for use this summer.

The Northwest park district, the largest in Chicago, extends from Belmont avenue to North avenue and from Kedzie avenue to Harlem avenue.

Pictures of boys won all the prizes this week in The Tribune's contest for amateur photographers of the west side. The first prize of $5 went to R. Trennert, 7442 Harrison street, Forest Park, for "Horseback Riding," showing Douglas Eckert serving as a steed for Freddie Trennert. De Witt Merrick, 1430 South Grove avenue, Berwyn, won the second prize of $3 with "The Young Athlete," showing Robert Merrick. The third prize of $2 was awarded to Orville Davis, 405 Taylor avenue, Glen Ellyn, for "Our Sonny Boy," showing Orville Davis Jr.

WHO SAID IT? When, Where and Why

The Tribune will pay $5 for each snappy quotation printed and $5 for the best answer. Send your answers and quotations to the Who Said It Editor, Chicago Tribune.

WHO SAID:

1. When March comes in like a lamb it goes out like a lion?—Mrs. W. D. Lewis, 3901 Sheridan road, Chicago.

2. Educate 'em with a Krag?—Louis R. Abegg, 614 Garfield avenue, Chicago.

3. Good Americans, when they die, go to Paris?—C. L. O. Lucken, Park hotel, Rockford, Ill.

(Answers to the above quotations will appear two weeks from today. Answers to last week's quotations will be printed next Sunday.)

Quotation—There are no snakes in Ireland.

[It has been impossible to determine the origin of this expression as it is worded. In view of this and of the variety of the answers received it has been determined not to award a prize, but simply to present representative answers. They are given below.]

Eddy J. McHale, 2627 Jackson boulevard, Chicago—In the early history of England there was a monk named Bede who found time to write much poetry and volumes about science, music and medicine. At length the king of Northumbria asked him if he would write a history on the church in England. It is almost the only book that tells us about the early days of Britain and we have to select what is probably true and what was only hearsay. This is the book that says there are no snakes in Ireland and it goes further, for it says that the smell of the air kills them and that if a person bitten by a serpent will only swallow a few scrapings from an Irish book he will be cured.

Edith L. Reid, 404 Spalding building, Portland, Ore.—In Bede's Ecclesiastical History, chapter I, he says: "No reptiles are found there (Ireland) and no snakes can live there, for, though snakes are often carried thither out of Britain, as soon as the ship comes near the shore and the scent of the air reaches them they die."

Adele W. Sabath, 3415 West Adams street, Chicago—I am sure that this quotation should read: "There are no snakes in Iceland," instead of "Ireland." The sentence was used by Samuel Johnson, one of the most distinguished English writers of the 18th century. I quote from Boswell's "Life of Johnson": "On Monday, April 13 (1778), I dined with Johnson at Mr. Langton's, where were Dr. Porteus, then bishop of Chester, now of London, and Dr. Stinton. He was at first in a very silent mood. Before dinner he said nothing but 'Pretty baby' to one of the children. Langton said very well to me afterward that he could repeat Johnson's conversation before dinner, as Johnson had said that he could repeat a complete chapter of 'The Natural History of Iceland,' from the Danish of Horrebow, the whole of which was exactly thus: 'Chapter LXXII. Concerning Snakes: There are no snakes to be met with throughout the whole island.'"

Martha F. Harness, 3308½ Maypole avenue, Chicago—Tish, a character in the book of that name by Mary Roberts Rinehart, used this quotation in chapter I, part 4. She says to her friend, Lizzie, as they are talking about worms and fishing rods relative to their trip to Canada: "There are no worms in Canada, Lizzie, just as there are no snakes in Ireland."

PORTAGE BOARD READY TO OPEN 3 FIELDHOUSES

The Portage Park board of commissioners will dedicate three fieldhouses this week and next. The Shabbonah park fieldhouse is the first, the ceremonies taking place Wednesday night, March 20. O. W. Holmes, president of the Northwest Federation of Improvements, is chairman of this program.

O. W. HOLMES. [Bloom Photo.]

Dedication of the Wilson park fieldhouse is scheduled for Saturday night, March 23. Dr. H. J. Welland is chairman of the proceedings. Sunday afternoon, March 24, the Chopin park fieldhouse will be dedicated. M. S. Szymczak being chairman for this event.

The three ceremonies come as a climax to the building plans of the commissioners of Portage Park. All three buildings were begun last summer. They represent a total investment of approximately $300,000.

COLORED TOT WINS TRAINING FOR HIS VOICE

Out at Rogers school, 1247 West 13th street, many nationalities are represented and more than one-half of the children are colored. In this heterogeneous group a small boy, colored and 5 years old, was found to possess an unusual voice. The youngster is Arthur Hill, 1207 Washburn street, and his sponsor is Miss Alma S. Fick, principal of the school.

When Miss Fick discovered that the boys displayed talent for singing, she asked officials of the Hull house, 800 South Halsted street, to let him enter one of their vocal classes. The result is that Arthur is now taking two one-half hour classes each week and is rapidly learning to read and to write music notes as well as to improve his voice.

The first songs Arthur learned were of a religious nature, those he heard in church. He is now acquiring a repertoire of juvenile and sacred songs. The youngest child in the singing class, he is also the only colored one. Arthur is not content merely to learn his songs—he is now teaching his younger brother, three years old, to sing. No one else in the family sings.

Arthur's father works for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. There are nine children in the family. The Hills have no piano, and so Arthur has not demonstrated yet whether he will also become interested in playing. However, Miss Fick hopes to enroll him in the harmonica class of the school when he is a little older.

RED GERANIUM RALLY TO BE HELD BY GIRL SCOUTS

The troop of Girl Scouts of the Oak Park and River Forest township high school has just completed arrangements for the annual "Red Geranium rally." Miss Helen De Haven was chosen last Tuesday for the honor of carrying the red geranium.

Miss De Haven is also president of the troop for this semester. The other officers are: Vice president, Mary Louise Rowen; secretary, Betty Wolcott, and treasurer, Priscilla Thomas.

Miss B. Everett announced she will conduct a class in first aid work for many of the scouts who are seeking merit badges.

Despite the low ebb of the treasury, the troop voted not to raise its dues. The girls will try to raise money by other means.

Sellen, Mark Shanks, F. C. Smalley, A. H. Smith, Charles Vetter, Joseph R. Vicek, Sol Westerfeld, C. W. Norris, and W. M. McAllister.

H. J. Ruggles is manager of the chamber of commerce and Charles B. Clemons is chairman of the forum.

The committee in charge of the dinner and dance at the Midwest Athletic club next Wednesday is made up of George J. Dehn, Otto Berz, Arthur Brown, Charles B. Clemons, Sol Westerfeld, Edward W. Dunne, Walter F. Marggraf, Frank Bilek, and Henry J. Ruggles.

DISTRICT GROUPS TO HAVE VOICE IN STREET REPAIRS

Wolfe Tells Subordinates to Co-operate.

The coöperation of local business and improvement organizations in outlining this year's street repairing program of the department of public works will be sought this week by Commissioner Richard W. Wolfe.

Many of the larger groups in all parts of the city will receive letters inviting them to send representatives to meet with him and discuss the disposition of the vehicle tax fund.

Such west side groups as the West Town Chamber of Commerce, the Northwest Federation of Improvement Clubs, the Northwest Civic federation, and groups from all parts of the district will receive invitations.

Will Show Procedure.

"Local groups are entitled to know the details of the department's repairing program, and many suggestions should originate in the proposed meetings. In addition to the direct benefit, such a procedure is certain to prove educational and will make residents of the outlying districts understand more intelligently the workings of the department," the commissioner said.

Although local groups may act only in an advisory capacity in the matter of distribution of the vehicle tax funds, the survey of the department will be made public within a few days, and members of these groups should be in a position to make recommendations and point out oversights or errors on the part of engineers of the department, the commissioner said.

In addition to being advised as to the repairing program, cleanliness of streets in the various districts should also be a concern of the organizations, the commissioner said. Thomas H. Byrne, superintendent of streets, has been directed to establish contact with the groups and work with them through the ward superintendents.

Orders Coöperation.

The commissioner's letter to Mr. Byrne said:

"Local business and improvement organizations are primarily interested in improving conditions in their respective districts and in promoting cleanliness in their communities.

"It is my desire and direction that the various district superintendents of the bureau of streets establish a closer contact and coöperation with the organizations in their respective wards, especially in the matter of cleaning streets and alleys, removal of garbage and miscellaneous wastes, and the enforcement of sanitary ordinances relating thereto, to the end that neighborhood pride be stimulated and the city thereby helped in its endeavor to keep the city clean."

BASKET PLAYERS OF MORTON HIGH SENT TO TOURNEY

Through the courtesy of the Cicero Rotary club the basketball team of Morton High school had the privilege this last week of attending the Indiana state basketball tournament at Indianapolis.

The trip was given as a reward for the team's having won the Suburban league championship. Usually the club awards the school's winning athletes with a banquet, but, inasmuch as it was thought probable the team might be entered in the national tournament, it was decided the lads might be able to pick up valuable pointers on such an excursion.

H. K. Long is coach of the champions. Members of the team are Charles Cerny, Albert Kawal, Wilfred Gauther, George Sykora, and Joseph Lohr.

McCOY TRACTOR HAS BIG THRILL FOR ITS MAKERS

Expert Tells How Ship Can Be Built.

This week Mr. Hamburg tells you how to build the championship indoor tractor. If you have questions on its construction, or on aeronautics, write him (inclosing a 2 cent stamp for reply) at A. M. L. A. headquarters, American Boy building, 2d and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich.

BY MERRILL HAMBURG.
[Secretary Airplane Model League of America.]

This article is the story of a model builder who wanted to smash a world's record—and of his success.

ERNEST McCOY.

Last year Ernest McCoy, a member of the Airplane Model League of America—sponsored in this territory by THE TRIBUNE—had built the indoor model generally known as the best flyer. But he wanted an improved model. "Big ships use cambered wings," he figured. "Why shouldn't a small one?"

So he experimented endlessly; and at length he discovered that a model with a cambered wing and reverse camber for the tail had more lift and was capable of more duration than the flat-wing model. He flew his ship, at the national contests in Detroit held by the American Boy magazine, to the new world's record—331.1 seconds. This article tells you how to build a similar ship.

McCoy's Material.

McCoy, in building his model, used these materials: a balsa wing spar 1-16x⅜x19 inches; a balsa motor stick, ¼x¼x15 inches; flat balsa for tail and rudder frame and wing ribs 1-32 inch thick; balsa propeller block, ½x1¼x12 inches; a drilled thrust bearing; two brass washers; wire parts [propeller shaft, rear hook, S-hook, open-side can, two wing clips]; rubber motor, ⅛x1-32x31 inches; Japanese imperial tissue, 10x21 inches; ambroid cement and banana oil.

You'll find all of these materials in the special A. M. L. A. kit which you may obtain for 85c from league headquarters. To obtain the kit, No. 10, send 85c in check or money order to the supply department, A. M. L. A., American Boy building, Second and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich.

The kit will also include some additional materials—materials for making a different type of motor stick. But don't try that yet. THE TRIBUNE will tell you how to make the change next week. You'll want to test the ship out thoroughly first, as did McCoy.

Motor Stick First.

Your first job is to prepare the motor stick. Sand it down to the size the drawing indicates, and attach the metal parts with ambroid. This is a simple job.

Now you are ready for the tail group. The stabilizer is rectangular, hence slightly less efficient than a rounded tip surface; but it has an all balsa frame, and this is lighter than bamboo. Both the fin and the stabilizer are fastened to the fuselage by setting the connecting members into grooves cut into the end of the motor stick; thus they are flush with the stick. Notice that the base of the fin is set at a slight upward angle to permit the rear spar of the stabilizer to come up even with the front spar—otherwise the whole tail would be set at a positive angle of incidence that would prevent the ship from climbing.

The fin is not hard to build. The drawing shows its dimensions. Its bottom spar is 2½ inches longs, so that it can be set ½ inch into the motor stick groove cut for it.

Next, the Stabilizer.

Next, the stabilizer. It has a reverse camber, you recall. Its ribs are all of balsa, and you curve a piece of 1-32 inch flat balsa, about ⅝x2 inches, over a teakettle's steam jet to make them. The curve is that of a perfect arc, 3-16 inch deep. Once the piece is curved, cut it to the 1⅝ inch length and split it into five identical ribs. Make the two 6 inch spars; then assemble the frame with ambroid —"butt joint" the ribs to the spars. Ambroid the leading edge of the stabilizer into the groove cut in the motor stick, and the trailing edge to the base of the fin. Cover both fin and stabilizer [on the lower side] with paper, using banana oil as the adhesive, and this part of the model is complete.

The wing curve given [see the diagram] is the median line of the Clark-Y airfoil, or wing section. The diagram shows the exact size of the wing, so you may bend your balsa ribs to fit the diagram. Perhaps, though, you'll want to experiment with a different curve—McCoy doesn't claim his as the one and only!

The method of making and assembling the wing is much the same as that you used in building the stabilizer. Use extreme care to get it absolutely accurate. Probably you'll want to bend the long piece from which the wing spars are to be cut before you split it—thus you'll put exactly the same degree of dihedral angle into each spar.

Then the Propeller.

Cover the wing, once the frame is completed, and ambroid the wing clips to it. It is wise to be sure the wing clips fit the motor stick before you attach them, however. You'll save yourself trouble.

Your last job is to make the propeller. It is carved from a balsa block ½x1¼x12 inches—an unusually large prop for this type of plane, hence one which must be made paper thin. The Manual gives you details of all the steps in its carving. Don't forget that you want it to be the best made prop you've ever completed—so thin, if it's properly done, that you can bend the blade backward and forward at least two inches without breaking it. Except at the hub, it should never exceed 1-32 inch in thickness.

Now attach your prop, hook up the rubber motor, and fasten the wing to the motor stick with its clips. See how it glides. Adjust the wing, as you have learned to do on smaller models, for the best position. Try the ship with relatively few turns on the prop.

Real Thrill in Store.

When you've made these trials satisfactorily, get ready for a real thrill. Find yourself the biggest hall available. Wind your motor 1,200 turns. Be sure the hall isn't drafty—and set the ship off!

When it comes to earth, chances are excellent that you will have established a new record for yourself.

Next week THE TRIBUNE is going to tell you how to vary the McCoy ship—how to change the motor stick to a lighter and stronger one. Don't miss the instructions.

SCHURZ STUDENT'S RADIO IS REPORTED HEARD IN HUNGARY

A young radio enthusiast at Schurz high school, 3601 Milwaukee avenue, recently received word that one of his broadcasts was heard in far away Hungary. The youth is Alfred Witkowski and he is president of the Radio club at Schurz.

His broadcasts have been reported heard in many distant corners of the globe, including Australia, Hawaii, New Zealand, Costa Rica, France and England.

The fact that he had been heard in Hungary was a distinct surprise to young Witkowski, inasmuch as the broadcast took place last year and word came from Hungary just recently. The letters of his amateur station are W9DJH.

OAK PARK HIGH COLLECTS $330 FOR NEAR EAST

The students of the Oak Park and River Forest Township High school raised $330 in a recent drive for funds for the Near East relief. The money was collected on St. Valentine's day by the members of the student council.

Faith Ralph was chairman of the committee. In addition to Miss Ralph, the council consists of: George Heidler, Wallace Carrithers, Thomas Roberts, Betty Hughes, Barbara Braun, John Rockwell, Wallis Austin, Carolyn Michel, Ruth Rau, Parrish Riker, Virginia Stone, Marjorie Lufkin, Jane Thalman, Louis Gusler, Richard Bradley, Genevieve Rexroat, Franklin Lounsbury, Walter Lunde, Katherine Anne Hughes, Elanora Pfeffer, Sara Sherwood, Elizabeth Smith and Edward Dudley.

ELMHURST POST OPENS CLASSES FOR BOY SCOUTS

Training in Trades and Professions Given.

The movement for practical trade and professional training for Boy Scouts sponsored by T. H. B. post, No. 187, of the American Legion at Elmhurst, is being watched in both Legion and Scout circles throughout the country as an experiment of importance.

The post has just organized a class in cement work in its merit badge school. The class has ten members and is being taught by Henry Kratz. An automobile class, conducted by Douglas Chant, has attracted fifteen students, and a class in journalism is already functioning. Alfred H. Nelson, Du Page county surveyor, is to launch a class in surveying. Certificates of proficiency will be awarded by the instructors at the close of each course.

The school work is in charge of the Legion's Americanization committee of which R. L. Ostrander is chairman. Other members of this committee are Daniel Curtis and Jack Kearns.

John F. Conley unit, No. 221, of the American Legion auxiliary gave a dinner and theater party for the ninth district committeewomen and the unit's president, Mrs. Deborah Conley, Thursday.

West Suburban post, No. 692, reports going "over the top" in its aid to the Cook county membership drive to beat Wisconsin. "But," urges Commander Herbert E. W. Bach, "we need 17 more paid up members to make our membership equal to 1928. Let's do it during the month of March." On Tuesday Comrades Moffitt, Apostoles and Rose will hold a St. Patrick's party for the post, to which members and friends are invited.

Lawndale-Crawford post No. 98 is eager for new members for its drum and bugle corps. "It doesn't make a darn bit of difference," urges Commander C. J. Roth, "whether you know how to blow a bugle or beat a drum. You'll be taught how in a few lessons."

Commander L. M. Hanna thanks his comrades of Van Buren post, No. 401, for their efforts in adding 173 members to the post and thus winning the sixth district prize. An entertainment for ex-service men only is to be held by the post on Sunday afternoon, March 24. The meeting will be in honor of the new members.

From Advertising Men's post, No. 38, comes this announcement: "Members of the post have un grande opportunity to dust off the trigger and exercise the white o' their eyes in a post rifle club which is being formulated. Those interested call S. S. Bolton or leave their names with the adjutant."

On Thursday last, Chicago Loop post, No. 144, began holding its weekly luncheons at the Great Northern hotel. The post will have a private room for these luncheons, which will enable members to enjoy speakers and other entertainment each week.

Advertising Men's post, No. 38, will have Howard E. Taylor for a speaker at its meeting tomorrow in the Louis XVI. room at the Hotel Sherman. Mr. Taylor, manager of Berea college, Berea, Ky., will talk on "Day Break in the Mountains." His story, it is announced, "is of the sort to hold his listeners spellbound."

At the monthly meeting of Marine post, No. 273, to be held at the club rooms at the Auditorium hotel tomorrow night, six new members of the executive committee will be elected to succeed the following retiring members: T. E. Donnelly, Spencer Jones, R. J. Stone, A. M. Benson, C. Wayland Brooks, and C. J. Devers.

Comrade Edward C. Bass writes that "although Marines who served in France are a small percentage of the post membership, those who did are planning on this meeting for an unofficial anniversary jollification, for it was just eleven years ago on March 17 and 18 that Marine units of the second division moved up to the front in 1918." As usual, dinner will be served at 6:30 and the meeting will be at 8. Max Salovesh will sing "Ireland" in honor of March 17, and other entertainment has been arranged.

The Ladies' auxiliary of Chipilly post wil hold a St. Patrick's day party in connection with their regular meeting Monday night at the 131st infantry armory. One of the features of the meeting will be the reports from the "jockeys" in the membership race.

Trowel post will be host to the Seventh district at the monthly meeting on March 29. The place is North Center hall, 1940 Irving Park boulevard, and the meeting will be called at 8

Fort Dearborn post, No. 268, last night gave a St. Patrick's party at its headquarters, 6336 Cottage Grove avenue. Next Saturday night the post will give a Boy Scout party at its headquarters, the proceeds of which will be used to equip the scouts with instruments for their drum and bugle corps.

Veterans of the Second division from Chicago and nearby areas are to be hosts to Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone at a banquet in Hotel La Salle Wednesday evening, March 27. Gen. Malone, who has been in command of the central area, has been transferred to the Philippine islands where he will be commander.

March 27 will also mark the eleventh anniversary of the movement of the Second division into the trenches on an active front in the Toulon-Troyon sector, Gen. Malone at that time being in command of one of the regiments of the brigade which he later commanded.

AUSTIN PLAYER

MISS PAULINE PATTON.

The Associate girls of the Austin Woman's club entertained the mother organization at the Austin Masonic temple Monday with two one act plays, "Betty's Ancestors" and "Mimi Lights a Candle." The girls participating included Miss Pauline Patton, Miss Florence Zweirs, Miss Irene Zeigler, Miss Victoria Older, Miss Irene Hanson, Miss Anonarose Grandpre, Miss Marion Unnewehr, Miss Janice Harvey, Miss Marjorie Grove, Miss Marion Harger, Miss Catherine Clark, Miss Dorothy Brassie, Miss Marjorie Kenney, Miss Lorraine Grandpre, and Miss Dorothy Inman. The girls are working under the direction of Mrs. N. B. Snyder Mrs. Gladys Pickel. Electrical devices will be operated by Roger McColl and Arthur Salopaious.

The Associate girls engage in various philanthropies such as providing Christmas baskets for the poor and donating money for schoolboys' tuition.

FOUR WEST SIDE HIGH SCHOOLS TO CLASH IN DEBATE

The West Section High School Debating league, composed of Crane, Harrison, McKinley and Medill High schools, has announced its schedule for the second term. Each school has a negative and an affirmative team. The negative groups travel from school to school, the affirmative remaining at home. All teams debate the same question on the same day.

The second semester schedule opened Thursday when Crane met Harrison and Medill opposed McKinley. The subject for debate was "Resolved, That the eighteenth amendment be repealed." On April 18 Harrison will contest with Medill and Crane with McKinley. The question for that day will be "Resolved, That capital punishment be abolished." The third date on the schedule is May 23, with Harrison versus McKinley and Crane versus Medill. The question will be "Resolved, That the Philippine islands should be granted their immediate and absolute independence."

Each school has two members in the council of the debating league. Rex Lidov of Crane is president of the council, and Elaine Eckerling of Harrison, secretary. At the end of the season a silver loving cup will be awarded to the school winning first place. In case of a tie, a debate will be conducted between the two schools sharing first honors, one team representing each school. The time limit for constructive speeches in all debates will be seven, six, and six minutes, respectively, and three, four, and five minutes, respectively, for rebuttals.

Oak Park Art League Hears Fair Executive

Dr. Allen Albert, assistant to the president of the 1933 World's Fair, spoke before the Oak Park Art league Thursday evening. He presented plans for the fair and gave an illustrated description of the influence of the 1893 Columbian exposition on the architecture of Chicago. The lecture was arranged through the efforts of Mrs. Louis E. Yager.

EDWARD NOVAK INSTALLED BY PARK VIEW BODY

Group Concentrates on 3 Major Projects.

The new officers of the Park View association were installed at a public meeting held at Independence Park Field house, Irving Park boulevard and Springfield avenue, Wednesday. They are: President, Edward Novak; first vice president, Henry Fehlhaber; second vice president, Theodore Jacobsent; secretary, John Klier; treasurer, Harry Tobey; and sergeant at arms, Joseph Hammond.

EDWARD NOVAK

The Park View association is an organization of home owners living in the district bounded by Crawford avenue on the west, Central Park avenue on the east, Irving Park boulevard on the north, and the CChicago and North Western railroad tracks on the south. It was organized 19 years ago for the purpose of procuring needed improvements in the district.

Backs Three Major Projects.

The association is supporting the demand for feeder buses for the northwest side, the boulevarding of Addison street and the proposed Avondale highway. Among the projects now completed which the association aided in effecting are John B. Murphy school, Grace street and Central Park avenue, and the Park View suburban railway station at Addison street and Monticello avenue. In opposing the condemnation of the solidly built up block bounded by Addison, Waveland, Monticello and Central Park avenue for a proposed junior high school, the association maintains that there is vacant property nearby which would cost less and be equally desirable and that it is inadvisable to use tax-producing property.

Meet Once a Month.

Among the aims of the association, as outlined by President Novak, are to stimulate civic pride and public spirit and to promote the general welfare of the community; to create sociability by means of entertainments and educational talks; to protect and promote the mutual interest of the members in the enjoyment of their homes.

Meetings of the association are held at the Irving Park Athletic Field house, Addison street and Central Park avenue, on the second Wednesday of each month. The delegates of the assication to the Northwest Federation of Improvement Clubs are Mr. Novak, the president; Mr. Klier, the secretary, and Joseph Lenske.

Daughters of Isabella Hold St. Patrick Party

A St. Patrick's party was given Tuesday evening by the Madrigal council, Daughters of Isabella, at the Barry clubhouse, 2856 Washington boulevard. Miss Marion Hartnett, counsellor, was in charge, and she was assisted by the following officers of the association: Past grand lady, Miss Mae Fennelly; grand lady, Miss Elizabeth Regan; vice grand lady, Miss Marie Fleming; monitor, Miss Jane Sykes; scribe, Miss Mary Devaney; treasurer, Miss Sylvia Sykes; financier, Miss Julia Holden; sentry, Miss Julia Opecky; organist, Miss Ellen Melvin; trustees, Mrs. Mary Giomi, Mrs. Mildred Mertes, M. Fleming, Mrs. Gertrude Kelly, Mrs. Florence McLean, and Mrs. Mayme Beckman.

Austin High Students to Give Play for Hay P.-T.

Students of Austin High school, 5417 Fulton street, will present "As We Like It," a play in two scenes, for the Parent-Teacher association of John Hay school, 1018 North Laramie avenue, on March 20. The play was written, directed and cast by Mae Belle Finn, a student at Austin High school. Two casts have been rehearsed, including Rodger McColl, Robert Mould, Virginia Weir, Esther Galbraith, Laura Sher, Jack Lafferty, Ed Lafferty, Arthur Saloupolous, Grace Daly, George Fry, Marvin Hastings, and Howard Miller.

THE PARADE OF THE TWINS

It is a boast at the Irving Park boulevard department of the Y. M. C. A. that no other department has as many twin boys among its members. And here is the proof they exhibit: Reading from left to right: Front row, E. Meier, 4329 Lowell avenue; C. Mullett, 5651 Irving Park boulevard; H. Pfutzenreuter, 5425 Hutchinson street; R. Klose, 4445 North Kilbourn avenue; S. Enlund, 5056 Grace street, and L. Shepanek, 5200 Hutchinson street. Back row: W. Meier, 4329 Lowell avenue; J. Mullett, 5651 Irving Park boulevard; R. Pfutzenreuter, 5425 Hutchinson street; R. Klose, 4445 North Kilbourn avenue; R. Enlund, 5056 Grace street, and E. Shepanek, 5200 Hutchinson street.

THE CHUCKLE COLUMN

Sunday School Teacher—Now, does any one know what the Israelites were looking for when they went out into the wilderness?

Little Willie—Yes, ma'am, I know. Parking space.

JOSEPH SOWA,
1331 North Artesian avenue.

Smith—I am afraid that our new janitor is no good.

Mrs. Smith—You're not judging by appearances, are you, dear?

Smith—No, by disappearances.

ROSE LA PLAGGLIA,
1150 Milton avenue.

Suitor—Darling, I must marry you.

Darling—But have you seen father?

Suitor—Yes, many times, but I love you just the same.

GEORGE JOHNSON,
4823 North Hoyne avenue.

Collegian: Do you pet?

Co-ed—Sure—animals.

Collegian—Go ahead then. I'll be the goat.

HOWARD WOODS,
411 North Long avenue.

Cheerful Voice, over the telephone—What number is this?

Mandy, grumbling—Yo' all ought to know. Yo' done called it.

ROSE CAMPAGNA,
2816 Wilcox street.

She—Why do so many rest their chins on their hands when they are thinking?

He—To keep their mouths shut, so they won't disturb themselves.

STEVE WALAS,
4154 Kamerling avenue.

Artist—I learned drawing by mail.

Art Editor—Well, what are you going to do about it? Sue the postoffice?

ANNA MAE BOLEY,
2855 North Luna avenue.

Cannibal chef — How shall I cook this American chief?

Canibal chief—Stewed.

Cannibal chef—Fine, that's how I feund him.

LORETTA ANGLY,
5501 Balmoral avenue.

Junior—I've got one of those two-by-four sweeties.

Senior—What do you mean by "two by four"?

Junior—Well, I meet her by two and by four I'm broke.

ANDREW PETRONE,
1054 North Massasoit avenue.

Smith—My wife always kisses me when I get home. That's affection.

Jones—Affection, nothing. That's investigation.

ADELLE SCHEER,
1329 Campbell avenue,
Des Plaines.

Mother—Where did you learn those awful words, Raymond?

Raymond—From Santa Claus, when he stumbled over the chair Christmas eve.

EDWIN CHARNEY,
1633 North Keeler avenue.

A minister while preaching noticed a small boy in the congregation throwing chestnuts at other members of the group.

As the minister turned to him the boy said, "Keep right on preaching, Parson, I'll keep them awake."

JOSEPH STACHURA,
2546 Carmen avenue.

CHUCKLES.

The Tribune wants some smiles, chuckles, and hearty laughs for this column from the high school students of Chicago. Two dollars will be paid for each original contribution, joke, jingle, verse, or anecdote. Address them to the Metropolitan editor of The Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

Sage—Women are not what they used to be.

Sap—Well, no. They used to be girls.

LILLIAN MALINOWSKA,
1338 Holt street.

Dick—I hear that Pete is quite a fellow. They say he makes love to five girls a week, approximately.

Bill—What do you mean, approximately?

Dick—O, you know. Roughly!

ALVIN ANDERSEN,
2231 Giddings avenue.

Foreman—Wot's up, Bill? Hurt yourself?

Bill—No, gotta nail in me foot.

Foreman—Why doncher take it out?

Bill—What! In me dinner hour?

MARIAN RETTINGER,
8352 South Throop street.

Woman—I want to buy a revolver for my husband.

Clerk—Did he tell you what kind to buy?

Woman—Of course not. He doesn't even know I'm going to shoot him.

HELEN CEJKA,
5358 South California avenue.

Half—Won't you sit down?

Wit—No, thanks. I've been skating all day and I'm tired.

HOWARD REHM,

NORTHWEST SIDE RAISING $250,000 TO AID HOSPITAL

Karl Eitel Leads Drive for St. Elizabeth's.

With all organizations, associations and scores of leading citizens of the northwest side helping, the campaign to enable St. Elizabeth hospital, 1433 North Claremont street, to build a new building, got under way this last week. The hospital is the oldest institution of its kind on the northwest side. It was founded in 1887 by the Poor Handmaids of Jesus Christ. This order is pledged to contribute half of the $500,000 needed for the new building, and the general committee, including the woman's auxiliary of the hospital, will do the rest.

KARL EITEL.

The project to add 150 beds and all modern equipment to St. Elizabeth's, is indorsed by the Northwest Branch of the Chicago Medical society, by the Chicago Association of Commerce, by every business man's organization in the district, and has the approval of Cardinal Mundelein.

Karl Eitel Chairman.

Karl Eitel is general chairman of the campaign, and the executive committee includes Judge Michael Girten, Joseph R. Noel, Miss Anna Gebhardt, Michael Brisch, and F. E. Lackowski. Anthony Czarnecki heads the publicity committee, and William Runnel the special gifts committee.

A meeting of division chiefs and workers was held at the hospital assembly hall Friday evening when Ald. Max Adamowski [38th] and Edward Kaindl spoke. The division chiefs include: Ald. Edward J. Kaindl [34th], division street district; John M. Zimmerman, North avenue district; Harry G. Weimer, Kelvin Park district; Charles E. Stevens, North Milwaukee avenue district; E. E. Moll and A. J. Glenicki, lower Milwaukee avenue district; B. A. C. Hoelzer, Logan Square district, and John Schwaba and Joseph N. Baim, Avondale district.

100,000 Patients Cared For.

During its 45 years of service, St. Elizabeth hospital has received more than 100,000 patients. More than one-fourth of those treated in the last five years have been free cases, while a large per cent of the remainder have made partial payments. The physicians on the hospital staff have also given largely of their services to those unable to pay for treatment. Patients of all faiths and nationalities have been cared for.

Drum Corps and Flag Team Formed at Foreman Junior High

Students of the Foreman High school, Le Claire and Belmont avenues, have recently formed a drum and bugle corps under the direction of Miss Florence Adams, a music teacher, and a flag drill team coached by Miss Margaret Lynch, physical education teacher. The combined groups under the student drum major, Laverne Jernberg, have been appearing at various class assemblies in celebration of Washington's birthday and Lincoln's birthday.

VOICE of the WEST SIDE

NEGLIGENT ALDERMEN.

March 13.—Your paper has given a good deal of help to local people interested in zoning ordinances of late, and perhaps you can lend your influence toward remedying what I think is a serious ill in the way the city council attends to zoning matters. A meeting of the building and zoning committee was called three weeks ago for 10:30 in the morning. About fifty people interested in matters which were to come up and about which they had been notified waited in the committee room for more than an hour. At the end of that time some official came in and said the meeting had to be postponed because there was not a quorum present. [Out of more than 15 aldermen on the committee, a quorum constitutes only seven.] The meeting was called for the same day the following week. At that time the whole procedure was repeated except that even more people were kept waiting in vain. Now apparently the aldermen are so negligent of their duty that no meeting is being called at all. I don't think the duties of an alderman are so burdensome that he cannot attend committee meetings—especially when they are so vitally important to his constituents as are the zoning committee sessions.

TRACK ELEVATION PLAN OF C. & N. W MEETS CRITICISM

Plans made by engineers of the Chicago & North Western railway for elevating the tracks of the Wisconsin division from Jefferson park to the city limits are being criticized by city officials, who suggest twelve street subways instead of the nine provided for in the profile submitted to them last week.

The city engineers ask that openings be provided at Austin, Bryn Mawr, Nagle, Ardmore, Raven, Nickerson, Newell, Harlem, Oliphant, Oketo, Olympia, and Ozark avenues. In cases where half the street is through and the other is part of a subdivision it will be necessary to get permission of the owner. However, no opposition is expected.

Engineers of the North Western believe that work will be started in about a year, when all evelation plans will be completed. A third track is now being laid to route trains over so that service will not be interrupted while the construction is under way.

AUSTIN STUDENTS TO SEEK U. OF C. SCHOLARSHIPS

Several students at Austin High school, 5417 Fulton street, are making preparations to enter the competitive scholarship examinations to be held at the University of Chicago on Friday, May 24. Those taking the English examinations include La Verne Nolan, Rose Krott, Blanche Berson, Shirley Stade, Dorothy Weaver, Helen Lyon, and Ethel Franzen.

Students who will enter the mathematical examinations include Frances Grote, Melva Quelle, Howard Brady, and Joseph Minardi. Two girls are preparing to take the Latin examinations, Jessie McCollum and Marie Lein. Thus far the Spanish examinations have attracted only one student, Olga de la Pena, but the French tests will find three Austinites entered, Faith Foster, Riva Golbin, and Robert Falkman.

Among those who will take the American history examinations are Vivian Kretz, William Dubats, Jeanne Hoch, Wesley Edgren, John Burns, Georgia Hale, Bernice Erickson, John Freemuth, Virginia Mueller, Marjorie Sielaff, and Rodger McColl. Entered in the chemistry tests are Herbert Carlson, Bernard Friendland, Abe Radunsky, Yarmilla Mueller, Bergir Johnson, William Murray, Willard Steir, Sidney Simon, Kendrick Smith, and Donald Peters.

The Sisters of Charity will meet Wednesday afternoon in the State and Lake building. Mrs. Goldie Goldstine is president of the organization.

NORTHWEST SIDE TO ENJOY ERA OF BEAUTIFICATION

Chicago's northwest side will soon undergo the process of beautification as the result of the Chicago Modernizing bureau's decision to open a branch in this section of the city. Authorities are debating upon the location of an office.

The branch will be established as a connection with a city-wide plan for the betterment of home conditions, the improvement of all business properties and the modernization of community centers. The modernizing of buildings which are now out of date will be effected by furnishing their owners with plans, contractors and proper financial assistance for any improvements contemplated either in the business section or residential territory.

An advisory board will be established for the benefit of the movement to be made up of local business men and civic leaders. Endorsements from the leading men of the entire northwest side have been obtained for the plan as well as the cooperation of contractors and builders.

The bureau points out that a majority of buildings in the various communities are poor investments as the structures are out of date and do not attract renters or purchasers. The building easily can be made into desirable and attractive edifices.

Norwood Park Hears "Romance of Aviation"

"The Romance of Aviation" was the subject of a talk made by Lieut. George M. Lord of the Western Air Express at a meeting of the Norwood Park Citizens' association last Monday evening at the Norwood Park Masonic temple, Nina and East Circle avenues. The various activities of mankind were shown by Lieut. Lord from the records of mythology up to the present time, bringing in the development of aviation and the more recent development of commercial air work. Carl M. Johnson is president of the Citizens' association.

Arrange A. Z. A. Dance.

Columbus Park chapter, A. Z. A. international fraternity, is making preparations for the annual dance to be held at the Elks club, 173 West Washington street, Saturday evening, March 30. Joseph Cohen is president of the organization.

SCHOOL CARDS WARN PARENTS IF PUPILS' WEIGHT IS TOO LOW

Since the subject of health has become one of the major factors in the curriculum of the modern elementary school, various methods of instructing the student in this phase of education have been introduced. At John Hay school, 1018 North Laramie avenue, there is in use a card system by which parents are informed every second month regarding the physical condition of their children.

Each teacher keeps a record of the height, weight, and age of her pupils. By referring to a chart published by the United States department of the interior, Washington, she ascertains whether the child is under weight.

For example, if the pupil is 8 years old he should be approximately 53 inches tall and weigh 67 pounds. If the child has a normal weight a white card is sent to his parents, indicating his weight and height. If he is 7 per cent or less below weight, a blue card is forwarded to the parents. If he is more than 7 per cent below weight a red card is sent. This is intended to warn the parents that something is wrong with the child and that steps should be taken to remedy the fault.

On the back of each card is a list of health suggestions, advising the children to get sufficient sleep, to eat vegetables and fruit, etc.

This system was introduced at Hay school after Miss Ida Mighell, the principal, consulted with the Parent-Teacher association regarding adoption of a health program. The great majority of the children, according to Miss Mighell, obtain white cards at the end of every second month.

Both the parents and the children evince great interest in the system, and when a child receives a red card, indicating low weight, he begins to take measures himself to get a better rating the next time.

Y. W. H. A. to Dance.

A cabaret dance will be given by the Young Women's Hebrew association of Chicago, Sunday evening, March 31, at the Logan Square Masonic temple, 2451 North Kedzie boulevard. Miss Rose Fracht is in charge of arrangements.

LORADO TAFTS TO BE HOSTS TO ILLINÆ CLUB

Tea to Be Held in Studio of Sculptor.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorado Taft will be hosts to the members of the Chicago Illinae club at the annual south side gathering to be held Saturday afternoon at Mr. Taft's studio, 6016 Ellis avenue. Mr. Taft was host at a similar affair given two years ago in his studio rooms and, as before, will conduct the guests through his workshop, explaining various phases of the sculptor's art.

Of especial interest will be the showing of several bronze figures to be used in one of his masterpieces, the "Alma Mater," which is to be dedicated on the University of Illinois campus in Urbana in June in commemoration of Mr. Taft's fiftieth anniversary as an alumnus of the university.

Committee to Assist.

Tea will be served from 3 to 5 o'clock and assisting Mr. and Mrs. Taft in the receiving line will be Miss Alice Howe, 10233 South Wood street, president of the club; Mrs. Howard McLane, 6506 South Troy stret, chairman of the afternoon; Mrs. Charles F. Pillsbury, 10451 South Seeley avenue; Miss Darley Thomas, 1615 Hyde Park boulevard Miss Mary Bransfield, 4748 Woodlawn avenue, Mrs. H. F. Partridge, 6621 Yale avenue, and Miss Nellie V. Walker, Mr. Taft's secretary.

Other officers of the Chicago club are Mrs. A. M. Hauser, 328 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, vice president; Mrs. George Winterhalter, 422 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, recording secretary; Mrs. R. E. Schreiber, 1650 Sherwin avenue, treasurer, and Mrs. E. L. Kemp, 8157 Ingleside avenue, corresponding secretary.

Four Events a Year.

There are more than 1,800 alumnae living in Chicago and its suburbs and, as in former years, it is the custom to hold four events each year. Early in the fall a tea was held on the north side, the first of this year Mrs. A. M. Hauser was hostess at a card party in Oak Park, and this third gathering, held on the south side, will be followed by the annual spring luncheon, the date and place to be announced later.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR JANE A. DELANO IS HELD BY NURSES

Students of the Presbyterian hospital nursing school held memorial services at the Presbyterian hospital, 1753 West Congress street, Tuesday night in recognition of the birthday of Jane A. Delano, known since the world war as the mother of Red Cross nurses.

Miss M. Helena McMillan, director of the Presbyterian nursing school, was in charge of the program. Others taking part were Miss Edith Foley, director of the Visiting Nurses' association; Miss Mary Cutler, one of the nurses at the hospital, and Miss Madeleine Smedley, a student nurse.

Miss Delano joined the Red Cross in 1908 and became the first chairman of a national committee of nursing service working in connection with the Red Cross. For ten years she gave her time and efforts toward increasing the enrollment of Red Cross nurses, and when the United States entered the world war it found Miss Delano prepared with 30,000 nurses, more than 10,000 of whom were sent for service overseas.

According to Miss McMillan, the purpose of the service was to encourage student nurses, upon their graduation, to enroll with the Red Cross. Attention was called to Delano day and its purpose in classes of all nursing schools in Chicago.

Alcoholic Deaths Drop in Post-War Prussia

BERLIN.—(AP)—Deaths from chronic alcoholism in Prussia have decreased about 50 per cent, compared with the last prewar year, 1913, the reduction being from 913 cases to 516.

SCREEN TAKING PLACE OF BOOKS FOR TINY PUPILS

Used to Teach Three R's at Spry School.

Reading, writing and arithmetic are being taught with the aid of stereopticon slides and films at John Spry school, 2400 Marshall boulevard. This is an advanced means of replacing formal drill in these subjects with a pleasant method of teaching. Both picture and text are shown on the screen. In some cases slides are used; in others films.

Divided Into Five Groups.

A course in reading has been prepared by several teachers at Spry school under the leadership of Clyde A. Brown, principal. They are Alice Maher, Mr. Langlands, M. Sarsfield, M. Sullivan, A. Courtney, H. Sloan, and A. Thornton. The course has been in the making for two years and has just recently been completed. The lanterns are used in the first, second and third grades of the school for one-half hour each day.

The course is divided into five groups. The first is called "Silent Reading Lessons." In this film words such as "baby," "boy," "girl" are illustrated with verbs such as "finds," "runs," "hops" printed at the bottom. The child learns the words and connects the nouns and the verbs. In the second group, labeled "Complete Sentences," the child constructs sentences by connecting various nouns with appropriate verbs, the illustrations again aiding him. The third group, called "Direction Sentences," consists of a series of cammands, such as "Run to the door."

First Graders Learn 200 Words.

The fourth group, "Yes or No," is a series of questions which the pupil answers in either the affirmative or the negative by holding up cards labeled "yes" or "no," or by pointing to the words "yes" or "no" which have previously been printed on the blackboard. In the fifth group, The children in the first grade at Spry school have a list of 500 words to learn. Many being of foreign descent, have to learn to speak the English language as well as to read. Films have been found more satisfactory than slides because they may be operated more rapidly and they cost less.

SCREEN TAKING PLACE OF BOOKS FOR TINY PUPILS

Used to Teach Three R's at Spry School.

Reading, writing and arithmetic are being taught with the aid of stereopticon slides and films at John Spry school, 2400 Marshall boulevard. This is an advanced means of replacing formal drill in these subjects with a pleasant method of teaching. Both picture and text are shown on the screen. In some cases slides are used; in others films.

Divided Into Five Groups.

A course in reading has been prepared by several teachers at Spry school under the leadership of Clyde A. Brown, principal. They are Alice Maher, Mr. Langlands, M. Sarsfield, M. Sullivan, A. Courtney, H. Sloan, and A. Thornton. The course has been in the making for two years and has just recently been completed. The lanterns are used in the first, second and third grades of the school for one-half hour each day.

The course is divided into five groups. The first is called "Silent Reading Lessons." In this film words such as "baby," "boy," "girl" are illustrated with verbs such as "finds," "runs," "hops" printed at the bottom. The child learns the words and connects the nouns and the verbs. In the second group, labeled "Complete Sentences," the child constructs sentences by connecting various nouns with appropriate verbs, the illustrations again aiding him. The third group, called "Direction Sentences," consists of a series of cammands, such as "Run to the door."

First Graders Learn 200 Words.

The fourth group, "Yes or No," is a series of questions which the pupil answers in either the affirmative or the negative by holding up cards labelled "yes" or "no," or by pointing to the words "yes" or "no" which have previously been printed on the blackboard. In the fifth group, The children in the first grade at Spry school have a list of 500 words to learn. Many being of foreign descent, have to learn to speak the English language as well as to read. Films have been found more satisfactory than slides because they may be operated more rapidly and they cost less.

CHAIN PROGRAMS THIS YEAR WILL COST 23 MILLION

To Be No Letdown During Summer Months.

New York, March 16.—Chain broadcasting has been definitely established on a twelve months a year basis and the listening public will be able to tune in this summer on programs the equal both in quality and number of those sent out over the air in the winter months. Widespread recognition of the important place that radio holds in the country today has been instrumental in abolishing the summer slump in broadcasting.

Sales figures of the big broadcasting chains indicate that hot weather programs this year will keep radio interest at a high pitch. Officials of the two leading broadcasting chains report that more than $23,000,000 will be invested by advertisers in chain program during 1929.

No Summer Sag.

The National Broadcasting company reports a sum in excess of $16,000,000 for chain programs for the current year, while Columbia's clients will spend close to $7,500,000 to entertain the radio public in 1929. Expenditures on programs over the summer period this year will be virtually as high as in the other seasons of the year, according to plans announced.

An analysis of expenditures for radio entertainment of previous years shows that a sharp sag in programs occurred in the summer months, the big features going into retirement with the advent of warm weather. That will not be the case this year, however, as sponsors of the most popular chain programs have definitely signified their intention of continuing their programs throughout the twelve months of the year.

Improvement Each Year.

Going back to 1925, the number of sponsored programs and the number of hours on the air showed a sharp decline as the hot weather increased. By 1927, however, some improvement was registered in the matter of better summer programs, the chain broadcasting companies reporting a greater call for service during June, July, and August. Last year the situation righted itself even more than in the preceding year, due largely to the part played by radio in the political campaign. This year, for the first time in the history of radio, the two large broadcasters of chain programs have committed themselves to present their biggest features straight through the year.

With a steady flow of quality entertainment over the radio during the summer months, together with the usual broadcasting of regular summer features in the realm of sport, activity in the radio industry promises to reach new heights in what formerly went for a quiet period.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

The country at large has taken quite a fancy to the sports announcer who has been allowed a few times to broadcast over one of the national chains. His name is Bill Munday of Atlanta, Ga., and he crashed into popularity on New Year's day when the chain, for sectional good feeling purposes, let him describe parts of the Georgia football game in California. He was astounding to the radio audience, because, for an announcer extemporizing, he had a vocabulary. And in addition to his graphic formal vocabulary, he introduced a flock of colorful idioms of his own territory, such as "the crap-shootin' huddle."

Then, again, two weeks ago, he was allowed to squeeze in patter between rounds of the Stribling-Sharkey fight broadcast—and his interludes were the hit of the show, although he didn't have enough time to strut his stuff. After all, when a national chain is broadcasting to the whole nation, it's good advertising sense to include an announcer with a southern accent—to win over the audience in Dixie.

THE TALKING movie apparatus has a new use. When a great national event is being broadcast, or at least an event that takes the attention of the populace at large, the theater managers can hook up the gigantic horns used in their talkies to a radio receiving set and let the theater enjoy the highly amplified story of the announcer. This was done in some places during the recent fight in Florida. When a vitaphone picture is on the screen, the sounds come from huge horns placed behind the screen, and the special kind of screen is so thin that the pictures can be seen from the rear as well.

HOW WOULD you like a job like this? In a New York broadcasting station the managers employ a young lady whose sole duty is to sit opposite persons who are talking into the microphone, in order to give them a real "audience" and thus cure them of microphone fright. The lady is charming and attentive to what is being said—but we're afraid if we were the subject of her rapt and beautiful attention, we'd be frightened to death!

SOME DAY the short story writers will use the broadcaster's form for depicting drama in the present tense. The form we mean is an imaginary broadcast, of one of our horse races, for example. Would you like to hear a hoss race, e'en tho' this is the Sabbath? Let's go! Tune us in:

"There's the bugle call, summoning the horses to the post. My, this is a fine view we have for the race!

Track spread out in front of us like a circle some boys have drawn in the dirt for a game of marbles. Look what great designs the landscape gardener has planted with his flowers out there in the parade ground, inside the track!

"Is it really warm, or do I just think it is? Some of the boys down in the paddock have their coats off. Grandstand's pretty well filled today. Now let's see—which are those horses ambling around the paddock for inspection?—gee, yes, this is the race that Phantom and Beau Brummel are in. They're saddling 'em now.

"Dandy looking hosses—look at 'em!—look at that head of Phantom's high up in the air, pretty ritzy! Wouldn't you like to be riding either of those thoroughbreds? It'd be like riding a skyrocket when they jump from the barrier.

"This Phantom is a deadly dude, the clockers' sheets say—one of them reports, 'Phantom, a whole basket of ripe peaches; a through train on a clear track; the answer to a jockey's prayer; he ran away with the whole darned Maypole dance at Pimlico; drop a few pennies in the tin cup on him, brother, and you'll be backing up a truck to the paying teller's window in the morning.'

"Let's see what the hooey is on Beau Brummel. 'Beau Brummel—here's a 1930 model—stream lines—and built for nothing but speed—he could win if he had to pull a pie wagon behind him—peel off a fin and hang it on his nose—if you'd like to cheer yourself up.'

"Here they come, now, out onto the track. Sammy, the post boy, is leading 'em out, on the white pony. Look at that crowd getting fidgety now—everybody getting up close to the rail. Phantom and Beau Brummel, and Phantom on the rail. That's Jockey Harry Spinggold up on Phantom, with the green cap and the black and white silks. Jockey Pete Squish is riding Beau Brummel, in a yellow shirt with blue dots. They're cavorting around down here in front of us, and the race is going to start to our left—both horses prancing and feeling skittish—now they're back of the tape line, and the boys are stretching the slender rubber across the track.

"In a minute now those electric levers on both rails will spring up—and the race will be on! The assistant starters are pulling both nags up to the line—they'll get 'em lined up right away—There! That's pretty good—Nope, Beau Brummel wheeled nervously to the left—now they're pulling him up. There! Now watch for the start—

"Both horses leap forward like flashes and they're moving off neck and neck—here they come pattering down the lane past us—just look at those jockey's whip hands—Phantom about a neck ahead and now they're coasting into the first turn—do you think Phantom'll win?—he's got the rail—and he eases farther ahead as they're careening around the turn—both jockeys with their chins down on their knees—Phantom is pulling out and he's a length in the lead at the quarter post — PHANTOM A LENGTH AHEAD AT THE QUARTER!—Gosh, they look as though they were on a toboggan, they glide forward so gracefully—now they're scooting into the back stretch and the straight track—Um, watch those babies leg it—Beau Brummel is dropping behind, and Phantom is slashing a length and a half in the lead—through these field glasses they look like a movie—jockeys flapping arms and two horses squirting up the dust.

"There's the pole for the half distance—PHANTOM A LENGTH AND A HALF AHEAD! They're approaching the turn, and Phantom is scampering frantically—plunk! they hit the bend and both animals hugging the rail—but LOOK, BEAU IS SPURTING, and he's creeping up—he'll have to go 'round him—they're thumping around the turn, and now they're facing us, and Phantom only a length ahead—it may be one of those whirlwind finishes—.

"Look at 'em now—sweeping into the home stretch, and the mob down here is standing on tiptoe — and screaming!—Beau Brummel coming up on him—Jockey Squish is driving him on like a storm—and HE'S ONLY A HALF LENGTH BEHIND PHANTOM AT THREE QUARTERS!

"Here they come, pounding along the turf toward us—fighting it out where it means the most—OH, PHANTOM IS INCHING FORWARD FASTER! — splattering — a mass of weaving legs—THE JOCKEYS ARE ALMOST SIDE BY SIDE!—Phantom a half length ahead and the race almost ended—Beau Brummel is coming closer—WILL HE WIN?—Here they are, right down here—Beau is almost bursting!—AND HE COMES UP CLOSER—ALMOST OVER—.

"NOPE!—PHANTOM BEATS BEAU BRUMMEL BY HALF A LENGTH!"

THE NEW Federal K MODEL with the AC Shield Grid Tube

Now!

Federal Quality at Price of Ordinary Radios

FEDERAL'S new "K" models ... the first licensed radios using the sensational new A. C. Shield Grid Tube ... represent all that Federal has stood for during the 27 years of the company's existence. They are made under the same precise engineering standards and subjected to the same rigid inspections that have won Federal Radios recognition as America's finest.

To this typical Federal quality has been added the remarkable feature of the new A. C. Shield Grid Tube which, according to eminent authorities, does the work of two extra tubes. It gives the sharp selectivity, extreme sensitivity and distance range and the great amplification needed for the perfect operation of a dynamic speaker. Volume production alone has made the new Federal "K" receiver available at so low a price.

If you want a 1930 radio now, see one of the dealers listed below. Any of them will gladly arrange a home demonstration of the new Federal "K" or any other of the outstanding Federal models.

Console $154.50 as Illustrated

With Dynamic Speaker $164.50 Table Model $114.50

ON this St. Patrick's Day you can get a musical bird's-eye view of the Emerald Isle in a special Irish program. Sons and daughters of Old Erin as well as other listeners will be thrilled by these forty minutes of Hibernian melodies. The lilting, swift jigs and the crooning songs from all parts of Ireland will be whisked to you as they are observed by Quin Ryan from Mother Machree's Magic Carpet. Listen at 10:05 tonight.

JEAN GOLDKETTE

EIGHTEEN skilled musicians work together to create those sleek, rhythmic patterns of modern music. They play with subtle, suggested, almost unheard throbs of the dance provoking rhythm; from its midst comes the eerie note of a muted trumpet—as modern as Paris—as dignified and progressive as Berlin. And then abruptly they turn. The tempo quickens. The spirit is youthful. The atmosphere more American—or is it more African? It's full of another kind of life. A penetrating trumpet licks out a dozen notes more quickly than you can count them . . . the clarinet would wail if it hadn't to snip out another note an octave away as quickly as the keys will respond! That's Goldkette! The first group at three this afternoon, but more from 10:45 on tonight.

Pace Jubilee Singers - - -

THEY'RE born harmonists and cultivated musicians. The Pace Jubilee Singers are five nationally famous colored singers who have recently come to W-G-N, and have already become widely popular. The smooth, warm music of the spirituals will move you by its somber and sometimes even melancholy air. 3:15.

COOLIDGE LEAVES HOOVERCANADIAN RADIO PROBLEM

Royal Commission to Visit United States Soon.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—Canada's place in the broadcasting realm is one of the problems of aggravated proportions that remains as a heritage to the Hoover administration. The North American division of short waves has been accomplished successfully and to the apparent satisfaction of all, but Canadians are still voicing dissatisfaction with the dominion's allotment of six exclusive and twelve shared channels out of the 96 available in the broadcast band.

The Canadian royal commission appointed to investigate the dominion's radio broadcasting problem will visit the United States some time this month or next, conferring with the federal radio commission and with high government radio authorities. Until it renders its report, the attitude that the Ottawa government may be expected to take cannot be determined. The dissent thus far heard has been voiced largely through the press and in other informal ways.

Studying in England.

The commission consists of Sir John Aird, president of the Toronto Bank of Commerce, chairman; Charles A. Bowman, editor of the Ottawa Citizen, and Augustin Frigon, director of the Montreal Ecole Polytechnique. It has been studying the radio broadcasting situation in continental Europe and the British isles before embarking for a windup North American tour. Whether it will visit the United States first or return to Canada directly from London has not been learned.

Canada's radio problem is inextricably interwoven with that of the United States, since the adjustment of wave lengths must be a matter of voluntary agreement by both countries. There are approximately seventy broadcasting licenses in force for stations in the dominion, but many of these licenses represent duplicate sets of call letters for single transmitters. The government marine authorities estimate that 400,000 receiving sets are in use in Canada, 60 per cent in the cities and 40 per cent among the rural population. These are the sets licensed at a nominal yearly fee; how many sets are operated without license cannot even be estimated.

Six Bands Not Enough.

Six exclusive wave lengths are deemed insufficient for the national radio services, although these channels have been allocated to stations whose powers have been kept low enough, and distances from each other "staggered," so that there may be duplications. The twelve channels used concurrently with the United States are, of course, those upon which low powered stations in both countries must necessarily operate.

The royal commission has been authorized to inquire specifically into these questions: 1. The establishment of one or more groups of high powered broadcasting stations operating as private enterprises with the receipt of a government subsidy; 2. the establishment and operation of such a system of stations to be owned and financed by the dominion government; 3. the establishment and operation of stations by provincial governments.

With the internal governmental policy to be pursued by Canada, the United States is not, of course, very greatly concerned, although much interest will naturally attach to any proposal to operate on this continent, a government owned or government subsidized broadcasting system like like those in most foreign countries. The problem the United States government will be called upon to meet will be one of determining a basis of wave length division with Canada.

Like U. S. Programs.

That the 600 or more stations in this country need all the channels they can get and that a 10 kilocycle separation between channels must be maintained is patent to any observer. The question the royal commission is expected by the Canadian press to answer is whether the present arbitrary division is satisfactory. A negative reply will precipitate discussions with the federal radio commission and possibly open diplomatic negotiations.

That Canadian listeners like the programs they pick up from American stations is evident to any one who has visited the dominion. But Canadian government authorities are unwilling to agree that their subjects should listen to advertisements of American made products along with such entertainment. Radio has become "Americanized" all through the dominion, they have complained; that is one of the reasons the commission was appointed.

8 JOURNALISTS OF YORK HIGH RECEIVE HONOR

Eight students of York Community High school, Elmhurst, have been elected as charter members of Quill and Scroll, national honor group for high school journalists.

They are Frank Avery, general manager of the student weekly, "York Hi"; Donald Pettit, managing editor; Jane Goellen, news editor; Francis Lauer, feature editor; Joseph Bragstad, business manager; Howard Fisher, sports editor; Eleanor Karasek, makeup, and Victor Behncke, business manager of "Y's Tales," the school annual.

Students who are elected must be juniors or seniors, must stand in the upper third of the class and must have done creative work on school publications. The society is sponsored by the department of journalism of the University of Iowa.

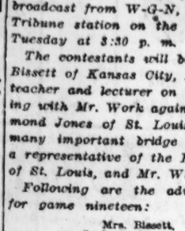
One Hundred Aces Good for Only One No Trump in Radio Auction Bridge Game

The nineteenth of a series of twenty radio auction bridge games will be broadcast from W-G-N, The Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, Tuesday at 3:30 p. m.

The contestants will be Mrs. Clyde Bissett of Kansas City, Mo., a noted teacher and lecturer on bridge, playing with Mr. Work against C. Drummond Jones of St. Louis, winner of many important bridge contests as a representative of the Racquet club of St. Louis, and Mr. Whitehead.

Following are the advance hands for game nineteen:



The eighteenth of this season's radio bridge games went on the air Tuesday from station W-G-N, with Mrs. Annie Adair Foster of Atlanta, Ga., as Mr. Whitehead's partner, and Maj. Lewis W. Colfelt, Philadelphia, paired with Mr. Work.

The players held the following hands:

Mr. Whitehead, as dealer, in the south, picked up 100 aces. He might be said to have had an option between bidding one spade and one no trump, but with four aces and with the second best of his five spades only an 8 spot, the no trump certainly seemed more promising, both for a big score and for making game. Mr. Whitehead bid the no trump, not because of the big honor score, as the expert player does not sacrifice a better chance for making game merely for a higher honor count. He was influenced by the fact that his type of hand, combined with the average dummy, will produce a game in no trump much more often than it will game in spades; also the difference in honor score might be as great as 130 or 140, since adversaries might hold 30 or 40 honors in the spade suit.

All Others Pass.

Mr. Work, in the west, Mrs. Foster, north, and Maj. Colfelt, east, all passed the dealer's bid; therefore Mr. Whitehead became declarer with his contract one no trump.

Mr. Work, west, led the 6 of clubs, fourth best of his stronger four card suit, and from Mrs. Foster's hand, which became dummy, Mr. Whitehead, declarer, played the 9 of clubs. Maj. Colfelt, east, here made a play which indicated the high caliber of his game. He assumed that the 6 of clubs was his partner's fourth best of the suit, a conventional lead. The 6 was also his partner's lowest club, since Maj. Colfelt himself held every club lower than the 6. Consequently, Mr. Work's club suit, if the 6 were the fourth best, was of exactly four cards. With two clubs in dummy, and six in Maj. Colfelt's hand, it was apparent to Maj. Colfelt that declarer could hold only one. This probably was either the ace or king, since with a worthless singleton declarer would have avoided a no trump bid. If not the ace or king, then declarer's singleton was either the jack or 8 spot, the only other clubs higher than the 6 for which Maj. Colfelt could not account. Maj. Colfelt knew, by applying the rule of eleven to Mr. Work's lead of the 6, that there were outstanding, in the three hands other than the leader's, five cards higher than the 6 led. Of these, only four were in dummy's and Maj. Colfelt's hands. The fifth, therefore, had to be in declarer's.

Clubs Threaten Game.

Regardless, however, of what declarer's singleton might be, whether ace, king, jack or 8 spot, Maj. Colfelt realized that he should not play his queen. Should he do so, Mr. Work's four card club suit would block Maj. Colfelt's six card suit; and the latter, without a reëntry in his hand, would be unable to make his two long clubs. Therefore, Maj. Colfelt played his 5 of clubs on his partner's 6. Mr. Whitehead, declarer, played his lone ace. Mr. Work, west, could readily read it as being a singleton, and therefore was able to read Maj. Colfelt as having held six clubs originally.

Mr. Whitehead, though unable from the play to read the exact club situation, realized that the entire suit was set up against him, seriously threatening game. He could, however, count, in addition to his club trick, four sure tricks in diamonds, two in spades, and one in hearts—eight altogether, one short of game.

Apparently the game trick could be made only by a successful finesse against the king of hearts. Therefore Mr. Whitehead planned first to make practically sure of his contract and thereafter to take the heart finesse in a try for game.

Accordingly Mr. Whitehead led the ace of diamonds, to which Mr. Work played the 2, dummy the 3, and Maj. Colfelt the 6. Mr. Whitehead's queen of diamonds brought the 4 from Mr. Work, the 7 from dummy, and the 8 spot from Maj. Colfelt. Declarer then led the 10, overtaking with dummy's jack. Mr. Work played the 5 and Maj. Colfelt the 9. Dummy led the thirteenth diamond, the king. Maj. Colfelt discarded the 7 of hearts, Mr. Whitehead the 3 of spades, Mr. Work the 2 of spades.

Heart Finesse Fails.

At this point Mr. Whitehead could have taken his king and ace of spades, thus assuring his contract, one no trump. The ace of hearts would have made it two odd, and a successful finesse of the queen of hearts would have produced game. Failure of the heart finesse at this point would give the adversaries a heart trick plus all their clubs.

As to the club situation, Mr. Whitehead could tell, by application of the rule of eleven to the 6 of clubs originally led, that Maj. Colfelt must hold two clubs higher than the 6; and since he did not play either of them to the first trick, but instead underplayed his partner's 6, it was evident that he was long in clubs. Otherwise Maj. Colfelt would have played one of his high clubs to force out the one club higher than the 6, which he could read as being in Mr. Whitehead's hand.

Having thus read Maj. Colfelt as long in clubs, Mr. Whitehead reasoned that there was no possibility of either adversary holding as many as seven clubs. Consequently, five tricks would be the maximum the adversaries could make. Thus, even if his heart finesse failed Mr. Whitehead could still make his contract; and should the finesse succeed, he would have game. Therefore, while still holding control of the spade suit, Mr. Whitehead proceeded to take the heart finesse, leading the 2 of hearts from dummy. Maj. Colfelt played the 10; declarer his queen, and Mr. Work, west, won with the king.

Mr. Work then led in succession, the king, jack, and 8 spot of clubs. Maj. Colfelt, east, covered the 8 spot with his queen and then took his two long clubs. On these five club tricks Mr. Whitehead, declarer, discarded down to the ace of spades and the ace of hearts, with which cards he won the last two tricks, giving him a score of 10 points for the odd trick and 100 for four aces in one hand.

The bidding of this hand at contract would impose some little responsibility upon the south player. With every suit stopped and a count of 20 [4 for each of his acres and 2 for each of his queens] he would be well over the 17 with four suits stopped requirement for a bid of two no trumps, but he would be one short of the requisite 21 for three no trumps. Even if he held an extra jack, giving him the 21 count, he properly would hesitate about bidding three no trumps because of the singleton, even though it is an ace. Two no trumps would seem to be his sound declaration. Over south's two no trumps, north, with a count of 7, of course would jump to three no trumps. The play being the same as in auction bridge, the declarer would fail to make his game by a margin of two tricks.

'STENO' WHO WON FAME AS SINGER ON AIR TONIGHT

"Sigrid the toiler," who typed and stenoged her way to musical fame, might be part of the story about the struggle of Sigrid Onegin, the newest and youngest European concert contralto and operatic star, who is to be guest artist tonight in the Atwater Kent program broadcast over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. But there is considerably more to the life history of this truly international singer.

Born in Stockholm, the daughter of an attaché of the French embassy and his German wife, Mme. Onegin married a Russian, who died in a military prison during the world war. She made her first great triumph as a singer in a performance of "Carmen" with the late Enrico Caruso as chief star. Educated from childhood to speak and understand the philosophy of three languages—Swedish, French, and German, she added many others during a life in which tragedy stalked and forced her to work as a stenographer and typist to earn money for her music lessons.

Her voice has been called by critics one of the most remarkable of modern singers. Ranging from a deep, rich, round toned contralto to the highest range of a mezzo-soprano, and capable of coloratura effects in middle and high tones that are of the most intricate character, her success in concert in America has been unusual. Coupled with her mechanical skill in using her voice, her varied experience in life has given her an understanding of the poetry and romance of song posed by few artists.

Crane College Leads U. S. in Filipino Registration

Registration records at Crane college, 2246 West Van Buren street, indicate that there are more Filipino students enrolled at that institution than at any other college or university in the country. There are eighty-eight Filipinos at Crane. This is the largest number that has ever enrolled at the school. The students from the Philippines have their own organization, the Crane Filipino club. Eduardo M. Yap is president.

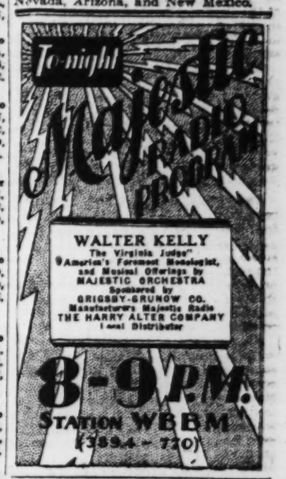
DR. SOCHMAN AND DR. TAYLOR TALK AT SUNDAY CLUB

"Life in the Southern Highlands" is the title of the talk to be given by Dr. Howard E. Taylor, for many years associated with work among the mountain people near Berea, Ky., to be broadcast at 7 o'clock by WMAQ from the Chicago Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall.

At the main meeting, beginning at 8, Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of Madison Avenue Methodist church, New York, will give his first address before the club, his subject being "Patrons or Partners." Harry A. Wheeler, a vice president of the club, will preside.

7 STATES MISS INAUGURAL.

Although more than one hundred stations were in the chain which broadcast the inaugural ceremonies at Washington, D. C., seven states were not covered. These were North Dakota, South Dakota, Idaho, Wyoming, Nevada, Arizona, and New Mexico.



LONELIEST ISLE HEARS RADIO FOR THE FIRST TIME

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 16.—(AP)—Tristan da Cunha, called "the loneliest island in the world," a British possession off the African coast, is having its first experience with the wonders of the century, radio, the phonograph and the motion picture. It is 1,400 miles west of Cape Town.

Until a year ago no steamer, within the memory of the 150 persons on the island, had stopped there. Then the Duchess of Atholl on a South American and South African cruise paused at the tiny island. This winter it put in there again with supplies.

The islanders are civilized, courteous, and all speak English. About a fifth can read and write. When the tourists first visited there none knew the week or month. There was not a watch or calendar at Tristan da Cunha.

One of the gifts to the islanders was a wireless set and radio outfit. Members of the steamer's crew taught them how to operate both sets. Several natives are learning the wireless code.

When invited aboard the ship these people first saw electric lights, heard their first piano, learned first of elevators and were introduced to ice cream. This last they did not care for particularly.

Both the men and women wore homespun clothes and sandals fashioned from rough hides. The islanders, chiefly a mixture of English and Portuguese, farm and tend 250 cows and raise sheep, chickens and geese.

The ship tourists learned that several steamers made attempts to reach the island, but because of treacherous shoals off shore gave it up. Some of the inhabitants are survivors of a sailing boat that ten years ago sought to reach shore. It foundered.

Only Seven Out of 1,135 Radio Pirates Win Cases

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—All but seven of the 1,135 prosecutions instituted against radio license dodgers during 1928 resulted in convictions, according to the recent statement of the postmaster general. The difference between the costs of prosecution and the amount received in license revenue is used to carry on this campaign against "pirates."

R. M. A. PLANS TO INVADE FOREIGN TRADE MARKETS

American radio products will be sold more widely throughout the world under plans announced recently by the Radio Manufacturers' association to aid its members in developing their foreign sales, especially in Latin America.

A complete radio export guide has just been compiled by the association comprising virtually all prominent makers of all radio products, and issued free to its members.

The export campaign of the R. M. A. is expected to greatly increase radio foreign sales, which last year were $12,061,410, as compared with $2,000,000 five years ago. This record was made despite inability of American manufacturers to fill radio demands in the United States, but the radio industry now feels able to develop the foreign market for the American industry.

The radio export guide of the R. M. A., prepared under the direction of Mr. George H. Kiley of New York, chairman of the R. M. A. foreign trade committee, includes complete radio information in all Latin America, and most other countries of the world.

SINGING BOYS—By Della Robbia
Panels Executed for the Duomo at Florence

Tones of Celestial Purity

Angelic-voiced boy sopranos, supporting tones of blended tenors, baritones and basses; the rumble of vast organ pipes amid the peal of carrillon. All these tones, from earliest days associated with devotional music, are as distinctly defined in Stromberg-Carlson radio reproduction as if heard in an old world cathedral.

In the New Stromberg-Carlson No. 638, new acoustical principles have been applied in baffling the dynamic speaker in the console. This ends those cabinet resonances which have hitherto given to dynamic reproduction, overtones not present in broadcasting. Greater reserve power at all degrees of volume has been attained, deepest tones have been sustained, yet—no iota of the purity for which Stromberg-Carlson tone is famous, has been sacrificed.

FINISHING PLANS FOR SEWERS IN ADDISON HEIGHTS

Court Approves Ordinance for Annexing District.

Plans for the sewer system to serve the newly annexed northwest district known as Addison Heights are being completed by the board of local improvements, C. D. Hill, engineer for the board, announced yesterday. Estimates will be made preparatory to a public hearing early in May.

Work on the plans was begun some time ago, but was laid aside pending the outcome of a suit to overrule the action of the city council in voting that district into Chicago. Judge Victor P. Arnold of the Circuit court last Wednesday upheld action of the council, leaving the way clear for the board's plans to be carried out. The district was admitted into the city by a large popular vote two years ago, the recent court fight having been sponsored by one individual.

Cites Special Need.

The district is without sewerage, Mr. Hill said, and the flat character of the land is conducive to an extremely insanitary condition.

He cites an incident which occurred a few months ago as proof. A fire company in attempting to extinguish a blaze ran out of water and was able to pump enough water out of neighboring basements to put it out.

More than 9,000 residents of this district are in need of sanitary sewerage, Mr. Hill estimated.

Route of Main Line.

The route of the proposed main sewer is as follow:

From Cornelia avenue and Harlem avenue west to Forest Preserve road, southwest in this street emptying into the Des Plaines river. Branches would be in Prospect avenue from Forest Preserve road to Irving Park boulevard; in Grace street from Cumberland avenue to Irvingwood avenue; in 76th court from Cornelia avenue to Forest Preserve road; in Waveland avenue from 76th court to Harlem avenue; in 75th avenue from Cornelia avenue to Belmont avenue; in Belmont avenue from 75th avenue to Harlem avenue; in 80th avenue from Cornelia avenue to School street; and in 79th avenue from Cornelia avenue to Forest Preserve road.

It is planned to range in size from 9½ feet in diameter brick sewer to tile pipes 21 inches in diameter.

FAIR COLONEL TO BE NAMED BY CRANE R. O. T. C.

The Crane college R. O. T. C. will choose their "Daughter of the Regiment" next Thursday. This honor carries with it the rank of lieutenant colonel in the college unit. Miss Dolores Hunt has held the title during the last semester, and other girls who have been similarly honored are Miss Lucille Pflaum, Miss Sylvia Anderson, Miss Mary Lynch, and Miss Ruth Parker.

The girl who is elected must act as hostess at all social affairs given by the college unit, as well as keep the uniforms of the cadets in repair. Past aspirants for the title had only to be members of the college to be eligible, but future candidates will have to be participants in some military activity at the school.

SCOUT TROOP 273 TO OBSERVE ITS 13th ANNIVERSARY

Boy Scout troop No. 273 will celebrate its thirteenth year in scouting next Tuesday at its headquarters in Chase house, Ashland boulevard and Adams street.

Troop 273, one of the three standard troops in the west side district, originated in the small Congregational church at Polk street and Claremont avenue and since then has had five or six different "homes." Its first scoutmaster was Steven M. Major, who afterward became field scout executive of the west side.

The present master is Toby Polito, 3745 Gladys avenue, who, though inexperienced when he took the boys over ten years ago, has helped them to gain their present position in scouting.

Institute Audience to Hear of Nation's Rise and Fall

Dr. S. M. Melamed will speak at the Jewish People's institute, 3500 Douglas boulevard, tomorrow evening. His address will be one of a series of lectures on "Moving Forces and Personalities in World History." Dr. Melamed, who is known as a publicist, lecturer and author, will deal tomorrow night with the birth, the rise and the achievement of nations and their decline and death.

Mrs. Jennie Franklin Purvin, social worker and journalist, will be the speaker at the Five O'Clock Jewish Forum meeting at the Jewish People's Institute this evening. Her topic is to be "The Jews in Modern Europe."

Cartoonists Form Club at Austin High School

Aspiring cartoonists at Austin High school, 5417 Fulton street, have their own organization, the Cartoonists' club. The members meet every two weeks to discuss their drawings and to make suggestions to one another. The cartoons of the members of the club appear in the Austin Times, the high school newspaper, which is published weekly. The officers of the Cartoonists' club are: President, Jerry Cloud; vice president, Harold Block; secretary, John Burns, and treasurer, Robert Burns.

Art Lecture at Hirsch.

Dudley Crafts Watson of the Art institute will conduct "A Tour of the Picture and Art Galleries" in Hirsch Junior High school, 7740 Ingleside avenue, Thursday afternoon, under the auspices of the Hirsch Parent-Teacher association. A mixed chorus will sing.

BEST AS WELL AS BIGGEST, AIM OF OAK PARK

Forward Movement Opens Today.

With sermons on Christian citizenship in practically every church in Oak Park today, the Oak Park Forward Movement will be launched. The movement, designed to promote the civic, social, and commercial welfare of the world's largest village, is being sponsored by the Oak Park Chamber of Commerce.

Various other organizations have agreed to aid the movement. The Rotary club will have the chief workers as guests at luncheon on Wednesday and the Lions club will entertain them Thursday noon. There will be a victory dinner Friday night at the Oak Park club, at which Dr. Ralph E. Heilman, dean of Northwestern university school of commerce, will be the principal speaker. All citizens of Oak Park are invited to attend this dinner.

Dr. Heilman's 14 Points.

Dr. Heilman's "Fourteen Essentials for a Happy and Prosperous City" have been made the keynote of the movement. These are:

1. A sound economic basis—Offices, mercantile and industrial and business establishment in proper number to provide regular and profitable employment for its population and to supply its needs for merchandise, commodities, and personal service.

2. Effective local government—A city government which is honest and alert, which operates for service and not for "graft," which provides a competent and efficient administration of the police, fire, health, street, and all other departments of municipal government.

3. Progressive schools — A modern and progressive system of grade and high schools, with adequate plant and equipment, and providing equal opportunity to all children in the community for education and training for citizenship and for life.

Wholesome Recreation Stressed.

4. Adequate recreational facilities—Well located and properly equipped parks and playgrounds to provide proper facilities for out of doors sports and wholesome recreation for both young and old.

5. Well supported churches—Churches with intelligent leadership, well supported by the public; providing opportunity for each to worship in accordance with his own conscience; inculcating a spirit of religious tolerance throughout the community, rendering cleavage on a denominational basis impossible.

6. Well equipped library—A library well equipped and properly maintained, providing opportunity for children and adults to develop that breadth of horizon and interest in life which comes from "good reading."

7. Well managed public utilities—Public utilities providing adequate facilities and good service at reasonable rates, under regulation which is fair both to the public and the utilities.

Hospital Care for All.

8. Proper health facilities—Sufficient facilities for the proper care of the sick and the protection of health, and for providing hospital and medical care for those who need it, regardless of their ability to pay.

9. Sound industrial relations—Wholesome and cordial relations between employing establishments and their employés, leading to an amicable adjustment of differences and an absence of industrial disputes; a purpose on the part of employers to provide desirable and attractive conditions of employment; and a purpose on the part of employés to render adequate service in return.

10. Thrifty Citizens—Thrifty citizens, who realize that saving is the source of all capital, who spend less than they earn, who consume less than they produce, who thus accumulate a surplus for investment, and who prefer to make their investment in local industries or property rather than in wildcat schemes elsewhere.

11. Neighborly Relations — Cordial, cooperative and neighborly relations between the various groups within the city; and also between the city and those who reside in its surrounding trade territory—whether on the farm or in neighboring towns and cities.

United Business Interests.

12. A Strong Association of Commerce—A strong association of commerce or similar organization which unites all the industrial and business interests of the community for the purpose of concerted action in supporting those activities which are broader than any single business or industry, but which promote the interest and welfare of the community as a whole.

13. An Aspiring People—An aspiring people which desires to secure for the city and its people the very best in the realms of liberal culture—music, drama, theater, lectures, art, etc.

14.—Civic Spirit—Citizens characterized by a strong spirit of civic interest and local pride—who believe in their city's present and future, who "boost" for it and who honestly believe deep down in their hearts that for them it is the very spot to live in —in the whole, wide world.

Schools to Aid Grownups with Daily Problems

Community councils will be established in twelve districts of the west side as part of the board of education's program to make the schools the centers of adult education as well as of that of children, William J. Bogan, superintendent, announced yesterday.

The councils are being organized in nine senior high schools, one junior high, and three elementary schools in these districts under the direction of Edward Burchard, secretary of the superintendent's advisory council. The groups will consist of representatives from every business, social, civic, or religious group in the various districts, and will have many aims in the matter of community betterment, according to Mr. Burchard.

These Schools to Be Centers.

The west side centers will be at:

Norwood Park school, 5900 Nina avenue.

Roosevelt High school, 3436 Wilson avenue.

Falconer school, 3000 North Lamon avenue.

Locke school, Oak Park and Diversey avenues.

Schurz High school, 3601 Milwaukee avenue.

Austin High school, 5417 Fulton street.

Flower High school, 3545 Fulton street.

Tuley High school, 1313 North Claremont avenue.

Marshall High school, 3250 West Adams street.

McKinley High school, 2040 West Adams street.

Herzl Junior High school, 3711 Douglas boulevard.

Medill High school, 1326 West 14th street.

Community spirit will be instilled into residents of the various sections of the city through programs and entertainments which the councils will stage at intervals throughout the year, Mr. Burchard said. Citizenship as a study for adults as well as children will be taken up under the guidance of the council.

Topics Include Home, Business.

Social welfare and health will be studied in an effort to formulate plans for the raising of standards in the districts; the various phases of business will be discussed with a view to lending a hand to the neighborhood merchant who lacks education; the home will be another topic of study to be undertaken in the councils, as well as such matters of education as proper reading and an appreciation of art.

The year's work of the councils throughout the city will culminate in a large city-wide civic meeting such as was held in the Auditorium theater last year by the board, according to Mr. Burchard, and an exceptionally large attendance is expected for this occasion as a result of the councils and the community work of the board.

The division of the city into districts or neighborhoods with centers in the high schools was made by sociology classes of the University of Chicago, and is a result of study and research.

Austin Women Voters to Hear Council Candidates

A candidates' meeting will be held Friday evening under the auspices of the Austin League of Women Voters in Central Plaza hotel, 321 North Central avenue. Dr. J. H. Taylor and Ald. W. W. Mills, candidates for aldermen of the 37th ward, will present their political programs. Mrs. J. Van Wakeman, 135 North Waller avenue, president of the organization, has charge of the program.

All who have heard the band agree with Mrs. G. Reginald Freedlund, the leader, that the verse tells the truth even if it limps a trifle. It is a triumph of mind over matter.

Oak Park Pastor Served with Canadian Mounted

The Rev. Mansel B. Green, pastor of the church of the Good Samaritan, Oak Park, recently opened, went through a queer school of preparation. He formerly rode with the Canadian mounted police. At that time, twenty-five years ago, he carried a Bible and a prayer book with him and preached before ranchers. Three years ago he started his course of studies for the ministry. His first parish was the Church of the Good Samaritan.

Spring? Say It with Pictures and Win Prizes

In the spring a photographer's fancy turns to pictures of the first robin, early gardens, Mary and Jane skipping rope and evidences of spring fever.

The Metropolitan section of The Tribune now offers prizes weekly for spring pictures. The Tribune will pay $5 for the best photograph on this general subject taken by an amateur. It will pay $3 for the second best and $2 for the third best.

Address pictures to Photo contest, Metropolitan section of The Tribune. The name and address of the photographer should be written plainly on the back of the print as well as the names of all persons in the picture.

The contest is open only to amateurs and the editor will be final judge. Theme, treatment, and clearness of the print all will be taken into consideration. No pictures will be returned.

MARSHALL HIGH ADDITION TO BE BEGUN IN MARCH

Work on an addition to Marshall High school, 3250 West Adams street, is expected to begin sometime this month. The new building will cost $2,400,000, and will accommodate more than 2,000 pupils. It will be three stories high and will face 367 feet on Kedzie avenue, and 233 feet on Adams street. The building will contain study rooms, class rooms, laboratories, gymnasiums, natatoriums, art and mechanical drawing rooms, library, band room, and lunch room. It is hoped that classes may be conducted in the new school within ten months. The principal of the school is G. A. Beers.

REMEDY IS NEAR FOR "WORST" TRAFFIC SPOT

2 Grade Crossings to Be Eliminated.

(Map on page 8.)

What is termed "one of the worst spots for traffic congestion in Illinois" is to be remedied this summer. After a year of effort, practically the last barrier has been removed in the project to take care of conditions on route 18 by building a viaduct over the Indiana Harbor Belt line and constructing a subway under the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy tracks at La Grange.

FRANK J. KRIZ.

County Commissioner Frank J. Kriz, who has been active in bringing about the improvements on Ogden avenue, says that, according to prospects, the work should be started this spring with every hope of its being completed by fall.

Long Traffic Delays.

Motorists are familiar with present conditions at La Grange. Ogden avenue runs westward until it reaches the Burlington right of way at the east end of the suburb. From this point traffic follows the tracks to Fifth avenue, where it crosses to the north side of the railroad and continues westward again on Ogden avenue.

Both the Belt line and the Burlington have provided a real dilemma. Long tieups are daily occurrences. The long trains of the Belt line are said to have delayed traffic for from fifteen to twenty minutes on occasions. Further on the frequent suburban trains on the Burlington check progress again. The scheme means an elimination of both these troublesome grade crossings.

The plan is to jog Ogden avenue south a few rods east of the Belt line and gradually curve the highway as well as elevating it at a 4 per cent grade. The new highway, which will be forty feet wide, will reach its highest point as it crosses the I. H. B. tracks. At this juncture it will gradually curve and decline and, passing under the Burlington tracks and those of the street car line that run alongside, will meet Ogden avenue east of Fifth avenue, now the scene of troublesome congestion.

Urged by Gateways Group.

An end to the present menace has been one of the aims of the Western Gateways association, made up of representatives from western suburbs. The group, of which Walter P. Saunders, president of the village of La Grange, is president, has spared no effort in aiding the desired improvement. The executive committee working for the project includes F. F. Abbott, Western Springs; R. H. Cooper, La Grange; J. P. Hardyman, Brookfield; John Killips, Lyons; Frank P. Baker, Brookfield; Dr. S. S. Fuller, Riverside; Dr. A. M Harvey, La Grange Park; Grover D. Rose, La Grange; R. S. Hopkins, Hinsdale; H. R. Chapin, Western Springs, and Frank Walkowiak, Summitt.

Indifference Chief Opposition.

"With Commissioner Kriz, we feel most happy that a solution to the problem is near at hand," said President Saunders of La Grange. "The opposition has been chiefly that of indifference. Traffic on Ogden avenue has been limited to what the bottle neck could accommodate. Unless something unforeseen occurs, I look to see the project finished by fall, and what a boon it will be! During the work of improvement there will be a detour south on East street in La Grange.

"The appraisal committee of the La Grange real estate board is appraising values of property for the right of way."

Lewis Alumni Open Drive to Raise Million

Alumni of Lewis institute, 1949 West Madison street, have undertaken a drive for a $1,000,000 endowment fund for the institute. The first step in the program calls for the raising of a quarter of a million dollars by the alumni. Contributions will be taken over a period of five years. The entire plan has been presented to the trustees of the institute for their approbation.

B. A. ECKHART. [Koehne Photo.]

The resolution adopted by the Lewis union, the alumni organization, at its recent meeting follows in part: While the institute has functioned well on the basis of the funds available, the conviction prevails among friends of the institute that there is need for additional funds, and that an increase of $1,000,000 in the endowment is necessary if the institute is to perform its full service. The members of Lewis Union desire to assure the board of trustees of the institute of their support in proclaiming their readiness to coöperate with the board by endeavoring to raise $250,000 toward the additional endowment of $1,000,000, or as much more as is deemed necessary.

Pursuant to this expression, the Lewis union has decided to prepare pledges, to be executed with the provision that they be effective obligations the day the authorities of Lewis institute give their formal approval to the plan and when the sum total of all pledges secured by the Lewis union and Lewis institute combined reach a total of $500,000.

Headed by George Noble Carman.

George Noble Carman is director of the Institute and B. A. Eckhart is treasurer. The officers of Lewis union are: President, Howard P. Savage; vice president, Charlotte Bendix; and alumni secretary, Grace F. Hinchliff. The executive board is composed of Paul B. Juhnke, Craig B. Hazlewood, and J. Hall Taylor.

The committee in charge of the endowment campaign is made up of A. D. Bailey, Charles F. Henning, Arthur Curtis, Elmer D. Small, and Paul Oehmig.

A unique feature of the institute is the fact that there are more students attending at night than in daytime. The night enrollment totals approximately 1,500 and the day 1,000. The engineering school has the largest enrollment, with the home economics school second in point of numbers.

Assets Estimated at $3,000,000.

Officials of the institution place the present value of the assets of the Lewis Institute at $3,000,000. This represents $1,000,000 for the educational plant and $2,000,000 for endowment. The increase in total assets which has come about is the result not of donations but of the augmented value of real estate and of excess of income from invested funds and tuition over cost of maintenance, officials said.

The action of the alumni at this time comes as an answer to a statement made some time ago by Mr. Eckhart, treasurer of the institute. He said in part: "Privately endowed universities and colleges have been obliged by pressure of numbers, by urgent demand for more and better facilities, a larger staff of trained, well paid instructors—these institutions have been forced to go to their alumni for financial aid. . . . I therefore have great confidence that when the Lewis union and the alumni are called upon for action, they will not fail us. When the time does come, we must all be prepared to give not merely of our money but also of our best efforts in attaining a common objective."

LIST 20 MAJOR 1929 PROJECTS FOR WEST SIDE

C. of C. Puts Road to Iowa First.

Twenty improvements for the west side will be sought during 1929 by the West Town chamber of commerce, according to its program made public last week following its adoption by the board of directors early this month.

H. J. RUGGLES. [Tribune Photo.]

Completion of North avenue as a paved highway in a straight line across the state to Cedar Rapids, Ia., heads the list. H. J. Ruggles, manager of the chamber, is coöperating with representatives of towns along the proposed route with a view toward obtaining the completion as soon as possible.

The road is entirely paved, with the exception of a strip of eighteen miles between Sycamore and Oregon, Ill., which is expected to be improved shortly.

The only other obstacle is the absence of a bridge across the Mississippi river at Savanna, Ill., and a request for this structure is pending before federal and state authorities.

Propose Washington Extension.

It is proposed to cut Washington boulevard through from 25th avenue to Butterfield road in Bellwood, and thus give the western suburbs a better route into the city.

An improvement of direct benefit to the Lawndale district is being sought by the chamber in its proposal to work for the opening up of 21st street into that territory. The street, which now ends at Marshall boulevard, would be cut across this street as well as the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railway tracks, and would continue west to Crawford avenue, serving to relieve some of the traffic now using 22d street, east of this point.

The chamber proposes to study possibilities of Hamlin avenue as a boulevard between North avenue and 31st street. This street is already used by the Chicago Motor Coach company and should be widened and turned over to the west park board, members of the chamber believe. Such an improvement more than anything else would be conducive to the growth of Lawndale, Mr. Ruggles said.

Demand Widening of Subways.

It is desired to widen the subways at 22d street and Homan avenue and Kedvale avenue, now bottlenecks to east and west traffic, and also to develop the subway at 14th street and Kedvale avenue. Structural work on the latter has been completed, but the street has not yet been cut through.

The cutting through of Augusta street east to Ogden avenue will be pushed by the chamber, according to the program. Paving and improving of this street between Kedzie and Elston avenues by the west park commissioners has already been authorized and is scheduled to be begun within a few weeks, leaving a detour of three blocks between Elston and Ogden avenues. Augusta street will then be a through boulevard across the northwest side to the city limits.

The directors proposed that West Madison street be widened between California and Crawford avenues and between Damen avenue and Canal street.

The Garfield park vicinity would be benefited if the surface lines would discontinue using the old car barns at Madison street and Springfield avenues so that this large piece of property could be converted to other uses, the directors declared.

It is planned to coöperate with northwest side civic groups to speed the opening of Austin avenue across the Chicago and Northwestern railway tracks and to pave this street between Northwest highway and Avondale avenue.

Favor Completion of Ogden.

The chamber has gone on record as favoring the completion of the Ogden avenue project by opening the street across Goose island. An $8,000,000 bond issue is necessary in order to obtain funds for this improvement.

The West Side Commercial league and other northwest side groups interested in the development of Milwaukee avenue will be given support by the chamber. The section of this street between Armitage avenue and Halsted street will be paved by the board of local improvements as soon as funds are available, officials of the board announced. It will be widened from 38 to 46 feet by taking four feet off the sidewalk on each side.

The west side's just share of street and alley repairs with money out of the vehicle tax fund will be sought by the chamber, which will also lead a movement to establish playgrounds in west side schools now without them.

Extensions of the elevated lines serving the west side are already receiving support of the principal organizations of the district. It is desired to extend the Humboldt "L" from Lawndale avenue, where it now terminates, to Austin avenue, and the Douglas park "L" from Harlem avenue to Oak Park avenue.

Keep Up Feeder Bus Fight.

Feeder buses for the northwest side streets will continue to occupy the center of the stage for the next two months during the hearings before the Illinois commerce commission.

A movement to obtain a relief sewer for the Cicero avenue district will be initiated within a short time, officials of the chamber report, as will the development of plans for a park

C. OF C. TO ACT THIS WEEK ON PLANNING MOVE

Committee Drafts Report Favoring Proposal.

The board of directors of the West Town Chamber of Commerce, at a special meeting to be called this week, will receive a report recommending the establishment of the West Town Planning commission.

The report is signed by a committee of the chamber which has been working for the last three weeks on a proposal to organize such a commission. It includes a list of reasons why a west side body is deemed necessary and recommends that the proposed organization coöperate with the Chicago Plan commission rather than supersede it on the west side.

"It is evident," the report says, "that projects of the Chicago Plan commission running through the West Town area, such as Ashland, Western, Ogden and Damen avenues, Halsted street, and others, after many years of legislation and expense, are still in neglected process of construction.

"The West Town area consists of 40 per cent of the metropolitan area and population of Chicago, and is geographically located so that improvements therein are of ultimate benefit to the whole city.

"A plan commission to provide adequate highways is necessary on account of the stupendous growth of the community.

"Therefore be it resolved that an organization be formed, to consist of 100 members distributed through the area involved, to be known as the West Town Planning commission."

Raise Two New Questions.

In addition to the instances of what is declared to be neglect or poor judgment of the Chicago Plan commission in the matter of west side improvements previously cited by the committee, two new matters are brought up in the final report.

The West Town commission should work for coördination with the villages and towns and the Chicago Regional Planning association to carry out a far reaching plan of development, the committee believes. Many of these villages and towns were not organized until recent years, it is pointed out, and the Chicago body has not worked with them in a comprehensive plan of improvement.

Study Ordered by Directors.

The committee has been working on the project since a resolution to establish the proposed commission was introduced by Frank J. Bilek last month and adopted by the board of directors of the chamber. The original resolution made three major complaints against the Chicago Plan commission. The committee is composed of Mr. Bilek, H. J. Ruggles, Clarence H. Kavanaugh, John Usher Smith, and Charles S. De Vine.

Quotation—There are no snakes in Ireland.

[It has been impossible to determine the origin of this expression as it is worded. In view of this and of the variety of the answers received it has been determined not to award a prize, but simply to present representative answers. They are given below.]

Eddy J. McHale, 2627 Jackson boulevard, Chicago—In the early history of England there was a monk named Bede who found time to write much poetry and volumes about science, music and medicine. At length the king of Northumbria asked him if he would write a history on the church in England. It is almost the only book that tells us about the early days of Britain and we have to select what is probably true and what was only hearsay. This is the book that says there are no snakes in Ireland and it goes further, for it says that the smell of the air kills them and that if a person bitten by a serpent will only swallow a few scrapings from an Irish book he will be cured.

Edith L. Reid, 404 Spalding building, Portland, Ore.—In Bede's Ecclesiastical History, chapter I, he says: "No reptiles are found there (Ireland) and no snakes can live there, for, though snakes are often carried thither out of Britain, as soon as the ship comes near the shore and the scent of the air reaches them they die."

Adele W. Sabath, 3415 West Adams street, Chicago—I am sure that this quotation should read: "There are no snakes in Iceland," instead of "Ireland." The sentence was used by Samuel Johnson, one of the most distinguished English writers of the 18th century. I quote from Boswell's "Life of Johnson": "On Monday, April 13 (1778), I dined with Johnson at Mr. Langton's, where were Dr. Porteus, then bishop of Chester, now of London, and Dr. Stinton. He was at first in a very silent mood. Before dinner he said nothing but 'Pretty baby' to one of the children. Langton said very well to me afterward that he could repeat Johnson's conversation before dinner, as Johnson had said that he could repeat a complete chapter of 'The Natural History of Iceland,' from the Danish of Horrebow, the whole of which was exactly thus: 'Chapter LXXII. Concerning Snakes: There are no snakes to be met with throughout the whole island.'"

Martha F. Harness, 3308½ Maypole avenue, Chicago—Tish, a character in the book of that name by Mary Roberts Rinehart, used this quotation in chapter I, part 4. She says to her friend, Lizzie, as they are talking about worms and fishing rods relative to their trip to Canada: "There are no worms in Canada, Lizzie, just as there are no snakes in Ireland."

PLAN BUSIEST YEAR IN PARKS OF NORTHWEST

Commissioners Finishing Four New Play Spots.

With the election over, commissioners of the northwest park district are making final preparations for what is said to be the most active season in the history of that body.

JOSEPH F. GUBBONS

Plans for a huge May festival, the organization of a baseball league, and other recreational leagues are being formulated by the athletic directors at the parks and will be begun next month, the commissioners announce.

In addition to the community activity planned for the northwest side, an extensive building program is well under way.

Board Vacancy Filled.

The election of Frank M. Kalteux and Arvid E. Olson as commissioners last month brought the number to five, one more than was in the office last year. Joseph F. Gubbins is president of the board, which includes Oscar C. Johnson and William Rieger Jr.

The commissioners have already launched the construction of three new buildings and one addition in four parks of the district. The new community centers are at Kelvyn park, Kostner and Wrightwood avenues; Almira Simons playground, Wabansia and Hancock streets, and Jacob Riis park, Fullerton and Meade avenues.

These will include gymnasiums, auditoriums with stages and appliances, clubrooms, kitchens and dining rooms, locker rooms and showers. All these facilities will be open to the public without charge, the commissioners announce, and will be ready for use this summer.

The addition to Blackhawk park community center will house the administration offices of the district and will also provide an indoor swimming pool, gymnasium and locker rooms. The commissioners expect this project to be completed within a few weeks. The offices will be moved from Kosciusko park.

Three New Parks Soon to Be Ready.

In addition to the improvement of old parks, three new park sites are being improved and will be ready for use within a few weeks. The parks, which have not yet been named, will be located at Bloomingdale and Moody avenues, Oak Park and Barry avenues, Laramie and Wrightwood avenues.

Playground apparatus, tennis and horseshoe courts, wading pools, and baseball diamonds will be laid out on these sites.

The new nine hole golf course at Jacob Riis park, reputed to be one of the sportiest in Chicago, will be opened for use this summer.

The Northwest park district, the largest in Chicago, extends from Belmont avenue to North avenue and from Kedzie avenue to Harlem avenue.

RED GERANIUM RALLY TO BE HELD BY GIRL SCOUTS

The troop of Girl Scouts of the Oak Park and River Forest township high school has just completed arrangements for the annual "Red Geranium rally." Miss Helen De Haven was chosen last Tuesday for the honor of carrying the red geranium.

Miss De Haven is also president of the troop for this semester. The other officers are: Vice president, Mary Louise Rowen; secretary, Betty Wolcott, and treasurer, Priscilla Thomas.

Miss B. Everett announced she will conduct a class in first aid work for many of the scouts who are seeking merit badges.

Despite the low ebb of the treasury, the troop voted not to raise its dues. The girls will try to raise money by other means.

FAIR COLONEL TO BE NAMED BY CRANE R. O. T. C.

The Crane college R. O. T. C. will choose their "Daughter of the Regiment" next Thursday. This honor carries with it the rank of lieutenant colonel in the college unit. Miss Dolores Hunt has held the title during the last semester, and other girls who have been similarly honored are Miss Lucille Pflaum, Miss Sylvia Anderson, Miss Mary Lynch, and Miss Ruth Parker.

The girl who is elected must act as hostess at all social affairs given by the college unit, as well as keep the uniforms of the cadets in repair. Past aspirants for the title had only to be members of the college to be eligible, but future candidates will have to be participants in some military activity at the school.

SCOUT TROOP 273 TO OBSERVE ITS 13th ANNIVERSARY

Boy Scout troop No. 273 will celebrate its thirteenth year in scouting next Tuesday at its headquarters in Chase house, Ashland boulevard and Adams street.

Troop 273, one of the three standard troops in the west side district, originated in the small Congregational church at Polk street and Claremont avenue and since then has had five or six different "homes." Its first scoutmaster was Steven M. Major, who afterward became field scout executive of the west side.

The present master is Toby Polito, 2745 Gladys avenue, who, though inexperienced when he took the boys over ten years ago, has helped them to gain their present position in scouting.

THIS IS BOYS' DAY IN PHOTO CONTEST

Pictures of boys won all the prizes this week in The Tribune's contest for amateur photographers of the west side. The first prize of $5 went to R. Trennert, 7442 Harrison street, Forest Park, for "Horseback Riding," showing Douglas Eckert serving as a steed for Freddie Trennert. De Witt Merrick, 1430 South Grove avenue, Berwyn, won the second prize of $3 with "The Young Athlete," showing Robert Merrick. The third prize of $2 was awarded to Orville Davis, 405 Taylor avenue, Glen Ellyn, for "Our Sonny Boy," showing Orville Davis Jr.

DISTRICT GROUPS TO HAVE VOICE IN STREET REPAIRS

Wolfe Tells Subordinates to Co-operate.

The coöperation of local business and improvement organizations in outlining this year's street repairing program of the department of public works will be sought this week by Commissioner Richard W. Wolfe.

Many of the larger groups in all parts of the city will receive letters inviting them to send representatives to meet with him and discuss the disposition of the vehicle tax fund.

Such west side groups as the West Town Chamber of Commerce, the Northwest Federation of Improvement Clubs, the Northwest Civic federation, and groups from all parts of the district will receive invitations.

Will Show Procedure.

"Local groups are entitled to know the details of the department's repairing program, and many suggestions should originate in the proposed meetings. In addition to the direct benefit, such a procedure is certain to prove educational and will make residents of the outlying districts understand more intelligently the workings of the department," the commissioner said.

Although local groups may act only in an advisory capacity in the matter of distribution of the vehicle tax funds, the survey of the department will be made public within a few days, and members of these groups should be in a position to make recommendations and point out oversights or errors on the part of engineers of the department, the commissioner said.

In addition to being advised as to the repairing program, cleanliness of streets in the various districts should also be a concern of the organizations, the commissioner said. Thomas H. Byrne, superintendent of streets, has been directed to establish contact with the groups and work with them through the ward superintendents.

Orders Coöperation.

The commissioner's letter to Mr. Byrne said:

"Local business and improvement organizations are primarily interested in improving conditions in their respective districts and in promoting cleanliness in their communities.

"It is my desire and direction that the various district superintendents of the bureau of streets establish a closer contact and coöperation with the organizations in their respective wards, especially in the matter of cleaning streets and alleys, removal of garbage and miscellaneous wastes, and the enforcement of sanitary ordinances relating thereto, to the end that neighborhood pride be stimulated and the city thereby helped in its endeavor to keep the city clean."

McCOY TRACTOR HAS BIG THRILL FOR ITS MAKERS

Expert Tells How Ship Can Be Built.

This week Mr. Hamburg tells you how to build the championship indoor tractor. If you have questions on its construction, or on aeronautics, write him (inclosing a 2 cent stamp for reply) at A. M. L. A. headquarters, American Boy building, 2d and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich.

BY MERRILL HAMBURG.
[Secretary Airplane Model League of America.]

This article is the story of a model builder who wanted to smash a world's record—and of his success.

ERNEST McCOY.

Last year Ernest McCoy, a member of the Airplane Model League of America—sponsored in this territory by THE TRIBUNE—had built the indoor model generally known as the best flyer. But he wanted an improved model. "Big ships use cambered wings," he figured. "Why shouldn't a small one?"

So he experimented endlessly; and at length he discovered that a model with a cambered wing and reverse camber for the tail had more lift and was capable of more duration than the flat-wing model. He flew his ship, at the national contests in Detroit held by the American Boy magazine, to the new world's record—331.1 seconds. This article tells you how to build a similar ship.

McCoy's Material.

McCoy, in building his model, used these materials: a balsa wing spar 1-16x⅜x19 inches; a balsa motor stick, ¼x¼x15 inches; flat balsa for tail and rudder frame and wing ribs 1-32 inch thick; balsa propeller block, ½x1¼x12 inches; a drilled thrust bearing; two brass washers; wire parts [propeller shaft, rear hook, S-hook, open-side can, two wing clips]; rubber motor, ⅛x1-32x31 inches; Japanese imperial tissue, 10x21 inches; ambroid cement and banana oil.

You'll find all of these materials in the special A. M. L. A. kit which you may obtain for 85c from league headquarters. To obtain the kit, No. 10, send 85c in check or money order to the supply department, A. M. L. A., American Boy building, Second and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich.

The kit will also include some additional materials—materials for making a different type of motor stick. But don't try that yet. THE TRIBUNE will tell you how to make the change next week. You'll want to test the ship out thoroughly first, as did McCoy.

Motor Stick First.

Your first job is to prepare the motor stick. Sand it down to the size the drawing indicates, and attach the metal parts with ambroid. This is a simple job.

Now you are ready for the tail group. The stabilizer is rectangular, hence slightly less efficient than a rounded tip surface; but it has an all balsa frame, and this is lighter than bamboo. Both the fin and the stabilizer are fastened to the fuselage by setting the connecting members into grooves cut into the end of the motor stick; thus they are flush with the stick. Notice that the base of the fin is set at a slight upward angle to permit the rear spar of the stabilizer to come up even with the front spar—otherwise the whole tail would be set at a positive angle of incidence that would prevent the ship from climbing.

The fin is not hard to build. The drawing shows its dimensions. Its bottom spar is 2½ inches longs, so that it can be set ½ inch into the motor stick groove cut for it.

Next, the Stabilizer.

Next, the stabilizer. It has a reverse camber, you recall. Its ribs are all of balsa, and you curve a piece of 1-32 inch flat balsa, about ¾x2 inches, over a teakettle's steam jet to make them. The curve is that of a perfect arc, 3-16 inch deep. Once the piece is curved, cut it to the 1¾ inch length and split it into five identical ribs. Make the two 6 inch spars, then assemble the frame with ambroid—"butt joint" the ribs to the spars. Ambroid the leading edge of the stabilizer into the groove cut in the motor stick, and the trailing edge to the base of the fin. Cover both fin and stabilizer [on the lower side] with paper, using banana oil as the adhesive, and this part of the model is complete.

The wing curve given [see the diagram] is the median line of the Clark-Y airfoil, or wing section. The diagram shows the exact size of the wing, so you may bend your balsa ribs to fit the diagram. Perhaps, though, you'll want to experiment with a different curve—McCoy doesn't claim his as the one and only!

The method of making and assembling the wing is much the same as that you used in building the stabilizer. Use extreme care to get it absolutely accurate. Probably you'll want to bend the long piece from which the wing spars are to be cut before you split it—thus you'll put exactly the same degree of dihedral angle into each spar.

Then the Propeller.

Cover the wing, once the frame is completed, and ambroid the wing clips to it. It is wise to be sure the wing clips fit the motor stick before you attach them, however. You'll save yourself trouble.

Your last job is to make the propeller. It is carved from a balsa block ½x1¼x12 inches—an unusually large prop for this type of plane, hence one which must be made paper-thin. The Manual gives you details of all the steps in its carving. Don't forget that you want it to be the best made prop you've ever completed—so thin, if it's properly done, that you can bend the blade backward and forward at least two inches without breaking it. Except at the hub, it should never exceed 1-32 inch in thickness.

Now attach your prop, hook up the rubber motor, and fasten the wing to the motor stick with its clips. See how it glides. Adjust the wing, as you have learned to do on smaller models, for the best position. Try the ship with relatively few turns on the prop.

Real Thrill in Store.

When you've made these trials satisfactorily, get ready for a real thrill. Find yourself the biggest hall available. Wind your motor 1,200 turns. Be sure the hall isn't drafty—and set the ship off!

When it comes to earth, chances are excellent that you will have established a new record for yourself.

Next week THE TRIBUNE is going to tell you how to vary the McCoy ship—how to change the motor stick to a lighter and stronger one. Don't miss the instructions.

H. J. Ruggles is manager of the chamber of commerce and Charles B. Clemons is chairman of the forum. Other officials in the organization are: Assistant treasurer, A. G. Hincker; auditor, M. A. Berg Jr., and attorney, Harold W. Hawes.

The committee in charge of the dinner and dance at the Midwest Athletic club next Wednesday is made up of George J. Dehn, Otto Berz, Arthur Brown, Charles B. Clemons, Sol Westerfeld, Edward W. Dunne, Walter F. Marggraf, Frank Bilek, and Henry J. Ruggles.

BASKET PLAYERS OF MORTON HIGH SENT TO TOURNEY

Through the courtesy of the Cicero Rotary club the basketball team of Morton High school had the privilege this last week of attending the Indiana state basketball tournament at Indianapolis.

The trip was given as a reward for the team's having won the Suburban league championship. Usually the club awards the school's winning athletes with a banquet, but, inasmuch as it was thought probable the team might be entered in the national tournament, it was decided the lads might be able to pick up valuable pointers on such an excursion.

W. K. Long is coach of the champions. Members of the team are Charles Cerny, Albert Kawal, Wilfred Gauther, George Sykora, and Joseph Lohr.

ELMHURST POST OPENS CLASSES FOR BOY SCOUTS

Training in Trades and Professions Given.

The movement for practical trade and professional training for Boy Scouts sponsored by T. H. B. post, No. 187, of the American Legion at Elmhurst, is being watched in both Legion and Scout circles throughout the country as an experiment of importance.

The post has just organized a class in cement work in its merit badge school. The class has ten members and is being taught by Henry Kratz. An automobile class, conducted by Douglas Chant, has attracted fifteen students, and a class in journalism is already functioning. Alfred H. Nelson, Du Page county surveyor, is to launch a class in surveying. Certificates of proficiency will be awarded by the instructors at the close of each course.

The school work is in charge of the Legion's Americanization committee of which R. L. Ostrander is chairman. Other members of this committee are Daniel Curtis and Jack Kearns.

John F. Conley unit, No. 221, of the American Legion auxiliary gave a dinner and theater party for the ninth district committeewomen and the unit's president, Mrs. Deborah Conley, Thursday.

West Suburban post, No. 692, reports going "over the top" in its aid to the Cook county membership drive to beat Wisconsin. "But," urges Commander Herbert E. W. Bach, "we need 17 more paid up members to make our membership equal to 1928. Let's do it during the month of March." On Tuesday Comrades Moffitt, Apostoles and Rose will hold a St. Patrick's party for the post, to which members and friends are invited.

Lawndale-Crawford post No. 98 is eager for new members for its drum and bugle corps. "It doesn't make a darn bit of difference," urges Commander C. J. Roth, "whether you know how to blow a bugle or beat a drum. You'll be taught how in a few lessons."

Commander L. M. Hanna thanks his comrades of Van Buren post, No. 401, for their efforts in adding 173 members to the post and thus winning the sixth district prize. An entertainment for ex-service men only is to be held by the post on Sunday afternoon, March 24. The meeting will be in honor of the new members.

From Advertising Men's post, No. 38, comes this announcement: "Members of the post have un grande opportunity to dust off the trigger and exercise the white o' their eyes in a post rifle club which is being formulated. Those interested call S. S. Bolton or leave their names with the adjutant."

On Thursday last, Chicago Loop post, No. 144, began holding its weekly luncheons at the Great Northern hotel. The post will have a private room for these luncheons, which will enable members to enjoy speakers and other entertainment each week.

Advertising Men's post, No. 38, will have Howard E. Taylor for a speaker at its meeting tomorrow in the Louis XVI. room at the Hotel Sherman. Mr. Taylor, manager of Berea college, Berea, Ky., will talk on "Day Break in the Mountains." His story, it is announced, "is of the sort to hold his listeners spellbound."

At the monthly meeting of Marine post, No. 273, to be held at the club rooms at the Auditorium hotel tomorrow night, six new members of the executive committee will be elected to succeed the following retiring members: T. E. Donnelly, Spencer Jones, R. J. Stone, A. M. Benson, C. Wayland Brooks, and C. J. Devers.

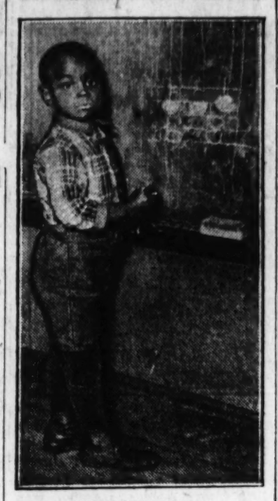
Comrade Edward C. Bass writes that "although Marines who served in France are a small percentage of the post membership, those who did are planning on this meeting for an unofficial anniversary jollification, for it was just eleven years ago on March 17 and 18 that Marine units of the second division moved up to the front in 1918." As usual, dinner will be served at 6:30 and the meeting will be at 8. Max Salovesh will sing "Ireland" in honor of March 17, and other entertainment has been arranged.

The Ladies' auxiliary of Chipilly post wil hold a St. Patrick's day party in connection with their regular meeting Monday night at the 131st infantry armory. One of the features of the meeting will be the reports from the "jockeys" in the membership race.

Trowel post will be host to the Seventh district at the monthly meeting on March 29. The place is North Center hall, 1940 Irving Park boulevard, and the meeting will be called at 8

Fort Dearborn post, No. 268, last night gave a St. Patrick's party at its headquarters, 6336 Cottage Grove avenue. Next Saturday night the post will give a Boy Scout party at its headquarters, the proceeds of which will be used to equip the scouts with instruments for their drum and bugle corps.

Musical Prodigy



ARTHUR HILL.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

COLORED TOT WINS TRAINING FOR HIS VOICE

Out at Rogers school, 1247 West 13th street, many nationalities are represented and more than one-half of the children are colored. In this heterogeneous group a small boy, colored and 5 years old, was found to possess an unusual voice. The youngster is Arthur Hill, 1207 Washburn street, and his sponsor is Miss Alma S. Fick, principal of the school.

When Miss Fick discovered that the boys displayed talent for singing, she asked officials of the Hull house, 800 South Halsted street, to let him enter one of their vocal classes. The result is that Arthur is now taking two one-half hour classes each week and is rapidly learning to read and to write music notes as well as to improve his voice.

The first songs Arthur learned were of a religious nature, those he heard in church. He is now acquiring a repertoire of juvenile and sacred songs. The youngest child in the singing class, he is also the only colored one. Arthur is not content merely to learn his songs—he is now teaching his younger brother, three years old, to sing. No one else in the family sings.

Arthur's father works for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. There are nine children in the family. The Hills have no piano, and so Arthur has not demonstrated yet whether he will also become interested in playing. However, Miss Fick hopes to enroll him in the harmonica class of the school when he is a little older.

Crane High Class Names Harry Brodey President

Harry Brodey was elected president of the class of February, 1930, of Crane High school, 2246 West Van Buren street, in the recent election. Other officers are: vice president, Ben Fleishman; secretary, Thomas Kartsounes; treasurer, Roger Adamson; and sergeant at arms, George Oliverio. The class will be represented at student councils by Roger Adamson and Adolphe Rindone. The president of the class last semester was Frank Buytaert.

FOUR WEST SIDE HIGH SCHOOLS TO CLASH IN DEBATE

The West Section High School Debating league, composed of Crane, Harrison, McKinley and Medill High schools, has announced its schedule for the second term. Each school has a negative and an affirmative team. The negative groups travel from school to school, the affirmative remaining at home. All teams debate the same question on the same day.

The second semester schedule opened Thursday when Crane met Harrison and Medill opposed McKinley. The subject for debate was "Resolved, That the eighteenth amendment be repealed." On April 18 Harrison will contest with Medill and Crane with McKinley. The question for that day will be "Resolved, That capital punishment be abolished." The third date on the schedule is May 23, with Harrison versus McKinley and Crane versus Medill. The question will be "Resolved, That the Philippine islands should be granted their immediate and absolute independence."

Each school has two members in the council of the debating league. Rex Lidov of Crane is president of the council, and Elaine Eckerling of Harrison, secretary. At the end of the season a silver loving cup will be awarded to the school winning first place. In case of a tie, a debate will be conducted between the two schools sharing first honors, one team representing each school. The time limit for constructive speeches in all debates will be seven, six, and six minutes, respectively, and three, four, and five minutes, respectively, for rebuttals.

SCREEN TAKING PLACE OF BOOKS FOR TINY PUPILS

Used in Teaching Three R's at Spry School.

Reading, writing and arithmetic are being taught with the aid of stereopticon slides and films at John Spry school, 2400 Marshall boulevard. This is an advanced means of replacing formal drill in these subjects with a pleasant method of teaching. Both picture and text are shown on the screen. In some cases slides are used; in others films.

A course in reading has been prepared by several teachers at Spry school under the leadership of Clyde A. Brown, principal. They are Alice Maher, Mr. Langlands, M. Sarsfield, M. Sullivan, A. Courtney, H. Sloan, and A. Thornton. The course has been in the making for two years and has just recently been completed. The lanterns are used in the first, second and third grades of the school for one-half hour each day.

Divided Into Five Groups.

The course is divided into five groups. The first is called "Silent Reading Lessons." In this film words such as "baby," "boy," "girl" are illustrated with verbs such as "finds," "runs," "hops" printed at the bottom. The child learns the words and connects the nouns and the verbs. In the second group, labeled "Complete Sentences," the child constructs sentences by connecting various nouns with appropriate verbs, the illustrations again aiding him. The third group, called "Direction Sentences," consists of a series of cammands, such as "Run to the door." When they are shown upon the screen, the child shows his knowledge of the words by fulfilling the various commands indicated.

The fourth group, "Yes or No," is a series of questions which the pupil answers in either the affirmative or the negative by holding up cards labelled "yes" or "no," or by pointing to the words "yes" or "no" which have previously been printed on the blackboard. In the fifth group, "Riddles," incomplete sentences are shown with several words at the bottom of the film, which the pupil selects to finish out the sentences.

First Graders Learn 200 Words.

The children in the first grade at Spry school have a list of 500 words to learn. Many being of foreign descent, have to learn to speak the English language as well as to read. Films have been found more satisfactory than slides because they may be operated more rapidly and they cost less.

Oak Park Art League Hears Fair Executive

Dr. Allen Albert, assistant to the president of the 1933 World's Fair, spoke before the Oak Park Art league Thursday evening. He presented plans for the fair and gave an illustrated description of the influence of the 1893 Columbian exposition on the architecture of Chicago. The lecture was arranged through the efforts of Mrs. Louis E. Yager.

VOICE of the WEST SIDE

NEGLIGENT ALDERMEN.

March 13.—Your paper has given a good deal of help to local people interested in zoning ordinances of late, and perhaps you can lend your influence toward remedying what I think is a serious ill in the way the city council attends to zoning matters. A meeting of the building and zoning committee was called three weeks ago for 10:30 in the morning. About fifty people interested in matters which were to come up and about which they had been notified waited in the committee room for more than an hour. At the end of that time some official came in and said the meeting had to be postponed because there was not a quorum present. [Out of more than 15 aldermen on the committee, a quorum constitutes only seven.] The meeting was called for the same day the following week. At that time the whole procedure was repeated except that even more people were kept waiting in vain. Now apparently the aldermen are so negligent of their duty that no meeting is being called at all. I don't think the duties of an alderman are so burdensome that he cannot attend committee meetings—especially when they are so vitally important to his constituents as are the zoning committee sessions.

AUSTIN STUDENTS TO SEEK U. OF C. SCHOLARSHIPS

Several students at Austin High school, 5417 Fulton street, are making preparations to enter the competitive scholarship examinations to be held at the University of Chicago on Friday, May 24. Those taking the English examinations include La Verne Nolan, Rose Krott, Blanche Berson, Shirley Stade, Dorothy Weaver, Helen Lyon, and Ethel Franzen.

Students who will enter the mathematical examinations include Frances Grote, Melva Quelle, Howard Brady, and Joseph Minardi. Two girls are preparing to take the Latin examinations, Jessie McCollum and Marie Lein. Thus far the Spanish examinations have attracted only one student, Olga de la Pena, but the French tests will find three Austinites entered, Faith Foster, Riva Golbin, and Robert Falkman.

Among those who will take the American history examinations are Vivian Kretz, William Dubats, Jeanne Hoch, Wesley Edgren, John Burns, Georgia Hale, Bernice Erickson, John Freemuth, Virginia Mueller, Marjorie Sielaff, and Rodger McColl. Entered in the chemistry tests are Herbert Carlson, Bernard Friendland, Abe Radunsky, Yarmilla Mueller, Bergir Johnson, William Murray, Willard Steir, Sidney Simon, Kendrick Smith, and Donald Peters.

NORTHWEST SIDE RAISING $250,000 TO AID HOSPITAL

Karl Eitel Leads Drive for St. Elizabeth's.

With all organizations, associations and scores of leading citizens of the northwest side helping, the campaign to enable it. Elizabeth hospital, 1433 North Claremont street, to build a new building, got under way this last week. The hospital is the oldest institution of its kind on the northwest side. It was founded in 1887 by the Poor Handmaids of Jesus Christ. This order is pledged to contribute half of the $500,000 needed for the new building, and the general committee, including the woman's auxiliary of the hospital, will do the rest.

KARL EITEL.

The project to add 150 beds and all modern equipment to St. Elizabeth's, is indorsed by the Northwest Branch of the Chicago Medical society, by the Chicago Association of Commerce, by every business man's organization in the district, and has the approval of Cardinal Mundelein.

Karl Eitel Chairman.

Karl Eitel is general chairman of the campaign, and the executive committee includes Judge Michael Girten, Joseph R. Noel, Miss Anna Gebhardt, Michael Brisch, and F. E. Lackowski. Anthony Czarnecki heads the publicity committee, and William Runzel the special gifts committee.

A meeting of division chiefs and workers was held at the hospital assembly hall Friday evening when Ald. Max Adamowski [38th] and Edward Kaindl spoke. The division chiefs include: Ald. Edward J. Kaindl [34th], division street district; John M. Zimmerman, North avenue district; Harry G. Weimer, Kelvin Park district; Charles E. Stevens, North Milwaukee avenue district; E. E. Moll and A. J. Glenicki, lower Milwaukee avenue district; B. A. C. Hoelzer, Logan Square district, and John Schwaba and Joseph N. Baum, Avondale district.

100,000 Patients Cared For.

During its 45 years of service, St. Elizabeth hospital has received more than 100,000 patients. More than one-fourth of those treated in the last five years have been free cases, while a large per cent of the remainder have made partial payments. The physicians on the hospital staff have also given largely of their services to those unable to pay for treatment. Patients of all faiths and nationalities have been cared for.

Institute Audience to Hear of Nation's Rise and Fall

Dr. S. M. Melamed will speak at the Jewish People's institute, 3500 Douglas boulevard, tomorrow evening. His address will be one of a series of lectures on "Moving Forces and Personalities in World History." Dr. Melamed, who is known as a publicist, lecturer and author, will deal tomorrow night with the birth, the rise and the achievement of nations and their decline and death.

Mrs. Jennie Franklin Purvin, social worker and journalist, will be the speaker at the Five O'Clock Jewish Forum meeting at the Jewish People's institute this evening. Her topic is to be "The Jews in Modern Europe."

EDWARD NOVAK INSTALLED BY PARK VIEW BODY

Group Concentrates on 3 Major Projects.

The new officers of the Park View association were installed at a public meeting held at Independence Park Field house, Irving Park boulevard and Springfield avenue, Wednesday. They are: President, Edward Novak; first vice president, Henry Fehlhaber; second vice president, Theodore Jacobsent; secretary, John Kiler; treasurer, Harry Tobey; and sergeant at arms, Joseph Hammond.

EDWARD NOVAK

The Park View association is an organization of home owners living in the district bounded by Crawford avenue on the west, Central Park avenue on the east, Irving Park boulevard on the north, and the CChicago and North Western railroad tracks on the south. It was organized 12 years ago for the purpose of procuring needed improvements in the district.

Backs Three Major Projects.

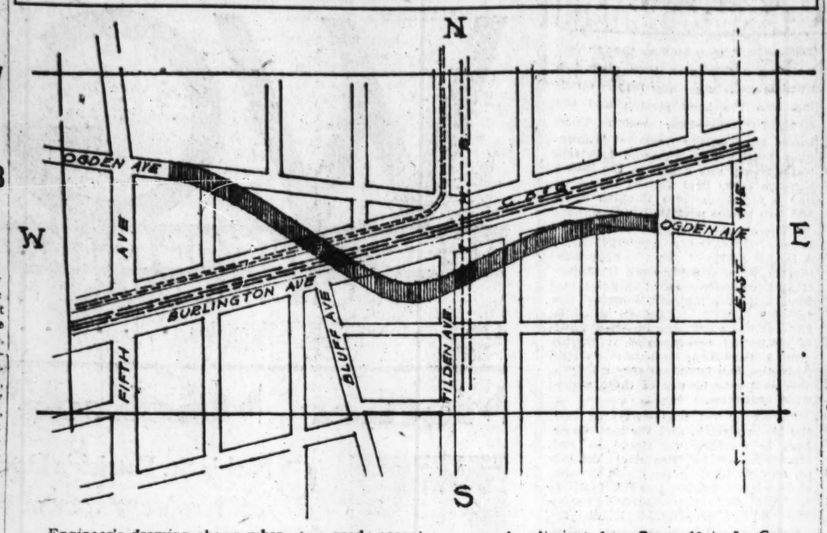
The association is supporting the demand for feeder buses for the northwest side, the boulevarding of Addison street and the proposed Avondale highway. Among the projects now completed which the association aided in effecting are John B. Murphy school, Grace street and Central Park avenue, and the Park View suburban railway station at Addison street and Monticello avenue. In opposing the condemnation of the solidly built up block bounded by Addison, Waveland, Monticello and Central Park avenue for a proposed junior high school, the association maintains that there is vacant property nearby which would cost less and be equally desirable and that it is inadvisable to use tax-producing property.

Meet Once a Month.

Among the aims of the association, as outlined by President Novak, are to stimulate civic pride and public spirit and to promote the general welfare of the community; to create sociability by means of entertainments and educational talks; to protect and promote the mutual interest of the members in the enjoyment of their homes.

Meetings of the association are held at the Irving Park Athletic Field house, Addison street and Central Park avenue, on the second Wednesday of each month. The delegates of the assication to the Northwest Federation of Improvement Clubs are Mr. Novak, the president; Mr. Kiler, the secretary, and Joseph Lenske.

WHERE TRAFFIC IS TO BE UNKINKED



Engineer's drawing shows where two grade crossings are to be eliminated on Route 18 in La Grange. Traffic from Ogden avenue now proceeds along the Burlington right of way, crossing the Indiana Harbor Belt line tracks, to 5th avenue. Turning north here, it crosses the Burlington tracks before reaching Ogden avenue again. The new route, shown by the shaded lines, will have a viaduct over the Belt line and a subway under the Burlington.

FIELD BRANCH IN OAK PARK TO OPEN ON SEPT. 1

The new store of Marshall Field & Co. to be located at Lake street and Harlem avenue, Oak Park, will be opened on Sept. 1, according to an announcement made by officials of the concern. Contracts have been let for the five story building. Addition of the Marshall Field store to the already imposing list of loop merchants located in the Lake, Marion, and Wisconsin district will serve to augment the prestige of that progressive shopping center. This will be the first suburban store to be erected by Field's, as its branches in Lake Forest and Evanston occupy leased quarters. It will be 100 feet wide on Lake street and 145 feet on Harlem avenue.

Another project of interest to Oak Parkers will be the building of a branch for the McCrory Stores company, owners of 5 and 10 cent stores. A lease recently signed assures the construction of a large building for this concern on Lake street, east of the site of the Field store.

LORADO TAFTS TO BE HOSTS TO ILLINÆ CLUB

Tea to Be Held in Studio of Sculptor.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorado Taft will be hosts to the members of the Chicago Illinae club at the annual south side gathering to be held Saturday afternoon at Mr. Taft's studio, 6016 Ellis avenue. Mr. Taft was host at a similar affair given two years ago in his studio rooms and, as before, will conduct the guests through his workshop, explaining various phases of the sculptor's art.

Of especial interest will be the showing of several bronze figures to be used in one of his masterpieces, the "Alma Mater," which is to be dedicated on the University of Illinois campus in Urbana in June in commemoration of Mr. Taft's fiftieth anniversary as an alumnus of the university.

Committee to Assist.

Tea will be served from 3 to 5 o'clock and assisting Mr. and Mrs. Taft in the receiving line will be Miss Alice Howe, 10233 South Wood street, president of the club; Mrs. Howard McLane, 6506 South Troy street, chairman of the afternoon; Mrs. Charles F. Pillsbury, 10451 South Seeley avenue; Miss Darley Thomas, 1615 Hyde Park boulevard; Miss Mary Bransfield, 4748 Woodlawn avenue, Mrs. H. F. Partridge, 6621 Yale avenue, and Miss Nellie V. Walker, Mr. Taft's secretary.

Other officers of the Chicago club are Mrs. A. M. Hauser, 328 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, vice president; Mrs. George Winterhalter, 422 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, recording secretary; Mrs. R. E. Schreiber, 1650 Sherwin avenue, treasurer, and Mrs. E. L. Kemp, 8157 Ingleside avenue, corresponding secretary.

Four Events a Year.

There are more than 1,800 alumnae living in Chicago and its suburbs and, as in former years, it is the custom to hold four events each year. Early in the fall a tea was held on the north side, the first of this year Mrs. A. M. Hauser was hostess at a card party in Oak Park, and this third gathering, held on the south side, will be followed by the annual spring luncheon, the date and place to be announced later.

Arrange A. Z. A. Dance.

Columbus Park chapter, A. Z. A. international fraternity, is making preparations for the annual dance to be held at the Elks club, 173 West Washington street, Saturday evening, March 30. Joseph Cohen is president of the organization.

Women of Mooseheart to Mark Anniversary

Glen Ellyn chapter, No. 641, Women of Mooseheart Legion, which includes in its membership representatives from all communities in Du Page county, will observe the second anniversary of its chartering on May 24. Among those attending will be past officers and members from Elmhurst, Lombard, Villa Park, Naperville, Wheaton, and West Chicago, as well as Glen Ellyn.

Art Lecture at Hirsch.

Dudley Crafts Watson of the Art institute will conduct "A Tour of the Picture and Art Galleries" in Hirsch Junior High school, 7740 Ingleside avenue, Thursday afternoon, under the auspices of the Hirsch Parent-Teacher association. A mixed chorus will sing.

Sisters of Charity to Meet.

The Sisters of Charity will meet Wednesday afternoon in the State and Lake building. Mrs. Goldie Goldstine is president of the organization.

CHAIN PROGRAMS THIS YEAR WILL COST 23 MILLION

To Be No Letdown During Summer Months.

New York, March 16.—Chain broadcasting has been definitely established on a twelve months a year basis and the listening public will be able to tune in this summer on programs the equal both in quality and number of those sent out over the air in the winter months. Widespread recognition of the important place that radio holds in the country today has been instrumental in abolishing the summer slump in broadcasting.

Sales figures of the big broadcasting chains indicate that hot weather programs this year will keep radio interest at a high pitch. Officials of the two leading broadcasting chains report that more than $23,000,000 will be invested by advertisers in chain program during 1929.

No Summer Sag.

The National Broadcasting company reports a sum in excess of $16,000,000 for chain programs for the current year, while Columbia's clients will spend close to $7,500,000 to entertain the radio public in 1929. Expenditures on programs over the summer period this year will be virtually as high as in the other seasons of the year, according to plans announced.

An analysis of expenditures for radio entertainment of previous years shows that a sharp sag in programs occurred in the summer months, the big features going into retirement with the advent of warm weather. That will not be the case this year, however, as sponsors of the most popular chain programs have definitely signified their intention of continuing their programs throughout the twelve months of the year.

Improvement Each Year.

Going back to 1925, the number of sponsored programs and the number of hours on the air showed a sharp decline as the hot weather increased. By 1927, however, some improvement was registered in the matter of better summer programs, the chain broadcasting companies reporting a greater call for service during June, July, and August. Last year the situation righted itself even more than in the preceding year, due largely to the part played by radio in the political campaign. This year, for the first time in the history of radio, the two large broadcasters of chain programs have committed themselves to present their biggest features straight through the year.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

The country at large has taken quite a fancy to the sports announcer who has been allowed a few times to broadcast over one of the national chains. His name is Bill Munday of Atlanta, Ga., and he crashed into popularity on New Year's day when the chain, for sectional good feeling purposes, let him describe parts of the Georgia football game in California. He was astounding to the radio audience, because, for an announcer extemporizing, he had a vocabulary. And in addition to his graphic formal vocabulary, he introduced a flock of colorful idioms of his own territory, such as "the crap-shootin' huddle."

Then, again, two weeks ago, he was allowed to squeeze in patter between rounds of the Stribling-Sharkey fight broadcast—and his interludes were the hit of the show, although he didn't have enough time to strut his stuff. After all, when a national chain is broadcasting to the whole nation, it's good advertising sense to include an announcer with a southern accent—to win over the audience in Dixie.

THE TALKING movie apparatus has a new use. When a great national event is being broadcast, or at least an event that takes the attention of the populace at large, the theater managers can hook up the gigantic horns used in their talkies to a radio receiving set and let the theater enjoy the highly amplified story of the announcer. This was done in some places during the recent fight in Florida. When a vitaphone picture is on the screen, the sounds come from huge horns placed behind the screen, and the special kind of screen is so thin that the pictures can be seen from the rear as well.

HOW WOULD you like a job like this? In a New York broadcasting station the managers employ a young lady whose sole duty is to sit opposite persons who are talking into the microphone, in order to give them a real "audience" and thus cure them of microphone fright. The lady is charming and attentive to what is being said—but we're afraid if we were the subject of her rapt and beautiful attention, we'd be frightened to death!

SOME DAY the short story writers will use the broadcaster's form for depicting drama in the present tense. The form we mean is an imaginary broadcast, of one of our horse races, for example. Would you like to hear a hoss race, e'en tho' this is the Sabbath? Let's go! Tune us in:

"There's the bugle call, summoning the horses to the post. My, this is a fine view we have for the race!

Track spread out in front of us like a circle some boys have drawn in the dirt for a game of marbles. Look what great designs the landscape gardener has planted with his flowers out there in the parade ground, inside the track!

"Is it really warm, or do I just think it is? Some of the boys down in the paddock have their coats off. Grandstand's pretty well filled today. Now let's see—which are those horses ambling around the paddock for inspection?—gee, yes, this is the race that Phantom and Beau Brummel are in. They're saddling 'em now.

"Dandy looking hosses—look at 'em!—look at that head of Phantom's high up in the air, pretty ritzy! Wouldn't you like to be riding either of those thoroughbreds? It'd be like riding a skyrocket when they jump from the barrier.

"This Phantom is a deadly dude, the clockers' sheets say—one of them reports, 'Phantom, a whole basket of ripe peaches; a through train on a clear track; the answer to a jockey's prayer; he ran away with the whole darned Maypole dance at Pimlico; drop a few pennies in the tin cup on him, brother, and you'll be backing up a truck to the paying teller's window in the morning.'

"Let's see what the hooey is on Beau Brummel. 'Beau Brummel—here's a 1930 model—stream lines—and built for nothing but speed—he could win if he had to pull a pie wagon behind him—peel off a fin and hang it on his nose—if you'd like to cheer yourself up.'

"Here they come, now, out onto the track. Sammy, the post boy, is leading 'em out, on the white pony. Look at that crowd getting fidgety now—everybody getting up close to the rail. Phantom and Beau Brummel, and Phantom on the rail. That's Jockey Harry Spinggold up on Phantom, with the green cap and the black and white silks. Jockey Pete Squish is riding Beau Brummel, in a yellow shirt with blue dots. They're cavorting around down here in front of us, and the race is going to start to our left—both horses prancing and feeling skittish—now they're back of the tape line, and the boys are stretching the slender rubber across the track.

"In a minute now those electric levers on both rails will spring up—and the race will be on! The assistant starters are pulling both nags up to the line—they'll get 'em lined up right away—There! That's pretty good—Nope, Beau Brummel wheeled nervously to the left—now they're pulling him up. There! Now watch for the start—

"Both horses leap forward like flashes and they're moving off neck and neck—here they come pattering down the lane past us—just look at those jockey's whip hands—Phantom about a neck ahead and now they're coasting into the first turn—do you think Phantom'll win?—he's got the rail—and he eases farther ahead as they're careening around the turn—both jockeys with their chins down on their knees—Phantom is pulling out and he's a length in the lead at the quarter post — PHANTOM A LENGTH AHEAD AT THE QUARTER!—Gosh, they look as though they were on a toboggan, they glide forward so gracefully—now they're scooting into the back stretch and the straight track—Um, watch those babies leg it—Beau Brummel is dropping behind, and Phantom is slashing a length and a half in the lead—through these field glasses they look like a movie—jockeys flapping arms and two horses squirting up the dust.

"There's the pole for the half distance—PHANTOM A LENGTH AND A HALF AHEAD! They're approaching the turn, and Phantom is scampering frantically—plunk! they hit the bend and both animals hugging the rail—but LOOK, BEAU IS SPURTING, and he's creeping up—he'll have to go 'round him—they're thumping around the turn, and now they're facing us, and Phantom only a length ahead—it may be one of those whirlwind finishes—.

"Look at 'em now—sweeping into the home stretch, and the mob down here is standing on tiptoe — and screaming!—Beau Brummel coming up on him—Jockey Squish is driving him on like a storm—and HE'S ONLY A HALF LENGTH BEHIND PHANTOM AT THREE QUARTERS!

"Here they come, pounding along the turf toward us—fighting it out where it means the most—OH, PHANTOM IS INCHING FORWARD FASTER! — splattering — a mass of weaving legs—THE JOCKEYS ARE ALMOST SIDE BY SIDE!—Phantom a half length ahead and the race almost ended—Beau Brummel is coming closer—WILL HE WIN?—Here they are, right down here—Beau is almost bursting!—AND HE COMES UP CLOSER—ALMOST OVER—.

"NOPE!—PHANTOM BEATS BEAU BRUMMEL BY HALF A LENGTH!"

THE NEW Federal K MODEL with the AC Shield Grid Tube Now!

Federal Quality at Price of Ordinary Radios

FEDERAL'S new "K" models . . . the first licensed radios using the sensational new A. C. Shield Grid Tube . . . represent all that Federal has stood for during the 27 years of the company's existence. They are made under the same precise engineering standards and subjected to the same rigid inspections that have won Federal Radios recognition as America's finest.

To this typical Federal quality has been added the remarkable feature of the new A. C. Shield Grid Tube which, according to eminent authorities, does the work of two extra tubes. It gives the sharp selectivity, extreme sensitivity and distance range and the great amplification needed for the perfect operation of a dynamic speaker. Volume production alone has made the new Federal "K" receiver available at so low a price.

If you want a 1930 radio now, see one of the dealers listed below. Any of them will gladly arrange a home demonstration of the new Federal "K" or any other of the outstanding Federal models.

Console $154.50 as Illustrated

Mother Machree - - - -

ON this St. Patrick's Day you can get a musical bird's-eye view of the Emerald Isle in a special Irish program. Sons and daughters of Old Erin as well as other listeners will be thrilled by these forty minutes of Hibernian melodies. The lilting, swift jigs and the crooning songs from all parts of Ireland will be whisked to you as they are observed by Quin Ryan from Mother Machree's Magic Carpet. Listen at 10:05 tonight.

JEAN GOLDKETTE

EIGHTEEN skilled musicians work together to create those sleek, rhythmic patterns of modern music. They play with subtle, suggested, almost unheard throbs of the dance provoking rhythm; from its midst comes the eerie note of a muted trumpet—as modern as Paris—as dignified and progressive as Berlin. And then abruptly they turn. The tempo quickens. The spirit is youthful. The atmosphere more American—or is it more African? It's full of another kind of life. A penetrating trumpet licks out a dozen notes more quickly than you can count them . . . the clarinet would wail if it hadn't to snip out another note an octave away as quickly as the keys will respond! That's Goldkette! The first group at three this afternoon, but more from 10:45 on tonight.

Pace Jubilee Singers - - -

THEY'RE born harmonists and cultivated musicians. The Pace Jubilee Singers are five nationally famous colored singers who have recently come to W-G-N, and have already become widely popular. The smooth, warm music of the spirituals will move you by its somber and sometimes even melancholy air. 3:15.

COOLIDGE LEAVES HOOVER CANADIAN RADIO PROBLEM

Royal Commission to Visit United States Soon.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—Canada's place in the broadcasting realm is one of the problems of aggravated proportions that remains as a heritage to the Hoover administration. The North American division of short waves has been accomplished successfully and to the apparent satisfaction of all, but Canadians are still voicing dissatisfaction with the dominion's allotment of six exclusive and twelve shared channels out of the 96 available in the broadcast band.

The Canadian royal commission appointed to investigate the dominion's radio broadcasting problem will visit the United States some time this month or next, conferring with the federal radio commission and with high government radio authorities. Until it renders its report, the attitude that the Ottawa government may be expected to take cannot be determined. The dissent thus far heard has been voiced largely through the press and in other informal ways.

Studying in England.

The commission consists of Sir John Aird, president of the Toronto Bank of Commerce, chairman; Charles A. Bowman, editor of the Ottawa Citizen, and Augustin Frigon, director of the Montreal Ecole Polytechnique. It has been studying the radio broadcasting situation in continental Europe and the British isles before embarking for a windup North American tour. Whether it will visit the United States first or return to Canada directly from London has not been learned.

Canada's radio problem is inextricably interwoven with that of the United States, since the adjustment of wave lengths must be a matter of voluntary agreement by both countries. There are approximately seventy broadcasting licenses in force for stations in the dominion, but many of these licenses represent duplicate sets of call letters for single transmitters. The government marine authorities estimate that 400,000 receiving sets are in use in Canada, 60 per cent in the cities and 40 per cent among the rural population. These are the sets licensed at a nominal yearly fee; how many sets are operated without license cannot even be estimated.

Six Bands Not Enough.

Six exclusive wave lengths are deemed insufficient for the national radio services, although these channels have been allocated to stations whose powers have been kept low enough, and distances from each other "staggered," so that there may be duplications. The twelve channels used concurrently with the United States are, of course, those upon which low powered stations in both countries must necessarily operate.

The royal commission has been authorized to inquire specifically into these questions: 1. The establishment of one or more groups of high powered broadcasting stations operating as private enterprises with the receipt of a government subsidy; 2. the establishment and operation of such a system of stations to be owned and financed by the dominion government; 3. the establishment and operation of stations by provincial governments.

With the internal governmental policy to be pursued by Canada, the United States is not, of course, very greatly concerned, although much interest will naturally attach to any proposal to operate on this continent, a government owned or government subsidized broadcasting system like like those in most foreign countries. The problem the United States government will be called upon to meet will be one of determining a basis of wave length division with Canada.

Like U. S. Programs.

That the 600 or more stations in this country need all the channels they can get and that a 10 kilocycle separation between channels must be maintained is patent to any observer. The question the royal commission is expected by the Canadian press to answer is whether the present arbitrary division is satisfactory. A negative reply will precipitate discussions with the federal radio commission and possibly open diplomatic negotiations.

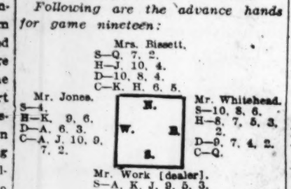
That Canadian listeners like the programs they pick up from American stations is evident to any one who has visited the dominion. But Canadian government authorities are unwilling to agree that their subjects should listen to advertisements of American made products along with such entertainment. Radio has become "Americanized" all through the dominion, they have complained; that is one of the reasons the commission was appointed.

One Hundred Aces Good for Only One No Trump in Radio Auction Bridge Game

The nineteenth of a series of twenty radio auction bridge games will be broadcast from W-G-N, The Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, Tuesday at 3:30 p. m.

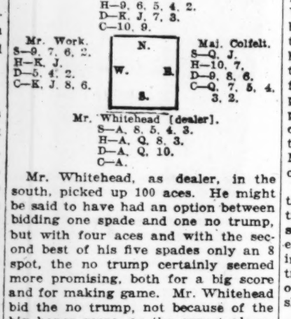
The contestants will be Mrs. Clyde Bissett of Kansas City, Mo., a noted teacher and lecturer on bridge, playing with Mr. Work against C. Drummond Jones of St. Louis, winner of many important bridge contests as a representative of the Racquet club of St. Louis, and Mr. Whitehead.

Following are the advance hands for game nineteen:



The eighteenth of this season's radio bridge games went on the air Tuesday from station W-G-N, with Mrs. Annie Adair Foster of Atlanta, Ga., as Mr. Whitehead's partner, and Maj. Lewis W. Colfelt, Philadelphia, paired with Mr. Work.

The players held the following hands:



Mr. Whitehead, as dealer, in the south, picked up 100 aces. He might be said to have had an option between bidding one spade and one no trump, but with four aces and with the second best of his five spades only an 8 spot, the no trump certainly seemed more promising, both for a big score and for making game. Mr. Whitehead bid the no trump, not because of the big honor score, as the expert player does not sacrifice a better chance for making game merely for a higher honor count. He was influenced by the fact that his type of hand, combined with the average dummy, will produce a game in no trump much more often than it will game in spades; also the difference in honor score might be as great as 130 or 140, since adversaries might hold 30 or 40 honors in the spade suit.

All Others Pass.

Mr. Work, in the west, Mrs. Foster, north, and Maj. Colfelt, east, all passed the dealer's bid; therefore Mr. Whitehead became declarer with his contract one no trump.

Mr. Work, west, led the 6 of clubs, fourth best of his stronger four card suit, and from Mrs. Foster's hand, which became dummy, Mr. Whitehead, declarer, played the 9 of clubs. Maj. Colfelt, east, here made a play which indicated the high caliber of his game. He assumed that the 6 of clubs was his partner's fourth best of the suit, a conventional lead. The 6 was also his partner's lowest club, since Maj. Colfelt himself held every club lower than the 6. Consequently, Mr. Work's club suit, if the 6 were the fourth best, was of exactly four cards. With two clubs in dummy, and six in Maj. Colfelt's hand, it was apparent to Maj. Colfelt that declarer could hold only one. This probably was either the ace or king, since with a worthless singleton declarer would have avoided a no trump bid. If not the ace or king, then declarer's singleton was either the jack or 8 spot, the only other clubs higher than the 6 for which Maj. Colfelt could not account. Maj. Colfelt knew, by applying the rule of eleven to Mr. Work's lead of the 6, that there were outstanding, in the three hands other than the leader's, five cards higher than the 6 led. Of these, only four were in dummy's and Maj. Colfelt's hands. The fifth, therefore, had to be in declarer's.

Clubs Threaten Game.

Regardless, however, of what declarer's singleton might be, whether ace, king, jack or 8 spot, Maj. Colfelt realized that he should not play his queen. Should he do so, Mr. Work's four card club suit would block Maj. Colfelt's six card suit; and the latter, without a reëntry in his hand, would be unable to make his two long clubs. Therefore, Maj. Colfelt played his 5 of clubs on his partner's 6. Mr. Whitehead, declarer, played his lone ace. Mr. Work, west, could readily read it as being a singleton, and therefore was able to read Maj. Colfelt as having held six clubs originally.

Mr. Whitehead, though unable from the play to read the exact club situation, realized that the entire suit was set up against him, seriously threatening game. He could, however, count, in addition to his club trick, four sure tricks in diamonds, two in spades, and one in hearts—eight altogether, one short of game.

Apparently the game trick could be made only by a successful finesse against the king of hearts. Therefore Mr. Whitehead planned first to make practically sure of his contract and thereafter to take the heart finesse in a try for game.

Accordingly Mr. Whitehead led the ace of diamonds, to which Mr. Work played the 2, dummy the 3, and Maj. Colfelt the 6. Mr. Whitehead's queen of diamonds brought the 4 from Mr. Work, the 7 from dummy, and the 8 spot from Maj. Colfelt. Declarer then led the 10, overtaking with dummy's jack. Mr. Work played the 5 and Maj. Colfelt the 9. Dummy led the thirteenth diamond, the king. Maj. Colfelt discarded the 7 of hearts, Mr. Whitehead the 3 of spades, Mr. Work the 2 of spades.

Heart Finesse Fails.

At this point Mr. Whitehead could have taken his king and ace of spades, thus assuring his contract, one no trump. The ace of hearts would have made it two odd, and a successful finesse of the queen of hearts would have produced game. Failure of the heart finesse at this point would give the adversaries a heart trick plus all their clubs.

As to the club situation, Mr. Whitehead could tell, by application of the rule of eleven to the 6 of clubs originally led, that Maj. Colfelt must hold two clubs higher than the 6; and since he did not play either of them to the first trick, but instead underplayed his partner's 6, it was evident that he was long in clubs. Otherwise Maj. Colfelt would have played one of his high clubs to force out the one club higher than the 6, which he could read as being in Mr. Whitehead's hand.

Having thus read Maj. Colfelt as long in clubs, Mr. Whitehead reasoned that there was no possibility of either adversary holding as many as seven clubs. Consequently, five tricks would be the maximum the adversaries could make. Thus, even if his heart finesse failed Mr. Whitehead could still make his contract; and should the finesse succeed, he would have game. Therefore, while still holding control of the spade suit, Mr. Whitehead proceeded to take the heart finesse, leading the 2 of hearts from dummy. Maj. Colfelt played the 10; declarer his queen, and Mr. Work, west, won with the king.

Mr. Work then led in succession, the king, jack, and 8 spot of clubs. Maj. Colfelt, east, covered the 8 spot with his queen and then took his two long clubs. On these five club tricks Mr. Whitehead, declarer, discarded down to the ace of spades and the ace of hearts, with which cards he won the last two tricks, giving him a score of 10 points for the odd trick and 100 for four aces in one hand.

The bidding of this hand at contract would impose some little responsibility upon the south player. With every suit stopped and a count of 20 [4 for each of his acres and 2 for each of his queens] he would be well over the 17 with four suits stopped requirement for a bid of two no trumps, but he would be one short of the requisite 21 for three no trumps. Even if he held an extra jack, giving him the 21 count, he properly would hesitate about bidding three no trumps because of the singleton, even though it is an ace. Two no trumps would seem to be his sound declaration. Over south's two no trumps, north, with a count of 7, of course would jump to three no trumps. The play being the same as in auction bridge, the declarer would fail to make his game by a margin of two tricks.

'STENO' WHO WON FAME AS SINGER ON AIR TONIGHT

"Sigrid the toiler," who typed and stenoged her way to musical fame, might be part of the story about the struggle of Sigrid Onegin, the newest and youngest European concert contralto and operatic star, who is to be guest artist tonight in the Atwater Kent program broadcast over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. But there is considerably more to the life history of this truly international singer.

Born in Stockholm, the daughter of an attaché of the French embassy and his German wife, Mme. Onegin married a Russian, who died in a military prison during the world war. She made her first great triumph as a singer in a performance of "Carmen" with the late Enrico Caruso as chief star. Educated from childhood to speak and understand the philosophy of three languages—Swedish, French, and German, she added many others during a life in which tragedy stalked and forced her to work as a stenographer and typist to earn money for her music lessons.

Her voice has been called by critics one of the most remarkable of modern singers. Ranging from a deep, rich, round toned contralto to the highest range of a mezzo-soprano, and capable of coloratura effects in middle and high tones that are of the most intricate character, her success in concert in America has been unusual. Coupled with her mechanical skill in using her voice, her varied experience in life has given her an understanding of the poetry and romance of song posed by few artists.

Crane College Leads U. S. in Filipino Registration

Registration records at Crane college, 2246 West Van Buren street, indicate that there are more Filipino students enrolled at that institution than at any other college or university in the country. There are eighty-eight Filipinos at Crane. This is the largest number that has ever enrolled at the school. The students from the Philippines have their own organization, the Crane Filipino club. Eduardo M. Yap is president.

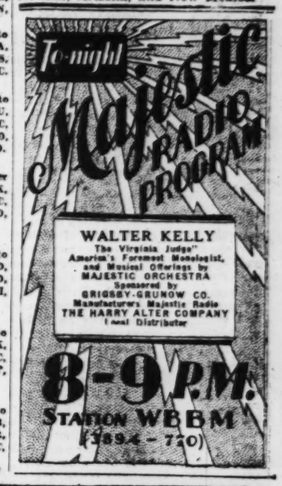
DR. SOCHMAN AND DR. TAYLOR TALK AT SUNDAY CLUB

"Life in the Southern Highlands" is the title of the talk to be given by Dr. Howard E. Taylor, for many years associated with work among the mountain people near Berea, Ky., to be broadcast at 7 o'clock by WMAQ from the Chicago Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall.

At the main meeting, beginning at 8, Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of Madison Avenue Methodist church, New York, will give his first address before the club, his subject being "Patrons or Partners." Harry A. Wheeler, a vice president of the club, will preside.

7 STATES MISS INAUGURAL.

Although more than one hundred stations were in the chain which broadcast the inaugural ceremonies at Washington, D. C., seven states were not covered. These were North Dakota, South Dakota, Idaho, Wyoming, Nevada, Arizona, and New Mexico.



LONELIEST ISLE HEARS RADIO FOR THE FIRST TIME

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 16.—(AP)—Tristan da Cunha, called "the loneliest island in the world," a British possession off the African coast, is having its first experience with the wonders of the century, radio, the phonograph and the motion picture. It is 1,400 miles west of Cape Town.

Until a year ago no steamer, within the memory of the 150 persons on the island, had stopped there. Then the Duchess of Atholl on a South American and South African cruise paused at the tiny island. This winter it put in there again with supplies.

The islanders are civilized, courteous, and all speak English. About a fifth can read and write. When the tourists first visited there none knew the week or month. There was not a watch or calendar at Tristan da Cunha.

One of the gifts to the islanders was a wireless set and radio outfit. Members of the steamer's crew taught them how to operate both sets. Several natives are learning the wireless code.

When invited aboard the ship these people first saw electric lights, heard their first piano, learned first of elevators and were introduced to ice cream. This last they did not care for particularly.

Both the men and women wore homespun clothes and sandals fashioned from rough hides. The islanders, chiefly a mixture of English and Portuguese, farm and tend 250 cows and raise sheep, chickens and geese.

The ship tourists learned that several steamers made attempts to reach the island, but because of treacherous shoals off shore gave it up. Some of the inhabitants are survivors of a sailing boat that ten years ago sought to reach shore. It foundered.

Only Seven Out of 1,135 Radio Pirates Win Cases

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—All but seven of the 1,135 prosecutions instituted against radio license dodgers during 1928 resulted in convictions, according to the recent statement of the postmaster general. The difference between the costs of prosecution and the amount received in license revenue is used to carry on this campaign against "pirates."

R. M. A. PLANS TO INVADE FOREIGN TRADE MARKETS

American radio products will be sold more widely throughout the world under plans announced recently by the Radio Manufacturers' association to aid its members in developing their foreign sales, especially in Latin America.

A complete radio export guide has just been compiled by the association comprising virtually all prominent makers of all radio products, and issued free to its members.

The export campaign of the R. M. A. is expected to greatly increase radio foreign sales, which last year were $12,061,410, as compared with $2,000,000 five years ago. This record was made despite inability of American manufacturers to fill radio demands in the United States, but the radio industry now feels able to develop the foreign market for the American industry.

The radio export guide of the R. M. A., prepared under the direction of Mr. George H. Kiley of New York, chairman of the R. M. A. foreign trade committee, includes complete radio information in all Latin America, and most other countries of the world.

SINGING BOYS—By Della Robbia
Panels Executed for the Duomo at Florence

Tones of Celestial Purity

Angelic-voiced boy sopranos, supporting tones of blended tenors, baritones and basses; the rumble of vast organ pipes amid the peal of carrillon. All these tones, from earliest days associated with devotional music, are as distinctly defined in Stromberg-Carlson radio reproduction as if heard in an old world cathedral.

In the New Stromberg-Carlson No. 638, new acoustical principles have been applied in baffling the dynamic speaker in the console. This ends those cabinet resonances which have hitherto given to dynamic reproduction, overtones not present in broadcasting. Greater reserve power at all degrees of volume has been attained, deepest tones have been sustained, yet—no iota of the purity for which Stromberg-Carlson tone is famous, has been sacrificed.

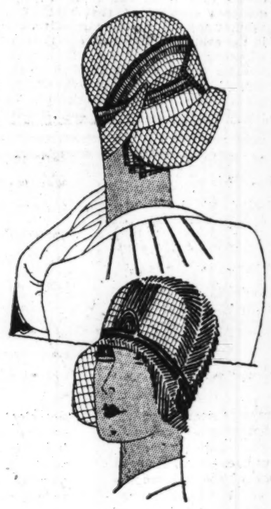
MADIGAN BROTHERS

4030 MADISON ~JUST WEST OF CRAWFORD

Spring has come to Madigan's—not a stodgy old formal opening but a gorgeous, youthful spirit of Fashion that is Spring itself—"The flare on these cuffs is newly smart," says a fashion-wise counter card of gloves—"Brims flare at the side and are down at the back," chirps a display of millinery—"Every frock has its jacket," claim the windows—They're all trying to tell you of the joyous Fashions for Spring—Come in today and really ENJOY shopping at this convenient fashion-wise store.

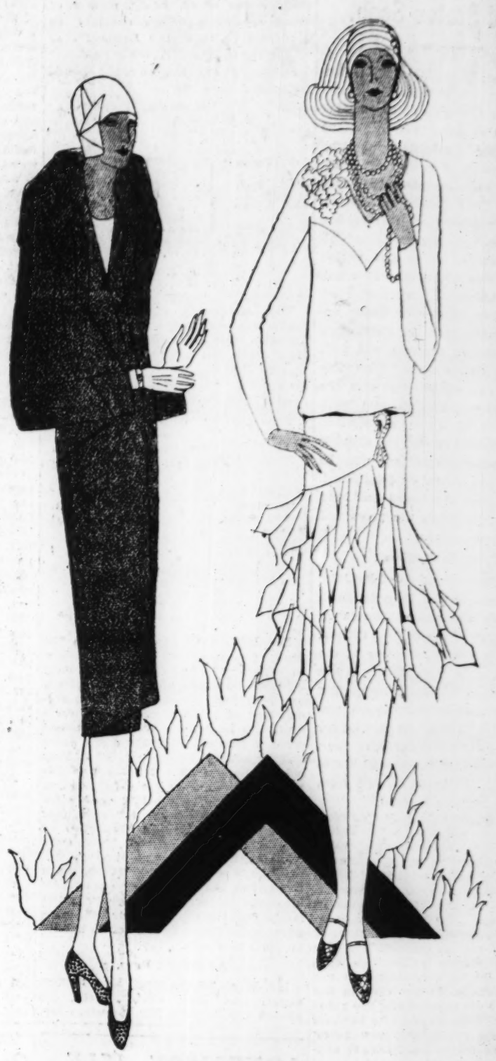


Fashion Says Hats of All Straw Are Smartest Now

$10

With Easter just a few days away, smartly dressed women have chosen to wear hats of all straw. The brims are turned off the face and are low at the sides and back. In chartreuse, black and white, tans, blues, reds—to match your Spring ensemble.

Second Floor—Madigan's.



Chartreuse— Chooses to Wear a Coat of Kasha

If you can wear Chartreuse you are indeed fortunate, for that is one of Fashion's favorites for Spring. The swathed hipline and pointed tiers lend smartness to the chiffon dress sketched above. $25.

A most unusual scarf collar of self material trims a coat of natural colored Kasha. Cleverly tailored details mark the sleeves, back and pockets. Sketched left. $49.50.

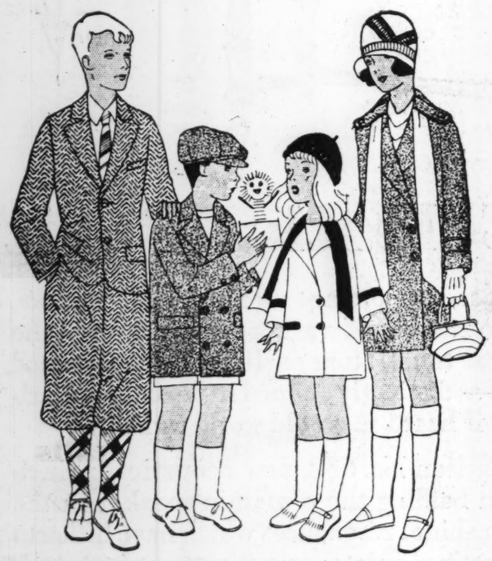
Second Floor—Madigan's.

Ensembles— Prime Favorites of the Mode for Spring

The popular combination of brown and tan is the basis of a tweed ensemble. The one-piece dress is trimmed with touches of brown on the belt and at the neck. $49.50.

A green couvert suit combines with a long sleeved blouse of ivory satin to form an ensemble. A belt of black patent leather matches the bow that jauntily trims the shoulder. Sketched to the right. $35.

Second Floor—Madigan's.



Spring on the Children's Floor

Of tweed is the coat that the girl from 8 to 14 chooses. Basket weaves and kashas are here, too. All satin lined and smartly tailored. $19.75.

The small tot watching the Jack-in-the-Box chooses a coat and a tam to match. The coat is of kasha trimmed in navy. Sizes 2 to 6. The set, $13.75.

For the very young man from 1 to 6 a topcoat of tweed or cashmere. Grays and tans in double breasted style with set-in sleeves. $5.75. Hats to match. $1.95.

Tweeds, cheviots or cashmeres for the boy from 6 to 14. Single breasted, peak lapels, Tattersall vest, and two pairs of plus 4 knickers. Fully lined. $15.75.

Second Floor—Madigan's.

And the Charming Simplicity of Black Worn with White

The frock above in black lace and chiffon is typical of the mode in black. Long sleeves, accordion pleated skirt, and a separate jacket of lace. Entirely suitable for the more formal affairs of the afternoon. $49.50.

The vogue for black and white is brought out in a coat of black Kashmirola with its collar of white ermine in striking contrast. A coat of the type suitable for town wear on all occasions. $75.

Second Floor—Madigan's.

Staircase Scarfs

The new staggered effect in scarfs of crepe de chine. A bright and effective touch for the Spring ensemble. $3.50.

Frameless Bags

Sketched is a copy of an Orloff bag in shoe calf. In black, navy, and French beige. Metal ornament with snake trim. Fitted. $7.95.

Slip-on Gloves

Imported kid in slip-on style with one button in modernistic design. Black and white or the combination of suntan with brown. $4.95.

HARBOR FORCES CONFIDENT OF BILL'S PASSAGE

Heartened by Favorable Report.

Confidence that the Illinois house of representatives next week will pass the Calumet harbor bill was voiced by members of south side delegations who journeyed to Springfield last week to attend a hearing on the measure conducted by the house committee on municipalities. Following the hearing the committee voted to recommend the bill for passage.

WALTER ROY. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Members of all south side civic and business organizations will unite in an effort to convince the lawmakers that the measure in its present form is practicable and in the best interest of Chicago, Walter Roy, business manager of the South End chamber of commerce, who led the delegation, promised.

Mr. Roy pointed out that the main objection to the bill is the fact that the people of the entire city will be taxed to raise the $5,000,000 necessary to pay for constructing the first unit of the harbor.

Assert City Loses Millions.

"If the people of Chicago," said Mr. Roy, "only realized that the city was losing millions of dollars each year because large corporations refuse to erect industrial plants here on the ground that there are no adequate facilities for water shipping and therefore seek other locations where those facilities can be obtained, they would forget their objections and compel their state representatives to pass the bill.

"Objections to the bill would cease if Chicagoans realized that more than 78 large industries moved their plants from within the corporate limits of Chicago to Indiana because that state will give the large industries the facilities to ship by water, and that by losing those 78 industries and many more in the future if the facilities are not planned for in the immediate future, more millions of dollars will be lost to the city each year.

Denies It Is Local Issue.

"The Calumet harbor is not a local issue. The construction of the harbor will bring developments to the far south territory, but it will also bring an untold number of huge industries to the city and make it one of the greatest industrial and shipping centers in the world. The five million dollars will soon be repaid many times to the city through the revenue obtained from 6,500 acres of what is now frozen territory."

Indiana is grasping the opportunity offered by the possible defeat of the Calumet Harbor bill and has announced plans for the construction of a 2,500 foot dock on the ship canal in East Chicago, Mr. Roy said. He added that Indianans, hearing of the inadequacy of harbor space in New York and that four ships directly from Europe have docked recently at East Chicago, are eager to improve their water shipping facilities.

Mr. Roy said that if the people of Chicago want to stand aside and allow a city in Indiana to become one of the greatest industrial and shipping centers in the country, the harbor bill should not be passed.

Cites Demand of Industry.

If they want Chicago to become the greatest city in the world, he continued, it is up to them to demand the passage of the bill so that the city may be able to offer the facilities for water shipping which large industries demand as a condition of locating in a city or remaining in it.

In addition to Mr. Roy the following persons attended the hearing Tuesday: Aleck Bernstein, Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th], Ald. Guy Guernsey [6th], chairman of the council committee on wharves, rivers and harbors; Benton Keeman, Oscar Rommel, Theodore Rasch, H. H. Haylett and H. J. Ruggles, manager of the West Town Chamber of Commerce, who, according to Mr. Roy, is in favor of the passage of the bill.

Papal-Italian Treaty to Be Explained by Lecture

Magr. Dennis J. Dunne will explain the origin, development and decline of the states of the Roman Catholic church and the final settlement of the Roman question next Thursday evening to members of the Holy Name society of Holy Cross church in the school hall, 6549 Maryland avenue. This meeting will be a farewell one to the Rev. D. J. Frawley, spiritual director of the Holy Cross branch, who has been called to a parish in Antioch, Ill.

Hyde Park High Alumni Hold Semi-Annual Dance

More than 400 students and graduates attended the semi-annual dance of the Hyde Park School Alumni association Friday evening at the Shoreland hotel, 55th street and South Shore drive. Fred Hobscheid, 6248 St. Lawrence avenue, president of the alumni association, was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair. James Barrett, 6856 Cregier avenue, was chairman of the committee in charge of the ticket sales.

Plans Centers in Schools to Aid Grownups

Community councils will be established in seventeen districts of the south side as part of the board of education's program to make the schools the centers of adult education as well as child education William J. Bogan, superintendent, announced yesterday.

The councils are being organized in ten senior high schools, two junior high schools, and five elementary schools in these districts under the direction of Edward Burchard, secretary of the superintendent's advisory council. The groups will include representatives from every business, social, civic, or religious group in the various districts and will have many aims in the matter of community betterment, according to Mr. Burchard.

The south side centers are as follows:

Phillips High school, 244 East Pershing road.

Greene school, 3537 South Paulina street.

Sawyer Avenue school, 5248 South Sawyer avenue.

Tilden High school, 4747 Union avenue.

Ross Junior High school, 6059 Wabash avenue.

Englewood High school, 6201 South Stewart avenue.

Lindblom High school, 6130 South Lincoln street.

Parker High school, 6800 Stewart avenue.

Hyde Park High school, 6220 Stony Island avenue.

Calumet High school, 8135 South May street.

Hirsch Junior High school, 7740 Ingleside avenue.

O'Keefe school, 6940 Merrill avenue.

Bowen High school, 8800 Manistee avenue.

Morgan Park High school, 1744 Pryor avenue.

Fenger High school, 11220 Wallace avenue.

Clay school, 13231 Burley avenue.

Community spirit will be instilled into residents of the various sections of the city through programs and entertainments which the council will stage at intervals throughout the year, Mr. Burchard said. Citizenship as a study for adults will be taken up under the guidance of the council.

To Study Welfare and Health.

Social welfare and health will be studied in an effort to formulate plans for the raising of their standards in the districts; the various phases of business will be discussed with a view to lending a hand to the neighborhood merchant who lacks education; the home will be another topic of study to be undertaken in the councils as well as such matters of education as proper reading and an appreciation of art.

The year's work of the councils throughout the city will culminate in a large, city-wide civic meeting such as was held in the Auditorium theater by the board, according to Mr. Burchard, and an exceptionally large attendance is expected for this occasion as a result of the formation of councils and the community work of the board.

The division of the city into districts or neighborhoods with centers in the schools was made by sociology classes of the University of Chicago and is a result of study and research Mr. Burchard said.

Senator Deneen to Speak at Immanuel Evangelical

Senator Charles S. Deneen will be the speaker at the Immanuel Evangelical church, 70th street and Michigan avenue, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. His talk will be preceded by a dinner of the men's club of the church, at which all of the members of the church and the public have been invited. Supper will be served from 5 to 7:30 o'clock. Louis Franz, 7841 Indiana avenue, is president of the club.

SOUTH SIDE WOMEN TO SEE LEGISLATIVE WHEELS GO AROUND

Members of the Illinois League of Women Voters will hold their second legislative citizenship schools next Wednesday and Thursday at Springfield, Ill. The purpose of the schools is to enable the state board of directors and representatives of chapters to watch the legislature at work so that they may more thoroughly understand what is involved in the making of Illinois laws.

MRS. QUINCY WRIGHT. [Moffett Photo.]

The schools have been arranged to coincide with hearings on bills which the league has indorsed. These bills include one providing for women to serve on juries, the bill which proposes to increase the state school fund, and the Cook county and sanitary district civil service bills.

South Side women who will represent their leagues at the school next Wednesday and Thursday are Mrs. W. Norman Graham, Mrs. Venning Dodge Simons Jr., Mrs. William Rothmann, Mrs. J. Scott Matthews, Mrs. C. I. Palmer, Mrs. Quincy Wright, and Miss Emily Taft.

LINDBLOM GIRLS TO DANCE FOR VISITORS

More than 5,000 persons are expected to attend the open house celebration at Lindblom High school, 62d and Lincoln streets, Friday evening. Three programs of one hour each will be presented in the auditorium by the students. These programs will include dancing numbers, a style show, and songs by the boys' and girls' glee clubs. The picture above shows members of a ballet. Standing, left to right: Miss Veronica Fentick, Miss Minerva Stenn, Miss Eunice Noble. Seated: Miss Stella Spoo.

Lorado Tafts to Be Hosts to Illinae Club

Mr. and Mrs. Lorado Taft will be hosts to the members of the Chicago Illinae club at the annual south side gathering to be held Saturday afternoon at Mr. Taft's studio, 6016 Ellis avenue. Mr. Taft was host at a similar affair given two years ago in his studio rooms and, as before, will conduct the guests through his workshop, explaining various phases of the sculptor's art.

Of especial interest will be the showing of several bronze figures to be used in one of his masterpieces, the "Alma Mater," which is to be dedicated on the University of Illinois campus in Urbana in June in commemoration of Mr. Taft's fiftieth anniversary as an alumnus of the university.

Committee to Assist.

Tea will be served from 3 to 5 o'clock and assisting Mr. and Mrs. Taft in the receiving line will be Miss Alice Howe, 10233 South Wood street, president of the club; Mrs. Howard McLane, 6506 South Troy stret, chairman of the afternoon; Mrs. Charles F. Pillsbury, 10451 South Seeley avenue; Miss Darley Thomas, 1615 Hyde Park boulevard· Miss Mary Bransfield, 4748 Woodlawn avenue, Mrs. H. F. Partridge, 6621 Yale avenue, and Miss Nellie V. Walker, Mr. Taft's secretary.

Other officers of the Chicago club are Mrs. A. M. Hauser, 328 Washington boulevard. Oak Park, vice president; Mrs. George Winterhalter, 422 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, recording secretary; Mrs. R. E. Schreiber, 1650 Sherwin avenue, treasurer, and Mrs. E. L. Kemp, 8157 Ingleside avenue, corresponding secretary.

Four Events a Year.

There are more than 1,800 alumnae living in Chicago and its suburbs and, as in former years, it is the custom to hold four events each year. Early in the fall a tea was held on the north side, the first of this year Mrs. A. M. Hauser was hostess at a card party in Oak Park, and this third gathering, held on the south side, will be followed by the annual spring luncheon, the date and place to be announced later.

CO-ED MODELS SHOW HOW SMART CO-ED WILL DRESS

Co-eds modeled co-ed clothes at the annual University of Chicago spring luncheon and style show in the Wedgewood tea room at Marshall Field & Co.'s last week. More than 150 girls attended.

Outfits complete to the last accessory for afternoon, evening and sports were shown by Miss Jane Blocki, Miss Frances Dee, Miss Courtney Montague, and Miss Mae Carolyn Frost, all students at the university. A talk on the spring mode accompanied the show.

Miss Priscilla Kellogg was in charge of the affair, assisted by Miss Margaret Pringle. Mrs. Edith Foster Flint, chairman of the Woman's University council, and Miss Elsa Chapin of the English department were special guests.

Boys Form Stamp Club at Grand Crossing Park

A stamp club has been organized at Grand Crossing park, 78th street and Ingleside avenue, under the direction of A. R. Leyden. Sam Casman, 917 East 78th street, is serving as temporary chairman of the group and William Winters, 7355 Evans avenue, is secretary. The other members who are enrolled are William Hennan, 7502 Paxton avenue; Alfred Jordensen, 6017 Calumet avenue; L. Tomlinson, 7719 Rhodes avenue; P. Buckner, 7217 St. Lawrence avenue; Carl Sanderson, 7716 Rhodes avenue; and James Walters, 7832 Drexel boulevard.

DOTY TO TELL OF HIS EXPERIENCES IN FRENCH LEGION

Thrilling experiences as a member of the French Foreign Legion will be told by Bennett J. Doty at the Ridge Community Center lecture forum, held in Blackwelder hall of the Morgan Park High school, 110th street and Hermosa avenue Tuesday evening at 8:15 o'clock.

During the war, Doty served in France with the American Expeditionary Force. Soon after he enlisted with the Foreign Legion and within a few months, was the recipent of the Croix de Guerre for his gallantry. Then followed a period of inactivity and Doty, dissatisfied, deserted his post.

The story of his capture, until the time of his pardon is fielled with thrilling details, and it is these facts that he will relate to his audience on Tuesday evening.

South Side Art Group Sponsors Exhibit Today

The South Side Art association is sponsoring a preview exhibition of paintings and sculptures in the Cambridge club gallery, 53d street and the lake, from 3 until 6 o'clock this afternoon. All of the exhibits will be the work of south side artists. A twilight musicale and tea will follow the art exhibit.

St. Bernard's Auxiliary to Name Officers Wednesday

The annual election of officers of St. Bernard's Hospital auxiliary will be held at a meeting at 2 o'clock Wednesday in the auxiliary room of the convent. Mrs. Mary B. Finan, 6931 Yale avenue, has been president for the last year.

LITTLE FLOWER GROUP TO STAGE MINSTRELS TODAY AND TONIGHT

Lauretta and May, Kennedy Sisters, Irish dancers, will be among the headliners of "Irish Minstrels" to be staged under the auspices of the Little Flower branch of the Holy Name society at St. Brendan's auditorium this afternoon and evening. The show is under the direction of James Shafer and the cast will also include George Miller, Ned Melroy, Bill Powderly, Eleanor Masquelet, Rae Ryan, Eddie Downs and Dave Donigan. The Rev. Stephen McMahon is pastor of Little Flower church.

Women Voters' Card Party.

Members of the South Shore League of Women Voters will hold a card and bunco party Wednesday afternoon at the Windsor Shore club, 7526 Yates avenue. Mrs. J. W. Steigely is chairman of the committee in charge.

COMMITTEES OF WEST BEVERLY GROUP SELECTED

At a meeting of the West Beverly Manor Improvement association held last week, committee chairmen were appointed by the president, Henry J. Geringer. The organization was formed less than a month ago, with a membership of 26 and already it is nearly doubled in size.

Mrs. Lester S. Petersen is chairman of alleys, streets, and street lighting; Harry F. Ortmann, water, sewers, and sidewalks; Frank J. Foersch, transportation; Edmund G. MacCombie, police and fire, and Robert A. Gradwell, boulevard, small parks, and schools.

The members have been assured of two mail deliveries each day and are now taking steps to get police protection for the district. Acute interest is being taken in the zoning proposition on Artesian avenue. The members are asking for a rezoning of this street from 103d to 105th for bungalows. It was recently zoned for apartments.

An effort is also being made to obtain stop and go lights at 103d street and Western avenue in order to provide greater safety for children crossing Western avenue on their way to school.

Bryn Mawr Women's Club Hears Talk on Dance Art

"The Dance-Sister Art of Music" was the subject of a talk by Mrs. Marie E. Boissat at a meeting of the Bryn Mawr Women's club Monday afternoon at the Bryn Mawr Community church, 70th street and Jeffery avenue. The entertainment was furnished by the music committee of the club, which presented "The Evolution of Music in the World's Greatest Dances."

In the interim he devotes himself to building a new house of worship. Already with the aid of members of the congregation he has excavated the basement and finished the pouring of concrete for the foundation walls and floors. The basement measures 60x40. Now, before any further construction can proceed on the little church, the Rev. Cain Scott must have bricks. He figures about 35,000 will be needed. He is asking for contributions in lots of 1,000 or less from the good people of Morgan Park and Beverly Hills.

Edward Mostek and Steve Dineff are now called the Wright brothers of Argo, they having built the first flying machine in that community. It is a monoplane and valued by them at $1,000. They were eight months building it. It is powered with a 27 horse power Henderson motorcycle engine. They essayed trial flights last Saturday. Dineff, who had had no previous experience as pilot, made two short flights. Mostek, who had had four hours of flying instruction, tried his hand. He got off the ground, but the machine shot upward suddenly in a vertical flight and then made a nose dive, smashing its landing gear and propellor. They will make repairs and try again next week. They have named it "The Spirit of Argo," and say it won't be long till they are flying all over the country. Good luck, boys.

PARK ENGINEER EXPLAINS PLANS FOR LAKE DRIVE

Lynn White, chief engineer of the south park commission, presented an illustrated lecture on the new outer drive at the fathers' night meeting of the Wadsworth Parent-Teacher association meeting Monday evening in the school auditorium, 64th street and University avenue.

The program of entertainment included the "Zigzag Waltz" by the school orchestra, the "Skating Song" by the girls' chorus, musical numbers by the harmonica band under the direction of Miss Josephine Goodrich; "The Sandelwood Box," a one act play, directed by Miss Mary Chappell, and a group of vocal selections by a number of the pupils under the direction of Mrs. D. J. Seeney.

NAME 'GENERAL' THIS WEEK FOR TRACTION FIGHT

Southwest Siders Frame Demands.

The Southwest Federation of Improvement Clubs this week will select a spokesman who will represent the entire southwest side in demanding additional transportation for the district, according to M. A. Seymour, secretary of the group.

The organization intends to instruct its leader to direct his plea to the city council, the citizens' advisory committee on transportation, and possibly the Illinois commerce commission. Ald. Thomas F. Byrne [15th] has promised to coöperate in obtaining the improvements desired by the federation, which represents more than 5,000 residents.

There is at present only one car line of real use to residents of the western part of the federation's district between the south branch of the river, 79th street, and Western and Harlem avenues. The 63d street line is the only one serving the district from Crawford avenue to the city limits on the west, Mr. Seymour pointed out.

Two Fares on Archer Line.

The only other line going to the center of the city is on Archer avenue, and it ends at Cicero avenue, where a suburban line terminates, forcing residents in the west section to pay two fares in going downtown.

The federation intends to demand that users of the Archer avenue line west of Cicero pay only one fare, and that the establishment of more car lines and an "L" extension be initiated as soon as possible.

It is planned to work for the extension of the Crawford avenue line south from the river as soon as the bridge is completed; the paving and installing of a car line or feeder buses on 59th street from Kedzie avenue west to the city limits; and the cutting through of 71st street to Crawford avenue, where the proposed car line will proceed south to 79th street and thence west to the city limits.

Residents of the district want the Douglas park "L" line extended south from 18th and Paulina streets, to run west on Archer avenue to Kostner avenue, south on Kostner avenue to 65th street, and west on 65th street to Argo.

See Profits for Elevated.

Such a line would pay far better than the Westchester and Niles Center lines recently opened by the Rapid Transit company, members of the federation believe, because thousands of workers must be carried daily to the rapidly growing factory district in West Chicago Lawn and Clearing.

Representatives from the eighteen clubs which are members of the federation active in the work are: John Hunt, E. J. Zelhart, Walter M. Schenck, John Shewski, Arthur Dellinger, R. G. Crane, Arthur Sultan, H. E. Roach, Charles A. Beacham, Charles J. Cross, L. P. Romano, and Hannibal Muscato.

Officers of the federation are: President, John Krause; secretary, Mr. Seymour; and treasurer, Frank Youngs.

In addition to transportation facilities, the group needs street lights and a park located in the neighborhood of Cicero avenue and 63d street, Mr. Seymour said.

OFFICERS TO BE NOMINATED BY ENGLEWOOD CLUB

The Englewood Woman's club will hear the report of the nominating committee tomorrow morning and nominations for officers and directors may be made from the floor. There will also be other special business to be transacted and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance. This will be the last business meeting of the season, with the exception of the election of officers on April 8. Mrs. Willis E. Tower, 432 Normal parkway, will preside.

In the afternoon the program will be under the direction of Mrs. G. Henry Mundt, 7000 South Shore drive, chairman of music. Miss Julie Adams will give current events and Miss Alma G. Wrede will present several piano selections.

Announcement is made of the annual spring luncheon to be held Monday, April 1, at the Palmer House and tickets are now on sale and reservations may be made.

Members of the club will attend an organ recital to be given by Miss Tina Mae Haines Friday afternoon at the St. James Methodist church, 46th street and Ellis avenue.

CONCERT TO AID PRESBYTERIAN BUILDING FUND

A concert for the benefit of the building fund of the First Presbyterian church next Thursday evening in the church auditorium, 64th street and Kimbark avenue, is being sponsored by the woman's association of the church.

The Swift company male chorus, under the direction of D. A. Clippinger, and Adelbert Huguelet, pianist, and Gilbert Ford, tenor, will give the program.

Mrs. M. L. Traynor is general chairman of the concert, assisted by Mrs. O. K. Tomson. Mrs. George H. Greenfield and Mrs. William H. Boddy are press chairmen; Mrs. Rowland M. Smith is in charge of the ticket sale, Mrs. George W. McKenna, programs; Mrs. Robert W. Martin, ushers; and Mrs. Harley Graham, of the dinner to be served to the chorus.

St. Patrick's Eve Dance.

The Garden Homes Improvement association gave a St. Patrick's dance last evening in the Community House, 8729 State street.

FORMING GROUP TO GUARD AREAS OF BOTH RACES

Kiwanis Clubs Start Interracial Committee.

Four south side Kiwanis clubs last week adopted a plan for the organization of a committee of representative business men to meet with a number of colored business men at regular intervals to discuss territorial restriction problems.

The plan, which was suggested by Michael Montague, 4936 Forrestville avenue, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Hyde Park Kiwanis club, provides for a committee composed of two men from each of the four Kiwanis clubs on the south side, Woodlawn, Englewood, Hyde Park, and Garfield districts, and one leading business man outside the Kiwanis organizations from each district. Twelve representatives of the colored districts will be chosen by a prominent Negro business man.

Two Groups Ready to Appoint.

Dr. Paul M. Oliver, 841 East 63d street, president of the Hyde Park Kiwanis club, declared that the plan was a feasible one, and said that he would appoint the two representatives of his organization within the next few days. W. A. Stambach, 5600 Wentworth avenue, president of the Garfield club, has also agreed that the plan was a good one and he, too, will make his appointments this week.

Charles Brown, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Englewood Kiwanis club, was named as a representative of that organization by Raymond Crist, president, at Tuesday's meeting. The other representative, Mr. Crist said, will be appointed at the meeting of the club next Tuesday.

According to Earl Keath, president of the Woodlawn Kiwanis club, the board of directors of that organization, at a meeting last week, voted in favor of the plan, and Mr. Keath will name the Woodlawn representatives at the Wednesday meeting.

Plan Several Meetings a Year.

Mr. Montague, in discussing the features of his plan at a meeting of the combined memberships of the Englewood and Woodlawn clubs last week, asserted that the work of the committee, which would meet several times each year, would tend to better living conditions for the members of the Negro race and that the restriction problems could be worked out in a manner satisfactory to both sides.

He declared that frequent moving of colored residents is caused largely by encroachments of disorderly houses operated by white persons in the communities in which the colored people live. If the committee, said Mr. Montague, would demand that disorderly houses operated by white persons be compelled to close their doors, members of the Negro race would be content with the neighborhoods in which they now live and the entire restriction problem would be virtually solved.

YATES SCHOOL PATROL BOYS TO RECEIVE BELTS

Sam Browne belts and raincoats will be presented to the twenty-two boys who make up the safety patrol of Richard Yates school by the Parent-Teacher association at a special meeting Friday evening in the school auditorium, 1839 North Richmond street.

Mrs. Rudolph W. Dyke, president of the parents' organization, will make the presentation. Miss Esther Perry Hornbaker, principal of the school, is chairman of the group's safety committee. Frank A. Bentley of the Austin Parent-Teacher association will address the meeting on "Our Responsibilities as Fathers."

At the regular Wednesday afternoon meeting this week the nominating committee, headed by Mrs. E. Degischer, will present the slate of officers for the coming year. Election will not occur until April, followed by installation in May.

Normal Park Presbyterian Fathers and Sons to Dine

Dr. Clair Boyd Gahagan will be the guest speaker Tuesday evening at the annual father and son banquet to be held at the Normal Park Presbyterian church, 71st street and Yale avenue. Representing the fathers of the community, M. J. Archbold, 6953 Parnell avenue, will speak. Trevor Williams, 146 West 70th street, will speak for the sons. The Parker High school quartet will sing, and the Rev. A. O. Hjerpe, 7446 Phillips avenue, will lead community singing. The dinner will be served by members of the Tuesday Evening Sewing circle.

Gresham Chapter, O. E. S., to Celebrate Birthday

The third birthday anniversary party will be celebrated by Gresham chapter, O. E. S., tomorrow evening in the lodge hall, 87th and Vincennes avenue. Mrs. Anna Muller, 7835 Bishop street, known as mother of the chapter, and William Prescott, 8830 Halsted street, first worthy patron, will be in the east. Mrs. Paul Lorenz, 8110 Morgan street, worthy patron, is chairman of a program to be given at the close of the meeting.

Quotation—There are no snakes in Ireland.

[It has been impossible to determine the origin of this expression as it is worded. In view of this and of the variety of the answers received it has been determined not to award a prize, but simply to present representative answers. They are given below.]

Eddy J. McHale, 2627 Jackson boulevard, Chicago—In the early history of England there was a monk named Bede who found time to write much poetry and volumes about science, music and medicine. At length the king of Northumbria asked him if he would write a history on the church in England. It is almost the only book that tells us about the early days of Britain and we have to select what is probably true and what was only hearsay. This is the book that says there are no snakes in Ireland and it goes further, for it says that the smell of the air kills them and that if a person bitten by a serpent will only swallow a few scrapings from an Irish book he will be cured.

Edith L. Reid, 404 Spalding building, Portland, Ore.—In Bede's Ecclesiastical History, chapter I, he says: "No reptiles are found there (Ireland) and no snakes can live there, for, though snakes are often carried thither out of Britain, as soon as the ship comes near the shore and the scent of the air reaches them they die."

Adele W. Sabath, 3415 West Adams street, Chicago—I am sure that this quotation should read: "There are no snakes in Iceland," instead of "Ireland." The sentence was used by Samuel Johnson, one of the most distinguished English writers of the 18th century. I quote from Boswell's "Life of Johnson": "On Monday, April 13 (1778), I dined with Johnson at Mr. Langton's, where were Dr. Porteus, then bishop of Chester, now of London, and Dr. Stinton. He was at first in a very silent mood. Before dinner he said nothing but 'Pretty baby' to one of the children. Langton said very well to me afterward that he could repeat Johnson's conversation before dinner, as Johnson had said that he could repeat a complete chapter of 'The Natural History of Iceland,' from the Danish of Horrebow, the whole of which was exactly thus: 'Chapter LXXII. Concerning Snakes: There are no snakes to be met with throughout the whole island.'"

Martha F. Harness, 3308½ Maypole avenue, Chicago—Tish, a character in the book of that name by Mary Roberts Rinehart, used this quotation in chapter I, part 4. She says to her friend, Lizzie, as they are talking about worms and fishing rods relative to their trip to Canada: "There are no worms in Canada, Lizzie, just as there are no snakes in Ireland."

NOTE—Several readers have pointed out that the legendary banishment of snakes from Ireland by St. Patrick may have furnished the foundation for the saying. St. Patrick, sent to Ireland in 432 A. D. by Pope Celestine, converted the island to the Christian faith and with the assistance of his followers made it the center of western culture for several centuries. He died at Saul, Downpatrick, on March 17, 493.

Bede, surnamed "the venerable," was born about 673 and died in 735. The "Ecclesiastical History of England" was written in the seclusion of his cell. It was translated from the Latin into Anglo-Saxon by King Alfred.

Old Time Steps Will Be Revived at Dance Saturday

Another "hard time" dance will be held by the South Side Old Time Dance club, Saturday evening, in Viking temple, 69th street and Emerald avenue. The square dance, schottische, rye waltz, Virginia reel, and two step will be among those arranged for lovers of old time dances. Ira J. Kunze, 6749 Wentworth avenue, is president of the club.

Morrill P.-T. Association Hears Commissioner Kegel

Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, health commissioner of Chicago, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Morrill Parent-Teacher association Monday afternoon in the school auditorium, 60th and Rockwell streets. Mrs. George Morgan, 6321 Talman avenue, president, was chairman of the meeting.

CALUMET HIGH P.-T. WILL GIVE MOVIE BENEFIT

"Wild Orchids," a motion picture featuring Lewis Stone and Greta Garbo, will be screened as a benefit for the parent-teacher association of Calumet Senior High school at the Capitol theater, 79th and Halsted streets, tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and evenings. 'Specialty acts" also will be offered, it was announced.

The proceeds will be used for the purchase of school equipment, Mrs. Robert C. White, 7703 South Peoria street, ways and means chairman in charge of the benefit, announced. The student council will be in charge of the sale of tickets within the school. Mrs. William G. Booth, 7536 Eggleston avenue, is president of the parent-teacher group.

The association recently has purchased instruments for the school band, equipped the stage, and made expenditures for welfare work, Mrs. White said.

HAMILTON PARK WOMEN TO HEAR TINA MAE HAINES

Mrs. T. J. Curtin, 7326 Calumet avenue, chairman of the department of music of the Hamilton Park Woman's club, will present Miss Tina Mae Haines, lecturer and organist, in a lecture recital, Tuesday morning at the Hamilton Park field house. Assisting Miss Haines will be Michel Wilkomirske, violinist.

In the afternoon, Branson de Cou will lecture on "Dreams of European Wonderlands." Mrs. E. E. Takken, 1428 East 69th street, is chairman of the art department, and will have charge of the afternoon session.

Mrs. W. L. Waterhouse, 6902 Paxton avenue, is luncheon chairman of the day, and Mrs. J. F. Groves, 7838 Aberdeen street, chorus director, will lead the regular rehearsal at 1 o'clock.

Friday afternoon Mrs. F. N. Lenhof, 7436 Bennett avenue, was hostess to the members of the book circle, and on April 19, the circle will meet at the home of Mrs. F. C. Francis, 7105 Princeton avenue.

Morgan Park High Club Holds St. Patrick Party

Members of the Literary club of Morgan Park High school held a St. Patrick's day party in the social hall of the school, 110th street and Hermosa avenue. Jack Halliday, 1647 West 99th street, was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

OPPOSE CLOSING 2 STREETS WITH SCHOOL BUILDING

Chicago Lawn Groups to Suggest Other Sites.

Protesting against the site selected for a new high school, representatives of the South Hamlin Avenue and Vicinity Property Owners' association and the West Lawn Real Estate Men's association met with the board of education Monday afternoon.

J. H. MAIER. [A. Beinemann photo.]

The board has chosen a fifteen acre site extending from 60th street to 61st place and from Springfield avenue to a line 125 feet east of Crawford avenue. Representatives of the two associations protested that use of this site would be detrimental to the district because it would necessitate closing 60th place and 61st street.

J. H. Maier, president of the real estate group, pointed out that the business men and property owners were opposed only to use of this site and not to the construction of the new high school.

Points to Other Sites.

He declared that the board of education now has possession of more than 47 acres of improved and unimproved property within a radius of one half mile from Crawford avenue and 63d street, the main business intersection in the community.

"The 800 feet of vacant property," said Mr. Maier, "which would remain after the construction of the high school, and which under ordinary conditions would be considered valuable business property, would be almost worthless. Those fifteen acres can be sold for apartment houses and individual homes and that is what we need to bring people to the community."

Will Seek Other Sites.

Representatives of the local organizations plan to make a survey of possible high school sites in the community and request that officials of the board tour the neighborhood and inspect the sites proposed.

Included on the committee which appeared before the board Monday were: Mr. Maier, William F. Stelzer, president of the Property Owners' association; John Wallace, H. T. Effingham, Peter Wolf, William F. Jasmund and Arthur A. Rinck.

CHILD PICTURES WIN TRIBUNE PRIZES

First prize in The Tribune's contest for amateur photographers of the south side was awarded this week to Mrs. Lida L. Dick, 10047 Wentworth avenue, for a picture of Luella Elaine Dick ready for a stroll with her doll carriage. The second prize of $3 went to Mrs. W. Eastman, 1418 East Marquette road, for a picture of her son, Robert, at Jackson park lagoon. J. M. Ramsay, 24 East 99th street, won the third prize of $2 with a picture of Donald Ramsay, 20 months old, taking his morning exercises.

Spring? Say It with Pictures and Win Prizes

In the spring a photographer's fancy turns to pictures of the first robin, early gardens, Mary and Jane skipping rope and evidences of spring fever.

The Metropolitan section of The Tribune now offers prizes weekly for spring pictures. The Tribune will pay $5 for the best photograph on this general subject taken by an amateur. It will pay $3 for the second best and $2 for the third best.

Address pictures to Photo Contest, Metropolitan section of The Tribune. The name and address of the photographer should be written plainly on the back of the print as well as the names of all persons in the picture.

The contest is open only to amateurs and the editor will be final judge. Theme, treatment, and clearness of the print all will be taken into consideration. No pictures will be returned.

CIVIC LEADERS ASKED TO ADVISE IN STREET WORK

Expected to Stimulate Neighborhood Pride.

The coöperation of south side business and civic groups in outlining this year's street repairing program of the department of public works will be sought this week by Commissioner Richard W. Wolfe.

Many of the larger groups in all parts of the city will receive letters inviting them to send representatives to meet with him and discuss the disposition of the vehicle tax fund. Such south side organizations as the Englewood Business Men's association, the South Shore, Greater South Side, and South End Chambers of Commerce, and the Stony Island Business Men's association will receive invitations.

Helpful Suggestions Expected.

"Local groups are entitled to know the details of the department's repairing program, and many suggestions should originate in the proposed meetings. In addition to the direct benefit, such a procedure is certain to prove educational and will make residents of the outlying districts understand more intelligently the workings of the department," the commissioner says.

Although local groups may act only in an advisory capacity in the matter of distribution of the vehicle tax funds, the survey of the department will be made public within a few days, and members of these groups should be in a position to make recommendations and point out oversights or errors on the part of engineers of the department, the commissioner believes.

Byrne to Establish Contacts.

In addition to being advised as to the repairing program, cleanliness of streets in the various districts should also be a concern of the organizations, the commissioner says. Thomas H. Byrne, superintendent of streets, has been directed to establish contact with the groups and work with them through the ward superintendents.

The commissioner's letter to Mr. Bryne read as follows:

"Local business and improvement organizations are primarily interested in improving conditions in their respective districts.

"It is my desire and direction that the various district superintendents of the bureau of streets establish a closer contact and coöperation with the organizations in their respective wards, especially in the matter of cleaning streets and alleys, removal of garbage and miscellaneous wastes and the enforcement of sanitary ordinances relating thereto, to the end that neighborhood pride be stimulated and the city thereby helped in its endeavor to keep the city clean."

MEETING CALLED BY ARCHERY CLUB TO PLAN TOURNEY

The Chicago Archery club, a south side organization with a history covering half a century, has called a pep meeting for Thursday evening at 6816 Perry avenue. The president, K. L. Hartshorn, 2727 West 107th street, will preside.

On August, 1930, the 50th national archery tournament will be held on or near their range in Washington park. This is to commemorate the first national tournament which was held at the old White Stockings park in 1879. Among the most active at that time were Henry C. Carver, A. G. Spaulding, and Edward L. Brewster. All three of these men were officers of the Chicago club, which is the oldest club in the country.

S. T. Baker, 3225 West 66th place, is vice president of the Chicago club; H. S. Rogers, 6522 Greenwood avenue, secretary and treasurer; M. P. Betts, 7030 Perry avenue, captain of the greens and in charge of the tournaments, and 2Mrs. E. E. Enos, 6816 Perry avenue, lady paramount and in charge of the women's tournaments.

McCOY TRACTOR HAS BIG THRILL FOR ITS MAKERS

Expert Tells How Ship Can Be Built.

This week Mr. Hamburg tells you how to build the championship indoor tractor. If you have questions on its construction, or on aeronautics, write him (inclosing a 2 cent stamp for reply) at A. M. L. A. headquarters, American Boy building, 2d and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich.

BY MERRILL HAMBURG.
[Secretary Airplane Model League of America.]

ERNEST McCOY.

This article is the story of a model builder who wanted to smash a world's record—and of his success.

Last year Ernest McCoy, a member of the Airplane Model League of America—sponsored in this territory by THE TRIBUNE—had built the indoor model generally known as the best flyer. But he wanted an improved model. "Big ships use cambered wings," he figured. "Why shouldn't a small one?"

So he experimented endlessly; and at length he discovered that a model with a cambered wing and reverse camber for the tail had more lift and was capable of more duration than the flat-wing model. He flew his ship, at the national contests in Detroit held by the American Boy magazine, to the new world's record—331.1 seconds. This article tells you how to build a similar ship.

McCoy's Material.

McCoy, in building his model, used these materials: a balsa wing spar 1-16x⅜x19 inches; a balsa motor stick, ¼x¼x15 inches; flat balsa for tail and rudder frame and wing ribs 1-32 inch thick; balsa propeller block, ½x1½x12 inches; a drilled thrust bearing; two brass washers; wire parts [propeller shaft, rear hook, S-hook, open-side can, two wing clips]; rubber motor, ¼x1402x31 inches; Japanese imperial tissue, 10x21 inches; ambroid cement and banana oil.

You'll find all of these materials in the special A. M. L. A. kit which you may obtain for 85c from league headquarters. To obtain the kit, No. 10, send 85c in check or money order to the supply department, A. M. L. A., American Boy building, Second and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich.

The kit will also include some additional materials—materials for making a different type of motor stick. But don't try that yet. THE TRIBUNE will tell you how to make the change next week. You'll want to test the ship out thoroughly first, as did McCoy.

Motor Stick First.

Your first job is to prepare the motor stick. Sand it down to the size the drawing indicates, and attach the metal parts with ambroid. This is a simple job.

Now you are ready for the tail group. The stabilizer is rectangular, hence slightly less efficient than a rounded tip surface; but it has an all balsa frame, and this is lighter than bamboo. Both the fin and the stabilizer are fastened to the fuselage by setting the connecting members into grooves cut into the end of the motor stick; thus they are flush with the stick. Notice that the base of the fin is set at a slight upward angle to permit the rear spar of the stabilizer to come up even with the front spar—otherwise the whole tail would be set at a positive angle of incidence that would prevent the ship from climbing.

The fin is not hard to build. The drawing shows its dimensions. Its bottom spar is 2½ inches longa, so that it can be set ½ inch into the motor stick groove cut for it.

Next, the Stabilizer.

Next, the stabilizer. It has a reverse camber, you recall. Its ribs are all of balsa, and you curve a piece of 1-32 inch flat balsa, about ⅝x2 inches, over a teakettle's steam jet to make them. The curve is that of a perfect arc, 3-16 inch deep. Once the piece is curved, cut it to the 1¾ inch length and split it into five identical ribs. Make the two 6 inch spars, then assemble the frame with ambroid —"butt joint" the ribs to the spars. Ambroid the leading edge of the stabilizer into the groove cut in the motor stick, and the trailing edge to the base of the fin. Cover both fin and stabilizer [on the lower side] with paper, using banana oil as the adhesive, and this part of the model is complete.

The wing curve given [see the diagram] is the median line of the Clark-Y airfoil, or wing section. The diagram shows the exact size of the wing, so you may bend your balsa ribs to fit the diagram. Perhaps, though, you'll want to experiment with a different curve—McCoy doesn't claim his as the one and only!

The method of making and assembling the wing is much the same as that you used in building the stabilizer. Use extreme care to get it absolutely accurate. Probably you'll want to bend the long piece from which the wing spars are to be cut before you split it—thus you'll put exactly the same degree of dihedral angle into each spar.

Then the Propeller.

Cover the wing, once the frame is completed, and ambroid the wing clips to it. It is wise to be sure the wing clips fit the motor stick before you attach them, however. You'll save yourself trouble.

Your last job is to make the propeller. It is carved from a balsa block ½x1¼x12 inches—an unusually large prop for this type of plane, hence one which must be made paper-thin. The Manual gives you details of all the steps in its carving. Don't forget that you want it to be the best made prop you've ever completed—so thin, if it's properly done, that you can bend the blade backward and forward at least two inches without breaking it. Except at the hub, it should never exceed 1-32 inch in thickness.

Now attach your prop, hook up the rubber motor, and fasten the wing to the motor stick with its clips. See how it glides. Adjust the wing, as you have learned to do on smaller models, for the best position. Try the ship with relatively few turns on the prop.

Real Thrill in Store.

When you've made these trials satisfactorily, get ready for a real thrill. Find yourself the biggest hall available. Wind your motor 1,200 turns. Be sure the hall isn't drafty—and set the ship off!

When it comes to earth, chances are excellent that you will have established a new record for yourself.

Next week THE TRIBUNE is going to tell you how to vary the McCoy ship—how to change the motor stick to a lighter and stronger one. Don't miss the instructions.

CHRISTIAN HIGH BOYS AND GIRLS IN FLAG CONTEST

Englewood Post Launches Annual Event.

The boys and girls of the Chicago Christian High school are busy these days answering the seventy-five questions of the first annual flag contest recently launched by the Englewood Legionnaire, voice of Englewood post, No. 61, of the American Legion.

The school group, having organized, has chosen John Hulzenga as chairman and Anjean Iwema as secretary. H. A. Swets is head of the high school unit. Judges for the girl contestants are Miss E. Zwier, Miss A. Hammerkool, and Miss C. Bos. Judges for the boy contestants are H. Muow, W. Kooistra, and A. Lanning.

The Chicago Christian High school is a private institution sponsored by a city-wide organization which draws its membership from the two Dutch Reformed denominations in Chicago and vicinity. It is interdenominational in character and has about 350 pupils enrolled who are graduates of about nine Christian grammar schools located in various parts of the city.

A coming event with Englewood post is an entertainment de luxe planned for the night of April 5. It will be for members and obligated candidates only.

Owing to the fact that a larger hall could not be obtained in the Midway temple for the evening originally planned, Square post, No. 232, has postponed its "Big Wreck" until Monday, April 1. A large class of candidates is said to be waiting for the "zero hour." The Wreck will be held in hall No. 1, at Midway temple. Square post extends an invitation to all Legionnaires to attend the event. Tomorrow night Square post will hold an open meeting, Philip Yarrow, superintendent of the Illinois Vigilance Association, Inc., being the speaker. There will be other entertainment, and "chow" will be served.

Jackson park Post, No. 555, held an open meeting Friday night at the Southmoor hotel. The speaker was James W. Mulroy, and several acts of vaudeville furnished a side attraction. A buffet supper was served.

Under the auspices of Hyde Park Post, No. 34, a championship basketball game between the national girls' champions, the Taylor Trunks and the May and Malone girls' teams will be held Tuesday night at the White City basketball court, 63d street and South Park avenue. There will be a preliminary game between two winning teams of the American Legion junior basketball tournament. This game will be at 8 o'clock.

Ernie Booth has been appointed custodian of the properties of the South Shore post band.

Commander L. M. Hanna thanks his comrades of Van Buren post, No. 401, for their efforts in adding 173 members to the post and thus winning the sixth district prize. An entertainment for ex-service men only is to be held by the post on Sunday afternoon, March 24. The meeting will be in honor of the new members.

From Advertising Men's post, No. 38, comes this announcement: "Members of the post have un grande opportunity to dust off the trigger and exercise the white o' their eyes in a post rifle club which is being formulated. Those interested call S. S. Bolton or leave their names with the adjutant."

On Thursday last, Chicago Loop post, No. 144, began holding its weekly luncheons at the Great Northern hotel. The post will have a private room for these luncheons, which will enable members to enjoy speakers and other entertainment each week.

Advertising Men's post, No. 38, will have Howard E. Taylor for a speaker at its meeting tomorrow in the Louis XVI. room at the Hotel Sherman. Mr. Taylor, manager of Berea college, Berea, Ky., will talk on "Day Break in the Mountains." His story, it is announced, "is of the sort to hold his listeners spellbound."

At the monthly meeting of Marine post, No. 273, to be held at the club rooms at the Auditorium hotel tomorrow night, six new members of the executive committee will be elected to succeed the following retiring members: T. E. Donnelly, Spencer Jones, R. J. Stone, A. M. Benson, C. Wayland Brooks, and C. J. Devers.

Comrade Edward C. Bass writes that although Marines who served in France are a small percentage of the post membership, those who did are planning on this meeting for an unofficial anniversary jollification, for it was just eleven years ago on March 17 and 18 that Marine units of the second division moved up to the front in 1918." As usual, dinner will be served at 6:30 and the meeting will be at 8. Max Salovesh will sing "Ireland" in honor of March 17, and other entertainment has been arranged.

The Ladies' auxiliary of Chipilly post wil hold a St. Patrick's day party in connection with their regular meeting Monday night at the 131st infantry armory. One of the features of the meeting will be the reports from the "jockeys" in the membership race.

Trowel post will be host to the Seventh district at the monthly meeting on March 29. The place is North Center hall, 1940 Irving Park boulevard, and the meeting will be called at 8

Fort Dearborn post, No. 268, last night gave a St. Patrick's party at its headquarters, 6336 Cottage Grove avenue. Next Saturday night the post will give a Boy Scout party at its headquarters, the proceeds of which will be used to equip the scouts with instruments for their drum and bugle corps.

Veterans of the Second division from Chicago and nearby areas are to be hosts to Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone at a banquet in Hotel La Salle Wednesday evening, March 27. Gen. Malone, who has been in command of the central area, has been transferred to the Philippine islands where he will be commander.

March 27 will also mark the eleventh anniversary of the movement of the Second division into the trenches on an active front in the Toulon-Troyon sector, Gen. Malone at that time being in command of one of the regiments of the brigade which he later commanded.

Day of Music Is Observed by Woman's Club

An all day program was presented Tuesday for the members of the Park Manor Woman's club, under the direction of the music chairman, Mrs. J. W. Clarke, 6810 South Park avenue, in the clubrooms, 70th street and South Park avenue. Mrs. John F. McKeon, 1633 Hyde Park boulevard, president of the 2d district, was the special guest. In addition to being music day the day had also been designated as club guest day.

The program opened with community singing led by the director, Mrs. C. W. Laflin, followed by a short address of welcome by Mrs. W. F. Mulvihill, president of the club.

Musical Program Given.

Mrs. Vera Brady Shipman presented "Music as a Home Influence," and Mrs. Lia O'Kelly sang. Mrs. H. O. Blossatt, music chairman of the Bryn Mawr club, gave several poems to musical settings, and Mrs. Philip S. Blanchard gave interesting current events in music.

Miss Mildred Kjos, 11316 Edbrooke avenue, a student of the Sherwood Music school and an honor student at Fenger High school, played a group of piano selections.

Luncheon was served by the Woman's Aid society of the Park Manor Methodist church, and upon the return to the club rooms a concert was given by the 20 piece saxophone and clarinet band of the Englewood Conservatory of Music.

At the afternoon session Mrs. C. H. Woodward, chairman, Mrs. C. E. Rowe, and Mrs. C. M. Brading were designated the nominating committee, and Mrs. J. C. Young of the Englewood Woman's club, and music chairman of the second district, gave a short talk o nthe topic, "Poor Judg- short talk on the topic, "Poor Judg-

History of Music Traced.

Mrs. Sidney Warfel of Joliet gave a résumé of the history of music, dating from 3,000 B. C. to the modern jazz period, with illustrations at the piano. The Pullman Porter quartet brought numerous encores and Mrs. G. Lindberg sang "Trees." A clever duet, "No, Sir," was presented by Mrs. R. W. Horlick and Mrs. E. D. Lloyd. Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Lindberg, and Mrs. Blanchard, in a trio, sang, "The Banjo Song" and "I Pass by Your Window." The program closed with selections by the club chorus.

Lindblom P.-T. Holds Party.

Members of the Lindblom High School Parent-Teacher association held a bunco and card party and luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Walter Montgomery, 5529 South Artesian avenue.

ALDERMAN ELECT PLEDGES PAVING FOR 18TH WARD

Morris Promises Study of Transportation Needs.

"The paving of streets and alleys is the greatest need of the 18th ward and I am going to do all in my power to have that improvement made during my term as the representative of the property owners and residents of that ward."

This assertion was made last week by Walter F. Morris, recently elected alderman of the 18th ward, in announcing the program of ward improvements that he will work for in the city council during his term of office.

Mr. Morris declared that the present wheel tax distribution was not fair or practical and that it was because of the poor distribution that many of the wards were not receiving the improvements they needed.

Favors Return of 75 Per Cent.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Morris, "75 per cent of the wheel tax fund should revert back to the ward where it was collected to be used for the purpose of repairing streets and alleys in that locality under the supervision of the board of local improvements. In this way, each ward would have sufficient funds to pay for the repaving of streets and alleys and making other necessary repairs without compelling the city council to pass ordinances for those improvements and then wondering where the money for those improvements is coming from.

"Lighting facilities in the 18th ward are inadequate," Mr. Morris continued, "and with the aid of the business men of the ward, I hope to remedy that condition."

Mr. Morris declared that many business men have already come to him with a request to aid them in getting better transportation in the ward. Mr. Morris said that he would make a thorough study of the matter and if he finds that the need is as great as it is portrayed by the business men, he will attempt to convince the city council that it meet the demands of the people of his ward.

Cites Citywide Phase of Issue.

"I cannot promise any action on the transportation problem in my ward," said Mr. Morris, "because the transportation problem at the present time is a city-wide issue, and nothing can be done until the matter is thoroughly thrashed out by the city council and the officials of the Chicago Surface Lines."

Mr. Morris said that he would work for better school conditions in his ward. He pointed out that residents have also asked him to study overcrowded condition in two schools and to aid them in convincing the board of education that additions or new schools are the only solution.

Mr. Morris declared that he would urge the city council to compel the railroads to elevate their tracks on the south side.

Mr. Morris, who has lived in the 18th ward for more than twenty years, was one of the organizers of the Englewood Business Men's association and has served as a director of that organization since it was founded in 1917. For the last two and one-half years he has been secretary of that group.

He was vice president and is now director of the Englewood Kiwanis club and a member of the board of managers of the Englewood Y. M. C. A., 66th street and Union avenue.

WESTCOTT ANNEX TO BE DEMANDED AT MASSMEETING

Community Leaders Will Gather Wednesday.

The climax of a year's effort to obtain a substantial addition to Westcott Junior High school will be reached Wednesday night when business men, parents, teachers and community leaders will meet at the school building, 9233 Normal avenue. Joseph F. Connelly, superintendent of junior high schools, and Paul C. Herriott, candidate for alderman in the 19th ward, will be the leading speakers.

Formerly Housed Calumet High.

The Parent-Teacher association, of which Mrs. G. Merrill Youngbrantz is president, has been taking an active part in the agitation for the improvement. Robert G. Jeffery, principal of the school, has obtained the support of the Auburn Park Business Men's association, the East Auburn Park Improvement association, the Auburn Park Lions club and the Chatham Field Wert Business Men's association. Each organization will be represented at the meeting Wednesday night.

The present school, a red brick structure built about forty years ago, formerly housed the Auburn Park elementary school and Calumet High school. Upon completion of the new Calumet High shool in 1926, Westcott Junior High school was formed with an original attendance of 300 students drawn from Harvard, Oglesby, Gresham, Ryder and Hookway schools.

Shares Space with Hookway.

Although the student body has increased to 605 pupils in two years, it is not only the crowded classroom conditions which have aroused sentiment in favor of an addition but also the criticism that there is a lack of proper equipment for junior high school pupils.

Another condition not pleasing to the junior high school régime is the occupancy of four rooms in the building by Hookway Elementary school.

Among the improvements listed for the proposed new Westcott building are two gymnasiums, a swimming pool and library.

RIP VAN WINKLE TO WAKEN AGAIN AT OGDEN PARK

Neighborhood children will present the play, "Rip Van Winkle," Thursday at the fieldhouse in Ogden park, 65th street and Racine avenue, under the direction of Miss Henrietta Fetzer, dramatic supervisor for the south parks.

This afternoon the executive council of the drama department of the south parks will meet at the Windermere hotel with Miss Fetzer to work on a play which will be given at the fieldhouse Saturday, April 6. Miss Agnes Dax of Gage park, a member of the executive council, is the author of the play, which is called "A Pair of Gloves."

Plans will also be completed at the meeting today for a dance which the executive council will give at the Southmoor hotel April 10.

PRINCIPAL, GOING TO HIGHER POST, RECEIVES GIFT

Members of the Parent-Teacher association of Sawyer school presented to R. G. Jeffrey, former principal and now chief executive of Westcott Junior High school, a writing set at their meeting Friday in the school auditorium, 53d street and Sawyer avenue. Will J. Scott made the presentation.

Students of the school gave a musical program, assisted by the Lindblom High school band. Several new members were taken in at the meeting as a result of a drive under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. Wolfe.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the group plans were made for a dinner Monday, April 8, for the patrol boys of the school. A committee was authorized also to purchase new scenery for the school stage.

PROGRAM GIVEN BY PUPILS FOR HOWARD P. T. A.

Mrs. Herbert Whitney, 7702 Eggleston avenue, presided at the meeting of the Harvard Parent-Teacher association Friday afternoon. After a program by the children, Mrs. A. Lee Atvill, 508 Winneconna parkway, gave the report of the nominating committee. Serving on her committee were Mrs. Edward Manus, 7802 Normal boulevard; Mrs. William H. Rathburn, 7453 Stewart avenue; Mrs. Fred E. Kahl, 7301 Wabash avenue, and Mrs. Vito Botte, 22 West 76th street. Mrs. Charles H. Brown, chairman of the Ogden Park Welfare station, was the speaker of the afternoon. Miss Ruth Scott gave a vocal solo and Miss Janis Anderson, a reading. Both are pupils of the school.

Sawyer Community Center to Give Two Plays April 5

Members of the Sawyer Avenue Community center will present "A Borrowed Luncheon" and "An Uninvited Member," two one act plays, April 5 in the Sawyer avenue school auditorium, 53d street and Sawyer avenue. The players are: Miss Helen Plessar, Miss Ross Fine, Miss Mildred Lezow, Miss Bertha Lexow, Miss Eleanor Loula, Miss Phyllis Siegel, Miss Emily Friedl, Miss Ethel Sekora, Miss Moriel Davis, Miss Alice Stevens, Miss Elizabeth Kilarski, Miss Irene Karns, Miss Estelle Madej, and Miss Wanda Fagan.

Barton P.-T. Association Hears Mrs. E. W. Jackson

"Parent and Teacher Ideals" was the subject of an address by Mrs. Edward W. Jackson, director of the First congressional district of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, at the meeting of the Barton Parent Teacher association Thursday afternoon in the auditorium of the school, 71st and Lincoln streets.

BEVERLY GROUP WINS PROMISE OF NEW SCHOOL

Hears Report of Progress on Playground Move.

Plans to renew demands for an elementary school at 92d and Hamilton streets were discussed at a meeting of the Beverly Improvement association last week in the St. Paul Union church, 94th street and Winchester avenue.

Reports on the program of the contemplated 91st street playground and park, on the fight against zoning for apartment buildings and other matters in which the group is interested were given by the committee chairmen followed by election of new officers.

The association has been attempting for some time to have a school built on the proposed site, already owned by the city. According to members of the organization, board of education officials have promised them that one will be built within the next two years.

Seek to Avoid Crossing Tracks.

The school is needed here, members assert, because children who live in the vicinity of 91st and 92d streets must cross the Rock Island tracks at 95th street on their way to Vanderpoel school, 95th and Prospect avenue.

Victor H. Munnecke, chairman of the park committee, reported progress on the proposed 91st street playground and park. He pointed out that the unimproved block bounded by 91st and 92d street, the Rock Island tracks and Longwood drive has already been condemned by the Ridge Park board with the intention of using it for park purposes.

He reported that bonds have already been issued to provide the funds necessary to buy the land and pay for construction. Only four pieces of the condemned land remain unpurchased and prices of these will be settled in court shortly, according to Mr. Munnecke.

The zoning problems of the community have been handled in conjunction with the zoning committee of the Ridge civic council, with which the Beverly organization is affiliated. The zoning committee reported that it is aiding the other groups in the Ridge district in the fight to induce the city council not to pass the new zoning ordinance, which would allow the construction of apartment buildings in the community.

Weeds Cut Regularly.

Marshall D. Snedicor, vice chairman of the committee on streets, sidewalks and vacant lots, reported that the weeds in all of the vacant property of the district had been cut at regular intervals. Three cleanup days were held by the committee last year. Trucks were hired to go through the entire community and cart away rubbish which the residents had put out.

According to Mr. Snedicor, it was at the request of his committee that the Rock Island railroad maintenance department installed lights on the north end of the 95th street platform and constructed a wooden sidewalk over the tracks at 91st street.

Carl P. Morgan, chairman of the police protection committee, reported that several meetings were held during the last few months with Commissioner of Police William F. Russell in an attempt to get more police for the district. The constant effort, he said, resulted in the increased number of men patrolling the district at the present time. He also urged the members of the organization to make a strenuous effort to obtain a police station in the Beverly Hills neighborhood.

R. M. Bennett Named President.

R. M. Bennett, 9060 Peasant drive, was elected president of the organization for the coming year, at the election of officers following the reports of the various committees. Other officers elected were: Vice president, William Bethke, 9317 Robey street; treasurer, William L. Kleinz, 9346 Longwood drive; secretary, W. H. Bell, 9127 Hoyne avenue, and directors, Murray Hetherington, 8918 Hamilton street; Fred Sauer, 9450 Winchester street; Dr. Robert Boehm, 9403 Robey street, and J. L. Jacobs, president of the organization last year.

E. AUBURN PARK GETS SURVEY FOR STREET REPAIRS

Report of a comprehensive survey on the cost of resurfacing streets in the East Auburn Park district was made at a meeting of the East Auburn Park Improvement association Tuesday evening at the Auburn Park hospital by James P. McGee, engineer in the department of public works.

A strenuous campaign has been under way for several weeks for improvements in this district. On account of winter conditions the survey was postponed until just recently. Mr. McGee reported that the cost of resurfacing will vary from $1.85 to $5 a front foot. Asphalt, concrete asphalt and penetrating macadam were described to the property owners, the latter being the cheaper and favored by the majority present.

Until the legislature enacts the bill which will enable the board of public works to resurface streets by special assessment, no further action can be taken by the property owners. The streets reported in need of resurfacing are Eggleston and Normal from 75th to 79th streets, Fielding from 77th to 79th, 78th from Fielding to Normal, 77th from Fielding to Vincennes, and the two Winneconna parkways.

An effort is being made to have a policeman detailed to the park, to guard children from molestation and to prevent the dumping of rubbish into the lagoons.

A petition is being presented to the city council to have Stewart avenue made a through street. Since the resurfacing last summer, the traffic has increased to such an extent from 72d and 79th streets that this move is deemed advisable.

Dr. Frank Douglass, 7601 Stewart avenue, president, presided at the meeting.

THE CHUCKLE COLUMN

CHUCKLES.

The Tribune wants some smiles, chuckles, and hearty laughs for this column from the high school students of Chicago. Two dollars will be paid for each original contribution, joke, jingle, verse, or anecdote. Address them to the Metropolitan editor of The Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

A Sensational Success!

Scores of Neighborhood Merchants Cash in on the Tribune's New Low Cost Advertising Plan!

Retailers in Every Section of Chicago Test the Amazing Sales Power of the Chicago Sunday Tribune—And Find it the Greatest Profit-Maker in Existence!

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S new low-cost advertising plan has gone over with a bang!

Scores of merchants and retailers on all sides of the city have tried it out the past two Sundays. The results have been amazing!

Investing as little as $5—$10—$50—whatever they felt they wanted to invest for winning new business—they have seen their ads pay out and leave wide profit margins besides. Success has been limited to no class or kind of business—large stores and small stores alike have shared in the golden harvest opened up under the Tribune's brand-new advertising plan.

Today they are back for more! And why not! Their advertising pays for itself as it goes along. There's no fuss or bother or details to take their time. All they do is tell the Tribune to go ahead. And the Tribune does—and these alert merchants reap the benefits! Now is the time for you to make your start. For a few dollars—whatever you decide you are able to invest—you can place a strong, business pulling offer before almost every family on your side of the city.

Even if you should get only ten new customers for every thousand families your ad reaches, you can make big profits because the amount you invest is so little that you can't help but get it back plus a margin of profit.

Decide now to cash in on this new Tribune plan. Get the jump on your competition. Show your customers and your prospects that you are as progressive in your advertising methods as you are in your merchandising and retailing.

Call the Tribune tomorrow morning and get the complete details about Sunday Tribune advertising in the Metropolitan Section! Tear out the memo coupon now!

DEMAND RELIEF OF CROWDING IN ENGLEWOOD HIGH

Business Men Seek to Bar Nonresidents.

To relieve overcrowding at Englewood High school, 62d street and Stewart avenue, will be the principal effort of the members of the Englewood Commercial and Civic association during the next few months, according to Harry S. Himmel, president.

In outlining the organization's work, Mr. Himmel pointed out that more than 3,500 pupils are attending the high school, a far greater number than can be properly handled with the present facilities at the school. He asserted that 20 per cent of those 3,500 students live outside the Englewood district and attend the school with permits.

Ask Revocation of Permits.

Action on this matter has been started by a committee composed of James Hughes, Harry Johnson, and Mr. Himmel, who met with the board of education officials recently and asked revocation of all permits allowing outside residents to attend Englewood High school.

According to Mr. Himmel, William J. Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools, was very much in favor of aiding the Englewood business men to remedy the conditions and gave orders to revoke many of the permits.

"Many of the outside students have been transferred to schools in their districts," said Mr. Himmel, "but there are still some outside pupils attending the school because they have given false addresses. The board officials have agreed to investigate all addresses of the students, and I am sure that as a result many more pupils will be transferred to schools in their districts."

Demand Sidewalk Improvement.

Another problem confronting the members of the association is the bad condition of the sidewalks on 63d street, between Wentworth avenue and Wallace street.

Ban Lain, James Martin, and Frank Kellner, who compose the committee which is working on the improvement, have already met with Ald. James G. Coyle, representing the ward, and asked that he enter a resolution in the city council for the construction of new sidewalks, Mr. Himmel said.

Ald. Coyle agreed, according to Mr. Himmel, to ask the board of local improvements to investigate the matter and to introduce resolutions in the council for the construction of new sidewalks.

The association is working on a rezoning problem in the community. The present zoning ordinance prohibiting the construction of buildings more than three stories high is hampering development of the district, Mr. Himmel said.

Petitions Being Circulated.

Petitions are being circulated among the property owners of the territory bounded by 59th and 69th streets and Wentworth avenue and Wallace street by the association committee in charge of this work. The committee includes James Hughes, chairman; Nils Olsen, John McClun, Chester Whitley, and S. Horn.

The petitions will be collected within the next few weeks and will be presented at that time to the zoning committee of the city council.

CHURCH PLAYERS TONIGHT OFFER "NORA, WAKE UP"

The musical comedy, "Nora, Wake Up," will be presented tonight and tomorrow night by the St. Bernard Immaculata society at the Marlowe theater, 63rd street and Stewart avenue. The production is being coached by John J. McClure, 8026 Champlain avenue, and Miss Norene Mulvihill, 6546 Stewart avenue, organist at St. Bernard church, is musical director.

Soloists will be Miss Naomi Jefferson, and Miss Dorothy Carraher and Bobby Gaylor has been engaged as specialty dancer. Leonard Weed's orchestra will furnish the instrumental music.

The cast includes Miss Elizabeth O'Brien, 7324 Sangamon street; Miss Regina Maloney, 528 West 66th place; Miss Leona Rooney, 6446 Union avenue; Miss Ethel Clarihan, 6801 Lafayette avenue; Howard Wilbur, 426 West 67th street; William Keeley, 7004 South Michigan avenue; Ray Dundan, 7308 Indiana avenue; Donald Teban, 5817 Emerald avenue; Paul and Gerald Gallagher, 6514 Normal boulevard; Gail Bailey, 524 Englewood avenue; Misses Evelyn and Vera Moran, 6235 Emerald avenue; Bert Riley, 6836 Wentworth avenue; Francis Mathis, 7003 Emerald avenue; Francis Matthys, 6648 Parnell avenue; Jean Perlango, 6329 Eggleston avenue; Miss Mary Dore, 236 West 61st place; Miss Edna Thurston, 408 West 65th street; Misses Mary and Catherine McQuillan, 6345 Eggleston avenue; Harold Mullarkey, 646 West Marquette road; Miss Lora Thompson, 6415 Eggleston avenue; John O'Brien, 6847 Union avenue; Miss Veronica Eckles, Bert Vecaty, 6423 Parnell avenue, and Miss Helen Leary, 7106 Eggleston avenue.

Camp Fire Girls to Hold Grand Community Rally

A grand rally and community service program will be presented under the auspices of the Ogden Park troop of Camp Fire Girls this evening at the Ogden Park Methodist church, 63th street and Loomis boulevard. The program will consist of readings by Mrs. Marion Chase Schaffer, musical numbers by the Auburn Park Junior orchestra, and short addresses by the Rev. Charles H. Draper and Dr. M. Phillip Cannon.

CHAIN PROGRAMS THIS YEAR WILL COST 23 MILLION

To Be No Letdown During Summer Months.

New York, March 16.—Chain broadcasting has been definitely established on a twelve months a year basis and the listening public will be able to tune in this summer on programs the equal both in quality and number of those sent out over the air in the winter months. Widespread recognition of the important place that radio holds in the country today has been instrumental in abolishing the summer slump in broadcasting.

Sales figures of the big broadcasting chains indicate that hot weather programs this year will keep radio interest at a high pitch. Officials of the two leading broadcasting chains report that more than $23,000,000 will be invested by advertisers in chain program during 1929.

No Summer Sag.

The National Broadcasting company reports a sum in excess of $16,000,000 for chain programs for the current year, while Columbia's clients will spend close to $7,500,000 to entertain the radio public in 1929. Expenditures on programs over the summer period this year will be virtually as high as in the other seasons of the year, according to plans announced.

An analysis of expenditures for radio entertainment of previous years shows that a sharp sag in programs occurred in the summer months, the big features going into retirement with the advent of warm weather. That will not be the case this year, however, as sponsors of the most popular chain programs have definitely signified their intention of continuing their programs throughout the twelve months of the year.

Improvement Each Year.

Going back to 1925, the number of sponsored programs and the number of hours on the air showed a sharp decline as the hot weather increased. By 1927, however, some improvement was registered in the matter of better summer programs, the chain broadcasting companies reporting a greater call for service during June, July, and August. Last year the situation righted itself even more than in the preceding year, due largely to the part played by radio in the political campaign. This year, for the first time in the history of radio, the two large broadcasters of chain programs have committed themselves to present their biggest features straight through the year.

With a steady flow of quality entertainment over the radio during the summer months, together with the usual broadcasting of regular summer features in the realm of sport, activity in the radio industry promises to reach new heights in what formerly went for a quiet period.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

The country at large has taken quite a fancy to the sports announcer who has been allowed a few times to broadcast over one of the national chains. His name is Bill Munday of Athanta, Ga., and he crashed into popularity on New Year's day when the chain, for sectional good feeling purposes, let him describe parts of the Georgia football game in California. He was astounding to the radio audience, because, for an announcer extemporizing, he had a vocabulary. And in addition to his graphic formal vocabulary, he introduced a flock of colorful idioms of his own territory, such as "the crap-shootin' huddle."

Then, again, two weeks ago, he was allowed to squeeze in patter between rounds of the Stribling-Sharkey fight broadcast—and his interludes were the hit of the show, although he didn't have enough time to strut his stuff. After all, when a national chain is broadcasting to the whole nation, it's good advertising sense to include an announcer with a southern accent—to win over the audience in Dixie.

SOME DAY the short story writers will use the broadcaster's form for depicting drama in the present tense. The form we mean is an imaginary broadcast, of one of our horse races, for example. Would you like to hear a hoss race, e'en tho' this is the Sabbath? Let's go! Tune us in:

"There's the bugle call, summoning the horses to the post. My, this is a fine view we have for the race! Track spread out in front of us like a circle some boys have drawn in the dirt for a game of marbles. Look what great designs the landscape gardener has planted with his flowers out there in the parade ground, inside the track!

"Is it really warm, or do I just think it is? Some of the boys down in the paddock have their coats off. Grandstand's pretty well filled today. Now let's see—which are those horses ambling around the paddock for inspection?—gee, yes, this is the race that Phantom and Beau Brummel are in. They're saddling 'em now.

"Dandy looking hosses—look at 'em!—look at that head of Phantom's high up in the air, pretty ritzy! Wouldn't you like to be riding either of those thoroughbreds? It'd be like riding a skyrocket when they jump from the barrier.

"This Phantom is a deadly dude, the clockers' sheets say—one of them reports, 'Phantom, a whole basket of ripe peaches; a through train on a clear track; the answer to a jockey's prayer; he ran away with the whole darned Maypole dance at Pimlico; drop a few pennies in the tin cup on him, brother, and you'll be backing up a truck to the paying teller's window in the morning.'

"Let's see what the hooey is on Beau Brummel. 'Beau Brummel—here's a 1930 model—stream lines—and built for nothing but speed—he could win if he had to pull a pie wagon behind him—peel off a fin and hang it on his nose—if you'd like to cheer yourself up.'

"Here they come, now, out onto the track. Sammy, the post boy, is leading 'em out, on the white pony. Look at that crowd getting fidgety now—everybody getting up close to the rail. Phantom and Beau Brummel, and Phantom on the rail. That's Jockey Harry Spinggold up on Phantom, with the green cap and the black and white silks. Jockey Pete Squish is riding Beau Brummel, in a yellow shirt with blue dots. They're cavorting around down here in front of us, and the race is going to start to our left—both horses prancing and feeling skittish—now they're back of the tape line, and the boys are stretching the slender rubber across the track.

"In a minute now those electric levers on both rails will spring up—, and the race will be on! The assistant starters are pulling both nags up to the line—they'll get 'em lined up right away—There! That's pretty good—Nope, Beau Brummel wheeled nervously to the left—now they're pulling him up. There! Now watch for the start——

"Both horses leap forward like flashes and they're moving off neck and neck—here they come pattering down the lane past us—just look at those jockey's whip hands—Phantom about a neck ahead and now they're coasting into the first turn—do you think Phantom'll win?—he's got the rail—and he eases farther ahead as they're careening around the turn—both jockeys with their chins down on their knees—Phantom is pulling out and he's a length in the lead at the quarter post — PHANTOM A LENGTH AHEAD AT THE QUARTER!—Gosh, they look as though they were on a toboggan, they glide forward so gracefully—now they're scooting into the back stretch and the straight track.

"There's the pole for the half distance—PHANTOM A LENGTH AND A HALF AHEAD! They're approaching the turn, and Phantom is scampering frantically—plunk! they hit the bend and both animals hugging the rail—but LOOK, BEAU IS SPURTING, and he's creeping up—he'll have to go 'round him—they're thumping around the turn, and now they're facing us, and Phantom only a length ahead—it may be one of those whirlwind finishes—.

"Look at 'em now—sweeping into the home stretch, and the mob down here is standing on tiptoe — and screaming!—Beau Brummel coming up on him—Jockey Squish is driving him on like a storm—and HE'S ONLY A HALF LENGTH BEHIND PHANTOM AT THREE QUARTERS!

"Here they come, pounding along the turf toward us—fighting it out where it means the most—OH, PHANTOM IS INCHING FORWARD FASTER! — splattering — a mass of weaving legs—THE JOCKEYS ARE ALMOST SIDE BY SIDE!—Phantom a half length ahead and the race almost ended—Beau Brummel is coming closer—WILL HE WIN?—Here they are, right down here—Beau is almost bursting!—AND HE COMES UP CLOSER—ALMOST OVER—.

"NOPE!—PHANTOM BEATS BEAU BRUMMEL BY HALF A LENGTH!"

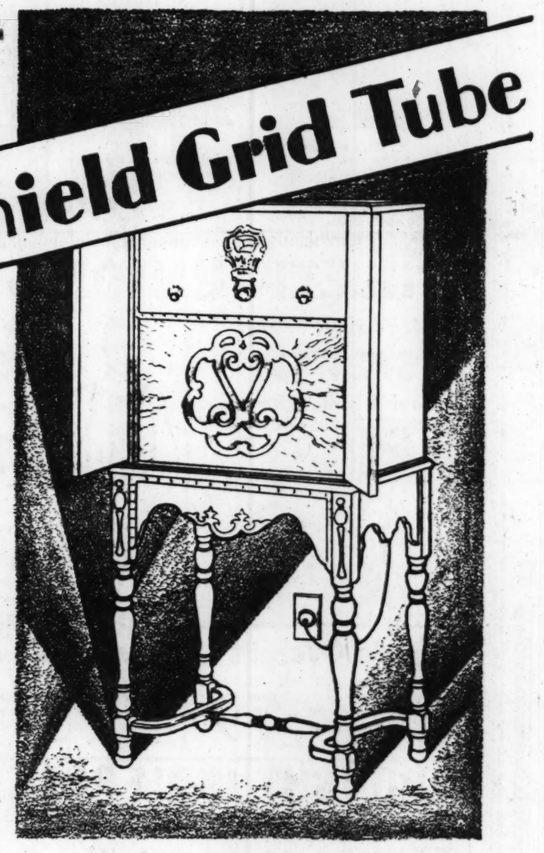
THE NEW Federal K MODEL with the AC Shield Grid Tube NOW!



Federal Quality at Price of Ordinary Radios

FEDERAL'S new "K" models . . . the first licensed radios using the sensational new A. C. Shield Grid Tube . . . represent all that Federal has stood for during the 27 years of the company's existence. They are made under the same precise engineering standards and subjected to the same rigid inspections that have won Federal Radios recognition as America's finest.

To this typical Federal quality has been added the remarkable feature of the new A. C. Shield Grid Tube which, according to eminent authorities, does the work of two extra tubes. It gives the sharp selectivity, extreme sensitivity and distance range and the great amplification needed for the perfect operation of a dynamic speaker. Volume production alone has made the new Federal "K" receiver available at so low a price.

If you want a 1930 radio now, see one of the dealers listed below. Any of them will gladly arrange a home demonstration of the new Federal "K" or any other of the outstanding Federal models.

ON this St. Patrick's Day you can get a musical bird's-eye view of the Emerald Isle in a special Irish program. Sons and daughters of Old Erin as well as other listeners will be thrilled by these forty minutes of Hibernian melodies. The lilting, swift jigs and the crooning songs from all parts of Ireland will be whisked to you as they are observed by Quin Ryan from Mother Machree's Magic Carpet. Listen at 10:05 tonight.

JEAN GOLDKETTE

EIGHTEEN skilled musicians work together to create those sleek, rhythmic patterns of modern music. They play with subtle, suggested, almost unheard throbs of the dance provoking rhythm; from its midst comes the eerie note of a muted trumpet—as modern as Paris—as dignified and progressive as Berlin. And then abruptly they turn. The tempo quickens. The spirit is youthful. The atmosphere more American—or is it more African? It's full of another kind of life. A penetrating trumpet licks out a dozen notes more quickly than you can count them . . . the clarinet would wail if it hadn't to snip out another note an octave away as quickly as the keys will respond! That's Goldkette! The first group at three this afternoon, but more from 10:45 on tonight.

COOLIDGE LEAVES HOOVER CANADIAN RADIO PROBLEM

Royal Commission to Visit United States Soon.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—Canada's place in the broadcasting realm is one of the problems of aggravated proportions that remains as a heritage to the Hoover administration. The North American division of short waves has been accomplished successfully and to the apparent satisfaction of all, but Canadians are still voicing dissatisfaction with the dominion's allotment of six exclusive and twelve shared channels out of the 96 available in the broadcast band.

The Canadian royal commission appointed to investigate the dominion's radio broadcasting problem will visit the United States some time this month or next, conferring with the federal radio commission and with high government radio authorities. Until it renders its report, the attitude that the Ottawa government may be expected to take cannot be determined. The dissent thus far heard has been voiced largely through the press and in other informal ways.

Studying in England.

The commission consists of Sir John Aird, president of the Toronto Bank of Commerce, chairman; Charles A. Bowman, editor of the Ottawa Citizen, and Augustin Frigon, director of the Montreal Ecole Polytechnique. It has been studying the radio broadcasting situation in continental Europe and the British isles before embarking for a windup North American tour. Whether it will visit the United States first or return to Canada directly from London has not been learned.

Canada's radio problem is inextricably interwoven with that of the United States, since the adjustment of wave lengths must be a matter of voluntary agreement by both countries. There are approximately seventy broadcasting licenses in force for stations in the dominion, but many of these licenses represent duplicate sets of call letters for single transmitters. The government marine authorities estimate that 400,000 receiving sets are in use in Canada, 60 per cent in the cities and 40 per cent among the rural population. These are the sets licensed at a nominal yearly fee; how many sets are operated without license cannot even be estimated.

Six Bands Not Enough.

Six exclusive wave lengths are deemed insufficient for the national radio services, although these channels have been allocated to stations whose powers have been kept low enough, and distances from each other "staggered," so that there may be duplications. The twelve channels used concurrently with the United States are, of course, those upon which low powered stations in both countries must necessarily operate.

The royal commission has been authorized to inquire specifically into these questions: 1. The establishment of one or more groups of high powered broadcasting stations operating as private enterprises with the receipt of a government subsidy; 2. the establishment and operation of such a system of stations to be owned and financed by the dominion government; 3. the establishment and operation of stations by provincial governments.

With the internal governmental policy to be pursued by Canada, the United States is not, of course, very greatly concerned, although much interest will naturally attach to any proposal to operate on this continent, a government owned or government subsidized broadcasting system like like those in most foreign countries. The problem the United States government will be called upon to meet will be one of determining a basis of wave length division with Canada.

Like U. S. Programs.

That the 600 or more stations in this country need all the channels they can get and that a 10 kilocycle separation between channels must be maintained is patent to any observer. The question the royal commission is expected by the Canadian press to answer is whether the present arbitrary division is satisfactory. A negative reply will precipitate discussions with the federal radio commission and possibly open diplomatic negotiations.

That Canadian listeners like the programs they pick up from American stations is evident to any one who has visited the dominion. But Canadian government authorities are unwilling to agree that their subjects should listen to advertisements of American made products along with such entertainment. Radio has become "Americanized" all through the dominion. they have complained; that is one of the reasons the commission was appointed.

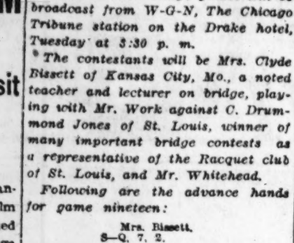
One Hundred Aces Good for Only One No Trump in Radio Auction Bridge Game

The nineteenth of a series of twenty radio auction bridge games will be broadcast from W-G-N, The Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, Tuesday at 3:30 p. m.

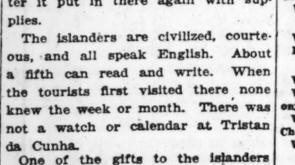
The contestants will be Mrs. Clyde Bissett of Kansas City, Mo., a noted teacher and lecturer on bridge, playing with Mr. Work against C. Drummond Jones of St. Louis, winner of many important bridge contests as a representative of the Racquet club of St. Louis, and Mr. Whitehead.

Following are the advance hands for game nineteen:



The eighteenth of this season's radio bridge games went on the air Tuesday from station W-G-N, with Mrs. Annie Adair Foster of Atlanta, Ga., as Mr. Whitehead's partner, and Maj. Lewis W. Colfelt, Philadelphia, paired with Mr. Work.

The players held the following hands:



Mr. Whitehead, as dealer, in the south, picked up 100 aces. He might be said to have had an option between bidding one spade and one no trump, but with four aces and with the second best of his five spades only an 8 spot, the no trump certainly seemed more promising, both for a big score and for making game. Mr. Whitehead bid the no trump, not because of the big honor score, as the expert player does not sacrifice a better chance for making game merely for a higher honor count. He was influenced by the fact that his type of hand, combined with the average dummy, will produce a game in no trump much more often than it will game in spades; also the difference in honor score might be as great as 130 or 140, since adversaries might hold 30 or 40 honors in the spade suit.

All Others Pass.

Mr. Work, in the west, Mrs. Foster, north, and Maj. Colfelt, east, all passed the dealer's bid; therefore Mr. Whitehead became declarer with his contract one no trump.

Mr. Work, west, led the 6 of clubs, fourth best of his stronger four card suit, and from Mrs. Foster's hand, which became dummy, Mr. Whitehead, declarer, played the 9 of clubs. Maj. Colfelt, east, here made a play which indicated the high caliber of his game. He assumed that the 6 of clubs was his partner's fourth best of the suit, a conventional lead. The 6 was also his partner's lowest club, since Maj. Colfelt himself held every club lower than the 6. Consequently, Mr. Work's club suit, if the 6 were the fourth best, was of exactly four cards. With two clubs in dummy, and six in Maj. Colfelt's hand, it was apparent to Maj. Colfelt that declarer could hold only one. This probably was either the ace or king, since with a worthless singleton declarer would have avoided a no trump bid. If not the ace or king, then declarer's singleton was either the jack or 8 spot, the only other clubs higher than the 6 for which Maj. Colfelt could not account. Maj. Colfelt knew, by applying the rule of eleven to Mr. Work's lead of the 6, that there were outstanding, in the three hands other than the leader's, five cards higher than the 6 led. Of these, only four were in dummy's and Maj. Colfelt's hands. The fifth, therefore, had to be in declarer's.

Clubs Threaten Game.

Regardless, however, of what declarer's singleton might be, whether ace, king, jack or 8 spot, Maj. Colfelt realized that he should not play his queen. Should he do so, Mr. Work's four card club suit would block Maj. Colfelt's six card suit; and the latter, without a reëntry in his hand, would be unable to make his two long clubs. Therefore, Maj. Colfelt played his 5 of clubs on his partner's 6. Mr. Whitehead, declarer, played his lone ace. Mr. Work, west, could readily read it as being a singleton, and therefore was able to read Maj. Colfelt as having held six clubs originally.

Mr. Whitehead, though unable from the play to read the exact club situation, realized that the entire suit was set up against him, seriously threatening game. He could, however, count, in addition to his club trick, four sure tricks in diamonds, two in spades, and one in hearts—eight altogether, one short of game.

Apparently the game trick could be made only by a successful finesse against the king of hearts. Therefore Mr. Whitehead planned first to make practically sure of his contract and thereafter to take the heart finesse in a try for game.

Accordingly Mr. Whitehead led the ace of diamonds, to which Mr. Work played the 2, dummy the 3, and Maj. Colfelt the 6. Mr. Whitehead's queen of diamonds brought the 4 from Mr. Work, the 7 from dummy, and the 8 spot from Maj. Colfelt. Declarer then led the 10, overtaking with dummy's jack. Mr. Work played the 5 and Maj. Colfelt the 9. Dummy led the thirteenth diamond, the king. Maj. Colfelt discarded the 7 of hearts, Mr. Whitehead the 3 of spades, Mr. Work the 2 of spades.

Heart Finesse Fails.

At this point Mr. Whitehead could have taken his king and ace of spades, thus assuring his contract, one no trump. The ace of hearts would have made it two odd, and a successful finesse of the queen of hearts would have produced game. Failure of the heart finesse at this point would give the adversaries a heart trick plus all their clubs.

As to the club situation, Mr. Whitehead could tell, by application of the rule of eleven to the 6 of clubs originally led, that Maj. Colfelt must hold two clubs higher than the 6; and since he did not play either of them to the first trick, but instead underplayed his partner's 6, it was evident that he was long in clubs. Otherwise Maj. Colfelt would have played one of his high clubs to force out the one club higher than the 6, which he could read as being in Mr. Whitehead's hand.

Having thus read Maj. Colfelt as long in clubs, Mr. Whitehead reasoned that there was no possibility of either adversary holding as many as seven clubs. Consequently, five tricks would be the maximum the adversaries could make. Thus, even if his heart finesse failed Mr. Whitehead could still make his contract; and should the finesse succeed, he would have game. Therefore, while still holding control of the spade suit, Mr. Whitehead proceeded to take the heart finesse, leading the 2 of hearts from dummy. Maj. Colfelt played the 10; declarer his queen, and Mr. Work, west, won with the king.

Mr. Work then led in succession, the king, jack, and 8 spot of clubs. Maj. Colfelt, east, covered the 8 spot with his queen and then took his two long clubs. On these five club tricks Mr. Whitehead, declarer, discarded down to the ace of spades and the ace of hearts, with which cards he won the last two tricks, giving him a score of 10 points for the odd trick and 100 for four aces in one hand.

The bidding of this hand at contract would impose some little responsibility upon the south player. With every suit stopped and a count of 20 [4 for each of his acres and 2 for each of his queens] he would be well over the 17 with four suits stopped requirement for a bid of two no trumps, but he would be one short of the requisite 21 for three no trumps. Even if he held an extra jack, giving him the 21 count, he properly would hesitate about bidding three no trumps because of the singleton, even though it is an ace. Two no trumps would seem to be his sound declaration. Over south's two no trumps, north, with a count of 7, of course would jump to three no trumps. The play being the same as in auction bridge, the declarer would fail to make his game by a margin of two tricks.

LONELIEST ISLE HEARS RADIO FOR THE FIRST TIME

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 16.—(AP)—Tristan da Cunha, called "the loneliest island in the world," a British possession off the African coast, is having its first experience with the wonders of the century, radio, the phonograph and the motion picture. It is 1,400 miles west of Cape Town.

Until a year ago no steamer, within the memory of the 150 persons on the island, had stopped there. Then the Duchess of Atholl on a South American and South African cruise paused at the tiny island. This winter it put in there again with supplies.

The islanders are civilized, courteous, and all speak English. About a fifth can read and write. When the tourists first visited there none knew the week or month. There was not a watch or calendar at Tristan da Cunha.

One of the gifts to the islanders was a wireless set and radio outfit. Members of the steamer's crew taught them how to operate both sets. Several natives are learning the wireless code.

When invited aboard the ship these people first saw electric lights, heard their first piano, learned first of elevators and were introduced to ice cream. This last they did not care for particularly.

Both the men and women wore homespun clothes and sandals fashioned from rough hides. The islanders, chiefly a mixture of English and Portuguese, farm and tend 250 cows and raise sheep, chickens and geese.

The ship tourists learned that several steamers made attempts to reach the island, but because of treacherous shoals off shore gave it up. Some of the inhabitants are survivors of a sailing boat that ten years ago sought to reach shore. It foundered.

'STENO' WHO WON FAME AS SINGER ON AIR TONIGHT

"Sigrid the toiler," who typed and stenoged her way to musical fame, might be part of the story about the struggle of Sigrid Onegin, the newest and youngest European concert contralto and operatic star, who is to be guest artist tonight in the Atwater Kent program broadcast over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. But there is considerably more to the life history of this truly international singer.

Born in Stockholm, the daughter of an attaché of the French embassy and his German wife, Mme. Onegin married a Russian, who died in a military prison during the world war. She made her first great triumph as a singer in a performance of "Carmen" with the late Enrico Caruso as chief star. Educated from childhood to speak and understand the philosophy of three languages—Swedish, French, and German, she added many others during a life in which tragedy stalked and forced her to work as a stenographer and typist to earn money for her music lessons.

Her voice has been called by critics one of the most remarkable of modern singers. Ranging from a deep, rich, round toned contralto to the highest range of a mezzo-soprano, and capable of coloratura effects in middle and high tones that are of the most intricate character, her success in concert in America has been unusual. Coupled with her mechanical skill in using her voice, her varied experience in life has given her an understanding of the poetry and romance of song possed by few artists.

Hyde Park Travel Club to Mark 40th Anniversary

The fortieth anniversary of the Hyde Park Travel club will be celebrated Monday, March 25, at the Windemere East hotel. Plans have been made for a luncheon to be served at 12:30 at which past presidents will be special guests. Mrs. William D. Petzel, 1215 East 54th street, is chairman of the affair and Mrs. John J. Gill, 5708 Harper avenue, is president of the club.

Church Group to Hear Talk on Mental Health, Home

Prof. Thomas Thompson will address the Parent Education group of the Hyde Park Baptist church on "Mental Health and the Home" next Thursday evening. On Tuesday at 10 o'clock the church sewing circle will meet and will give a luncheon at noon, for all church groups. The mission study class will meet at 1 o'clock.

DR. SOCHMAN AND DR. TAYLOR TALK AT SUNDAY CLUB

"Life in the Southern Highlands" is the title of the talk to be given by Dr. Howard E. Taylor, for many years associated with work among the mountain people near Berea, Ky., to be broadcast at 7 o'clock by WMAQ from the Chicago Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall.

At the main meeting, beginning at 8, Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of Madison Avenue Methodist church, New York, will give his first address before the club, his subject being "Patrons or Partners." Harry A. Wheeler, a vice president of the club, will preside.

Only Seven Out of 1,135 Radio Pirates Win Cases

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—All but seven of the 1,135 prosecutions instituted against radio license dodgers during 1928 resulted in convictions, according to the recent statement of the postmaster general. The difference between the costs of prosecution and the amount received in license revenue is used to carry on this campaign against "pirates."

R. M. A. PLANS TO INVADE FOREIGN TRADE MARKETS

American radio products will be sold more widely throughout the world under plans announced recently by the Radio Manufacturers' association to aid its members in developing their foreign sales, especially in Latin America.

A complete radio export guide has just been compiled by the association comprising virtually all prominent makers of all radio products, and issued free to its members.

The export campaign of the R. M. A. is expected to greatly increase radio foreign sales, which last year were $12,061,410, as compared with $2,000,000 five years ago. This record was made despite inability of American manufacturers to fill radio demands in the United States, but the radio industry now feels able to develop the foreign market for the American industry.

The radio export guide of the R. M. A., prepared under the direction of Mr. George H. Kiley of New York, chairman of the R. M. A. foreign trade committee, includes complete radio information in all Latin America, and most other countries of the world.

SINGING BOYS—By Della Robbia Panels Executed for the Duomo at Florence

Tones of Celestial Purity

Angelic-voiced boy sopranos, supporting tones of blended tenors, baritones and basses; the rumble of vast organ pipes amid the peal of carrillon. All these tones, from earliest days associated with devotional music, are as distinctly defined in Stromberg-Carlson radio reproduction as if heard in an old world cathedral.

In the New Stromberg-Carlson No. 638, new acoustical principles have been applied in baffling the dynamic speaker in the console. This ends those cabinet resonances which have hitherto given to dynamic reproduction, overtones not present in broadcasting. Greater reserve power at all degrees of volume has been attained, deepest tones have been sustained, yet—no iota of the purity for which Stromberg-Carlson tone is famous, has been sacrificed.

HARBOR FORCES CONFIDENT OF BILL'S PASSAGE

Heartened by Favorable Report.

Confidence that the Illinois house of representatives next week will pass the Calumet harbor bill was voiced by members of south side delegations who journeyed to Springfield last week to attend a hearing on the measure conducted by the house committee on municipalities. Following the hearing the committee voted to recommend the bill for passage.

Members of all south side civic and business organizations will unite in an effort to convince the lawmakers that the measure in its present form is practicable and in the best interest of Chicago, Walter Roy, business manager of the South End chamber of commerce, who led the delegation, promised.

Mr. Roy pointed out that the main objection to the bill is the fact that the people of the entire city will be used to raise the $5,000,000 necessary to pay for constructing the first unit of the harbor.

Assert City Loses Millions.

"If the people of Chicago," said Mr. Roy, "only realized that the city was losing millions of dollars each year because large corporations refuse to erect industrial plants here on the ground that there are no adequate facilities for water shipping and therefore seek other locations where those facilities can be obtained, they would forget their objections and compel their state representatives to pass the bill.

"Objections to the bill would cease if Chicagoans realized that more than 78 large industries moved their plants from within the corporate limits of Chicago to Indiana because that state will give the large industries the facilities to ship by water, and that by losing those 78 industries and many more in the future if the facilities are not planned for in the immediate future, more millions of dollars will be lost to the city each year.

Denies It Is Local Issue.

"The Calumet harbor is not a local issue. The construction of the harbor will bring developments to the far south territory, but it will also bring an untold number of huge industries to the city and make it one of the greatest industrial and shipping centers in the world. The five million dollars will soon be repaid many times to the city through the revenue obtained from 6,500 acres of what is now known territory."

Indiana is grasping the opportunity offered by the possible defeat of the Calumet Harbor bill and has announced plans for the construction of a 2,300 foot dock on the ship canal in East Chicago, Mr. Roy said. He added that Indianans, hearing of the inadequacy of harbor space in New York and that four ships directly from Europe have docked recently at East Chicago, are eager to improve their water shipping facilities.

Mr. Roy said that if the people of Chicago want to stand aside and allow a city in Indiana to become one of the greatest industrial and shipping centers in the country, the harbor bill should not be passed.

Cites Demand of Industry.

If they want Chicago to become the greatest city in the world, he continued, it is up to them to demand the passage of the bill so that the city may be able to offer the facilities for water shipping which large industries demand as a condition of locating in a city or remaining in it.

In addition to Mr. Roy the following persons attended the hearing Tuesday: Aleck Bernstein, Ald. Sheldon W. Morfer [9th], Ald. Guy Guernsey [6th], chairman of the council committee on waterves, rivers and harbors; Benton Eiseman, Oscar Rommel, Theodore Bach, H. H. Haylett and H. J. Rugg, manager of the West Town Chamber of Commerce, who, according to Mr. Roy, is in favor of the passage of the bill.

Papal-Italian Treaty to Be Explained by Lecture

Magr. Dennis J. Dunne will explain the origin, development and decline of the states of the Roman Catholic church and the final settlement of the Roman question next Thursday evening to members of the Holy Name society of Holy Cross church in the school hall, 6549 Maryland avenue. This meeting will be a farewell one to the Rev. D. J. Frawley, spiritual director of the Holy Cross branch, who has been called to a parish in Antioch, Ill.

Hyde Park High Alumni Hold Semi-Annual Dance

More than 400 students and graduates attended the semi-annual dance of the Hyde Park School Alumni association Friday evening at the Shoreland hotel, 55th street and South Shore drive. Fred Hobscheid, 6248 St. Lawrence avenue, president of the alumni association, was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair. James Barrett, 6856 Cregier avenue, was chairman of the committee in charge of the ticket sales.

Plans Centers in Schools to Aid Grownups

Community councils will be established in seventeen districts of the south side as part of the board of education's program to make the schools the centers of adult education as well as child education, William J. Bogan, superintendent, announced yesterday.

The councils are being organized in ten senior high schools, two junior high schools, and five elementary schools in these districts under the direction of Edward Burchard, secretary of the superintendent's advisory council. The groups will include representatives from every business, social, civic, or religious group in the various districts and will have many aims in the matter of community betterment, according to Mr. Burchard.

The south side centers are as follows:

Phillips High school, 244 East Pershing road.

Greene school, 3537 South Paulina street.

Sawyer Avenue school, 5248 South Sawyer avenue.

Tilden High school, 4747 Union avenue.

Ross Junior High school, 6059 Wabash avenue.

Englewood High school, 6201 South Stewart avenue.

Lindblom High school, 6130 South Lincoln street.

Parker High school, 6800 Stewart avenue.

Hyde Park High school, 6220 Stony Island avenue.

Calumet High school, 8135 South May street.

Hirsch Junior High school, 7740 Ingleside avenue.

O'Keefe school, 6940 Merrill avenue.

Bowen High school, 8860 Manistee avenue.

Morgan Park High school, 1744 Pryor avenue.

Fenger High school, 11220 Wallace avenue.

Clay school, 13231 Burley avenue.

Community spirit will be instilled into residents of the various sections of the city through programs and entertainments which the council will stage at intervals throughout the year, Mr. Burchard said. Citizenship as a study for adults will be taken up under the guidance of the council.

To Study Welfare and Health.

Social welfare and health will be studied in an effort to formulate plans for the raising of their standards in the districts; the various phases of business will be discussed with a view to lending a hand to the neighborhood merchant who lacks education; the home will be another topic of study to be undertaken in the councils as well as such matters of education as proper reading and an appreciation of art.

The year's work of the councils throughout the city will culminate in a large, city-wide civic meeting such as was held in the Auditorium theater by the board, according to Mr. Burchard, and an exceptionally large attendance is expected for this occasion as a result of the formation of councils and the community work of the board.

The division of the city into districts or neighborhoods with centers in the schools was made by sociology classes of the University of Chicago and is a result of study and research Mr. Burchard said.

Senator Deneen to Speak at Immanuel Evangelical

Senator Charles S. Deneen will be the speaker at the Immanuel Evangelical church, 70th street and Michigan avenue, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. His talk will be preceded by a dinner of the men's club of the church, at which all of the members of the church and the public have been invited. Supper will be served from 5 to 7:30 o'clock. Louis Franz, 7341 Indiana avenue, is president of the club.

SOUTH SIDE WOMEN TO SEE LEGISLATIVE WHEELS GO AROUND

Members of the Illinois League of Women Voters will hold their second legislative citizenship schools next Wednesday and Thursday at Springfield, Ill. The purpose of the schools is to enable the state board of directors and representatives of chapters to watch the legislature at work so that they may more thoroughly understand what is involved in the making of Illinois laws.

The schools have been arranged to coincide with hearings on bills which the league has indorsed. These bills include one providing for women to serve on juries, the bill which proposes to increase the state school fund, and the Cook county and sanitary district civil service bills.

South Side women who will represent their leagues at the school next Wednesday and Thursday are Mrs. W. Norman Graham, Mrs. Venning Dodge Simons Jr., Mrs. William Rothmann, Mrs. J. Scott Matthews, Mrs. C. I. Palmer, Mrs. Quincy Wright, and Miss Emily Taft.

LINDBLOM GIRLS TO DANCE FOR VISITORS

More than 5,000 persons are expected to attend the open house celebration at Lindblom High school, 62d and Lincoln streets, Friday evening. Three programs of one hour each will be presented in the auditorium by the students. These programs will include dancing numbers, a style show, and songs by the boys' and girls' glee clubs. The picture above shows members of a ballet. Standing, left to right: Miss Veronica Fentick, Miss Minerva Stenn, Miss Eunice Noble. Seated: Miss Stella Spoo.

Lorado Tafts to Be Hosts to Illinae Club

Mr. and Mrs. Lorado Taft will be hosts to the members of the Chicago Illinae club at the annual south side gathering to be held Saturday afternoon at Mr. Taft's studio, 6016 Ellis avenue. Mr. Taft was host at a similar affair given two years ago in his studio rooms and, as before, will conduct the guests through his workshop, explaining various phases of the sculptor's art.

Of especial interest will be the showing of several bronze figures to be used in one of his masterpieces, the "Alma Mater," which is to be dedicated on the University of Illinois campus in Urbana in June in commemoration of Mr. Taft's fiftieth anniversary as an alumnus of the university.

Committee to Assist.

Tea will be served from 3 to 5 o'clock and assisting Mr. and Mrs. Taft in the receiving line will be Miss Alice Howe, 10233 South Wood street, president of the club; Mrs. Howard McLane, 6506 South Troy stret, chairman of the afternoon; Mrs. Charles F. Pillsbury, 10451 South Seeley avenue; Miss Darley Thomas, 1615 Hyde Park boulevard; Miss Mary Bransfield, 4748 Woodlawn avenue; Mrs. H. F. Partridge, 6621 Yale avenue, and Miss Nellie V. Walker, Mr. Taft's secretary.

Other officers of the Chicago club are Mrs. A. M. Hauser, 328 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, vice president; Mrs. George Winterhalter, 422 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, recording secretary; Mrs. R. E. Schreiber, 1650 Sherwin avenue, treasurer, and Mrs. E. L. Kemp, 8157 Ingleside avenue, corresponding secretary.

Four Events a Year.

There are more than 1,800 alumnae living in Chicago and its suburbs and, as in former years, it is the custom to hold four events each year. Early in the fall a tea was held on the north side, the first of this year Mrs. A. M. Hauser was hostess at a card party in Oak Park, and this third gathering, held on the south side, will be followed by the annual spring luncheon, the date and place to be announced later.

CO-ED MODELS SHOW HOW SMART CO-ED WILL DRESS

Co-eds modeled co-ed clothes at the annual University of Chicago spring luncheon and style show in the Wedgewood tea room at Marshall Field & Co.'s last week. More than 150 girls attended.

Outfits complete to the last accessory for afternoon, evening and sports were shown by Miss Jane Blocki, Miss Frances Dee, Miss Courtney Montagtie, and Miss Mae Carolyn Frost, all students at the university. A talk on the spring mode accompanied the show.

Miss Priscilla Kellogg was in charge of the affair, assisted by Miss Margaret Pringle, Mrs. Edith Foster Flint, chairman of the Woman's University council, and Miss Elsa Chapin of the English department were special guests.

Boys Form Stamp Club at Grand Crossing Park

A stamp club has been organized at Grand Crossing park, 78th street and Ingleside avenue, under the direction of A. R. Leyden. Sam Casman, 917 East 78th street, is serving as temporary chairman of the group and William Winters, 7355 Evans avenue, is secretary. The other members who are enrolled are William Hennan, 7602 Paxton avenue; Alfred Jordensen, 6017 Calumet avenue; L. Tomlinson, 7719 Rhodes avenue; P. Buckner, 7217 St. Lawrence avenue; Carl Sanderson, 7716 Rhodes avenue; and James Walters, 7832 Drexel boulevard.

DOTY TO TELL OF HIS EXPERIENCES IN FRENCH LEGION

Thrilling experiences as a member of the French Foreign Legion will be told by Bennett J. Doty at the Ridge Community Center lecture forum, held in Blackwelder hall of the Morgan Park High school, 110th street and Hermosa avenue Tuesday evening at 8:15 o'clock.

During the war, Doty served in France with the American Expeditionary Force. Soon after he enlisted with the Foreign Legion and within a few months, was the recipent of the Croix de Guerre for his gallantry. Then followed a period of inactivity and Doty, dissatisfied, deserted his post.

The story of his capture, until the time of his pardon is fielled with thrilling details, and it is these facts that he will relate to his audience on Tuesday evening.

South Side Art Group Sponsors Exhibit Today

The South Side Art association is sponsoring a preview exhibition of paintings and sculptures in the Cambridge club gallery, 53d street and the lake, from 3 until 6 o'clock this afternoon. All of the exhibits will be the work of south side artists. A twilight musicale and tea will follow the art exhibit.

St. Bernard's Auxiliary to Name Officers Wednesday

The annual election of officers of St. Bernard's Hospital auxiliary will be held at a meeting at 2 o'clock Wednesday in the auxiliary room of the convent. Mrs. Mary B. Finan, 6931 Yale avenue, has been president for the last year.

LITTLE FLOWER GROUP TO STAGE MINSTRELS TODAY AND TONIGHT

Lauretta and May, Kennedy Sisters, Irish dances, will be among the headliners of "Irish Minstrels" to be staged under the auspices of the Little Flower branch of the Holy Name society at St. Brendan's auditorium this afternoon and evening. The show is under the direction of James Shafer and the cast will also include George Miller, Ned Melroy, Bill Powderly, Eleanor Masquelet, Rae Ryan, Eddie Downs and Dave Donigan. The Rev. Stephen McMahon is pastor of Little Flower church.

Women Voters' Card Party.

Members of the South Shore League of Women Voters will hold a card and bunco party Wednesday afternoon at the Windsor Shore club, 7526 Yates avenue. Mrs. J. W. Steigely is chairman of the committee in charge.

COMMITTEES OF WEST BEVERLY GROUP SELECTED

At a meeting of the West Beverly Manor Improvement association held last week, committee chairmen were appointed by the president, Henry J. Geringer. The organization was formed less than a month ago, with a membership of 26 and already it is nearly doubled in size.

Mrs. Lester S. Petersen is chairman of alleys, streets, and street lighting; Harry F. Ortmann, water, sewers, and sidewalks; Frank J. Foersch, transportation; Edmund G. MacCombie, police and fire, and Robert A. Gradwell, boulevard, small parks, and schools.

The members have been assured of two mail deliveries each day and are now taking steps to get police protection for the district. Acute interest is being taken in the zoning proposition on Artesian avenue. The members are asking for a rezoning of this street from 103d to 105th for bungalows. It was recently zoned for apartments.

An effort is also being made to obtain stop and go lights at 103d street and Western avenue in order to provide greater safety for children crossing Western avenue on their way to school.

Bryn Mawr Women's Club Hears Talk on Dance Art

"The Dance-Sister Art of Music" was the subject of a talk by Mrs. Marie E. Boissat at a meeting of the Bryn Mawr Women's club Monday afternoon at the Bryn Mawr Community church, 70th street and Jeffery avenue. The entertainment was furnished by the music committee of the club, which presented "The Evolution of Music in the World's Greatest Dances."

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs Anent the Passing Throng.

BY FRED PASLEY.

ROBERT E. HICKEY of our town and Peru, Ind., press agent for the Sells-Floto circus, was a visitor to the sanctum with a pocketful of good five cent seegars and a request that we print a little piece saying the peanut and popcorn season will open March 30 at the Coliseum and that, incidentally, the show this year is bigger and better than ever.

Former Congressman B. S. Wilson of 7240 Yale avenue saw his ninth presidential inauguration March 4, and his album now includes the names of McKinley (twice), Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson (twice), Harding, Coolidge, and Mr. Hoover. Mr. Wilson served as congressman from the Third Illinois district for eighteen years.

Mrs. Helen M. Bray celebrated her 91st birthday Saturday, March 9, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. E. Baker, 7127 Yale avenue, with whom she lives. Mrs. Bray came to Illinois before the days of the railroad. She has lived in Hamilton Park since 1890.

The Rev. Cain Scott, pastor of the Church of God in Christ No. 1 at 111th place and Aberdeen street, works days at the International Harvester company plant, arising at 4:30 a. m. and quitting at 6:30 p. m. In the interim he devotes himself to building a new house of worship. Already with the aid of members of the congregation he has excavated the basement and finished the pouring of concrete for the foundation walls and floors. The basement measures 60x40. Now, before any further construction can proceed on the little church, the Rev. Cain Scott must have bricks. He figures about 35,000 will be needed. He is asking for contributions in lots of 1,000 or less from the good people of Morgan Park and Beverly Hills.

Ald. Charles Scribner Eaton, whose hospitable home is at 5744 Kimbark avenue, is having all of his pre-election campaign signs removed in accordance with his promise to keep the Fifth ward clean. His action should serve as an example for other wards. There are still "America First" signs along the line of the elevated on the north side.

Edward Mostek and Steve Dineff are now called the Wright brothers of Argo, they having built the first flying machine in that community. It is a monoplane and valued by them at $1,000. They were eight months building it. It is powered with a 27 horse power Henderson motorcycle engine. They essayed trial flights last Saturday. Dineff, who had had no previous experience as pilot, made two short flights. Mostek, who had had four hours of flying instruction, tried his hand. He got off the ground, but the machine shot upward suddenly in a vertical flight and then made a nose dive, smashing its landing gear and propellor. They will make repairs and try again next week. They have named it "The Spirit of Argo," and say it won't be long till they are flying all over the country. Good luck, boys.

PARK ENGINEER EXPLAINS PLANS FOR LAKE DRIVE

Lynn White, chief engineer of the south park commission, presented an illustrated lecture on the new outer drive at the fathers' night meeting of the Wadsworth Parent-Teacher association meeting Monday evening in the school auditorium, 64th street and University avenue.

The program of entertainment included the "Zigzag Waltz" by the school orchestra, the "Skating Song" by the girls' chorus, musical numbers by the harmonica band under the direction of Miss Josephine Goodrich; "The Sandelwood Box," a one act play, directed by Miss Mary Chappell, and a group of vocal selections by a number of the pupils under the direction of Mrs. D. J. Seeney.

NAME 'GENERAL' THIS WEEK FOR TRACTION FIGHT

Southwest Siders Frame Demands.

The Southwest Federation of Improvement Clubs this week will select a spokesman who will represent the entire southwest side in demanding additional transportation for the district, according to M. A. Seymour, secretary of the group.

The organization intends to instruct its leader to direct his plea to the city council, the citizens' advisory committee on transportation, and possibly the Illinois commerce commission. Ald. Thomas F. Byrne [15th] has promised to cooperate in obtaining the improvements desired by the federation, which represents more than 5,000 residents.

There is at present only one car line of real use to residents of the western part of the federation's district between the south branch of the river, 79th street, and Western and Harlem avenues. The 63d street line is the only one serving the district from Crawford avenue to the city limits on the west, Mr. Seymour pointed out.

Two Fares on Archer Line.

The only other line going to the center of the city is on Archer avenue, and it ends at Cicero avenue, where a suburban line terminates, forcing residents in the west section to pay two fares in going downtown.

The federation intends to demand that users of the Archer avenue line west of Cicero pay only one fare, and that the establishment of more car lines and an "L" extension be initiated as soon as possible.

It is planned to work for the extension of the Crawford avenue line south from the river as soon as the bridge is completed; the paving and installing of a car line or feeder buses on 59th street from Kedzie avenue west to the city limits; and the cutting through of 71st street to Crawford avenue, where the proposed car line will proceed south to 79th street and thence west to the city limits.

Residents of the district want the Douglas park "L" line extended south from 18th and Paulina streets, to run west on Archer avenue to Kostner avenue, south on Kostner avenue to 65th street, and west on 65th street to Argo.

See Profits for Elevated.

Such a line would pay far better than the Westchester and Niles Center lines recently opened by the Rapid Transit company, members of the federation believe, because thousands of workers must be carried daily to the rapidly growing factory district in West Chicago Lawn and Clearing.

Representatives from the eighteen clubs which are members of the federation active in the work are: John Hunt, E. J. Zelhart, Walter M. Schenck, John Shewski, Arthur Dellinger, R. G. Crane, Arthur Sultan, H. E. Roach, Charles A. Beacham, Charles J. Cross, L. P. Romano, and Hannibal Muscato.

Officers of the federation are: President, John Krause; secretary, Mr. Seymour; , and treasurer, Frank Youngs.

In addition to transportation facilities, the group needs street lights and a park located in the neighborhood of Cicero avenue and 63d street, Mr. Seymour said.

OFFICERS TO BE NOMINATED BY ENGLEWOOD CLUB

The Englewood Woman's club will hear the report of the nominating committee tomorrow morning and nominations for officers and directors may be made from the floor. There will also be other special business to be transacted and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance. This will be the last business meeting of the season, with the exception of the election of officers on April 8. Mrs. Willis E. Tower, 432 Normal parkway, will preside.

In the afternoon the program will be under the direction of Mrs. G. Henry Mund, 7000 South Shore drive, chairman of music. Miss Julie Adams will give current events and Miss Alma G. Wrede will present several piano selections.

Announcement is made of the annual spring luncheon to be held Monday, April 1, at the Palmer House and tickets are now on sale and reservations may be made.

Members of the club will attend an organ recital to be given by Miss Tina Mae Haines Friday afternoon at the St. James Methodist church, 46th street and Ellis avenue.

CONCERT TO AID PRESBYTERIAN BUILDING FUND

A concert for the benefit of the building fund of the First Presbyterian church next Thursday evening in the church auditorium, 64th street and Kimbark avenue, is being sponsored by the woman's association of the church.

The Swift company male chorus, under the direction of D. A. Clippinger, and Adelbert Huguelet, pianist, and Gilbert Ford, tenor, will give the program.

Mrs. M. L. Traynor is general chairman of the concert, assisted by Mrs. O. K. Tomson. Mrs. George H. Greenfield and Mrs. William H. Boddy are press chairmen; Mrs. Rowland M. Smith is in charge of the ticket sale, Mrs. George W. McKenna, programs; Mrs. Robert W. Martin, ushers; and Mrs. Harley Graham, of the dinner to be served to the chorus.

St. Patrick's Eve Dance.

The Garden Homes Improvement association gave a St. Patrick's dance last evening in the Community House, 8729 State street.

FORMING GROUP TO GUARD AREAS OF BOTH RACES

Kiwanis Clubs Start Interracial Committee.

Four south side Kiwanis clubs last week adopted a plan for the organization of a committee of representative business men to meet with a number of colored business men at regular intervals to discuss territorial restriction problems.

The plan, which was suggested by Michael Montague, 4926 Forrestville avenue, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Hyde Park Kiwanis club, provides for a committee composed of two men from each of the four Kiwanis clubs on the south side, Woodlawn, Englewood, Hyde Park, and Garfield districts, and one leading business man outside the Kiwanis organizations from each district. Twelve representatives of the colored districts will be chosen by a prominent Negro business man.

Two Groups Ready to Appoint.

Dr. Paul M. Oliver, 841 East 63d street, president of the Hyde Park Kiwanis club, declared that the plan was a feasible one, and said that he would appoint the two representatives of his organization within the next few days. W. A. Stambach, 5600 Wentworth avenue, president of the Garfield club, has also agreed that the plan was a good one and he, too, will make his appointments this week.

Charles Brown, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Englewood Kiwanis club, was named as a representative of that organization by Raymond Crist, president, at Tuesday's meeting. The other representative, Mr. Crist said, will be appointed at the meeting of the club next Tuesday.

According to Earl Keath, president of the Woodlawn Kiwanis club, the board of directors of that organization, at a meeting last week, voted in favor of the plan, and Mr. Keath will name the Woodlawn representatives at the Wednesday meeting.

Plan Several Meetings a Year.

Mr. Montague, in discussing the features of his plan at a meeting of the combined memberships of the Englewood and Woodlawn clubs last week, asserted that the work of the committee, which would meet several times each year, would tend to better living conditions for the members of the Negro race and that the restriction problems could be worked out in a manner satisfactory to both sides.

He declared that frequent moving of colored residents is caused largely by encroachments of disorderly houses operated by white persons in the communities in which the colored people live. If the committee, said Mr. Montague, would demand that disorderly houses operated by white persons be compelled to close their doors, members of the Negro race would be content with the neighborhoods in which they now live and the entire restriction problem would be virtually solved.

MERCY HIGH GIRLS TO STAGE RELIGIOUS PLAY

"Life's Highway," a religious drama with music and pageantry, will be presented by the senior class of Mercy High school Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings in the auditorium of the school, 81st street and Prairie avenue. The picture shows members of the cast. Quotation—There are no snakes in Ireland.

[It has been impossible to determine the origin of this expression as it is worded. In view of this and of the variety of the answers received it has been determined not to award a prize, but simply to present representative answers. They are given below.]

Eddy J. McHale, 2627 Jackson boulevard, Chicago—In the early history of England there was a monk named Bede who found time to write much poetry and volumes about science, music and medicine. At length the king of Northumbria asked him if he would write a history on the church in England. It is almost the only book that tells us about the early days of Britain and we have to select what is probably true and what was only hearsay. This is the book that says there are no snakes in Ireland and it goes further, for it says that the smell of the air kills them and that if a person bitten by a serpent will only swallow a few scrapings from an Irish book he will be cured.

Edith L. Reid, 404 Spalding building, Portland, Ore.—In Bede's Ecclesiastical History, chapter I, he says: "No reptiles are found there (Ireland) and no snakes can live there, for, though snakes are often carried thither out of Britain, as soon as the ship comes near the shore and the scent of the air reaches them they die."

Adele W. Sabath, 3415 West Adams street, Chicago—I am sure that this quotation should read: "There are no snakes in Iceland," instead of "Ireland." The sentence was used by Samuel Johnson, one of the most distinguished English writers of the 18th century. I quote from Boswell's "Life of Johnson": "On Monday, April 13 (1778), I dined with Johnson at Mr. Langton's, where were Dr. Porteus, then bishop of Chester, now of London, and Dr. Stinton. He was at first in a very silent mood. Before dinner he said nothing but 'Pretty baby' to one of the children. Langton said very well to me afterward that he could repeat Johnson's conversation before dinner, as Johnson had said that he could repeat a complete chapter of 'The Natural History of Iceland,' from the Danish of Horrebow, the whole of which was exactly thus: 'Chapter LXXII. Concerning Snakes: There are no snakes to be met with throughout the whole island.'"

Martha F. Harness, 3308½ Maypole avenue, Chicago—Tish, a character in the book of that name by Mary Roberts Rinehart, used this quotation in chapter I, part 4. She says to her friend, Lizzie, as they are talking about worms and fishing rods relative to their trip to Canada: "There are no worms in Canada, Lizzie, just as there are no snakes in Ireland."

NOTE—Several readers have pointed out that the legendary banishment of snakes from Ireland by St. Patrick may have furnished the foundation for the saying. St. Patrick, sent to Ireland in 432 A. D. by Pope Celestine, converted the island to the Christian faith and with the assistance of his followers made it the center of western culture for several centuries. He died at Saul, Downpatrick, on March 17, 493.

Bede, surnamed "the venerable," was born about 673 and died in 735. The "Ecclesiastical History of England" was written in the seclusion of his cell. It was translated from the Latin into Anglo-Saxon by King Alfred.

CIVIC LEADERS ASKED TO ADVISE IN STREET WORK

Expected to Stimulate Neighborhood Pride.

The coöperation of south side business and civic groups in outlining this year's street repairing program of the department of public works will be sought this week by Commissioner Richard W. Wolfe.

Many of the larger groups in all parts of the city will receive letters inviting them to send representatives to meet with him and discuss the disposition of the vehicle tax fund. Such south side organizations as the Englewood Business Men's association, the South Shore, Greater South Side, and South End Chambers of Commerce, and the Stony Island Business Men's association will receive invitations.

Helpful Suggestions Expected.

"Local groups are entitled to know the details of the department's repairing program, and many suggestions should originate in the proposed meetings. In addition to the direct benefit, such a procedure is certain to prove educational and will make residents of the outlying districts understand more intelligently the workings of the department," the commissioner says.

Although local groups may act only in an advisory capacity in the matter of distribution of the vehicle tax funds, the survey of the department will be made public within a few days, and members of these groups should be in a position to make recommendations and point out oversights or errors on the part of engineers of the department, the commissioner believes.

Byrne to Establish Contacts.

In addition to being advised as to the repairing program, cleanliness of streets in the various districts should also be a concern of the organizations, the commissioner says. Thomas H. Byrne, superintendent of streets, has been directed to establish contact with the groups and work with them through the ward superintendents.

The commissioner's letter to Mr. Bryne read as follows:

"Local business and improvement organizations are primarily interested in improving conditions in their respective districts.

"It is my desire and direction that the various district superintendents of the bureau of streets establish a closer contact and coöperation with the organizations in their respective wards, especially in the matter of cleaning streets and alleys, removal of garbage and miscellaneous wastes and the enforcement of sanitary ordinances relating thereto, to the end that neighborhood pride be stimulated and the city thereby helped in its endeavor to keep the city clean."

McHale Council, K. of C., Holds St. Patrick Party

The twenty-second St. Patrick's party of McHale council, Knights of Columbus, was held last evening in the McHale clubrooms, 69th street and Wentworth avenue. The program was arranged by John W. Jordan and his committee. It included card games and dancing.

A Monument to the NEW MODE of LIVING

It's for you, flat dweller, you who pass by the tall buildings on the drive and wish they were homes like your own, at rents like your own. You like the idea of lobbies, of fast elevators with snappy, uniformed operators. You like the idea of looking down upon the city, and seeing clear across the lake. A beautiful setting is provided for your own furniture.

SOUTH SHORE TOWERS is indeed the new mode—a home like yours WHERE YOU MAY USE YOUR OWN FURNITURE, and where you may stay within your own budget. Take, for example, a three-room apartment at an average price of $95; you may deduct at least ten dollars for gas, electricity, refrigeration, window cleaning, carpeted floors and linoleum, which are included in the rental. You thus have a three-room apartment with four-room efficiency for $85.

Every requirement is fulfilled here—a furnished home—a serviced home. We have a plan whereby those who wish may select their own furnishings.

Two, Three and Four Rooms
TWO BEDROOM APARTMENTS
FURNISHED OR UNFURNISHED

SOUTH SHORE TOWERS

OPPOSE CLOSING 2 STREETS WITH SCHOOL BUILDING

Chicago Lawn Groups to Suggest Other Sites.

Protesting against the site selected for a new high school, representatives of the South Hamlin Avenue and Vicinity Property Owners' association and the West Lawn Real Estate Men's association met with the board of education Monday afternoon.

J. H. MAIER. [A. Heinemann photo]

The board has chosen a fifteen acre site extending from 60th street to 61st place and from Springfield avenue to a line 125 feet east of Crawford avenue. Representatives of the two associations protested that use of this site would be detrimental to the district because it would necessitate closing 60th place and 61st street.

J. H. Maier, president of the real estate group, pointed out that the business men and property owners were opposed only to use of this site and not to the construction of the new high school.

Points to Other Sites.

He declared that the board of education now has possession of more than 47 acres of improved and unimproved property within a radius of one half mile from Crawford avenue and 63d street, the main business intersection in the community.

"The 800 feet of vacant property," said Mr. Maier, "which would remain after the construction of the high school, and which under ordinary conditions would be considered valuable business property, would be almost worthless. Those fifteen acres can be sold for apartment houses and individual homes and that is what we need to bring people to the community."

Will Seek Other Sites.

Representatives of the local organizations plan to make a survey of possible high school sites in the community and request that officials of the board tour the neighborhood and inspect the sites proposed.

Included on the committee which appeared before the board Monday were: Mr. Maier, William F. Stelzer, president of the Property Owners' association; John Wallace, H. T. Ellingham, Peter Wolf, William F. Jasmund and Arthur A. Rinck.

CHILD PICTURES WIN TRIBUNE PRIZES

First prize in The Tribune's contest for amateur photographers of the south side was awarded this week to Mrs. Lida L. Dick, 10047 Wentworth avenue, for a picture of Luella Elaine Dick ready for a stroll with her doll carriage. The second prize of $3 went to Mrs. W. Eastman, 1418 East Marquette road, for a picture of her son, Robert, at Jackson park lagoon. J. M. Spring? Say It with Pictures and Win Prizes

In the spring a photographer's fancy turns to pictures of the first robin, early gardens, Mary and Jane skipping rope and evidences of spring fever.

The Metropolitan section of The Tribune now offers prizes weekly for spring pictures. The Tribune will pay $5 for the best photograph on this general subject taken by an amateur. It will pay $3 for the second best and $2 for the third best.

Address pictures to Photo Contest, Metropolitan section of The Tribune. The name and address of the photographer should be written plainly on the back of the print as well as the names of all persons in the picture.

The contest is open only to amateurs and the editor will be final judge. Theme, treatment, and clearness of the print all will be taken into consideration. No pictures will be returned.

MEETING CALLED BY ARCHERY CLUB TO PLAN TOURNEY

The Chicago Archery club, a south side organization with a history covering half a century, has called a pep meeting for Thursday evening at 6816 Perry avenue. The president, K. L. Hartshorn, 2127 West 107th street, will preside.

On August, 1930, the 50th national archery tournament will be held on or near their range in Washington park. This is to commemorate the first national tournament which was held at the old White Stockings park in 1879. Among the most active at that time were Henry C. Carver, A. G. Spaulding, and Edward L. Brewster. All three of these men were officers of the Chicago club, which is the oldest club in the country. It was Mr. Carver who conceived and organized the national association.

At the get-together meeting on Thursday, plans will be outlined for next year's big event, and this year's roving, novelty shoots and tournaments.

S. T. Baker, 3225 West 68th place, is vice president of the Chicago club; H. S. Rogers, 6522 Greenwood avenue, secretary and treasurer; M. P. Betts, 7030 Perry avenue, captain of the greens and in charge of the tournaments, and Mrs. E. E. Enos, 6816 Perry avenue, lady paramount and in charge of the women's tournaments.

Girls of Presbyterian Church to Give Program

Englewood Presbyterian girls will furnish the program this afternoon for the social in the lobby of the Englewood Y. M. C. A., 56th street and Union avenue. Miss Evelyn Clason, 149 West 65th street, and Miss Ruth MacDermid, 52 West Marquette road, will be in charge. The Sunday evening program at the church, 64th and Yale avenue, to which those who attend the social are invited, is to be conducted by students from Wheaton college.

McCOY TRACTOR HAS BIG THRILL FOR ITS MAKERS

Expert Tells How Ship Can Be Built.

This week Mr. Hamburg tells you how to build the championship indoor tractor. If you have questions on its construction, or on aeronautics, write him (inclosing a 2 cent stamp for reply) at A. M. L. A. headquarters, American Boy building, 2d and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich.

BY MERRILL HAMBURG.
[Secretary Airplane Model League of America.]

This article is the story of a model builder who wanted to smash a world's record—and of his success.

ERNEST McCOY.

Last year Ernest McCoy, a member of the Airplane Model League of America—sponsored in this territory by THE TRIBUNE—had built the indoor model generally known as the best flyer. But he wanted an improved model. "Big ships use cambered wings," he figured. "Why shouldn't a small one?"

So he experimented endlessly; and at length he discovered that a model with a cambered wing and reverse camber for the tail had more lift and was capable of more duration than the flat-wing model. He flew his ship, at the national contests in Detroit held by the American Boy magazine, to the new world's record—331.1 seconds. This article tells you how to build a similar ship.

McCoy's Material.

McCoy, in building his model, used these materials: a balsa wing spar 1-16x⅜x19 inches; a balsa motor stick, ⅛x¼x15 inches; flat balsa for tail and rudder frame and wing ribs 1-32 inch thick; balsa propeller block, ½x1¼x12 inches; a drilled thrust bearing; two brass washers; wire parts [propeller shaft, rear hook, S-hook, open-side can, two wing clips]; rubber motor, ⅛x1-32x31 inches; Japanese imperial tissue, 10x21 inches; ambroid cement and banana oil.

You'll find all of these materials in the special A. M. L. A. kit which you may obtain for 85c from league headquarters. To obtain the kit, No. 10, send 85c in check or money order to the supply department, A. M. L. A., American Boy building, Second and Lafayette boulevards, Detroit, Mich.

The kit will also include some additional materials—materials for making a different type of motor stick. But don't try that yet. THE TRIBUNE will tell you how to make the change next week. You'll want to test the ship out thoroughly first, as did McCoy.

Motor Stick First.

Your first job is to prepare the motor stick. Sand it down to the size the drawing indicates, and attach the metal parts with ambroid. This is a simple job.

Now you are ready for the tail group. The stabilizer is rectangular, hence slightly less efficient than a rounded tip surface; but it has an all balsa frame, and this is lighter than bamboo. Both the fin and the stabilizer are fastened to the fuselage by setting the connecting members into grooves cut into the end of the motor stick; thus they are flush with the stick. Notice that the base of the fin is set at a slight upward angle to permit the rear spar of the stabilizer to come up even with the front spar—otherwise the whole tail would be set at a positive angle of incidence that would prevent the ship from climbing.

The fin is not hard to build. The drawing shows its dimensions. Its bottom spar is 2½ inches longs, so that it can be set ½ inch into the motor stick groove cut for it.

Next, the Stabilizer.

Next, the stabilizer. It has a reverse camber, you recall. Its ribs are all of balsa, and you curve a piece of 1-32 inch flat balsa, about ⅜x2 inches, over a teakettle's steam jet to make them. The curve is that of a perfect arc, 3-16 inch deep. Once the piece is curved, cut it to the 1¾ inch length and split it into five identical ribs. Make the two 6 inch spars, then assemble the frame with ambroid—"butt joint" the ribs to the spars. Ambroid the leading edge of the stabilizer into the groove cut in the motor stick, and the trailing edge to the base of the fin. Cover both fin and stabilizer [on the lower side] with paper, using banana oil as the adhesive, and this part of the model is complete.

The wing curve given [see the diagram] is the median line of the Clark-Y airfoil, or wing section. The diagram shows the exact size of the wing, so you may bend your balsa ribs to fit the diagram. Perhaps, though, you'll want to experiment with a different curve—McCoy doesn't claim his as the one and only!

The method of making and assembling the wing is much the same as that you used in building the stabilizer. Use extreme care to get it absolutely accurate. Probably you'll want to bend the long piece from which the wing spars are to be cut before you split it—thus you'll put exactly the same degree of dihedral angle into each spar.

Then the Propeller.

Cover the wing, once the frame is completed, and ambroid the wing clips to it. It is wise to be sure the wing clips fit the motor stick before you attach them, however. You'll save yourself trouble.

Your last job is to make the propeller. It is carved from a balsa block ½x1¼x12 inches—an unusually large prop for this type of plane, hence one which must be made paper-thin. The Manual gives you details of all the steps in its carving. Don't forget that you want it to be the best made prop you've ever completed—so thin, if it's properly done, that you can bend the blade backward and forward at least two inches without breaking it. Except at the hub, it should never exceed 1-32 inch in thickness.

Now attach your prop, hook up the rubber motor, and fasten the wing to the motor stick with its clips. See how it glides. Adjust the wing, as you have learned to do on smaller models, for the best position. Try the ship with relatively few turns on the prop.

Real Thrill in Store.

When you've made these trials satisfactorily, get ready for a real thrill. Find yourself the biggest hall available. Wind your motor 1,200 turns. Be sure the hall isn't drafty—and set the ship off!

When it comes to earth, chances are excellent that you will have established a new record for yourself.

Next week THE TRIBUNE is going to tell you how to vary the McCoy ship—how to change the motor stick to a lighter and stronger one. Don't miss the instructions.

Under the auspices of Hyde Park st, No. 34, a championship basket- l game between the national girls' mpions, the Taylor Trunks and May and Malone girls' teams will held Tuesday night at the White y basketball court, 63d street and th Park avenue. There will be a liminary game between two win- g teams of the American Legion ior basketball tournament. This me will be at 8 o'clock.

Ernie Booth has been appointed todian of the properties of the uth Shore post band.

Commander L. M. Hanna thanks his mrades of Van Buren post, No. 401, r their efforts in adding 173 mem- rs to the post and thus winning the th district prize. An entertainment e exservice men only is to be held the post on Sunday afternoon, rch 24. The meeting will be in or of the new members.

From Advertising Men's post, No. comes this announcement: "Mem- rs of the post have un grande op- rtunity to dust off the trigger and ercise the white o' their eyes in a t rifle club which is being formu- ted. Those interested call S. S. Bol n or leave their names with the ad- tant."

On Thursday last, Chicago Loop st, No. 144, began holding its week- luncheons at the Great Northern tel. The post will have a private m for these luncheons, which will nable members to enjoy speakers and ir entertainment each week.

Advertising Men's post, No. 38, will ve Howard E. Taylor for a speaker s meeting tomorrow in the Louis VI room at the Hotel Sherman. Mr. Taylor, manager of Berea college, Berea, Ky., will talk on "Day Break in the Mountains." His story, it is announced, "is of the sort to hold his listeners spellbound."

At the monthly meeting of Marine post, No. 273, to be held at the club rooms at the Auditorium hotel tomorrow night, six new members of the executive committee will be elected to succeed the following retiring members: T. E. Donnelly, Spencer Jones, R. J. Stone, A. M. Benson, C. Wayland Brooks, and C. J. Devers.

Comrade Edward C. Bass writes that "although Marines who served in France are a small percentage of the post membership, those who did are planning on this meeting for an unofficial anniversary jollification, for it was just eleven years ago on March 17 and 18 that Marine units of the second division moved up to the front in 1918." As usual, dinner will be served at 6:30 and the meeting will be at 8. Max Salovesh will sing "Ireland" in honor of March 17, and other entertainment has been arranged.

The Ladies' auxiliary of Chipilly post wil hold a St. Patrick's day party in connection with their regular meeting Monday night at the 131st infantry armory. One of the features of the meeting will be the reports from the "jockeys" in the membership race.

Trowel post will be host to the Seventh district at the monthly meeting on March 29. The place is North Center hall, 1940 Irving Park boulevard, and the meeting will be called at 8.

Civil Service post, No. 673, one of the newest posts in Illinois, now has a membership of close to 300. At the beginning of the year it was 28. The post has been awarded two cups for having the greatest percentage increase in membership of any post in the state. Its membership has been recruited mostly from employés of the city of Chicago and various departments of the county service, while some forty employés of the postal department have joined its ranks. At a recent meeting of the post, an expression of attitude on the Volstead law resulted in the following vote: In favor of the law as it stands today—yes, 2; no, 152; in favor of modification of the law, allowing the sale of light wines and beer—yes, 151; no, 3; in favor of repeal of the law—yes, 151; no, 3.

Fort Dearborn post, No. 268, last night gave a St. Patrick's party at its headquarters, 6336 Cottage Grove avenue. Next Saturday night the post will give a Boy Scout party at its headquarters, the proceeds of which will be used to equip the scouts with instruments for their drum and bugle corps.

Veterans of the Second division from Chicago and nearby areas are to be hosts to Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone at a banquet in Hotel La Salle Wednesday evening, March 27. Gen. Malone, who has been in command of the central area, has been transferred to the Philippine islands where he will be commander.

March 27 will also mark the eleventh anniversary of the movement of the Second division into the trenches on an active front in the Toulon-Troyon sector, Gen. Malone at that time being in command of one of the regiments of the brigade which he later commanded.

SPRING STYLES TO BE SHOWN AT BRADWELL P.-T.

Spring fashions will be presented in a style show which will be a feature of the next meeting of the Myra Bradwell Parent Teacher association, which will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday.

The household arts department of the school will demonstrate cookie making under the supervision of Miss Jean Munson, and sewing done by girls this year will be exhibited. Music, readings, and the report of the nominating committee will complete the program. According to Mrs. Charles J. Rosenbaum, president of the association, election of officers will be held in April.

Mrs. Robert Pringle, president of the south side council of Parent Teacher associations, will be a special guest at the meeting to be held next Thursday.

Calumet Council Dance.

As has been the custom in other years, Calumet council, No. 632, K. of C., will celebrate St. Patrick's day with a dance at the Trianon ballroom tomorrow evening. They will be assisted by Calumet circle, No. 22, Daughters of Isabella.

Play to to Be Given Again by St. James Hi League

Having played to a full house on March 1, the St. James Hi league will accede to the request to repeat its performance of "The Mummy and the Mumps." The play, under the direction of Miss Venita Rich McBurney, will be presented on the night of March 21, at the Community house, 46th street and Ellis avenue. The cast of the three act farce includes James Adams, Jack Hall, Charles Burns, Donald Lallemand, Axel Peterson, Harriet Webster, Melissa Wyrick, Janette Halcrow, Virginia Beach, and Loraine Kinzell.

Sixth Ward Women Voters Hear Talk on Government

"Modern Tendencies in Our Government" was the subject of an address by Prof. Jerome Kerwin of the University of Chicago at a meeting of the Sixth Ward League of Women Voters Wednesday in Woodlawn Baptist church, 62d street and Woodlawn avenue. The weekly citizenship lesson, "The Government of Our United States," was presented by Mrs. A. N. Kelley, 6068 Stony Island avenue. Mrs. E. W. Evenson, 6133 University avenue, was in charge of serving the luncheon.

WESTCOTT ANNEX TO BE DEMANDED AT MASSMEETING

Community Leaders Will Gather Wednesday.

The climax of a year's effort to obtain a substantial addition to Westcott Junior High school will be reached Wednesday night when business men, parents, teachers and community leaders will meet at the school building, 8023 Normal avenue. Joseph F. Connelly, superintendent of junior high schools, and Paul C. Herriott, candidate for alderman in the 19th ward, will be the leading speakers.

Formerly Housed Calumet High.

The Parent-Teacher association, of which Mrs. G. Merrill Youngkrantz is president, has been taking an active part in the agitation for the improvement. Robert G. Jeffery, principal of the school, has obtained the support of the Auburn Park Business Men's association, the East Auburn Park Improvement association, the Auburn Park Lions club and the Chatham Field West Business Men's association. Each organization will be represented at the meeting Wednesday night.

The present school, a red brick structure built about forty years ago, formerly housed the Auburn Park elementary school and Calumet High school. Upon completion of the new Calumet High shool in 1926, Westcott Junior High school was formed with an original attendance of 300 students drawn from Harvard, Oglesby, Gresham, Ryder and Hookway schools.

Shares Space with Hookway.

Although the student body has increased to 695 pupils in two years, it is not only the crowded classroom conditions which have aroused sentiment in favor of an addition but also the criticism that there is a lack of proper equipment for junior high school pupils.

Another condition not pleasing to the junior high school régime is the occupancy of four rooms in the building by Hookway Elementary school.

Among the improvements listed for the proposed new Westcott building are two gymnasiums, a swimming pool and library.

Day of Music Is Observed by Woman's Club

An all day program was presented Tuesday for the members of the Park Manor Woman's club, under the direction of the music chairman, Mrs. J. W. Clarke, 6310 South Park avenue, in the clubrooms, 70th street and South Park avenue. Mrs. John F. McKeon, 1633 Hyde Park boulevard, president of the 2d district, was the special guest. In addition to being music day the day had also been designated as club guest day.

The program opened with community singing led by the director, Mrs. C. W. Lafin, followed by a short address of welcome by Mrs. W. F. Mulvihill, president of the club.

Musical Program Given.

Mrs. Vera Brady Shipman presented "Music as a Home Influence," and Mrs. Lia O'Kelly sang. Mrs. H. O. Blossatt, music chairman of the Bryn Mawr club, gave several poems to musical settings, and Mrs. Philip S. Blanchard gave interesting current events in music.

Miss Mildred Kjos, 11316 Edbrooke avenue, a student of the Sherwood Music school and an honor student at Fenger High school, played a group of piano selections.

ars Report of Progress on Playground Move.

ons to renew demands for an eleary school at 92d and Hamilton
s were discussed at a meeting
e Beverly Improvement associa-last week in the St. Paul Union ch, 94th street and Winchester ue.

eports on the program of the con-plated 91st street playground and , on the fight against zoning for ment buildings and other math which the group is interested
" given by the committee chair-followed by election of new offi-

he association has been attempt-for some time to have a school on the proposed site, already ed by the city. According to mem-rs of the organization, board of edu-ion officials have promised them t one will be built within the next e years.

Seek to Avoid Crossing Tracks.

The school is needed here, members ort, because children who live in icinity of 91st and 92d streets st cross the Rock Island tracks
Ith street on their way to Vander-ot school, 95th and Prospect ave-es.

Victor H. Munnecke, chairman of e park committee, reported progress the proposed 91st street playground d park. He pointed out that the unproved block bounded by 91st and st street, the Rock Island tracks and ngwood drive has already been con-ned by the Ridge Park board with intention of using it for park pur-
es.

e reported that bonds have already n issued to provide the funds necary to buy the land and pay for struction. Only four pieces of the demned land remain unpurchased d prices of these will be settled in rt shortly, according to Mr. Mun-ke.

The zoning problems of the commu-
y have been handled in conjunction h the zoning committee of the dge civic council, with which the verly organization is affiliated. The ning committee reported that it is ding the other groups in the Ridge strict in the fight to induce the y council not to pass the new zon-g ordinance, which would allow the onstruction of apartment buildings the community.

Weeds Cut Regularly.

Marshall D. Snedicor, vice chairman the committee on streets, sidewalks d vacant lots, reported that the eeds in all of the vacant property the district had been cut at regular tervals. Three cleanup days were ld by the committee last year.
rucks were hired to go through the tire community and cart away rubh which the residents had put out.

ccording to Mr. Snedicor, it was at s request of his committee that the t Island railroad maintenance dertment installed lights on the north of the 95th street platform and nstructed a wooden sidewalk over tracks at 91st street.

irl P. Morgan, chairman of the e protection committee, reported several meetings were held during last few months with Commiser of Police William F. Russell an attempt to get more police for the district. The constant effort, he said, resulted in the increased number of men patrolling the district at the present time. He also urged the members of the organization to make a strenuous effort to obtain a police station in the Beverly Hills neighborhood.

R. M. Bennett Named President.

R. M. Bennett, 9060 Peasant drive, was elected president of the organization for the coming year, at the election of officers following the reports of the various committees. Other officers elected were: Vice president, William Bethke, 9317 Robey street; treasurer, William L. Kleinz, 9346 Longwood drive; secretary, W. H. Bell, 9127 Hoyne avenue, and directors, Murray Hetherington, 8918 Hamilton street; Fred Sauer, 9450 Winchester street; Dr. Robert Boehm, 9403 Robey street, and J. L. Jacobs, president of the organization last year.

SCHOOL OPEN HOUSE DRAWS VISITORS FROM ALL CHICAGO

Pupils of Richards school, 2535 Lime street, entertained more than 1,000 visitors Thursday afternoon when officials of the board of education and representatives of parent-teacher associations all over the city went to the school to observe the methods used in teaching girls more than 14 years old. Under the direction of Miss Carolyn Baylie, a group of the girls presented a number of folk dances. The picture shows girls who appeared in a play. CHAIN PROGRAMS THIS YEAR WILL COST 23 MILLION

To Be No Letdown During Summer Months.

New York, March 16.—Chain broadcasting has been definitely established on a twelve months a year basis and the listening public will be able to tune in this summer on programs the equal both in quality and number of those sent out over the air in the winter months. Widespread recognition of the important place that radio holds in the country today has been instrumental in abolishing the summer slump in broadcasting.

Sales figures of the big broadcasting chains indicate that hot weather programs this year will keep radio interest at a high pitch. Officials of the two leading broadcasting chains report that more than $23,000,000 will be invested by advertisers in chain program during 1929.

No Summer Sag.

The National Broadcasting company reports a sum in excess of $16,000,000 for chain programs for the current year, while Columbia's clients will spend close to $7,500,000 to entertain the radio public in 1929. Expenditures on programs over the summer period this year will be virtually as high as in the other seasons of the year, according to plans announced.

An analysis of expenditures for radio entertainment of previous years shows that a sharp sag in programs occurred in the summer months, the big features going into retirement with the advent of warm weather. That will not be the case this year, however, as sponsors of the most popular chain programs have definitely signified their intention of continuing their programs throughout the twelve months of the year.

Improvement Each Year.

Going back to 1925, the number of sponsored programs and the number of hours on the air showed a sharp decline as the hot weather increased. By 1927, however, some improvement was registered in the matter of better summer programs, the chain broadcasting companies reporting a greater call for service during June, July, and August. Last year the situation righted itself even more than in the preceding year, due largely to the part played by radio in the political campaign. This year, for the first time in the history of radio, the two large broadcasters of chain programs have committed themselves to present their biggest features straight through the year.

With a steady flow of quality entertainment over the radio during the summer months, together with the usual broadcasting of regular summer features in the realm of sport, activity in the radio industry promises to reach new heights in what formerly went for a quiet period.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

The country at large has taken quite a fancy to the sports announcer who has been allowed a few times to broadcast over one of the national chains. His name is Bill Munday of Atlanta, Ga., and he crashed into popularity on New Year's day when the chain, for sectional good feeling purposes, let him describe parts of the Georgia football game in California. He was astounding to the radio audience, because, for an announcer extemporizing, he had a vocabulary. And in addition to his graphic formal vocabulary, he introduced a flock of colorful idioms of his own territory, such as "the crap-shootin' huddle."

Then, again, two weeks ago, he was allowed to squeeze in patter between rounds of the Stribling-Sharkey fight broadcast—and his interludes were the hit of the show, although he didn't have enough time to strut his stuff. After all, when a national chain is broadcasting to the whole nation, it's good advertising sense to include an announcer with a southern accent—to win over the audience in Dixie.

⊸

THE TALKING movie apparatus has a new use. When a great national event is being broadcast, or at least an event that takes the attention of the populace at large, the theater managers can hook up the gigantic horns used in their talkies to a radio receiving set and let the theater enjoy the highly amplified story of the announcer. This was done in some places during the recent fight in Florida. When a vitaphone picture is on the screen, the sounds come from huge horns placed behind the screen, and the special kind of screen is so thin that the pictures can be seen from the rear as well.

HOW WOULD you like a job like this? In a New York broadcasting station the managers employ a young lady whose sole duty is to sit opposite persons who are talking into the microphone, in order to give them a real "audience" and thus cure them of microphone fright. The lady is charming and attentive to what is being said—but we're afraid if we were the subject of her rapt and beautiful attention, we'd be frightened to death!

⊸

SOME DAY the short story writers will use the broadcaster's form for depicting drama in the present tense. The form we mean is an imaginary broadcast, of one of our horse races, for example. Would you like to hear a hoss race, e'en tho' this is the Sabbath? Let's go! Tune us in:

"There's the bugle call, summoning the horses to the post. My, this is a fine view we have for the race! Track spread out in front of us like a circle some boys have drawn in the dirt for a game of marbles. Look what great designs the landscape gardener has planted with his flowers out there in the parade ground, inside the track!

"Is it really warm, or do I just think it is? Some of the boys down in the paddock have their coats off. Grandstand's pretty well filled today. Now let's see—which are those horses ambling around the paddock for inspection?—gee, yes, this is the race that Phantom and Beau Brummel are in. They're saddling 'em now.

"Dandy looking hosses—look at 'em!—look at that head of Phantom's high up in the air, pretty ritzy! Wouldn't you like to be riding either of those thoroughbreds? It'd be like riding a skyrocket when they jump from the barrier.

"This Phantom is a deadly dude, the clockers' sheets say—one of them reports, 'Phantom, a whole basket of ripe peaches; a through train on a clear track; the answer to a jockey's prayer; he ran away with the whole darned Maypole dance at Pimlico; drop a few pennies in the tin cup on him, brother, and you'll be backing up a truck to the paying teller's window in the morning.'

"Let's see what the hooey is on Beau Brummel. 'Beau Brummel—here's a 1930 model—stream lines—and built for nothing but speed—he could win if he had to pull a pie wagon behind him—peel off a fin and hang it on his nose—if you'd like to cheer yourself up.'

"Here they come, now, out onto the track. Sammy, the post boy, is leading 'em out, on the white pony. Look at that crowd getting fidgety now—everybody getting up close to the rail. Phantom and Beau Brummel, and Phantom on the rail. That's Jockey Harry Spinggold up on Phantom, with the green cap and the black and white silks. Jockey Pete Squish is riding Beau Brummel, in a yellow shirt with blue dots. They're cavorting around down here in front of us, and the race is going to start to our left—both horses prancing and feeling skittish—now they're back of the tape line, and the boys are stretching the slender rubber across the track.

"In a minute now those electric levers on both rails will spring up—and the race will be on! The assistant starters are pulling both nags up to the line—they'll get 'em lined up right away—There! That's pretty good—Nope, Beau Brummel wheeled nervously to the left—now they're pulling him up. There! Now watch for the start——

"Both horses leap forward like flashes and they're moving off neck and neck—here they come pattering down the lane past us—just look at those jockey's whip hands—Phantom about a neck ahead and now they're coasting into the first turn—do you think Phantom'll win?—he's got the rail—and he eases farther ahead as they're careening around the turn—both jockeys with their chins down on their knees—Phantom is pulling out and he's a length in the lead at the quarter post — PHANTOM A LENGTH AHEAD AT THE QUARTER!—Gosh, they look as though they were on a toboggan, they glide forward so gracefully—now they're scooting into the back stretch and the straight track—Um, watch those babies leg it—Beau Brummel is dropping behind, and Phantom is slashing a length and a half in the lead—through these field glasses they look like a movie—jockeys flapping arms and two horses squirting up the dust.

"There's the pole for the half distance—PHANTOM A LENGTH AND A HALF AHEAD! They're approaching the turn, and Phantom is scampering frantically—plunk! they hit the bend and both animals hugging the rail—but LOOK, BEAU IS SPURTING, and he's creeping up—he'll have to go 'round him—they're thumping around the turn, and now they're facing us, and Phantom only a length ahead—it may be one of those whirlwind finishes—.

"Look at 'em now—sweeping into the home stretch, and the mob down here is standing on tiptoe — and screaming!—Beau Brummel coming up on him—Jockey Squish is driving him on like a storm—and HE'S ONLY A HALF LENGTH BEHIND PHANTOM AT THREE QUARTERS!

"Here they come, pounding along the turf toward us—fighting it out where it means the most—OH, PHANTOM IS INCHING FORWARD FASTER! — spattering — a mass of weaving legs—THE JOCKEYS ARE ALMOST SIDE BY SIDE!—Phantom a half length ahead and the race almost ended—Beau Brummel is coming closer—WILL HE WIN?—Here they are, right down here—Beau is almost bursting!—AND HE COMES UP CLOSER—ALMOST OVER—.

"NOPE!—PHANTOM BEATS BEAU BRUMMEL BY HALF A LENGTH!"

7 STATES MISS INAUGURAL.

Although more than one hundred stations were in the chain which broadcast the inaugural ceremonies at Washington, D. C., seven states were not covered. These were North Dakota, South Dakota, Idaho, Wyoming, Nevada, Arizona, and New Mexico.

THE NEW Federal K MODEL with the AC Shield Grid Tube

Now!

Federal Quality at Price of Ordinary Radios

FEDERAL'S new "K" models . . . the first licensed radios using the sensational new A. C. Shield Grid Tube . . . represent all that Federal has stood for during the 27 years of the company's existence. They are made under the same precise engineering standards and subjected to the same rigid inspections that have won Federal Radios recognition as America's finest.

To this typical Federal quality has been added the remarkable feature of the new A. C. Shield Grid Tube which, according to eminent authorities, does the work of two extra tubes. It gives the sharp selectivity, extreme sensitivity and distance range and the great amplification needed for the perfect operation of a dynamic speaker. Volume production alone has made the new Federal "K" receiver available at so low a price.

If you want a 1930 radio now, see one of the dealers listed below. Any of them will gladly arrange a home demonstration of the new Federal "K" or any other of the outstanding Federal models.

ON this St. Patrick's Day you can get a musical bird's-eye view of the Emerald Isle in a special Irish program. Sons and daughters of Old Erin as well as other listeners will be thrilled by these forty minutes of Hibernian melodies. The lilting, swift jigs and the crooning songs from all parts of Ireland will be whisked to you as they are observed by Quin Ryan from Mother Machree's Magic Carpet. Listen at 10:05 tonight.

JEAN GOLDKETTE

EIGHTEEN skilled musicians work together to create those sleek, rhythmic patterns of modern music. They play with subtle, suggested, almost unheard throbs of the dance provoking rhythm; from its midst comes the eerie note of a muted trumpet—as modern as Paris—as dignified and progressive as Berlin. And then abruptly they turn. The tempo quickens. The spirit is youthful. The atmosphere more American—or is it more African? It's full of another kind of life. A penetrating trumpet licks out a dozen notes more quickly than you can count them . . . the clarinet would wail if it hadn't to snip out another note an octave away as quickly as the keys will respond! That's Goldkette! The first group at three this afternoon, but more from 10:45 on tonight.

Pace Jubilee Singers - - -

THEY'RE born harmonists and cultivated musicians. The Pace Jubilee Singers are five nationally famous colored singers who have recently come to W-G-N, and have already become widely popular. The smooth, warm music of the spirituals will move you by its somber and sometimes even melancholy air. 3:15.

COOLIDGE LEAVES HOOVERCANADIAN RADIO PROBLEM

Royal Commission to Visit United States Soon.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—Canada's place in the broadcasting realm is one of the problems of aggravated proportions that remains as a heritage to the Hoover administration. The North American division of short waves has been accomplished successfully and to the apparent satisfaction of all, but Canadians are still voicing dissatisfaction with the dominion's allotment of six exclusive and twelve shared channels out of the 96 available in the broadcast band.

The Canadian royal commission appointed to investigate the dominion's radio broadcasting problem will visit the United States some time this month or next, conferring with the federal radio commission and with high government radio authorities. Until it renders its report, the attitude that the Ottawa government may be expected to take cannot be determined. The dissent thus far heard has been voiced largely through the press and in other informal ways.

Studying in England.

The commission consists of Sir John Aird, president of the Toronto Bank of Commerce, chairman; Charles A. Bowman, editor of the Ottawa Citizen, and Augustin Frigon, director of the Montreal Ecole Polytechnique. It has been studying the radio broadcasting situation in continental Europe and the British isles before embarking for a windup North American tour. Whether it will visit the United States first or return to Canada directly from London has not been learned.

Canada's radio problem is inextricably interwoven with that of the United States, since the adjustment of wave lengths must be a matter of voluntary agreement by both countries. There are approximately seventy broadcasting licenses in force for stations in the dominion, but many of these licenses represent duplicate sets of call letters for single transmitters. The government marine authorities estimate that 400,000 receiving sets are in use in Canada, 60 per cent in the cities and 40 per cent among the rural population. These are the sets licensed at a nominal yearly fee; how many sets are operated without license cannot even be estimated.

Six Bands Not Enough.

Six exclusive wave lengths are deemed insufficient for the national radio services, although these channels have been allocated to stations whose powers have been kept low enough, and distances from each other "staggered," so that there may be duplications. The twelve channels used concurrently with the United States are, of course, those upon which low powered stations in both countries must necessarily operate.

The royal commission has been authorized to inquire specifically into these questions: 1. The establishment of one or more groups of high powered broadcasting stations operating as private enterprises with the receipt of a government subsidy; 2. the establishment and operation of such a system of stations to be owned and financed by the dominion government; 3. the establishment and operation of stations by provincial governments.

With the internal governmental policy to be pursued by Canada, the United States is not, of course, very greatly concerned, although much interest will naturally attach to any proposal to operate on this continent, a government owned or government subsidized broadcasting system like like those in most foreign countries. The problem the United States government will be called upon to meet will be one of determining a basis of wave length division with Canada.

Like U. S. Programs.

That the 600 or more stations in this country need all the channels they can get and that a 10 kilocycle separation between channels must be maintained is patent to any observer. The question the royal commission is expected by the Canadian press to answer is whether the present arbitrary division is satisfactory. A negative reply will precipitate discussions with the federal radio commission and possibly open diplomatic negotiations.

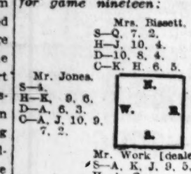
That Canadian listeners like the programs they pick up from American stations is evident to any one who has visited the dominion. But Canadian government authorities are unwilling to agree that their subjects should listen to advertisements of American made products along with such entertainment. Radio has become "Americanized" all through the dominion, they have complained; that is one of the reasons the commission was appointed.

One Hundred Aces Good for Only One No Trump in Radio Auction Bridge Game

The nineteenth of a series of twenty radio auction bridge games will be broadcast from W-G-N, The Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, Tuesday at 3:30 p. m.

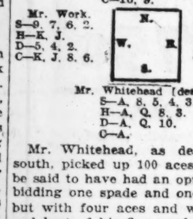
The contestants will be Mrs. Clyde Bissett of Kansas City, Mo., a noted teacher and lecturer on bridge, playing with Mr. Work against C. Drummond Jones of St. Louis, winner of many important bridge contests as a representative of the Racquet club of St. Louis, and Mr. Whitehead.

Following are the advance hands for game nineteen:



The eighteenth of this season's radio bridge games went on the air Tuesday from station W-G-N, with Mrs. Annie Adair Foster of Atlanta, Ga., as Mr. Whitehead's partner, and Maj. Lewis W. Colfelt, Philadelphia, paired with Mr. Work.

The players held the following hands:



Mr. Whitehead, as dealer, in the south, picked up 100 aces. He might be said to have had an option between bidding one spade and one no trump, but with four aces and with the second best of his five spades only an 8 spot, the no trump certainly seemed more promising, both for a big score and for making game. Mr. Whitehead bid the no trump, not because of the big honor score, as the expert player does not sacrifice a better chance for making game merely for a higher honor count. He was influenced by the fact that his type of hand, combined with the average dummy, will produce a game in no trump much more often than it will game in spades; also the difference in honor score might be as great as 130 or 140, since adversaries might hold 30 or 40 honors in the spade suit.

All Others Pass.

Mr. Work, in the west, Mrs. Foster, north, and Maj. Colfelt, east, all passed the dealer's bid; therefore Mr. Whitehead became declarer with his contract one no trump.

Mr. Work, west, led the 6 of clubs, fourth best of his stronger four card suit, and from Mrs. Foster's hand, which became dummy, Mr. Whitehead, declarer, played the 9 of clubs, Maj. Colfelt, east, here made a play which indicated the high caliber of his game. He assumed that the 6 of clubs was his partner's fourth best of the suit, a conventional lead. The 6 was also his partner's lowest club, since Maj. Colfelt himself held every club lower than the 6. Consequently, Mr. Work's club suit, if the 6 were the fourth best, was of exactly four cards. With two clubs in dummy, and six in Maj. Colfelt's hand, it was apparent to Maj. Colfelt that declarer could hold only one. This probably was either the ace or king, since with a worthless singleton declarer would have avoided a no trump bid. If not the ace or king, then declarer's singleton was either the jack or 8 spot, the only other clubs higher than the 6 for which Maj. Colfelt could not account. Maj. Colfelt knew, by applying the rule of eleven to Mr. Work's lead of the 6, that there were outstanding, in the three hands other than the leader's, five cards higher than the 6 fed. Of these, only four were in dummy's and Maj. Colfelt's hands. The fifth, therefore, had to be in declarer's.

Clubs Threaten Game.

Regardless, however, of what declarer's singleton might be, whether ace, king, jack or 8 spot, Maj. Colfelt realized that he should not play his queen. Should he do so, Mr. Work's four card club suit would block Maj. Colfelt's six card suit; and the latter, without a reëntry in his hand, would be unable to make his two long clubs. Therefore, Maj. Colfelt played his 5 of clubs on his partner's 6. Mr. Whitehead, declarer, played his lone ace. Mr. Work, west, could readily read it as being a singleton, and therefore was able to read Maj. Colfelt as having held six clubs originally.

Mr. Whitehead, though unable from the play to read the exact club situation, realized that the entire suit was set up against him, seriously threatening game. He could, however, count, in addition to his club trick, four sure tricks in diamonds, two in spades, and one in hearts—eight altogether, one short of game.

Apparently the game trick could be made only by a successful finesse against the king of hearts. Therefore Mr. Whitehead planned first to make practically sure of his contract and thereafter to take the heart finesse in a try for game.

Accordingly Mr. Whitehead led the ace of diamonds, to which Mr. Work played the 2, dummy the 3, and Maj. Colfelt the 6. Mr. Whitehead's queen of diamonds brought the 4 from Mr. Work, the 7 from dummy, and the 8 spot from Maj. Colfelt. Declarer then led the 10, overtaking with dummy's jack. Mr. Work played the 5 and Maj. Colfelt the 9. Dummy led the thirteenth diamond, the king. Maj. Colfelt discarded the 7 of hearts, Mr. Whitehead the 3 of spades, Mr. Work the 2 of spades.

Heart Finesse Fails.

At this point Mr. Whitehead could have taken his king and ace of spades, thus assuring his contract, one no trump. The ace of hearts would have made it two odd, and a successful finesse of the queen of hearts would have produced game. Failure of the heart finesse at this point would give the adversaries a heart trick plus all their clubs.

As to the club situation, Mr. Whitehead could tell, by application of the rule of eleven to the 6 of clubs originally led, that Maj. Colfelt must hold two clubs higher than the 6; and since he did not play either of them to the first trick, but instead underplayed his partner's 6, it was evident that he was long in clubs. Otherwise Maj. Colfelt would have played one of his high clubs to force out the one club higher than the 6, which he could read as being in Mr. Whitehead's hand.

Having thus read Maj. Colfelt as long in clubs, Mr. Whitehead reasoned that there was no possibility of either adversary holding as many as seven clubs. Consequently, five tricks would be the maximum the adversarics could make. Thus, even if his heart finesse failed Mr. Whitehead could still make his contract; and should the finesse succeed, he would have game. Therefore, while still holding control of the spade suit, Mr. Whitehead proceeded to take the heart finesse, leading the 2 of hearts from dummy. Maj. Colfelt played the 10; declarer his queen, and Mr. Work, west, won with the king.

Mr. Work then led in succession, the king, jack, and 8 spot of clubs. Maj. Colfelt, east, covered the 8 spot with his queen and then took his two long clubs. On these five club tricks Mr. Whitehead, declarer, discarded down to the ace of spades and the ace of hearts, with which cards he won the last two tricks, giving him a score of 10 points for the odd trick and 100 for four aces in one hand.

The bidding of this hand at contract would impose some little responsibility upon the south player. With every suit stopped and a count of 20 [4 for each of his aces and 2 for each of his queens] he would be well over the 17 with four suits stopped requirement for a bid of two no trumps, but he would be one short of the requisite 21 for three no trumps. Even if he held an extra jack, giving him the 21 count, he properly would hesitate about bidding three no trumps because of the singleton, even though it is an ace. Two no trumps would seem to be his sound declaration. Over south's two no trumps, north, with a count of 7, of course would jump to three no trumps. The play being the same as in auction bridge, the declarer would fail to make his game by a margin of two tricks.

'STENO' WHO WON FAME AS SINGER ON AIR TONIGHT

"Sigrid the toiler," who typed and stenoged her way to musical fame, might be part of the story about the struggle of Sigrid Onegin, the newest and youngest European concert contralto and operatic star, who is to be guest artist tonight in the Atwater Kent program broadcast over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. But there is considerably more to the life history of this truly international singer.

Born in Stockholm, the daughter of an attaché of the French embassy and his German wife, Mme. Onegin married a Russian, who died in a military prison during the world war. She made her first great triumph as a singer in a performance of "Carmen" with the late Enrico Caruso as chief star. Educated from childhood to speak and understand the philosophy of three languages—Swedish, French, and German, she added many others during a life in which tragedy stalked and forced her to work as a stenographer and typist to earn money for her music lessons.

Her voice has been called by critics one of the most remarkable of modern singers. Ranging from a deep, rich, round toned contralto to the highest range of a mezzo-soprano, and capable of coloratura effects in middle and high tones that are of the most intricate character, her success in concert in America has been unusual. Coupled with her mechanical skill in using her voice, her varied experience in life has given her an understanding of the poetry and romance of song possed by few artists.

LONELIEST ISLE HEARS RADIO FOR THE FIRST TIME

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 16.—(AP)—Tristan da Cunha, called "the loneliest island in the world," a British possession off the African coast, is having its first experience with the wonders of the century, radio, the phonograph and the motion picture. It is 1,400 miles west of Cape Town.

Until a year ago no steamer, within the memory of the 150 persons on the island, had stopped there. Then the Duchess of Atholl on a South American and South African cruise paused at the tiny island. This winter it put in there again with supplies.

The islanders are civilized, courteous, and all speak English. About a fifth can read and write. When the tourists first visited there none knew the week or month. There was not a watch or calendar at Tristan da Cunha.

One of the gifts to the islanders was a wireless set and radio outfit. Members of the steamer's crew taught them how to operate both sets. Several natives are learning the wireless code.

When invited aboard the ship these people first saw electric lights, heard their first piano, learned first of elevators and were introduced to ice cream. This last they did not care for particularly.

Both the men and women wore homespun clothes and sandals fashioned from rough hides. The islanders, chiefly a mixture of English and Portuguese, farm and tend 250 cows and raise sheep, chickens and geese.

The ship tourists learned that several steamers made attempts to reach the island, but because of treacherous shoals off shore gave it up. Some of the inhabitants are survivors of a sailing boat that ten years ago sought to reach shore. It foundered.

Only Seven Out of 1,135 Radio Pirates Win Cases

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—All but seven of the 1,135 prosecutions instituted against radio license dodgers during 1928 resulted in convictions, according to the recent statement of the postmaster general. The difference between the costs of prosecution and the amount received in license revenue is used to carry on this campaign against "pirates."

R. M. A. PLANS TO INVADE FOREIGN TRADE MARKETS

American radio products will be sold more widely throughout the world under plans announced recently by the Radio Manufacturers' association to aid its members in developing their foreign sales, especially in Latin America.

A complete radio export guide has just been compiled by the association comprising virtually all prominent makers of all radio products, and issued free to its members.

The export campaign of the R. M. A. is expected to greatly increase radio foreign sales, which last year were $12,061,410, as compared with $2,000,000 five years ago. This record was made despite inability of American manufacturers to fill radio demands in the United States, but the radio industry now feels able to develop the foreign market for the American industry.

The radio export guide of the R. M. A., prepared under the direction of Mr. George H. Kiley of New York, chairman of the R. M. A. foreign trade committee, includes complete radio information in all Latin America, and most other countries of the world.

SINGING BOYS—By Della Robbia
Panels Executed for the Duomo at Florence
Tones of Celestial Purity
Angelic-voiced boy sopranos, supporting tones of blended tenors, baritones and basses; the rumble of vast organ pipes amid the peal of carrillon. All these tones, from earliest days associated with devotional music, are as distinctly defined in Stromberg-Carlson radio reproduction as if heard in an old world cathedral.
In the New Stromberg-Carlson No. 638, new acoustical principles have been applied in baffling the dynamic speaker in the console. This ends those cabinet resonances which have hitherto given to dynamic reproduction, overtones not present in broadcasting. Greater reserve power at all degrees of volume has been attained, deepest tones have been sustained, yet—no iota of the purity for which Stromberg-Carlson tone is famous, has been sacrificed.

DEMAND RELIEF OF CROWDING IN ENGLEWOOD HIGH

Business Men Seek to Bar Nonresidents.

To relieve overcrowding at Englewood High school, 62d street and Stewart avenue, will be the principal effort of the members of the Englewood Commercial and Civic association during the next few months, according to Harry S. Himmel, president.

In outlining the organization's work, Mr. Himmel pointed out that more than 3,500 pupils are attending the high school, a far greater number than can be properly handled with the present facilities at the school. He asserted that 20 per cent of those 3,500 students live outside the Englewood district and attend the school with permits.

Ask Revocation of Permits.

Action on this matter has been started by a committee composed of James Hughes, Harry Johnson, and Mr. Himmel, who met with the board of education officials recently and asked revocation of all permits allowing outside residents to attend Englewood High school.

According to Mr. Himmel, William J. Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools, was very much in favor of aiding the Englewood business men to remedy the conditions and gave orders to revoke many of the permits. "Many of the outside students have been transferred to schools in their districts," said Mr. Himmel, "but there are still some outside pupils attending the school because they have given false addresses. The board officials have agreed to investigate all addresses of the students, and I am sure that as a result many more pupils will be transferred to schools in their districts."

Demand Sidewalk Improvement.

Another problem confronting the members of the association is the bad condition of the sidewalks on 63d street, between Wentworth avenue and Wallace street.

Ban Lain, James Martin, and Frank Kellner, who compose the committee which is working on the improvement, have already met with Ald. James G. Coyle, representing the ward, and asked that he enter a resolution in the city council for the construction of new sidewalks, Mr. Himmel said.

Ald. Coyle agreed, according to Mr. Himmel, to ask the board of local improvements to investigate the matter and to introduce resolutions in the council for the construction of new sidewalks.

The association is working on a rezoning problem in the community. The present zoning ordinance prohibiting the construction of buildings more than three stories high is hampering development of the district, Mr. Himmel said.

Petitions Being Circulated.

Petitions are being circulated among the property owners of the territory bounded by 59th and 69th streets and Wentworth avenue and Wallace street by the association committee in charge of this work. The committee includes James Hughes, chairman; Nils Olsen, John McClun, Chester Whitley, and S. Horn.

The petitions will be collected within the next few weeks and will be presented at that time to the zoning committee of the city council.

TRIBUNE MOVIE SHOWN BOYS OF SOUTH SIDE Y

"Trees to Tribunes," the three reel motion picture showing the process of newspaper making from the time the trees are cut down until the finished product, THE TRIBUNE, leaves the presses was viewed last night at the 111th street Y. M. C. A. as a part of the community night program.

Frank Dahm, announcer over W-G-N, told how the comic strips are made and something of the men who make them. The recently formed Boys' Harmonica club gave several numbers followed by a radio stunt planned by George Reid.

Emblem club pins were awarded to Robert Lang, Waldmar Krobinsky, Robert Brink, John Happer Jr. and several more who have interested other boys in Y. M. C. A. work. Vincent Peterson presided over the meeting.

Camp Fire Girls to Hold Grand Community Rally

A grand rally and community service program will be presented under the auspices of the Ogden Park troop of Camp Fire Girls this evening at the Ogden Park Methodist church, 68th street and Loomis boulevard. The program will consist of readings by Mrs. Marion Chase Schaffer, musical numbers by the Auburn Park Junior orchestra, and short addresses by the Rev. Charles H. Draper and Dr. M. Phillip Cannon.

INSTRUCTION.

ARE YOU A GOOD TALKER?
FREE INSTRUCTION IN THE POWER OF SPEECH.

Do you know that speaking like everything else is governed by law? If you know the law and master the POWER OF SPEECH you can improve your social standing, greatly INCREASE YOUR EARNINGS, in fact, make money wherever you may go, and develop true confidence based upon your own verbal ability. This law will be taught absolutely free of charge to those who seriously desire to gain this knowledge and power. BY ONE WHO HAS REALIZED ALL THAT IS CLAIMED FOR IT IN HIS DAILY LIFE.

This course is invaluable to ladies and gentlemen engaged in SELLING. They will be shown an easy method of making their sales without resistance, how to win the confidence of prospects at their FIRST APPROACH, how to make customers like them and help them. No salesman or saleswoman in the city can afford to miss this FREE INSTRUCTION. Professional men and women will benefit enormously from this instruction, and every one who learns how to use words gracefully and convincingly will add to their own personality that of all with whom they contact. ATTEND FOR FIRST AND FINAL ENROLLMENT AT HOTEL MORRISON PARLOR B, FLOOR "A-2," 8 P. M., MONDAY EVENING, MARCH 18TH.

WANTED—MALE HELP.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

A MAN WITH UNUSUAL ABILITY.

An international corporation, which has been in business for ten years, which is highly rated, desires to interview a salesman who has a great deal of ability and who is looking for a real opportunity to make a connection with an organization that will enable him to cash in in a big way.

The opportunity that we are able to offer this man is an unusual one and the vacancy created is due to a program of expansion which has meant promoting men from our sales ranks to executive positions in the past sixty days.

We are in a business that is nationally known and recognized as being 100% fundamental and necessary to American business. We are not so much interested in a salesman as we are in a man with executive caliber.

Our growth has been so phenomenal that our Executive Staff has not developed in keeping with our Sales Staff and we now have an opening for a man to learn our business in a short period of time and then step into a bigger position.

A connection with us means an unusual opportunity for an unusual man. We treat our men as associates and give them every opportunity to function in any capacity in which they are capable of functioning. We recognize and reward ability.

Many of our territories are worth from $2,500 to $8,000 per year on repeat business alone. This enables us to select our men very carefully before we give them gratis the income on previously worked up business.

We are not interested in you unless you have previously earned $6,000 per year or better, unless you can make contact with big men and talk to them on a basis of equality, unless you have a record of honesty and integrity, unless you are between the ages of thirty and forty-five.

Please do not waste our time or yours unless you have the above qualifications.

You may telephone the undersigned for an appointment and should you be able to interest us over the telephone we will give you a personal interview.

SALESMEN.
THIS IS THE TIME TO START SELLING
REAL ESTATE.

The experience you will gain, the money you will make this year will be the stepping stones towards building an estate for your family before the World's Fair of 1933 ends.

Who does not desire to be financially independent, but how many do is another story. To succeed you must have some fundamentals at your service in the real estate field as in any other line.

Salesmen selling real estate must have:

1. Well located properties.
2. Improvements such as sewer, water, paving, etc., included in the purchase price.
3. A connection with a firm of responsibility and financial resources.
4. An intelligent advertising support.
5. A sound remuneration plan.

We desire to add to our sales force a few men and women who are willing to work hard and are ambitious to succeed. The end depends very much on the beginning. Start right by becoming identified with the Krenn & Dato Sales Organization, one of the most successful ones in the country. Apply Room 201.

AA1
OPPORTUNITY

is offered to energetic men who want real incomes and who believe in themselves.

The work of selling automobiles is changing—more and more able men are sensing the fact that the amount of real effort they put into their present work will produce substantial incomes in the Automotive industry. Most of our highest paid salesmen gave up routine work and started green. Automobile experience is not necessary. If you can convince yourself that you have ability in any line—and if you will apply that ability selling the kind of cars the people want to buy—then you are qualified to make big money—right away—now—with no lost time.

The heavy buying season is about to begin.

We want earnest, conscientious men, preferably ones that are now successfully employed.

Speaking plainly, we have splendid openings for a few men who can sell automobiles. See W. S. Farrant at 235 E. 23d-st.

COMMUNITY MOTORS, Inc.

A MAN SIZE INCOME

Is being earned by our salesmen because the average commission per sale is $125.00—five or more sales a week possible if you are a hard worker.

We are a nationally known concern, rated AAA-1, in business for 31 years.

You will have protected territory, be thoroughly trained and backed by thousands spent in direct advertising, a large per cent of your sales will be made from leads.

You sum up: Your connection with us will be profitable—one under pleasant working conditions. Every courtesy will be extended if you accept this invitation to phone Mr. H. C. Krom, Randolph 3656 Monday only for appointment.

A Salesman's Experience.

One of 38 in our organization.

In this particular case the salesman was selling specialties up to Feb. 1, 1928. His earnings averaged approximately $75 per week. On Feb. 1, 1928, he came with our organization and for the balance of that year we paid him $6,004.47. Not so bad for a beginner. He has been promoted since and is one of our steadiest producers. The earnings of this man are in excess of $2,000 from Jan. 1, 1929, to date.

WHAT HE DID YOU CAN DO.

This experience is based on actual commission paid. The correct name and address of this man can be furnished on request.

A-1 SPECIALTY SALESMAN

One of Chicago's foremost automobile selling organizations is seeking an aggressive man who really wants to work and make more than the ordinary amount of money.

The automobile business is the largest industry in the world today; 80,000 automobiles will be bought in Chicago this year. If you can't carve out a future for yourself in an industry of such magnitude, then where are you going to do it? Everybody wants an automobile.

We operate in the thousand to two thousand dollar market. Automobile experience is not essential, as we provide training. A drawing account is furnished the man selected.

Give details of your business experience, age, education, and names of present and past employers. No investigation will be made previous to interview. Confidential. Address E M 114, Tribune.

A SUCCESSFUL LIFE

for most men earnings sufficient for themselves and families—to live decently—to have a reasonable amount of recreation—and to be able to save enough for old age. It means an interesting job that is healthy, in which they can develop and gain increased income through promotion for merit.

For many earnest and ambitious men in blind-alley jobs the sale of the fast moving Chevrolet cars and trucks—a product of General Motors, the leading organization in the greatest industry—is the answer.

If you have a job that leads nowhere, come and see us. Let us show you what a Chevrolet job may mean to YOU and how you can be trained and placed without expense.

Call Monday, March 18, between 10 and 4. Room 412, 536 Lake Shore-dr., corner Ohio-st. (at Lake Michigan). Grand-av. and Chicago-av. cars to door.

ACTION.

I need four good men to cash in on the greatest opportunity I have ever seen. Just like the old times. The best leads I ever saw. The greatest advertising campaign I ever heard of, just ready to start, and the easiest selling proposition I ever worked on. See me at once—if you have confidence in yourself and will work and co-operate with me as I will co-operate with you.

BOB ROBERTS,
Rm. 1244, 176 W. Adams-st.

ADVERTISING SOLICITOR

for an old estab. community paper; experienced producer only need apply. Must have car. Car and expense allowance, commission. Loafers and alibi artists stay away. Fairfax 4301 Monday.

ADVERTISING SALESMEN—YOUNG MEN, to sell syndicate cut advertising; comm. basis $100 to $200 per week; proven sales ability essential; full instructions; refs. req.; car an advantage. Call Suite 1110, Globe Syndicate Service, 180 N. Michigan-av.

AGGRESSIVE SALESMEN

In Chicago there are three aggreeasive specialty salesmen between the age of twenty-five and forty-five who have successfully sold high-class specialties; such as cash registers, adding machines or advertising service—and who want to connect with the livest advertising proposition being offered—absolutely no competition and who want to meet them.

Must have car and be willing to work territory outside of Chicago. For interview phone SUPerior 1966. Ask for MR. GRACE.

AMBITIOUS SALESMEN.

Travelling salesmen preferably in specialty lines who are used to making $6,000 to $12,000 a year; men who would like to get off the road and connect with a large Chicago firm where the work is pleasant and the opportunity for advancement to executive positions is sure and rapid. The same amount of effort expended here should show much larger earnings than all your road experience; replies treated strictly confidential. Write for interview. Address C G 137, Tribune.

AN EXCEPTIONAL CHANCE
ONE SALESMAN WITH RECORD.

The man whom we seek can show a record of consistent production in selling advertising, books, securities, or office machinery.

He is 30 to 40 years old, has good health and enough curves on the ball to get his story to the top executive in every business concern; who can tell his story and close contracts in one interview.

We have over 250 salesmen who came to us during the past six years from the lines listed above. Some of them are making $10,000, some are earning $20,000 every year.

The right man for us is one who wants to be in business for himself and not follow a "game." One who has no off seasons and wants to associate with a concern of high standards, excellent financial rating, and a big program for future expansion, which means promotion to executive positions.

He wants to be trained and started in the field by a star man, who can teach him the knacks that insure him a quick start on big earnings, and he expects prompt and full commission settlements weekly. He wants an exclusive territory.

All this will be provided in contract we make with the man who meets our requirements.

If you feel you are the man we are looking for it will pay you to phone MR. W. L. MOORE, Superior 0856, or address D F 481, Tribune.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

for a major league salesman; none other, on strictly comm. basis, for a world wide organization; established 1918. If you have the ability to earn big money tell us enough about yourself to justify an interview. Not stocks or real estate.

$25,000.00 Per Year Men.

Auto Accessories to Jobbers.

THIS IS REAL

CARLOAD ORDERS DAILY.

We are selling as high as three carloads daily of one item alone, an all-steel extension trunk that extends and locks in many one of six different sizes.
Some of our men are already making up to $700 per week on this one article and expected to make more than $25,000 with it alone for the season.

Our factory is now increasing its production to 500 trunks daily and plans to rapidly continue increasing to a production of 2,000 trunks per day.

Our lines include other live specialties besides a number of standard lines, several of which are nationally well and favorably known.

We have been in business over twenty years are well rated, but a few months ago started shaping our business for the sort of salesmen who would make caliber of salesmen who would make big money. We now require a salesman to make $25,000 per year or more with our various lines in order to hold the territory. We deal almost exclusively with automotive equipment jobbers. We have other live lines ready as soon as we have an organization ready to absorb them.

We will consider only applicants with automotive experience, preferably those who have an acquaintance among jobbers in their territory who have earned at least $10,000 per year and have the qualifications to earn our minimum requirements of $25,000 per year. We have territories open in eastern Pennsylvania, southern Illinois and western Missouri, and Michigan. Please do not respond unless you can thoroughly qualify.

WANTED.
SEVERAL YOUNG WOMEN

desirous of earning extra money doing part time work Friday and Saturday.

A large Chicago newspaper seeks the services of several young women, either married or single,
between the ages of 22 and 26, for work of a clean and dignified character in its classified advertising department.

The work requires adaptability and intelligence. Although not essential, we prefer, therefore, that applicants have a college education or its equivalent.

You need not have previous experience in advertising work to qualify, but you should possess more than average determination and the ability to convince those with whom you would have contact of the value of consecutive advertising. In other words, you must be able to talk convincingly and persuade advertisers to accept your suggestions.

Do not hesitate to reply to this advertisement if you have not had sales experience, as all new employes are thoroughly trained in the mechanics of advertising and the fundamentals of sales-manship.

The work is not easy, but will prove very interesting to one possessing the above qualifications. The earning possibilities, considering the amount of time put in,
from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.
Friday, and from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. Saturday, are far above the average amount paid for part time work by other organizations. The environment and associations are of the best.

In reply give your age, education, business experience, if any, whether married or single, and your phone number.

Address
C Y 247, Tribune.

EXTRA MONEY.
One of Chicago's best known corporations wants a woman 25 to 50 years old who knows Chicago thoroughly, and who wants to earn an additional $50 per month in her spare hours. Write fully stating your occupation, home address and phone.
Address T O 86, Tribune.

WOMAN—FOR TRAVELING OR LOCAL POsition paying $2,500 first year, with old of America's well known national organizations. Experience not essential; the good will of more than 35 years' services to the public will be back of you. Qualifications:
Earnestness, good health, unincumbered, age 21 to 45. Details of salary and working agreement given on personal interview only.
canvassers need not apply. See MRS.
THOMAS, Room 913, 58 E. Washington-st.

MARRIED WOMEN.
BIG PAY FOR SPARE TIME!

The Ideal Location
6 ROOMS
WITH 3 BATHS

ARRANGEMENT
The spacious six room apartments begin with the third floor. The building is arranged with two apartments to the floor, and thus the hallways are practically your own.
The entire first floor is devoted to spacious reception rooms, elevator foyer and lobby.
The second floor is devoted entirely to storerooms and laundry and drying rooms equipped with every latest convenience. The situation of the storerooms affords added protection.

FEATURES
Each unit is equipped with hooded ventilators and single unit noiseless Frigidaire refrigerators. The floors are all parquet and will set off the furniture of the most elaborate home.

VIEWS
A beautiful view of Lake Michigan, looking across Belmont Yacht Harbor and Lincoln Park. A five minute walk to the golf course and only a few moments' pleasant drive through Lincoln Park from the loop to the in the building. Truly it leaves nothing to be desired in the way of convenience and home life.

GARAGE

3270 SHERIDAN 4-5 ROOMS

Spacious living rooms with large fireplace. Parquet floors. Plenty of closet space. Tile baths with showers. The latest Frigidaire, assuring quiet at all times.
The 5 room apartments are located in the corner of the building, with every room having an unusual view over Belmont Harbor.

REAL ESTATE LOANS.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

President Hoover has always been a thinking man and he has always been a doing man.

Mr. Hoover said to Mr. Rosenwald: "It seems to me that the usual rate charged on second mortgage loans to the modest home owners are entirely out of range with the costs in other real estate financing."

Mr. Rosenwald is a thinking man and Mr. Rosenwald is an understanding man, as well as a doing man.

Mr. Rosenwald had some conversations with Mr. Walling, President of the Chicago Morris Plan Bank, and he suggested to Mr. Walling that if the funds were made available would the Chicago Morris Plan bank and help to work out the problem and relieve the burden of excessive costs on the modest home owner of Chicago?

There is no institution in this city which has a more sympathetic understanding of farmers' problems than the Chicago Morris Plan Bank. There is no institution in this city which takes greater delight in banking. If it is going to help Chicago families to get ahead.

Consequently it gave Mr. Walling President of the Chicago Morris Plan great delight in undertaking to prove President Hoover's contention that second mortgage rates were too high.

So that is the way we happened to be interested in second mortgages.

For Mr. Rosenwald placed at the disposal of a group of men who are directors of the Chicago Morris Plan Bank a fund of $1,000,000, to be used in this enterprise. The original rates which were charged were from 40% to 60% lower than the rates charged by others in Chicago, but we found we could make money for even lower, and they have been reduced three times. Today they are 50% accruing interest and a commission.

DAVIS PLAN LOANS
$50.00 per $1,000 for 1 year.
$65.00 per $1,000 for 2 years.
$90.00 per $1,000 for 3 years.

It is obvious that any thoughtful, thrifty home owner in this community, who desires second mortgage relief will find our plan well conceived and scientifically constructed. He will also find that our rates are unquestionably the lowest rates in Chicago.

We will be delighted to have you place your problem before us.

The Chicago MORRIS PLAN Bank Agent
21 N. La Salle-st.
Franklin 5700.

The relationship of the Chicago Morris Plan Bank to this second mortgage project is expressly one of agency.

GRAHAM-PAIGE "619" SEDAN 5 PASS. In offering this car at the price we believe we are making a real friend of the man who buys it and that it will be the means of selling many more cars for us. For that reason we are making a special of it today and offering what is probably the finest conditioned automobile in our stock today. This is one of the fastest models in the Graham-Paige line of cars, has the 4 speed transmission with standard shift, de luxe equipment, side mounts, fender wells, 6 tires, ect. We will positively sell this car to the first interested caller at the unheard-of figure of $1,175.

PAIGE 6-72, 1926 SEDAN, 5 PASS. Here's a car that has been turned in by one of our oldest customers and is one that has always had most excellent care and has been serviced in our own shops. The paint and upholstery are like new, the tires are in excellent condition and there is everything in the way of equipment. You cannot fully appreciate the quality of this unsurpassed value in this car without first seeing it. It will carry our regular guarantee and we believe you will have to act quickly. Price, $450.

LOCOMOBILE JUNIOR 8 SEDAN, 5 PASS. We are offering this car for half any we have ever offered in this model, yet its condition we believe to be way above any you can buy anywhere. The finish, interior and details are like new; and this includes the tires. The motor is smooth and powerful, quiet and should appeal to those who appreciate a "kick" in mechanical performance. For this clearance, $550.

"610" GRAHAM-PAIGE SEDAN, 5 PASS. This particular car was delivered very late in 1928, used very little, and it's as near new as anything you'll ever find. Visualize a brand new car of this type and you have a picture of this one. We are pricing it extremely reasonable and for that reason your immediate action is advisable. Guaranteed mechanically. $725.

NASH 1928 2 PASS. COUPE. It's an advanced 6 type, with rumble seat; step and kick plates; golf bag compartment; 6 disc wheels, 6 excellent tires; presents a new appearance, and it's mechanically guaranteed. $1,050.

PAIGE SEDAN, MODEL 8-85, 5 PASS. We don't believe you have ever seen a car that has more practical equipment than this one carries, or one that has had as careful attention. It is painted a beautiful maroon, has 5 excellent tires, and is a sensation to own and drive because of its transmission, the same type as is used on the Graham-Paige; straight eight motor and handling ease. Guaranteed mechanically and only $975.

WHIPPET 1928 SEDAN, 4 DOOR. One of the peppiest, fastest and economical little 4 cylinder cars built. Has big car inside dimensions, appearance and features and presents new car appearance, 6 disc wheels, winterfront; guaranteed, $450

WILLYS-KNIGHT SIX SEDAN. A 2 door, 5 passenger in beautiful condition. Finish exactly like new; every conceivable accessory on it; very smooth and quiet; many special features. This is a recent model and should sell on sight at this figure, $445.

GRAHAM-PAIGE "629" SEDAN, 5 PASS. The things that everybody is talking about are things that belong to the "629." Model; it's the fastest, easiest riding, best road going car in America, powered by the "619" Graham-Paige engine which is reputed for brilliant performance and unmatched economy, gives you the 4-speed transmission with standard gear shift, and yet while this car has seen slight service in the hands of an owner and is offered at the used car price it is practically like new and can be had buy in 1929 or 1930. Has de luxe equipment; guaranteed mechanically and now possible to buy one at $1,475.

--REO--

REO SEDAN, 5 PASS. Although this is a 1925 car its condition is such that from the standpoint of actual miles driven it is as close to 100% as many '27s and '28s. Used by elderly person and hardly ever driven. Equipped, $565.

STEARNS-KNIGHT 6 CYL. TOURING. A beauty and in wonderful condition. Should sell on sight. $345.

GARDNER BROUGHAM, '27. Only by seeing and riding in it can you appreciate this car's value and performance. It's in very nice condition, has 4 wheel brakes, and up to date in every way. $585 takes it.

HUDSON 1928 COUPE, 2 PASS. Virtually new; used 600 miles; vertical shutters, chromium plated lamps, etc.; '29 features; $950.

PEERLESS CABS. Your choice of 7 passenger sedan, 5 pass. brougham and 5 pass. coupe, all exceptional condition and priced ridiculously low for such transportation. Each, $395.

REO SEDAN, 1927. Repainted; first class mechanically; nearly new tires; there is a lot of service left in this car; in fact, much more than you might guess. Only $645.

PONTIAC LANDAU SEDAN, '28. Cannot be distinguished from new; fully equipped; must be sold. $550.

DODGE '27 SEDAN. Owned by a man who had a great deal of mechanical knowledge and cared for it himself; car is truly 100%. $395.

CHRYSLER COACH, 1927, 5 PASS. Repainted; good tires; leather trim; excellent mechanically. $375.

CADILLAC V-63 TOURING with winter sides. A well kept car. Don't judge it by the low price we have on it. $350.

HUPMOBILE CLOSE COUPLED SEDAN. Repainted; a beautiful job 'A-1 tires; excellent mechanically. Must sell quick, so price is $295.

REO FLYING CLOUD COUPE. Snappy and fashionable 2 pass. with rumble seat; reconditioned, guaranteed; finish is like new; tires show no signs of wear. This type rarely available and never before as low as $945.

DODGE 1928 2 PASS. COUPE. A very nice body style and a good looking car. It will satisfy any one mechanically. At price you cannot afford to pass up. $495.

STUDEBAKER BIG 6 SEDAN, '26. Refinished, almost new tires, reconditioned; nothing you can buy can approach it for condition; come in and see this roomy 5 passenger you won't let it go by. $550.

NASH 1929 SEDAN. One of the current "400" series, the model to drive a few hundred miles. What more can be said about it? And only $850.

STUTZ STRAIGHT 8 SEDAN, '27. Never before have we offered one like this one at anywhere near this figure. It's absolutely like new, de luxe equipment, 2 spare tires etc., and is being sold at the very low figure of $1,395.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER, 1928 SEDAN. Dandy 5 pass., in car condition mechanically; paint and tires excellent. Quick action is necessary at $950.
